Polled Herefords---How They Were Found and The Breed Developed

Back of every great accomplishment is an idea born in the mind of some man who has the necessary faith in it to persistently work for its realization. Thus it was with the recently established strain of purebred Polled Hereford cattle. Mr. Warren Gammon, of Des Moines, Iowa, saw some naturally hornless cattle with the color and markings of Herefords at the Omaha Exposition in 1898 and conceived the notion that the hornless feature was an improvement of value and if it could be fixed on a strain of purebred Herefords without crossing them with other breeds, it would greatly enhance their merit and popularity.

Found "Freak" Herefords

He set himself to solve the problem and after reading Darwin's writings he was convinced that there was a chance to locate "freaks" of nature or so called "variations" among purebred registered Herebords that might be naturally hornless though descended from horned ancestry on both sides. Accordingly, in 1901 he sent a circular letter to every member of the American Hereford Cattle Breeders Association asking whether he knew of any such "hornless freaks." Through the 1,500 replies received he located fourteen such animals, four bulls and ten cows. The four bulls and seven of the cows were bought as a foundation herd and from them and such other "freaks" as have since been discovered the breed now known as Double Standard Polled Herefords has been developed.

By breeding the freak polled bulls to registered horned Hereford cows it was discovered that about half the calves from such matings were polled. This gave opportunity to use the very best horned Herefords as foundation stock and thus the average individual merit of the breed was rapidly improved, and at the same time the numbers were rapidly multiplied.

Prices Satisfactory

From the beginning the new breed was very popular for it combined the merits of the Hereford with the naturally hornless head. Since Polled Herefords are simply purebred Herefords without horns, they naturally are possessed of all the well known qualities of the horned strain, such as health, rustling ability, easy feeding and early maturing character, the ability to make exceptional gains on grass, ets. The problem has been to produce enough Polled Herefords to supply the demand and as a result prices have been very satisfactory at all times.

In a recent sale at Des Moines, Iowa fifty seven head of Polled Herefords from several of the leading herds of the breed sold for an average of $476 per head, the 29 cows selling at an average of $396.50 and the 28 bulls at an average of $558.

Many Herds Now

Early in the history of the breed the American Polled Hereford Breeders Association was organized with headquarters at Des Moines, Iowa. Since 1907 it has grown from five members to nearly 600 members and now has over 7,500 cattle recorded in its herdbook. There are over 2,000 herds of Polled Herefords in the United States and a few herds in Canada, Mexico and the Hawaiian Isalnds. There are only six states in the Union that do not have at least on herd of Polled Herefords.

This hornless strain of Herefords has been shown in the same class with the regular horned sort in some of the best cattle shows in the country and has won consistently. In 1913 a Polled Hereford was grand champion in the Canadian National Exposition and in several of the state and national fairs here in the United States these cattle have won first, second, and third place in the regular Hereford classes.

Yield, Cost of Production And Returns From Spanish Peanuts

By H. C. Thompson and H. S. Bailey

Most of the peanut oil being manufactured in the United States at the present time is sold in competition with and at the same price as crude cottonseed oil. Because of the present high price of cottonseed oil it is possible to make peanut oil and sell it at the price of the former. If, however, the price of cottonseed oil returns to the level of the past five years and the cost of producing peanut oil remains at the current level, peanut oil could not compete with it at the lower price.

Price Needed.

A bushel of good farmers' stock Spanish peanuts will yield about 1 1-8 to 1 1-4 gallons of oil, and this would have to sell for 60 cents a gallon to make a profit when 70 cents a bushel is paid for peanuts. Farmers will not grow peanuts for market unless they feel reasonably sure that they will receive at least 70 cents per bushel, and at this price oil mills would have to put a high-grade oil on the market to make a profit under conditions when the competing product, cottonseed oil, sells at a lower level than at present. In other words, oil mills could not afford to pay 70 cents per bushel for peanuts to make an oil which would sell for 40 to 45 cents a gallon, which price, in recent years under more normal market condition, is considered high for cottonseed oil.

Before going into the production of peanuts for oil purposes, farmers should take into consideration the abnormal conditions prevailing at the present time (1916). Owners of oil mills are offering a price for peanuts that would justify farmers in growing them in 1916. If, however, cottonseed is plentiful and cheap next year the owners of oil mills very likely will not be willing to pay as much for peanuts as they are offering now. The peanut-growing industry should not be started in any section unless it is to be continued for a number of years, for growers will not be justified in buying the necessary machinery for handling the crop if the industry is to be dropped after one or two years.

Yield, Cost and Returns.

While the average yield of Spanish peanuts is only about 35 bushels to the acre, any fairly successful farmer will produce 40 to 60 bushels. Yields of 75 to 100 bushels to the acre are not uncommon, and there are records of even higher yields.

The cost of growing an acre of peanuts varies considerably, depending upon the quantity of fertilizer used and the yield secured. The average cost is about $20 to $25 for a yield of 40 bushels per acre. The cost of production up to the harvest time is practically the same for a low yield as for a high yield, but the cost of harvesting thrashing and handling is greater for a high yield.

On a 54-acre tract in northern Louisiana the average cost per acre was as follows:

Interest on investment	$8.00
Plowing and fitting land, seed, and planting	5.35
Cultivation	2.35
Harvesting and stacking	2.50
Cutting and hauling poles	1.37
Thrashing and hauling	4.80
Bags and twine	1.05
Total	$25.42

The yield of this field was 60 bushels of nuts and 1 ton of hay per acre. The nuts sold for $1 a bushel and the hay for $12 a ton, making a gross return of $72 an acre. Deducting the cost of production, which included the foreman's time, the grower received a net return of $46.58 per acre. At 70 cents per bushel for the nuts the returns would have been as follows:

60 bushels of peanuts at 70 cents	442.00
1 ton of hay	12.00
Gross return	54.00
Less cost of production	25.42
Net return	28.58

In most sections of the South, where the average yield of Spanish peanuts is about 35 bushels per acre the estimated cost of produciton is as follows:

Interest on investment	$5.00
Plowing and fitting land	2.75
Seed and planting	2.75
Cultivation	2.50
Harvesting and stacking	3.75
Thrashing	3.00
Bags and twine	.75
Hauling	.75
Tottal	21.25

If the peanuts were sold for 70 cents a bushel and the hay at $12 a ton, the returns would be as follows:

35 bushels of peanuts, at 70 cents	$24.50
Two-thirds of a ton of hay, at $12 per ton	8.00
Gross return	32.50
Less cost of production	21.25
Net return	11.25

It should be borne in mind that the estimate of cost of production includes interest on investment and all labor charges as well as cost of materials. The estimated value of hay is quite low, as good peanut hay has practically the same feeding value as the best clover hay.

Experiments have shown that one ton of farmers' stock Spanish peanuts will yield about 600 pounds of dirt, hulls, and trash, 600 pounds (80 gallons) of oil, and 750 to 780 pounds of cake. The value of this oil will depend on its quality and upon the price of other oils. On the basis of 80 gallons of oil per ton of farmers' stock Spanish peanuts, this oil would have to sell for an average price of 60 to 65 cents a gallon in order to justify paying 70 cents per bushel for peanuts. At 60 cents a gallon the oil in a ton of nuts would be worth $48. The returns from a ton of farmers' Spanish peanuts used for oil purposes would be about as follows.

750 pounds of meal, at $30 per tons	11.25
Total	59.52

At 70 cents per bushel a ton of Spanish peanuts would cost $46.66. This would leave $12.59 for the manufacturing and selling charges of the oil in one ton of farmers stock Spanish peanuts.

Many of the mills now manufacturing peanut oil are securing only 60 to 65 gallons of oil from a ton of Spanish peanuts. The low yield of oil is to be accounted for by the low grade of nuts used by not shelling the nuts before expressing the oil and by the high per centage of oil left in the cake. With a yield of 65 gallons of oil, at the ame price of 60 cents per gallon, the return per ton for oil and meal would be $50.25. There would be a difference between the cost and sale price of $3.59, which would not cover the cost of manufacture and distribution. As a matter of fact, peanuts crushed without selling return 1,300 to 1,350 pounds of meal, instead of 750 pounds as from the shelled nuts. It should be noted moreover, that meal made from unshelled nuts is much lower in protein content than that from shelled nuts.

What Congress Does For Farmers in 1916-17

The Agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, which was approved by the president, appropriates $24,948,852 for continuing the work of the department for carrying out new legislation and for developing new agricultural projects.

This is an increase of $1,977,070 over the appropriation for the fiscal year 1916. This total, however, does not include $600,000 for printing and binding $3,000,000 for carrying out the provisions of the meat-inspection act $1580,000 for extension work in agriculture and home economics under the cooperative agricultural extension act, $5,000,000 for the cooperative construction of rural post roads and $1,000,000 for roads and trails in the national forests under the Federal aid road act.

If these additional items are included, it will be seen that the sum of $36,128,852, an increase of $8,124 770 will be available to the department for all purposes.

This figure however, does not include the $70,000,000 made available, under the Federal aid road act for rural post roads during the next four years ,the $9,000,000 for roads and trials in the national forests available under the same act during the next nine years, or the $2,000,000 appropriated for continuing the purchase of eastern forest lands under the terms of the Weeks law during the fiscal year 1918. It does not show sums which will be available in successive years for agricultural extension work under the cooperative agricultural extension act.

The appropriation carried by the act will be increased by $500,000 each year, until the fiscal year 1822-23. For that year and annually thereafter, there will be available to the states from this source $4,580,000, and the states themselves must contribute at least $4,100,000.

It must be borne in mind in consididing these various totals that the item of $1,250,000 for the eradication of foot-and-mouth and other contagious diseases of animals is an emergency fund and will not be expended unless there is an outbreak. The foot-and-mouth disease has now been eradicated.

Important New Legislation

The Agricultural appropriation act contains several important pieces of new legislation and makes provision for the extension many lines of existing work and for the inauguration of new agricultural projects. Among the more important items are the following:

The U. S. grand-standards act.

The U. S. warehouse act.

Reenactment of the cotton-futures act, with amendment.

Appropriation of $65,000 for market news service for live stock, meats, and animal products.

Cooperative employment of marketing agents in the various States in marketing work.

Appropriation of $136,600 for market news service for fruits and vegetables.

Appropriation of $3,000,000 for continuing the purchase of forest lands under the Weeks law in the Southern Appalachian region and the White Mountains.

Appropriation of $175,000 for experiments and demonstrations of the best methods of obtaining potash from kelp.

Appropriation of $50,000 for conducting experiments in producing dyes from material grown or produced in the United States.

Amendment of the seed-importation law which permits the exclusion of seed which contains an excess of dead seed, dirt, or other adulterants.

Appropriation of $10,000 for the development of a sugar-beet seed industry.

Increased appropriations to extend the weathers service in the vicinity of the Panama Canal and in the Caribbean Sea and Gulf regions.

Increased appropriation for cooperative demonstration work outside of the cotton belt.

Authority given to the Secretary of Agriculture to permit prospecting in and development and utilization of mineral resources of the eastern national forests.

To Farmers of Boll Weevil Sections:-

THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG will do effective and rapid work in brushing to the ground boll weevils and punctured squares.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is a strong, practical and economical device for getting rid of the most weevils in the QUICKEST TIME and the CHEAPEST WAY. It is used and highly recommended by some of the most successful farmers in Mississippi and Alabama.
THE ROBINSON CHAIN DRAG is the best device known for the use of tenant farmers in fighting the weevil.

THE DRAG DESCRIBED

The Drag is a steel rod that holds a light durable chain, the rod and chain being attached to the beam of the plow stock with a casting arranged so as to be adjustable to the size of plants at the time for plowing. The rod is placed at an angle to the beam and as the plow proceeds down the row the rod bends down the plant over towards the middle between the rows and the chain agitates the plant sufficiently to cause the Weevil and infested squares to fall off into the middle of the row. The attachment is reversible as well as adjustable, up and down and can be used on either right or left side of the plow below or above the beam.

We do not desire to create the impression among farmers that any device will prevent all the damage the weevil usually causes, unless the approved measures for control be carefully followed.
Write us so we can take care of your order before the growing season starts.

R. J. Goode, Jr., Brings Fine Herd of Herefords to Alabama

The current issue of the American Hereford Journal, the official (and beautiful) publication of the Hereford breeders of America contains the following interesting article on the fine Hereford cattle just brought down South from the Central West by R. J. Goode, Jr., of Gastonburg, Ala.

"One of the most noteworthy deals made recently in registered Herefords was the purchase of 24 cows and 13 calves by R. J. Goode, Jr., of Gastonburg, Ala., representing the Alabama. HerefordFarm of that place. Mr. Goode, who had spent a month inspecting many of the leading Hereford establishments in Kansas, Missouri. Iowa and Nebraska, and visiting the Iowa state fair at Des Moines, considered that the J. O. Southard herd at Comiskey, Kas., offered the greatest variety of choice breeding cows of up-to-date popular blood lines from which to make his selections. In selecting this stock Mr. Goode was particular as to type, size, richness of breeding and individuality, selecting only those that combined all these qualities to a high degree.

"The Alabama Hereford Farm is well adapted for the production of Herefords, located in the "black belt of Alabama where native grasses grow luxuriantly and where native pastures afford grazing practically all the year. It makes an ideal home for the grazing Hereford, and their production under such conditions can be carried on most economically and successfully. In fact, this firm of Southern Hereford breeders already has one of the select herds of the Southland, and are increasing their herd to enable them to care for their rapidly increasing demand for Hereford cattle. The original herd is made up of big, roomy motherly cows, descendants of many of the leading Hereford families, headed by a splendid son of C. A. Tow's Standard, Standard 3d, whose dam was by the great Disturber, a combination of breeding that has and still is producing some of the breed's best individuals.

"With a foundation of each quality and merit already on their farm, it can be readily seen that it was no easy task to buy additional cows and keep up the high standard already established. But Mr. Goode proved himself a good judge of Hereford stock as well as a particular buyer. He used his nerve along with his "gray matter" and took nothing that did not measure fully up to his ideals and competent judges who saw these cattle readily admitted that they were undoubtedly the best lot of Hereford cows ever sent out of the state in one shipment. The fact is, Mr. Goode topped Mr. Southard's reserve breeding herd, securing cows that were retained for their producing qualities and richness of pedigree, cows which Mr. Southard had heretofore refused to price. But Mr. Goode would not be denied the good ones, and by his diplomacy and the influence of a liberal pocketbook, he was allowed a free hand in making selections.

"The purchase included direct descendants from several of the best old herds of the cornbelt which Mr. Southard had collected for his own use, and included animals from such of the older-day establishments as Sunny Slope, where Wild Tom and Java and other noted bulls saw service; Tom Sotham's Weavergrace herd, the home of Corrector, Improver and many other noted sires; the Tom Higgins herd, one of the good herds of Kansas in its day; the Jones Gros.' herd where Simpson, Dandy Dandy Andrew, Lincoln 7th and Lincoln 2d did their part in breed improvement; the Howe and Son herd which gave special attention to the production of a milking strain of Herefords, and several other of the best older herds. Coming down to the present, we find that Mr. Goode is taking to Alabama representatives of Harris and Sons' breeding, where some of the breed's greatest sires are in service; McCray's Orchard Lake herd, the home of Perfection Fairfax, "the king of Hereford sires;" Gudgell and Simpson herd, where the blood of Anxiety 4th was intensified and kept pure; Giltner Bros. herd, the home of Imp. Britisher, Britisher Jr., and other good sires; Mayne and Brazie herd, where the great Good Lad holds forth, as well as others not so well known.

"While this shipment contains many outstanding individuals worthy of special mention, we shall mention only a few here. First of all is the four-months bull calf, F. A. Monarch, sired by Southard's "mighty" Monarch and out of that great producing cow, Fanny A. This young fellow was intended for future service in the Southard herd, but Mr. Goode made such a tempting offer for him that it seemed best to let him go to Alabama where he will be placed in service when old enough. The consideration was $1,000.

"While every son of Southard's Monarch of breeding age is heading some good herd, this is the first one to go to Alabama, and it is reasonable to expect that this calf is such an individual as will uphold the prestige of Monarch Herefords. Another individual of outstanding merit is the two-year-old heifer, Fanny A. Winner, by that good sire, Winner, and out of Fanny A., dam of F. A. Monarch, and one of the best producers in the Southard herd. This heifer was the property of Mrs. Southard, who was persuaded to let her go to Alabama only after many entraties and a consideration of $750. Mr. Goode secured in this splendid heifer one of the few cows that is safely bred to the $7,000 Repeater 66th, bred by O. Harris and Sons. Among the other cows we find a three-year-old Britisher heifer, Missie, that has a dandy calf at foot sired by Max Fairfax, one of the good representatives of the great Fairfax family; Miss Cheerful, one of the largest and best cows ever in the Southard herd, is safe in calf to the "mighty" Monarch; Esther by Blizzard is another choice cow in calf to Monarch which Mr. Southard hated to part with, but Mr. Goode insisted that Alabama needed just her kind. As a whole this shipment included top cows from Mr. Southard's reserve breeding herd, and none of the cows catalogued for his October 7th sale were sold. They combine bone, and sibe with thick-fleshing and quick-maturing qualities, with a good degree of refinement, and Mr. Goode and all Southern Hereford interests are to be congratulated on getting such a high class lot of cows for their own use.

"Mr. Goode, who represents The Alabama Hereford arm of Gastonburg, Ala., is one of the live cattlemen of his state, being at present a member of the Alabama State Live Stock Sanitary Board and a member of the legislature. He has been largely influential in the progress made in the eradication of the fever tick in Alabama and in the general upbuilding of the cattle industry of that section. He is an enthusiastic Hereford man and a firm believer in better cattle for the South. The Hereford fraternity is fortunate to have such a progressive young man who is willing to make heavy investments and devote his time to the advancement of the breed in this new territory. We all wish him the success which his energy and faith deserve."

Mr. W. P. Talbot, manager of Tameny Hall, a fishing resort, Geneva, Ala., writes: "I have tried Calomel, Quinine and other remedies for malaria and biliousness without effect: tried "Vega-Cal" (vegetable calomel), which gave relief. Think it a God-send to the people.' "Vege-Cal" is sold and guaranteed by all drug stores,' 25 and 5 cents per bottle.

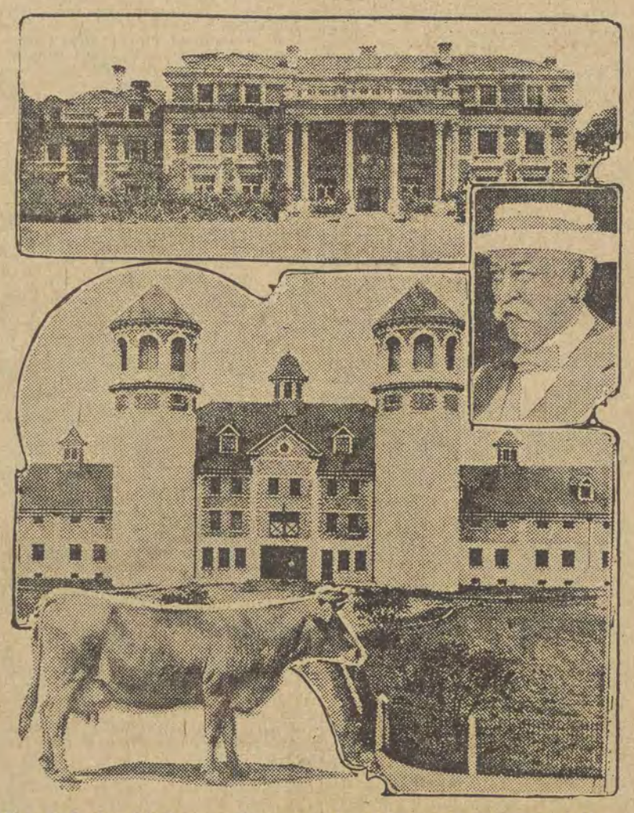
Mississippi Hogs Make New High Price Record

The highest price ever received for Mississippi grown hogs $11.15 a hundredweight, was recently paid to a farmer of Sharkey county, for a lot of 85 head that he had fed under the direction of I. W. Carpenter, extensio nanimal husbandman of the A. and M. College and A. E Terry, demonstration agent for Tallahatchie county. The average weight of these porkers was 201 pounds and they brought an average price of $22.15 each.

At the beginning of the feeding period the average weight of the pigs was 128 pounds. They were fed for 40 days, during which time they ate 468 bushels of corn and 1000 pounds of cotton seed meal, and were allowed to graze on a twelve acre lespedeza pasture. The corn and cottonseed meal were fed in a self feeder. After charging the corn at $1 a bushel, the meal at $36,000 a ton, the pasture at $5 an acre and paying $8 a hundredweight for the pigs in the first place the farmer who keeps an account with his hogs, calculates that he made a profit of $3 a head or $250 on the lot.



The average daily gain per hog was 1.7 pounds.

This farmer is raising hogs as a means of diversifying under boll weevil conditions. He just put 100 more shoats on a ration consisting of soybeans and corn, and is in addition, feeding 100 sows to be used for breeding purposes.

Cow Worth $35,000 Shown In Guernsey Exhibit

Ohio C. Barber, his home at Barberton, O., his palatial cow barn and Murne Cowan, his $35.000 Guernsey cow.

Some way or other our people have never taken hold of the Guernsey cows. One of these lovely days we will "discover" the Guernsey, and when we do it is going to be a sure-enough discovery.

The Guernsey is called by her admirers the "super-cow" because of her remarkable record in both milk and butterfat production. Some of her records are but little short of marvelous, and while she is but little known in the Central South, we are going to learn something about her in the future. In fact the Guernsey isn't known hardly anywhere as well as the Jersey and the Holstein. But she is fast coming into her own one by one some of our folks are going to get some Guernseys and see for themselves.

Just a few days ago Ohio C. Barber, king in the Guernsey world, exhibited his Guernseys at a fair in Cleveland, Ohio. It was a right royal exhibit and attracted a world of attention and interest. This was the first showing of Mr. Barber's herd from his great farm at Barberton. Ohio, as before this time he has kept pretty quiet about his work. It was the most magnificent herd of the "super-cows" ever shown and it is safe to say that now the herd has once been brought out of the pastures it will be exhibited in other parts of the country once in a while.

Greatest In World

Probably there is not to be found in the world a herd of Guernsey cattle of equal number and equal grade. It grows year by year, as Mr. Barber never sells one of his herd.

A three-story brick and concrete barn, more than 700 feet in lengthhouse his prize cattle and it is on account of the unusual accommodations that these high-priced cows have at home that the Cleveland industrial exposition managers were obliged to go to extraordinary expense to provide temporary quarters for them during the show.

At the home stable every cow has its private room. These rooms are equipped with running water, electric fans and lights, and automatic feeding bins.

The queens of the herd have private parks just outside the big barn and under the care of two "men-in-waiting" they are permitted to roam at will for a few hours every night. They never go outdoors in the daytime, but at midnight are set free in their parks with two men constantly watching them to see that no harm comes to them.

Murne Cowan is the champion Guernsey of the world and is valued at $35,000. Upon the thirty selected cows that were sent to the Cleveland show a valuation more than $100,000 is placed and they were fully insured by the show management during the time they were away from the home stable.

There are more than fourteen acres under glass at the Barber gardens and practically every fruit and vegetable that is produced in any part of the United States may be found there

Everything is upon such a mammoth scale at the Barber farm that figures cease to be of interest. One large farm is given over to the raising of ducks and the visitor sees white, waddling ducks in such quantity that he finds himself imitating their peculiar gait when he moves. On another farm is an immense flock of English pheasants. These game birds have their wings clipped and are as tame as chickens.

Visitors have gone long distances to the Barber farm to see these wonders for themselves, but the opportunity never before had been given the general public to inspect the prize productions of the place.

Look! See The Farm of Al. G. Field

It is possible that several times you have seen the noted minstrel man, Al. G. Field.

You have watched him possibly in his black-face make-up and maybe wondered if he had any other purpose in life than to make folks laugh. Of course, that is a pretty big thing in itself—making people laugh and smile. The man who makes other laugh in this world fulfils a worthy mission for there are by far too few laughs and smiles.

Well, just the other day we received from Al. G. Field, the laugh-maker, a booklet of views of his farm in Deleware county, Ohio. The farm is called Maple Leaf Farm and it does your eyes good to look at the pictures of it. First there is the shaded road running along the Olentangy River up to the house, itself pleasantly shaded.

Then comes a meadow picture, Al. G. Field and his helpers just finishing loading a big load of hay on a wagon. Then there is a lovely picture of the Jerseys and the Holsteins beautiful, pure-bred cows taking their ease under the shade of the maples.

Then there is an animated view of some of the yearling colts, sired by the Field stallion, Epernay. The next page shows the main barn, a most substantial and attractive building. buttressed at one end with a silo—Field does not farm without silos.

The next picture would make you homesick for it is a view of the Field house from the Olentangy river, a stream for bathing or fishing or just a nice leisurely ride in a boat.

Following this are pictures of the corn cribs, feed mill and a silo and then an interior picture showing the breeding pens in one of the hog houses Al. G. Field, the minstrel man, raises both Duroc-Jersey and Poland China hogs. A photo further on presents one of the hog houses besides which is a clean hog wallow and it is really clean too. It is of concrere and fresh water keeps running into it. We will bet there is no cholera on the Field farm. There is a picture of the slaughter house too, for the hogs are butchered on the farm and we guess a good deal of the meat is cured there too.

Then there is a most charming view of the prize Jersey Princess Pearl with her calf—another little pearl—alongside her. Another view of the river and we skip on to a scene of the well-tended gardens and the well-kept horse and cow barns.

Then come pictures of some of the folks on the farm—little children and grown-ups who come here to look at the beautiful stock, hold their picnics in the shade of the friendly trees and swim in the gentle river. Master Field is giving a birthday party in one of the pictures, celebrating the fifth anniversary of his arrival on earth.

And so you see the minstrel mantired out no doubt with theatres and crowds and hotels, has built up for himself and his boy a solid and beautiful farm. And here he really lives for there is not much real living in traveling from town to town and appearing in a different theatre from night to night. That is hard work and so Mr. Field's work on his farm comes to him more as play than work .

Has not Al. G. Field set an example to many professional men in several walks? Has he not found the true path to solid living? Al. G. Field has made a great success of his profession. But he knows that he must have something more solid than mere professional success to fall back on.

Many men make a success in their professions who do not build up anything solid to fall back on in old age. The only solid thing for old age is real estate—a farm, if you please. The man who puts his surplus money into a farm and builds up that farm is building up something that will not only keep him comfortably in old age but which will bring him pleasure and satisfaction as well.

The man who lays up a good farm against old age will round out his life in independence and with satisfaction to himself. Is it not true?

Grain Crops Far Short of Last Year's

Still Time For the Late Fall Garden

While the season is rather late there are a number of vegetables that will mature before frost or will be available during the winter if planted according to the following schedule which A. B. McKay, of the Mississippi A. and M. College is sending out in response to many requests for information regarding late fall garden crops.

Beets may be sown through September and October, in drills 3 feet apart and thinned 3 to 6 inches in drill. The best varieties are Crosby's Egyptian, Blood Turnip, and Half Long Blood Red.

Cabbage Plants may be set out at once. The best varieties for fall are Henderson's Succession, Charleston and Flat Dutch. Plants should be 2 feet apart in the rows.

Carrots can be planted during September and October, with beets or radish for an early crop before the carrots mature. Danvers Half Long and the Half Long Blood Red are the best varieties.

Kale may be planted the same as turnips. German Dwarf or Dwarf Curled Scotch are the most desirable varieties. This crop will stand a very severe winter.

Lettuce may be sown in succession until frost. Varieties such as Boston Market and Big Boston are good.

Mustard can be planted the same as turnips, Chinese and Southern Giant Curled being good varieties for fall growing.

Onions may be planted at once. Plant the Yellow and White Bottom sets (not seeds) 3 inches apart in the row. Green bunch onions may be pulled in late October or November, taking alternate plants and leaving others to ripen for winter.

Radish may be planted in succession until frost. Scarlet Turnip, Early Long Scarlet, and Cincinnati Market are desirable.

Spinach may be planted any time in September or October and the plants should be thinned to 3-4 inches in rows. Bloomsdale Savoy is a suitable variety.

Beets, Cabbage, Onions, and Spinach should be planted in rows 3 feet apart. The remaining plants may be sown broadcast and thinned. The varieties recommended are not the only good varieties in the market, but they have been found satisfactory in this climate. Avoid the new-fangled "Marvelous" varieties, and rather take the "old standby" varieties.

Remember that the following factors are necessary to a successful fall garden: (1) Thorough preparation of the soil, (2) Careful planting of good seed, (3) Prompt removal of all weeds. (4) Thorough cultivation after each rain to conserve moisture.

Co-operation Necessary In Dairying

There are so many leaks in the dairy business that only by the use of the best business principles can it be made permanently profitable.

Individual cows must each make a profit over the cost of feed; this can be determined only by weighing each cow's milk and the feed that she consumes. The old argument that the best cows are known may have some foundation, but few men know the poorest cows, and the latter go to make up the average as well as the good cows.

Use Business Principles.

No dairy is better than its average production. If this is too low, the herd is not paying a profit. Business principles must therefore be applied to lowering the cost of milk production. Efficiency is as much a necessity on the farm as in the factory. Few men feed their cows in proportion to the quantity of milk produced, yet what could be more simple and more nearly right? With little regard for her needs, feed is put before the cow in plenty if it is cheap and in less quantity if the price is high. Cows use about 60 per cent of their feed merely to keep their bodies working, and it is the quantity that is fed above this fixed necessity that furnishes the material for the milk. Too often the dairyman says "I would do all the up-to-date things if I had the time." Can the storekeeper afford to run his business without keeping books Yet that is what some farmers do.

Benefits of Cow Testing.

Working in cooperation. dairymen can obtain the benefits of business methods at a very small cost through the organization of a cow-testing association. An organization of this kind that hires an expert to determine the feed cost of milk or fat production for each cow in the herds of the members is easily possible. Such an expert travels from farm to farm, spending usually one day at a place. Each cow's milk is weighed and tested, as is her feed. An account is opened in the ledger for each animal and at the end of the year the profit or loss of each one can be ascertained. The heifers of good cows should be selected and the poor cows should go to the slaughterhouse, otherwise they may be the means of ruining the owner's business. A cow-testing association is a cooperative organization with local officers, and one that can be of use also for advertising the sale of cattle. The results obtained with such advertising have often been remarkable. Dairymen and breeders are certain to be interested in such a movement for the bettering of the business.

At present about 350 of the organizations keep the records for about 150,000 cows owned by about 7,500 farmers. These men are realizing the benefits of cooperation.

The dairy business is well adapted for cooperative organization, and concerted effort by dairymen usually means much greater profits on milk and cream through the elimination of waste, the application of more economical methods of production and manufacture, and the development of more productive cows.

Draughon's Practical Business College Puts On New Man

Draughon's Graduates In Steady Demand

Mr. H. B. Eagerton, cut of whose picture appears on this page, has been induced by Draughon's Montgomery College to give up the position as Auditing Treasurer for a large corporation in Atlanta, Georgia, to take the position as Principal of their Commercial Department. Mr. Eagerton is well prepared for this work. He comes as a successful business man as well as teacher.

For more than a quarter of a century Draughon's has been the guiding star to Commercial training and business success and has often been imitated but never equaled.

Today Draughon's College is more strongly indorsed by bankers and other leading men than all other colleges in the south combined and the reason is to be found in the fact that Draughon's teaches nothing but thorough courses, employs only expert teachers and gives a square deal to everybody.

Many schools claim to teach touch typewriting; while, in fact, the students are left to practice any old way, which results in slow, inaccurate work and poor stenographers, who waste time as well as perfectly good office stationery, and exhaust the patience of their employers.

If you want a training that counts for something, attend Draughon's, where you will be sure of securing and holding the best positions. You will not only get proper training in shorthand and touch typewriting, but also Draughon's Bookkeeping: "Double Entry Made Easy," which is the best known method of teaching practical and progressive bookkeeping.

Day school is in session every week day. Night school is in session three nights a week beginning Monday, September eleventh. Write for full information to Draughon's Practical Business College, J. C. Eagerton, Superintendent, Montgomery, Alabama.

Draughon's Practical Business College,
Montgomery, Alabama,
Gentlemen:—

Within twelve months' 1915-1916, three of my children attended your Montgomery College. My son has been working for several months, has had a promotion and is getting a nice salary. My two daughters have recently accepted positions you secured for them with which I am highly pleased.

The young people are delighted with the treatment accorded them in your College and will never forget the uplifting influence and encouragement they received from your teachers. I have several prospective students that I hope to get to enter your school in the near future, as I can recommend it in the highest terms.

Your College is a blessing to the community. It is doing a great work in preparing young people for a larger usefulness morally, as well as in the business world.

Yours very truly,
MRS. R. D. OVERTON.

Big Move For Berkshires In The South

The American Berkshire Association, of which Mr. Frank Springer is the secretary, is making a big effort for the Berkshire breed at the coming Southeastern Fair in Atlanta, October 14-26.

More Berkshires of noted breeding and individual worth will be shown at the Atlanta Fair than have ever before been exhibited in the central South.

In this big effort for the breed, Mr. Springer has secured the full co-operation of Berkshire breeders in Iowa, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Kansas, Indiana, Kentucky, New York, Maryland, Ohio, Connecticut, and Southern Berkshire breeders in Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, and Tennessee.

In Georgia there are many Berkshire breeders whose reputation extends beyond the South and the plan is to increase the number of Berkshire breeders in other States so that they will rival Georgia in numbers and success. The Georgia Berkshire men and those in Alabama are deeply interested in the splendid exhibit of Northern and Southern hogs that is to be made at Atlanta.

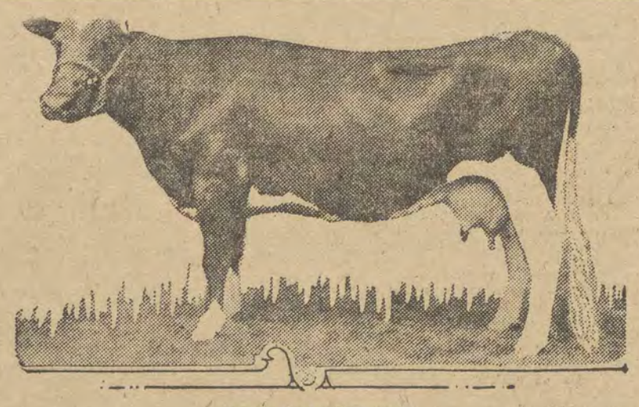
The Berkshire Association feels, that now is the time for extra effort in the South and the start of this big new effort will be at Atlanta. The Berkshire people are now breeding for more ruggedness in the boars especially and they are giving less attention to the "pug" noses. The pug nose does not mean much to the modern Berkshire breeder and with this change in the breeding methods new interest is found everywhere in the Berkshire breed.

We wish for the Berkshire breeders success in this initial effort and hope that they will follow it up with other efforts. For some years most of the work for the Berkshires has been done in the central West and the eastern states. Now the association has come South to promote the breed under the new breeding aims that bring greater ruggedness and size and that are not concerned so much with the nose which has long been one of the distinguished characteristics of the Berkshire hog.

Good luck, Mr. Springer. Welcome to the central South.

During the coming season, Caruso, the noted singer, will earn over $6,000 a performance.

WHAT'S IN MY SOIL?



In my farm alfalfa land? What kind of soil is this What's in it?

These are the questions that every land owner finds forcing themselves on him in these days when farming is done more or less by chemical formulas. These questions and many others are satisfactorily answered in "The Soils of Mississippi," a bulletin recently published by Dr. W. H. Logan of the Geology Department of the Mississippi A. and M. College.

This bulletin not only tells how soils are formed by time and the effects of water, freezing, dead plants and animals, and other agencies, but shows your county in a well prepared map of the soil areas of the state and tells what the contents of the soil are and what crops are adapted to that section.

While the supply is limited, Director R. Lloyd of the Mississippi Experiment Station has arranged to send a copy only to any farmer on request.

The champion is of the Holstein breed and is owned by the E. C. Schroeder farm. Gockerell, her "trainer" first won fame as the feeder of the famous Guernsey cow, Murne Cowan owned by O. C. Barber of the Anna Dean farm near Barberton, Ohio. Queen Piebe surpassed Murne Cowans record by more than six thousand pounds of milk and seventeen pounds of butter in the year test.

The total cost of the feed for the year was $190. Selling the milk at four cents per quart, Mr. Schroeder received an income of $563.20, and a net income of $373.20 for the year The same cow as a senior two-year old broke the seven and thirty-day butter records.

Special Livestock Report From East St. Louis

By A. G. Bray

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, ILL., Sept. 23.—Normal conditions, the law of supply and demand, were the prevailing features of the cattle trade since our last report. At times the influx of receipts has been moderate, and markets very active. At other times receipts have been liberal, and weakness has been characteristic. This has been the chief obstacle at this writing, for instance, receipts the past two days aggregate over 20,000 head, yet, in spite of the fact that some classes of killing indicate a lower basis than say two weeks ago receipts considered, the market has been a fairly good one. The immediate future of the trade hinges entirely upon a receipt proposition. There is nothing in connection with the trade to cause any turmoil or uneasiness, otherwise than should receipts continue as excessive as they have for the past thirty days, additional declines can be looked for, but it is equally as certain that, since the outlet for fresh meat products is broad, light supplies at any time will naturally cause a reaction toward a higher level on the rank and file of killing cattle.

Compared with our last report, the best grades of grass steers are 15 to 25c. lower, though common to medium varieties have held fully steady. Butcher cattle 10c. to 15c. lower, with canner stuff fully steady. The only exception to the weakness in the trade has been the yearling market, through light runs having advanced fully 25c. per cwt.

Quotations, (Grass Killing Cattle)—Choice to prime steers, $7 to $7.50; good to choice steers, $6.50 to $7; medium to good, $5.50 to $6.25; common to medium, $4.85 to $5.50; fat cows, $5.50 to $6.25; medium cows, $5 to $5.50; cutters, $4.65 to $5; canners, $4.15 to $4.40; heavy bulls, $5.25 to $6; light bulls, $4.65 to $5; yearlings, $4.75 to $5; heretics, $6 to $6.50; light veal calves, $7 to $11.

The outlet for cattle, suitable for stockers and feeder purposes from tick free territory has been generous enough to stimulate activity in the trade and maintain this market fully steady with prices in vogue several weeks ago. The demand for thin stuff is an encouraging feature of the trade, and in all probability the movement will continue brisk and prices firm, unless something of an unforeseen nature transpires.

Quotations—Good to choice quality stocker and feeder steers, $6 to $6.35; medium to god, $5.50 to $6; common to medium, $5 to $5.40; good quality stock heifers, $5.25 to $5.75; stock cows, $4.75 to $5.

Hogs—As far as the strictly good corn-fed hogs, with weight, say those 180 pounds upward, are concerned, the market has been fairly satisfactory throughout for these varieties and present market conditions show a top of $11.40 for the best kinds, with the bulk of the good hogs 180 pounds upward selling at $11 to $11.25. This is the class of swine that has formed a comparatively small proportion of the receipts. A big share of the supply consisted of pigs and light-weight stuff, many from Southern and southwest territory, that were green and half-fat. Difficulties have been encountered owing to the over-abundance, and the trade has shown a very erratic nature, prices fluctuating to a marked extent, and at times it was an up-hill proposition to find suitable outlet at satisfactory prices. In some instances these kinds show as much as a 50c. break since our last report, though as a general rule, 25c. per cwt. would cover the difference between the two markets. At this time, swine weighing 150 to 180 pounds are selling from $10.50 to $11; 120 to 140 pounds, $9.50 to $10; lighter weight pigs, $7.50 to $9.25; good rough hogs, $9.75 to $10; half-rat rough hogs, $8.50 to $9.25. Glancing into the future, it is hardly good policy to hold hogs that are fat with present prices prevailing. It is a well known fact that it is easier to break the market than it is to secure advances, and viewed from the standpoint that market values are high, particularly on the fat kinds, the safest course to follow is as suggested, ship your hogs if they are fat.

Sheep—Strictly good Northern lambs have made an advance of 25c. to 40c. per cwt. during the past two weeks, but this marks the full extent of any change in the trade. The market otherwise at par, compared with our previous report. Today choice Northern lambs are topping at $10.65 and the bulk of the good kinds are reaching $10 and better. Half-fat lambs, which constitute most of the offerings from Southern territory are realizing $8.50 to $7.50 per cwt., good culls $7.25 to $7.50; light, skippy culls, $5 to $7. Good fat sheep are bringing $7 to $7.50; chopper sheep and fat bucks, $5.50, with the old canner grades of sheep from $3 to $4. Fat goats $5 to $6; half fat goats, $4 to $5; canner goats, $3 to $3.50.

Iron Peas, and Lespedeza vs. Peas After Oats

By W. A. Wadsworth

It is surprising to find so many farmers who do not know that they are ruining their land by planting peas.

They do not know or care if peas make so much black-root on their land that they ca nnot make at a profit cotton, watermelons, sweet-potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes etc. Fortunately Iron and Brabham peas will do away the dreaded black-root. But all other kinds make this worst of all pests that ever infested cotton lands. It took me five years to fill my lands with black-root by planting unknown and whipporwill peas. It took five years to get rid of it ty planting Iron peas and Covington Toole wilt-resistant cotton.

The nemitode worm lives in peas roots and becomes very numerous after peas. Such land planted in a wilt- resistant cotton is attacked by the worms. The roots are wounded and begin to bleed. Such cotton is then an easy prey fo rthe wilt. No cotton can live on land affected by wilt and nemitode worms.

Early varieties of cotton and early planted also are most affected by the wilt. The boll-weevil gets late cotton. So it is a physical impossibility to make cotton where we have a combination of weevils, wilt and nemitode worm. If we get rid of the worm we can manage the other two.

Iron Pea is Best.

The Iron Pea is by far the best pea to plant.

This pea makes all along like cotton. It is the only pea that has green leaves and ripe peas at the same time It has better keeping quality than other peas when left tin the field We pick the first crop for seed; the vines are then just ripe for hay. We follow the pickers with mower. Hogs get the shattered peas, and leaves. Cattle eat the coarse waste. The vines put out from the stubble, and continue to gather nitrogen from the air and store it in the soil. Since it has a longer growing period than other peas it puts more nitrogen in the soil. The vines being small and sweet they make hay pre-eminent over other peas. The smallness of the vine makes it easier to cure for hay. The longevity of the vine gives us a longer period at harvest time. If unknown and iron peas are nearly ripe and a rainy spell sets in and lasts three weeks, at the end the unknown pea vines are all dead, when the iron will still be ready for hay. A rainy spell keeps the iron vnies growing as long as it lasts. So we do not take chances and cut when it looks like rain.

The Iron makes more and better hay. The others make more peas. Hay is worth 75 cents per hundred pounds while peas are worth a dollar a hunhundred in the hull. The vines are cheaper to gather. While we may lose $5 worth of peas to the acre by planting Irons we are making $5 worth of hay extra and adding more nitrogen to the soil and getting rid of the nemitode worm the ally of the wilt.

We plant peas for hay and soil-improvement and not for grain. The Iron being small and vigorous requires less bushels tto plant a given area. Two pecks of Iron will plant as much land as three pecks of unknown peas. Sell the other and buy the Iron with the proceeds.

As long as we farm we will be forced to plant peas in early corn for early pasture, and may be compelled tto plant some for hay. It makes a fine forage for brood-sows through winter. It is our cheapest source as a pro tein feed as far as it goes on all places that can not raise alfalfa. But for late pasture in corn fields and soil-improvement the velvet bean stands ahead of the iron pea. The seed to plant an acre in corn will cost twice as much for peas as for beans. So sell your peas and buy the beans.

Lespedeza vs. Peas After Oats

While we do not advise planting lespedeza on deep sandy land as better than peas, we have found it beats peas to death in the wet places and on all sttiff lands. It is equally as good on sandy lands with clay subsoil. If lands are rich enough in minieral fertilizers to make lespedeza tall enough the farmer is losing valuable time in fooling with peas for hay. The thicker lespedeza is planted the taller it will grow.

It requires four acres of pea hay to the plow where this is the only source of roughage. That is 8 acres for two mule farm. To turn this land after oats will take four days. By using the same team to a two-horse cultivator with four sweeps in four-foot rows we can plow out 2 acres per day or 32 acres n four days, or cultivate eight acres four times It is as plain as figures can make it that we can cultivate eight acres in a growing crop of corn or cotton four times while we are preparing two acres of oat land for peas. This simply means that for every acre we plant in peas after oats we must reduce corn or cotton four acres. In one acre of peas worth as much as four acres of corn or cotton? Peas for hay is our most expensive crop. Happy is the man who can get around pea hay except a small area that can be prepared while broken lands are too wet to work.

Lespedeza after oats may appear expensive but it is nothing like as expensive as a pea crop. It is up when oats are cut and gathering nitrogen from then until frost. It covers the ground like wool on a sheep's back. The crab-grass hay mixed with clover may make more and better hay than the peas. It will prove far easier to save. An old oat field in lespedeza is by far the best pasture that I have ever seen on any of my lands.

Plant what peas you have just got to have, and let them be Iron peas. Plant velvet beans and lespedeza just to be planting, no better way to kill time.

"Our Labor Is Leaving---What Are We Going to Do?" Yes, What?

By Littell McClung

"A few more Hopewells springing up in Virginia and there will be nobobdy left to work the farms."

"A few more Birminghams in the South and many cotton fields will lie idle."

These are only a couple of straws that show which way the winds of agriculture and industry are blowing. You will observe many more straws breezing cityward most anywhere you go.

But let us get down to cases. A farmer came from Pennsylvania to the apple growing section of Virginia With five thousand dollars in cash he bought a farm that fenced in some excellent bottom corn land and some mighty good apple land in the hills at the foot of the mountain. On the place he built a small, comfortable home for his family—a hard-working wife and two daughters in their teens. Unfortunately, the daughters were not sons.

After he had built the home, re-fenced the farm to suit his needs, planted a garden and put in some corn and tomatoes for home use and for sale besides, he had several thousand dollars left from the sum he had brought down from Pennsylvania. He bought a three-gallon-a-day Jersey, some Leghorn layers and two heavy work horses. Then he dynamited out the stumps over twenty acres of orchard and planted his apple trees and his peach trees, the latter being set out between the apple-tree rows so that the peaches would be bringing in some cash while the apples were "coming on."

Liked The Country

Now he needed labor and he hired labor, white and black, for $1 and $1.25 a day. The seasons were favorable and everything went well. The Pennsylvanian and his family liked the climate. There was snow and ice in winter and plenty of snap in the air, but the mercury never once fell to the zero mark. In summer the cool air from the mountains always tempered the mid-day sun. The scenic picture from the hills was a veritable little Switzerland—a long panorama of mountain, hill and valley. The newcomers expressed wonderment at and found delight in the sunsets that bathed in glory the far ranges on clear evenings. Friends they made, and pleasant ones—solid, honest, well educated people.

Now the Pennsylvania farmer was not over-strong physically but that did not matter as he was able to hire fairly good workers right along at not more than $1.25 a day. In time the peach trees showed blossom and bud. Each crate of choice peaches from the new orchard brought $1.50 cash and at this price began to yield a nice revenue to offset the heavy expense in getting the orchard started successfully. A good orchard is like a poor automobile—it's the up-keep that costs.

Then Hopewell Came

Everything on the farm was moving to satisfaction, when, of a sudden Hopewell, nearly two hundred miles away, sprang into existence down on the James river. It was the new munitions city and its call for skilled and unskilled workers was loud and long. This call was answered in country and town. Roanoke, not twenty miles distant from the Pennsylvanian's farm, was drained of its industrial workers who had vivid visions of riches in Hopewell. None of these visions, however, came true.

Wages rose in Roanoke and some of the farm laborers went there. Soon the coal-carrying railroad with headquarters in Roanoke, called for more men. The Pennsylvania farmer was left high and dry. He offered to pay $1.50 a day to white men or black men who would help him made his corn and gather and market his peach crop, but had he offered twice this sum he could have got no workers for they were not to be had—all had gone to Hopewell, to Roanoke or to the railroad. The farmer tried doing his own work but it was hard on him and in a few months his family realized that he could not stand up under the strain. His daughters helped all they could but he could not bring his conscience to the point of taking them out of school to spend all their time on the farm.

Don't Know What To Do

At this writing the farmer and his family are still on that farm. But what are they to do? Now a silk mill is being built in Roanoke and it will call upon the country for more labor —male and female. The increasing business of the railroad makes repeated demands for labor now on the farms and in the small towns.

Meanwhile the farmers and orchard growers all over that land of friendly mountains and lovely valleys stand uncertain and fearful. "Our labor is leaving, what are we to do?" There is no hope of getting back the workers who have already gone. There is not much hope of holding others who are thinging of going. Ten years ago farm workers were not plentiful. Today, with an increase in the number of orchards, there is an astonishing dechease in the number of farm "hands."

In the small town of that fair section it is equally as bad; maybe worse. It is difficult to get a cord of wood chopped garden plowed or fence roles dog. The only way to get the cow milked regularly is to milk her yourself; and you must feed her your self and take herto pasture every morning yourself and bring her back ever evening yourself. Yourself is the only one you can depend on.

Down in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia--- one of the richest sections of the entire East-- the same condition prevails. There is no possibility of its improving and every indication of its becoming worse. The home owners and owners are at a loss as to what to do. in wages they cannot compete with the railroads, or the factories that spring up here and there. Their labor is going fast and they know that it will not return to the farms and villages.

Now For Cotton Belt

Now let us drop down into Alabama --right into the heart of the Cotton Belt for another survey. Here labor has always been plentiful, willing and cheap. But now the boll weevil dread cotton destroyer-- is covering Alabama and Georgia, just as it has covered Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi and just as in time it will spread over the entire Cotton Belt. The old system of then,"advancing" to tenants their meat for the season breaks down wher-even the boll weevil lights. Advances in foodstuffs must cease because the outcome of a cotton crop under "weevil conditions" is uncertain. The landlord who "advences" food and feeds may find hardly enough cotton on the tenanted land to repay him for the money spent.

Must Raise What They Eat

Under conditions caused by the boll weevil tenants must raise what they eat and something for the mules also. they must have a garden and some chickens, keep a cow and raise a hog or two per family. They must produce some corn and have a little pasture as well. Many of the tenants are willing to do these things, and many would become self-sustaining with the land owner's help were it not for the lure of the railroads and the growing city of Birmingham. Many thousands of farm workers have gone from Alabama Georgia and Mississippi to Birmingham and others have gone to other growing industrial centers in the South. Rather than remain on the land without "advances" the men-and women too--go to town and "get jobs".

Since the recent unusual floods in the South tenants are leaving the plantations in large numbers and are flocking into the towns in search of work. All over Alabama landlords show fear in their eyes and anxiety in their voice. "Our labor is leaving —what is to be done?" Without the negro workers on the land the making of cotton is hardly thought possible by many plantation. owners

What Can Be Done?

Well, what is to be done? There is no let-up in he labor movement cityward, nor will there be. Nobody doubts that the larger they grow the more workers they will attract from the farms and small towns. The greater the number of wage earners in the cities the fewer the food producers on the farms, and the higher the prices of food. This is an axiom as evident as any in geometry. In some sections of the East the problem is acute; in some sections of the South it is fast becoming acute.

Yet there must be an answer. Neither argument nor the high cost of living is going to keep our cities from growing And surely somebody must keep busy raising something to feed them. A few may Fletcherize but the majority will consume as much as ever—and the majority will continue to increase in numbers.

Must Do Their Own Work.

The one solution visible in the eastern states is that of the land owners working the farms themselves —just as the folks do out in Illinois and Iowa. There is no way out of it. And they are going to have to make their own gardens and milk their own cows and curry their own horses—both on the farm and in the small town. This sort of a program is going to seem mighty hard to many eastern people who have been accustomed to hiring labor to do farm work and housework, Some will give up, sell their land and move into town where their daughters can become stenographers, telephone operators or clerks in stores, and where their sons can become trolley car conductors or bank clerks. Others are going to face the situation, roll up their sleeves—literally and figuratively—and go to work with their own two hands.

In the Central west the farmer can sit on his riding plow or cultivator and with two goods horses in front of him put a good-sized piece of land into shape in a day he has no gullies or rocks to contend with. The tractor will break up his soil as fast as the engine drives it along. But the eastern farmer cannot sit on a gasoline tractor or a riding plow. His farming is up hill and down, across creeks and gullits and against many rocks. His farming comes harder, far harder than farming on the black plains of Central west. But he must buckle down to it and make the best of what seems now to be a bad situation. After all, the departure of the labor may not have been so deplorable Now the farmer will have to build up more pasture land, and put on it more and better livestock and let the cattle and the hogs do a good part of the farming for him. There is no better farmer anywhere than a good steer. He works nights and Sundays, rain or shine—putting on weight that is worth from eight to ten cents a pound and keeping the land fertilized in the way that nature designed it should be kept fertilized.

In the small towns through the eastern states many of the good house wives will cease worrying their brains tired over "the servant problem" in doing the housework themselves. More daughters than before will be brought up to cook and sew and house-clean. More and more homes will become independent of servants and new and unexpected joys will be found in making the home self-regulating and self-sustaining.

But What of Cotton Belt?

But what of the Cotton Belt—that vast territory stretching from the northern boundary of North Carolina to the far Southern line of Texas? The negro and his wife and children all know how to "make" cotton. They produce the entire cotton crop of the south. It is said, and rather generally believed, that the white man cannot endure for long the heat of the "cotton sun" in the cotton field. That steady relentless sunshine that beats down from dawn till nightfall and that leaves warm reminders throughout the night, will sap the energy of most any white man. But the negro does not mind it. Recently come from a land of blistering heat, the cotton field under a semi-tropical sun has no terrors for him.

Plantation Must Be a farm

So what is to become of the plantation deserted by its negro tenants who have been magnetized to jobs in the cities? There is only one answer—the plantation must become a farm, a diversified farm. It must be fenced and cattle and hogs put on it. All-the-year-around pasture must be provided. Making the plantation a diversified farm will reduce labor requirements one-half, maybe more. All the plowing will be done by one man on a tractor instead of a dozen tenants behind as many mules. With crop rotation and livestock the fertility of the land, greatly reduced through constant cotton planting, will be restored by the natural method. The cotton acreage will be reduced but more cotton will be raised on an acre because the soil is being built up by livestock being on it. Getting more cotton to the acre will increase the cotton profits that much.

Diversification over the entire Cotton telt is the only logical outcome of the depletion of farm labor. And another big economic factor of diversification is that it will tend to keep more "cotton money" in the South for the development of Southern industry. Heretofore most of the South's cotton money has gone to the Central West for food and feeds—products that the South could raise in greater abundance and cheaper than the Central West.

And so the perplexing labor problem in the Cotton Belt will be solved in time to the lasting welfare of all the people in this extensive territory. It pains greatly right now but somebody must suffer pain of some sort for all economic progress that comes about.

Some of the Ways That Hog Cholera Spreads

Hog cholera is the same North, East, South or west. It spreads in about the same way everywhere and its effects are the same no matter where it breaks out.

Experiments covering hog cholera cases in Iowa will fit cases in Alabama. And so we folks here in the Central South who are raising hogs should be much interested in experiments recently made by inspectors of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry in Iowa.

Two outbreaks in Clay county, Iowa this past spring were traced directly to premises that had not been cleaned and disinfected after animals had been treated on them for cholera the fall before. Here you have one of the sources from which cholera may spread amongst our farms.

There are many ways, however, in which hog cholera spreads. Some of them are:

Owners of well herds visiting sick herds.

Owners of sick herds visiting well herds.

Purchase of new stock, even immune, from infected premises.

Borrowing and lending f ofarm implements.

Thrashing and silo-filling crews.

Dogs.

Crows, pigeons, etc.

Exposing carcasses of cattle, horses and hogs to crows and dogs.

Streams—locating hog lots on streams.

Vaccination of well herds.

Sick hogs running to line fences.

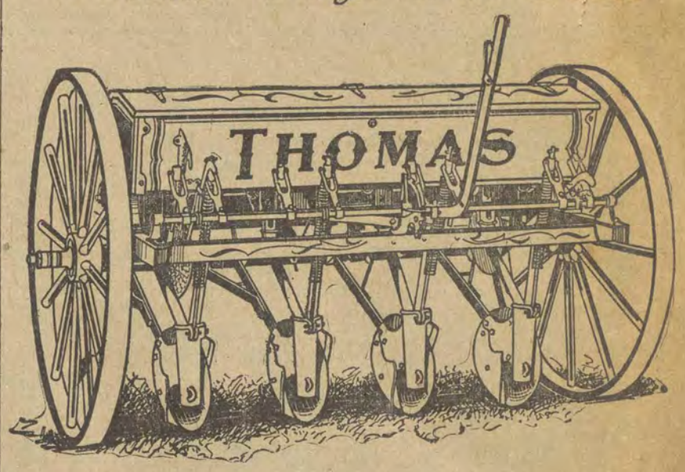
Sick or well hogs running at large.

Harbored on premises.

If the farmers will maintain a system of cleaning, disinfecting and quarantine on their premises, hog cholera can be eradicated in time.

The Clay County Improvement Association purchased a first-class spraying outfit for the free use of the farmers of the county in disinfecting any premises which had not been cleaned up and disinfected after the recovery from an attack of hog cholera.

It is practically certain that, if the premises are not cleaned and disinfected after an outbreak of hog cholera, there will be a recurrence or spread of the disease which will entail great expense to control, and probably mean a large loss from death.



Remember! The records of this fofice show that every outbreak of hog cholera in Clay county so far in 1916 has been due, directly or indirectly, to the failure to properly clean and disinfect premises on which the disease existed in 1915.

Persons living on infected premises owe it to their neighbors to promptly do such work for the infection can be carried from the place in numerous ways.

Neighbors living adjoining such infected premises must consider them a menace to their own hogs until they have been properly cleaned and disinfected, and should maintain a close quarantine against the place until the work is done.

If a deadly poison were being spread in the neighborhood in such a manner that your stock was liable to get it thereby causing you an enormous loss, would you not take radical action to help free the community of such a danger? Well, bear in mind that when hog cholera infection is being harbored on a place in the neighborhood, it is placing your hogs in jeopardly just tthe same as poison would do, and you should use your influence to have this condition cleaned up.

Raise Larger Crops With the "Thomas" Single Disc Drills

The Thomas Single Disc Drill will produce from 2 to 5 bushels more wheat per acre than any other Single Disc Drill. Why? Because the disc and tubular boot opens a wider furrow (1 3-4 inches wide) and scatters the seed over the whole of the bottom of this wide furrow giving every grain a chance to stool out and grow, insuring more and better stalks and producing more grain.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, OCTOBER 5, 1916. NUMBER 27.

SUPT. FEAGIN'S LETTER ABOUT EDUCATION ETC.

Are you doing your part to help Alabama's Children?

"We must face the fact that heretofore Alabama has spent, as every Southern State has spent, shamefully little in its public schools. According to official 1910 figures, while the average American state spent over $15 per child for each child of school age, Alabama spent only $4. Only three other states in the Union spent so little in proportion to the wealth of the people, and in only one other state did the average child of school age attend school so small a number of days."

"This condition cries aloud for remedy. Consequently in the whole South today I know of no other piece of statesmanship now before the people of such large promise as the constitutional amendment to be voted on next November, permitting counties and communities to levy local taxes for schools. Its passage will open the door of hope to the whole commonwealth, and every friend of progress, every man, who loves Alabama and has faith in her future should not only vote for this amendment, but preach its necessity every day from now until it is proclaimed a part of the fundamental law of the State."
—Hon. Clarence Poe, Editor, Progressive Farmer.

Community Centers

In the cotton mill towns of Lanett, Langdale, Fairfax, and Riverview, Chambers County, are found models of community organization and school equipment. The cotton mill company operating at these places built schools with ample auditoriums, furnished libraries, etc., for the better education of its employees and their children. The buildings are of the latest approved school architecture and with all modern conveniences.

The auditoriums are used freely as community centers for gatherings of all kinds, for lectures, musicales and the like. Such is the welfare work conducted for the benefit of the mill employees and their children.

Public Schools a Public Trust

Nicholas Murray Butler says: "It is a fundamental principle of our American educational system that the duly constituted authorities of any school district or other political unit may establish and maintain schools of any kind or grade for which the voters consent, in regular form, to bear the expense."

"The schools which are maintained by govermental authority are established in the interest of the whole people and because of the controlling conviction that an instructed and enlightened population is essential to the perpetuity of democratic institutions and to their effective operation. The school are therefore a proper charge upon all taxpaying persons and property, and not merely upon those whose children receive instruction therein. Nor are they in any sense schools which are provided for the poor r the unfortunate."

Attitude of Adult School Teachers

Much has been said with reference to the appreciation of the work done in adult schools by the pupils, but not so much has been said of the encouragement received by the teachers conducting such schools. Although they receive no pay for this work they have felt more than rewarded for the efforts made. This is expressed in the following statements made in Coffee County:

"This is the grandest work I have ever done."

"No one knows how teaching this adult school is going to help me in my work this winter. Three families who have not sent their children to school in four years are going to do so when school opens. They are now helping me plan things for the school this winter."

"Since I have taught an adult school I have had a new vision of life. I feel that I can better teach the boys and girls this winter."

J. N. SCOTT'S IGNORANCE DROPS; A DEM'S PRAYER

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 2, 1916.

Editor Union-Banner:

Here is some more of my "ignorance drops" in the form of a Chilton county democratic prayer.

"Oh Lord Billy Brandon, and most esteemed judge of Tuscaloosa; and McCord, judge of Montgomery; and great and eloquent Wallace, our dearly beloved and valuable game warden!

"We democrats of Chilton county are in a most rediculous mess over here. Last May we nominated the best man we had, but because we wanted him to endorse Deason's administration he went and resigned. Then we hunted out one that suited us to take his place, and we had to take a so-called life-time Republican. Now some of our Democrats are kicking high, and have even quit the party.

"Now most high and renowned Lords, we want you to come over into our county and make us some speeches. We want you to help us get our own men to vote for this Republican we have nominated. We will kill the fatted calf, and make all arrangements for big things to happen. We will have ball games and all kinds of amusements in order to get the people out to hear you. But you know Lords, it is hard to get a crowd out in Chilton county unless it is a Republican rally. But if you can come over and help us any, we will be much obliged.

"You know we were 18 years trying to get our fingers in the pie pan; 6 years ago we fooled the people, and elected a Probate Judge, a Sheriff and one commissioner. At that time Reynolds was Probate Judge and our county was out of debt; had enough money to pay up everything and have some left. We always got our pay promptly when we did work for the county.

But you see Lords, in this six years our Democratic officers were so pie hungry until they have gone through with all Reynolds left and all the taxes that have gone into the treasury, and you know our taxes have been much more during the last six years than they ever were before. Yet we can't get anything for holding elections, or anything we do for the county; and besides our leaders have run the county in debt $260,000.00.

"Oh most high Lords, if you can come and do anything to save us from the wilderness, we pray you come and do so at once!

"We remember that on account of disobeying God, Moses was allowed only to see the promised land. And by the false report of the spies the children had to return into the wilderness, and die, all from 21 years old on up.

"So you see Lords, all this has been done during one Democratic administration, and we are ashamed of it. So much ashamed are we that we can't go out on the stump and face the people and make speeches.

"So oh Lords, and most honorable judges, if you can't help us elect our independent Dukes-mixture candidate this fall, we are bound to go back into the wilderness and wander around with a few broken down Republicans and Democratic-Socialist politicians for another generation to come. For oh Mighty Lords, we know that the good sensible conservative Democrats are not going to be easily fooled this time. They will vote for the best man, and we know that is L. H. Reynolds. And when they go that far they will just vote the whole Republican ticket if there is not something done, for it is the best men too.

"Oh we beseech you to come and make us some speeches; and put a littel laudanum in them and put the boys to sleep till after the election day. We want you to do it, for we Dems over here are in the middle of a bad fix just now. But if Judge Deason had voted the other way in each of those tie-ups and if the false spies had held their tongues, and had not advocated taking $5,000.00 out of the treasury and had not run to Montgomery trying to legislate the people out of their rights, we would have had easy sailing this time. But My Lord we are ashamed of them this time. We want some of you to come and speak for us, because you do not know the full situation just as our own fellows do, and therefore you can put on a better front to face the people with than we can.

"But we don't want anyone in office unless it suits our Clanton ring. John Patton ran in the primary; but we don't want a man from Jemison or any other town. We might not be able to handle him to the interest and welfare of Clanton.

"So most high and holy Fathers of the Democratic party in Alabama, we again and finally beseech you to remember us poor Chilton Democrats in your prayers."

The above is about the kind of prayer which I can imagine some of the Democrats around Clanton are sending up to the high and exalted state Democrats in the present campaign.

Respectfully,
J. N. SCOTT.

UNION SPRINGS

Revival services were held here last week. Rev. Crumpton of Jemison did the preaching. Attendance was good attention good. The sermons were very pointed interspersed with gems of present truth. Subjects handled were in advance of what the minister in the olden times ever dreamed of. Such subjects as "Ghehenna in the valley of Hinnom" came in for discussion, that being a type of the utter destruction of the finally impenitent.

The singing here Sunday afternoon was attended by a large number.

Rev. Champion is called to the pastorate here again.

Prof. Baker will teach the school here next session. Under the blazing light of our day education is making rapid strides. So is agriculture preparing to feed increased multitudes. Music also is preparing for a glad day. Spirited knowledge is increasing, thus revealving more of the beauty of the creator's character, which is love, and so great for humanity that none but the finally impenitent will go into the second death. When his character is thus revealved in its true beauty it will attract the reverance of all but the wilfully evil. The heathen nations will love him then.

We are pleased to note the continued fairness, nice deportment and immunity from low mud slinging of the Union-Banner.

EVERGREEN

You are cordially invited to attend an educational rally at Evergreen on Saturday, October 7th.

The program will be as follows:

10:00 A. M. Devotional exercises.

10:20 Singing by the Evergreen class.

12:00 Basket dinner.

Athletic contest.

2:30 Address by Prof. H. C. McDonald.

3:15 Addressby Supt. W. T. Bean.

There will be a prize of $1.50 for climbing greasy pole; prize of 50 cents for highest jump, and a prize of 50 cents for winner of a 300 yards dash.

G. C. WELDON.

THE COST OF LIVING

Under the Wilson administration and the Democratic tariff law the cost to the people of the United States for 15 articles of food alone has increased in the last four years approximately one-seventh.

An American family, under the Taft administration, that spent $300 per year for these foods, is now paying for the same articles, under the Wilson administration, $342 annually.

Figuring five persons to a family this is an increase of $8.40 for every man, woman and child in the United States, or the stupendous total of more than $800,000,000.

Under the Underwood tariff law and the Wilson administration the high cost of living has increased by leaps and bounds.

Since June, 1912, up to June, 1916, according to the latest available Government statistics there has been an increase of 14 per cent in most of the staple foods.

The Democrats have not kept their promise, made in the Baltimore platform, to reduce the high cost of living. On the contrary every family in the United States is paying higher prices for the principal articles of food, 14 per cent higher than it cost them under the Taft administration and a Republican tariff law.

In the Baltimore platform, on which Wilson was elected President, is the following plank:

"The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party, in its platform, attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject, and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party and from such trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws, and we assert that no substantial relief can be secured for the people without import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and these criminal conspiracies broken up."

A 14 per cent increase in the cost of the principal food stuffs is the way the Democrats and the Wilson administration have kept this pledge to the people.

HON. FRED L. BLACKMON IS COMING TO CLANTON.

The knowing ones are whispering it around that Hon. Fred. L. Blackmon will be in Clanton and at Mt. Creek station on Oct. 6 and 7th.

Mr. Blackmon is in the race for congress and during his visit in Clanton it is presumed that he will look the post office applicants for Mr. Roberts' job over and after weighing up capabilities, etc., decide who will be the future post master.

One night last week the saw mill belonging to commissioner R. J. Williams in Mulberry was destroyed by fire.

IT WAS A RUNAWAY

Those citizens who came down to their business in Clanton early on Monday morning, and had occasion to pass along main street near the Greek fruit stand, saw evidences that something rather unusual had been taking place on the premises during the night.

Over in front of Mr. Broadhead's was the top and seat of a buggy, and just on the opposite side of the street on a vacant lot was the balance of the buggy; further observations revealed that one of the awning poles in front of Broadhead's had been knocked down.

Just the things mentioned above were the only light that could be found on the subject till Monday afternoon when night Marshall Jeff Ruffin had finished his nap and come down town.

He related the story of a mule and buggy that was hitched to the post in front of Sartor's stroe away into Sunday night. The mule had stood there until he became cold and lonesome and chose to perambulate down the avenue and seek to warm himself up a bit. So here he started. He got too close to the side walk in front of Broadhead's and struck the post, knocking it down. At this juncture he turned to come back up the street, leaving the aforesaid mentioned part of the buggy in front of Mr. Broadhead's store. As he came back up the street he was stopped in his wild caper by the intervention of a large dog.

It was later ascertained by the marshall that the mule and buggy belonged to a Mr. Baker who lives west of Clanton.

MR. STREET'S SPEECHES DREW A GREAT INTEREST

Accurate and undeniable facts, presented in a clear and inoffensive style, to the utter condemnation of the last four years of Democratic administration in the United States, was the gist of the six speeches made by National Republican Committeeman, Hon. O. D. Street, in Chilton county last week.

His arguments always carried a clear conviction of Democratic policies and methods; and he backed his contentions with facts and figures from the records that could not be denied by anyone.

Mr. Street is a masterful political thinker. The people of this county have never had a chance before to hear a man of such tact and ability present the merits of the Republican party principles. Those who heard him should consider themselves indeed most fortunate.

On his visit here and after viewing the situation, Mr. Street complimented and congratulated the people of Chilton county in their courage of convictions in standing up boldly and taking to task the Democratic party in its falsity to its promises to the people.

Mr. Street made six speeches in the county, at Pletcher, McCary schoolhouse, Maple Springs, Cooper, Jemison and Collins Chapel. At each of his appointments he was greeted by large and enthusiastic crowds of voters.

GIRLS CLUB WORK

Still the interest in the club day, Nov. 2, grows.

The parade, too, is growing. At first we thought of just our own work, but the very nature of our work calls for others. Then we wanted the boy scouts, then the school children, then city clubs, all to take part in the parade. Now the Fair Association joins with us and we will have an automobile parade included, and they offer a premium for the prettiest decorated automobile, any car in the county can compete for the premium if it takes part in the parade. Now, boys and girls here to take part in it and see the beautiful exhibits. Help make your county fair the best in the state, you can not stay at home and do that.

Boys, do not forget that corn for your tent, we will need it. The girls are already sending in their products and they are fine. You can equal them if you try real hard. Why not make it an educational day? Every school in th ecounty attend in a body and take part in the parade. When you go home write a good article on what you saw at the fair. I heard a good educator from a far away Western city say that their schools gave two days for the fair and each grade was assigned certain exhibits to study and write up the next week. She was from one of the states that takes the lead in education. A fine suggestion for the school here don't you think?

When you are at the fair study the quality of the products. If yours is not as good ask how they succeeded then try their method another year. This day should interest every citizen of Chilton county. The education of your children should be one great thought and your county pride should be another. We ask the co-operation of every person in helping to make this day a success.

We are glad to have with us in our club work another year a live Canning and Home Demonstration club at Pletcher. Mrs. E. G. Caldwell, President and Miss Myrtle Edwards Secretary. A delightful afternoon was spent with them last Friday.

It was our pleasure to meet with the two Lawley clubs at Shoults school house last Saturday afternoon. Quite a number were present. One interested member brought the material and a splendid fireless cooker was made while there. We will go again to enjoy some of the good things cooked in it.

Beginning with this week gins in Clanton are running only Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Fire at the residence of Mrs. Askins in west Clanton on last Friday evening about six o'clock did slight damage to the roof of the building. The blaze was extinguished before it reached a very threatening stage.

DEMOCRATS FACE HARD CAMPAIGNS

OPPOSITION TO "REGULAR" TICKETS HAS ARISEN IN MANY COUNTIES.

FIGHT TO RETAIN OFFICIALS

Prominent Members of Party to Stump Counties for Their Friends.

Montgomery.—Democrats of Alabama face a harder fight for their local tickets in Alabama this year than ever before. Reports received in Montgomery shaw that, independent or opposition tickets have been entered in the field in fifteen of the sixey-seven counties and that active sampaigns are being made by those opposed to the Democratic tickets.

In some counties former Democrats have left the party and are running as independents. In other counties the Republicans and many Progressives have combined and are running candidates for the principaly offices. Reports show that the Democratic tickets have opposition in the counties of Chilton, Coffee, Shelby, St. Clair, Dale, Pike, Geneva, Coosa, Bibb, Fayette, Walker, Blount, Cleburne, Cullman, Winston and Franklin.

Some of the counties have had fights at every election. This is true in Shelby, St. Clair, Fayette, Walker, Winston and Franklin. Winston, St. Clair and Franklin always present an issue for the Democrats, while Walker, during the last few years, has been forced to fight to retain its Democratic officials.

The State Democratic Executive Committee and the county committees are making plans for a general campaign in the counties where there is opposition to the tickets. Prominent members of the party have announced their willingness to stump the counties for their friends.

I reproved Cebron for not getting the water. The reproof angered him and he advanced on me with a hunting knife. He cut me eight times before I could reach a shotgun. Then I opened fire. My wife stepped between us just as I pulled the trigger. I killed her accidentally. I shot again and my stepson dropped dead. There were no eyewitnesses to the tragedy."

The trip from Nashville was without an unpleasant incident and the officers declared that Overton did not give them the least trouble.

Overton denied making statements published in a Nashville paper to the effect that he had admitted being a member of the party that was present the night that Judge Lawler was killed. He declared that such statements are untrue.

It was also denied by officials that Overton surrendered to Sheriff Puckett because of a relationship that existed between Overton's family and the family of Puckett. D. C. Vann, Game Warden of Clarke County, Tenn., issued a statement denying any relationship between Sheriff Puckett and Overton

"HEY, WHY DON'T YOU CONDUCT A DIGNIFIED CAMPAIGN"

Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

MUST BE PROTECTED

PERIL FOR AMERICAN INDUSTRIES WHEN WAR IS OVER.

Nations Now Engaged in Conflict Will Then Practice Rigid Economy and Push Their Foreign Trade to the Utmost.

The public attention may be held for a time by this issue or that issue, but the one issue that can never be put into the background is the tariff. The ictitious prosperity of the present should deceive no one. The European war, which is the sole cause of that prosperity, is approaching its end. When it is concluded the abnormal demand for American products will cease, not instantly but rapidly. The nations engaged in the great conflict will at once begin to concentrate all their powers upon rehabilitation. They will endeavor to the utmost to supply their own needs, to restore their commerce, and to pay the enormous indebtedness they have incurred. To this end, or these ends, they will buy as little as possible and sell as much as they can. It is supreme folly to imagine that they will or can do anything else. The notion that their necessities will compel them to continue to buy prodigiously from us is founded upon a vain hope. Such necessities, if they exist, will be but temporary. They would not go on pouring out money to us if they could, and they could not if they would.

On the contrary, their policy will be one of rigid economy within and of pushing sales to the utmost without. The capture of the greatest cash market in the world will be their special aim. Nowhere else than here can the gold they will so badly need be acquired with facility. That the United States will be the dumping ground for the surplus products of all the fighting nations cannot be reasonably questioned. The re-election of Woodrow Wilson would mean four more years with the bars down, four more years with the gates open for the entry of European cheap labor products in competition with ours.

Who can imagine a continuation of prosperity under such conditions? Gold would pour out of this country in a continuous stream. Factories throughout the land would close down, unable to compete with the foreign manufacturers. Labor would be thrown out of employment; prices of farm products would go down to unprofitable figures, and business of all kinds would suffer to the extreme.

The only possible preventive of such a calamitous consummation is a tariff that will protect us from the flood of Europe, and the only way to establish such protection is by the restoration of a Republican government which makes protection its fundamental principle.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

This Excuse Will Not Do.

Democracy pleads that its failure to reduce the cost of living according to campaign promises is due to the European war. Yet we all of us must distinctly and painfully remember that while Mr. Wilson had been president two years before the effects of the European war were felt here and 16 months before such a struggle was ever dreamed of, during this whole period of immunity from war prices the cost of living continued to climb.

The Real Issue.

The Adamson law is not even merely a wage question. The real issue is whether congress, acting under duress, had a right to raise the wages of trainmen, while confessing that it did not know whether the wages were reasonable or not.

Great Relief in Sight.

Moreover, the election of Mr. Hughes will mean that the new navy will be delivered from the moth and rust of an administration by the abysmal Daniels.

MYTH EXPLODED BY MAINE

Woodrow Wilson Is Proved to Be Weakness, Not Strength, of Democratic Party.

The Maine election has exploded the Woodrow Wilson myth. Instead of being the strength of the Democratic party the result of the campaign in that barometer state proves that he is its weakness. "Wilson—that's all" was the slogan agreed upon by the Republican and Democratic parties. Both appealed to the people of Maine to return a verdict in the September election upon the man and his work. "Wilson—that's all" was the answer they gave in the hardest fought campaign in the history of the state, in the largest vote ever polled by its people, in one of the most decisive victories ever recorded under similar circumstances.

From the opening of the Maine campaign until its finish, the name and fame of Woodrow Wilson paraded before the people for better or for worse. When the Republican state convention met in Portland last March condemnation of Mr. Wilson's whole course at home and abroad, the vacillation of his character, the opportunism of his policies, the stubbornness of his processes and the weakness of his faith, formed the features of the convention and speeches and aroused enthusiastic applause. He was blamed outright for the whole Mexican mess and for the resultant disrespect which the flag has suffered not only there but on the high seas and elsewhere throughout the world. One week later the Democrats met in Bangor and took up the gauge of battle by coming to the rescue of the character and course of the man in the White House. Mr. Wilson thus became even before the national convention the target and the text of the opposing forces in Maine.

From the day Colonel Roosevelt entered the state until the day before election, when Mr. Hughes concluded three days of hard campaigning, the crusade against Woodrow Wilson reached its climax. The speech of the colonel at Lewiston, devoted almost entirely to the Mexican record of Mr. Wilson, received the largest circulation ever given a political document in Maine. Mr. Hughes went Mr. Roosevelt one better. Not only did he reiterate all of the criticisms which he leveled against Mr. Wilson in the West, but he condemned him with solemn severity for surrendering to force instead of standing for arbitration in the recent railroad crisis. Indeed his attack upon Mr. Wilson for coercing congress into passing the Adamson bill was the supreme sensation of the campaign in Maine and made more votes for the Republicans, it is estimated, than any other one issue.

The example of Hughes and Roosevelt was followed by Henry Cabot Lodge, William E. Borah, Charles Warren Fairbanks, and other leaders from the East and West who went into Maine to speak in support of the Republican cause. The tryout in Maine has proved to the public of the East that Woodrow Wilson is the weakness, not the strength, of the party in power, and they will wage the campaign accordingly in the remainder of the country. Thus have the people at the ballot box exploded a political myth—the myth of Woodrow Wilson.

A president who is too proud to fight should also be too proud to quarrel.

Costly Peace.

Carranza's demand for $200,000,000 indemnity for our invasion of Mexico, following the disclosure that it cost $100,000,000 to chase Villa to the tall timbers, creates the impression that the peace of which the Democrats boast is costly enough to be considered a luxury.

Something They Overlook.

It never seems to occur to Democratic speakers and papers that the voters have some intelligence and that they resent being insulted.

BIRTHS IN STATE EXCEED DEATHS

TYPHOID FEVER IS MOST PREVALENT DISEASE IN ALABAMA DURING AUGUST.

STATE CAPITAL HAPPENINGS

Doings In and Around the State House Chronicled for Our Readers.

—Montgomery.

Alabama's birth rate was more than twice its death rate during August, according to statistics prepared by the state department of health. During August, 4861 birth were reported. Of these 3201 were white and 1660 negroes. The total birth rate was 25.1. The white birth rate was 28.2, while the negro birth rate was 20.4. There were 2020 deaths reported, including 1031 white and 989 negroes. The total death rate was 10.4, the white death rate being 9.1 and the negro death rate 12.4.

Agreement Made to Work Convicts.

Officials of the Pratt Consolidated, Governer Henderson and the state convict board reached an agreement providing for a renewal of the state's contract for the operation of Banner mine for a period of five years beginning January 1, on practically the same basis as the old contract.

Governor Henderson announced that a new contract had been agreed on, and stated briefly that the basis, to all practical purposes, was the same as the contract which expires December 31.

"The new contract, however, affords the state a wider latitude in the way of working convicts in mine," said the governor. "Under the new agreement the state is given the privilege of working 50 more convicts. We have about 400 at Banner now, and this gives us the privilege of putting 450 there if it is desired. The price obtained by the state for coal delivered at the tipple of the mine also is a few cents higher, but that is absorbed by certain obligations that the state assumes, one being virtually an offset for the other."

It is understood that the contract price agreed on is 68 cents per ton, against 65 cents in the former contract.

To Teach Convicts.

Plans were completed at a meeting between Dr. W. D. Hubbard, State Chaplain for convicts, and Arthur A. Strock at Speigner, whereby the first school in the Winter's campaign for the eradication of illiteracy from State prisons will be opened at the State cotton mill and farm at Speigner under the personal direction of Mr. Strock.

Already about twenty persons have been enrolled and Dr. Hubbard was informed that several others would be entered soon. Charts and equipment were delivered to the prison Thursday and arrangements will be made whereby a quiet place will be provided for those who desire to study.

Not only will the men, boys and girls be given the opportunity to learn to read and write, but practical lectures on various subjects, which will be interesting to the State's penal servants, will be delivered during the winter months. Dr. Hubbard Thursday said unusual interest is being shown in the work by persons throughout the State.

One lecture will be delivered by Mrs. A. J. Notestine, of Montevallo, the first person to organize a class for illiterates in a prison of Alabama. She accepted the invitation Thursday, following a visit to the prison with the State Chaplain and party. Mrs. Notestine's class grew into a Baraca Bible class, which now has on roll practically every white man confined in the State prison at Aldrich.

Black Named Judge.

W. C. Black, of Troy, has been appointed by Governor Henderson Probate Judge of Pike County, for the short term, which will expire in January. Mr. Black will succeed Judge A. C. Edmondson, who died two weeks ago. He will be succeeded in January by the person who is named in the November election. Governor Henderson decided upon Mr. Black because a fight is being waged by two persons for the long term, each claiming to be the nominee of the Democratic Party.

John F. Key, of Troy, has been given the nomination by the County Executive Committee, but J. P. Wood claims he is the rightful nominee and has continued in the race, his name being submitted for use in the independent column.

Guard at Girard to be Withdrawn.

After a conference with Sheriff Lindsay of Russell county, Governor Henderson announced the withdrawal of eight guardsmen who have been on duty at Girard since the gigantic liquor raids were made there. Sheriff Lindsay personally requested the governor to retain the military guard at Girard, but the executive took the view that the confiscated liquor is in the custody of the Russell county sheriff, and the expense of guarding it should be borne by the county after October 1.

ESTIMATED CROP 11,637,000 BALES

BASED ON CONDITIONS ON SEPTEMBER 25, ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT REPORTS.

ALABAMA SUFFERS MOST

State Makes Poorest Showing With Little Over One-Third of a Normal Crop.

Washington.—The cotton crop this year will be approximately 11,637,000 equivalent 500 pound bales, the department of agriculture announced in its monthly forecast. That estimate was based on the condition of the crop on September 25 which was 56.3 per cent of a normal compared with 61.2 per cent last month; 60.8 last year and 67.2, the ten year acerage condition on September 25.

A yield of 156.3 pounds per acre is indicated.

Condition and indicated acre yield by states follow:

State—	Condition.	Acre yield
Virginia	85	264
North Carolina	61	214
South Carolina	53	162
Georgia	58	162
Florida	48	86
Alabama	36	94
Mississippi	40	114
Louisiana	56	154
Texas	63	161
Arkansas	65	183
Tennessee	68	186
Missouri	67	255
Oklahoma	56	154
California	93	484

The department of agriculture announced that the boll weevil this season has been more destructive to the cotton crop than ever before in the history of the country.

States hit hardest by the weevil are Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Louisiana and Florida. Considerable damage also was done in Mississippi, Oklahoma, Georgia and Tenessee.

COTTON GINNED BREAKS RECORD

Surpasses Figures in 1914 When Largest Crop in History Was Made.

Washington.—Ginning of the cotton crop is breaking all records. Announcement by the census bureau that 4,062,991 bales had been ginned from this year's crop prior to September 25, discloses that all former totals for ginning to that date had been exceeded, even that of 1914, when the country's largest cotton crop was grown and 3,393,752 bales were ginned to September 25. Heretofore, the largest quantity ginned prior to September 25 was in 1911, when it was 3,676,594 bales.

Ginned to September 1 this year amounted to 850,812 bales from that date to September 25 the quantity ginned was 3,212,179 bales. The extreme activity in ginning indicates that the crop this year is much earlier than in former years, but it is pointed out by officials that the quantity ginned to certain periods is no guage of the country's total production which this year from all indications thus far is below the average.

12,000 Messages Sent by One Man.

New York.—An example of the pressure put upon the telegraph companies by the recent activity of the New York stock market, is the sending of 12,000 telegrams by a member of the Curb Exchange in the form of night letters to all parts of the United States. The telegrams filed with the two big telegraph companies are said to constitute the largest single telegraph order ever sent out from this city. The cost is estimated at $6,000.

Capture Movie Submarine.

New York.—A wireless message from H. H. Van Loan, a passenger bound here from Nassau on the steamer Monterey, declares that British warships patrolling in the vicinity of the Bahama Islands have seized "a submarine" owned by a moving picture company, while on its way from New York to Miami, Fla., under the belief that it was a German craft.

Only 21 Cases Typhoid Among 150,000.

San Antonio.—Since May 1 there have b een only 21 cases of typhoid fever among the 150,000 troops in the southern department, according to figures announced by Col. Walter D. McCaw, chief surgeon. The southern department includes all troops from Brownsville, Tex., to Yuma, Ariz., and in Mexico. Colonel McCaw said this record was due to the use of typhoid vaccine treatment, without which, he believes there would have been at least 5,000 cases.

BLAZING AIRSHIP FALLS IN LONDON

German Aerial Fleet Attempts To Raid The Metropolitan And The East Coast Of England

ZEPPELIN FIRED BY SHELLS

The Fourth Airship To Be Brought Down On English Soil

London. — Another Zeppelin raid against London and the east coast of England was made in progress.

An airship was brought down in flames north of London, according to the official statement issued shortly after midnight.

Great crowds cheered the spectacle of the burning Zeppelin as it fell in the London district. The great flare from the burning aircraft was visible for a long distance.

Graphic accounts of the manner in which the Zeppelin—the fourth to be brought down on English soil—fell a victim to Great Britain's anti-aircraft defenses have been received from London's suburbs.

Although the Zeppelin crashed to earth almost due north of London, the spectacle was witnessed by thousands of Londoners.

The official statement regarding the raid says:

"A number of hostile airships crossed the east coast between nine o'clock and midnight. A few bombs were dropped near the coast, but no damage is yet reported."

Four Zeppelin raids on London and the east coast have been carried out in the last month, the more recent attacks being made by airships of the newer and bigger types. On September 2 one Zeppelin was struck while flying over the London district and fell in flames.

Two Zeppelins were destroyed in the raid of September 23. On that occasion the raiders killed thirty-eight persons and wounded 125. The following night in another raid in which the airships apparently escaped without damage, they killed thirty-six persons and wounded twenty-seven.

In the raid of September 2 only two persons suffered death and thirteen were injured.

Russians Resume Drive In Galicia

Petrograd.—The Russian drive at Lemberg was renewed. After a period of comparative inactivity, the Russians inaugurated strong offensive movements north and south of the Galician capital. According to war office report material successes have been won. It is said Austro-German positions were penetrated and that more than four thousand prisoners were taken. The Teutonic forces are offering bitter resistance.

Senator Clarke Passes Into Beyond

Little Rock, Ark.—Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas, president pro tempore of the United States senate, died at his home here. Senator Clarke first complained of feeling ill when he returned to his home from his office, but it was thought at the time that he was suffering from indigestion, and his illness was not regarded as serious. News of his death was a shock to the whole country. He had been sick only a few days, the serious nature of his illness not generally known.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN FRANCE

COMBLES AND THIEPVAL HAVE BEEN STORMED BY THE ALLIES

Success Most Important Won By Allies Since They Began Grand Offensive

London.—Combles, the pivotal point in the German line guarding the approach of Bapaume, on the north, and Peronne, on the south, of the Somme, has fallen before the terrific attacks of the French and British, the Germans fighting to the death or surrendering when there was no longer hope.

French and British troops swept in from three sides after their capture of Morval and Fregicourt, broke through the German defense, overran the town and carried all before them. This place, with its marvelous subterranean passages and powerful fortifications, had been caught in the grip of the entente allies, who, coming from the north and the south, had already advanced far beyond it and cut off communication with the rear except a narrow strip, which was covered by the allied guns.

At the end of the fighting the town was filled with the bodies of German who had fallen fighting, the French official statement says.

Prior to the loss of Combles, the effect of the victories of the French and British armies, in the capture of important strategic points on the previous day, was reflected in the official communication issued by the German war office, which, after describing briefly the great artillery bombardment of the entente allies, lasting four days and the attack between the Ancre and the Somme, admits that "the conquest of the villages on the line of Gueudecourt must be recognized," and adds, "but before all we must think of our heroic troops, who faced the united Anglo-French principal forces and the massed employment of material of the whole world's war industry, prepared during many months."

Both Thiepval at the northwest end of the British line and the fortified town of Gueudecourt, northwest of Les Boeufs, have fallen

BOMBS RAINED ON BUCHAREST; MANY KILLED

Two-Thirds Of Victims Of Aeroplanes Of The Teutonic Allies Were Women And Children

Bucharest.—Sixty persons were killed and a large number wounded in Bucharest by bombs dropped from a squadron of aeroplanes of the Teutonic allies, and five others were killed later by bombs dropped on the city from a Zeppelin, according to an official communication issued here. Two-thirds of the victims are declared to have been women and children.

The statement says:

"A squadron of enemy aviators dropped bombs on Bucharest yesterday afternoon. No military building was hit, but sixty persons were killed and a large number wounded by bombs falling on a sanitarium and an orphanage. Two-thirds of the victims were women and children.

"On the night of the 25th a Zeppelin dropped bombs on Bucharest, killing five children. Our aircraft have bombed camps in Transylvania."

36 Killed In Zeppelin Raid

London.—Thirty-six persons were killed in a Zeppelin raid, it was announced officially. The announcement follows: "Seven airships raided England last night, and in the early hours of this morning. The districts attacked were the south coast, the east coast, the northeast coast and the north midlands. The principal attacks were aimed against the industrial centers in the last mentioned area."

Germans Release Detained American

Washington.—Consul General Skinner at London cabled the state department that Isador Polak, the American citizen taken off the Dutch steamer Prinz Hendrik, when the vessel was carried into Zeebrugge by a German warship, had been released and now was at Amsterdam.

Villa Men Killed In Great Batches

El Paso, Texas.—Wholesale executions are taking place in Chihuahua City following the Villa attack, it was announced at military headquarters here. Five hundred Villa adherents have been executed since the fight, the report to Gen. George Bell, Jr., states, and many others have been imprisoned. General Bell also has a report of a skirmish at Arena, ten miles south of Juarez. He says wounded Carranza soldiers have been brought back to Juarez from that station, probably from Chihuahua City.

GERMANY IN WAR UNTIL SHE WINS

Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg Tells The Reichstag There Must Be No Thought Of Peace At Present

DENOUNCES GREAT BRITAIN

Charges That England Hopes To Build World Dominion On The Ruins Of Germany

Berlin.—Germany will persevere until victory is here, the reichstag was told by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the full text of his speech, which was published here. The chancellor declared that this year's harvest had made Germany's position much more secure than was the case last year.

In his attack upon Great Britain, he declared that that country was breaking one international law after another and was above all German's "most egotistical, fiercest and most obstinate enemy."

"A German statesman," he said, "who would hesitate to use against this enemy every available instrument of battle that would really shorten this war—such a statesman should be hanged."

The chancellor declared his contempt for those circulating reports that all Germany's means of fighting were not being employed to the fullest possible extent. He added that "in order to disappoint the enemy, who is on watch for every breach of our inner determination," he would not give details.

Persevere And Win

"When in August, 1914," he went on, "we had to draw the sword, we knew we had to protect our hearths and homes against a mighty and almost overwhelming coalition. Ardent, and until then unknown and often ignored, patriotism flamed up in all hearts, defying death and certain of victory. Today, after two years of fighting, struggling, suffering and dying, we know more than ever before that there is only one watchword, namely, persevere and win. We will win. Last winter there was pusillanimous anxiety as to whether our foodstuffs would suffice. They have sufficed. This year's harvest make us much more secure than was the case last year."

Attack U. S. Neutrality

Immediately on the heels of the utterances of the imperial chancellor in the reichstag concerning the submarine campaign, the afternoon papers generally printed criticisms of the neutrality of the United States, based on the news of the death of the American aviator, Kiffen Rockwell, and the presence of other American aviators on the western front.

They connect this evidence of American sympathy for the entente allies and the supplying of war materials by firms in the United States as an indication of the futility of concession to the American standpoint with regard to submarines.

$400,000,000 IN GOLD FOR THE UNITED STATES

Still To Come From Europe And Canada According To Director Of Mint

Kansas City, Mo.—The gold imports from Europe and Canada that yet may be expected to come into the United States were placed at $400,000,000 by F. J. H. von Engeliken, director of the mint, Washington, who spoke here at the opening session of the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association. He declared these figures had been given to him by financial agencies of the entente allies in this country.

"We are melting up and turning into American money millions of dollars' worth of English sovereigns and French 20-franc pieces," the director declared.

P. W. Goebel of Kansas City, Kan., was elected president, and Oliver J. Sands, of Richmond, Va., was re-elected chairman of the insurance committee.

Frederick E. Farnsworth of New York was elected general secretary, and E. M. Wing of La Crosse, Wis., treasurer.

Knobloch Caught After Long Chase

New York.—After a search by federal secret service agents which has extended over the entire country, William Knobloch, who escaped from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, August 29 with "Lieutenant" Robert Fay, convicted bomb plotter, was arrested here. He professed ignorance of the present whereabouts of Fay, and declared they had no outside assistance in making their escape. Knobloch had been trailed for three days by secret service men in the hope that he might communicate with Fay.

GREECE TO ENTER THE WAR

WITH HIS THRONE TOTTERING KING OF GREECE YIELDS TO WILL OF PEOPLE

Former Premier Says He Is Not Moving To Overthrow The King Nor The Dynasty

London.—The council of Greek ministers has decided in agreement with King Constantine upon military co-operation with the entente powers, says a dispatch from Athens.

The Greek battleship Hydra has joined the allied fleet, according to reports.

There is an unconfirmed report, the dispatch adds, that the Greek battleships Spetsai and Psara and four Greek destroyers have also joined the combined Anglo-French naval forces under Vice Admiral du Fournet in the Mediterranean.

King Constantine received an exhaustive report from General Moschopoulos, chief of the general staff, detailing the chaos in the military organization of the country caused by the departure of so many officers to join the Anglo-French allies and advising the immediate declaration of war by Greece without waiting either the assistance or the insistence of the entente powers, as the only way to save the situation.

Greece Facing Great Crisis

Athens.—Despite the profound popular belief that the country is facing the greatest crisis in its history, calm expectancy reigns in Athens. The Venizelist papers publish declarations which the former premier left prior to his departure, in which he says the movement he heads is not revolutionary, but purely of national character, and that he has no design upon the integrity of the actual government of the country. M. Venizelos declares that his course is the only way by which national unity may be preserved and that he will struggle for the salvation of Greece without the aid of the constituted government, if the government will not act. But if the king decides to defend Hellenic soil against the invaders he will be glad to turn over the forces he has gathered to co-operate in a common effort to save the country.

JAPAN TO DEMAND ADMISSION OF JAPS

Nipponese Government Insists Removal Of Restrictions Is Necessary To Her Statehood

Washington.—Japan's purpose to renew after the European war her contention for the right of her people to emigrate to and own land in the United States, suggested in New York by Baron Yoshiro Sakatani, former finance minister in the Tokio cabinet, was frankly admitted at the Japanese embassy. Negotiations over these questions, which came to a deadlock, two years ago, are not regarded by Japan as concluded, it was explained, but merely postponed while the larger issues of the war are being dealt with.

The deadlock followed a long series of conferences between former Secretary Bryan and Baron Chinda, then the Japanese ambassador, and an exchange of notes between the two governments over the alien land legislation enacted by California. After the state department had pointed out that under its constitution the United States government could do no more than seek to prevent such legislation and that persons affected by it had recourse to the federal courts, Japan closed the exchanges with a note saying her complaint had not been answered and reserving "for the present further discussion of the issue."

Position Of Japan

It has been generally assumed that the issue would remain in abeyance only while Japan was occupied with the war, but until now no one in a position to speak with authority has said so. There will be no formal discussion of the subject at least until the arrival of the new ambassador, Dr. Amoro Sato, who was appointed when Baron Chinda was transferred to London, and who is expected in Washington in a few months.

Gang Loots N. Y.-Chicago Train

Detroit.—Michigan Central passenger train No. 14, known as the New York-Chicago Express, bound from Chicago to Detroit, was held up by a gang of robbers near Dearborn, eighteen miles west of here, late at night, and robbed it.

Thousands Of Germans Captured

Paris.—The twenty-mile battle-arc running from the Ancre river to the Somme is rapidly being transformed by the great offensive of the entente allies into an irregular triangular wedge in the German line, with the bases respectively in front of Thievpal and west of Peronne, and the point projecting across the Bethune road and into the St. Pierre Vaast wood. Ten thousand prisoners have fallen into the hands of the British in the last fortnight's fighting on the Somme front, according to London.

Admiral Vreeland Goes Into Unknown

Atlantic City, N. J.—Rear Admiral Charles Edward Vreeland, U. S. N., retired, died at a hotel here from heart disease. He had been ill for some time and came to the seashore about a month ago in search of health. Rear Admiral Vreeland was a native of New Jersey. He was born March 10, 1852, and was appointed to the naval academy on July 27, 1866. He served twenty-five years on the sea and was appointed a rear admiral in December, 1909. In March, 1914, he was retired upon attaining the age of 62.

ACT WENT BIG UNTIL ENCORE

Actor's Assisted Exit Is Surrounded by Rather Violent Circumstances.

GETS THE BOSS' GOAT

Saloonkeeper Borrows Twenty-Five Cents to Give Panhandler Who Comes Back Next Day and Demands Remainder of Dollar.

New York.—The hurried battering to and fro of a squeaky swinging door and the gentle thud of an actor en route from the bar to the pavement are sounds not unusual on, in and around Broadway—especially if it is a bad actor. The other day, however, an assisted exit was surrounded by such violent circumstances that a rather large audience gathered.

In this case the door was removed entirely, the actor went further, landed harder and bounded higher than usual and the remarks of the sole owner of the premises were nothing short of exquisite in their variety and intensity.

Violence Ensued.

Inquiry within the damp room brought forth no satisfactory explanation. The customers had noticed a well-dressed young man walk over to the owner and say about five words to him. Then the violence which ended with the young man's excursion out into the open began. This being so, there was nothing to do but to ask the boss about the mystery. He was approached as he sat having his shoes shined as if in an effort to begin life anew after a moment of horror. He told all—freely.

"Last night," he said, in a totally unconscious imitation of Lew Fields, "that actor came in here and began acting. He said he had just come back from the West and that he was as flat as a cookie and needed a dollar. I told him I needed a dollar. I told him I hadn't even the sport of going West and that I needed a dollar bad. I'd accept fifty cents even.

"Well, then he began acting. He rolled his eyes and asked if I was going to let him stay in the street and asked me where was my heart and if I had a soul, and, if so, what was the idea.

Worried the Boss.

"I couldn't get rid of him. Every time I waited on a customer he ran along in front of the bar parallel with me and asked me how I could act that way and if he hadn't been a good fellow when he had it. I never knew him when he had it. Well, anyway, he pleaded, demanded and talked about that dollar until one o'clock in the morning. When I started home he started after me.

"Up at the corner he asked me, throwing his arms out wide, if I realized that there was one above looking down on me and watching what I was going to do about the dollar.

"Well, I can stand just so much. I didn't have a cent in my pocket, but I called to a hackman I know and asked him if he would let me have a quarter. He gave it to me and I gave it to that blockhead and told him that if I ever saw his face again I would knock him from under it. I bid him good-by forever in this life."

The boss paused.

"Well?" was the natural inquiry, "what happened today?"

The boss hissed through his teeth.

"He came in and asked me for the seventy-five cents I owed him."

KNIFE IN BRAIN A YEAR, RECOVERS

How Blade, Penetrating Man's Skull, Was Removed, Told by Brooklyn Surgeon.

New York.—How a knife blade one inch long which had penetrated a man's skull and entered the brain was removed after one year and the man restored to health is told of by Dr. Mathias Figueira of No. 14 Stuyvesant avenue, Brooklyn, one of the head surgeons at St. Catherine's hospital, in a paper published in the current issue of the Long Island Medical Journal.

The man was found by police in the street, apparently intoxicated, and was sent to the hospital. He remained in a semi-comatose state and the following morning in the course of examination Doctor Figueira passed his hand over the man's head and discovered a lump.

The lump, Doctor Figueira writes, was "about two inches from the middle of the upper part of the right parietal bone. The lump was not hard and on palpitation had a peculiar grating sound which I could not explain. He was sent to the X-ray room and the radiographic picture disclosed the vault of the skull and sticking into it was the blade of a knife one inch long."

When the man was placed on the operating table it was found that the knife had been broken off flu... the skull and the su... get hold of t... operation Doctor Figueira ...s:

From the constant motion of the brain with respiration and the action of the heart that knife blade, which was fast in the skull, had gradually loosened in the bone, so it moved with the brain. The bone had become absorbed by the constant beating of the brain and around the knife blade nature had built a wall of connective tissue to protect the brain."

BEDLAM IN A COUNTY JAIL

It Is Started by a Prisoner Calling for Drugs—Other Inmates Are Crazed.

Camden, N. J.—With one prisoner calling for drugs to quiet his nerves, a second so crazed by the excitement that he had to be strapped to his cot, and a third in the nude parading the corridors, pandemonium reigned for two hours the other morning in the Camden county jail.

Joseph Smith of Benson street, arrested for the stabbing of a sailor in this city August 12, started the disturbance. He refused to take the medicine offered him by the keeper and kept calling for drugs. Winfield Latch of Haddonfield, an alleged embezzler, became crazed by the noise and it required two policemen to strap him to his cot.

A third man, whose name is not known to the police, and who was admitted with his clothes dripping wet as though he had fallen overboard, got out of his cell during the excitement and paraded the corridors in his birthday suit.

Threatened men live long.

There are tricks to baffle everything but death.

The scalded cat runs away from cold water.

The Progressive State Committee of Maryland has endorsed Hughes. In 1912 the combined Republican and Progressive vote in Maryland was bigger than Wilson's. Figure it out.

"The world would be better and brighter if people were taught the duty of being happy as well as the happiness of doing their duty. To be happy ourselves is a most effective contribution to the happiness of others."—John Lubbock.

Wilson, according to his running mate, made a path where there was no trail. But wandering around in the underbrush is not to the taste of the nation, which will be found traveling along the broad highway where Hughes is leading the procession.

Another State where Wilson is [illegible] be stronger than his party is [illegible] how strong his party [illegible] that state may not be said with accuracy—but it is worth remembering that in 1912 Wilson received in Indiana 44,372 less votes than Bryan got there in 1908.

Down at Maple Springs last Friday night a vote was taken for the Republican and Democratic tickets. Out of a house full present all arose in favor of the Republican except three. Two of these three cannot vote, and the other one said by his action that he would not vote for Popwell.

Even the Democrats of this county have come to the conclusion that it will not do to have a Democrat as Probate Judge. They have tried one—the first in twenty years—and found that they won't do for officers. Now the Democrats are trying to elect a Republican. We think the county is safe on getting some improvement in its next term, for we agree with the people who have decided that most any kind of a Probate Judge would be better than a Democrat.

Members of the Executive and the campaign committees of the Republican parties of Chilton county should not overlook the importance of coming to the meeting at the court house on Tuesday Oct. 10, as called by Chairman H. A. Harris. Business of value and interest is to be attended to.

Duluth, Minn., achieved the distinction of having the highest percentage of unemployment of any of the 16 cities in 1915, investigated by the Department of Labor—20.3 per cent of Duluth's wage earners being without work of any kind, and 17.8 working on part time. In other words, every third man was getting a dose of Democratic misrule in the way of curtailed wages or no wages at all. Will Duluth remember that on the 7th of November? You bet!

Of the $2,926,000,000 worth of exports which left this country during the first seven months of the present calendar year, $2,259,000,000 worth or about 78 per cent, went to France, Italy, Russia, Great Britian, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and yet the Democrats have the unadulterated gall to declare that ours is not a war order prosperity. What could the Wilson-Underwood tariff law possibly have to do with it?

It would be a discredit to any man [illegible] set of men to go out on the stump [illegible] with such politics as some individuals [illegible] the Democratic fight are trying to [illegible]. A man who would even take [illegible] of such stuff, and go out and [illegible] with it, would be lessening him[illegible] in the opinion of all well-think[illegible] honest people.

EDUCATIONAL DAY

Through the efforts of Mrs. Lida Jones, Home Demonstration Agent of the county, the Fair Association has designated Thursday, Nov. 2, as Club and Educational Day. A great effort is being made to get every canning, pig and corn club member in the county to be present, as well as every rural teacher and pupils. The Association offers a premium for the school with the greatest percentage of pupils here that day. A parade with floats, etc., is planned and a premium will be given for the pretties float or automobile. The county and city officials, women's clubs and the two city schools will participate in the parade. It will be requested that each grade in the schools be assigned some spcial exhibit to study and write a paper on it the following week.

Special reduction for school children admission will be made.

Everyone who is interested in education and schools and club work in the county should make preparations to come to the fair o nthat day and participate in the festivities. It is an opportunity for our teachers and pupils and club workers to make a grand showing.

SCARCE AS HEN'S TEETH

Popwell men and Democrats are scarce as hen's teeth around Jemison and Collins Chapel, as well as all other communities in the county.

The Editor went to the two places aboved named on Saturday and Saturday night to hear Hon. O. D. Street address the voters in the interest of the Republican party.

Over at Jemison we did not see a single man who came out and declared he was going to vote for Popwell and the Democrats. We heard there were two or three there, but we were informed that they were not brave enough to announce their standing.

At Collins Chapel there was a perfect house full of voters and there was not a single one who dared stand up for Popwell and the Democrats. All but three arose for Reynolds and the Republicans.

CONGEALING, NOT CONGENIAL

Oswald G. Villard was once a bosom friend of Woodrow Wilson and a member of the President's "kitchen" Cabinet. That was when the Great Vacillator was a pacifist. When Wilson became militaristic, Villard became persona non grata at the Imperial Woodrovian Court. Mr. Villard has an article in the North American Review in which he discusses the changed character of the President. After reading it we have come to the conclusion that if we should ever have an opportunity for an audience with this "Human Document," as Lecpnus Daniels calls Mr. Wilson, we would present ourself, attired in a polar bearskin overcoat, sealskin cap, ear-tabs and felt boots. From what Villard says, a man coming from a five minute visit with the genial host now refrigerating at Shadow Lawn, would proceed to thaw in absolute zero, and would need a good stiff drink of liquid air to warm his innards.

"TOO LATE"

The present troubles from the British blockade and from the unwarrantable interference with our trade and with our communications are the direct result of the failure of the Wilson administration to realize the problems of the war at the outset and to meet them. If Mr. Wilson, two years ago, had called a conference of the neutral nations for the purpose of defining neutral rights as established by the law of nations and as recognized by the parties to the conferenec there would have been no trouble in enforcing a declaration to that effect. But the weakness and vacillation which have constantly characterized the administration in the face of any crisis which is not spurious and manufactured for political effect prevented action when action could have been taken without friction—and now it is too late. "Too late" is the epitaph of this administration, anyway.

THE SCHOOL TAX AMENDMENT

Prof. Bean, county supenintendent of education, is making speeches over the county, urging the people to vote for the local school tax amendment to the constitution of the state on Nov 7th.

The editor had the pleasure of hearing him explain the proposition at Mineral Springs Tuesday night, and since looking at his presentation, we do not hesitate to commend it to our rural school patrons as worthy of their honest consideration and hearty support in November.

We would like to urge our citizens to turn out at the several places where our Superintendent will speak on the question between now and the election and hear what he has to say.

We believe that the passage of the amendment means the salvation of the rural school system of the state.

It is a serious matter that our voters should study and be able to vote intelligently on it in November.

The Democratic-Independent "forces," whoever they are, are going out over the county, making speeches in every precinct. They don't say who is going to speak for them or what he will speak about. But we imagine there is going to be a rattling of dry bones when the four "P's" get out to shaking the rag.

HARRIS WAS JUSTIFIABLE.

We believe certain misrepresentations have been made the people of this county through the Clanton Press in regard to the matter of joint discussions between the so-called Democratic-Independent forces and the Republican speakers. Therefore we desire to turn what we deem the true light on the situation. First we will reproduce the Democratic-Independent challenge, which is as follows:

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 16, -916.
Hon. H. A. Harris, Chairman of Republican Executive Committee.
Dear sir:

It is the desire of the Democratic-Independent forces of Chilton county to meet your forces in a series of joint debates between this and the 7th of November, 1916.

Therefore we hereby and now extend to you this written challenge for said series of joint discussion. Trusting that you may be able to have your forces concur, we are,

Yours most respectfully
J. W. STANFIELD
G. C. WALKER
HOWARD ROPER
Committee.

The reply of our Chairman, Mr. Harris, to the above document is as follows:

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 21, 1916.
Messrs. John W. Stanfield, G. C. Walker and Howard Roper, Committee.
Gentlemen:

Your favor, 16th inst., handed me just before my departure for Chattanooga, could not receive my attention until now.

You request a series of joint discussions, but the personnel of your committee, as well as the indefiniteness of your communication, fail to inform me for what you stand or who your forces are. One of your committee only a few weeks ago wrote a letter lambasting the Democrats, and declaring himself a Republican. Will the personnel of your committee be the same after Mr. Roberts' successor in the Post Office has been appointed?

Whom do you represent? Who are your speakers, and for whom will they speak? Will they advocate the election of Mr. W. L. Popwell, and the balance of the Democratic ticket?

Upon receipt of your answer to this communication, I will call our campaign committe together and after conferring with them, give you a definite answer.

Very respectfully,
H. A. HARRIS,
Chairman.

We believe that the answer which Mr. Harris made to their challenge was right and proper in view of the situations surrounding.

Everybody knows that there are certain individuals who have taken hold of the Democratic-Inedpendent campaign in this county, who are conducting a campaign of offense and ridiculousness that arouses the contempt and opposition, not only of Republicans, but also the well-meaning element of the Democratic party. They are carrying out a campaign of personal abuse and mud slinging that our good citizens do not want nor intend to become mixed in.

The indefiniteness of challenge and the manner of its presentation, in the opinion of Mr. Harris, left room for them to put up just such stuff as this for debate; hence his request that they make themselves more definite.

These fellows who are pleased to chase their nasty illusions and abuses from week to week up and down the columns of the Clanton Press are anxious to get before the people with their crazy-quilt tactics; but they know that they do not possess anything themselves to command attention. Through the acceptance of an indefinite challenge like that which they made they would be enabled to get a crowd before whom to exploit their mean personal abuse.

Mr. Harris detected their hidden scheme and called them to explain. Now what answer have they made?

The silence which they maintain shows that their purposes were guessed. And because they could not pull the trick over our campaign manager they grow hot under the collar and call him many bad names by the most disrespectful terms.

When the puny politicians of the Democratic party get ready to submit to the conduct of their campaign on a high plane by honest and worthy means, then they will find the Republicans ready to meet them at any time.

WE NEED IT. WHAT?

That subscription you owe us. That's what we need.

Now while you are selling some cotton, we want to remind you of that dollar you owe for your good old county paper. You know we can't run it always without a little money.

So please remember us as you go along.

We will be mighty thankful.

A WILSON SUPPORTER GIVES UP

As was foreseen, the railroad brotherhoods are appealing to the voters to support Congressmen friendly to the eight-hour law. The goode were delivered when the law was passed. The bill is ti be paid next session. Therefore, "it is important to you that men be elected who are friandly to you." It is no less important that Congressmen should be elected who are friendly to the country at large, rather than partisans of any part or class of it.

Maine has given no sign of supporting the supporters of the eight-hour law, and there is no good reason for supporting that the sentiment of the country on that point is different from Maine.

EUROPEAN INDUSTRY NOT RUINED

That artful dodger, Secretary McAdoo, is trying to convince us that the battling nations of Europe are so near industrial prostration that we need never fear them as competitors in the future, regardless of what may be the disparity in the wages paid to labor in the United States and in European countries.

The British trade report for August shows that Great Britian, in addition to carrying on the war, exported about $425,000,000 more of the products of her mills for the first eight months of this calander year than for the corresponding period last year. Recently Edwards Julhiet made the statement that 79 per cent of all the factories inspected by the French minister of labor six months ago were running, compared with 51 per cent in August, 1914. The U. S. Consul at Bremen reports the financial conditions of that industrial center as good, and much activity displayed in constructing freight steamers. The U. S. Consul at Chemnitz says that "notwithstanding the heavy drain for military purposes there appears to be sufficient labor to meet the demands of the machine and metal factories, which have orders booked in advance for at least 6 months." The laborers who have gone to the front have had their places filled by workmen from the towns and villages and by women.

The one great outstanding factor in the mighty struggle abroad is that it is developing a marvelous efficiency among the fighting units. They will return to the mills after the war is over, schooled in self-denial and obedience, and realizing to a man that the best bet of the land for which they fought is that the output of their brains and brawn shall find a ready market. If we wish to sympathize with them by permitting America to be that market, and American laboring men to pace the streets, we should vote for Mr. Wilson and Mr. McAdoo, who stand for the policy of foreign goods first.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Thursday, Nov. 2nd, is set apart by the Chilton County Fair Association as Education and Club Day.

Under the leadership of Supt. Bean, the public school children of the whole county are urged to be present. The public school of Clanton is to be there to do its part, the high school will be there to do its part, the corn club, the tomato club, the pig club and various club organizations of Clanton and the whole county are being urged to come up to the rescue and help to make this day a day for education indeed and in truth.

Now let me urge that every teacher in the county take steps to organize their school and bring it in a body to Education Day and lets give the children of the county not only a day of pleasure but a day of instruction as well.

Remember the day, Thursday November 2nd.

BUSINESS WORLD AFRAID OF DEMOCRATIC P[illegible]

The report sent out from New York explained that the Maine election had a stimulating effect on the stock exchange. That is significant and should be pondered by the voters of the country. It indicates the sentiment of the business world in the present national contest.

The only reason the Maine electio[illegible] should have a stimulating effect [illegible] the stock exchange is that tho[illegible] with money to invest are encoura[illegible] at increased hope of Republi[illegible] success in November. They are [illegible] couraged by Republican victory [illegible] Maine because they had feare[illegible] favorable showing for the Dem[illegible] crats. They are aprpehensive [illegible] what might come of another Wils[illegible] administration.

It is no new story, however. E[illegible] the most ardent Democratic pa[illegible] san would have difficulty in reca[illegible] ing when the prospect of Repub[illegible] can success did not have a stimul[illegible] ing effect on business, and when t[illegible] likelihood of Democratic victory [illegible] not depressing. The business wo[illegible] never has had confidence in t[illegible] Democratic party, and has not no[illegible] —Indianapolis Star.

MANLY INDEED

They say it was a manly challen[illegible] and a quibbler's reply. Yes, indee[illegible] it was manly. Just about like it w[illegible] a manly act to bargain with a ma[illegible] for a thing of merit, and then pus[illegible] off something rotten on him. PROF. JOHNSON URGES CO-OPERATION OF SCHOOLS

Prof. J. L. Johnson, Principal of the City School of Clanton, enthusiastically urges every school in the county to be represented, and take part in the special educational day to be observed at the County Fair on Thursday, November 2.

STRONG MEN FOR SUFFRAGE

Every party tries to pick its very strongest man to be its candidate for president of the United States. Every one of the presidential condidates this year is an outspoken advocate for Woman suffrage. Alarmed by the growth of the suffrage movement, the president of the National Association opposed to Woman Suffrage has just sent out a statement saying: "The time has come for a country-wide demonstration that strong men, who really represent the people, can be elected to office in America." To "Represent the people," in the sense that is meant by this rectionary organization, a candidate muset favor debarring half of the people from any representation whatever. This year there is no candidate in the field who fills the bill. Anyone who is unwilling to vote for a suffragist, will have to take to the woods.

As for the insinuation that "strong men" do nt favor equal suffrage, when has the country had a stronger president than Abrohom Lincoln, the first prominent public man in America to come out in favor of votes for women?

NOT A FAIR BALLOT

That the railway trainmen did not have an opportunity to vote their real sentiments on the recent strike question, is indicated by the form of ballot, which has been published by the Railway Gazette. The alternative of arbitration was not submitted in connection with the authorization of a strike order.

In the circular of instructions issued prior to the taking of the vote, it was stated that "all members holding seniority rights or actually employed in service affected by this movement will be required to vote." It was also required that the local chairman have each individual employee read the ballot before filling it out, but under no circumstances was he allowed to take it away with him. After filling out the ballot the employee was required to place it in a sealed envelope and deliver it to the authorized person, who was required to write the name of the employee on the outside of the envelope containing his vote. Under such ideal arrangements, every man had to vote whether he wanted to or not, and a perfect could be made on how every man voted.

The circular also contained the instruction, peculiar in view of the wording of the ballot, that "No influence should be used to induce him to sign one way or the other." The ballot read as follows:

"I have personally read the foregoing statement and believe the request for an eight hour basic day with time and one-half time for all overtime worked in all except passenger service a just demand, and hereby authorize the chief executives and general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen to act as my agents or attorneys in dealing for a settlement of these questions, and if the said chief executives and general chairmen are unable to otherwise effect a settlement satisfactory to them, I hereby cast my vote (for or against) a strike."

After reading the above, it is not difficult to understand how comparatively easy it was to obtain a majority in favor of the strike. The employee might have considered the demands just, and bee willing that the chief executives represent him, and yet have preferred arbitration as against the strike. He might have considered the time-and-a-half-overtime proposition unreasonalbe, as many of the men did, but still the wording of the ballot rendered it difficult for him not to indorse it and vote for a strike in case this demand was not granted.

What would have been the vote had the ballot given the men the option of voting, for example, on either of the following propositions:

1. A strike unless given the eight-hour day, and a time and a half for all overtime.

2. No strike, but submit the entire controversy to arbitration.

The leaders would undoubtedly have done their best to have the men vote in favor of the first proposition. But among the membership of the railroad brotherhoods are thousands of thinking men, men with families, and men who would not like to put their personal gains above the suffering and privation of their families and the families of others. How would these men have voted on the above propositions, and porticularly if their names were not required to be on the envelopes containing their votes?

WILL NOT REPEAT

"He kept us out of war" and we are prosperous. The war made us prosperous and if the Democrats wish to claim credit for it they are welcome. They also must then pray for its continuance. War erected a tariff wall about the United States. It forced our own industries. It relieved us from competition in home and foreign markets. It gave us a clean sweep of the world.

Peace will tear that wall down as quickly as war built it up, and Democratic economic principles are hostile to any of the precautions which must be taken to protect the United States from the consequences.

The term of the next president will be more dangerous than the years in which we have had Mr. Wilson. We shall certainly be in war then, an economic war, from which no man can deliver us. No one can keep us out of that. The nation must have some one who can pull it through.

The present administration has not indicated its ability to meet emergency, when circumstances favored us. It has made each danger greater. A voter considering what we have been through and the fashion in which we came through it, may be willing to accept the fact that we got through it, but if he is wise, will not care to repeat the attempt with the certainty of greater danger.—Chicago Tribune.

UPCHURCH WRITES TICKETS

We have been requested to state that from now on, pupils of the city school will obtain their monthly tuition tickets from Mr. E. E. Upchurch instead of Mr. J. PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

From the Minneapolis Journal.—

We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriation of recent republican congress, which have kept taxes high and reduced purchasing power of the people's soil. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy, which befits a democratic government, and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.—Democratic National Platform, 1912.

Here we have the promise. What has been the performance?

The Sixty-fourth congress has already spent or pledged to spend $2,000,000,000.

It has voted away the people's money at the rate of $8,000,000 a day for each of the 245 days of its recent session, Sunday and holidays included tI has created 30,000 new offices, many of them useless, and many of them frankly, spoils, placed outside of the merit system.

It has distributed "pork" with an unstinting hand, public buildings, river and harbor improvements and the like.

It has ordered a nitrate plant and ar armor plant, and the purchase of merchant ships to compete with private ownership.

What the deficit produced by such reckless spending is ti be is an administration secret, closely guarded till after election. We shall then be informed of how many bonds must be sold by the treasurer to banance its accounts.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 8

PAUL BEFORE FELIX.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Herein I also exercise myself to have a conscience void of offense toward God and men always.—Acts 24:16.

This is a court scene, and it might be well with certain classes to introduce the lesson by describing such a gathering. The lesson occurred five days after the last lesson, and twelve days after Paul reached Jerusalem, bearing the collection for the poor. The place, Caesarea, was the Roman capital of Judea.

I. The Prisoner's Examination (vv. 1-9). In addition to the Roman governor, Felix, attired in his gorgeous official regalia, on a platform nearby, were the high priest of the Jews, in his highly colored and jeweled robes, the lawyer, Tertullus, in his Roman toga, and the elders of the Sanhedrin who had come down from Jerusalem to be witnesses against Paul. Of Tertullus it was said that, by his persuasive tongue, he could make white seem black, and could therefore more easily make it appear that Paul was "a danger to the Roman power, and not merely a turbulent and renegade Jew." The judge, Felix, was an exceptionally bad governor, who two years later was recalled by Nero to Rome. The inference of verse two is that Paul was an inciter of rebellion and robberies, but the exact charges were three-fold: (See vv. 5-6) (a) that Paul was a mover of insurrection; (b) that he was a ringleader of a sect of Nazarenes who were causing trouble in the province: and (c) that he had profaned the Jewish temple at Jerusalem. The charge of insurrection would be especially obnoxious to Felix who had just been praised for keeping peace in his dominion. That of being a leader of heresy was not serious, for the Romans had no desire to interfere between one Jewish sect and another, but it led to the last one, viz., profaning the temple. The Romans had legalized the Jewish ritual, and for Paul to profane the holy place would be a serious outrage. The weakness of Tertullus' case was that he produced no evidence to support his charges. The accusers were there, but they had no witnesses.

II. The Prisoner's Defense (vv. 10-21). Paul cheerfully made his defense, for he knew the Jews and their customs, and that Felix had married a Jewess, (v. 24). We might consider this defense first negatively and then positively. On the negative side, Paul answers each charge seriatim. In the first place there had not been time for him to cause an insurrection (v. 11). Going back over these days; (1) his arrival in Jerusalem (21:15); (2) his appearance before James (21:18); (3, 4, 5 and 6), the days of his vow (Ch. 21:26, 27); (7) his arrest; (8) his appearance before the Sanhedrin; (9) the conspiracy and his deliverance; (10, 11, 12 and 13) in Caesarea (See Ch. 24:1). Paul's statement showed that the whole story of his experience was fresh in the memories of both friends and foes. It was the Jews who did the stirring up. Paul answers the second charge by acknowledging, (vv. 14-16) that he belonged to the Christian way of salvation, but denied that this was heresy. Paul was a true Jew and a good Pharisee, for (1) he worshiped the same God (v. 14); (2) he believed in the Jewish law and prophets. From them he knew he could prove that Jesus was the Messiah. (3) He agreed with the Pharisees (v. 15) in hope toward God, a resurrection from the dead and immortal life. Paul's life was "void of offense" toward God in heart and worship, and toward men as shown in good deeds. It was for this that he exercised himself. Literally, he worked upon the raw material, disciplining and training it. Paul answers the third charge by a simple denial that it had actually taken place, and calls for witnesses. Positively, Paul explains that he had followed the God of his fathers, that he believed in fulfilled prophecy—literally the resurrection of Jesus from the dead—that he came to Jerusalem with alms for the poor, and, as before the council, he stands upon his integrity.

III. The Judge's Delay (vv. 22-27). Felix had a "more perfect knowledge of that way." We believe he had secured this knowledge from Philip, the evangelist, and from Cornelius, the Roman centurion, both of whom lived in Caesarea. By deferring his decision, Felix avoided an outrageous injustice to Paul, and at the same time gave serious offense to the troublesome Jews who knew of his evil conduct. From verse twenty-three we see that Paul was given liberty, literally such indulgence in freedom as would be consistent with his safety. Luke, the physician, and Philip, the evangelist, visited him here, bringing food, books and letters. After a time Felix and his wife, Drusilla, sent for Paul to talk with him "concerning the faith in Christ." Drusilla was a daughter of Herod Agrippa I (vv. 12-23), and a sister of Herod II (See Ch. 26). She was a beautiful woman, much younger than Felix who was possibly about sixty years of age. She and her only child perished in the eruption of Vesuvius.

In Woman's Realm

One of the most interesting gowns among those displayed at the season's initial style show tempered the airy frivolity of net skirts with a rich overgarment of embroidery. This overgarment was a bodice and panel combined, and was sleeveless. The colorings were in the blues, greens, bronze and black of the peacock feather, which inspired the designer in a courageous effort to imitate the gorgeous achievement of nature. The effect was splendid, and a big peacock feather fan finished off the toilette. Comparison was therefore easy and the embroidery did not suffer.

DINNER GOWN IN PEACOCK COLORING.

Judging from this frock, skirts remain as full as they have been, but are not artificially distended. They are a little lengthened, and this feature of the new modes may be emphasized as the season advances. The bodice is in reality an extended girdle, and the fate of the evening bodice appears still to hang in the balance. A few daring models are displayed in which there is next to nothing at the back of the waist.

In the beautiful frock pictured the details of the toilette include a little silk variety bag. These small, brilliant necessities of life seem to be with us always in one form or another, and they are attached to fans, umbrella and parasol handles, walking sticks, etc. They are small, elaborate affairs, made of ribbon or silk in the richest weaves, and ornamented with tinsel laces, beads, embroidery, and needlework, with metallic threads. Even garters are required to support small cases made of ribbon to match them.

Those who are in touch with present styles need not be told that there is an immense variety in the designs in which practical coats are made. Certain style features are present in all of them. But to suit individual taste there is a wide choice in materials and in colors and especially in the construction of the garment.

As to the general style features of the new coat: First, they are long, in many cases quite covering the dress; they are made of heavy material, and the most interesting innovations in cut and decoration are to be found in the back of the garment. In colors, besides the staple, standard shades that are always correct, there are popular and stylish new colors. Among them the dark, purplish reds, mole, and certain peculiar greens are important.

Now that the time has come to make a choice, this wide variety in design promises a becoming coat for every type of figure, and the newer colorings may be experimented with, at least to test their effect upon the complexion.

Two very practical coats are shown in the illustration. Besides coats of this kind there are those that hang free from neck to hem, and cape coats, to be considered. The detachable cape is featured on some of the smart late models. Comfort to the wearers is assured in the large turnover collars and the ample pockets that are everywhere in evidence.

Except for buttons, there is very little in the way of ornament on the tasteful coats designed for everyday wear, and even these are sparingly used. But this is because ornaments are not needed. Attention is centered on new departures in the cut of collars, pockets, belts, and in the construction of the garment.

What the Doctor Knows

KIDNEYS MUST BE RIGHT TO INSURE HEALTH.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's Disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in one year, in the State of New York alone. Therefore, it is particularly necessary to pay more attention to the health of these important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

When your kidneys require attention, get Swamp-Root at once from any pharmacy. It is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

Didn't Want Much.

One Saturday night a lady who possessed a fruit and vegetable shop hurried to serve her last customer, a very red-faced woman.

She asked for a penny's worth of vegetables, and wanted a piece of everything.

When she had been given what she desired, she politely asked if they could be wrapped in a piece of paper and tied with a string.

The shopkeeper turned to her, quite calm, and said:

"Wait a minute, and I will run across to the butcher's for a bone, and I think that will complete your Sunday dinner."

Tabloid Aeroplanes.

The British reason, quite logically, that the smaller the aeroplane and the faster it can fly the less danger of its being hit by shots fired from earth. So the British airmen favor an unusually small machine, which they call the "tabloid." A very light frame is fitted with an 80-horse power motor, which will drive the frail machine through the air at the rate of 100 miles an hour. The engine is covered with armor. The aviator seeking to drop a bomb on the enemy approaches his target at a height of 5,000 feet. When straight above it he turns the nose of his machine straight down and drops at terrific speed. When within 500 feet of the target he drops his bombs as quickly as possible and then shoots skyward at a tremendous pace. —American Boy.

"There's a Reason"

MAKING the FARM PAY

By C. I. BRAY

Man Feels Independent When He Has a Good Herd of Cattle.

BUILDING UP A DAIRY HERD

Generally speaking, there is no best breed of dairy cow, although some are better for certain purposes than others. There are first-class cows in every breed, and also many unprofitable ones. Success depends more upon the selection of profitable individuals than upon the breed. The Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey and Ayrshire breeds are considered the standard special-purpose breeds, and the Red Polled, Shorthorn and the Brown Swiss the most common dual-purpose breeds, being used to some extent for beef production. The Jerseys and Guernseys are considered most economical for production of butterfat, and the Holsteins and Ayrshires are considered more profitable for milk production. The Holsteins should be kept on good pasture and on heavy rations. Profitable animals must be selected on basis of performance (shown by milk and butter records) and developed by care and good feeding. The beginner should consider his market carefully, select the breed he likes best from those most suited to local conditions and then stick with that breed, building up his herd by selection.

The dairyman, to be successful, must keep only such cows that pay a good annual profit. Many cows do not pay for their feed, while others may pay from $5 to $50 per year over expenses. The unprofitable cow is worth only what she will bring on the butcher's block (about $30). The cow that produces $50 profit over all expenses is worth ten cows that produce no profit, both as a breeder and producer, and should at least be valued at $100 to $150.

Breeding Better Than Buying.

Some dairymen buy fresh cows, breeding to a common sire and selling the young stock and old cows to the butcher. Others breed their own stock, use good sires, keep milk records and develop heifers from their best stock. The first method has only one advantage, that of allowing the dairyman to use all his pastures and buildings for cows that are milking. Recognizing the value of a good cow, the dairyman should always be prepared to buy one that is better than what he has, but it is much safer to depend on breeding up his own herd. The man who depends on buying gets cull stock, usually, unless he pays much more than it would cost to breed it himself. He also runs a big risk of buying diseased cattle with tuberculosis or contagious abortion. The man who breeds up his own stock can develop his heifers to good advantage so that they will be quiet and gentle and also healthy. He will usually be able to build up a good herd more surely and quickly.

Sire Is Half the Herd.

The sire is half the herd, but if he is a good one he is pretty near all of it. Grade cows may range in value from $25 to $250, and the sire that can produce the latter kind is worth many times more than the one that produces the $25 kind. If a heifer can be produced that, when mature, will give 50 to 100 pounds more butter or 1,000 pounds more milk per year than her dam, the annual profit from such a heifer will accordingly be from $10 to $25 more than from the foundation cow. If ten such heifers were raised every year, the increased profit will be $100 to $250 more per year; if 20 heifers are raised, $200 to $500 will be gained each year by using a good bull. Consequently it is hard to understand how a progressive dairyman can afford to let a difference of $100 or so in the original cost of a herd bull stand between him and an additional annual income of $500. Yet dairymen will buy $25 scrub bulls that are worse than useless as improvers of their herds, while purebred males costing $50 to $150 more would pay for themselves many times over in the increased value of the young stock produced. The sire that cannot increase the value of the herd is dear at any price. While the owner of a grade herd may be justified in buying as high-priced a sire as the breeder of pure breeds, a good animal will always be cheapest in the end.

Selection of Dairy Sire.

Only a purebred sire should be used, from ancestors of known merit and of good breed type, masculinity and constitution. Select, if possible, the son of a first-class dairy cow as the characteristics of the dam are most likely to be reproduced in the heifers of the next generation. The best indication of the value of a bull is the character of his offspring, and this is the safest and surest guide. Many aged bulls with good records and splendid offspring are sold at bargain prices to avoid inbreeding, and afford an excellent opportunity to the man who wishes a good bull at moderate cost. Strength and virility must go with good ancestry to make a good sire. The grade sire should have no place in the dairy herd.

Select Cows on Their Records.

Cows may be selected according to type and apparently by men who are good judges, but the only safe and sure basis for selection is the annual milk record.

The keeping of milk records in all parts of the country and in all classes and kinds of herds has shown:

1. That some herds make large annual profits while others make none.

2. That in the best herds there are usually some unprofitable cows, and very many such in the poorer herds.

3. That without records the owners of the herds could not tell with any degree of accuracy which cows were paying profitably and which were not.

4. That many dairymen would have made a greater yearly profit had they sent their herd to the butcher at the beginning of the year, thus saving half their feed and labor expenses and getting all the profit from their best cows.

A fact worth noting is that several world's record cows of different breeds, now worth thousands of dollars each, were sold to their present owners for small sums by men who had not taken the trouble to find out what kind of cows they were keeping.

Scrub Cow Which Lacked $1,954 of Producing Enough Milk to Pay for Her Feed and Care in One Year.

Essential to Keep Records.

It is difficult, therefore, to see how a dairyman can afford to run the risk of keeping unprofitable cows by refusing to keep records. A merchant who could not take time to keep books would soon go bankrupt; and business methods must be the rule on the dairy farm if a profitable business is to be built up. Even if it should take one week's work in a year to keep a good system of records, the time will be well spent if the work of the year were to result in an annual profit of $1,715, or a loss of $539 as a consequence of keeping records or not keeping them. The time required is really very small. The milk record is the dairyman's barometer; by means of it he can keep checked up on his individual cows, on his milkers and on his system of feeding. By means of it he will notice any increase or decrease in milk flow, and in the latter case be able to avoid trouble by removing the cause. More interest is taken in feeding the cows carefully when their records are kept. A circular balance scale and a sheet of paper ruled off, together with the Babcock test will do the work. Cow testing associations are doing good work all over the country. From ten to twenty or more farmers may club together and agree to pay a qualified man to test their herds each month, sharing expenses equally. The system is particularly valuable to the men with purebred herds, as they can get their good animals tested for the advanced register. Record keeping helps the dairyman to get rid of his "robber."

Cull Out Unprofitable Cows.

Cows that prove unprofitable should be sold at once. Those paying only a small profit may be kept until better ones are bought or raised to take their places. Young heifers that do not show up during their first lactation period may sometimes make a good showing on a second year's trial. Good cows can often be purchased that will pay for their feed, care and cost prices in one year and return a good profit besides.

HOW TO MAKE COFFEE

By the greatest coffee merchants in the world

With pictures of three wives and what their husbands say of their coffee

There has been a great deal written and said about making coffee, and wherever you go, each woman thinks her way is best. Yet we all know how much coffee varies; good one meal—bad the next—often so bad you simply can't drink it.

Don't be discouraged if you are not getting coffee as fine as you would like to have. Don't be satisfied to drink coffee which is "just medium." A million other women make coffee their husbands brag about, and it is so easy for you to do it.

Instead of coffee which you only put up with because you can't get the kind you would like to have, you can get coffee which every member of your family will enjoy, coffee which every visitor will praise, coffee which you yourself couldn't do without.

Mrs. Jones boils her coffee

How to make Boiled Coffee: the way most people make coffee: Be sure that the pot is clean. Have your coffee ground medium fine, just the size Arbuckles' Ground coffee is. Allow one heaping tablespoonful to each cup of water, with one extra spoonful of coffee for the pot. Put the coffee into the pot, add cold water. Let boil until it is just the strength you like. Settle with a dash of cold water.

The Drip Method, the simplest way: Have your coffee ground very fine, almost to a powder. Use only half a tablespoonful to a cup, with an extra one for the pot. (This method requires only half as much coffee as used for other methods.) Put the coffee in a piece of clean cheese cloth; pour boiling water through it slowly — through once only. Be sure to have water boiling. This does not make as strong coffee as boiling—if you want it stronger, don't make it this way—increasing the amount of coffee won't make it any stronger.

Percolator coffee—the surest method: Use a medium fine ground coffee for percolators, (just the size Arbuckles' Ground coffee is). Allow a tablespoonful to each cup of coffee and one extra; let the water percolate up through the coffee until it is just the right strength. Making coffee this way, you can have it just as mild or strong as you like, and you can rely on its being good every time.

Mrs. Green never uses anything but a percolator

To get these results, the coffee itself must be right and must always be the same

Things you should watch out for

Mrs. Smith makes drip coffee

The coffee itself: There are hundreds of varieties of coffee grown. The coffee itself must be put up by men who know coffee! Arbuckles' Coffee is. It is put up by Arbuckle Bros., the greatest coffee merchants in the world. They can give you the value in coffee which no one else can afford to give.

Clean and fresh: No matter how good coffee itself is, if it isn't well taken care of, it makes a poor drink. Arbuckles' Coffee is put up in sealed, dust-proof packages, carefully wrapped to protect it from moisture, dirt, store odors. It arrives in your kitchen strong, full of flavor.

Always the same: Arbuckles' Coffee today is the biggest selling coffee in the United States. Did you ever stop to think what this means? To think how good a coffee must be to be the biggest seller in the United States? From the moment it was put on the market, it was a success. Today, it is used in over a million homes in the United States.

Beautiful Gifts: We share our profits with you by giving you useful and beautiful premiums for signatures saved from Arbuckles' packages. We buy premiums for over a million users of Arbuckles' Coffee. Buying in such large quantities makes it possible for us to give the greatest premium values ever seen. In every package of Arbuckles' Coffee there is a circular showing our premiums. Be sure to get it and see how quickly and easily you can get what you want, all without any cost.

FORMER DEPUTY GAINS 30 POUNDS

W. H. Chambers Says He Is Now Able To Work After Taking Tanlac

"Yes, sir, it's a fact, I gained thirty pounds on five bottles of Tanlac and I feel like a new man," said W. H. Chambers, R. F. D. No. 2, Pinson, Ala., recently. Mr. Chambers served as a Deputy Sheriff in Jefferson county for about two years and most everybody in that county knows him to be a man "whose word is as good as his bond." He is now connected with the Imperial Coal and Coak Works, at Bradford.

"I'm now able to work," continued Mr. Chambers, "and I want to say that I can hardly estimate the benefit my five bottles of Tanlac have been to me, for it surely put me on my feet.

"I suffered with rheumatism in my back and limbs, and my kidneys troubled me, 'till I would have to be up and down five and six times every night. My stomach was in such a bad shape that I just seemed to stay in a bloated condition, and would have to belch up sour gas and food every time I'd eat anything at all.

"I had to be awful careful with my diet, and my appetite went to pieces. The rheumatism ached me and drew up my muscles, and I was going down hill all the time, and I actually fell off 'till I didn't weigh but 115 pounds; now, after taking five bottles of Tanlac, I weigh 145, and I consider 30 pounds some gain when I think of the condition I was in.

"I tried four weeks in the hospital along last February, but didn't get anyrelief, and when I started on Tanlac a few weeks ago it put me on the mend before I'd finished the first bottle. My kidney's don't bother me at all now, and my digestion is first rate. The fact is, I'm just about normal, and I just feel like telling everybody I meet about Tanlac and what It's done for me. Several of my friends are taking it and getting almost as good results from it as I did."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exculsively by Upchurch Drug Co, in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co, in Thorsby by A. K. HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. DEMOCRATIC RECORD IS BROKEN PROMISES AND ALL PLEDGES UNFILLED

Weak Foreign Policy; Surrendered National Rights; Hypocrisy of Legislation.

"In appealing to the people to return the Republican party to power we have confidence that the record of incompetency of the present administration will make impossible its continuance," declared Representative Thomas S. Crago, of Pennsylvania, in a statement given out here today by the National Republican Congressional Committee.

"One year and five months of Democratic rule found the country with industries paralyzed, the Treasury almost bankrupt, our rights over the Panama Canal surendered, wages reduced, the cost of living increased and our army landed on Mexican soil without excuse of justification," continued Representative Crago, who is Past Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Then the war with Europe. The so-called war tax appears, industry revives because of war orders, high sounding diplomatic notes are written, the cry goes up 'The President has kept us out of war' when in fact every move he made weakened us in the estimation of other nations, for we committed acts of war against a weaker nation, Mexico, and begged a servile truce with nations we knew were strong.

"The weakness of our foreign policies, the record of broken pledges, the surrender of our rights, the useless expenditure of millions and the hypocrisy of Democratic legislation is so broad that the patience of the American people has been severely tested. The Wilson administration went into power proclaiming 'pitiless publicity' and it will leave branded as a gum shoe, secret Cabinet regime.

"The public recalls the fiasco at Vera Cruz and President Wilson's unpardonable act in lifting the embargo on arms that our soldiers should meet death from guns furnished to assassians by permission of our own government. In this so called 'peace' more lives have been lost and more money spent than we sacrificed in the war with Spain. If we are at 'peace' should more than a hundred thousand of our boys be paying the price of war, taken from home and families, to play a game of peace. If we have been kept from war by any magic of the President, then how does it happen that Spain, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Holland and Denmark, countries much nearer the European conflict than we are, have been able to maintain peace?

"With a great flourish of trumpets the Democrats assumed control, and their record is a dismal recital of broken promises and unfulfilled pledges. The issues of this campaign are:

"First, tariff revision by the friends of a protective tariff, and no twelfth hour conversion to the idea of a tariff board can fool the people.

"Second, and Americanism which would put up the United States not only first among other nations, but would protect us from forces within which would destroy the foundation of justice on which our government is founded.

"Third, a readjustment of the fiscal affairs of the goverament to the end that the people, who pay the bills, shall have some say as to the amount and methods of expenditures."

SCHOOL AMENDMENT A NON-PARTISAN MATTER

Jointly Indorsed by Both Parties in Walker County

One of the best things about the educational amendment is the fine acquaintance the people of the state are getting with our public school system. Whatever the material benefits that come to the schools directly from the amendment campaign it is certain that the people are thinking as never before about the opportunities their children have to get an education. It is remarkable that there has been on effort to inject any spirit of partisanship into the campaign, that men in every walk in life, leaders in all political parties, and adherents of all creeds, all see in the amendment the only avenue by which they may hope to provide the funds the state so much needs to secure better schools.

The general attitude throughout the state is indicated by the action of the Democratic and Republican Executive Committees in Walker county, which jointly and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Educational Amendment pending the general election in November is a paramount question to all the people of Alabama at this time; and whereas, it is a measure that does not enter into the political fortunes of any party and does not affect the destiny of any man, but is essentially a measure for all the children of the state and the only means to lift the barrier that stands between the children of the state and the opportunity of a free public school system;"

"Therefore, be it resolved by the Democratic Executive Committee and the Republican Executive Committee in joint meeting assembled that we do most heartily endorse the Educational Amendment and urge all of our people to vote for its adoption on the seventh day of November."

The above action of the Democratic and Republican Executive Committees grew out of a resolution adopted at an educational conference held in Jasper on September 28th, when the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, by the representatives from the counties of Fayett, Franklin, Jefferson, Lamar, Marion, Walker, and Winston in conference assembled at Jasper, as follows:

1. The policy of the State Educational Department as stated to day in this conference by Supt. Feagin, that when the educational amendment goes into effect county boards of education will be urged not to permit marticulation fees, assessments, incidentals, or other charges to be collected in the public schools and the terms thereof shall be lenghtened, has our full approval and endorsement.

2. We rejoice that the time is near when our schools shall be free in fact as well as in name and the children of Alabama given educational advantages equal to those enjoyed by the children of other states."

"THE WAVERLEYS" AT THORSBY INSTITUTE.

The Waverleys, who present the opening number on the Lyceum Course at Thorsby next Thursday, Oct. 19th, will furnish an entertainment which no one within reach of Thorsby should miss. The company consists of Miss Grace Springstead, Contralto and Accompanist, Miss Jean Williams, Reader and Accompanist, and Mr. Thomas Lewis, Baritone.

The program will consist of contralto solos, baritone solos, vocal duets and readings. The contralto soloist will sing a group of Chinese songs in special Chinese costumes. Miss Williams, the reader, an Oxford, Ala. girl, is a graduate of the Columbia College of Expression, at Chicago, and has made for herself an enviable reputation both North and South. Mr. Lewis is a native of Whales. When he first came to America he began work in the steel mills of Pittsburg. His musical talent was discovered by accident. Landing in Chicago, his work came to the atention of Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus who says of him, "Tom Lewis is a whole musical and personal entertainment. We traveled together through all varieties of weather and he sang and I spoke before all kinds of audiences. He never failed to touch the heart and start streams of humor which dashed and played as beautifully and musically as the cataracts in his own Welsh hills!"

This trio will furnish an evening of enjoyment and profit for all who come. Do not forget the date Thursday, Oct. 19th, 7:30 p. m. at Bates Hall, Thorsby, Ala. Tickets for this number will be 50 and 25 cents. Course tickets for the entire six numbers, $1.50 and 75 cents.

Dr. Hopkins of Dothan was in Clanton Sunday and Monday. The doctor is well pleased with his new location in the metropolis of the Wiregrass, and his many friends in Clanton and Chilton county will be glad to learn of his success there.

UNDERWOOD TARIFF LAW A MOST DISMAL FAILURE

Failed to reduce cost of Living and supply Government Revenue

The Underwood tariff law has been the most dismal failure of any revenue legislation in the history of the country.

The Democrats boasted during the campaign "we will reduce the cost of living," "we will take the taxes off the people." The Wilson administration jammed the Underwood tariff law through Congress and in one year more than three million men were out of work, the cost of living was higher than ever before, and it has since steadily increased. The next day after the Underwood tariff law was passed Mr. Underwood said it would do four things: Reduce the cost of living, would not disturbe the business of the country, would increase our foreign trade, and would collect revenue sufficient to run the government. It has done none of these things, so gibly promised.

The Underwood tariff took from the dutiable list and put on the free list cattle, sheep, wool, beef, mutton, corn, eggs, milk, and cream. It put wheat and potatoes on the free list conditionally. It reduced about 60 per cent. the tariff rates on horses, poultry, oats, hay, cheese, and butter. These reductions were followed by a great increase in importations into the United States of foreign farm products. The increase for the fiscal year 1914, nine months of which was under the Underwood law, over the year 1912, was $140,000,000. These importations broke the farmers' markets all over the country. Wheat in American markets declined about fifteen cents per bushel; corn declined about 10 cents per bushel; cattle and sheep declined in price. The Democratic theory was that reduced tariff on farm products would bring foreign farm products into our markets to force down prices to consumers. Foreign products did come and the price to the farmers was forced down. But the prices of food products to the consumer were not reduced. The only beneficiaries of the reduction were the foreigners who shipped the products, and the importers and market manipulators who received them. They did not sell more cheaply to the consumer but their margin of profit was greater. While prices of live stock to the farmer declined, prices of meats to the consumer steadily advanced. The high cost of living continued and has increased ever since.

The law did disturbe business but the President declared it was only a "psychological condition."

The Underwood law did not produce revenue enough to pay the expenses of the government, and a Democratic Congress was compelled to pass the Stamp Tax Act, in time of peace, as a makeshift supplement to the law.

Our foreign trade has increased but the increase has been in munitions and supplies for the warring European nations. What will happen when peace is declared in Europe and the war orders cease?

The Democrats, facing now the situation which every one knows will exist at the close of the European war, have attemped to quiet the fears of the farmers and the business world by their so-called tariff board, costing $300,000 annually. The question is not what a tariff board may recommend, but whether a Congress elected next November believes in protecting American industries, or making a tariff for revenue only.

Intelligent and patriotic voters everywhere have made up their minds to repudiate the incompetent and un-American administration of our affairs.

GOVERNMENT REPORT SHOWS COTTON LESS THAN FOURTH

According to figures complied by Mr. R. J. Jones, special agent of the Government Bureau of Statistics for Chilton county, the cotton crop for 1916 is less than a fourth of what it was for 1915, as seen from the figures of ginners in the county.

The report of the government agent of the number of bales ginned prior to Sept. 25, 1916 was 1124 bales, as compared to 4969 bales ginned in the county prior to the same date in 1915.

From these figures it will be seen that the crop for 1916 is less than a fourth of what it was in the county in 1915.

Chilton County Republicans Bound For a Glorious Victory on the 7th of November

Sturdy and stalwart citizens will cast a free and untrammeled Ballot in defense of their rights and liberties of popular self government—A splendid meeting of over one hundred committeemen presages victory in nearly every precinct in county.

There's no doubt about it, the Republicans of Chilton County in this campaign are awake to the situation, and are on to the tricks of the opposition. They are attired in full battle field rainment and ready to stand by their colors.

There is going to be a reckoning on Nov. 7th in regard to the past six years management of the affairs of Chilton County.

The Republicans know where the blame lies.

They know whom to trust and whom not to trust, and are not afraid to say so.

They are going to sa it loud and clear on Nov. 7th and it will sound mighty good too.

Never was there an occasion in the political annals of Chilton county which indicated the trend of the sentiment of the entire county as did the meeting of the Republican Campaign Committee at the court house on Tuesday.

There is no mistaking the true attitude of the people in the present campaign when viewed from such reliable sources as the aforesaid meeting Tuesday.

It was an occasion designated and called by Chairman H. A. Harris, purposely for conference with the campaign committeemen from the several Beats in regard to the management and ultimate success of the Republican campaign in the county this year.

At ten o'clock, an hour before the meeting was to convene, ninety-five of the sturdy, stalwart, free and independent citizens from every beat in the county were on the ground ready with their hearts and souls in the fight that confronts them. By eleven o'clock, when the house was called to order, over a hundred of the very best of Chiltons blood and brains were present.

Chairman Harris, owing to other business, called on Hon. J. O. Middleton to act as charirman protempore.

Prof. J. W. Moore was made Secretary pro tem pending the arrival of regular secretary F. B. Collier, who came in a short time after the meeting was begun.

The main and most interesting feature of the occasion was the reports from the different Beats of the county by representatives to the meeting and members of the campaign committee.

The reports were called for by Beats, by Chairman Middleton.

Beat 1

This was the only Beat in the county which did not have a direct personal representative at the meeting. A letter from Mr. W. L. House reported that Beat one would from all indications stand by the Republican ticket on Nov. 7th.

Beat 2

This Beat was reported to be stronger than ever before for the Republican ticket. Messrs. J. N. Scott, W. E. Thomas, B. E. Collum and B. L. Cobb made reports from Beat 2.

Mr. Collum offered a resolution from the Beat 2 delegation. It was read before the house by the chairman, and unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Following is the resolution:

Whereas Hon. H. A. Harris, Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee is conducting the Republican campaign in Chilton county upon a high plane:

Therefore be it resolved, that, the campaign committee do hereby declare their approval of the manner in which the campaign is being conducted.

Resolved further that we condemn the manner and method of campaign as being conducted by the Democrats, and especially the personal abuse by them of Judge Reynolds, and we hereby renew and again declare our allegiance and unfaltering loylty to Judge Reynolds in this cmpaign. We here bespeak his good character and condemn the character of campaign of his personal enemies, and declare that all campaigns should be conducted upon a high plane; the fitness of the candidate is more essential and important than the vitupeative abuse of the dissapointed office seekers and their henchmen. We declare that the fight of Judge Reynolds in this campaign is our fight, for us and our liberties. We condemn the crowd who tried to legislate away our liberties at Montgomery, and we hereby approve all that Judge Reynolds and the Republicans of this county did in thwarting their unholy designs.

Resolved further that we condemn the cowardice of the Democratic-Independent forces in their effort to evade the issues involved in this campaign. That the present Judge of Probate was elected upon his promise to run the county economically. We declare that under his administration, the county taxes have been raised from $49,536.13, when Judge Reynolds went out of office, to $84,919 when Judge Deason will go out of office. Think of the inconsistency! Moreover when Judge Reynolds went out of office every warrant holder was promptly paid, but there is not a dollar with which to pay the outstanding warrants today, and the Democratic administration has placed a burden upon us and the coming generations of over $300,000. Will the people shut their eyes to this extravagance, oppression and cowardice? We think not, for when the election is had and the votes counted, it will be two to one against them.

Resolved further that we urge all liberty-loving citizens to do their duty, go to the polls on the 7th of November and see that all our voters are there; that the votes are counted as cast. When that is done, victory will perch upon the banner of Republicanism in Chilton county.

Resolved further that we congratulate the Union-Banner upon the high plane it is conducting this campaign in and through its columns. We hereby endorse and approve all that has been done and urge that it continue in its unbeaten path of duty —disseminating Republican principles and exposing the cowardmce of Democracy.

Resolved further that we condemn the manner and method of the Democratic organ, the mouth-piece of disgruntled and disappointed office seekers and their henchmen. That the campaign as conducted by that paper is personal abuse and vitupeation; instead of fitness for office, honesty and straight-forwardness. That its methods are evasive, cowardly and under-minding. That at one time it defended, along with other democrats, the administration of Deason, but now, with other Democrats, they fail to speak of and defend that administration, not long ago, they stated would go down in history as one of the best. But no wonder! They know the people have not forgotten nor will stand for their county being bankrupted by the Democratic party, as was done by Deason and his crowd.

Beat 3.

J. C. Edwards said this beat was as solid now as it was at primary; he said they had lost nothing but one of the county commissionrs. It was reported that some Democrats over there declare they will vote the Republican ticket. W. F. Deshazo and J. W. Varden made short reports indicating that the Beat will go about even between the Democrtas and Republicans.

Beat 4

W. G. Clup reported from the West side of the Beat. He said it looked solid for Republicans.

T. G. Wyatt and Joe Foshee reported from the east side. They find some who will vote for Popwell but maintain a good majority for Republicans.

W. C. Jones represented the north side of the Beat. He said his community was normally Democratic but many were declaring openly that they cannot swallow the pill this time. Beat 4 will no doubt give the Republican ticket a majority in spite of the fact that it is the Democratic stronghold, and the very nest of the ring leaders of the Democratic-Independent "forces."

Beat 5

Reports from this Beat probably occupied more time and elicited more interest than any other delegation present.

J. Stealey Jones said the Beat had always been Democratic but would break about even this time.

The most notable features of this report were the speeches made by four of the Confederate veterans.

Capt. Samuel J. Andress took his stand on the rostrum and delivered a few forcible words in stinging rebuke of the manners and methods of the Democrats in the present campaign.

Dr. J. C. Christian in his splendid words of truth and eloquence showed a mind of honorable and conscientious conviction in favor of Judge Reynolds and the men of the party who have courage and fortitude to stand for what they believe right, and declare their opinions and positions openly and freely.

Dr. Jackson and Dr. Stone, other Confederate veterans, made remarks of great weight and mighty force against the Democratic machine in this county.

Beat 6

According to reports made by M. F. Lett, J. F. Poole and John Popwell, the Democratic-Independent ticket will be beaten 2 to 1 in Beat 6 which is the home of the man who heads the ticket for Probate Judge. This is exceedingly encouraging for the Republican ticket.

Beat 7

According to statements made by W. Y. Nix and W. J. Carter the Democrats of Beat 7 heve been sick ever since the big barbecue at Maplesville. But it was not because they got too much to eat. They got sick on John Wallace's nigger speech. Gains are steady for Republicans in Beat 7.

Beat 8

Wade Harris reported the Beat normally Democratic. He said no Republicans there would support Popwell, and the ticket would hold its own.

Beat 9

As always before Beat 9 is the Republican stronghold of the county; this time she is going to be stronger than ever. D. H. Gentry, Wiley Gore, Mr. Martin, E. B. Popwell and J. M. Mims made reports from their immediate localities. Beat 9 will go Republican 3 to 1.

Beat 10

It was reported that this Beat will go 100 to 25 for Republican ticket. Everything is in good shape and enthusiastic. Reports were made by Tom Rockett and S. M. Yates.

Beat 11

Cane Creek is solid as ever. Will vote 65 [illegible] 3 in favor of Republican [illegible] R. E. Jones. Squire Dennis had heard of one Popwell man in the Beat but he had so far failed to locate him.

Beat 12

It is enough to say of Beat 12 that Tom Dorminey vouches for her. You knw when Tom J. tells you to set your stakes on anything you are safe. He says Stumps Hills can be counted on for the Republican ticket.

Beat 13

Estimates of this Beat made closely by Mr. Martin and Mr. J. M. Dubose indicate 4 to 1 for Republicans. They say nobody up there for Popwell and the other Democrats.

Beat 14

No complaint against the Republican ticket is to be found in 14 according to opinions of L. G. Posey, Mr. Dawson, T. J. Hubbard and Z. J. Jones.

Beat 15

Gains have been made in 15 for Republicans. She will go 2 to 1 for the ticket. Chas. Edwards, Will Hayes, Jim Short and George W. Williams made good reports from their communities.

Beat 16

It has always been a recognized fact that Beat 16 is the banner republican beat of the county. Only 2 Democratic votes are in the Beat. Jasper Robinson and T. L. Robinson were present and made reports.

Lewis Easterling made a report covering everything from Clanton to Coosa river. He said there were only seven Democrats in the distance of 12 miles.

In Behalf of Veterans

The following resolution was introduced and adopted by the meeting in behalf of the old soldiers who are participating in the Republican campaign:

Whereas many of the Old Confederate Veterans have met with the Republican Campaign Committee today, and are enthusiastically supporting Hon. L. H. Reynolds for the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton county:

Be it resolved by the Republican Campaign Committee of Chilton county that we extend to them our

MANY SHIPS SUNK OFF U. S. COAST

German Submarines Play Havoc With Neutral Shipping In American Territorial Waters

PASSENGERS ARE RESCUED

U. S. Destroyers Pick Up Distress Signals And Save People Who Left Doomed Vessels

Boston:—The submarine arm of the imperial German navy ravaged shipping off the eastern coast of the United States.

Four British, one Dutch and one Norwegian steamers were sent to the bottom or left crippled derelicts off Nantucket shoals.

Under the light of the Hunter's moon, the destroyer flotilla of the United States Atlantic fleet picked up passengers and crews of the destroyed vessels and brought them into Newport, R. I.

So far as known, there was no loss of life, though the crew of the British steamer Kingston had not been accounted for. A submarine held up the American steamer Kansas, bound from New York for Genoa with steel for the Italian government, but, later on establishing her identity, allowed her to proceed. The Kansas came into Boston harbor for her usual call here.

The hostile submarine is believed to be the U-53, which paid a call to Newport and disappeared at sunset. Some naval men, however, declare that at least two submarines are operating close to the American shore, though outside the three-mile limit.

The sensation created when the U-53 quietly slipped into Newport harbor and as quietly slipped away three hours later, was less than the shock in shipping circles when wireless reports of submarine attacks began to come into the naval radia stations just before noon. Within a few minutes the air was literally charged with electricity, as wireless messages of warning were broadcasted along the coast.

The submarine, or submarines, had taken a position drectly in the steamer lanes when they could hardly miss anything bound in for New York or bound east from that port.

Nine Vessels Reported Sunk

Newport, R. I.—The executive officer of the destroyer Ericson, returning from the scene of the German submarine activities off Nantuckett, reported that nine ships had been sunk and [illegible] submarines operating off the coast. This information, he said, he had on the authority of the captain of the Nantucket Shoals lightship.

Three British cruisers arrived off Nantucket Island at 2:40 o'clock in the morning.

Radio messages in code were constantly exchanged by the vessels.

Other cruisers of the allied naval forces were expected in the same waters soon.

Washington Deeply Concerned

Washington.—Submarine warfare at the very doors of the United States with all its spectacular features does not necessarily portend further complications with Germany so long as it is carried on within the limitations of international law.

That is the view of official Washington on the record of one day's operations in which none of the ships destroyed appears to have been attacked without warning or without proper measures having been taken for safety of those aboard.

Academically, at least, in international law, an allied ship destroyed by a German submarine just outside the 3-mile limit and in sight of American shores, is no different than a ship destroyed in the Arctic ocean, provided its destruction is accomplished in accordance with the laws of nations and humanity.

But despite the fact that it seems to make little difference on which particular part of the high seas Germany prosecutes her newest submarine campaign, officials and diplomats see a situation filled with so many possibilities that it is almost impossible to enumerate them so long as commerce in and out of American ports is menaced.

Many Passengers Rescued

Newport, R. I.—Four destroyers of the American flotilla came into the harbor here bringing 216 persons rescued from the ship sunk off Nantucket October 8 by a German submarine. The Ericsson, one of the destroyers to arrive, brouhgt 81; the Drayton, 68; the Benham, 36, and the Jenkins, 31.

Thirty-five women and ten children are among those on the Ericsson. The information came by wireless in advance of the actual docking of the destroyers.

No Order In Letter Brought By U-Boat

Washington.—No official communication from the German government was in the dispatch sent to Count von Bernstorff by Lieut. Capt. Hans Rose, commander of the German submarine U-53. The dispatch, which arrived at the embassy, consisted of a personal communication, in plain German, regarding payment for some supplies the commander of the submarine thought he might secure in Newport. There was said to be no information in it regarding the intentions of the commander.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN RUSSIA

NEITHER SIDE HAS GAINED ANY ADVANTAGE WHATEVER IN GALICIA

Forts Evacuated By The Teutonic Forces On The Dobrudja Front

London.—Field Marshal von Mackensen, who commands the forces of the central allies operating against the Roumanians and Russians in the province of Dobrudja, has ordered the evacuation of the Danube fortresses of Silistria and Turtukai, recently captured by the Teuton, Bulgarian and Turkish forces, says a dispatch from Rome to the Wireless Press.

The reason given for the withdrawal of von Mackensen's forces is that the German commander is in danger of being enveloped by the Russian and Roumanian troops which have crossed the Danube between Rustchuk and Turkutai.

Violent Attacks By Roumanians

Bucharest.—The Roumanian war office has issued the following regarding operations in Dobrudja:

"On the eastern front in Dobrudja our attacks continue violently over the whole front. The enemy is offering a very stubborn resistance."

Bulgaria Planning Attack

Sofia.—The number of Roumanians who have invaded Bulgaria is placed at several battalions by the Bulgarian war office. A statement announcing the passage of the Danube by the invaders says:

"On the Danube near Lianoo, between Rustchuk and Turtukai, the enemy conveyed to our banks in boats several battalions. Measures have been taken to attack this force."

The statement continues:

"In the Dobrudja two Russian divisions attempted twice to advance on the Bechaoul-Amzatsia-Toprais Sari line, but they were compelled to retreat under the fire of our artillery and infantry. There was quiet on the Black sea coast."

Violent Fighting In Russia

Paris.—Violent fighting has been in progress in Russia, west of Lutsk, and in Galicia, in the region of the Zlota Lipa river. In the latter region, neither the Russians nor the Teutonic allies have been able to gain any marked advantage. West of Lutsk, according to news received, the Russians made advances, but Berlin reports that all attacks were repulsed, the Russians suffering exceptionaly heavy casualties.

VISCOUNT BRYCE DECRIES SPIRIT OF HATE ENGENDERED

Against Germans And Talk Of Lasting Trade War—World Machinery Urged To Make Peace

Birmingham.—Viscount Bryce of Dechmont, former ambassador at Washington, addressing the Congregational Union, decried the spirit of hate against the Germans and the talk of a lasting trade war. In conclusion he advocated a league to restrain aggression and compel arbitration.

"If there is to be a recurrence of wars becoming more terrible with the unceasing advance of science," he said, "we may well despair of the future."

Lord Bryce recalled that Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, and Mr. Balfour had expressed energetically and sincerely the need of such machinery, and said that several groups of thinkers were working out the plans.

"To establish any machinery for preserving peace," continued Lord Bryce, "would be impossible without the cooperation of the neutral states and especially the greatest of all the neutral states. We have been waiting and watching to see whether America, in view of the immense interests at stake, would depart from her old policy of complete isolation and bear her part in the effort for securing a permanent alliance for peace.

Steamers Collide During Heavy Fog

Norfolk, Va.—The British steamer, Hawkhead, at anchor in Hampton Roads, off Sewall's Point, was run down and sunk by the Chesapeake Steamship company's bay line steamer City of Norfolk, outward bound from this port for Baltimore with a number of passengers. The City of Norfolk was badly damaged about the bow, but there was no loss of life so far as is known. The collision occurred during a heavy fog.

Carranza Stirs France And Britain

Washington.—Strong protest has been made to the state department by the British and French embassies against the action of the Carranza government in Mexico in seizing the assets of British and French banking institutions in the Mexican capital. These banks are closed as the result of the Carranza decree, and it is declared that the interests of British and French stockholders have been seriously affected. The French interests in the banks are much larger than those of the British.

One Million People Dying Of Hunger

Washington.—The great American relief campaign to be undertaken since the organization of the Belgian relief commission was launched by the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief. An exhaustive summary of the whole Armenian and Syrian situation was made public and will be sent to ministers of 120,000 churches. A fund of $5,000,000 is called for to relief one million starving Armenians and Syrians, scattered over Turkey, Persia, Syria and Palestine.

NO HASTY ACTION WILL BE TAKEN

WILSON WILL WAIT UNTIL ALL EVIDENCE IS IN BEFORE EXPRESSING OPINION.

MUST LIVE UP TO PROMISE

German Government Will Be Held to the Complete Fulfillment of Its Promises to the U. S.

Long Branch, N. J.—President Wilson announced as a result of the German submarine attacks on vessels off the American coast "that the German government will be held to the complete fulfillment of its promises to the government of the United States."

He added that he had no right now to question German's willingness to fulfill the promises.

Just before Ambassador Von Bernstorff called on the President, Mr. Wilson issued the following statement:

"This government will, of course, first inform itself as to all the facts that there may be no doubt or mistake as far as they are concerned."

"The country may rest assured that the German government will be held to the government of the United States. I have no right now to question its willingness to fulfill them."

The President was represented as being deeply concerned, although he had no information from official circles indicating that the promises of the German government had been violated.

Count Von Bernstorff came to Asbury Park before his engagement to see the President and remained for a brief time at an oceanside hotel. He woud not discuss the situation.

It is said the ambassador came here to deliver a personal letter from the German Emperor on the Polish relief. The President declined to distacks off the American coast.

Count Von Bernstorff, following his talk with President Wilson, declared that from information in his possession all the attacks on vessels off the American coast by German submaines had ben conducted in accordance with cruiser warfare.

"Germany has promied to observe the rules of cruiser warfare," the German ambassador said, "and Germany always keeps her promises."

After the ambassador's call, administration officials said that peace had not been discussed, but that the President had brought up the submarine attacks off the Atlantic coast. It was stated that Count Von Bernstorff told the President he had no information from his government on the question, but was certain that the promises already made would be kept.

Much Depends on Wilson's Decision.

Washington.—So much depends upon President Wilson's decision regarding the German submarine operations in the western Atantic, and there are so many possibilities of complications if the U-boat campaign proceeds, that officials here decline to attempt any statement of what the American government's attitude will be. Although state department officials are convinced there has been no violation of international law in the attacks off Nantucket, they realize that prolongation of operations in waters adjacent to the United States might create situations out of which serious diplomatic issues might arise.

Warden Osborne Resigns.

Buffalo.—Thomas Mott Osborne's resignation as warden of Sing Sing was announced by James M. Carter, state superintendent of prisons, here.

Ship Insurance Jumps Sky High.

New York.—Marine insurance rates from American to English ports jumped 1 per cent to 5 per cent in consequence of the German submarine operations. Rates to Havre and Bordeaux increased from 5-8 and 3-4 of 1 per cent to 5 per cent. Some brokers weer asking for transatlantic insurance as high as 10 per cent. and others refused to quote rates at all. To South America and the Panama canal the rates advanced from 1-4 and 1-2 of 1 per cent to 2 per cent.

BATTERIES A AND C ON BORDER DUTY

ALABAMA BOYS BEING PUT THROUGH REGULAR ROUTINE OF ARMY LIFE.

HEALTH OF TROOPS GOOD

Had Enjoyable Trip—Stops Made at Vicksburg, Shreveport and Many Other Places Along Line.

Douglas, Ariz.—Batteries A and C field artillery of the Alabama National Guard—now federalized Militia—are in sight of Mexico.

The boys reached here tired and worn out, however, they stood the journey in splendid shape, not a man being reported on the sick list.

The weather here is excellent, crisp nights and just warm enough in the day to be pleasant.

Complete equipment has been issued and officers and men have settled down to the regular routine of army life and strenuous drill program.

The first leg of the journey was completed when the troops reached Vicksburg, Miss., on the morning of October 5, at 8 a. m. Breakfast had been served and the men detrained for a little leg stretching. Captain Dorrance took his men for a tramp through the city, while Captain Noland took Battery C out in the country.

The train was held at Vicksburg two hours while the men took their morning exercises, which all went at with a vim, after being confined to the coaches for eighteen hours. At 10:30, the train left Mississippi, crossing the river and into Louisiana.

The journey to Vicksburg was made almost without incident.

After leaving Vicksburg, the special ran to Shreveport almost without stopping. Shreveport was reached just after dark, and as supper had been served, the men were taken out for a double quick hike of half an hour.

The hike took the men through the business portion of the town, and the regular cadence of the rise and fall of heels made quite a hit in the town. The people of Shreveport lined up and after taking a good look, broke out into a ripple of applause that followed the batterymen over the town as they passed at the double.

The boys spent the greater part of Friday morning, October 6, looking over Fort Worth.

The first real recreation they had on their trip was at Fort Worth. At Vicksburg where the only delayed stop was made before Fort Worth, the boys were kept at exercises and hikes, and had but little time to themselves. But at Fort Worth, after a few minutes of setting up exercises, the men were given liberty for quite a time, and with certain restrictions were permitted to wander over the city.

Alabama's infantry troop will be stationed at Nogales, N. M., as soon as transportation facilities can be arranged to take them there. This information is contained in an order sent out from Washington following General Funston's plans, received for the disposition of the troops.

It was expected that the Alabama Infantry would be sent to camp close to that of the artillery, but General Funston's order upsets the calculations of those who had supposed that the two branches of the service would be camped near together.

Alabama Leading in Cattle Dipped.

Birmingham.—Alabama is leading in cattle dipped for tick eradication, according to report of the Bureau of Animal Industry for August, which has just been released. Out of 801,109 herds dipped, 147,222 of these were in Alabama. Out of 2,882,283 cattle, 758,038 were in Alabama. Texas was next in the number of cattle dipped, 740,751.

Less than one-half as many Alabama cattle were found infected with ticks than during the previous month, according to R. Jackson, inspector in charge. He says that indications are that 16 counties in Alabama will be relieved from quarantine on account of the work done this year. When these are added to the counties already released, the work in the state will be more than one-third completed.

Large Tracts of Land Are Bought.

Goodwater.—It is reported that two or three recent purchases have been made of graphite lands in this section and that there will be some unusually large ones to follow within the next few days. A great many options on good finds have been obtained and close-outs on some of these are daily expected. A great many outsiders, interested in the graphite industry, are in and out of this section almost daily.

September Iron Make Shows Gain.

Birmingham.—Alabama pig iron production for September was greater than in August, the output last month being given at 218,899.

The production of iron throughout Alabama for the first nine months of the year went to 1,996,206 tons, or just 53,247 tons under what the production the entire 1915 went to, 2,049,453 tons.

The production in October will show an increase of at least 3,500 tons as another blast furnace has gone into operation, and the furnaces in blast are producing the maximum.

Sentence is Begun.

Dothan.—Dan G. Carmichael, under life sentence for killing Policeman H. H. Deshazo of this city, on the night of December 7, 1914, left Dothan in charge of Transfer Agent Corbitt, to begin serving his sentence after an unsuccessful two years fight for a new trial

Carter, a well known farmer, residing in the northeastern portion of the county, has brought to Tuscumbia several large stalks of cotton, more than six feet tall, on which there was scarcely a complete boll, the worm having destroyed them.

Troy.—Four more cars of hogs have been shipped from Troy to Andalusia. One firm shipped 240 hogs and another firm shipped a large number. The hogs were in splendid shape. The census of 1910 only gave Tuscaloosa about nine thousand people but the growth of the city has been very rapid since then and the twenty thousand mark will be reached in short order.

$130 Per Bale Is Paid For Cotton.

Huntsville.—Cotton continues to bring a high price in the Huntsville market and Tennessee farmers who have the fleecy staple for sale are bringing their cotton to this market. A number of bales were sold on the street of Huntsville for 17 cents and seed at $44 per ton, thereby netting something like $130 per bale.

Luverne Doctor is Shot to Death.

Interesting News Budget of Happenings In Various Departments of State.

—Montgomery.

Alabama's general educational fund for the fiscal year, which began October 1, will be $2,136,616.31 or $2.74 per person of school age in the State, according to announcement of the State Educational Department Saturday afternoon. The per capita appropriation is reduced from $2.78, or 4 cents, because of the falling off in tax valuations and an increase in the number of children of school age. In announcing the falling off in the tax valuation, the Educational Department said the readjustments in tax valuations, which have been made by the new Board of Equalization during the year will not affect the educational fund until October 1, 1917.

Denied Petition to Extend Rate.

Sweeping decisions against public service corporations of Alabama were rendered by the Alabama Public Service Commission at the conclusion of the call of the docket. It denied the petition of the Central of Georgia, Seaboard Air Line, Western and Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroads for a further extension of the 10 per cent increase on certain freight rates, denied the petition of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad for permission to increase its freight rates except in one instance, ordered the Southern Railway to arrange its schedules so trains Nos. 10 and 30 may connect at Anniston, ordered the Southern to reduce its rate on grain consigned to Birmingham from Sheffield and Riverton and ordered the Alabama Great Southern Louisville and Nashville, Southern and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroads to submit plans within 60 days for a new union station at Attalla.

Southern Warned to Revoke Order.

Unless the Southern Railway immediately cancels its circular, which calls for interstate rates on all cotton shipped to Mobile from points in Alabama, the Alabama Public Service Commission will request State attorneys to begin prosecution for failure to observe Alabama laws. The Commission will brook no delay.

Samuel P. Kennedy, President, sent a message to L. Greene, Traffic Manager, which stated that the Commission would not consent for certain shippers in Mobile to be favored with intrastate rates, while all others were forced to pay interstate rates.

Deficit of Two Million.

When the State Treasury opened for business at the beginning of the new fiscal year, October 1, it faced an actual deficit of $2,356,215.31, or just $419,333.96 more than the total deficit at the beginning of the fiscal year of 1916.

The actual deficit at the beginning of the fiscal year of 1916 was $1,936,861.35. This record shows that the State is still running behind at the rate of approximately $500,000 a year.

Spence Is Paroled.

Frank Spence, of Chambers County, who was given 20 years in the penitentiary for forging two checks, involving about $25, was paroled by Governor Henderson after serving three and a half years. The person whose name was forged, the trial judge, and the trial solicitor, and the Board of Pardons said the sentences were too heavy for the offenses.

Governor Henderson also remitted $125 of a $200 fine imposed on John Henderson, of Coffee County, for assault and battery.

MEASURES IN COMMON USE

Allies Who Are Poorest After The War Will Have First Call On Resources

London.—The comment in the United States concerning the possible effect of the commercial measures contemplated by the recent Paris economic conference of the entente allies, led Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, to declare that wholly wrong conclusions had been drawn from them, and especially with regard to those conclusions attributing any attempt to exclude or discriminate against the United States with the entente allies after the war.

"Our relations with the new world will always be of vast importance to us," Lord Robert said, "and they take a leading place in our plans. In answer to the great calumny so often circulated, and which we indignantly repudiate, I want to say that while we are planning our measures for peace now, we pledge our honor that these plans and measures, which we are bound to take against the neutral trade with our enemies under the laws of war, have been and will be kept entirely separate.

No Attack On Neutrals

"They are worked out in different departments. They are wholly distinct. We shall never try what we know would be fatal to our own interests to use any of our belligerent measures to enable us to replace neutral by British trade or stifle or impede the commercial enterprise of neutral nations."

"What one of the districts devastated during the war would wish to lose the opportunity to take advantage of American enterprise and capital?" asked Lord Robert. "Suppose for instance no question of friendship were involved. Then it resolves itself into a question of plain common sense," he added.

Articles in American newspapers that had been called to his attention, said Lord Robert, seemed to take the ground that if the Paris measures were carried out they would discriminate against all non-entente trade and either would force the United States into preferential trade relations with Germany or into trouble with Great Britain.

ROUMANIAN INVADERS OF TRANSYLVANIA PUT TO FLIGHT

After Defeat Along 50-Mile Front, Roumanians Are In Retreat, Pursued By Teutonic Troops

New York.—Turning against the Roumanians, who had been advancing steadily in eastern Transylvania, Austro-Hungarians and German troops have defeated the invaders decisively along a fifty-mile front. North of Fogaras at the junction of the Homorod and Alt rivers near Reps, the Roumanians are in retreat, pursued by the Teutonic troops.

The successful repulse of the invaders on the southern end of the line was at the hands of General von Falkenhayn, a former chief of the German general staff, and who only a short time since routed the Roumanians in and around Hermanstadt, and drove them back to their own frontier. To the north of Reps the Austro-Hungarians recaptured positions and took more than two hundred prisoners. Bucharest admits that the Roumanian troops in eastern Transylvania have been withdrawn before attacks by superior forces in the region of Fogaras.

In Dobrudja heavy fighting continues along the line south of the Constanza-Bucharest railway, with Bucharest recording progress for the Russians and Roumanians in the center and on their left wing.

Bandits Appear In Rio Grande Valley

Brownsville, Texas.—Reports that Mexican bandits had appeared again in the lower Rio Grande valley, caused a general tightening of the armed forces protecting that section. While no disturbance had been reported, the unsual precautions were not relaxed and strong guards were maintained all along the railroad from this city to Harlingen. A detachment of Oklahoma infantrymen was sent out from San Bonito in pursuit of men believed to be Mexican outlaws, and are reported hot on the trail.

Expect Trade Balance Of $2,500,000,000

Washington.—The enormous extent of recent gains in the export trade of the United States is disclosed in statistics issued by the department of commerce. Total exports to the various countries for the first eight months of the calendar year were in many cases millions of dollars greater than those of the entire fiscal year of 1914, and show very large increases in almost every line, especially in war munitions. The figures, it is pointed out, will run over two and a half billion dollars.

ENGLAND NEEDS MORE MEN

ENGLAND WANTS MORE MEN TO MAINTAIN HER FORCES IN THE FIELD

Directed That No Exemption Be Granted Certain Preferred Classes

London.—Great Britain is in urgent need of men for her armies and also for her munition factories. A statement to this effect was given out by the Man Powder Distribution board, recently appointed to comb out men eligible for military service in the United Kingdom who have not yet been enrolled in the army.

The board reported it had examined officials of the admiralty, war office, ministry of munitions and other departments and that there was urgent need of fresh supplies of men for the armies and munitions factories in order to "maintain our forces in the field at the numbers already fixed for them and at the same time to maintain the supply of munitions essential for their equipment and proper utilization."

The board, therefore, directed that no exemption be granted certain classes heretofore exempt and that there be a more general dilution of skilled labor in munitions factories with women and other workers heretofore untrained. It suggested conferences of employers and employees with a view to freeing skilled labor now engaged in private work for employment in munitions plants.

"It is essential," the report says, "that a large part of the labor now engaged in private work shall be diverted to government orders or released for the army."

The board also has under consideration the extended use of women and of men over the military age and also the release of men of military age now employed in the government offices. This is the only means, the board says, whereby extension of the age for compusory service can be avoided.

General Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff at army headquarters, said in a speech at Dalderby, in Lincolnshire, that while the allies were winning the war slowly but surely he wished to impress upon his hearers the necessity of procuring more men for the army and munitions factories.

"MAN OF THE HOUR" TAKES HELM IN JAPAN

General Terauchi Selected For Premier—Favors Stronger Policy Towards West

Tokio.—The emperor has requested Lieutenant General Count Seiki Terauchi, former minister of war and also formerly resident general in Korea, to organize a cabinet in succession to the ministrty of Marquis Okuma.

The resignation of Premier Okuma brought to a head the intense struggle between the bureaucratic forces and the advocates of a representative government, which culminated in the victory of the bureaucrats by the emperor's designation of Count Terauchi to form a cabinet.

Premier Okuma aided Baron Kato in his efforts to form a new ministry and thus succeeded in amalgamating the three groups composing the government's majority in the house of representatives into one great party. By this move the new amalgamation has only the Seiyukai, or conservative, party in opposition and brings about a two-party political system in Japan similar to that in the United States and Great Britain.

Big Campaign Planned For Recruits

Washington.—Virtually a house-to-house campaign throughout the nation is being planned by the war department to obtain the one hundred thousand regular army recruits it will be necessary to enlist annually hereafter in order to keep the army up to the strength authorized by congress in the reorganization and appropriation bills. According to a new recruiting order to meet demands for the present and immediate future, the recruiting service must be capable of furnishing one in every 1,000 people.

Major General Scott in The Hospital

Washington.—Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, is undergoing treatment at a hospital here for chronic stomach htrouble. It was said at the war department that the general was improving and that an operation was not necessary.

President Wilson In Middle West

Chicago.—President Wilson penetrated the Middle West, received noisy welcomes from many thousands of persons in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Refusing to turn his trip into a speech-making tour, the president nevertheless kept up a running fire of remarks at every stop. Interest among those who spoke to him centered mostly about the eight-hour law for railroad employes. His trip was interspersed frequently with band ovations at the stations through which his train wended its way.

Trooper Runs Amuck Through Town

Gainesville, Ga.—The business section of Gainesville was terrorized when Private J. C. Grant, troop F. National Guard, escaped from the armory, in which he had been detained as a deserter from the mobilization camp at Macon, and ran amuck through the streets, emptying his two army pistols at pedestrians as he ran. Fortunately the shots went wild and Grant, evidently crazed by drink, was finally subdued before he had wounded anyone seriously He fired at every one he meet in his dash.

FOR REAL PROTECTION

HUGHES ADVOCATES THIS AS AN AMERICAN DOCTRINE.

Tariff for Which He Is Fighting Will Preserve Nation's Economic Independence After the War Is Ended.

Mr. Hughes advocates a protective tariff as an American doctrine. It has been the persistent policy of the Republican party in the past and he believes it must be the permanent policy of the American people in the future. He preached the doctrine from coast to coast upon his first swing around the circle and he will repeat it again in every state he visits upon his second campaign trip, which will end the Saturday before election day with a great mass meeting at New York city.

When he says that he stands for protection he uses the word in a comprehensive sense. It embraces all that is needed to foster and promote American enterprise and to better the conditions under which the men and women of the nation live and work. The tariff for which he is fighting is an essential safeguard for the economic independence of the nation when peace is restored in Europe, a tariff framed in accordance with the principle of protection honestly applied and affording protection, not merely to American employers, but to American employees. He calls for a tariff which will protect the American wage earner from the underpaid labor from Europe, and American enterprise generally from cut-throat competition with the enterprises of the old world, where the standard of living has been lower than our own, and will go even lower when the war is over and the burden of its cost will have to be shouldered.

Mr. Hughes repudiates the theory that the Democratic party can be counted upon to deny its ancient faith, and in the twinkling of an eye become the sincere and competent advocate and agent of a protective tariff. The Baltimore platform offers proof in plenty of the correctness of his contention. The platform there adopted, upon which Mr. Wilson was elected four years ago, declared that it was "a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government under the Constitution had no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of a revenue." The war in Europe is creating conditions which require the restoration of a protective tariff if the American standard of living is to be maintained. But the war in Europe, as Mr. Hughes has more than once reminded the Democrats, has not changed the Constitution of the United States.

One of the first acts of destruction in the record of the Democratic party's accession to power was the wiping out of the tariff commission of the last Republican administration. Now Mr. Wilson has passed through congress a law authorizing the appointment of a new tariff commission and the Democratic campaign managers are seeking to allay the growing apprehension in this country by intimating that the new tariff commission can be relied upon to take care of all the competition which America must face at the close of the European war. What can a Democratic tariff commission do? It has no power to amend the Constitution of the United States. And yet Mr. Wilson insists that his administration is loyal to the platform pledges proclaimed at Baltimore and will remain true to them as long as he is president.

Mr. Hughes stands for a protective tariff scientifically erected and thoroughly protective in purpose and effect. He promises as one of the first acts of his presidency the restoration of the protective principle to our tariff schedules. He promises that the abuses which crept into tariff-making in the past shall be kept out in the future. He promises that the principle of protection shall be honestly and intelligently applied in the reconstruction of the tariff. He promises a tariff revision as an American measure for American defense. He promises a protective tariff that will square with the doctrine "equal rights at home and all our rights everywhere." Where does Mr. Wilson stand on the tariff? What will he do to the tariff if he is re-elected? Mr. Wilson has thus far refused to answer these questions. Mr. Hughes will do well to repeat them every day that remains of the campaign. Mr. Hughes says what he thinks about the tariff and means what he says.

The tariff cut a big figure in the Maine election. The people of that barometer state believe that a protective tariff is more urgently needed now than ever before in the history of the country. It will cut no less a figure in the campaign in other states whose citizens, for the most part, are similarly minded.

Changed His Attitude.

It is just as well to remember that President Wilson was the openly bitter and implacable foe of the labor unions until he became a candidate for office and thought he saw that he could use these unions to his own personal advantage.

Democrats Grieved.

Mr. Wilson and his cabinet seem to be surprised and grieved that a recent justice of the Supreme court should talk as much like a plain, ordinary citizen as Mr. Hughes does.

MR. HUGHES AS A PARTY MAN

Differentiates Between Organization for Benefit of Party and for Enrichment of Managers.

Charles E. Hughes has intrusted the management of his campaign to a committee composed of Republicans and Progressives, but he reserves the right to conduct his own personal canvass along independent lines. Although he is the standard bearer of the Republican party, he is also the leader of the rank and file of the Progressive party and the hope of many independents to whom his record in the public service and his character as a man make an appeal far beyond the precincts of partisanship. Although he is a firm believer in the efficiency of party government, Mr. Hughes differentiates between party organization for the benefit of party and party organization for the exclusive enrichment of party managers. Disinterested political activity through party work constitutes, as he believes, a service to the nation, and he has always encouraged party solidarity founded upon party integrity.

These are not new theories which he has concocted to catch the popular ear in campaign times. They are the tenets of the creed of citizenship which he has preached and practiced as private citizen and public servant ever since he came to man's estate. Addressing the students of a great university some seven years ago he advised them in these words:

"Join a party, one of the great parties according to your general agreement with its record, policy and tendency; appreciate the necessity and power of political organization and lend your effort to make it wholesome and effective; stand firmly, regarding all your personal fortunes, against every effort to corrupt it or to use it for selfish purposes; support managers who are faithful to the party and serve it for its interests and not their own; stand for honorable candidacies, unpurchased and representative of the wisdom and best principles of the party; in local matters be independent and keep distinct your duty as a member of a national party for the furtherance of national interests, and your duty as a citizen of a local community to aid in having it well governed; stand against 'bossism' and all that the word implies, and aim to make your party organization within its proper field representative and its leadership responsible and accountable to the party members."

Mr. Hughes never loses an opportunity to proclaim his pride in being the candidate for the presidency of the reunited party of Lincoln, a party reaffirming the faith of its founder and dedicated anew to the service of the nation in these fateful times. He believes his countrymen are confronting a period full of possibilities, full of peril, and yet full of hope. The new economic era upon which it is about to enter calls, in his judgment, for the firm upbuilding policies and the wide national outlook which are identified with the historic aims of the Republican party. The sentiment of his certain faith as a Republican is that "He serves his party best who loves his country most."

Hence his "appeal to reason" is made to his fellow countrymen irrespective of their party affiliations in normal times. It is the appeal of the champion of a common cause who asks the support of those who share his desire to see the honor and welfare of the nation restored and secured at home and abroad by a system of protection—the protection of dominant Americanism, the protection of an American tariff, the protection of an army and navy adequate to the tasks of America, and above all the protection afforded by the principle of "equal rights at home and all our rights everywhere" honestly applied and fearlessly maintained.

Mr. Wilson on Force.

Six million copies of the president's recent speech in New York are to be distributed by the Democratic national committee. It was in this outpouring that Mr. Wilson declared:

"Force will not accomplish anything that is permanent."

The 13 original colonies of this country became a nation through force. Slavery was abolished in the United States through force. The wrongs done in Cuba were ended through force, and President Wilson has sent our whole available military strength to the Mexican border.

The Democratic committee evidently believes that it is possible to fool some of the people all the time.

Why More Taxes Are Levied.

While the Republicans left a surplus in the treasury when they went out of office, the Democrats, having promptly reduced the tariff revenues, with no resulting benefit to the public (as you individually, as a member of that public, know), had to turn to other sources of revenue, particularly as they at once entered on a career of prodigal spending. That is why you pay more taxes.

What Mr. Wilson Misses.

It is stated that President Wilson flatly refuses to read criticisms of himself. This is carrying self-worship to an extreme. Incidentally he is missing some mighty interesting reading from which he might profit.

Economy With a Vengeance.

Since Mr. Wilson has been president over 30,000 new offices have been created and all of them filled by "deserving Democrats." And thus is the pledge to retrenchment and economy carried out.

ROBBER ROBBED IN CLOTHING SHOP

Slick-Tongued Lipp, Caught With "the Goods," Had to Pay for Trick.

ADVENTURE COSTS $3

Cohen, the Cashier, Takes $11 From Stranger Who He Thought Had Stolen That Amount From Cashbox.

Chicago, Ill.—There's $3 waiting for "Mr. Lipp of Columbus, O.," at the office of a local clothing house. Maybe he'll have nerve enough to call for it. Anyway—

Charles Cohen, office manager, was putting away a line of fall models, 32 to 40, Saturday afternoon, when a young man with "snappy" clothes and an air of efficiency breezed in.

"Mr. Lipp been here?" he inquired choppily. "Lipp of Columbus. Don't know him? He's m' father. General store. Wants bill o' goods. I'll wait."

Recalls That $400 Pay Roll.

Lipp, Jr., was in a chair when Cohen strolled back to overlook the stitching of a consignment of white duck pants. He was just leaving the inner office when Cohen, recalling a $400 pay roll in a desk drawer, returned hastily.

Cohen halted Mr. Lipp and searched his pockets. Twenty dollars. He examined the office. Only one cash compartment touched. He looked over the daybook. Balance, $11.

Cohen counted off the eleven and handed the remainder back.

"Now, git," he advised. "You ain't even a first-class crook."

Morris Snower, head of the firm, came in later. On hearing Cohen's story he chuckled.

"Believing Is Nix."

"Believe me, Mr. Snower—" his aggrieved employee began.

"Believing is nix," returned Snower. "I know. This morning I bought three tickets for the policeman's benefit fund. I forgot to put it in the daybook. Your friend, the burglar, is $3 shy. He ain't the only robber around here."

"Well, I'll show him," said Cohen. "I'm a good sport. I'll tell the newspapers. Maybe they print a piece and Lipp comes back for his three dollars, eh?"

"Maybe," said Snower.

How about it, Mr. Lipp?

HIS BADGE SAVES POLICEMAN

Bullet Strikes Shield When Officer Is Shot at by Roommate and Makes Only Slight Wound.

Dallas, Tex.—His metal police badge, worn on the front of his blouse, saved the life of Motorcycle Officer Jared McConnico early the other morning when his roommate, John J. Gleason, shot at him, thinking he was a burglar. McConnico was entering the room through a window to get some matches, having left his key in his room. Gleason awakened to see the form of a man at the window and seizing his pistol, fired one shot. The bullet struck McConnico's badge and turned to one side into his left lung. His condition is not serious, it was said at the city hospital, where he was taken for treatment.

THIS LINEMAN HAD BAD DAY

Nearly Electrocuted, Lost an Eye and Found Wife Had Eloped With Friend of Family.

Bethlehem, Pa.—David Hehney, a lineman, narrowly escaped electrocution here when on a high pole when he came in contact with a live wire carrying several thousand volts. The fact that he was strapped to the pole prevented him from being dashed to the ground. The end of the wire struck him across the eye, destroying the sight.

More hard luck greeted Hehney when he reached home several hours later and found that his wife had disappeared. She is believed to have eloped with a young man who was a frequent visitor to the Hehney home.

ZEKE BLUFFS UMPIRE AT THIS BALL GAME

"Two What?" He Demands, and the Scared Judge Gasps, "Too High," Meekly.

Mobile, Ala.—Professional baseball players who are terrorized and maltreated by the "umps" will do well to read what happened when an umpire called a bad strike on "Zeke" Williams, the champion pinch hitter of the "Colored" League of the South. "Zeke" is a brother of Bert Williams, well known to Broadway, New York, and other parts of the world. He can't field, pitch or run worth a cent, but he can slam the ball over the highest fence ever built. He does nothing but pinch hit, and frequently, when his six feet four go up against a swift one, the ball is either destroyed or lost. No one, so far as known, ever sees it after he lays solidly up against it.

Recently in a tie game between his team and the Giants at Vicksburg, he was called upon to pinch hit in the ninth. The score was a tie, two were out and three were on bases. The 5,000 brethren whooped their heads off—or hissed—as their emotions prompted when "Zeke" took his place at bat.

A ball whizzed past, directly over the plate. He did nothing.

"One strike," sang the umpire in a falsetto voice.

Another ball flashed over the plate, but head high. "Zeke" let it pass.

[illegible] chirped the umpire, from be[illegible] pitcher.

[illegible] paused a second, lowered his [illegible] stuck out his powerful jaw and staggered toward the umpire.

"Two what?" he snarled, so everyone could hear him.

HANG ELEPHANT FOR MURDER

Circus Animal Gave Her Life After Killing Walter Eldridge, the Eighth Victim.

Bristol, Tenn.—"Murderous Mary," the huge elephant which killed Walter Eldridge, an employee of Sparks' circus in Kingsport, was sentenced to death by the state authorities and hung for her crimes. Members of the circus admitted that Eldridge was the eighth man Mary had killed. The beast was valued at $8,000.

Her attack on Eldridge was without warning, and occurred before a crowd of spectators. The elephan lifted her victim in her trunk, hurled him to the ground and gored him to death. Spectators fired a volley of revolver bullets into the beast, but apparently without effect. Her keeper subdued her, but the authorities ordered her execution.

The showmen had no proper poisons at hand, so obtained a derrick car from a railroad, looped chains about the animal's neck and swung her off the ground. She struggled desperately, but finally choked to death.

TWICE BALKED AT THE ALTAR

Fiancee Had Hard Time Summoning Up Courage to Marry Actor—But Time Seemed to Bring Charm.

Somerville, Mass.—After balking twice at the very threshold of matrimony, Miss May Richardson of this city, finally summoned up enough courage to become the wife of Willis W. Hidden, leading man of the stock company in Newburyport, Mass., and matinee idol of Essex county. On the first two trips to the altar Miss Richardson withdrew her hand as the minister was beginning the ceremony. Each time she departed with the perplexed Hidden, who importuned her to return and become his bride.

Several days ago Miss Richardson and Hidden appeared a third time at the home of a minister. While Mr. Hidden feverishly watched his vascillating betrothed, the minister proceeded with the ceremony without an interruption, and the twain were united at last.

Have you had your fight about politics yet? Looks like everybody is going to have one.

Judge Hughes' chances are looking better every day. All over the country the Progressives are lining up for him. This one fact alone is a great strengthening force for his chances of election on Nov. 7th.

We want to get true and accurate reports from the Democratic-Independent speakings from such places over the county as Providence Beat 16, Cane Creek, Beat 11 and Collins Chapel Beat 9. We have an idea that those are going to be great and enthusiastic meetings.

Its funny to see how the Democratic papers of the South try to bull-doze their readers in matters of politics. Just after the Chicago convention they made great to-do about the predicament the Progressives of the country seemed to them to be in. And they actually saw and openly asserted that the Bull Moosers were running over themselves in wild stampede to get into the ranks for Woodrow. Yes, they had it all figured [illegible] means of political [illegible] the Progressives would vote [illegible] Woodrow in spite of Teddy, Hughes and high water.

Now since they have seen the results in Maine, California and every other state that has had an opportunity to make its standing known, these same Democratic papers are saying, "Well we are not surprised." Some have even gone so far as to say "I told you so."

Of all the politics in the country, that brand which is displayed by the Democratic daily press of the "solid south" takes the cake.

A fitting corollary to the Democratic appeal for the old soldier vote on the false ground of Democratic support for pension legislation would be an appeal for the vote of the colored citizen on the ground that the Democrats are the best friends the negro has. Senator Vardaman of Mississippi tried at the recent session of Congress to deprive Howard University of its appropriation. The University bears the name of a distinguished Union general, whose friendship for the freedman was manifested not only on the field of battle but in the forum and in the class-room and in the bureaus of the government. The institution is one of the most effective of the agencies for higher education for any race, and the government has been a constant supporter of it. But a Democratic Senator tries to cripple Howard University by taking away its government stipend. Senator Taggart should tell this to the colored voters of Indiana when he goes out to ask them to vote for him on the ground of friendship.

DO THEY ENDORSE DEBT?

While the Clanton Press and the "forces" of the Democratic-Independent campaign are creating such a stir about how so and so voted for debt in the commissioners court, we would like for them to tell us if they endorse those votes that were cast as they have found out by their recent able researches into the records.

Will they give their opinion about the creation of the debt, as to its relation to the good and welfare of our county?

There is not much weight to their argument if they just go into such matters and declare that such and such did thus and so, without offering any reasons that might justify or condemn such action.

Let us know how you stand in regard to the debt that was created brother.

And it would be interesting to let the people know the standing of your candidate for Probate Judge along this line too.

FIGHTING IT OUT

We never did particularly fancy the method of settling differences and disputes by fighting. It is kindly bad medicine for yourself and your neighbor when you attack the person of one another and tear up your best suit of clothes, smash two or three good four dollar hats all to pieces, lose your temper and probably profane your religion. When you come to think about it cooly and candidly, it is simply a method that does not possess very much reason, and far less pleasure.

But after all, we reckon it is sometimes necessary, in spite of all its bad characteristics.

When the minds of men get away with them, sometimes they will encroach upon the conscience and freedom of a neighbor in such a way that the very mention of the subject between them is like sticking a lighted match to a powder can. It goes off so quickly that there is no time for reason and reckoning of any kind. And at the same time you could take the same two men under some other circumstances and find in them an ample amount of common sense and judgment to reach a friendly and satisfactory conclusion about most anything in the world.

Some men are of the class that would not reason if they had time, a good opportunity, and somebody to show them how. Such a fellow is liable to provoke a fight anytime and any place, and he should not be allowed any leniency of the fist nor much consideration of the mind. He is a bad element in society and always carries about with him great danger to other citizens who are much better than he could ever chance to be. Trouble with him might be justifiable or might not be, owing to the myriads of circumstances that might have bearing on the subject at hand.

But there are those times when even reasonable and sensible men clash; and if there is any remedy in existence to prevent it no body has ever yet discovered it.

When such circumstances as these come around, we don't know any way out but just to stay with it and maybe some neutral party will intervene in time to save your personal effects from utter annihilation.

THE DEMOCRATIC SPEAKINGS

You know the Democratic-Independent "Forces" advertised a speaking to be at the court house last Friday night.

We think that the crowd that came out to hear them is typical of the reception they will receive at other places over the county in their rounds from now until election.

And the way the people turn out to those speakings shows the way they are going to vote in November.

We are informed that 16 voters came out to the court house to hear them last Friday night. And we are further informed that the leaders, after arriving on the scene and seeing the crowd, concluded not to have a formal speaking; and turned the thing into a kind of "conference."

We would like for the Democratic-Independent 'forces" to tell us where the great host of Reynolds-haters in and around Clanton were on Friday night. Why were they not out at the court house to hear the heaps of ridicule and rotten abuse that the "forces" had in store for them?

The 16 who were at the meeting at the court house Friday night bear out our contentions that the whole Democratic-Independent Socialist mess was hatched and fostered at the instigation of a few individuals in Clanton. to satisfy a personal grudge against Judge Reynolds. The attendance shows that even right here in Clanton, which is the natural home and breeding place for the whole species, there is not any following of the little ring and its leaders.

If the Democratic-Independent "forces" can muster only 16 men in Clanton to come out in open meeting and listen to their gab, then it looks like to us that their chances in other places in the country are far more slim and unpromising.

LYCEUM COURSE AT THORSBY

One of the best Entertainment Courses ever offered in Thorsby is planned for this winter. The course begins with a musical and Literary entertainment by the Waverleys next Thursday night, Oct. 19th. Following this number it is proposed to have a lecture by some well-known speaker and a high class motion picture entertainment, during November and December. On January 10th Miss Evelyn Bargelt, Artist and Reader, will give an entertainment consisting of readings illustrated by cartoon sketches. On February 12 Edward Reno, the Magician, will delight the audience and mystify them with his tricks and illusions. No one will want to miss Reno. The course will close with a concert by a Male Quartet, The Collegians, on Thursday, March 15th.

This will make a course of six numbers of the highest quality. The entire course is offered for the exceedingly low price of $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children and students. No one in Thorsby or within reach of the town can afford to miss this opportunity. The excellent highway will make it possible for those living in Jemison and Clanton to avail themselves of these attractions.

Don't forget the first number, Thursday night, October 19th.

When you come to the Fair get your meals at Goodgame's Cafe.

IN 1896 AND NOW

The buoyant spirit of Republicanism all over the country is not wholly due to the clean-cut victory in Maine. It is due more largely to the fact that the business men of the nation so promptly realized the danger to them and to the country's best interests which was contained in the cowardly surrender of the President and the Democratic Congress to the demands of the railroad brotherhoods, and that the business men of the country are prepared to visit political vengeance upon so craven an act.

The vote in Maine was mere confirmation of this condition of affairs. On no other ground can one fairly explain the tremendous increase in Republican strength at the polls. The Republican vote was some five thousand bigger than the combined vote for Taft and Roosevelt in 1912, nearly ten thousand bigger than the vote for the united party in the State election of four years ago, some two thousand bigger than the combined Republican and Progressive vote for members of Congress two years ago. This increase cannot be explained completely by the return of the Progressives, because in Maine there were a good many Moose who came from the Democratic ranks and who doubtless went back there this year. But it is to be accounted for by the fact that the business men of Maine grasped the issue which Mr. Hughes made in his discussion of the pistol-point railroad legislation of the closing days of Congress and acted upon it.

In 1896 it took many weeks of educational campaigning to convince the business men of the country that they had a direct and vital interest in the Bryan proposal to inflate our currency; and it was not until late in the canvass that it became evident that they were thus convinced and that McKinley was sure to be elected. This year the response of the business world hae been clear and prompt. Maine afforded the first opportunity to demonstrate the fact—but the reaction all over the country is unmistakable. Hughes is much more sure of election today than Mc Kinley was at this time twenty years ago.

We would say to the people of any county, state or nation, beware of the candidate who does not openly declare where he stands. There are two candidates in Chilton county for the office of Probate Judge. One of them, as is well known, is and has been declaring himself and his standing on matters which will confront him in dealing with the people of the county, if they should see fit to place the reins of the county government in his hands. The people know where he stands. Not only do his friends know, but his foes as well are aware of his policies of administration.

The other candidate, if he is making any declarations at all, are concerning some flimsy matter that would never confront a Probate Judge in the administration of his official duties. If he is concerned about anything, it is something that does not touch the civic life of our men and women, boys and girls. His fighting partners are conducting his campaign with personal abuse of their opponent instead of giving study to the things that mean good government in behalf of the citizenry.

Our people know what a dangerous thing it is to elect a man to an office when you know not what attitude he will take in the performance of his duties and powers over you as regards such important things as taxation and the expenditures of the peoples money.

The Press continues to harp about ring rule in Chilton county politics.

We want to cite them to a recent instance in their own party councils that shows conclusively where the ring exists, and its methods in full.

You know the Democrats on the 9th day of May nominated Judge Adams to head their ticket in this county for Probate Judge.

And you know that a few weeks later the Judge deliberately handed the honor back to them.

Now there is no doubt as to the fact that there was an underlying reason for Judge Adams action in giving up the nomination.

Does the Clanton Press know this reason?

Do the voters of the county know the reason?

Is it proper that the public should know the reason?

The Banner knows why Judge Adams quit the race; and so does the Press.

Now we will give them a chance to tell the reason why he quit if they are fair and honest enough to inform their own men—the men whom they profess to be leading.

A proper answer to the questions in regard to this matter will show the people where the political ring exists. And we are determined that the answer shall be made fully and properly.

If the Press will not come clean with the antics of the little crowd then we will proceed with a full version.

We wish every working man in the county could have heard the brief and sensible speech of confession from Mr. Carleton at Cross Roads last Friday night. Mr. Carleton stated his observations of business conditions as they affect the laboring man and had reached a free conclusion that Republican administrations at Washington are better for us than Democratic. He has always been a Democrat but will support the Republican ticket from this day forward.

NOT FOR POPWELL

Thorsby, Ala., Oct. 10, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I learn that there are reports out over the county that I am supporting and working for Mr. W. L. Popwell for Probate Judge.

Now I want to say, with all due respect for Mr. Popwell, that I am not favoring his candidacy for this office.

I think the manner in which he entered the race and the circumstances surrounding the whole affair do not warrant me giving him my vote and influence.

Respectfully,
E. B. POPWELL.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 9, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I noticed a piece in the Clanton Press of last week which stated that I had examined the records of the commissioners court and give out the statement to some one that said Press was correct in its statement in the Waldrop and Herrod controversy.

Now that is untrue. I have never examined the records. I don't know anything about how they voted on any of these questions except what they have told me.

I am not in the political scrap, and have tried to keep myself clear of all controversies. I don't care to be mixed up with political news paper controversies.

I hope this will give satisfaction to every body.

INDORSES HIGH SCHOOL

It furnishes one an occasion of rare enjoyment to visit his old school and receive the hand shakes of those with whom he spent the best part of his childhood days; and this is especially true when noticeable improvement has been made in every nook and corner and in every department of the institution. This is the feeling which possessed me when recently visiting the Chilton County High School, of which I am a graduate.

The most trustworthy proof that the school has better facilities for training and more equipment for the mutual development of both a child's mind and body even than it had last year is found in the fact that the enrollment is much increased this year. There are now 129 students in attendance. 70 boys and 50 girls.

Prof. McDonald changed his entire corps of assistant teachers, and it is evident from the work that they are doing that he made no mistake in making the selection. The assistants are all young, but they hold their college degrees, and are capable of employing the latest methods of mental development. Prof. McDonald is as ever, the same sturdy and efficient steersman, who always has the best interest of his students at heart.

The department of manual training, which is under the direction of the principal, offers the thirty-three boys who take it, an opportunity of learning to handle tools and do constructive work which will be of incalcutable worth to them. The school garden, in which every pupil in school takes part, is under the charge of Miss Durrett. Much work is already being done toward its cultivation. A complete apartus for physical and chemical laboratory has been ordered and will be in practical use in a short time.

Another asset of the school is the two pigs, which the children are raising by giving them the scraps from their lunches, which would otherwise be wasted; one of the pigs, a registered Poland China, was given the school by Mr. W. H. Conway, and the other, a Berkshire, by Dr. P. T. Hinkle. When grown the pigs are to be sold and the proceeds used toward improving the library.

Athletics this year appears to be exceedingly good. Quite a number went out for football, which is coached by Prof Owens, and Auburn graduate. No better advantages are offered in any college for developing the musical art than Prof. Tinsley furnishes.

There has recently been a great addition made to the library, consisting of a complete set of the new International Encyclopedia, and International Dictionary, and several other single volumes. The new addition cost about $125.00.

As a graduate of this institution, I wish to admonish the 100 or more boys and girls in Clanton of high school age, who are not in school, to wake up to the fact that almost fifty per cent of the enrollment of the high school comes from the country and has to pay board, while they who already live in town could attend school cheaper than they can stay on the streets and hang around the drug stores.

COULD BEAT HANDS SHUCKING HIS CORN

At Least White Would Bet So After Being Relieved Of Dyspepsia by Tanlac.

"My wife and myself have had stomach trouble," said J. A. White, residing at the Leestown Pike, R. F. D. No. 6, near Lexington, Ky., "and have both been nervous and all rundown. We could not eat anything and could not sleep at night—regular nervous dyspeptics. We tried many remedies without permanent benefit until we heard of Tanlac. I got the medicine and we began taking it. We noticed immediate results. We are both greatly improved by Tanlac. We give all credit for our change of health to Tanlac. It is a remarkable medicine.

"I, personally feel so good, that I told my hands a day or two ago that I could beat any of them shucking corn. I meant it and believe I could beat 'em all."

Of all the maladies that afflict humanity, chronic dyspepsia, such as Mr. and Mrs. White evidently suffered from, is probably the most prevalent. Its causes and characterictics, are diverse. The most skilled physicians have been unable to cope successfully with this almost universal malady; but Mother Nature herself, from her great natural forests, aided by what is deemed as the best skill in chemistry, has compounded in her wonderful laboratory the most beneficial remedy discovered for this ailment.

Hours might be consumed in discribing the sufferings, mental and bodily, of the victims of chronic dyspepsia, and their absolute failure to, heretofore, get relief. A morbid, unreal, whimsical and melancholy condition of mind, aside from the nervous physical suffering, is the usual state of the average dyspeptic, and life seems scarcely worth the living.

Tanlac was designed for the purpose of overcoming this distressing condition, in order that people suffering from this trouble might become like old-fashioned people—strong, sturdy and well.

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exculsively by Upchurch Drug Co, in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co, in Thorsby by A. K. Horn & Son, in Cooper by McSwain Mercantile Co, in Verbena by Gulledge Bros. in Marbury by Plateon Drug Co, in Riderville by E. E. ackson Lumber Co, in Stanton by W. C. Dyer, and in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co.

appreciation for their presence with us today, for their splendid speeches and for their generous aid and assistance in this campaign; and congratulate them upon the stand taken, in performing their duty as good citizens having the welfare of their county at heart.

Be it further resolved that we pledge to them every possible assistance in bettering the conditions of the Confederate veterans at the Old Soldiers' Home and of the veterans generally, and we favor proper legislative enactments in the furtherance thereof, to the end that they in their old age may be cared for as tenderly as their past unselfish service to their country demands.

After the reports from the several beats were concluded, an open house was conducted and short speeches made by every one who felt moved by the spirit.

We could not go into details of every speech that was made. But suffice it to say that the spirit of the meeting was the best ever displayed before. It all spells victory for the Republican party and the peoples cause on November 7th. There is no mistaking that fact.

That Splendid Dinner

The members of the committee and all those attending the meting were served to dinner at the Palmer Hotel through the magnanimous spirit of Messrs. Middleton & Reynolds, Attorneys. It was a bountious affair and the hosts received the profound thanks of the hundred r en who participated with them.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. LETT, OF BEAT SIX.

Some Questions That People of County Would Like to be Answered.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 10, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I see Uncle Mad seems to think that I wanted to say when he could go to speakings, and how long he could stay. No brother Popwell, I want you to have the privilege to go as often as you like, and stay as long as you please, and clap your hands when Democratic speakers are giving you and all other Republicans what Paty gave the drum, if you want to.

I did feel sorry for you when Mr. Wallace was putting you and me and other Republicans down as worse than negros. It made me shudder to think how long you had been a Republican, that you had voted a Republican ticket away back yonder when but few white men were Republicans; and now to see you get mixed up in a side-show with the crowd you had given the best of your life fighting against, just to help Fate get an office anyway he can, even at the sacrifice of the party he had stood by all his life. You say I have changed about; so we have changed together, and every time I have changed you and Fate have made the same change; but always when we changed together it was aginst the Democrtic party; but you and Fate went me one better. You all let the Democratic court house clique lead you into a Democratic mass meeting that I did not go into, nor never will against my people.

I have often heard of court house cliques, but the clique that nominated Fate heads them all. The thing was born in Clanton, raised in Clanton, pulled off in Clanton, and has never got out of Clanton to date. And I understand that there was a great Democratic rally advertised in the Press, and circulars sent all over Clanton to the faithful to gather at the court house Friday night to hear the great speakers belch forth the great doctrines of Democracy. And they came from the east and west; you could hear the rumbligs of the automobiles for miles as they gathered to hear wise men of the east. But after every thing had gotten still and the wise men came in, low and behold there were sixteen gathered to hear the mighty speakers. Some said what is the matter? And the reply was, this is our crowd; we have about sixteen left in Clanton. Now if your crowd cannot get but sixteen to come to hear you speak at Clanton, what do you think your chances are to elect your ticket?

I want to ask you for information. What ticket are you going to vote this year, and what candidates are you going to vote for in our county? What candidates is Fate going to vote for? I am sure you will not hesitate to tell the public how he is going to vote as he is asking for the highest office in the gift of the people of this county, and we certainly have a right to know how you and him will vote on county and state nominees.

Low and behold, you ask about the Republicans and the Republican meeting held in Beat six. It was a regular meeting of the party, called in accordence with state authorities, and has been recognized by them as such, and I did not see you there. If you was such a Republican why wasn't you there? Was it because you and Fate were figuring on making a trade with the Democrats? You ask my authority to go as a delegate to Clanton. I was elected by the Republicans of Beat 6 to go there and represent them which I did.

Now I have always stood by what a majority of my people have done. And you went into the Republican primary and voted for your choice for the county officers, and now you come out at the suggestion of just a few of the Democrats, the court house ring, and now you put your judgment against fourteen hundred Republicans and would have it appear that you and Fate know more than all of them. When the election comes off you will find by what authority we acted and nominated a ticket for the various offices, for it will be elected by at least two to one over your Dukes Mixture.

Respectfully
M. F. LETT.

in goodness and in pipe satisfaction is all we or its enthusiastic friends ever claimed for it!

It answers every smoke desire you or any other man ever had! It is so cool and fragrant and appealing to your smokeappetite that you will get chummy with it in a mighty short time!

The People Pay.

The people of the United States are paying war prices for a great many articles of everyday use because those articles are not produced at home. In other words, they are having a practical demonstration at so much per of the democratic free trade idea. The idea is that we ought to buy where we can buy cheapest. It may have worked in the old days, but it doesn't work now, because all the cheap sources of supply are closed. If the old Republican idea of protecting industry in our own country had been followed consistently for the last ten or fifteen years we should have had factories busy in the production of all these things, and our people would be able to purchase them at reasonable prices. Right now the mistake of abandoning the theory of protection is costing the people of this country more than it costs any European nation to do its part in the war.—Yakima Republic.

"There's a Reason"

Too Daring Evening Gown

We will accept anything at the hands of Paris and keep it long enough to get a good look at it. So we received the backless evening gown, gave a gasp of surprise—and made a copy of it. But we never took it seriously. It caused a small ripple of talk, gave a little spice to initial displays of gowns for the new season and passed on its way to oblivion. But it made no lasting impression and exerted no influence on the mode, where the tendency is toward higher bodices with sleeves of tulle or lace.

However fleeting its career, the camera caught the backless gown, and it is shown above. The [illegible] skirt of white net, embroidered [illegible] sequins is adorably [illegible] has a tunic which is extended [illegible] the bodice at the front and [illegible] with a scroll pattern in sequins. A wide lace, almost covered with the glittering sequins, falls from the bodice and is attached to narrow shoulder straps at the back. There is a full scarf of chiffon which hangs from the right shoulder and may be brought around the figure. The skirt is of the promised length, reaching quite to the ankles.

New evening gowns and dance frocks show the most novel combinations of vivid color. Brocaded silks with figures in silver or gold thread in gorgeous patterns are the richest stuffs used in them. These costly brocades are sparingly used in dance frocks, where they form a small part of the airy bodices of tulle or lace. But they appear in narrow trains and draperies on splendid evening gowns and are at their best in fur-trimmed evening coats.

Satin and point de esprit are favored materials for evening gowns and dance frocks. Both are to be had in all the fashionable colors. Skirts are full and hang straight, and bodices are nearly always draped with tulle and have fanciful tulle sleeves which float about the arms. The important thing to study is the startling color combinations, which are so entirely new that it is not possible to describe them.

Real Millinery for Small Girl

The small girl, being already fitted out with something plain and substantial in headwear for school is acquiring her real millinery—the hat she is to wear when she is "dressed up." Her needs are of such importance that many keen minds devote their energies to the production of hats just for girls—little and big. They welcome her with pretty things when she slips out of babyhood and bonnets into little girlhood and hats. And they care for her needs until she emerges from school and leaves the limitations of young girlhood in matter of dress, behind her.

These designers have found in the woolly, furry and fuzzy materials of the present season, mediums that make fascinating millinery for children. In the group of hats pictured here plush, corduroy, velvet and plain velvet are used. At the left a little bonnet-like shape of plush is suited to the small lady from three to eight years old. It is shown in brown plush with a sash of narrow satin ribbon, and buds on a stem simulated in pink and green satin.

For the girl of eleven to sixteen there are many tams of black velvet like that at the right of the picture. It is finished with a band of narrow grosgrain ribbon, folded cleverly into joints, and a rosette and hanging ends of ribbon at the side. No other shape surmounts curls more effectively.

At the bottom of the group a hat of white corded velvet is simply a soft, puffed crown with a plaited frill about it. The frill is lined with white chiffon. There is a narrow band of white fur about it and at the left side a tiny head nestles in a rosette of fur. This is sure to capture the heart of the little maid of five who wears it.

All of these hats may be undertaken by the home millinery for none of them is hard to make.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 15

APPEAL TO CAESAR.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 25 (vv. 1-12).
GOLDEN TEXT—It is enough for the disciple that he be as his teacher, and the servant as his Lord.—Math. 10:25.

Teachers ought to urge their scholars to read Chapters 24, 25 and 26 thoroughly, and with the use of a map locate the places mentioned. The date of this lesson is A. D. 59, and it occurred at the crisis of the events which determined the way Paul should go to Rome, Nero being the emperor at that time.

I. Paul in the Prison at Caesarea (vv. 1,6). Paul was worn out, badly in need of rest, and is given during this imprisonment much freedom. He was accompanied by Luke, his physician, and probably some of his other friends. For almost 20 years Paul had been living a strenuous life, crowded full of labors that would have crushed an ordinary man. Now for some considerable time he had time to thoroughly master and assimilate the truth which he had been preaching, the results of which have come down to us in the form of letters, seven of which at least were written during and after the events of this lesson. His imprisonment also gave many of his friends opportunity to secure his counsel and guidance. The vindictiveness and hatred of the Jews is evident by this new plot whereby they sought the help of Festus against Paul. The corrupt Felix had been succeeded by a more upright man, Festus. The scheme of these enemies of Paul and of Jesus had already resulted in giving Paul an opportunity to preach Jesus as the Christ and the judge of men to persons who otherwise would not have been within the scope of his influence. Through his persecution he had reached leading officials and educated men of the Romans and of the Jews. Bunyan, in Bedford jail, and Luther in Wittenberg Castle, are illustrations of the principle that, "difficulties are the stones out of which all God's houses are built."

Felix, on giving up his office to his successor, left Paul bound (Ch. 24:27) though he knew he ought to be released, but by this vile, iniquitous act, he gave Paul another one of his desired opportunities to witness for Christ in high places. The shrewdness of Festus saved Paul from falling into the trap of the Jews, for God was guiding Festus, and at the same time guarding Paul.

II. Paul's Appeal to Caesar (vv. 7-12). The Jews made many and grievous complaints, but without bringing a single witness to prove their assertions. Doubtless these were the same old charges that had been brought before Felix through Tertullus two years before, and which now, as then, could not be proved. Paul was permitted to answer for himself, and he declared that he had broken neither the Jewish nor the Roman law. Most of the enemies of Christianity and of the Bible "lay many and grievous charges against it which they cannot prove." In all ages the enemies of God and his word mistake strong and confident charges and vilifications as proofs. Paul's life was absolutely clean, and he could say, "I have not sinned at all" (v. 8 R. V.) in any of the directions in which he was charged. Festus, as the newly appointed governor, desired to do the Jews a favor; literally, desired to gain their favor. Therefore he said to Paul, "Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?" This amounted to an acquittal of Paul on the charges that would come under the Roman law.

There remained only such charges as would naturally come before the Sanhedrin, and the question was whether Paul would accept an informal acquittal from the Roman court on condition that he submit to a trial before his own people on the other count. Festus wished to throw upon Paul the responsibility of refusing to go to Jerusalem, and to avoid displeasing the Jews.

Festus got a courteous but a stinging and well deserved rebuke from his prisoner. Paul was perfectly willing to take any punishment he deserved, even unto death, but, having a clear conscience, he had no fear of Festus or any man. His appeal to Caesar was most unexpected. It confused Festus and baffled the Jews. The Lord's own words on his midnight visit to Paul in prison are here suggested (23:11).

Festus could make but one decision, "Unto Caesar thou shalt go." Paul's sincere and open character was the means of his safety and power.

III. Paul and Agrippa (vv. 13-22). Agrippa was the king of the northern part of Palestine, a Jew and trained in religious ceremonies, but one who never mixed politics with religion, wearing his Judaism as a garment.

His father, Agrippa I, slew James the elder, the apostle.

The great-grandfather, "The Great," caused the massacre of the infant innocents (Math. 2).

He married his own sister, Bernice, who came with him on this visit to Festus.

Festus declared Paul's cause unto the king.

A tramp knocked at a farmer's door and called for something to eat.

"Are you a Christian?" asked the good-hearted country man.

"Can't you tell?" answered the man. "Look at the holes worn in the knees of my pants. What do they prove?"

The farmer's wife promptly brought out the food and the tramp turned to go.

"Well! Well!" asked the farmer, "What made those holes in the back of your pants?"

"Backsliding," replied the tramp as he hurried on.

THE REPEATER PAR EXCELLENCE

CALOMEL WHEN BILIOUS? NO! STOP! ACTS LIKE DYNAMITE ON LIVER

I Guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" Will Give You the Best Liver and Bowel Cleansing You Ever Had—Doesn't Make You Sick!

Stop using calomel! It makes you sick. Don't lose a day's work. If you feel lazy, sluggish, bilious or constipated, listen to me!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you feel "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store or dealer and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste. —Adv.

Why She Liked Saturn.

"I wonder," said the youthful astronomer, who was slow to do what was expected of him, "if—if you would let me associate you with some star—Venus, perhaps, star of love?"

"Well, no," said the lady addressed, thoughtfully; "I would rather you thought of me as Saturn."

"Indeed! Why?"

"Oh, well, you know, didn't you tell me that Saturn has a ring?"

He bought one the next day.

Appearances Are Deceptive.

"Do you see that old gentleman with the long white beard?"

"Yes," answered the patron of musical comedy.

"They say he has discovered a number of stars."

"Well! Well! He doesn't look as if he knew a dressing room from a telephone booth."

Not Quite Hardened.

"I presume you are getting used to riding in your car?"

"Yes, to a certain extent," replied the amateur motorist. "Although I still feel some compunction of conscience when I see a pedestrian turn pale and make a flying leap for the curb."

Highly Beneficial.

"Dubson is one of the most helpful neighbors I have ever had."

"You surprise me. No one else praises him."

"It's this way. He offers such a striking object lesson of what a good neighbor ought not to be that I am learning how to be a model neighbor myself—simply by not doing as he does."

Ambitious Plans.

"I hope some day to see my name on billboards from Maine to California and from the great lakes to the Gulf."

"Are you an actor?"

"No. I'm in the soap business. If I can get the necessary financial backing I'll start an advertising campaign that will make this country sit up and take notice."

Scientific Work.

"I understand that you are very much interested in scientific experiments," said the young man.

"Your understanding seems to be all to the good," answered the dear girl. "For years I have been trying to prove to my own satisfaction that germs cannot be transmitted by kissing."

Missing.

Dribbles—That's a fine desk you have there, old man.

Scribbles—Yes, and so convenient, too. There's a place in it for practically everything — poems, paragraphs, jokes, short stories, etc.

Dribbles—I see. But where is the place for original ideas?

SURE NOT.

No. 999 (reading)—Suddenly our hero found himself stepping into the bottomless depths . . . ! ! ! Shucks, authin' like that ever happens to me!

A Rare Spectacle.

"You say that campaign for sheriff of this county is being conducted on a high plane?"

"It couldn't be more genteel if the rival candidates were seeking the presidency of a young ladies' seminary."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Professional Tendency.

"Don't you know managers always have more or less of a cast in their eye?"

"What a squint that theatrical manager has."

LIBERALITY REWARDED.

"Have you ever noticed Dubwaite order dinner in a fashionable restaurant?"

"No. How does he go about it?"

"Pointing at the bill of fare, he says, 'Some of this, and some of this, and some of this' till he reaches the bottom of the card."

"Ha! Ha!"

"And the remarkable thing about it is that he always gets a meal that would delight an epicure."

"That might not be so remarkable if you knew how much he tips the waiter."

Surreptitious Pleasure.

"Poor old Mr. Dadburn has my sympathy."

"Why so?"

"He's the father of a musical daughter who resorts to smelling salts every time Irving Berlin's name is mentioned in her presence."

"Well?"

"And when the old gentleman sneaks over to a neighbor's house to hear a little ragtime on their phonograph, he always comes home with a guilty look."

Easily Fretted.

"I try to be optimistic, but it's a hard struggle sometimes," said Mr. Gadspur.

"For instance?"

"Well, I find it most difficult when some blithering idiot slaps me on the back so hard he knocks the breath out of me and then tells me to 'cheer up.'"

Sensible Advice.

Young Lady—A friend of mine is engaged to marry a young man, and now he refuses to marry her. What would you advise her to do about it?

Old Lawyer—Is the man wealthy?

Young Lady—He hasn't a dollar.

Old Lawyer—Then I'd advise her to write him a nice letter of thanks.

MATRIMONIAL TRIALS.

"My wife is always contradicting me."

"You're in luck."

"Why?"

"My wife acts as though my opinions were not worth contradicting."

Misanthropes.

The path of life is filled with thorns
For those who try to find them,
Who let each day's mischances small
To greater blessing blind them.

Sad Case.

"Doppel is a fine illustration of the irony of fate."

"In what particular?"

"He has always aspired to a military career."

"Yes?"

"And the nearest he ever got to it was taking orders for a life of Napoleon in two volumes."

Playing Safe.

Newed—I have an option on that Blank avenue house. How would you like it for our future home, my dear?

Mrs. Newed—Oh, it's a lovely place, all right, but you know it is said to be haunted. Mama says she wouldn't set her foot inside the door for any amount of money.

Newed—If you are sure she said that, my dear, I'll close the deal for it the first thing this morning.

Loath to Go.

"It is said that when a man is drowning he lives over his whole life in a few seconds."

"And despite the fact that the average life is a series of failures and disappointments, that doesn't prevent him from reaching any the less eagerly for the proverbial straw."

He's Bound To.

"Look at that old fellow."

"What about him?"

"He's worth a million dollars and never has a happy thought."

"Nonsense. Don't you suppose he ever thinks about his million?"

Equal to the Task.

Her—If you attempt to kiss me I shall scream for help.

Him—You seem to have overlooked the fact that I am an athlete.

Her—But what has that got to do with the case?

Him—I don't need any help.

Too Much Contentment.

"Darling, I could be satisfied in a hut with you!"

"I believe you would. That's the reason I'm going to marry George. He won't."—Kansas City Star.

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. YOST, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

NEW OFFICERS OF CIVIC IMPROVEMENT CLUB

The following new officers have been chosen to direct the work of the Ladies Civic Improvement Club of Clanton for the next year:

President, Mrs. Callen; Vice-President, Mrs. Arthur Johnson; Secretary, Mrs. Collier; Treasurer, Mrs. Deason; Federation Secretary, Mrs. Pinckard.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT CLUB

The ladies civic improvement club of Clanton is just entering upon the third year of its laudable activities in our town and community.

Elsewhere in this paper you will find the annual report of the Secretary, which covers the past year's work of the club.

It does not take any one of such extraordinary or special position of citizenship to see the commendatory points about this work which our good women citizens are and have been conducting.

We commend them most highly for the showing which they have made. And wish that they may long continue active and prosper in the many benefits which they have been able to render in places and instances of civic improvement.

Dock Gentry that old wheel horse Republican from Collins Chapel was down here on Tuesday enjoying the good committee meeting at the courthouse.

Mr. J. W. Hayes of Beat 9 was down Tuesday to the Republican committee meeting. Mr. Hayes will be remembered as the man who ran Mr. R. J. Williams such a close race for Commissioner a few years ago. Many who voted for Williams have long since repented and wished sorely that they had elected Hayes instead.

FERRALINE RELIEVED LUMBAGO SAYS EVERETT

Another Well-Known Citizen of Frankville Says Ferraline is a Good Tonic

And again we hear from Frankville, Ala. This time with a testimonial from J. H. Everett, a prominent stock raiser and planter of Washington county, whose post office is Frankville.

This is the second testimonial in this issue of the Register from citizens of Frankville, but a very few miles from Mobile, in the adjoining county.

Wherever Ferraline is introduced, in that community it is as hard to find the "Knocker" as it is to find the needle in the hay stack.

Those who have used a bottle of Ferraline universally say that it is a tonic of unusual merit, and the analysis of Ferraline proves this true.

The testimonials published by the Frankville Medicine Company, Inc., come to it voluntarily. Not one cent has ever been paid for any testimonial or ever will be.

Hundreds of testimonials received from purchasers of Ferraline who in a spirit of gratitude for what benefits Ferraline has given them are so pronounced in their expressions and praises of the merits of the tonic that the company will only publish those which make claims that we have every evidence either from numerous similar benefits, or as it is evidenced by the composition of Ferraline that it can be depended upon to produce these results.

The medicine Company believes in honesty in all things. It believes first in giving to the purchasers of Ferraline more than their money's worth, for if you have been benefited Ferraline has been worth more than its weight in gold to you. If you have not, and this is very improbable, whether you have bought one bottle or a dozen the company does not desire one penny of your money without value received, and will gladly refund for what you have bought.

The company believes, second, in honesty in its advertisements, and no statement or testimonial will be published not in harmony with this principle.

The company believes, third, that it pays to advertise ONLY when you have the goods that will give to the purchasers entire satisfaction.

The company does not believe that deception in any shape or form ever paid, regardless of the principle involved.

The company does not believe in dishonest methods of doing business.

"I can enthusiastically recommend Ferraline," said Mr. J. H. Everette, to a representative of the Medicine Company. "In 1892 I was confined to my bed with Lumbago.

"I failed to yield to treatment," continued Mr. Everett, "and used the liquid extract known as Ferraline, and began to improve in a few days, after I had been under treatment for several weeks, using different medicines and prescriptions.

"My system had run down, and my blood was impure and impoverish, however, Ferraline quickly brought me back to normal, and I soon recovered my strength and the impurities in my blood disappeared.

"I have not been troubled with uric acid in my blood since, and am enjoying the best of health today."

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, OCTOBER 19, 1916. NUMBER 29.

THE LORD SHOULD SEND DOWN CHARIOT TO TAKE UP THE SECOND ELIJAH

Great Democratic Speakings At Jemison and Mars Hill —by Mr. J. N. Scott.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 16, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I was in Clanton the other day, and it looks like the Democrats are busted. It makes me feel mighty bad to know that they advertised so great a meeting in Clanton, the head of their little ring, and then only fifteen turned out to hear the big guns; but one Democrat said that was about their crowd in Clanton. We had a big blow out in Jemison. Judge Deason the head of the Clanton ring, and Pickens came up to speak to us and if you had heard the bells ringing, you would have thought Xmas was here, or fire had broken out; but Oh my, it was only the ring that had run over the people of this county (and especially Jemison—Democrats and all) who had come up to belch forth the mighty thunder from Mount Sinai. And you know when I looked on that mighty force I wondered why the good Lord did not send down another chariot and take home the second Elijah, for as Mr. Middleton has said by the old soldier, I think he has done enough for his country.

But I was about to get away from my subject, the speaking at Jemison. Well you ought to have seen the crowd. There was all told three besides speakers. There was another speaking at Mars Hill and the great I am, J. J. Pickens and Judge Deason were there, and a few of our people came out to hear them, 12 in all, and when they started to talk about Judge Reynolds Mr. Scott told them they had come out to hear what they had to say, and if they had only come to talk about Judge Reynolds, they would all go home and leave it with them.

We are getting stronger every day for the peoples ticket. You see the court house ring is so small that they have left out of their little circle, the best Democrats even in Clanton, much less over the county.

Now look here voters, there is a great scheme brewing over the county. You know the little ring, that made Judge Adams come down and hog tied the Democrats so that they could get them a man that would do as they wanted him to do—stand by Judge Deason's administration and continue his policies if elected. Now here is what some of them are doing, They are telling our voters that Judge Reynolds will sure be elected, there is only a Republican against him, and of course he will beat Popwell; but they say if you will vote for Pyron I will vote for Reynolds, or they make the same proposition on Herrod, or Dennis. Now voters, do not be fooled by any such tricks or trades, for if any Democrats want to vote for Reynolds they will do it, and if it takes a trade for them to vote for him they will not keep their word any way.

I hear they are going to put it to Judge Reynolds at the last moment. They have been threatening him for the last six months, and now it is reported that they are going around and telling their moneyed friends that they want to raise $2,000.00 and they want to start something at the last moment, and then put out over one hundred men to talk about Judge Reynolds, and see if they can defeat him. But they are only making him stronger every day, and if Prof. J. J. Pickens could see all the voters as he said he was going to see them all and talk to them at the Democratic frost in Clanton, I wish he could for if he was to talk to all the voters, I hardly think Popwell would get enough to count.

The Democrats have tried to play the baby act this time. They lay down on their administration, and I cannot understand why they wanted Judge Adams to uphold Judge Deason's administration when they are not trying to do it themselves. It may be after they saw how bad the thing was, that they have decided it is too bad for them to uphold.

They may buck and rare, but they have made stronger speeches for Judge Reynolds than any one else could ever make for him. When we see our county in debt to the tune of over three hundred thousand dollars, and when we look again and see we have paid over one hundred thousand dollars more taxes in the last six years than we ever paid in the same time before, and we now owe $85,000.00 taxes this fall, and the Lord only knows how we will pay it, my God how can any countryman vote the Democratic ticket? I can see hom the Clanton ring can work so hard, for when our county looses $150,000.00 someone has found $150,000.00, and it must be some of the Clanton ring,for they are the ones that are so desperate. Look at the scrip buyers; watch them how they fight Jugde Reynolds, but this is no wonder, for when he was Judge they had no job, and when he is elected again their job will be gone.

I have hoped Mr. Popwell would tell us where he stands on something. He says he is still a Republican and, whether he is elected or not, he will go back to the Republican party, and he only ask the Democrats to elect him; but he says he will not ever be with them any more. He says to Republicans I want you to forsake your party and leave it long enough to vote for me, and if I am elected I will come back to you. He says to Independent voters I am not with you any longer than for you to vote for me and if you help elect me I am going back to the Republicans. He says to the Socialist come along and help elect me, I am not with you nor never will be, but all I want is your vote. In fact it is almost an insult to the intelligence of all political parties in this county for Mr. Popwell to ask them to support him. Why he will not even tell the people how he is going to vote on the county nominees, and I heard one man say Mr. Popwell refused to say who he would vote for, and made the remark that he had not told any one how he was going to vote this year .

I will say in conclusion that I am not surprised at the fight that is being made on Judge Reynolds by the little clique at Clanton, for if the people will stop to think he has been fighting that clique for over twenty-five years, and has many of their political scalps dingling at his belt on more than one occasion. Some wanted the High School Principalship, some wanted one thing and some another, but the Judge has always stood by the people, and the ring hates him for it. But he will be elected by the largest majority any one was ever elected in this county.

Boys stand by your guns, keep your powder dry, sleep with one eye open, for there never was a time when the peoples liberties were more at stake than now.

Rspectfully,
J. N. SCOTT.

IN MEMORY

On the 20 inst. at 3:20 a. m. the death angel visited our home and took from our midst our precious little darling Willie Mae. She had only been sick five days when the Lord saw fit to call her away. Every thing was done for her that loving hands and physicians could do.

She was 7 years 7 months and 17 days old when she died. She was just lent to us for a certain time and when that time had expired the Lord called her to that home sweet home above where all things are bright and beautiful, where all is peace and love. No one knows how hard it is to have to give up little Willie Mae, our home is so vacant and so lonely without her. She was the life of our home. Jesus had a vacant seat in heaven and wanted Willie Mae and came and took her to fill that seat. And oh, what a sweet thought it is to us to think of our two loved ones who have gone home to glory. They cannot come back to us, but there is consolation in the thought that we can go to them, and by the help of God and the prayers of christian people we are going to prepare to meet her in that sweet by and by.

She was laid to rest in Mt. Hebron cemetery Sept. 21, at 11 o'clock. Funeral services were conducted by Bro. Joe Gibson of Elmore. She leaves a father, mother, three sisters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss, but we know that our loss is heavens gain.

We wish to thank the people in and around Elmore for their kindness to us during the sickness and death of our little darling. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and every one is our prayer.

AN ADDRESS TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

By J. Hance Alred.

Fellow Voters:

On November 7th you will have the opportunity of performing the highest privilege that comes to an American citizen. Hence I am writing you this letter asking your support in my race for the office of Tax Assessor.

In making my plea for your vote, I shall not criticise my opponent, Mr. Dennis, but am one of the many in our county that think the good things should be passed around. Should the citizens of the county re-elect Mr. Dennis, he will have been given twelve years in our best offices. This tenure in office is too long. Washington served eight years as President and for the good of his country, refused another four years. This is right. A custom like this gives the other fellow a chance Another thing so many years in peaceful posession gives one a claim on real property, and so many years in office has a tendency to create a feeling in the office-holder that the ocice is his and this makes him less obliging.

This is my first time to ask the voters to elect me to office, and I do it this time without any apoligies. I am most anxious that you investigate my character, ability and courtesy. If you find after so doing that my opponent excels me in those qualities then it is your duty to cast your vote for him; but should you find that I am equally as strong in those qualities, then I think it is your duty to pass the offices around.

I am a working man and will not get to see all in person, but trust this simple message will assist you in making up your decision.

With best wishes, and trusting that you will remember me on November 7th, I am,

Yours sincerely,
J. HANCE ALRED.

The Civic Club Report

Annual report of Mrs. Hugh Jones, Sec. Civic Improvement Club, covering the period extending from Oct. 1915 to Oct. 1916.

The second annual report of the Civic Improvement Club will doubtless bring some encouragement to its members, as well as the public, because at least something tangible has been accomplished.

In a wonderful far reaching way the work has included the clean up idea generally, together with beautifying unsightly spots, improvements of schools and assisting the poor and unfortunate.

Much of the work cannot be estimated in figures because of the personal time given generously by the ladies. Such as the cemetery which is made clean four times a year largely through the labor of the Civic members; clothing and food sent to the city's poor; remerbrances for the unfortunate at Xmas, and dolls bought for the empty stockings. These things all come through the same channel and an estimate cannot be made.

A great deal of time has been expended on the Grammar School, and in actual figures something like $100.00.

Both the Spelling Bee and the Oyster Supper given for the benefit of School were successful.

On one or two occasions supplies were donated to furnish lunch for the Teachers Institute.

Perhaps one of the pleasantest bits of work of the club during the year was the entertaining of the Girls canning club at their short course this summer.

Another piece of interesting work was the establishment of a lunch stand at Fair grounds from which $31.50 was realized for school. This and the Civic's co-operation with the other clubs in maintaining a rest room for the general public, brought the usefulness of the club work before the people of the rural districts.

In pursuance of the yeras work, its plans, its accomplishments, I venture to say that nothing has more justified the loftiness of its endeavor than the celebrating of Baby Week, the national movement, which so stresses the importance of Birth Registration, and every good for the child, mentally, morally and socially. Child welfare is the federation branch with which the Civic co-operated this year. And in connection with the work, joined the National and State Child Labor Association. The annual dues of which are $3.00. Child Labor Day was observed Jan. 5th, when Mrs. Murdoch, Alabama's Chairman of the Association, was with us and delivered an address in the morning to the public and evening to the Club Women, pointing out the eviel of this menance.

The Club also observed clean up week, Reciprocity and Education Day, when an interesting program was gotten up and Judge Leon McCord ably responded the cause of Education.

In conclusion the Secretary wishes to state that the club year has been successful largely through the efforts of the members, but mainly because the work has been competently supplemented by our capable President, Mrs. Pinckard. We did not accomplish much that we hoped to, but we did give generously of our time and of our effort to the "best things," School Improvement and Child Welfare, and these things shall always claim our loving pride, and shall stimulate the half formed plans of another year's untiring effort.

SOME FACTS ABOUT TAXES AND OTHER MATTERS OF POLITICS

Showing Reduction of L & N Tax and some Raises

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 17, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please permit me to express a few thoughts in your paper concerning the coming election.

First I want to say that I think it is one of the most important elections, both local and national, that we have had in some time.

Times are growing harder all the time and more bankrupting among all classes of people than was ever known before. Wilson was elected on promises and he has failed to carry out any of them. The high cost of living is higher than ever before, and going higher all the time.

The present high price of cotton with less than one-third of a crop this time, which will not be an average of 5 cents for our 1914 crop, which we were robbed out of, but the Democrats claim that it was the war. But if you will remember the same war is going on now that was then.

It would seem from reading the southern democratic news papers that Wilson will be re-elected, but when you read the Northern and North western papers you will see that Hughes will be elected.

Our county affairs have been discussed until every body should understand them. The following will show who pays the taxes of the county and state:

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 16, 1916.
Mr. Lee Vickers,
Clanton, Ala., Route 4,
Dear sir and Friend:

In response to your request I beg to say that the L & N's Franchise tax for 1914 was $6,408.37, for 1916 the franchise tax was only $2,393.83, being lowered $4,014.54.

The following shows some of the values of the common people for the past two years, note the raises:

D. Broadhead, Beat 3, value for 1915 $100.00, 1916 $360.00.

J. W. Henley, Beat 4, [illegible] 1916 $720.

J. W. Edwards, Beat 4, 1915 $2400, 1916 $4300.

Yours truly,
J. N. DENNIS.

The Republican nominees of the county have made it plain that they favor getting the county out of debt, and it is left for the voters to wonder if the Democrats are going in deeper or try to come out some. They should let the voters know where they stand on that questoin.

It seems like from reading the Clanton Press, that claims that it don't want anything but the truth. Before the last two Democratic election it read like F. L. Blackmon was a cheap John, but since he has been nominated it would make it appear that he is Lord of Lords.

Lets all be on our watchout and the right thing at the right time.

It is said that some of the Democrats say that Reynolds will be Judge of Chilton county that it would seem that they ing to resort to something the ballot.

CONFEREES MAKE SLOW PROGRESS

Work In Regard To Mexican Situation Will Not Be Finished For Some Time

CARRANZA FORCES DEFEATED

Elections Are Held In Various Parts Of Mexico For Senators And Deputies To Congress

Atlantic City, N. J.—Members of the Mexican-American joint commission appeared to have little hope that their work would be finished for some time. Their conferences have been resumed.

The Mexicans have not been able thus far to satisfy the American representatives that their government, unassisted, can maintain such order along the border as will safeguard life and property of Americans.

Unofficial information reaching here indicates that it is not improbable General Carranza's impatience at the failure of the American government to withdraw General Pershing's troops might cause him to send to the state department at any time a communication that would give the conference a new aspect.

The Mexicans have been told repeatedly that until a satisfactory method of control has been adopted, the question of the withdrawal of American troops cannot be discussed and Villa activities have been cited as sufficient reason for the maintenance of that attitude.

Carranza Troops Defeated

Laredo, Texas.—Ten thousand de facto government troops who were defeated at Tepuacan October 6 joined the Felix Diaz movement, according to information reaching the border. A column of five thousand troops under Gen. Jose Robles sent against the Revolutionists declared themselves with their leader for Diaz, while another column of equal strength, commanded by Gen. Cesario Castro, likewise deserted, the report said.

General Castro, who is governor of the state of Puebla, is said to have escaped in an automobile with his staff, remaining loyal to Carranza. Elections for senators and deputies were held in various parts of Mexico, according to advices received at Nuevo Laredo. The Mexican congress is scheduled to meet at Queretaro on November 20.

JAPAN INVESTIGATING ANOTHER CONCESSION

Probes Right Given Minnesota Company To Reconstruct Shan- Canal

Tokio, Japan.—The foreign o admitted that Japan had instituted inquiry into the granting by China o a concession for the reconstruction of part of the Grand canal in Shan-Tung province of a company of St. Paul, Minn.

Japanese officials declared that no protests had yet been lodged by Japan with the Chinese government against the American railroad project and it was added that the future action of the government would not be discussed.

Japanese newspapers assert that Russia, Great Britain and France have protested against the signing of a contract between the Chinese government and the St. Paul concern, claiming that such action would be a violation of previous agreements with these powers.

REFUSE TO CLOSE HARBORS

U. S. WILL GIVE SUBMARINES TREATMENT WHICH IS RIGHTFULLY THEIRS.

Negligent Power Will Be Held Responsible For Failure To Distinguish Between Submarines

Washington.—Submarines of belligerent powers visiting American waters will be accorded the treatment which is their due as warships under international law.

This fact has been made known to the entente allied powers by the state department at Washington in answer to an identical memorandum from Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan asking that submarines of every character be prevented from availing themselves of the use of neutral waters, and that such vessels entering neutral harbors be interned.

To a seemingly implied warning in the entente allied note that American submarines might be mistaken by allied warships for enemy submarines, should they navigate waters visited by belligerent submarines, the state department announces that responsibility for the failure of a warship to distinguish between submarines of neutral and belligerent neutrality "must rest entirely upon the negligent power."

May Claim Damages

The claim of the allies that submarines are outlaws, as the note cabled from London shows, brought up the question of whether the American government may be sued for damages resulting from the call of the German submarine U-53 at Newport before she started on her spectacular raid against commerce. The allies may take the position that Newport was made the base for operations which officials estimate already have caused at least $6,000,000 damage to allied shipping and trade. This government, however, holds that a warship has a right to enter a neutral harbor and that the U-53 in no way attempted to make Newport a base.

GERARD IS SILENT ABOUT PEACE STORY

Ambassador Refuses To Deny Or Affirm Reports That He Brings Intervention Request

New York.—Ambassador Gerard, upon his arrival here from Germany, declined to either affirm or deny the published reports that he was returning to the United States on a peace mission on behalf of the emperor of Germany.

Mr. Gerard's attention was called to a story which appeared to the effect that his errand was to inform the administration that a renewal of submarine activity is being considered by Germany in a manner which might threaten German-American relations. Mr. Gerard observed:

"You don't see me quoted anywhere in it, do you?"

o questions put to the ambassador reporters who met him at quarantine, he replied:

"The length of my stay here is not yet determined, neither have I made any plans," he added. "I expect to go to Washington, but when I do not know. I am glad to be home, though."

The Scandinavian-American liner, Frederik VIII, on which Mr. Gerard arrived, was met at quarantine by a municipal police boat on which was Mayor Mitchell's reception committee, headed by Oscar Straus, chairman of the public service commission. Mrs. Gerard was presented with a large bouquet of American Beauty roses as she came aboard the patrol.

Alleged Plot Caused The Ultimatum

London.—According to dispatches received here the entente allies sent their ultimatum to Greece because they had unearthed a royalist plot to fight the entente. It was planned that if the allies should seek to coerce Greece into joining the war and try to force Eliptherios Venizelos upon King Constantine, the king should retire northward, takin gthe troops with him, and concentrate at Trikala.

The French Capture 1,200 Prisoners

Paris.—In fighting south of the Somme river, the French troops captured the village of Bovent, the north and west outskirts of Ablaincourt and also the greater part of the Chaulnes wood. Prisoners to the number of 1,200 were taken in the operation, according to the official communication.

Call Raid Challenge To Americans

Paris.—Under the headings of "Blackmail" and "Defiance," the newspapers print in prominent positions every scrap of news obtainable about the submarine campaign on the American coast, accompanied by plentiful comment. The general sentiment of the press is that Germany is challenging the United States with a conviction that the challenge will not be taken up, and that neutrals must see that they acted unwisely in "not nipping the submarine warfare on commerce in the bud."

AUTO LICENSES SHOW INCREASE

JEFFERSON LEADS IN NUMBER OF PLEASURE AND COMMERCIAL CARS.

STATE CAPITAL HAPPENINGS

Doings In and Around the State House Chronicled for Our Readers.

—Montgomery.

Records of the Board of Equalization show that automobile licenses during the fiscal year ending September 30 increased nearly 100 per cent over the number for the preceding year. During the last year the total licenses issued was 23,033. Of this number 17,748 were for pleasure cars, 3,888 for commercial cars and 1,397 for mortorcycle.

Jefferson leads the list with 3,474 pleasure cars, 1,132 commercial cars and 597 motorcycles. Mobile is second with 1,272 pleasure cars, 264 commercial cars and 156 mortocycles. Montgomery is third with 1,137 pleasure cars, 243 commercial cars and 143 motorcycles.

In eight counties no motorcycle licenses were issued, they being Fayette, Henry, Lamar, Lawrence, Lowndes, Pickens, Washington and Wilcox. Dallas and Tuscaloosa Counties led in the list of the second tier of counties in the number of private licenses.

Convicts Make Cane Syrup.

Another step toward the elimination of the lease system from the Convict Department and the establishment of a system which will keep the convicts under control of the State at all times and use their services in needful occupations, was reported by the Convict Department when it received samples of the first cane syrup manufactured at the State Prison at Speigner. The Convict Department has erected a steam plant and in it will be manufactured syrup from all cane grown by the State this year.

The State has fifty acres of cane at Speigner and estimates are that 20,000 gallons of syrup will be obtained from it. This will not supply the demand, but will go far towards the elimination of an expense which has been heavy in the past. The syrup will be distributed among the various convict camps. Next year more ground will be planted in cane and the intention of the Convict Department is to grow enough cane to supply all camps with syrup.

2,000 Pensioners Die During Year.

Records compiled by the Pension Commission show that nearly $50,000 in pension warrants were returned to the State during the past fiscal year as the result of the death of nearly 2,000 pensioners. If this heavy death rate continues Alabama pension lists will be reduced to about 3,00 in five years. If 2,000 persons, now drawing pensions, die during this year the State will be able to pay the pensioners every penny called for by the pension laws and will return several thousand dollars to the treasury.

The total number of pensioners on the roll at the beginning of the new fiscal year, October 1, was 15,404, and to this number total pensions for the quarters amounted to $287,648. The first class pensioners, 1,984, drew $49,600; the second class pensioners, 5,832, drew $116,640, and the third class pensioners, 7,588, received $121,408.

Had not the Legislature reclassified the widows of Confederate soldiers last year and raised their ratings the State would have paid the pensioners every penny called for by the law during the last fiscal year.

Road Draft Made Up.

Following the completion of a tenative draft of the public roads of Alabama, which will be improved with the Federal appropriation, the State Highway Commission instructed Robert E. Spragins, of Huntsville, Chairman of the Commission, and W. S. Keller, State Highway Engineer, to go to Washington for a conference with the Federal Department of Agriculture and for the submission of the draft to the department. Chairman Spraggins and Engineer Keller will go to Washington in about two weeks, their trip being delayed by the coming of the pathfinders of the Jackson Highway Association, who are seeking to determine whether the Alabama route or the Mississippi route is the more suitable for the link of the highway extending from Nashville to New Orleans. Engineer Keller has announced that the roads to be improved under the tentative plan will not be given to the public until the Federal Department of Agriculture has placed its stamp of approval on them.

Many Secure Higher Places—Private Pottsford Slightly Hurt.

Douglas, Ariz.—The Alabama batteries are now being conducted as though composing a battalion. L. S. Dorrance, Battery A, as senior Captain is in command of both batteries. Lieutenant Jamison, Battery C, has been selected as his Adjutant. With the election of Lieutenants Rogers and Richardson Battery C has been almost completely reorganized and is being handled well under new assignments of non-commissioned officers.

Richardson and Rogers, both of Birmingham, were elected Lieutenants of Battery C to fill vacancies caused by loss of Lieut. Henry Porter and Lieut. John Fray. Fray was transferred to the new Alabama cavalry as Captain and Porter resigned from the service.

For two days now the batteries have been working, handicapped by Arizona sand storms, which are nothing more than clouds of dust, that make it impossible at times to see more than fifty yards.

Captain Anthony, who is in charge of the hospital detachment assigned to the two batteries, has placed his quarters in shape and is able to take care of any sickness or accident that might occur.

Private Bottsford of Battery A was kicked by a horse while attempting to He was painfully, but not seriously hurt.

Montgomery Next Host of Veterans.

Gadsden.—Montgomery in 1917 will entertain the Alabama division of United Confederate Veterans, General Charles W. Hooper commanding. This was decided at the closing session of the reunion here, when Col. B. M. Washington presented Montgomery's invitation, the only one before the meeting of the veterans. Gen. W. C. Hooper, of Selma, was re-elected commander of the Alabama division. The brigade commanders were elected as follows: First Brigade—Gen. John B. Fuller, of Montgomery. Second Brigade—Gen. Oliver J. Semmes, of Mobile. Third Brigade—Gen. T. P. Lampkin, of Jasper. Fourth Brigade—Gen. W. R. Pruett, of Ashland. Gen. A. G. Smith did not seek re-election to the position of commander of the Fourth brigade.

Mobile to Stop Anti-Tick Work.

Mobile.—The Board of Revenue and Road Commissioners of Mobile County have decided to eliminate all cattle tick eradication in this county. Dissatisfaction over the operation of the law and refusal of some cattle owners to dip their cattle caused the tick inspectors to be withdrawn. The Commissioners refused to pay the salaries of the members of the Board of Equalization for September on the ground that the limit of their duties were ended August 1.

Official Is Found Dying in Swamp.

Demopolis.—H. C. Carter, Tax Collector of Marengo County, who was found dead in a swamp near here was buried at Spring Hill. It is believed he committed suicide. Recently the Marengo County Grand Jury indicted Carter on a charge of embezzlement, his alleged shortage being near $1,100. The alleged shortage was said to have been purely technical. Carter is said to have given several prominent men receipts for their taxes, expecting to receive their checks before his final settlement. As he failed to advertise the property for sale and had given receipts, his accounts were found to be short.

Plans to Improve Harbor Discussed.

The total assessed valuation of tre entire property of the county for the year 1916 is $166,030,043, showing an increase over the preceding year of $19,014,497. The total amount of state and county taxes to be collected this year will be $2,241,419.41.

Cotton Seed Goes Up.

Eufiula.—Cotton seed is running the gamut of high prices in all parts of the country. Seed brought $52 per ton here and is being quoted as high as $55 at Clayton and Louisville, where speculators are running up the price over what mill buyers are offering. A number of men have heavy seed holdings, upon which they expect to realize a good profit before the first of the year. Peanuts are being bought at $60 per ton and it is thought that the mills will be offering a better price of these as the season progresses.

RUMANIAN LOSS IS HEAVY SAYS BERLIN

STATE THAT THE FIRST AND AND SECOND ARMIES ARE ALMOST ANNIHILATED.

FRENCH FORCES ADVANCE

Petrograd Reports That Neither Side Has Made Progress in Volhynia and Galicia.

Berlin.—"The Rumanian second army, in its retreat in Transylvania, lost approximately two divisions," says the Overseas News agency. "The Rumanian First Army and the larger part of the second army have been virtually innihilated.

"When the successful attack was made on the first army at Hermanstadt by the Austro-German troops, the Rumanians planned to send the second army to its assistance. This plan was learned from reports of aviators which were found. The second army advanced too far to the west and was forced to retreat in haste. Its retreat became a panicky flight. On October 13 isolated detachments were still being rounded up. Captured officers say the army was completely disorganized. It would have been annihilated if Rumanian reinforcements had not been hurried in through the Torzburger and Predeal passes.

"The Rumanian leaders lost their surety of decision. Brigades and regiments in desperation were moved hastily forward and back on railroads and even on pushcarts. One pitiful fragment of the army could be only rescued from Transylvania.

"Transylvania is clear of the Rumanians except for small sections near the border. At the same time the Rumanians' hopes of obtaining assistance from the people of Transylvania have been frustrated. The entire Transylvania population and the better Rumanian element feel they have been delivered from a nightmare as the Rumanians have been expelled after a short reign of terror."

Paris.—Continuing their attacks on the Somme front the French penetrated German positions at Sailly-Saillisel, the war office announced. They occupied houses on the edge of the road to Bapaume. The Germans made a violent center attack and the fighting is still in progress.

Hard fighting is going on from the west of Lutsk, through Galacia to the Carpathian mountains. In Volhynia, despite fierce attacks on both sides, there is seemingly is a stalemate. Petrograd reports that neither the Austro-Germans nor the Russians have been able to gain advantage in Galicia, where battles have taken place along the Tarnopol-Krasne railway east of Lemberg and to the north of Stanislau. Several small successes of the Austro-Germans have been attained in the Carpathian mountains.

Two Negroes Lynched.

Paducah, Ky.—On the heels of a double lynching here Paducah authorities prepared for possible further troubles by ordering its saloons closed and by swearing in extra peace officers. The authorities were said to fear further violence as a result of the summary execution during the day of two negroes, whose bodies afterwards were burned. One of them was charged with attacking a white woman and the other expressed sympathy for him and, it was said, lauded his act.

Warships Collide in Fog.

Berlin.—"A British and an Italian warship, in consequence of a fog, collided in the Messina channel (between the mainland of Italy and the Island of Sicily) Amsterdam reports," says an item given out by the Overseas News agency. "The ships shelled each other and one was damaged heavily. A British armored cruiser was towed to Naples. Details are yet unavailable."

Ohio Man Kills Girl's Suitor.

Canton, Ohio.—After cordially greeting Victor Roderick, 19-year-old suitor for his daughter's hand, in his home, W. G. Brittson, formerly a well-known baseball pitcher, shot the youth and then committed suicide here. Brittson objected to the youth's attention to his daughter.

Petrograd.—The Russian submarine Tulen on October 12, after an engagement near the Bosphorus, captured the Turkish 6000-ton armed war transport Roditsto, says Russian official statement. The transport commanded by German officers was taken to Sebastopol.

Carranza Soldiers Desert to Diaz.

Laredo, Tex.—Ten thousand de facto government troops who were defeated at Tepuacan, October 6, joined the Felix Diaz Movement, according to seeming reliable information along the border. A column of 5000 troops, under General Rose Robies, sent against the revolutionists, declared themselves with their leader for Diaz, while another column of equal strength commanded General Cesario Castro, likewise deserted, the report said. General Castro remained loyal to Carranza.

ROUMANIANS ARE FORCED TO RETIRE

Teutons Clear Territory North Of Kronstadt, And Are Also Successful Southeast Of The City

FIERCE BATTLES ARE RAGING

French And British Are Repulsed In New Attempt To Break Through On Somme River

London.—Steadily the pressure of the Austro-German forces is compelling the Roumanian troops, who invaded Transylvania less than eight weeks ago, to fall back upon or toward their own frontier. In eastern Transylvania, north of Kronstadt, Berlin reports additional territory free of Roumanians. Southeast of Kronstadt, the Ausetro-Germans have also been successful against the invaders. The Roumanians, however, are offering stubborn resistance. Bucharest reports the repulse by them of attacks on the frontier of southern Transylvania.

Violent infantry fighting continues on the Carso front in the Austro-Italian theater, with further successes for the Italians. In the vicinity of Gorizia and to the south of this region they have repulsed heavy Austrian counter attacks, inflicting heavy casualties, and east of Doberdo have approached the second Austrian line, taking four hundred prisoners.

Vienna admits the loss of the town of Navavas, but announces that the Austrians put down Italian attacks at other points on the Carso plateau and made 2,700 men prisoner. In the Pasubio region of the Trentino sector some additional gains in ground are claimed by the Italians.

The French and British have been repulsed in a new attempt to break through the German lines between the Ancre and the Somme rivers in France. The British attacked in the district around Gueudecourt and the French near Sailly, but neither was able to pierce the defense of the Germans, although the British claim a slight advance near Gueudecourt. To the south of the Somme stubborn fighting is still in progress at Genermont and Ablaincourt.

NO BRITISH ISSUE OVER THE U-BOAT RAID

Submarine Activities Not More Objectionable Off U. S. Coast Than Any Other Places

Washington.—The operations of the German submarine boat U-53 off the American coast raises no new issues, as far as the British government is concerned, in the opinion of Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, who discussed the latest development in the relations between Great Britain and the United States. Lord Robert declared that this form of warfare on merchantmen violated international law as it was recognized by Great Britain and the United States in the days before the war, and was still objectionable to Great Britain, but no more so than when it is done on this side of the water.

Referring to reports of meetings between Sir Richard Crawford, commercial attache of the British embassy at Washington, with American bankers and business men, Lord Robert said no departure in principle had been made from the British blockade measures, but it could be safely said that the general policy leaned in the direction of a modification rather than an extension of the blacklist. The reply to the American blacklist note was now on the way to Washington and this answered the American criticism of the principles behind the measure. As regards the administration of the blacklist, Lord Robert said Washington had forwarded very few individual complaints about it.

Storm Plays Havoc With Georgia Camp

El Paso, Texas.—Swooping down from over the mountains on the west, a severe Texas storm played havoc in the Georgia artillery camp blowing down tents and drenching everything inside and outside for the hour or more that the storm raged. It was estimated that the wind reached a velocity of at least fifty miles an hour while the storm was at its height.

Twelve Sixteen-Inch Rifles Favored

Washington.—Navy official anticipate that American battleships authorized next year will be armed with twelve 16-inch rifles as against the eight sitxeen-inch guns of the ships for which bids will be opened October 25. Members of the general board are said to be in favor of radically increasing the size of the new battleships in order that the 50 per cent increase in gun power may be attained. To carry 16-inch rifles it has been roughly estimated that the ships would require a large displacement.

Radical Changes In Censoring Mails

Washington.—Radical changes in the treatment of mails on neutral ships are promised in the reply of the British and French governments to the American protests against interference with such mails. The changes, while short of an abandonment of the contention of the right to search for information of value to an enemy, are regarded by the allies as sufficient to meet the wishes of the United States. The subject has been under consideration for a great length of time.

ITALIAN ADVANCE RENEWED

SEVERAL AUSTRIAN TRENCHES STORMED AND TAKEN BY THE ITALIANS

Teutons Are Driven From Heights Between The Vippaco River And Hill 208

Paris.—The Italians have again taken the offensive against the Austrians in their endeavor to reach Triest, Austria's chief port on the Adriatic, and at several points south and southeast of Gorizia have made good progress and in addition taken nearly 6,000 prisoners.

South of Gorizia the Austrian line was broken between Tobar and Vertoiba, according to Rome, and on the Carso front entrenchments between Vipacco river and Hill 208 were captured. Here the town of Novavilla and a strong position around the northern part of the hill feel into the hands of the attackers. Trenches in the Trentino region also have been won by the Italians and 530 Austrians made prisoner.

In Transylvania the forces of the Teutonic allies are continuing their drive on the Roumanians along almost all of the front. Bavarian troops which captured the Rothenthurm pass have now crossed the border into Roumania. According to Bucharest, which admits the retirement of the Roumanians around Kronstadt, fierce Teutonic attacks were repulsed south of Hermanstadt wtih heavy casualties to the attackers.

ALLIES DEMAND CONTROL OF THE GRECIAN FLEET

Greek Forts And Piraeus-Larissa Railway Also Included In The Demands

London.—Vice Admiral Dartige du Fournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet in the Mediterranean, has presented an ultimatum to Greece, demanding that Greece hand over the entire Greek fleet except the armored cruiser Averoff and the battleships Lemnos and Kilkis, to the entente allies.

Demand is also made for the control of the Piraeus-Larisas railway.

"The minister of marine," the correspondent continues, "says Vice Admiral Fournet's demands will be complied with and that the fleet will be handed over.

"The demands were made as a precautionary measure to insure the safety of the allies' fleet."

It is explained that the dispatch of artillery and ammunition to the interior, the movements of Greek ships and the continued activity of the Reservist Leagues have aroused fears of a disturbance of order at points where the allies' war vessels are anchored and also endanger the security of the allied troops on the Balkan front.

Vice Admiral du Fournet demands the disarming of the Kilkis, Lemnos and Averoff and the dismantling of the forts on the sea coast.

Can Be No Conference, Says Asquith

London.—"This is no time for faltering counsel or wavering purpose," said Premier Asquith in addressing the house of commons. "This war cannot be allowed to end in some patched up, precarious and dishonoring compromise masquerading under the name of peace. No one desires to prolong for a single moment longer than is necessary the tragic spectacle of bloodshed and destruction, but we owe it to those who have given their lives that their supreme sacrifices shall not have been unavailing. The ends of the allies are well known. They have been frequently stated. They are not selfish; they are not vindictive, but they require adequate reparation for the past and adequate security for the future." The house cheered the premier loudly as he made these remarks in concluding his address, after moving a vote of credit for £300,000,000, bringing up the total for the current financial year to £1,350,000,000.

12 Men Carried By Big Flying Boat

Buffalo, N. Y.—An enormous flying boat, built after the lines of the America, with eleven passengers seated in the cabin and the pilot, made a trial trip at a height of five hundred feet over Lake Keuka. The new flying boat has a greater spread of wing than the America. It is not of the tractor type. There are two pusher propellers, each operated by an eight cylinder motor of 200 horsepower.

Advisory Commission For Defense

Harrisburg, Pa.—President Wilson, en route to Indianapolis, announced the appointment of the members of the advisory commission to be associated with the council of national defense created by congress. The seven members of the new advisory commission are Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O.; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Dr. Franklin H. Martin of Chicago, Howard E. Coffin of Detroit, Bernard Baruch of New York, Dr. Hollis Godfrey and Julius Rosenwald.

Serbian Red Cross Supplies Exhausted

Belgrade.—The food supplies of the American Red Cross relief commission will be exhausted by the end of November and the commission's relief work in Serbia will then cease, according to Dr. Edward Stuart, director of the commission. So far 3,180 tons of food have been distributed to the needy in Belgrade and vicinity in addition to ten carloads of clothing. The number of persons dependent on the commission for entire or partial relief is said to be in the neighborhood of thirty-six thousand.

NO RELIEF GIVEN

Democrats Have Broken Promises Made to Voters.

Main Plank of Platform on Which Wilson Was Elected Was Assurance of Reduction of Living—Instead, It Has Advanced.

For what purpose did the American people elect a Democratic administration in 1912?

Everybody whose memory runs back four years recalls that the really big issue in the campaign then was the high cost of living and the tariff. There is no argument on the fact that the plank in the Democratic platform of 1912 having the widest appeal was that which declared:

"We . . . charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws, and we assert that no substantial relief can be secured for the people unless import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and those criminal conspiracies broken up."

The first thing the Democratic administration did was to reduce the tariff and to adopt an entirely new tariff system, abolishing the Republican protective system. This new tariff law was approved October 3, 1914. That was ten months before the war in Europe began.

You do not have to consult any adviser or table of statistics to answer the question: "Has the Democratic tariff law and other Democratic legislation reduced your cost of living?"

Did you note any decrease in your living expense in any month from the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson, March 4, 1913, down to the present?

Has the Democratic administration made good on its promises? You are just as competent to answer these questions as anyone else.

Of course the Democrats seek an excuse in the fact of the war in Europe. They blame that war for the failure of the Underwood tariff law, for the huge increase in the cost of government, for the fact that the cost of living goes ever higher.

Remember back, however, to the months before the war when the Underwood tariff law was in effect, and recall what you noted.

Have you forgotten the closed factories, the stagnation of industry, the laying off of men, the soup kitchens in the large cities, the poverty and the woe that was sweeping over the land? Have you forgotten the bread lines and the ever-increasing appeals for charity? Have you forgotten the high prices?

True, there is a measure of prosperity now. Out of your own knowledge in your own community you can trace it back to its source, increased European buying incident to the war, principally war orders. "Blood-soaked prosperity" some statesman has called it. The phrase is descriptive.

But your own reason tells you that it is a prosperity that is not going to last.

Have you not noted that this temporary and precarious prosperity is confined to industrial centers and to food-supply regions adjacent to those industrial centers?

For example, you find none of it on the Pacific slope, a region too new to maintain great and varied industries that might fatten on war orders, and too remote to act as a reservoir of supply. The great industry of the Pacific Northwest, the lumber and shingle industry, has starved under the free trade Democratic tariff, to the sole advantage of Canada, with Canada's mills and camps manned by Chinese, Hindoos and other cheap-paid Asiatics. The lemon trade of California, a huge trade when protected, likewise has starved under the same Democratic free trade.

Have you felt any of the benefits promised by the Democrats to flow from this new policy, benefits based on the ill fortune of your fellow Americans? Ask this question seriously of yourself.

Vain Effort.

I have tried hard to earn the confidence of all progressive and forward looking men.—President Wilson.

Mr. Wilson is not succeeding very well, because all really progressive and forward looking men after looking backward over his administration prefer to see Charles Evans Hughes in the White House.

Truly Astonishing.

"President Wilson's achievements," says the Wilson league, "constitute an astonishing program." Webster defines astonish as "to strike with sudden fear, terror, surprise or wonder." The Wilson league is to be commended for its frankly accurate summary of the Wilson record.

Colorado Miners Lucky.

The president was so busy with other matters that he failed to interfere in the adjustment of differences between the Colorado miners and mine owners. Their differences were submitted to arbitration and the miners got a raise.

Still One Gun Shy.

President Wilson demanded a salute of 21 guns at Vera Cruz. In reply, the Mexicans killed 20 American marines. The president is still one gun shy at Vera Cruz.

AS TO CHILD LABOR BILL

Some Facts of the Legislation With Which the Voters May Not Be Properly Informed.

The child labor bill, which forbids interstate traffic in goods turned out by factories or mines employing children under fourteen years of age or working persons between fourteen and sixteen more than eight hours a day, is a fine piece of humanitarian legislation. By making it a federal law congress, thanks to the insistence of President Wilson, has done something most of the intelligent people of the United States have desired for the last 20 years.—Collier's Weekly.

But why not tell the whole story and say that the child labor bill is in its origin a Republican measure which would never have been enacted except with Republican support and that its most determined opposition came from Democratic senators representing states of the solid South, which form the backbone of the Democratic party?

Why not tell, also, that the need of such a law is not because of conditions in Republican states, all of which already have laws regulating the labor of children, but because of conditions in a few Democratic-ridden Southern states which have—time and again—defeated every effort to curtail the employment of children in their factories.

Why not tell, too, that a "joker" has already been discovered in the bill which may leave the door open for evasion of its restrictions in the Democratic states where child labor is lawful and still tolerated, if not encouraged?

Finally, why not ask why President Wilson remained deaf to the demand for this fine piece of humanitarian legislation for nearly three years and a half of his administration and became active for it only on the eve of his campaign for re-election in which he wanted to throw out this hook for votes to make Republican progressives believe he was with them for progressive measures all the time?—Omaha Bee.

Mrs. Hughes as a Campaigner.

Charles Evans Hughes was a happy man the day after the Maine election. There were two reasons for his happiness, the decision in Maine and a decision nearer home. Mrs. Hughes decided to accompany her distinguished husband on the second campaign trip, which will continue with only two days' interruption until election day. Mrs. Hughes has not missed a single meeting since the campaign began. She has not failed to stand by her husband on the car platform at every station where his train stopped and sit near him as he spoke in the many halls and auditoriums along the way. Mr. Hughes insists that whatever success he may have attained on the trip is due in large measure to the fact that Mrs. Hughes is with him, helping him make friends by her winning manner and at all times giving him the benefit of her good counsel and cheerful company. In addition to talking over his speeches with him, Mrs. Hughes makes many suggestions about his correspondence and writes a daily letter to her children, from whom she has never been separated so long before. When Mr. Hughes started on his first swing around the circle Mrs. Hughes did not intend to appear on the platform, but much preferred to sit in the audience, as she is almost timid in her manner and the very antithesis of aggressiveness. But the people insisted upon seeing her, so after her husband had been interrupted at several places by calls for Mrs. Hughes, she reconciled herself to circumstances and now she bravely "faces the music" at every meeting. Mrs. Hughes is far from being a "politician," but she is one of the best helpmates a man ever had. "She's a winner" is the way the correspondent of a metropolitan Democratic paper who is accompanying Mr. Hughes describes her, "and I couldn't be sorry to see her the first lady of the land, in spite of my politics."

He Curled Up on the Floor.

It is announced that Congressman McGillicuddy, the president's champion, who was so unexpectedly defeated in the Maine landslide, has declined an invitation of the Democratic national committee to make speeches in the central West. Mr. McGillicuddy's disinclination is suggestive of that of Abner Dean of Angels, who, when swatted in the abdomen with a chunk of red standstone during a session of the Stanislaus society,

"Smiled a sickly sort of smile and curled up on the floor,
And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more."

Unfulfilled Democratic Promise.

The price of meat will probably remain high for an indefinite term, is the subject of a statement by the department of agriculture. This is one of the articles specifically enumerated by the Democrats as certain to decline in price when the Underwood tariff act put it on the free list.

Clark Sees the Light.

"You can see anything you want to see in the Maine election returns," says the Springfield Republican. Champ Clark evidently sees a new speakership of the house of representatives.

President Wilson's early training as a choir singer is standing him in good stead. He is issuing more notes than Caruso.

"I do not sleep all the time in the senate," says Vice President Marshall. More's the pity.

SEPARATES FROM WITCHMAD WIFE

Mr. Gable Didn't Mind Charms and Things, but He Feared for His Safety.

SALT BETWEEN SHEETS

Shouts at Night and Knife Stab in Pillow Broke His Nerve, So He Put the Case Up to Divorce Master.

Reading, Pa.—Still a believer in "hexerei," the German term for witchcraft in this part of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Laura Gable of this city has just learned that charms and incantations may be more successful in keeping away witches than in keeping a husband.

John K. Hahn, master in divorce, has recommended a decree to Joseph H. Gable, whose life appears to have been anything but monotonous because of his wife's weird superstitions. Mr. Hahn decided that Mrs. Gable's campaign to prevent a threatened drive by the witches was not productive of household harmony. His recommendation is equivalent to a decree.

Charms for Protection.

Mr. Gable testified he did not mind so much when Mrs. Gable marked a double cross on the door to keep away witches and wore a charm around her neck and papers with prayers and incantations in her hair for the purpose of keeping the evil one where he belonged.

He remonstrated mildly when, instead of preparing food for the table, Mrs. Gable used the top of the kitchen stove to make strange brews in a caldron, while he took his three meals a day more or less uncomplainingly from the pantry shelf. There was coolness but no open hostilities when Mr. Gable, returning late one night, stumbled over his cane and the family collection of umbrellas arranged in the form of a pantagram just inside the front door.

Patience No Virtue.

Patience ceased to be a virtue with Mr. Gable when Mrs. Gable's fear of "hexes" led her to use the family purse to visit "hexerei" specialists in

Was Awakened by a Shout of "Abracadabra!"

Pittsburgh and New York city. The war between husband and wife was on in earnest when Mrs. Gable was informed that rock salt was a sure "hex" exterminator, and sprinkled a liberal supply between the bed sheets.

The climax came one night when Mr. Gable was awakened by a shout of "Abracadabra!" and found a keen-bladed knife driven into the pillow within an inch of his nose. Although satisfied that any "hex" which might have been lurking underneath was there no longer, Mr. Gable felt no inclination for further slumber, and passed the rest of the night in the attitude of a sentinel fearing a surprise attack from the enemy's first-line trench.

The action for divorce followed. After what he had been through, Mr. Gable said he would have no fear in meeting the maddest "hex" that ever rode a broomstick face to face.

HUSBAND WORE THE SKIRTS

Now He Is in Jail in Lewistown, Pa., Charged With Masquerading.

Lewistown, Pa.—James Burnell is serving 30 days in jail because he preferred to wear his wife's skirts while enjoying a day in Burnham park. Burnell has been a leading figure in masquerades near Lewistown for several years and decided to spend a day among the ladies as one of their number. When he withdrew to an isolated spot to change his wearing apparel he was arrested by an officer and escorted to jail.

Sheriff Van Zandt, who admires an "old-fashioned" mother, took Burnell as he appeared and confined him for a night and a day in the women's apartments in the jail. Then the prisoner broke down, confessed his crime and felt better after his wife had called and taken her best clothes back to their home.

FOND WIFE TO TWO HUSBANDS AT ONCE

And It Was Difficult Not to Call Either Spouse by Other's Name.

Pottsville, Pa.—With large, somewhat pearly tears trickling down her pretty face, Mary Vollen, as constant a bride as ever rushed to and from an altar, has confessed to Alderman P. J. Martin that she had married two men within a year and was still their fond and thoughtful wife. This seemed a great deal to tell an alderman, but the fact was that a hearing was being held before that official into the life and loves of Mary Vollen.

The young woman told, between sighs and sniffles, of how she had lived a double life on a single block, at the ends of which were the homes her loving husbands kept for her. Her husbands, Matthew Karacitis and Vincent Vollen, were both in court registering amazement and uncertain whether it would be advisable to fight a duel or burst out crying. They left the room through different doors, still stunned, before the hearing was half over.

Mary told of how difficult it had been to rush from home to home and never call either husband by the other's name. She had married Vollen in March, 1915, and, according to Karacitis, had proposed to him in May last. He, flattered, bought a ring and joined the matrimonial syndicate.

Alderman Martin held the young woman in $5,000 bail, and she immediately associated with her husbands. A courier pulled the bells at the homes out about a yard, but there was no response. It seemed as though there was no one at either residence.

ELECTRIC IRON CAUSES DEATH

Housewife Supposedly Tries to Make Adjustment While Standing on Damp Basement Floor.

Cleveland, O.—Standing on a damp basement floor while using an electric iron, Mrs. Augusta Tichorowski was electrocuted here. From an investigation by the police it is thought that the woman tried to adjust the plug at the base of the iron without shutting off the current.

While doing this her hand evidently came in contact with the live end of the plug wire and the current passed through her body into the damp floor. Her two children ran frightened for aid. When neighbors arrived they found Mrs. Tichorowski unconscious, her hand clutching the plug end of the cord.

LICENSE TORN; COUPLE WED

The Young Folks Tell Clerk Permit Was Destroyed by Mistake, So He Gives Them New One.

Cleveland, O.—A little heap of paper fragments was placed on Marriage License Clerk Frank Zizelman's desk the other afternoon. A girl of nineteen alternately smiled and blushed.

Her companion blushed, too. He—yes, the escort was of the opposite sex—pointed to the bits of torn paper.

"I—we—we want another marriage license," the young man stammered.

Visions of a lover's quarrel flashed across Mr. Zizelman's mind.

"But they were all dressed up and they looked so radiantly happy I didn't have the heart to ask them," the license clerk said later.

"It was an accident. I tore the license up in mistake," said the young man, turning to the blushing girl at his side for corroboration.

Mr. Zizelman examined the bits. They were the remnants of a license he had issued to Robert B. Jones and Julia B. Barta. A new one was issued.

Nearly Drowned by Big Fish.

Greenville, Pa.—W. S. Greene, a Greenville merchant, almost lost his life at Van Buren point on Lake Erie recently, when he hooked a 56-pound muscallonge while trolling for bass. A. H. Belding was in the boat with Greene. As Greene was reaching over the side of the boat the muscallonge started suddenly to the bottom and Greene was pulled overboard. Although both men were thrown into the water, they succeeded in landing the big fish.

It is announced that Mr. Wilson's campaign speeches, "non-political" and other, will "deal with four issues." This is wholly consistent. There are four points to the compass, and Mr. Wilson has in turn pointed to all of them on every question he has had to deal with.

By the way, what everbecame of that $12,500,000 we received from Greece for those two old battleships? It was to be used for the construction of a warship of modern design. Did McAdoo cover that into his net balance, or was it expended for Southern 'pork'? We have never seen any account rendered of it.

In a speech before the bankers assembled at Kansas City, John Skelton Williams spoke [illegible] the Democratic party for the prosperity now enjoyed by some people in this country and cited figures to show the enormous development of the industries of the country from 1902 to 1914. How he could take credit to the Democratic party for that development, is difficult to understnad. All of that period except three months of 1913 and all of 1914 were under Republican laws, and the portion of the period under Democratic laws was the dullest of all.

It is difficult to understnad why Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels should allow his paper, the Raleigh, N. C., News & Observer to repeatedly cast slurs at members of the National Guard from Northern states. Not long ago he was rejoicing over the fact that Southern regiments, unlike the Northern regiments, had few men of foreign ancestry. Now his paper tells of the meeting of a North Carolina regiment and a New York regiment, and says "The New York boys were slender chaps, evidently town bred, while the North Carolina boys had all the appearances of men bred in the open larger and broader of shoulder." Since all of them were enlisted under the same army regulations, it is a safe guess that there was on the average no material difference, but with his usual provincialism the editor of the North Carolina paper must make comparisons to the disadvantage of the soilder from the North.

Congressman McGillicuddy's defeat in the Maine district where he was thought to be invincible carried a meaning all its own. He has posed, in Congress and out, as the idol of the laboring man. His utterances, his votes, such patronage as he controlled, the legislation which he sponsored—all were made to contribute to the fetich that "Danny Mack" was the one true and irrevocable friend of the toiler. He entered the campaign fresh from his vote for the pseudo "eight-hour-a-day" bill. Samuel Gompers went into his district to preach the doctrine of "Danny Mack's" orthodoxy. If ever the labor vote was to be "delivered", surely "Danny Mack" had a license to sign the receipt. Yet his Republican opponent won, with a vote bigger by a thousand than the combined Republican and Progressive strength of two years ago. The moral is that the labor vote is cast in accordance with the personal political principles of the individual members of the labor unions and not as the leaders attempt to dictate.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Fourth District Sunday School Convention will be held at Walnut Creek church Friday Oct. 20th.

Pres. County S. S. Assn.

DENNIS AND ALRED

Our readers will notice in this issue a statement from Mr. J. Hance Alred, in regard to his candidacy for the office of Tax assessor. Mr. Alred is on the Democratic ticket opposing Mr. Dennis, the Republican candidate.

We desire to say a few words in regard to the two candidates and their races.

To begin with, we desire to state unhesitatingly, and with all respect to both the gentlemen, that we favor the candidacy of Mr. Dennis, and would commend the voters of the county in casting their ballot for him.

In the first place Mr. Alred is affilliated with the wrong political party, according to our way of thinking.

We believe in getting the best man to fill our offices, and further, we believe in getting this best man out of the best political party. Hence our reason for advocating Mr. Dennis.

We have always regarded it as a pretty weak argument to say a man should not be re-elected to an office because he has had it a long time, even in the face of the fact that he has filled said office to the complete satisfaction of his fellow citizens.

More than in any other case is this method exploded in the case of an office like the Tax Assessor.

Everyone knows what it means to have a man in the Tax Assessor's office who does not perform every duty as it should be done. Little things disregarded soon pile up high upon the people in the way of delinquent taxes and such matters similar thereto.

It is a fact known to everyone that since Mr. Dennis has been in the tax office he has reduced the hundreds and even thousands of dollars which the people were formerly paying every year for little errors on the part of the Assessor to a matter of almost no moment at all.

Of course we do not say that Mr. Alred would not make a competent official. But we do say that it is our opinion that Mr. Dennis would serve the people in a better capacity, owing to his long experience with tax matters.

In selecting an officer for tax duties the prime factor should be experience and capability. On these points we defy any one to point out a man who will excel Jasepr N. Dennis.

Not only is Mr. Dennis thorough and competent in the duties of the office, but he is also affable and courteous to a degree that pleases all with whom he has to deal.

We think a great deal of Mr. Alred personally, and are sure he is a gentleman. But we must from force of an honest opinion reached in the light of the above facts, express a preference for Mr. Dennis, and urge all to vote for him on Nov. 7th.

PLANNING FOR FUTURE

Endeavoring to shield the Democratic party from some of the richly deserved condemnation on account of its tariff legislation, the Portland, Oregon, Journal says that under the tariff commission "great industrial concerns will know exactly how to plan for the future." Why will they? Is it not the purpose of a tariff commission to investigate conditions and recommend changes? If the commission spends a year investigating the tariff on sugar, will not every producer of cane and beets and every manufacturer of sugar be in suspense all that time? Then, when a report has been made to Congress, will there not be the same suspense until a law has been enacted? Then won't there be uncertainty as to the possibility of the Commission taking the subject up again? Is not the same true of every other industry that needs a protective tariff? As a matter of fact, the only time great industrial concerns could safely plan for the future was immediately after a Republican victory had resulted in the enactment of a protective tariff law which the business men of the country could safely depend upon to remain in force until the American people had by their votes indicated a desire for its repeal. There you have the fact of the matter so far as "planning for the future" is concerned.

POPWELL'S ADDRESS

Our readers will notice in this issue an address to the voters by Mr. W. L. Popwell.

We want to have it strictly understood that the Union-Banner is not lending any support to Mr. Popwell's cause, by the publication of his address. When a man offers to buy our space we sell it to him, and that is what Mr. Popwell is doing.

We fail to see in his address the things which the people want to know. He does not express himself inregard to the past management of the county affairs, which is the vital issue in the present campaign.

We regard Mr Popwell's candidacy as dangerous to the people in case he should be elected. It seems that there are some forces behind him that are not open, and his attitude is not certain.

We believe it would be a bad deal for the county to have him as Probate Judge for it would mean, from all we can see, a continuation of the policies of the past administration.

Personally, we think Mr. Popwell is a good man, but we believe his political position is dangerous to the best interest of the county.

THOUSHND DOLLARS FOR SQUARE MEAL

Thats What Farrell Says He Would Have Paid To Be Able To Eat Like Other People.

"It's the positive truth, before I took Tanlac I would have gladly given a thousand dollars to have been able to eat the supper I have just finished tonight," said John Farrell, 222 Berry street, Nashville. Mr. Farrell has lived in Nashville sixty-one years. "Jack" was his familiar name on the Cumberland and Ohio rivers where for twenty eight years he followed steamboating. He was at one time a member of the Nashville police force and for ten years he made a most efficient officer. He was also Deputy Sheriff for two years and is known by everybody in and around Nashville.

"I really believe," continued Mr. Farrell, "Tanlac has saved my life, for I was declining in health and strength so rapidly, I could not have stood it much longer. But, since taking Tanlac I have not only gained twenty pounds bu tI feel better than I have in years.

"I have been a sufferer for twenty-four years and for the past seven years my condition nas been terrible. My stomach trouble seemed to be of a peculiar form. In just a few minutes after drinking water it would ferment and come out at my mouth and fel almost as hot as if it came from a furnace. I could not even bear the smell of things cooking. All I could eat was a little toast and milk and that hurt me and I got so weak I could hardly mope about the house. My feet and ankles would swell until my feet were round under the bottoms and I could not walk a step. I had the best treatment, but I kept going down.

"I was almost starving for food and famishing for water and yet I could neither eat or drink on account of the condition of my stomach. Before I finished the lrst bottle of Tanlac I began to eat an dI noticed it didn't hurt me. I kept on takinp it and pickiny up until I have taken five bottles and I can now eat anything I want—beans, corn, potatoes and boiled bacon—and everything agrees with me. I have gone from one hundred and twenty-four pounds to one hundred and forty-four—a net gain of twenty pounds—and I feel like I had been made over into a new man. All that swelling has gone out of my feet and legs and I have the strength to go where I please. I actually wouldn't take all the money in Nashvile for what Tanlac has done for me."

HUGHES TRIUMPHANT

Barring a slip of some kind of an extraordinary happening in world politics, there is no question now in the minds of Republican leaders of long experience of the election of Mr. Hughes.

The campaign for three weeks has been on the upswing and is still gathering momentum everywhere, particularly in the Central States.

Four things have helped to bring this about:

1. The Maine election, the moral effect of which has been noticeable in virtually every contested state.

2. A much more complete amalmation of Republicans and Progressives than was at first indicated, even in Washington and California.

3. The increasing power of Mr. Hughes' speeches.

4. The Wilson 8-hour railroad legislation, which is said to have cost him the votes of the farmers.

In adition to the above of the German American vote which is usually Democratic, is almost solid for Mr. Hughes as they consider that President Wilson has been unneutral in favoringn Great Britian as against Germany.

The more recent reports from Chairman Wilcox at the Republican headquarters in New York, are to the effect that that the power of ex-President Roosevelt's support will also swing a number of the Rocky Mountain States that have been hitherto counted reliably Democratic.

BRIBERY AND FALSEHOOD

Can the great majority of men in Chilton county who are unquestionably convinced now in favor of the Republican ticket, and intend to vote for Judge Reynolds on Nov. 7th, be swerved from the path of their honest convictions by a whirl wind of falsehoods and bribery perpetrated at the last moment by the Democratic-Independent forces?

From what we learn the "forces" are getting up a fund of about two thousand dollars which they intend to use in following up a string of batched false charges against Judge Reynolds in the closing days of the campaign, and seek to buy votes away from him on the strength of the rotten things which will be circulated against him.

We want to put our voters wise that they may be on their guard and treat such low down schemes and methods in the manly way which it deserves.

BELIEVES IN SUPPORTING THE PEOPLES' NOMINEE

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 16, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I will ask you for a little of your space to say that I was indeed a very strong J. W. Moore man before the primary, and did all I could to get him nominated. But when 1100 of my party associates spoke out and said L. H. Reynolds, then I could not set up my judgment against them. So you can put me down as being always ready to abide by the dicision of the majority. But I see that there are some that are not willing to abide by the dicision of the majority, who have gone off with the enimies to try to defeat their own ticket.

Now Mr Editor my advise to all voters would be not to follow such a lead. We see our candidate whom we voted for in the primary is up behind the ticket that was nominated in the primary. So boys lets go to the polls on the 7th day of November and snow under the Democrats with this disguntled crowd so deep they will bother us no more. Their mud slinging is so bad.

Respectfully
W. A. WASHUM.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow me space to state my position along political lines? I have always voted and worked for the success of the Republican party, since the demise of the populist party, except in the elections of 1910 and 1912 when I voted the Socialist ticket, thinking that I had at last found the laboring man's party; but lo and behold the Socialist party appears to have gone Democratic, and as I have never voted for a Democrat, nor any part of the Democratic ticket, I will cast my lot with the Republican party in the future. From experience and observation I find the Republican party to be more for the working class of people.

The Republican ticket will win by as large a majority as ever, in spite of all the accusations brought against Judge Reynolds by the Democrats around Clanton. I learned when a boy to watch the Democrats about town, and I have fully decided and am convinced that to vote on any proposition contrary to their advice is the right course to pursue. I cast my vote in the primary in the spring and shall vote a straight republican ticket in November regardless of what may be said or done by others.

BOMB BUSTED BY PICKENS AT ENTERPRISE SAT. NIGHT

Editor Union-Banner:

You just ought to have been there to hear him. We think we know how came the county with so much money in the treasury, but we don't unless we could hear that afwul man Pickens tell us.

He came down to Enterprise to make a Democratic speech. He brought four Democrats with him and there were two Democrats who voted at Enterprise who went to hear him.

People we have heard some of the awfulest lies in this campaign at all, and both parties can't be right. We have more reason to believe the Republicans are right than the Democrats.

Pickens said Saturday night that Chilton county had nver had a Democratic administration. I agree with him. It has been without an administration ever since L. H. Reynolds went out of office. But he will get back on Nov. 7th.

I wish I had time. I would call up Mr. Griffin;he's always hanging around, and if you want to see him you will have to be in town. He's a mighty friend to Fate, but he turned just a little too late. His Democratic party is an awful lug; his best old friend is that old jug.

Yours truly,
J. W. CAGLE.

THE OLD TIME HOO-DOO

I am dying, Woodrow, dying,
And that fact is very plain,
And there ain't no use in crying
Since I'm beat like h— in Maine.
There Protection knocked me silly,
Where I thought I'd surely win;
Teddy hit me with his billy
And I'm just "too dead to skin."
There's no doubt from that election,
In the meaning it conveys,
That Republican Protection
Has me skinned a hundred ways.
I am feeling glum and gloomy,
More than any words can tell,
For I hardly thought they'd do me
In a way that just beats h—.
"Plant" me now in mild September
O'er my carcass shed no tears;
If you wait until November
I'll be dead for fifty years.
How on earth you'll ever meet it
Is the problem 'neath the sun;
My advice to you is, "beat it,"—
Hughes has got you on the run.

POPWELL'S ADDRESS TO THE VOTERS

Clanton, Ala., Oct .16, 1916.
Fellow Citizens:

Will you be so kind as to read carefully the following lines:

I am a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate, subject to the action of the untrammeled voters of Chilton county on November 7th. Perhaps you may not know me personally, as I am not a politician and have spent my time, like you, in private life, working for my family. I am forty-nine years of age, and except two years have spent my entire life on the farm.

It is not my purpose here or anywhere else to say anything uncomplimentary concerning my opponent, but I must tell facts. I am making the race on my own merits, and not on the demerits of my opponent. Therefore, I shall invite you to look well into my record and if you can consistently support me, I want your vote.

A special plea my opponent makes for your vote is because of his financial ability that will enable him to serve the taxpayers of the county. I am perfectly satisfied to stand or fall on this one requirement. It is an accepted fact that the surest way to find out about any one's financial ability is to see what they have been able to do for themselves. Nothing would please me more than to have every voter acquaint himself fully with our private business. Us your eyes and look at the records. After so doing, if they, as my opponent seems to desire, want to let this one requirement govern in casting their vote, then it will be their duty as honest voters to cast their ballot for Judge Reynolds if he proves to have managed his business better than I have mine. But on the other hand if the contrary be true, then as an honest voter, I should receive your support.

Again my political record has been assailed by my opponent. I am more than willing to stand or fall on this requirement. I have never taken an active part in politics, but always tried to be a consistent Republican until 1912. Then, as every one knows, Judge Reynolds was the chief agent in calling a great mass meeting in which the Republican party was severely denounced; and, although our ticket was duly and regularly nominated as Republican, a few politicians maneuvered around and got us into the Progressive party. Then the campaign of abuse began. My opponent went over the county denouncing in the most bitter terms the Republican party. If anything, to hear him tell it, it was worse than the Democratic party. All know this to be a fact, and the records prove it. I, as most other Republicans followed our county leaders, feeling that they were sincere and doing the proper thing. But this last Spring, when those same politicians were nominated on this Progressive ticket and again changed, and this time back into that party they said was so bad, I doubted their sincerity to such an extent that I decided I could best serve my political conscience by being an independent citizen. I don't feel that there is any party obligation resting upon any of us so far as the Probate's office is concerned. My opponent was nominated as a Progressive and not as a Republican. I was nominated in an independent mass meeting free from partisanship. Therefore, as I see it, every man is free to select the man that will best sevre and honor the county.

In conclusion, I want to say I have, am, and am going to continue to conduct my campaign along the lines of truth. I don't want any of my supporters to make any efforts to secure my election along any other than the lines of truth. After I have made my best efforts along this line, I shall cheerfully leave the result in the hands of the honest and conscientious voters of the county.

Trusting that you may gain possession of all the facts and the full truth in this campaign, I am yours for the best interests of our county and her citizenship.

Sincerely,
W. L. POPWELL.

Reduce High Cost of Living by Paying Cash

After seven years experience with the retailing of merchandise on a supposed cash and credit system that has been in existence since the beginning or the retail business, we have decided that the old method of making cash customers pay the same as the credit customer, who always pays at a future time, thereby costing the merchant extra to handle the book keeping end of the transaction, has been wrong, and making both the cash and good credit custormers pay for lost accounts through too liberal credit to persons who never pay, we have decided to do our best to REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING in this vicinity by selling at the VERY LOWEST prices to be had for CASH TO ALL.

AN OBITUARY

On the night of Sept. 26 the death angel visited the home of Mr. Jasper Giles and took from the home their son, Mr. Lawrence Giles. He was 33 years old, and had been a member of Liberty Hill church for several years. He had been an invalid for four or five years. He has suffered much pain, but when the spirit took its flight from the body it was so calmly that one had to be watching closely to discern it. He went without a struggle or a frown or movement of the body which led the writer to believe there was not pain for him in death. He expressed himself as being ready for death and said it would be a sweet passport from earth to glory.

Dear frineds we should not weep as those who have no hope; our loss is his eternal gain. We believe he has gone to the Paradise of God to await the call on the resurrection morn when the dead in Christ shall rise first then those who are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

He was laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery on Sept. 28. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. L. Foshee.

We have a second hand Hoosier Grain Drill that is almost as good as new we can sell at less than its real value.

BLOOD WAS IN BAD CONDITION—TOOK JUST ONE BOTTLE OF FERRALINE.

Mrs. Emma Richardson Says Ferraline Great Beenfit to Her. Was Run Down—Boils Severe Ring Worm.

"Ferraline is a household medicine in this locality," said Mrs. Emma Richardson, "and rightly it should be. When the merits of Ferraline are known it will be a remedy in every home.

"I do not believe there could be any better tonic for the building up any run down system.

"In relieving Indigestion, even in acute attacks, Ferraline seems to stop the forming of gas at once, and causes the tightness to subside and permits the digestion to become normal.

"Some months back I had become run down," continued Mrs. Richardson, "and my blood was in a very bad condition. I had lost energy, feeling poorly, no appetite, frequent headaches, pains in my back and limbs, and was troubled with boils.

"A ring worm came upon my finger, and for two or three weeks, I did everything it seems to me to get my condition in better shape. The medicine I took, and the various treatments I gave my hand did not benefit. My finger was getting worse all the time, and also my general health.

"I bought a bottle of Ferraline, and began taking it three times a day as a tonic. I also used it on the bandages on my finger, as I had learned that Ferraline would relieve inflamation no matter where located, that it ould sooth and heal.

"In three days time my lnger had almost lost all its soreness, my appetite had become better, and I could see that I was being benefited fast.

"I only took the one bottle, and was then feeling better than I had felt in a long time. My complexion cleared up, my strength returned to me and I could eat anything I wished without any bad egects."

Mrs. Emma Richardson is a resident of Washington county, Ala., at Frankville. She is a firm advocate of Ferraline, and it will be hard to find a single neighbor of Mrs. Richardson who will not tell you that Ferraline is a splendid tonic, and also a remedy that will stop the flow of blood in a few moments, relieve the soreness and inflamation whether it be cut, burn, bad sore, or whether it be due to inflamation of the stomach or bowels, and that it will build up the system in a natural manner.

Ferraline is for sale in Clanton by Alred Drug Co, Jemison by Shaw Drug Co, and in Randolph by C. W. Brand.

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT SALIVATES! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED

I Guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" Will Give You the Best Liver and Bowel Cleansing You Ever Had—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver.

If you are bilious, feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you can have your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tone to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable, liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist or storekeeper about me. Adv.

"Cabinet Timber."

With a single exception, every member of President Wilson's cabinet began life as a boy in some small country town. Making the best use of early opportunities, they developed their talents by study, steadily working their way through school, and in most cases through college toward that broader experience in the affairs of life which ultimately fitted them to become "cabinet timber." Their example should be an inspiration to those who, being born and raised in the small country town, are likely to consider their surrounding as unfavorable. If a youth has ambition and energy, he will surely find the gate of opportunity open. In no part of the world have there been finer illustrations of the development of self-reliance, prudence, concentration, and those other traits of character than in the country town or village.—Christian Herald.

PUT QUESTION BACK TO PAPA

Small Boy Rather Had the Best of Joke Initiated by the Head of the Family.

Theodore Chapin, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapin of 2440 North Talbott, has wisdom far beyond his actual six years of existence.

Theodore is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, and, naturally has been placed on a limited diet, which, by the way, he observes with remarkable fortitude. One evening recently he was invited out for dinner by a young friend, and on his return home, Mrs. Chapin asked him what he had to eat. He began slowly to enumerate those things which the family doctor had given him permission to eat, but, with true mother instinct, Mrs. Chapin knew that he had omitted one thing. She knew that there was one thing that her son was passionately fond of, and that was fried potatoes, which the doctor had said should not be eaten.

"Now, Theodore, you had some fried potatoes also, didn't you?" asked the mother.

"Well, yes, I believe we did," he reluctantly confessed, and after a few minutes he looked up and said: "I'll tell you, it takes a feller with lots of brains to get ahead of my mother."

Mrs. Chapin told her husband of the conversation, and next morning, at the breakfast table, the father looked at Theodore and said: "I'll tell you, it takes a feller with lots of brains to get ahead of mother."

The young son looked up quickly, and, with a knowing twinkle in his eye, asked: "Now, pop, what have you been trying to put over on her?"—Indianapolis News.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 22

PAUL'S DEFENSE BEFORE AGRIPPA.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 26 (vv. 1, 24-32).
GOLDEN TEXT—I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision.—Acts 26:19.

It is possible to use the Bible either as a music box or a telephone. We should let it speak the words of the Lord Jesus to us and our pupils. This lesson occurred probably A. D. 59, perhaps in August, the day after last Sunday's lesson. This was the same hall where Agrippa had heard the people calling him a god (Acts 12). Paul, the center of all interest, is chained to his Roman guardians. The prisoner has been vehemently accused as one worthy of death and had appealed to Caesar, but Festus, not being well acquainted with Jewish laws and customs, could not make any definite charge against him before the Roman court. Hence he turns him over to Agrippa, who was well acquainted with matters of Jewish law.

I. Paul, the Preacher (vv. 1-23). This was one of the great occasions in the life of this great man. Paul was preaching to a king and a woman of great influence (a sermon which little changed their lives evidently), and also to the coming ages. This king and queen were wedded to their infamy. God had in mind on that day an audience in comparison with which that which Paul saw faded into oblivion. Notice his argument. (1) He begins with his own experience. In these verses there are over forty personal pronouns.

Men do not need so much light as they do need heat, and Paul was speaking out of the hot throbs of his personal experience. Paul stood before them a living miracle, an incarnate argument. We might tremble at the doctrine of the resurrection. He knew it was a marvelous thing that God should raise the dead, but that change had been wrought in him which was equivalent to the miracle of raising one from the grave.

Paul's plea was for the Roman as well as the Jew. Considering his personal testimony, he declares that he is a true Jew of the strictest sect (vv. 4-8), and as such he lived in the "hope of the promise" as predicted by Isaiah and Daniel. That promise has been fulfilled in Jesus, the crucified, who rose again from the dead, and Paul adds, "I have seen him, for which hope's sake, King Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews." (2) (vv. 9-15) Paul tells the audience that he, himself, was once a zealous persecutor of the Christians, more so than those who are now persecuting him, "being exceedingly mad against them." He then relates his Damascus journey and the conversation held on the road with the risen Lord.

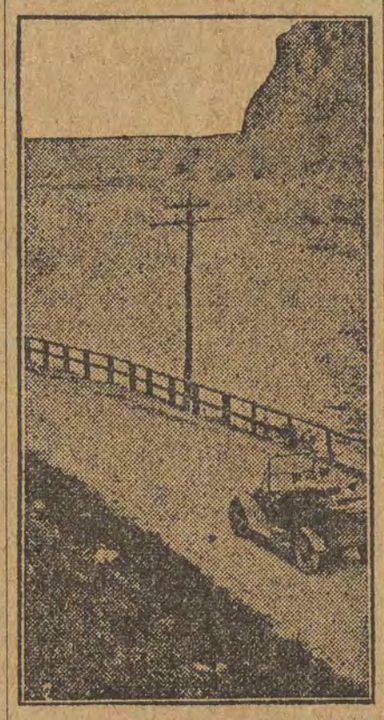
The gospel Paul preached was to lead men into the kingdom of God that they might receive forgiveness of sins and an inheritance among those who were fitted for that inheritance, who were the sanctified. For this cause the Jews went about to kill him.

II. Agrippa, the Doubter (vv. 24-32). Five ways are suggested as to the reception of Paul's message. The high priest's way was to hate him and oppose. Felix's way was "go thy way this time. When I have a more convenient season I will call." Festus' way (vv. 24-26) was to charge Paul with madness. Much learning (literally, many writings) was turning him mad, making him a lunatic, a dreamer, one who lived in the atmosphere of wild imaginings. Paul's reply was not harsh. "Most noble Festus" (Am. R.) "I am not mad, but speak words of soberness," words of eternal life and spiritual life (of sound sense) that were true and earnest. Paul thereupon appeals to King Agrippa to confirm his statements (v. 2-6). The crazy man is he who lives for this world rather than for eternity. The devil has cheated many a man out of eternal life by the method which Festus followed. He has also cheated many a Christian out of the larger life in the same way. Paul's appeal to Agrippa (vv. 27-29) is very suggestive.

Some people believe that the contents of the prophecies are of no present day value, and some are trying to break their force. Some declare they cannot be true, yet these prophecies are the ones that declare that "Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God." The literal translation of Agrippa's answer is, "In a little thou persuadest me to be a Christian." It is said that Agrippa said this in sarcasm, but, like many another attempted jest, it revealed the real state of the heart.

Agrippa saw the cost of further consideration of the claims of Christ and was unwilling to pay the price (vv. 30-32). Thus Agrippa's soul was lost, and yet he was within one step of eternal life. Paul with great dignity took advantage of Agrippa's ambiguous expression, and said: "I would to God that whether with little or with much, not only thou but also all that hear me this day might become such as I am except (raising his fettered hands) these bonds." (Am. R.).

Paul was willing and glad to suffer anything for the sake of Jesus Christ, his Lord (II Cor. 12-10).



VALUE OF IMPROVED ROADS

Public Highway Is More Generally Used Than Any Other Means of Intercommunication.

It has been stated, and correctly so, that only 10 per cent of the public roads in the United States are improved; in many states, only 5 per cent have been made good. Therefore, with from 90 to 95 per cent of our highways mere trails across country, Americans are living in a land of mud or dust, according to the season.

Rarely are poor roads easily travelable; improved roads, if improved according to modern methods, are always travelable in the most inclement weather, barring a blizzard and snowdrifts. The force of this observation may be the more readily understood when it is stated that the public road is more generally used than any other means of intercommunication. It is free and open to all of the people. It is of benefit to one class more than another only to the extent one class uses it more than another.

Beautiful Eastern Road.

Many sections of the country are opposing road improvement, just like the cattle barons of the unstaked western plains—the llana estacado—not many years ago opposed the coming of the homesteader and the railroad. One definition of a "mossback" is that he is a foe to progress. Opponents of good roads are mossbacks of this character. They are bumping their heads on the van of progress solely because they lack understanding of the value of good roads to their own communities.

Too much cannot be said in favor of improved roads. They are worth all they cost. The argument is all one way. Why drive through mud and water with a four-horse team empty over a bad road when a two-horse will haul as much as 12 bales of cotton, for example, more rapidly and surely over a good road?

A little thought along these lines must convince anyone that these United States need good roads about as bad as anything.—New York Commercial.

MAKING STATE ROADS SAFER

Purchase of Parcels of Land at Highway Intersections of Interest to All Travelers.

A bill authorizing the purchase of parcels of land at highway intersections, now on the house calendar, is of interest to all travelers on the state roads. Any reasonable plans for improving the corners is likely to have general approval. Real estate in the country towns, outside the villages, is inexpensive. The cost of eliminating right-angle turns should not be excessive, and the gain in safety will be appreciable. Many serious accidents have occurred at these abrupt turns, particularly where the dangerous conditions were not revealed by lights. At such points the best remedy is in the relocation of the highway lines, and it may be said that immunity from danger is worth more than the price of a few square feet of unoccupied farm land.—Providence Journal.

HAVE YOU PICKED A LEMON?

English Writer Not Altogether Complimentary in His Remarks on Marital Happiness.

Arnold Bennett, the famous English novelist, talks about how men feel when they are engaged or married. They realize that they have married human beings instead of divine goddesses. Bennett says:

"The process of reasoning is not scientific, and inevitably it must bring disillusion, which means complications. The disillusion is precipitated by the universal instinct to overestimate that which one desires and to underestimate that which one has got. See the young husband as he watches his newly acquired wife enter a friend's drawing room. His anxiety which he often inadequately conceals, is touching. Aforetime, the entrance of that same young woman into a drawing room never caused him the slightest apprehension. On the contrary, it filled him with delight and thanksgiving. Then, her imperfections, if she had any, somehow constituted a perfection. If she was taciturn, her silences were beautifully expressive. If she gabbled, the stream of chatter was delicious. If she was awkward, a secret grace was in her awkwardness. But now that he has got her, the vain fellow is intensely afraid lest she may fail to prove to the world the excellence of his taste."—Woman's Home Companion.

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY AVOID PAIN

Need Only Trust to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, says Mrs. Kurtzweg.

Buffalo, N.Y.—"My daughter, whose picture is herewith, was much troubled with pains in her back and sides every month and they would sometimes be so bad that it would seem like acute inflammation of some organ. She read your advertisement in the newspapers and tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She praises it highly as she has been relieved of all these pains by its use. All mothers should know of this remedy, and all young girls who suffer should try it."—Mrs. MATILDA KURTZWEG, 529 High St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

If you know of any young woman who is sick and needs helpful advice, ask her to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Only women will receive her letter, and it will be held in strictest confidence.

The Case of Blakelock.

It is to be wished that the case of the artist Blakelock, and his pathetic delight when returned recently through the Blakelock fund to a rural studio and sanitarium, might be the means of awakening a new interest in the urgent subject of the after-care of the insane. There are thousands of men in this section alone who are like Blakelock in being sane in most directions, and not dangerously abnormal in any, who have been confined and irksomely guarded for years, and whose treatment not only adds to their suffering, but robs them of hope of recovery. In all too many states every insane patient is kept to an indoor life, closely housed with the violent, the depraved, or the diseased, and stigmatized as a pauper. Only the genius of Blakelock saved him, after seventeen years, from being looked upon to the last as social refuse. He will now be under close, but not irritating, supervision for six months. The out-treatment of nearly all the curably and mildly insane, under scientific supervision, might be arranged for upon a similar plan. New York, her hospitals intolerably overcrowded, is already taking steps toward such an arrangement; the release of patients on parole is permitted, and the state has four or five after-care agents. But New York leads, and it is depressing to think of conditions in states where progress is so slow that the counties are still chief guardians of the insane.—New York Evening Post.

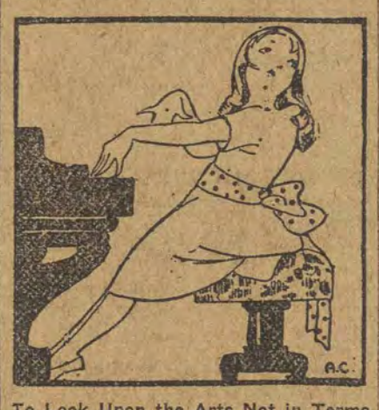
How the Infant May Be Started in the Ways of Culture.

ART, LITERATURE AND MUSIC

Let the Child Know All He Can of These If You Would Refine His Appreciation and Discover His Capacity.



By SIDONIE M. GRUENBERG.

SOME time during the last century parents with solicitude for the higher life of their children, and with the means to give the children fuller opportunities, discovered that training in the "arts" would add both to the enjoyment of life and to the esteem of their fellows. But in providing the instruction in music or painting they had resort to musicians and painters. And these specialists in art taught the children from the point of view of training specialized performers, which most of the children were never going to become. The result was in most cases a rather superficial accomplishment, which had, indeed, its social value, but which meant very little either as performance or as enrichment of life.

Several things have happened to make us change our attitude in these matters. With all the bad performing, extending to ever larger circles of our population, there came a more critical recognition of the real quality of our vulgarized playing and painting. There came also, quite incidentally as it were, a growing appreciation of the arts—the mechanical reproduction of good music and of good pictures being very largely responsible for this, in making accessible to almost every person the opportunity to hear and see the best as well as the tawdry. Moreover, our thinking about the development of the mental and emotional life, as problems in education and training, has brought us to a realization of the more valuable part of the child's contact with art forms.

We are thus in a position to look upon the arts in the life of the child in terms of enlarging the child's life, and not in terms of performing for the approval or admiration of others. And we are in a position to think of the training from the professional side. If then we still place before the child the clay or the paint brush, the piano or the violin, it is not so much in the hope of making a name for the family. Rather is it in the expectation that the child may thus be enabled to find himself, that he may acquire further means of expression, that he may add to his enjoyment of life through acquaintance with the emotional resources of the various arts. For most children, that is, the study of music and drawing should be not primarily for the purpose of cultivating technical proficiency, but for the purpose of cultivating deeper appreciations through an understanding of form, design, etc. This is quite the same as our teaching of literature to children. Some of them may become creative artists—and this often in spite of the schooling—but for most children we hope merely to increase and to refine the appreciation of good literature.

Both for the purpose of refining the appreciation and for the purpose of discovering the child's capacities we should provide as many points of contact with art expression as we can possibly command. If you provide piano lessons for your child, even though you do so just because everybody is doing it, it is well. If you provide dancing lessons, or singing, or painting, it is well. If you provide two or three or four opportunities, it is still better. But how can we afford all these things for every child, and how can the child possibly get the time for all these various "lessons"? If we attempted to add these special lessons to the full day, we should be attempting the impossible; nor would this be desirable if we could manage it. The aim should be rather to incorporate the arts into the life of the child, as we already do in part. The handwork of the early school year—clay modeling and beadwork, for example—and the music the young child hears are, together with his other activities and experiences, of the very substance of his life.

When we undertake to cultivate the arts for our children outside of school the most important consideration in the selection of instructors is commonly considered to be the artistic achievement or the standing in their crafts. But more important for our purpose is the teacher's character, his attitude toward children. We may indeed find a talented artist who is also a satisfactory teacher; but the combination is extremely rare. The accomplished artist is likely to see in the pupil a potential performer or creator, and to have little patience when the symptoms of talent are slow to manifest themselves. When talent is discovered it will be time enough to train for specialization.

Whether we provide special instruction for children or not, we can at least put forth an effort to make the surroundings in the home contribute as much as possible to the cultivation of taste. This requires an effort, but is worth what it costs. Unless we have well-developed tastes and standards ourselves we are very easily imposed upon by the "fashions" and by the tendency to imitate, often unconsciously, those for whom we have some regard. If we devote some thought to the children's dress and to the way our rooms are furnished, we shall be carrying on an education in art. This does not mean that we must buy only the expensive or the fashionable. It means taking the trouble to find out what is best. It is possible to get cheap reproductions of the best pictures, just as we can get cheap editions of the world's best books. In the matter of pictures, it is well to have before the child only a few at a time, and to change them at intervals. For this purpose frames with removable backs may be used, or a screen made of burlap stretched on a wooden frame. Let us remember that the younger children are likely to see very little in a black-and-white picture until after colored pictures have made them familiar with seeing the world in a flat surface.

We must do what we can to expand the child's horizon by visits to the museums, by providing opportunities to see and hear the best that the human spirit has brought forth. But we must not overlook the fact that the most continuous and the most impressive molders of his tastes lie in the immediate surroundings—his clothes and his furniture—his books and his conversation, and his opportunities to express himself through his own activities.

CRAB WAS FIRST VEGETARIAN

Eccentric Englishman Met With Much Opposition When He Started to Spread His Ideas.

The first preacher of vegetarianism to gain any wide fame was Roger Crab, an eccentric Englishman, who died 236 years ago. He fought in the parliamentary army under Cromwell, and received a wound in the head, which may have accounted for some of his later vagaries. After the close of the Civil war he sold all his goods and distributed the proceeds among the poor, then took up his residence in a hut near Ickenham, where he was said to have lived on three farthings a week. Having decided that it was sinful to eat any kind of animal food, he subsisted on a diet of bran, dock leaves, mallows and grass.

For dessert he had a pudding made of bran and turnip tops chopped together. When he attempted to spread his ideas he met with much popular opposition. He then denounced his opponents in most lurid terms, and was on various occasions cudgeled and put in the stocks. Four times he was arrested on suspicion of being a wizard, and was sent from prison to prison. He persisted in his course in spite of all persecution, refusing to eat any animal food while in jail. He wrote two pamphlets, entitled "The English Hermit, or The Wonder of the Age," and "Dagon's Downfall, or The Great Idol Digged Up Root and Branch; "The English Hermit's Spade at the Ground and Root of Idolatry." Crab lived to ripe old age, but made few converts to his doctrine.—Exchange.

Baseball in All Seasons.

A novel patented game, conducted somewhat after the manner of the familiar cane ringing stands and affording a patron all the zest of sharing actively in a baseball game is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Special devices are used in connection with presenting a motion picture of a ball game. Upon what appears to be a regular motion picture screen a projecting machine, about 25 feet distant, throws a picture of a batter stepping up to the plate in front of a catcher, both facing the spectator. When the batter arrives at the plate the picture becomes stationary until some patron steps up to the counter, set at the proper distance, and throws a ball toward the pictured batter. If the throw is accurate enough to be called a strike its impact against the screen automatically starts the projector, which shows the batter striking and running toward "first."

PICTURES LIFE AS HORROR

Writer's Description of Existence in the Trenches Gives Vivid Impression of War.

Once we knew it as "No Man's Land," but now we call it "The Garden of Sleep." Winter gave it the first name and summer the latter, and each in its season was true and appropriate.

A novice in war, I saw it first on a winter's day: one of those dred November afternoons that seem now almost like a bad dream, a gray lowering sky, a damp, penetrating cold, a never-ending, bonewetting drizzle, and everywhere mud, mud, mud.

Mud! Even the very word looks ugly in print, and, oh God, how we hated the very sound of it! Was there, we wondered, anything left in the world but mud? Was the world being overwhelmed by an onflowing tide of mud? Had we ever known an existence free from it?

Mad questions, perhaps, but there were times when men of strong brains asked themselves such things in all seriousness. We lived like rats in mud, and rats alone lived with us. All other decent animals would have scorned an existence under such conditions, and it was left for the highest and the lowest of the animal race to dwell together.

HOW TO MAKE COFFEE
By the greatest coffee merchants in the world
With pictures of three wives and what their husbands say of their coffee

There has been a great deal written and said about making coffee, and wherever you go, each woman thinks her way is best. Yet we all know how much coffee varies; good one meal—bad the next—often so bad you simply can't drink it.

Don't be discouraged if you are not getting coffee as fine as you would like to have. Don't be satisfied to drink coffee which is "just medium." A million other women make coffee their husbands brag about, and it is so easy for you to do it.

Instead of coffee which you only put up with because you can't get the kind you would like to have, you can get coffee which every member of your family will enjoy, coffee which every visitor will praise, coffee which you yourself couldn't do without.

Mrs. Jones boils her coffee

How to make Boiled Coffee; the way most people make coffee: Be sure that the pot is clean. Have your coffee ground medium fine, just the size Arbuckles' Ground coffee is. Allow one heaping tablespoonful to each cup of water, with one extra spoonful of coffee for the pot. Put the coffee into the pot, add cold water. Let boil until it is just the strength you like. Settle with a dash of cold water.

The Drip Method, the simplest way: Have your coffee ground very fine, almost to a powder. Use only half a tablespoonful to a cup, with an extra one for the pot. (This method requires only half as much coffee as used for other methods.) Put the coffee in a piece of clean cheese cloth; pour boiling water through it slowly — through once only. Be sure to have water boiling. This does not make as strong coffee as boiling—if you want it stronger, don't make it this way—increasing the amount of coffee won't make it any stronger.

Percolator coffee—the surest method: Use a medium fine ground coffee for percolators, (just the size Arbuckles' Ground coffee is). Allow a tablespoonful to each cup of coffee and one extra; let the water percolate up through the coffee until it is just the right strength. Making coffee this way, you can have it just as mild or strong as you like, and you can rely on its being good every time.

Mrs. Green never uses anything but a percolator

To get these results, the coffee itself must be right and must always be the same

Things you should watch out for

Mrs. Smith makes drip coffee

The coffee itself: There are hundreds of varieties of coffee grown. The coffee itself must be put up by men who know coffee! Arbuckles' Coffee is. It is put up by Arbuckle Bros., the greatest coffee merchants in the world. They can give you the value in coffee which no one else can afford to give.

Clean and fresh: No matter how good coffee itself is, if it isn't well taken care of, it makes a poor drink. Arbuckles' Coffee is put up in sealed, dust-proof packages, carefully wrapped to protect it from moisture, dirt, store odors. It arrives in your kitchen strong, full of flavor.

Always the same: Arbuckles' Coffee today is the biggest selling coffee in the United States. Did you ever stop to think what this means? To think how good a coffee must be to be the biggest seller in the United States? From the moment it was put on the market, it was a success. Today, it is used in over a million homes in the United States.

Beautiful Gifts: We share our profits with you by giving you useful and beautiful premiums for signatures saved from Arbuckles' packages. We buy premiums for over a million users of Arbuckles' Coffee. Buying in such large quantities makes it possible for us to give the greatest premium values ever seen. In every package of Arbuckles' Coffee there is a circular showing our premiums. Be sure to get it and see how quickly and easily you can get what you want, all without any cost.

Get Arbuckles' Coffee from your grocer today, either the Whole Bean or the new Ground.

High School News

(Reuben Lowe Editor)

On the breaking up of the Baptist High School of Thorsby the entire student body with the exception of one has enrolled with the Chilton County High School. These new students add great strength to the classes of our school and we extend a hearty welcome to all the new ones.

The football squad is to play their first game next Saturday with Columbiana High School. The game will be played on the grounds of the latter.

Brother Bilbro, pastor of the Methodistchurch made an excellent talk to the students of the high school last Tuesday morning at Chapel hour.

Frank Palmer says that the people who are crying hard times don't know what they are talking about for his ma let him wear his Sunday hat to school on Monday.

Mr. Owen is certain that he has one Physics shark, for in class the other day he said to Aron Vines:

Aron what is gravity? Aron replied, like if Flem were to have a stick of candy and several boys were to try to take it away from him, that would be gravity.

Dick—Say Flem have you noticed Clifford Mullins going around with a smile on his face like a wave.

Flem—Yes. I wonder what has happened to him?

Dick—Annie Gragg has returned to Clanton.

Mr. Henry Popwell is now known as the Ladies man. He has made several hits this year, but he is very particular who he goes with therefore he has selected "Bill" as his best.

The Sophomores are glad to welcome James Mullins back with them. He has been with Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

Last Friday morning at Chapel hour Mr. Tinsley's music class gave an excellent recital to the school consisting of the following program:

Piano solo, Warine Speigner; vocal solo, Frank Palmer; piano solo, Gertiewyl McDonald; vocal solo Meador Lowery; piano solo, Madge Cooper; vocal solo, two songs, Roberta Curry; song by the chorus class, The Call of Summer. The girls all rendered their pieces from memory.

FORMER POPWELL SUPPORTER SEES ERROR OF HIS WAY AND REPENTS

An honest letter showing how a conscientious citlooks upon the political situation in the county.

Pletcher, Ala., Oct. 24, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I have been watching the movement of politics for some time. When Mr. Popwell first made his announcement I was for him, but when I found out what he stood for, and the crowd that was behind him I dropped him like a hot potato. I was at the speaking whn Mr. Long spoke at Clanton and of course I expected to see Mr. W. L. Popwell at the speaking as Mr. Long was chairman of the State Republican Committee, and Mr. Popwell says he is a Republican, and is going to vote the Republican ticket this time; but I looked all over the meeting for Mr. Popwell and I could not see him. I thought perhaps he was sick, but low and behold he was on the streets talking and juggling with the Democrats, the worst enemies among them we have. But this was not all: in the evening I went to hear Judge Brandon, and the Judge gave the Republicans fits. He went after Hughes and our state leaders with gloves off, and lo and behold Mr. Popwell was at his side cheering and clapping his hands and endorsing Judge Brandon's abuse of Republicans. Well it was plain to me what it all meant, and I am glad Mr. Popwell turned his coat before he got in office, and did not do like some others have done, wait until he gets in to turn.

I do not know how it is all over the county, but I do know there are several around here that were for Mr. Popwell at the start that will not consider voting for him now. In fact how can any Republican vote for him? We had a primary and nominated a ticket that is as well qualified to fill all the offces as ever was nominated in this county, and the other side admits this themselves, but still they want us to sacrifice our nominees and vote for something but the Lord only knows what. We can only judge the future by the past and we do know that the same crowd that is behind this movement was the ones that bankrupted and ruined this county, and now we people out here will have to pay heavy taxes and not get any benefits from it. We are almost in slavery, and if the bills that a few in Clanton tried to get passed by the last Legislature had become a law, we would now be in slavery for the court house ring, but thank God there were some honest men in the Legislature and the few at Clanton could not have their way.

How can any conscientious Democrat vote for Mr. Popwell? He says he is still a Republican. Have the Democrats of this county been Democrats from principle? Where has Mr. Popwell and his father always stood? Where were they in the dark Republican days? I would like for Mr. Popwell to tell the people just how he is going to vote this time on the county state and national ticket. I wish he would name the candidates he is going to vote for. We have a right to know who of our county he is going to vote for. He ought not to expect to try to hold to both sides. He has a right to vote as he pleases, but we voters have a right to know where he stands. We know that Judge Reynolds is going to vote the Republican ticket from top to bottom, and if Mr. Popwell votes the Republican ticket he will vote for Judge Reynolds himself.

The Democrats are all we have heard of supporting Mr. Popwell, or taking any interest in his campaign, and they must know what they are doing, and they know where he will be after the election. If they did not they would not be working so hard for him as they are. Now lets look at our side. Judge Reynolds has stood by us ever since he was grown. He has fought our battles in season and out of season. He was at Montgomery working against Mr. Curry and his crowd when they wanted to take our liberties from us and put us in slavery. Judge Reynolds has always been found on the side of the people battling for their rights and liberties, and it is my opinion that this is the reason that the court house crowd are fighting him so hard, and if Republicans and all other liberty loving people will stop and think before they vote on Nov. 7th Chilton county will be safe in his hands and if he had been Judge of Probate for the last six years our county would not have been "busted" and we would not have had such awful taxes to pay.. I think we will carry this county by at least two to one, but we do not want to lay down on the job, and take any risk at all. All this abuse and slander is helping Judge Reynolds, and it only makes him stronger with the people.

Respectfully,
W. O. SMITH.

Notice!

I have installed, in connection with my gin plant, the latest improved machine for crushing corn in the ear, corn in the shuck, cotton seed, small grain of all kind. Also Velvet Beans. In order for Velvet Beans to be ground satisfactory it is necessary that they be thoroughly dry and they will not get musty. I have also put in the latest improved grist mill for grinding corn.

Will appreciate you giving me a trial. Grinding days will be Friday and Saturday only.

J. A. MADDOX

CLANTON, ALA.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

Just a small space to say a few words for the first time in regard to the political situation. In this Beat everything is O. K. for the Republican ticket. The Demdcrats are loosing out fast, and I think if the Clanton Press will just continue its course until the election Mr. Popwell will certainly make a Jack Jennings race.

Now Mr. Voter I want to give yau a few figures in regard to the expenditures of the people's money taken from Democrat figures and you know they can't lie.

Contract for grading Clanton Calera road, $31,000.

Surfacing same, $66,500.

Contract for grading Clanton Mt. Creek road, $6,500.

Contract Clanton Maplesville road $20,500.

Surfacing same, $9,500.

Contarct for Clanton Lock 12 road 18,500.

Making a total of $152,500.

Now who does these roads benefit? The answer would be the few who are living along said roads and the automobile men. Now I want to ask the people just to stop one moment and think for themselves, and ask yourselves the question, has my money been spent in an economical way or not? Gentlemen how are your taxes to compare with six years ago? You can settle that without me telling you. Over double the amount of six years ago, besides when Reynolds left the office he left the county out of debt and ten thousand dollars in the treasury. Where is it today? One hundred and fifty or sixty thousand dollars in debt and no money to pay it out. Bankrupted for years to come. Who is responsible for this sad affair? With regret I must say theDemocrats. And they should make good their promises to the people before they ask them a second time.

You know it has been said that a fool could ask a question that a wise man couldn't answer. So I want to ask Mr. Popwell a question. Mr. Popwell, do you endorse Judge Deason's administration, and if elected would you carry out Deason's policies? Don't wait to see the boss and see what he has to say about it, for the boss has the answer on the end of his tongue.

You see Mr. S. M. Adams didn't have to go to the boss when the question was asked him. He plainly said no. So Mr. Adams stepped down and out and I commend him for so doing. It shows Mr. Adam's principles. You know it is a common saying and especially among Baptist people once in grace, always in the grace. So if that be true, Mr .Adams isn't lost after all. There is to come another day.

And by the way, there's my friend Pounds, a man that I love so well. I have prayed many times for Mr. Pounds that he might see the error of his way and be constrained to turn back to the ones who took him up and cared for him when he could not take care of himself. As for Mr. Pickens, he came here lost and the poor felow will go away lost, lost, forever lost.

But I want to ask one more question. Mr. Voter, do you want the affairs of your county to go on in the way it is? If you do, just vote for Mr. Popwell and the Democratic ticket, and the way she goes. If not, just vote for L. H. Reynolds and the Republican ticket. It is just up to you. Mr. Popwell boasted much to me about being such a good Republican, and when I asked him the question which ticket he is going to suport, you ought to have seen him. But I made it come before I turned him loose. He wound up by saying "Well if I must tell you, I shall have to split my ticket this time."

Wel, Mr. Editor, I gues I had better close for this time. Wishing success to The Union-Banner, and its many readers, I am,

Respectfully,
D. P. MATRIN.

HOW WOODROW WILSON HAS NOT KEPT THE U. S. A. OUT OF A WAR.

All this "peace" cry is just a Democratic campaign hobby of no weight and sound reason.

"Democratic speakers throughout the country have the effontry to keep on clainming that the President has 'kept us out of war.' This preposterious claim has not fooled the people of the United States, "declered Representative Julius Kahn, of California, ranking minority member of the House Military Affairs Committee, in a statement here today.

"If anyone doubts that we made war on Mexico at Vera Cruz ask the mothers and fathers of the boys who were killed on the streets of that Mexican seaport.

"Ask the wives and mothers and sisters of the Mexicans who were killed at Vera Cruz whether we were at war with Mexico.

"Ask the relatives of the eighteen American civilians who were butchered at Santa Ysabel.

"Ask the relatives of the United States soldiers who were treacherous guage:

"'The progress of the revolution in Mexico: Continous bloodshed and disorders have marked its progress. For three years the Mexican Republic has been torn with strife. lives of American and other aliens have been sacrificed. vast properties developed by American capital and enterprise have been destroyed or rendered nonproductive. Bandits have been permitted to roam at will through the territory contigous to the Uinted States and to seize, without punishment or without effective attempt at punishment, the property of Americans while the lives of citizens of the United States who ventured to remain in Mexican territory or to return their to protect their interests have been taken, and in some cases barbarously taken, and the murderers have neither been apprehended nor [illegible] justice.

"Ask the mothers and sisters of those who were slaughtered in the raid at Columbus, New Mexico, whether we were at war with Mexico.

"Ask the citizens of Brownsville, Red House Ferry, Progeso, and Los Peladas whether the President 'has kept us out of war.'

"Ask the women and children who were threatened with death at Tampico by an infuriated Mexican mob.

"Ask the thousands of American citizens whe were called upon to abandon their property in Mexico and to return forthwith to the United States whether the President has 'kept us out of war.'

"Ask the hundreds of those refugees who are in the United States today, practically penniless and in want, who were forced to leave their property and homes in Mexico because the Wilson administration refused to give them the protection to which they were justly entitled.

"Ask the thousands of peaceful Mexicans who have sufferod famine during 'watchful waiting.'

"And, finally, ask the wives and children, the dependent mothers, fathers and sisters of the 150,000 National Guardsmen who are encamped on the Mexican border whether the President ' s kept us out of war with Mexico.

"In 1912 the Democratic platform proclaimed this high sounding doctrine:

"'The constitutinoal rights of American citizens should protect them on our borders, and go with them throughout the world, and every American citizen residing or having property in any foreign country is entitled to and must be given the full protection of the United States Government, both for himself and for his property.'

MERELY A FARCE

Silly Talk About President Wilson's "Firm Convictions."

Cases of Nicaragua, Haiti, Santo Domingo, and Panama Show How His Idea of Inviolable Rights Works Out.

Dr. Julian Irias, a member of the liberal party of Nicaragua, wanted to be elected president of that republic in the recent national election. He went to Washington to ask the permission of the United States government to be a candidate. He was told at the state department that the permission would be forthcoming provided that he would consent to consult the United States about Nicaraguan finances in the event of his election; that he would recognize all treaties between Nicaragua and the United States; that he would request the United States to keep its marines in Nicaragua, and that he would be agreeable to the American policy in favor of the abolition of the Nicaraguan army and the creation instead of a constabulary officered by Americans.

Having given these promises Doctor Irias returned to Nicaragua and was nominated for president by the liberal party. But, according to the story he and his followers tell, he found he had been double crossed. The American minister had taken charge of the election and arrangements had been made to beat Doctor Irias. Accordingly the doctor did not run. That is, no liberal went to the polls. Senor Chamorro, the conservative candidate, backed by the American minister, won. Now a revolution is brewing in Nicaragua.

"Two considerations," says the Democratic campaign text book, "have animated the president in the formulation of his Mexican policy and have compelled his adherence to it throughout his administration, namely: The firm conviction that all nations, both the weak and the powerful, have the inviolable right to control their internal affairs," etc.

Nicaragua, like Haiti, Santo Domingo and Panama is a shining example of what the president's firm conviction as to inviolable rights actually means in practice.

California Republicans United.

"Republicans of California are in harmony and will support the Republican candidate for United States senator, Gov. Hiram Johnson," declared O. A. Jackson of San Francisco, at the Willard. "Many Republican leaders had hoped that the regular Republican candidate, Willis Booth, would be nominated, and the Democrats I may say, also were hoping this would occur because they saw in it a possible split in the party and the election of n Democrat to succeed Senator Works. With the nomination of Johnson, however, the Republicans have accepted the situation, and I am confident they will support the nominee. Johnson, of course, will get all the Progressive votes, and with the Republicans voting solidly for him, as I believe they will, there is not the slightest doubt that they will elect him.

"This situation in California puts a dent in the Democratic hopes of gaining a senator in a Republican state."

Mr. Marshall Is Inconsistent.

Tom Marshall, in his Terre Haute speech, declared that were President Wilson to die he would resign rather than accept the awful responsibilities of the presidency. If he feels that way about it, why did he accept a renomination for the vice presidency? And why does he not even now retire from the ticket? We all know that we elect a vice president in order that he may become president if the president dies, and we all know, too, that the possibilities of such a succession are great. Three of the last ten men elected president have died in office, and Mr. Marshall as vice president might be called any day to assume the office of chief executive.

Foolish Attack on Railroads.

"They," (the railroads) "have kept you in communications which you did not stand in need of, for you know how to take care of yourselves," said President Wilson in his campaign speech at Omaha on October 5.

Back to the simple life, then; back to the prairie schooner and the ox cart. For that, if he meant anything at all, is what the president must have meant in this unctuous flattering of the Nebraska voters.

More of the Same Coming.

Secretary J. B. Reynolds of the Republican national committee was told of the Democratic philosophy in regard to Maine. "They claim it is a Democratic victory," his informant told him.

"Fine!" Mr. Reynolds exclaimed. "We will give them some more just like it."

Found Wilson Easy to Fool.

"Happily Bryan was too crude and simple to fool enough voters to elect him president," says Col. Henry Watterson, the dean of Democratic editors. Unhappily, Bryan was not too crude and simple to fool the president into making him premier of the Wilson administration.

Wrong Kind of Peace.

The trouble with the sort of peace President Wilson gives us on the Mexican border is that it is just as costly as war and much more deadly.

MR. HUGHES NOT CHANGED

New York World's Opinion of Candidate, Expressed in 1906, Was the Right One.

"When Mr. Hughes promises to give the people of New York a clean, honest administration, free from boss rule and corporation influence, they can accept his word. . . . . His record is that of a man who keeps his word faithfully and scrupulously. When has he ever broken a public promise or repudiated a public pledge?"

No, brother, this is not an extract from the Republican campaign text book. It is taken from the editorial column of the New York World, the present leading journalistic supporter of Woodrow Wilson, dated October 12, 1916.

This same paper, on January 2, 1908, remarked that "Among all the governors of the 46 states Mr. Hughes holds a unique position as to power, influence and opportunity." On May 1, 1908, the World recorded that "Governor Hughes has probably less ego in him than any other really big man in public life. He is so exacting in himself that he looms small in self-estimation compared with the public's estimation."

Mr. Hughes has not changed. The New York World has. That's all.

Shows Democratic Weakness.

The friends of President Wilson admit the weakness of their candidate when they persist in wanting to know what Hughes would have done. The query is a confession that the president has made a mess of things. If they were satisfied with his course they would point to it with pride, but they are not and they know that others are not satisfied.

They do not undertake to justify what he has done in Mexico, for example. They fall back on the lame expedient of asking what someone else would have done that might be more satisfactory. What Mr. Hughes would have done is not at issue. As The Star has pointed out before, it is idle to discuss how he would have met conditions that never would have developed under different handling.

The interesting fact now is not what anyone else would have done, but what President Wilson did do. Even his supporters tacitly acknowledge that he bungled, and they are asking the public to overlook that fact and return him to office. They convict their own candidate when they attempt to fasten on his opponent some of the embarrassment that is theirs.

Real Party Politics.

A little while ago the Democrats were charging that the Republicans, by assailing the botch the administration had made of our international relations, were unpatriotic in that they were dragging partisan politics into foreign affairs. "Partisanship," said Robert Lansing, secretary of state, with becoming gravity, "should stop at tide water."

Now comes the president with his demagogic cry that if he is not re-elected president the Republicans will plunge the country into war. This is playing party politics in foreign affairs with a vengeance. It endeavors to make the other nations of the world a party to our domestic election. Unwarranted in fact, uttered with a supreme carelessness as to the result on American prestige and standing abroad, put forth in a panic when the fatuousness of other cries was demonstrated, it marks the low estate to which the presidency in present hands has fallen.

Why Women Are for Hughes.

The Democratic party in its national platform takes the ground that it believes in equal suffrage but as a national party is without power to grant it, and the presidential candidate of the party does not point a way. The presidential candidate of the Republican party advocates the enactment of an equal suffrage amendment to the federal Constitution demonstrating that he really means what he says when he says he is in favor of equal suffrage. Is it wonderful under the circumstances that a large proportion of the women who desire the ballot and are organized to promote their cause feel more friendly to the candidacy of Mr. Hughes than toward that of Mr. Wilson?

What Michigan's Primary Shows.

The official canvass of the votes cast in the primary in Michigan brings out clearly the way the Republicans and Progressives are united on practically a 100 per cent basis in the Wolverine state. The vote in the primary was the largest ever recorded in Michigan since the direct primary law went into effect. There was cast on the Republican side a total of 284,640 votes. There was cast on the Democratic side a total of 29,935 votes.

These figures back up the contentions of Republican leaders that the state will go Republican in November by an old-time Michigan majority of better than 100,000.

Not a "Glorious" Business.

President Wilson "put Huerta out of business." He meddled in the domestic affairs of a foreign country. He drove out of office the only man who was capable of restoring order south of the Rio Grande—and then decided that Americans and Mexicans in Mexico would have to grope their way as best they could out of the anarchy to which he had condemned them. It was quite a performance, we must acknowledge—but one scarcely worth "glorifying" in.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

FIRST, SECOND AND FOURTH ON BORDER

GO INTO CAMP AT NOGALES—MEN ARE ALL IN GOOD SPIRITS.

REAL TOUCH OF ARMY LIFE

Each Command Came Into Camp in the Best Possible Condition. Plenty of Work.

Nogales, Ariz.—On the drill and maneuver grounds around Nogales, Alabama troops are under canvas and getting that real touch of army life as provided by Uncle Sam and for which the men have been longing for.

The Second regiment was the first to arrive, followed closely by the First and Fourth regiments and ambulance and signal corps. Each command came into camp in the best possible condition, and the men are all in fine spirits.

THIRD WEEK AT DOUGLAS.

Batteries A and C Progressing Faster as They Become Accustomed to Their Quarters.

Douglas, Ariz.—Monday started the third week here of the batteries, and the men are progressing a great deal faster this week, as they are accustomed to their new quarters.

Some of the men rode down to the Mexican border, a half mile from camp, and viewed the Mexican city of Agua Prieta, which is directly across the border from Douglass. It was possible to see many interesting sights from the American side.

Villa and Carranza troops fought at this place about a year ago and one can still see the entrenchments around the city as well as holes in some of the buildings made by Villa's artillery while attempting to capture the city. There are breastworks of the Americans still standing behind which the boys in khaki lay and protected the domains of Uncle Sam.

The men are not allowed to cross the border while in uniform under penalty of court-martial, and everyone is very careful in this respect.

50,000 TONS OF IRON FOR EXPORT

Italy and Japan Are Said to Be Inquiring for Phosphorus Metal.

Birmingham.—Fifty thousand tons more of basic iron has been sold by Alabama pig iron manufacturers for export purposes. This is a statement that is not denied, and comes from the East. It is understood that the sale was made on a level of $15 per ton at the furnace side, the consumers to attend to the transportation from Southern ports.

Notwithstanding the above statement it is given out that the quotations for pig iron delivery during the first half of the coming year are on a basis of $16 per ton, No. 2 foundry or basic. There is intimation that by the end of another thirty days that this price may be a minimum figure and that soles will be made on fifty cents or even one dollar advance.

The report from the east is that Italy is after 10,000 tons of low phosphorus iron, while Japan would take 3,000 tons of the metal.

MORE CARS USED

Demurrage Bureau States 10,906 Units Requisitioned Sept. Over. Aug.

Birmingham.—Railroads subscribing to the Alabama Demurrage Bureau used 10,906 more cars during September this year than during the previous month last year, according to the figures compiled by the bureau. During the past month, 82,402 cars were used, as compared with 71,496 for the same month a year ago. Quite an increase is noted over the number of cars used during August of this year, 79,536 cars having been used during that month. A steady increase is being noted in the number of cars used in Alabama, indicating the prosperops conditions throughout the State.

$40,000 DAMAGE DONE BY FLAMES

Andalusia Swept By Wind.

Mobile.—Reports from the hurricane-swept sections of Southern Alabama increased the death toll in the recent storm from two to four and the property damage by upwards of $100,000. Andalusia, a small town near the Florida line, appears to have been the chief sufferer, many buildings being unroofed and several blown down. One person was killed and several others injured. The other death reported was in Coffee County, where many houses were said to have been leveled and all wires in the county blown down. Several persons were injured during the gale, the reports say. As reports from outlying districts come in the property loss will be increased probably, but it is certain that it will not total anything like that caused by the hurricane of last July.

Weevil Reaches North Alabama.

Montgomery.—Boll weevils have traveled as far north as Marshall and Lawrence Counties this season and indications are that the pest will touch every county in Alabama next year and will begin its work in Tennessee. James A. Wade, State Commissioner of Agriculture, has received a bottle of weevils from Marshall County while positive evidence of their work in Lawrenee has been gathered.

Only one tier of counties separates Jackson and Marshall from the Tennessee line and this jump will be noth ing unusual for the weevil.

Dividend Will Be Paid Depositors.

Birmingham.—Depositors of the Alabama Penny-Prudential Savings Bank will receive a dividend of about 15 per cent in a short time, according to an announcement made in Birmingham by Alex E. Walker, Superintendent of the State Banking Department. The 15 per cent dividend will amount to about $25,000, and will be paid to the depositors of the Birmingham institution and the depositors of its Montgomery bank. The Alabama Penny-Prudential Savings Bank is a negro institution and operated a branch bank in Montgomery

Pecan Growers Happy.

Eufaula.—Local pecan growers are preparing to harvest a bumper crop, which they have already sold at fancy prices. One thing that the rains and floods of July helped was the pecan tree. Not only has much growth been noted in the trees since then, but the crop has been helped and with the first frost the picking of a big crop will begin. The larger growers already have contracted for the sale of their entire output.

Auto Turns Over; Neck Broken.

Selma.—Followed by an automobile nemesis, which pursued him for ten years, R. F. Hall, Uniontown, Ala., a planter, was instantly killed near that place when his car ran over a short bridge and turned turtle, pinning him under it. He was found a few minutes later by occupants of other cars. Hall, near here several years ago, plunged down a river bank 40 feet, barely escaping with his life, when his companion, O. C. Churchill, was instantly killed. Hall's neck was broken.

DISCRIMINATION IS MADE SAYS MARTIN

TEXT OF CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN MARTIN AND GOVERNOR MADE PUBLIC.

NEWS FROM STATE CAPITAL

What the State's Servants Are Saying, Doing and Undoing—Official Acts Disclosed.

—Montgomery.

Declaring that Governor Henderson has attempted to find a legal reason for the violation of solemn contracts which he had approved, William L. Martin, Attorney General, answered a letter which Governor Henderson had written to him, refusing to approve vouchers for the salaries of Perry W. Turner and Lawrence E. Brown, Assistant Attorney Generals, and for expenses in the Girard liquor investigation.

Governor Henderson's action was based on the contention that the Attorney General Bill, making an appropriation covering expenses of the Department, was unconstitutional because no amount was prescribed in the appropriation. Attorney General Martin in his statement declared that Legislatures throughout the 97 years of Alabama's existence as a State had made unlimited appropriations and that no one had questioned their constitutionality, although the six constitutions have had the same provision in reference to appropriations.

State Franchise Law at Stake.

The validity of Alabama's franchise tax laws, which require a domestic corporation to pay taxes on its capital stock and a foreign corporation to pay only on the amount of money used in its operations in the state, s at stake in the case of the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham Railroad Company versus J. P. Stiles, probate judge of Jefferson county, which came before the United States supreme court at Washington. If the supreme court holds that the plaintiff's contention is correct, the legislature will be called upon to make a change in the laws relating to domestic corporations.

The railroad contends that as only a part of its assets is used in Alabama it can be required to pay a franchise tax only on the amount which is used in the state; that, being taxed differently from a foreign corporation, it is denied due process of law and equal protection of the law and that the imposition of a franchise tax in this case is a burden upon or interference with interstate commerce.

Judge Stiles required the corporation to pay a franchise tax of $2,368.25 on a capital stock of $5,976,000. It was paid under protest, the corporation claiming that only $2,443,586.40 of the capital stock was used in Alabama, and notified the probate judge that suit would be brought for recovery of the money.

Liquor Elements Enter Motion.

Claimants for the liquor seized in the Girard raids and now in the custody of the sheriff of Russell county, have filed a motion in the Russell circuit court for the erasure of the order of Judge A. H. Alston for the destruction instanter of the liquor. Judge J. S. Williams has set November 20 as the time to consider the motion. Judge Williams was in Montgomery and notified Attorney General Martin of the motion. The attorney general said his office would represent the state in opposition to the motion. Judge Alston entered the orders at a special term of the Russell circuit court, when it was found that the claimants had left Alabama, without filing appeal bonds as required by law.

Refuses to Compromise.

Requests of claimants of the liquors seized in the Girard raids for a compromise, whereby the liquors would be destroyed and no hard labor sentences would be insisted upon by the State, have met with a prompt refusal by William L. Martin, Attorney-General, who has determined to prosecute the cases to the end and to insist upon the punishment of those who are alleged to have been owners of the liquors while they were stored at Girard.

Newsom Denied Rehearing.

The supreme court also denied the petition of T. J. Newsom of Morgan county, who sought another trial on a charge of killing C. E. Hackett, a newspaper carrier of Decatur. The court's decision means that Newsom must go to the penitentiary to serve a ten-year sentence.

Must Serve Sentences.

J. T. Howle and Jerome S. Brown of Birmingham, former publishers of The Searchlight, must pay heavy fines and serve hard labor sentences for Jefferson County after being convicted of blackmailing Smith Cullom, Jr., a Birmingham business man, according to a decision of the Supreme Court, when it refused to grant their petition for writs of certiorari, which would have directed the court of apeals to change its affirmative decisions. The cases were affirmed by the court of appeals several months ago.

CENTRAL POWERS TAKE CONSTANZA

DOBRUDJA REGION BEING OVERRUN BY ARMIES UNDER VON MACKENSEN.

ALLIES STUBBORNLY RESIST

British Smash Into Germans on Somme Front and Take 1000 Yards of Trenches.

London.—More than a thousand yards of German trenches in the region of Gueudecourt and Les Boeufs were taken by the British in fighting north of the Somme river in France, according to the official communication. In the region of Grandcourt the British artillery stopped a German plan for an attack.

London.—Dobrudja region of Rumania apparently is being overrun by the forces of the Teutonic allies.

Constanza, Rumania's chief seaport and fortress on the Black sea, already has fallen into the hands of the troops of the right wing of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army, while the left wing is nearing the town of Tchernavoda, where the Danube is spaned by the bridge of the railroad running from Constanza to Bucharest. Near the center of their front, which extends across Dobrudja from the sea to the Danube, the invaders have cut the railroad near Murfatlar and pushed their troops "far beyond" the railway line, accoruing to Berlin.

Before the rapid advance of the Germans, Bulgarians and Turks—rapid despite the heavy rains and soggy ground—the Russians and Rumanians are in retreat along the entire front, but, according to Petrograd, are offering stubborn resistance.

Aside from the operations in Dobrudja, another British smash at the German line in the Somme region of France, which netted them more than 1000 yards of trenches east of Gueudecourt and Les Boeufs and carried their front a step nearer the Bapaume-Peronne road, is the most notable incident of the fighting on any of the fronts. A gain, described as "appreciable," also is recorded for the French northeast of Morval, which lies just to the south of the region where the British and Germans were in contact.

Berlin, touching upon the fighting against the British and French Sunday, between Le Sars and Rancourt, says the attacks of the entente allies were canguinarily repulsed. It is estimated in the German official communication that the Germans withdrew Sunday night from the north of Chaulnes, south of the Somme, to a prepared position lying east of the northern part of the Chaulnes wood.

On the Transylvania front, stubborn fighting is still in progress between the Teutonic allies and the Rumanians for the mountain passes and the territory inside Rumania, which has been captured by the Austro-Germans.

The Russians having been cleared from the Narayuka river region of Galicia, the Austro-Germans have hurled a violent attack against other forces of Emperor Nicholas north of Brody, near the Volhynia-Galician border. The attack was repulsed, according to Petrograd.

EXPLOSION KILLS EIGHTEEN

Explosion in Mine of Roden Coal Company at Marvel.

Marvel, Ala.—A terrific explosion in the mines of the Roden Coal Company at Marvel resulted in the instantaneous death of 18 miners. Accumulation of gas was the cause of the disaster.

The Marvel mines is owned by the Roden Coal Company and is located in Bibb county about 40 miles southwest of Birmingham on the Louisville and Nashville and Southern railroads.

But before the entombed bodies were recovered George Jones a white miner of Garnsey, surrendered his life. On a ladder in the passageway he was overcome by fumes of deadly gas and fell to the floor of the mines, breaking his neck. Four men were overcome by the gas, removed from the inner recesses and resuscitated.

Of the 18 men whose lives were snuffed out by the explosion, eleven were white men and seven negroes.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. C. B. Dryer, superintendent of the mines, stated that the ninth left entry in which the explosion is supposed to have had its origin, had been inspected during the day by M. A. Lowrey and pronounced free from gas. A few hours later a mighty detonation hurled his body, together with 18 others, against the sides of the entries with death dealing force.

Passes Sentence of Death and Weeps.

Chicago.—Judge Joseph B. Sabbath of the criminal court after passing a death sentence on Lloyd Bopp, 23 years old, covered his face and wept unreservedly for several minutes. "I always prayed that if ever I became a judge I should never be called upon to go through an ordeal like this," he said. Counsel for Bopp and others in court gave way to tears. Bopp murdered a motorcycle policeman four months ago.

AUSTRIAN PREMIER IS ASSASSINATED

Assassin After Shooting Premier Wounded Two Other Men Before He Was Arrested

CAUSED GREAT EXCITEMENT

Doctor Adler Killed Count Stuergkh Because Latter Refused To Convene Parliament

Vienna.—The assassination of the Austrian premier, Count Karl Stuergkh, who was killed here, was purely political and was induced by his refusal to convene parliament, according to admission of Dr. Friedrich Adler, his assailant, shortly after his arrest.

Doctor Adler's arrest was accomplished after the wounding of two men who leaped at him when he fired on Count Stuergkh. He discharged the two remaining chambers of his revolver at these men before Austrian and German officers, with drawn sabers, overpowered him.

Count Stuergkh arrived at the hotel at 1:30 o'clock. With him at luncheon were Baron Aehrenthal, Count Toggenburg, governor of the Tyrol; Herr Jacobson, a prominent Vienna musician, and an actor from the Court theater.

At two o'clock Adler, who was unknown to the premier, arrived and took a seat three tables away. He ate luncheon and paid for the meal, but lingered at the table.

Shortly after three o'clock he arose, advanced quickly toward the premier and fired three shots. The first missed. The next two struck the premier in the head. Without a word, Count Stuergkh fell back lifeless in his chair.

Baron Aehrenthal sprang toward Adler. The head waiter ran up from behind the assassin and grasped the hand that held the revolver. Adler wrested his arm free and fired two shots. Baron Aehrenthal was wounded in the foot. The waiter received only a superficial wound.

Assassin Surrenders

Seeing that the struggle was hopeless, Doctor Adler surrendered to the officers, who crowded upon him and gave up his revovler. Apparently he was the calmest man in the room. He gave his name without hesitation and added:

"If you please, gentlemen, I know perfectly well what I have done. I shall not resist arrest."

In reply to a question as to the reason for his act, he said at first: "That I shall leave to answer in court."

It was half an hour later that he admitted that he had been actuated by political motives.

TWENTY-ONE MEN DROWNED WHEN STEAMER SINKS

The James B. Colgate Goes Down In a Storm On Lake Erie

Cleveland, Ohio.—Twenty-one members of the crew of the steamer James B. Colgate were drowned in Lake Erie October 19 at night, when the Colgate, bound from Buffalo to Fort William, Ontario, with coal, went down in a storm off Erie, Pa. The tragedy became known when Capt. Walter Grashaw of Cleveland, sole survivor, was picked up by a car ferry and taken to Conneaut, Ohio, after being afloat thirty-four hours on a life raft.

Captain Grashaw, who had been master of the Colgate for only two weeks, became unconscious soon after being picked up, but was able to tell part of the story of the disaster. Nineteen of the crew, he said, were drowned when the big whaleback vessel foundered, and two others, Second Engineer Harry Ossman of Cleveland and an unnamed coal passenger, were washed from the life raft after exposure and exhaustion had rendered them helpless.

The Colgate went down the night of what has become known as "black Friday." Six men were lost when the steamer Filer sank in Lake Erie, October 19, and on the same day the steamer, Marshall F. Butters foundered, but its crew of thirteen was saved.

Less than an hour after the Filer sank, the Colgate, by far the largest of the three lost vessels, went down.

Wife Of Carranza In United States

Laredo, Texas.—Mrs. Dona Virginia Carranza, wife of Gen. Venustiano Carranza, accompanied by her two daughters and Mrs. Alvaro Obregon, wife of the de facto government's minister of war, arrived at San Antonio on a special train, where they are expected to remain a short time. Mrs. Obregon, it was stated, probably will visit Los Angeles. Alonzo B. Garrett, United States consul at Nuevo Laredo, was instructed by the state department to show the party every courtesy and assistance.

Further Demands Made On Greece

London.—The presentation by the entente allies of further demands on Greece, including the removal of the Greek troops to the southern part of the country and the handing over of Greek war supplies, is reported. An Athens dispatch, which is dated Friday, October 20, says the demands were presented to King Constantine by the French military attache. Greece is required to transfer the entire military force in Thessaly to Morea. This force is now in the rear of the allied forces in Macedonia.

ATHENS IN GREAT TURMOIL

ADMIRAL DU FOURNET HISSED AND FRENCH SAILORS ARE DRIVEN BACK

Cordons of King Soldiers Thrown All Around City Hall And Other Points

Athens, Greece.—With the occupation of Athens and Piraeus by marines from the warships of the entente powers, a tense situation has arisen in Athens. Great crowds of royalists paraded the streets of the Greek capital, cheering the king; and cordons of Greek troops and marines have been thrown about the railway stations, city hall and other points occupied by the entente forces, to prevent clashes between them and the royalists.

An unofficial dispatch says Admiral du Fournet was hissed by the throngs in the streets of Athens, and that a detachment of French soldiers was driven back by the hostile crowd.

King Constantine, in a speech to the officers of his fleet, told them that he would stand by them, no matter what consequences might follow their loyalty to Greece.

Thousand Marines Land At Piraeus

Marines from the ships of the entente powers to the number of about a thousand have been landed at Piraeus and have occupied the railway station at Piraeus and several buildings in Athens. Immediately this became known, the streets of Athens swarmed with Greeks frantically cheering King Constantine and chanting the Greek national anthem. Great crowds marched through the streets, thousands gathering in the neighborhood of the postoffice square.

The war minister, General Dracos, ordered out Greek troops and marines to guard every approach to the square in order to prevent any clash between Grek civilians and the French, who occupied that section, establishing a complete cordon about the French and taking all precautions to avoid any incident or accident capable of starting strife.

SIXTEEN COLLEGES TO GIVE MILITARY TRAINING

Alabama, Tennessee, Clemson, Among Those Authorized By The War Department

Washington.—Official authorization for the training in military science of students in sixteen of the country's leading universities and colleges, including the University of Alabama, University of Tennessee and Clemson college, was given by the war department to executive officers of the institutions at a conference between them and ranking department officials.

Other institutions authorized to give military instruction are Princeton university, Harvard university, Yale university, University of Michigan, Virginia Military institute, Stevens institute of technology, Catholic university of America, Lehigh university, Ohio state university, University of Minnesota, University of Illinois, City College of New York and University of Vermont.

The purpose of the conference was to establish a systematic method for training reserve officers along lines described by the army reorganization law. It has been estimated that a corps of 50,000 reserve officers will be necessary to establish an adequate military force should the United States become involved in a war with a first class world power.

Church Leaders Speak For Masses

St. Louis.—Urging that without affiliating itself with any "political scheme," the church take a larger interest in the work of improving the masses, leaders of the church spoke at a joint meeting of the house of deputies and bishops of the Protestant Episcopal general convention in session here. They said by such action the great mass of laboring people, "many of whom have been estranged, can be won back to the church."

Leaves Big Fortune For Missions

Philadelphia.—The income of the one-half of the estate valued at five million dollars left by Charles K. Smith, who died here, is to be applied to the erection and support of mission churches in the United States and Mexico after the death of his son, by the terms of the will admitted to probate here.

No New Method For Fighting Weevil

Washington.—Secretary Houston denied that the department of agriculture has discovered a means of exterminating the cotton boll weevil—a report which has caused scores of planters and cotton brokers to make inquiries of the department from time to time. The secretary explains that agricultural experts still are working diligently, but without definite results, so far, to develop a means of eradicating the pest. It is stated that the report was spread to influence the market.

Effort To Aid The Poles Has Failed

Washington.—President Wilson announced at Long Branch, N. J., that his efforts to bring about an agreement among the belligerent nations to allow relief supplies to be sent to Poland had failed. The president gave out a statement saying he had received replies from the rulers of Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany and Austria-Hungary to a letter he sent in July suggesting that those nations combine to assist in Polish relief work. Differences on the subject between the allies and central powers is the cause.

TEUTON ARMIES STRIKE AT ALLIES

In France, In Galicia And In The Dobrodjr Region Central Powers Take The Offensive

LOST GROUND IS RETAKEN

Berlin Claims British Have Been Driven From Positions Won On October 18

Berlin.—In France, Galicia and in the Dobrudja region of Roumania the armies of the central powers have successfully taken the offensive against their opponents. They are also holding the entente allies in check in northern Macedonia and are continuing the fighting on the Transylvania Roumania frontier.

Germans Retake Lost Ground

Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, assuming the initiative on the Somme front in France, has, according to the Berlin war office, recaptured from the British the greater part of the positions won from the Germans October 18 between Eaucourt L'Abbaye and Le Barque, between the Pozieres-Bapaume road and Gueudecourt and toward Beaucourt. The Germans also have successfully withstood British attacks near Courcelette and Le Sars and on the Pozieres-Bapaume road. Paris reports only artillery activity on the Somme front, but London chronicles the repulse, with heavy casualties, of a German attack in the Thiepval region.

On the eastern front the Teutonic forces have stormed Russian positions on the left bank of the Narayuvka river, southeast of Lemberg, and held the conqured ground against counter attacks. Fourteen officers and 2,050 men and eleven machine guns were taken here by Prince Lopold's troops.

In Volhynia the fighting continues with varying results, both the Austro-Germans and the Russians claiming repulses of attacks on various sectors. To the north of Kiselin a stubborn battle is being waged with no decision having yet been reached.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN BATTLE WITH MEXICANS

Fight In The Big Bend District Lasted Forty-Five Minutes, According To Reports To U. S.

San Antonio, Texas.—American troops and Mexicans clashed near San Jose, in the Big Bend country, according to a report received by General Funston from Col. Joseph Gaston, the commander of the district. No losses were suffered by the Americans, and information is lacking regarding loss among the Mexicans.

Colonel Gaston's report said that a band of about thirty Mexicans opened fire on a detachment composed of twenty-three men of the Sixth cavalry and Texas Guardsmen engaged in patrol duty between Presidio and Ruidosa. Lieutenant Cudington of the Texas troops, in command of the detachment, ordered his men to return the fire.

A vigorous exchange of shots continued for 45 minutes, the Americans and Mexicans firing in skirmish formation from covered positions on either side of the Rio Grande. Information from Colonel Gaston did not indicate that the United States soldiers crossed in pursuit of the Mexicans. After the fight Lieutenant Cudington returned to Ruidosa with his command.

Great Disorder In The Greek Capital

London.—Extremely turbulent conditions in Athens on October 18 at night are reported in a dispatch from the Greek capital, sent that evening. Greek reservists have taken the law in their own hands, despite the presence of strong entente detachments of marines who are given virtually no assistance by the Greek authorities in maintaining order.

Veterans To Meet In Washington

Washington.—Preliminary plans for the 1917 reunion of the United Confederate Veterans—the first gathering of the gray hosts in Washington—were discussed at a meeting of the finance committee of the general reunion committee.

Land Bank Swindles Up To States

Washington.—Promoters of fraudulent schemes for organizing joint stock land banks in the new rural credits system cannot be prosecuted under federal fraud and conspiracy law, according to an opinion given the farm loan board by Attorney General Gregory, but the people must be protected by state laws. The board has received many complaints of swindling and has given public notice that no charter would be issued for any bank in whose organization promotion expenses were paid.

American Exports Made New Record

Washington. — American exports made a new record during September, when $512,847,957 worth of goods were sent abroad. The exports were greater than ever before in one month and exceeded the previous record, made in August last, by about $3,000,000. In announcing those statistics the department of commerce points out that the American export trade is approaching the $5,000,000,000 a year mark. The total exports for the twelve months ending with September is $4,971,945,883.

HURRICANE HITS THE SOUTH

PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, AND MOBILE, ALABAMA, ARE THE CHIEF SUFFERERS

Two Lives Lost, Many Vessels Sunk And Buildings Unroofed—Two Lives Reported Lost

New Orleans.—The South was swept by a huricane which drove across the Middle Gulf states, taking a toll of two lives and causing property and marine losses.

Pensacola and Mobile were the chief sufferers. One person was killed at each place and buildings were unroofed, telephone and telegraph wires suffered damage; ships were sunk and beached.

At Pensacola the wind velocity reached a maximum of 114 miles with 110 miles at Mobile, but in neither city was the property loss anything like as great as that caused by the hurricane of last July.

Small Vessels Sunk.

Mobile city itself suffered little real damage, but shipping in the harbor did not fare so well, two small vessels being sunk and four beached. Some damage to train sheds and terminals also resulted.

At Pensacola one small steamer went down, another vessel is missing, three fishing boats went ashore and two larger vessels were damaged when they came together during the blow. Telephone and telegraph wires were prostrated for many hours, the city being cut off entirely from the outside world from early morning until night.

Although its intensity lessened as the storm swept inland, southern Alabama suffered materially. At Opp, a manufacturing plant was destroyed and houses were unroofed. At Troy, buildings were unroofed and poles blown down.

Citrus Crops Escape

In southern Alabama timber also was reported to have been badly damaged, but reports were that the citrus crops in that state and western Florida had not suffered greatly.

Torrential rains accompanied the blow, 10.88 inches falling at Burrwood, La., and the fall being heavy throughout southern Mississippi, Alabama and even in parts of Georgia, the state camp at Macon being damaged by wind and rain.

BANDITS HOLD UP SANTA FE EXPRESS

After Looting Mail Train Near Bliss, Okla., Robbers Escape In An Automobile

Bliss, Okla.—Santa Fe Mail-Express train No. 5, southbound, was held up and robbed by a band of robbers near here at 8:57 o'clock at night Wednesday, October 18.

An express messenger and baggageman whose names have not been yet learned were shot and killed by the bandits.

The robbers, after looting the train, escaped in an automobile. A special train of police has been sent from Perry, it is reported, and have taken up the trail of the robbers, the number of which is unknown.

It is stated that the safe in the express car was blown to atoms. The amount of money and valuables secured by the band, said to have been composed of six men, is not known.

The express clerk killed, a man named Norman, is said to have been riddled with buckshot.

Runs 95 Miles In Less Than 15 Hours

Chicago.—A heaping dish of ice cream and some lemonade was all that Sidney Hatch of Chicago, an amateur marathon runner, wanted after he finished his record-breaking 95-mile run from Milwaukee to Chicago. Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union declare that Hatch's performance is probably the most remarkable in history. He covered the distance—95.7 miles—in 14 hours, 50 minutes and 30 seconds, beating the former record by four hours and seven minutes, averaging a mile every 8½ minutes.

World's Wheat Yield Shows Decrease

Rome.—The total wheat harvest of the world is estimated by the International Agricultural Institute as seven per cent below the average and twenty-five per cent below the average of last year. The institute's report includes for the first time the crop of European Russia, which it estimates to be 20 per cent less than that of last year.

Protection Of U. S. Asked By Greeks

Athens, Greece.—After the demonstration here against the allies, during which a procession of several thousand persons marched to the American legation and presented resolutions asking the sympathy and protection of the United States against the encroachments of the entente powers, The American minister promised to forward the petition to Washington immediately. The entente powers are very busy in the Hellenic kingdom and no one can tell what a day may bring forth.

Earthquake Shock In Southern States

Atlanta.—Atlantians felt distinct seismic shocks on the afternoon of October 18 shortly after four o'clock during the most pronounced wind and rain storm of the season. No damage was done. The disturbance was general over the state. Downtown skyscrapers trembled from the shocks, as did the smaller buildings in the residential districts. The first tremor occurred at four minutes and fifty seconds after four o'clock, and the second at six minutes and ten seconds after four.

ELOPES WITH HIS SON'S SWEETHEART

Steady Business Man Quits Wife and Children for Stenographer.

TWO HOMES SORROW

Girl's Telegram Shows She Could Not Resist Mature Admirer—Her Betrothed Away With His State Regiment.

Boston, Mass.—Charles H. Gretter, forty-five years old, treasurer of the Louis E. Merry company, bakers, with a fine residence in Malden and a summer home in North Weymouth, has eloped with the sweetheart of his nineteen-year-old son, Leslie, who has been with the Massachusetts militia at El Paso, Tex.

The broken-hearted mother of Mr. Gretter's three children admitted that fact at the Gretter home. She was corroborated by the father of Mildred Merrill, twenty-two years old, a stenographer, who sacrificed her soldier sweetheart and her home to elope with a man old enough to be her father.

Crushed by the weight of a double sorrow—his mother having committed suicide two weeks ago—Fred Merrill of Eastman road, Somerville, quoted from a yellow slip of paper:

"I fought him for six years.

"MILDRED."

It was a telegram he received last Sunday from Worcester, in which his daughter told of her step.

Employed in His Office.

Where she and her forty-five-year-old companion may be now is not known either to Mr. Merrill or Mrs. Gretter.

"I want my husband home again in spite of everything," said Mrs. Gretter.

"All I want is my little daughter back again," said Mr. Merrill.

Miss Merrill was employed as a stenographer for several years in Mr. Gretter's office, and the two were openly fond of each other's society, but no one thought that Mr. Gretter's liking was anything more than admiration of his supposedly prospective daughter-in-law.

The fact that Mr. Gretter frequently took Miss Merrill riding in his touring automobile was known to both families, and was never given a thought. Nor was it considered strange that Miss Merrill should constantly be lauding the qualities of her employer.

Gretter Family Prostrated.

Mrs. Gretter and her two daughters, both in their teens, are prostrated. But Mrs. Gretter has not a single bitter word to say, either of her husband or of his companion.

"I hope the girl is restored to her father," she said, "and as for my husband, I want him to come back again. Not here, though; not here. What is there left for him here? He has lost every friend, or will lose them, when the affair becomes known. Oh, how could he? How could he?"

STOPPED HIS WIFE'S TONGUE

Husband Used "Dumbcane" Because He Tired of Her Chatter—Later Paid Hospital Bill Cheerfully.

St. Louis, Mo.—Mr. and Mrs. John Kearne were inspecting a botanical garden here when the gardener pointed to a plant and called it "dumbcane."

Kearne's curiosity was aroused and he asked, "Why the dumb?" The gardener replied that if a leaf is placed on the tongue it renders the person speechless. Some time later Kearne approached his wife smilingly.

"Shut your eyes and open your mouth. I've something good for you," he said, and his wife obeyed. At the city hospital Mrs. Kearne recovered her speech and she told on Kearne. He confessed. Likewise he footed the hospital bill.

"I didn't have faith in what that gardener said, but sometimes my wife talks too much and I thought I'd try it," he explained.

MONKEY ON RAMPAGE STOPS RAIROAD TRAIN

Because His Mistress Was a Bit Tardy With Breakfast, He Made Big Scene.

Bishop, Cal.—Because a large monkey belonging to Miss Katherine Smith was not served breakfast at the usual hour the other morning he went on a widespread rampage and bit a young lady on the ankle, but could not make a meal of it; climbed all over a man he disliked, and finally held up a passenger train.

The Southern Pacific company, through its engineer and fireman, was astonished and frightened when the monkey, half standing in the middle of the narrow-gauge track and grimacing horribly, confronted the locomotive. The face was too much for the company and the engineer shut the throttle and threw on the brakes.

The startled passengers got off and helped chase the chattering monkey away. The conductor delivered himself of an oration that wouldn't have served as an eulogium at the monkey's funeral.

As a climax he got mixed up scramble-egged fashion, with a man named Mr. Monk, and scratched his face severely. The two-legged Mr. Monk objected, and when he could find a gun he pumped shot into the four-legged monk until he resembled a sieve and ceased to breathe. His mistress is disconsolate.

HINDUS MARRY IN NEW YORK

Brahminee and Brahmin Students at Columbia University Continue Romance of Childhood.

New York.—Miss Radhabai Pawar, a Brahminee, and Shankar M. Pagar, a Brahmin, members of the Hindu priestly caste, were married recently at the Vedanta society's meeting place here.

This was a continuation of a romance which began years ago in India, and has flourished in the quiet corridors of Columbia university, where both bride and bridegroom are successful students.

Mr. and Mrs. Pagar were born in the state of Baroda, India. They fell in love when they were children. Pagar won a scholarship at the University of Bombay and, six years ago, the government of Baroda sent him to the United States to complete his education.

There are only two orthodox Brahmin temples in America, one in Boston, the other in San Francisco. So Miss Pawar and Pagar decided to be married by a member of the Vedanta society, where are expounded the teachings of the Hindu orthodox school of philosophy.

The learned pair will remain at Columbia until next June, when they will complete their studies. Then they will return to India and engage in government educational service.

SEWED UP EYES OF HIS HOGS

Farmer Says He Did It to Prevent Their Catching Chickens—Court Fines Him for Cruelty.

Trenton, N. J.—Because he sewed up his hogs' eyes to keep them from catching chickens, Joseph K. Leigh, a Pleasant Valley farmer, has been arrested and fined $20 and costs.

Leigh's only excuse was that "father used to do it." Some visitors in the neighborhood discovered the practice and notified Wallace P. Thornton, an S. P. C. A. officer, who made the charge. The full penalty is $250 fine and six months' imprisonment.

Survives Severe Electric Shock.

Baltimore.—Though a current of 4,000 volts passed through his body while he was at work on top of an electric pole, Webb Barnes, twenty-eight, survived the shock. Barnes, who is a lineman, was sitting on a cross-arm adjusting high voltage wires in a switchbox. One of the wires became short-circuited, there was a flash from the box, and the lineman received the full 4,000 volts. With a loud cry he was seen to sway for an instant and toppled over the cross arm. He did not fall, but hung limply over the double cross arm. Fellow workmen hastened to his aid and lowered the unconscious man to the street. While awaiting the arrival of the pulmotor and ambulance they gave first aid treatment and the injured man was revived.

THE SAME OLD GAME

Another cowardly attack upon the liberties of the people of Chilton county is being and has been made by the low down attempt to crush the greatest exponent of the peoples rights, Hon. L. H. Reynolds, in the way of a black and nasty attempt at defaming his personal character. The whole scheme bears the ear marks of the scheming few in Clanton who on other occasions and in other ways have made assaults upon the privileges of the common people and sought ot deprive them of the rights of ballot. They have failed in all else, and now they are attacking the personal character of Judge Reynolds.

They seek in any way their filthy hearts and iniquitous minds may design to rid the county of Mr. Reynolds, and then they expect to find the people easier to handle.

In this last scheme they are trying to pull off they are going to see rank failure and suffer bitter remorse far more utterly so than ever before, but no more than they rightly deserve. They can never reap the full quota of punishment for such action until they be assigned to that lower region that is prepared for the bad of the world for eternal misery for time infinite after death.

We know there are only a very few people in the county who will take seriously the defamatory charges against the character of Judge Reynolds by the Democrats. Anybody can readily apprehend the presence of a political trick some where about the premises of the thing. If you will come to the court house next Saturday Judge Reynolds and Mr. Middleton will show you the whole frame-up that has been planned to defeat Reynolds at the election in November.

We are all aware that the thing the people want for the next six years, and the thing they are going to vote for on Nov. 7th, is a change in the policy of our county management. With all due respect to each and every officer in the county who has weilded an influence in our destinies, we know that there are some elements in the coterie which have not been pleasing to our citizens. It is a unanimous purpose among our citizens to pick out these undesirable elements on Nov. 7th and replace them with men whom it is believed will bring us a change for the better.

There are no doubt men in the race who will bring the desired changes; and there are other men who are either openly or secretely in line with the same old methods and who would not bring a change in policies of government.

The voter should examine closely the standing of every man who is in the race for the offices and be able to vote rightly in ridding our county offices of the things which are not best for the people and placing in their stead men who will give the whole citizenship the kind of service which they want and need.

WHERE IS THE "RING?"

Is there a ring of selfish political dictators connected with Chilton county politics?

We answer that there is.

Where is it and who composes it?

We maintain that it is housed in what once was purported to be the Democratic party, but which has in late years gone to ultimate and hopeless wreck. The parties who compose the said ring are those individuals upon whose heads came down the weight of their own foolish handiwork when the so-called Democratic structure collapsed.

The Democratic party might have been founded on honest convictions long years ago, by men who believed themselves right. But that part of it which was here in Chilton county a few years ago fell into the hands of a few up starts who have less political convictions than a young Texas mule and scarcely more sense, and hence the desparate condition in which you find the thing at present.

But we want to tell you about that "Ring" which we promised to tell you about, in case the Clanton Press did not tell you last week. Guess you noticed they didn't tell you about it, didn't you? Well alright.

You know it is our belief that it was the working of this "Ring" of used-to-be Democrats that caused Judge Adams to surrender the Democratic nomination after it had been lawfully given him. We wanted to give them a chance to tell the reason he gave up, so if there was any reason other than the pressure of the "Ring" the people would know what it was.

But they remain silent, and we must let the truth come forth.

We have the information from a reliable source that about half a dozen men in Clanton, who took the job of bossing the Democratic side of the campaign at the outset, went to Judge Adams and asked him what was his attitude toward the record of the Democratic county administration of the past six years.

The reply of the Judge was not favorable to them. They grew some what agitated, and put the question to him in some what this manner: "Are you going out in your campaign and endorse this administration in the things it has done?"

Here the Judge came clean and told them he was not. He told them that in the first place the record was not a right and just principle of government, and he could not hope to be elected on it anyway.

Then and there this little ring told him they would manipulate the party machinery against him if he did not do as they wanted him to.

The result was that Judge Adams acted in the most honest and wise way he could. He told them that rather than be the slave of such a few to the exclusion of th eviews of the people, he would just give back the nomination to them. And se he did.

In the light of such action, does it look to you like the Democratic party in Chilton county is owned and controlled by a "RING?"

We call upon the Clanton Press to offer any statements which it thinks will controvert those we make above about the way Judge Adams was treated.

We defy them to offer any argument that will successfully deny our contentions.

Going further, we woudl state it as our opinion that this ring did not nor would not support any candidate who would not wear the harness they cut out for him.

Why didn't they give the nomination to John Patton? They did not know whether they could manage him or not. Why didn't they give it to C. R. Mullins? The same answer applies.

Then why did they choose the man they did? Because he consented to do their biddings, and work as they say work.

Aren't these things sound of reason in the light of all visible evidences?

Not so very long ago Mr. Wilson received a deputation of Hungarians who have taken on American citizenship. He fed them with honeyed words—for they have votes which they will use this fall. Earlier in his career, when he was writing books and not thinking about votes, he used this language in his "History of the American People," as he was describing the quality of immigration to this country just prior to 1890: "But now there came multitudes of men of the lowest class from the south of Italy and men of the meaner sort out of Hungary and Poland."

Rev. Crumpton returned Tuesday night from a three weeks stay at Hot Springs.

Mr. J. M. Grant is able to be up and out again after a severe illness of a month or more.

DR. W. W. SHOEMAKER A FORMER RESIDENT OF THIS LOCALITY, IN TEXAS

Says Ferraline The Only Remedy That Benefiitted His Wife. Recommends It to His Patients.

Dr. W. W. Shoemaker, Physician and Surgeon, of Handley, Texas, was formerly a resident of this locality, practicing his profession in Washington County, Alabama.

Dr. Shoemaker is well known, and by the physicians of Mobile, who recall Dr. Shoemaker as a man, and in his profession he is well thought of and stands high. All who know Dr. Shoemaker regard him as a capable physician and surgeon, and a man of the highest principles and ethics. In Washington County, Alabama, where he practiced his profession for years, he is as well and favorably known today as any man in the county.

"Ferraline," said Dr. Shoemaker, recently, to a representative of the Frankville Medicine Company, "I hold very highly, as a remedy to be used in the treatment of catarrhal condition of the Stomach and bowels.

"In my judgment it is unsurpassed as a remedy for controlling hemorrhage and all kinds of morbid discharge from whatever source. Its healing powers are very great.

"It is a good tonic, one that may be assimilated by a delicate stomach, and a re-constructive that will build up the system in a natural manner, and do it easily and quickly.

"I am using Ferraline in my practice daily and with splendid results. It will quickly relieve the soreness of the stomach and bowels due to improper digestion, prevent the forming of gas, and give to the system red corpuscles in the blood.

"Ferraline in a natural manner regulates, acts upon the kidneys and gives strength to the body. It does not contain any habit forming drugs, and can only be benificial in its use.

"Ferraline is a natural compound and one that cannot be manufactured in the present day laboratory, as it possesses that balancing of proportions, or weighing of infinitesimal parts that the chemists have yet to learn.

"We Physicians recognize the fact that among the most difficulty complaints we have for treatment are those of the stomach, practically all of which are due to poor assimilation or digestion. Some cases yield to treatment; others do not.

"In serious cases," continued Dr. Shoemaker, "where the patient can afford it, the recognized health resorts of the country are recommended, as these minerals are in the natural state, and more easily assimilated than any manufactured prearation.

"The analysis of Ferraline brings it within the class of those mineral waters, in a concentrated form, and, therefore, results should be obtained in a much shorter time from Ferraline than would be possible in a lengthy visit to some of these famous resorts."

THERE IS JUSTIFICATION

Voters of this county, who know about the men and affairs of our present day, are too wise to swallow the dishonorable campaign methods of the undignified blustering little politicians in Clanton against Judge Reynolds, and turn their faces away from the only source that gives them any promise or hope of popular self-government in the affairs of the county. Any man with a grain of sense as big as a mustard seed, and a recollection as long as a minute can figure out the whole program of these groveling efforts that are being made against the leader of the people at present.

A blow at Judge Reynolds is an act that destines calamity to the people of the county.

It should and will be resented by the men all over our land who believe and know, rightly too, that their voices and opinions are worth as much as those of the turgid little objects of counterfieted humanity that are trying to bull-doze the people into this Democratic-Independent Socialist mess in Clanton, for the sole purpose of beating Reynolds and the people be d——d.

UNION SPRINGS

As the campaign of 1916 is nearing its close, its importance and far reaching effects should deeply impress our entire citizenship. The old fossilated idea of "just to beat some fellow" should not receive a thought of recognition by any of our people, because questions of great moment and lofty ideals confront us, and if we fail to give them due consideration all this campaign work and time is wasted and we sink to the low level of "just a beat game" and a season of old time abuse and nothing gained. But we are pleased to note that our people and the Union-Banner manifest so much immunity from the low, foolish, unbusiness-like, loosing and silly measures alluded to. The May primary seems to have given almost universal satisfaction. We believe both parties brought out and nominated tickets of as good material as they possessed, and we have heard of but just a few only who have violated their obligations and gone back on their people, in doing this they heap loss on their dear selves. But the great rank and file of our people are satisfied and the endorsement they gave the nominees is enough to give great assurance to each candidate. The present campaign has been one of quietness and pleasantness with the exception of a few clamorous individuals and we doubt if they have the welfare of the county at heart as much as "just to beat some one." Our citizens we believe are awake to the fact that the needs of our county at this time most urgently call for men of business, of competency and experience in whose hands we can safely place our business, men who will listen to and regard the protests and requests of the people, who will work to free the county from debt. In May our people in great numbers nominated a ticket, selected from the finest material in the county, that will meet all the requirements of our people. Standard bearers chosen by the people in a fair manner, then how can any one have the cheek to ask or even expect one of those people to violate their obligation?

We hear much about "Bossism" in our county but we know there is no bossism in this part of north west Chilton. We vote as we please.

Let our people look after their business on the 7th of Nov. by all going and voting for their friends—the men they have selected as their standard bearers—look after this themselves, not thinking the other people will attend to it. You know the men you have chosen so you have no time to listen to slanderous reports. As Frank Baltzell of the Alliance Herald once said, "Never do what your enemy wants you to do."

JOHNNY GREEN, Aviator

Famous Airman Who With His Aeroplane Will Make Daily Flights at the Fair Grounds.

Mr. Johnny Greene of Chattanooga, whose likeness is seen in the above picture, and who is one of the most eminent aeroplane flyers in this country, has been engaged by the Fair management to make daily flights at the Fair grounds for the amusement of all visitors.

This is by far the greatest free attraction that has ever been offered by the Fair.

This famous airman will make his first flight on Tuesday afternoon, and will give a demonsrtation each afternoon thereafter during the week.

He will ascend with his machine into the air, and in his flight will drop explosive bombs. These bombs are already in possession of the Secretary of the Fair association.

You can't afford to miss seeing this wonderful feat. It shows the modern accomplishments of the latest patterns of air craft, and will be educational and instructive as well as entertaining and amasing.

The success of the Fair after all else has been said, depends more than anything else on the profusion of exhibits by the farmers of their products. Get up the best of whatever you raised this year and bring it along. Besides winning a prize, you will aid the Fair in its efforts to show the best our county affords.

THE BIGGEST FAIR WE HAVE EVER HAD HERE

Plans are being made and expectations are advanced for the greatest County Fair we have ever had to be in array during the week beginning Oct. 30th.

The efforts which the officers of the Association have made this time for the success of the occasion are on a larger scale and more determined than ever before. No pains have been spared. The program has been carefully planned by experts and assurances are made that it will take in and include activities that touch the interest of every man woman and child who has at heart the best interests of the county, educationally, agriculturally and industrially.

Fair Program

The Fair will open for the admission of visitors at 5 o'clock Monday.

Tuesday, Oct. 31 will be the day of the first aeroplane flight. This is the great free attraction of the Fair week, and will be performed every day by Mr. Johnny Green one of the foremost and noted aircarn of this country.

Wednesday, Nov. 1st will be stock day. Milk cows in contests should be brought to the Fair on this day only.

Thursday Nov. 2nd is going to be the biggest day of the whole week. This is club and educational day. All schools in the county will be here, and all the boys and girls of the various club activities will be here too. A gigantic parade will be formed consisting of Band, Fair officials, County officials, demonstration agent club Boys and girls, high schools, graded schools, city officials, womens clubs, automobiles and buggies. This parade is going to excel the big circus street parades that are always such matters of great interest.

At 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon there will be a better baby contest for children from one up to two years old.

Friday Oct. 3rd there will be a football game between the teams of the Chilton County High School and the Wetumpka Agricultural College. This is a feature of much interest that has not been seen at Fair heretofore.

Saturday, Nov. 4th, will be everybody's day. The fair will close at midnight on this day.

CLUBS TO HAVE A BIG PART IN THE FAIR

Canning Girls, Corn and Pig Club Boys will all be loud in evidence.

One more week until we will meet all of you boys and girls in Clanton—club and educational day, Nov. 2.

The exhibits are already coming in, corn and beautiful canned goods. Only wish the pigs could come in early also that we might enjoy looking at them. We are expecting every club pig in the county to be here at least that one day.

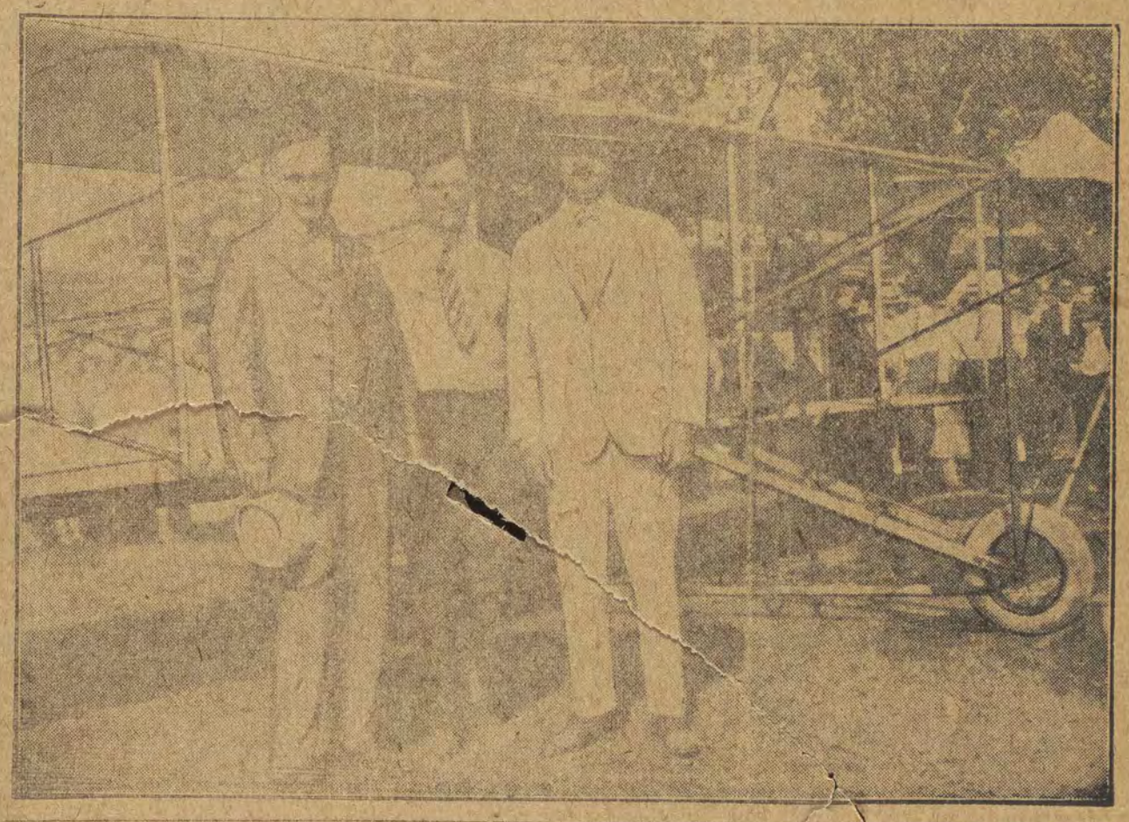
The extension work of the county was given a great impetus this week by the visit of Miss Feminear, the state poultry agent. This work has only been given to nine counties in Alabama this year. Chilton was fortunate enough to be one of the favored few. Only six communities could be given the work this year. It promises to do much for this neglected part of the average southern farm. When we realize the immensity of the poultry business in the United States each year, $600,000,000.00, we will think it time for us to have some part in it and study it from a business standpoint.

Poultry clubs were organized in the following places: Mt. Pleasant, Minooka, Benson, Fairview, Clanton and Cooper.

Any information wanted by persons interested in this work will be given by your home demonstration agent.

Our years work is fast drawing to a close and our annual report will soon be called for, therefore it is necessary that each record book mailed to you in the spring be returned at once that the best report possible for your county be made.

Girls, if you made the effort and failed because of either wet or dry weather, make out your book and return it saying what you did and return it to me at once. A lage number fo girls have been prompt in responding to my request and all others will I am sure.



Boys, are you getting that corn to send in to decorate your float and tent, Let us have it as soon as possible. We are planning something for you that weh ope to make a credit to you, we cannot do this without your help.

Remember Club Day, Thursday, Nov. 2, and tell every other boy and bring hi mwith you.

Boys of the pig club get ready to have the best exhibit of your pigs at the fair that you have ever had in the history of your work. Have you pig at the fair and you take part in the parade.

A Page About the Educational Tax Amendment

As Seen by Some Prominent Men of Affairs in the State

Convincing Opinions, and Undeniable reasons why the Educational Amendment should be voted for on the 7th of November.

The following extracts are taken from letters to the State Department of Education approving the Educational Amendment to be voted at the general election in November. They give intimation of the favor with which the measure is being received throughout the state by men in the various walks of life and who represent the several political parites. These statements go to show that there is a universal sentiment among intelligent people of the state that the adoption of the Amendment is the most important event in the educational history of Alabama since our admission to the Union.

"There seems to be an impression in some quarters that a Constitution is too sacred to be tampered with. Never was there a more absurd mistake. The framers of the great Constitution of our general government were wise enough to foresee the nation's constitutional needs, and they made provision in the Constitution itself for its amendment as occasion should arise. As a matter of fact, the Federal Constitution has been amended fifteen or twenty times.

In the light of the present widespread movement for educational progress, we find a constitutional bar preventing further advancement. The only door open for relief is to amend the Constitution. This amendment seeks to levy no tax, to create no office, to divert on funds. It merely grants the privilege to the several counties to levy and expend a limited school tax at their own discretion. Could anything be more reasonable---more just? It is not only our privilege to support this Admendment; it is our plain duty to our children and our State."

Senator Jno. H. Bankhead.

"We know, and the parents know, that in Alabama, as well as elsewhere, education is power, in business, in law, in medicine, and in agriculture, and these Alabama parents want their children to have no less than an even start in life. When they undrestand, as they will, the deficiencies of our educational opportunities, and the advantages, by comparison, the children of other states enjoy, they will vote this Amendment to the Constitution, and they will vote it by a large majority."

Ex-Governor Wm. D. Jelks.

"Let no one be deceived. The real question at issue in this election is whether Alabama shall be an educated state or not.

Nature with lavish hand in natural resources and geography, has marked our state for leadership, agricultural, industrial, commercial, financial, while history has planted here a virile Anglo-Saxon stock capable of rising to any destiny, yet we lag behind as a state, and large numbers of our people remain hewers of wood and drawers of water for the more fortunate educated people of other states.

You ask me why. The reason is not far to find. With our own hands we have forged a ball and chain upon our ankles. As an Alabamian who loves the state of his nativity, and has tried as best hec ould to serve it, I bow my head and blush when the cold figures of the census tell the tale of Alabama's shame. You ask me the remedy. I answer: "Strike off the shackles; adopt this Amendment."

In this hour of crisis may God help each Alabamian to do his full duty."

Richmond Pearson Hobson.

"Two propositions are involved in the proposed amendment. First, shall the voters of each county be permitted to say whether they will impose upon themselves a tax of 30 cents on each $100 worth of their property to aid in the education of the children of that county? Second, shall the voters of each school district, after the county has imposed such a tax, be permitted to say whether they will place on themselves a tax of 30 cents on each $100 worth of property in that district to aid in the education of the children of that district? I believe that they should. In the first place, it is democratic; in the next place, it does not compel any county or district to vote the tax on itself that does not wish to do so. . . . Again the most important consideration of all is the fact that it will enable our people in the country to keep their children at home and that they do not now enjoy. give them educational advantages These are some of the reasons, and I could offer many others, why I favor the tax and I only regret that I am not able to take a more active part in the campaign. I have made several speeches already in favor of it and will make others when opportunity offers.

Congressman Jno .L. Burnett.

"I cannot understand how any one who believes in public education and is interested in the future welfare of Alabama and her children can fail to support the Amendment."

W. C. Davis, Atty. at Law,
Jasper, Ala.

"In no state in the Union, not a single one, have they such drastic limitations upon the power of the people to do what they think they ought to do for the education of their own children as we have in this state. . . . Our people must wake up to the fact that whether we want to or not, we have to compete with other states and with other sections. It is not fair to our children, to those who hold the future of our state in their hands, that we should send them out unequipped or but half equipped for the duties of life. We cannot build brick without straw. We cannot progress without being willing to pay the price. The most important need of our people as a whole, in the city, in the county and the state is improved educational facilities. The one way to obtain them is by voting for the Amendment."

Hon. Sydney J. Bowie,
Atty. at Law, Birmingham, Ala.

"As the author of that plank in the republican platform in this state two years ago declaring in favor of local taxation by the several counties and school districts, I heartily favor the adoption of the proposed school amendment at the approaching general election. If we are to have an adequate school system in this state and if we are to eradicate illiteracy among our people it is necessary that a measure of this kind be adopted."

Oliver D. Street, Atty. at Law,
Guntersville, Ala.

"Local taxation is by far the best way to distribute the financial burdens of a community and it is a misfortune that the authors of our Constitution overlooked this fact. Individual supplement to public school funds such as the people of Alabama are now forced to do is the poorest way of supporting a school and is always borne by a few citizens while the public utilities, corporations and selfish individuals escape the burden of educational progress in the community in which they are located. . . . I am asking everybody where I go to vote for the amendment. It is the rural people's opportunity and I am mostly concerned in the future of the country boys and girls of Alabama."

J. A. Wade,
Commissioner of Agriculture

"From my reading it looks like democrats, republicans, prohibitionists and local optionists are all for it. More and better school houses Alabama needs to accomodate the increasing number of children; then longer terms and better trained teachers. To have these, more money is needed. That is the most progressive county that does most for its schools and churches."

Dr. W. B. Crumpton,
Secretary Emeritus,
Baptist State Convention.

"It is to the public school that we must look for that wider dissemination of the principles of healthful living that will permeate all classes of society. . . . Believing, as I do, that health is fundamental, that we must have the physical stock before we can have the intellectual fruit, I am calling upon every physician in the state to actively support the Amendment, feeling confident that in doing so we will take the greatest possible forward step for the improvement of living conditions in this state."

W. H. Sanders, M .D.,
State Health Officer.

"I favor this amendment in the first place because it is equitable and democratic, in accordance with the principle of local self government. It is unfair to deny to the great majority of our citizens who live in the rural districts a constitutional right that has been enjoyed for several years by the cities of Alabama, and this amendment seeks to do away with that discrimination. It seeks to restore to the people who live in the country their freedom of action upon matters that concern them alone, which under a mistaken sense of public policy has been for a long time denied them by constititutional limitation. It seeks to give to the people of the country the right to tax themselves if they desire to do so for the purpose of educating their own children. An education is the birthright of every Alabama boy and girl; this amendment seeks to secure to them the enjoyment of that right. . . . The welfare of the state from every possible standpoint, demands the adoption of the amendment."

Thos. E. Kilby,
Lieut.-Governor of Alabama.

"There are three or four reasons why every farmer owes it to his children to work and vote for the proposed amendment:

1. The country boy and girl have a right to as good schools as those in the town.

2. At present, the schools in the country are much inferior to those in the town.

3. The Amendment provides the most hopeful and the wisest means of relief.

4. The relief the Amendment contemplates depends upon the will of the majority.

. . . I appeal to you, therefore, as your friend and as your servant to vote and work for the proposed Amendment.

O. P. Ford,
Pres. Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union.

"Our public schools are far inferior to what they should be and to what they must be if we expect our boys and girls to have an equal fighting chance with the boys and girls of other states. Our high percentage of illiteracy as compared with the other states of the Union should spur every patriotic Alabamian to do all in his power to promote the progress of the public schools. I see no way to do this except by the adoption of the proposed educational amendment. It is not a party question. It should be endorsed and zealously supported by all men who believe that Alabama boys and girls are just as much entitled to have a chance as those of any other state."

C. B. Forman,
State Chairman
Progressive Committee.

"In the value of farm lands and farm property, in the amount of bank deposits, in the productivity of our soil, and in the literacy of our people, Alabama makes a poor showing compared with our sister states. This is the logical outcome of our niggardly and penurious policy of inadequately financing our schools. We have sown sparingly and we are reaping as we have sown We may try to hedge and excuse ourselves because of our comparative proverty but such a policy will perpetuate our proverty if indeed it will not prove suicidal.

We now have it in our power to perform the biggest piece of constructive work in the history of our state, for the proposed educational amendment will make it possible to place a free public school education within the reach of every boy and girl in Alabama.

This is in no wise a partisan question. I do not believe in condemning or opposing a patriotoc measure simply because it is advocated by a different political party from that with which I am aligned. I believe that nine-tenths of the progressive republicans of the state of Alabama are of this mind, and will support this measure because it is a progressive one."

Jos. O. Thompson,
Progressive National Committeeman for Alabama and Vice Chairman Republican State Campaign Committee in charge of Speakers and Publicity Bureau.

"The proposed Amendment is based upon the assumption that a free public school education is the birthright of every boy and girl in the country and city. This is the very quintessence of democracy, and no platform or plank could ever be written by those who have the party's interest at heart that would not look with the friendliest regard upon any plan to promote intelligence by providing suitable school privileges for those to whom democracy must look for the perpetuation and promulgation of the great tenets of the party. . . . I am calling upon all loyal liberty-loving democrats in Alabama to aid you in the campaign for better schools by the adoption of the prposed Amendment."

Bibb Graves, Chairman,
State Dem. Exec. Committee.

"I regard the amendment as the most important measure that has been before the people of the state since its admission into the Union. I favor the measure on general principles. Long since I resolved never to oppose the erection of a church, the building of good roads, nor the imprvement of our public schools.

The Federal government has done all we may expect; the state has done all it can do; and now it remains for the counties to make equal opportunity for all through the adoption of the Amendment of the Constitution.

I shall exert every effort I can to aid this movement, and I appeal to the people of the State without regard to political alignment to join in the campaign for the children of the State." Pope M. Long, Chairman, Republican State Exec. Com.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am heartily in favor of the educational amendment to the constitution of Alabama. I believe it is a step in the right direction; and that it will ultimately place Alabama at the head of the roll of states instead of at the bottom where she now is.

W. H. CONWAY.

"I HAVE NO CHILDREN"

So many times are we met with the argument "I have no children to educate, why should I be taxed to educate the other man's child?"

Listen, friend, ours is a common weal or a common woe. Your question was answered by Jehovah himself, in the only light of creation's morn when conscious smitten guilty Cain in anguish exclaimed "Am I my brothers keeper". Your community as a whole, every member of it, has contributed to make you what you are. You have not accumulated your wealth, whether it be much or little, without the assistance of the community, then it is not unjust, but eminently just and altogether right for you to give back a part of your community's contributions to be again returned to you by them with increased interest. Educate the young people of your own community and thus decrease frivolity and crime, making it a choice spot in which to live and watch your prosperity increase many fold in value, and thus bring its own reward to you in the coin of the realm.

The educational amendment is the heart and soul of self government in that it brings the unit down to the county so that small bodies of people may come together on a common ground and legislate for their own interest and the interest of their own children without reference to other people whose circumstances they do not know and with whom they cannot sympathize and for whom they cannot intelligently legislate. Vote for the amendment and feel proud that you are a champion of the oldest principl of government known to the human race.

CAN WE BE MADE TO PAY ANY OF THIS TAX INDIRECTLY?

In another letter in this paper it is stated that the farmers and laborers pay about 24 per cent, of the taxes of the county, while the corporations investment companies and merchants pay the remaining 76 per cent. It is possible that the farmers would have to pay the merchants' part of this increase taxes indirectly, but that would be a very small amount on each article we would have to buy. There is no way by which we could ever be made to pay the railroads part of that tax. If we should vote the three mills upon the county we would ride on the railroad for two and one half cents just as we do now and would pay exactly the same amount of freight rate as we now pay. The state of Alabama fixes that. Some one might suggest that some future legislature would allow the railroads to raise these rates, but it is just as reasonable that they would lower them, for in 1906 when we raised their taxes by voting the one mill tax upon the county the legislature lowered their freight and passenger rate. Can you imagine any scheme by which the large land investment companeis could ever make the farmers pay their taxes. The only indirect taxes we could be made to pay would be the merchants part of the increased taxes.

Supt. Bean's Argument in Favor of the Amendment.

Figures Showing why and how Chilton County will be benefitted by the adoption of the Local Taxation for Rural schools.

To the voters of Chilton county:

The proposed Educational Amendment to the constitution of Alabama is of vital importance to the voters of the state and especially to Chilton County. It means that Chilton county has an opportunity of almost doubling its educational funds and actually costing the county less money than it is now paying for schools.

The proposed amendment to the constitution just means this: That if the constitution of Alabama should be amended on the 7th day of November, 1916, then any county in the state could have the privilege to vote at any future date any amount of taxes upon its self for school purposes not to exceed 30 cents on each $100.00 worth of taxable property.

You are aware that Chilton county has been collecting a one mill special school tax for the past ten years. We voted this upon the county in February 1906, by a vote of 420 for it and 174 against it. We voted it upon the county the second time in June 1912 by a vote of 737 for it and 52 against it. This clearly shows that it almost unanimously met the voters approval. If the educational amendment is adopted, any county can continue this same system of taxation to three more mills if it wishes.

The opposition to this question is generally based upon one or all of the three following misunderstandings: First, many people think that it is a matter of more taxes at this great financial depression. Second, they do not know just how much it might increase their taxes in the future. Third, they fail to understand how any money collected under this law might be expended.

If it were a matter of more taxes at the present time, we could not afford to advocate its adoption, but it is only a privilege to vote for more school funds at some future date just as we voted the one mill tax upon us in 1906 and again in 1912. It cannot increase in your taxes until an election is called by at least 200 qualified voters of the county, and then it will have to be voted for by a majority of all who vote in that election. In the petition calling that election and upon the head of the ballot used in that election, must be set forth the rate of tax, the time it shall continue, and the PURPOSE thereof. The voters would have the whole situation in their hands to control the time it could be voted upon in any county if at all, and the amount the county could levy, the time it could be levied upon the county, and the the full control of how any taxes collected under it could be used. If the voters should say for the taxes raised under it to go to the common schools, it would be an open violation of the law for it to be used otherwise. It would be absolutely impossible for any of it to ever leave the county in which collected. The constitution would fix the above mentioned regulations and no future legislature could ever change it.

If we should ever vote the full three mills or 30 cents on each $100 worth of taxable property upon Chilton County, the increase in taxes would be very small. The tax records for this county show that the individual taxpayer averages paying taxes on less than $600.00 worth of property. Then 30 cents increase on each $100 worth of property would increase the average taxpayer's taxes only $1.80 cents per year. The tax rate for Chilton County is $1.50 per year on each $100 worth of property, and 30 cents increase would be an increase of one fifth over the present amount of taxes. Get your tax receipt and figure what it would increase your taxes if ever voted upon this county and see if you are willing to pay that amount to have the school funds of the county almost doubled.

The one mill special tax we are now collecting will bring to this county (in round numbers) almost $6000, then if the county should ever vote the extra three mill upon itself that would increase the county funds $18,000. The last legislature passed a law giving each county $1,000 extra appropriation for each mill it would vote upon itself, and three mills would give us an increase of $21,000 in the school funds in Chilton County.

Of this $18,000 increase raised in the county, the farmers and laborers would pay about 24 per cent. or $4320 while the corporations, investment companies, and merchants would pay about 76 per cent. or the remainder. It looks reasonable that the voters of this county would be willing to vote for a change when they consider that they are now paying $5605 a year supplements and tuitions and by allowing ourselves to pay only $4320 taxes we can almost double the school funds for the county. That just means that if we are willing to pay the $4320 we can save $1285 a year and have the school funds increased about $21,000 each year, and every cent of it would have to go just where the voters say for it to go. The tax collector and assessor can not receive one penny for collecting and assessing this tax, neither can the county superintendent receive any pay for disbursing it.

The question the voters are to settle is whether you will for ever continue to pay a large supplement into your schools or whether we shall allow ourselves to pay a smaller amount in taxes and have free school with an increase in length of term and in the number of teachers. You are aware that the compulsory attendance law becomes effective on October 1st, 1917, and that will increase the enrollment about one-third while it will almost double the average daily attendance of this county. This compulsory attendance law makes this a very serious question, for there can be no questino about our having to have more teachers or greatly impair the present schools. Please take your own school into consideration and decide whether you want to continue to pay large supplements and then when the compulsory attendance law becomes effective have it increased or whether you want to half the length of the presetn term of your school, or do you want free schools and better schools.

The adoption of this educational amendment furhter provides that after any county has levied three mills, any district in the county can by a majority vote of the voters of that district levy as much as three more mills upon itself, but I have not discussed this phase of the amendment but very little because I do not believe that it is of but little importance to this county. In my best judgment the three more mills if ever voted upon the county would give sufficient school funds to give at least seven months free schools with an average of at least two teachers in every school in the county.

I trust that every voter in the county will carefully read every word on this page and then investigate the records and find that we have given the facts relative to the schools and the amount of money we are expending in supplements and the amount we could hope to put into the schools some time in the future.

Respectfully,
W. T. BEAN,
Co. Supt. Education.

WITH WHICH GANG WILL YOU SATND?

There are over 700 newspapers, the Farmers Union, both political parties, every leading man in the state except one, every probate judge in the state except three, and every county superintendent in the state except one endorsing the educational amendment, and only seven newspapers in the state opposing it, one man on the stump against it and one man writing circulars against it. Who is most likely to be correct?

Would you object to the Alabama Power Company extending Chilton's school term one month?

When that exemption expires, which will be six years from now, if we should vote the three mills upon the county, the Alabama Power Company will pay at least estimate $5,000 into the school funds, which will run every rural school in Chilton county one month longer.

THE ACTION NOT FINAL

If after we have tried the law and should find it unjust, we can vote it out in the county at the first election after the time expires for which it was voted in.

Read and study this page seriously and be prepared to vote intleligently on this most vital question on Nov. 7th. You owe it to the children of the state.

CLANTON SOON TO HAVE A MODERN INFIRMARY

Prominent local Physicians are Behind the New Enterprise.

Two of Clanton's well known and most prominent physicians, Drs. J. P. Hayes and V. J. Gragg are making plans for the opening up of a modern infirmary in Clanton in the near future.

They will be located in the new Hayes Building on Seventh Street South. It is an ideal location for the place. It is well arranged, and will be furnished and equipped with all the necessary and most modern hospital conveniences.

Such a plan, when it is carried out will fill a pressing need that has been lacking in Clanton and Chilton county for years. And the two men behind the movement are fully capable of making it serve the community in every capacity which it will be called upon to fill.

The people will no doubt greet this announcement with pleasure, and wait anxiously for the time when developments reach their completed stage.

Excitement Caused Death.

A fatality of uncommon occurrence took place off Buchie (Scotland) harbor some days ago, and the matter was afterwards ventilated in court through a prosecution instituted against a soldier for attempted suicide. Many people witnessed the affair, among others a lad of tender years named McWilliams. An onlooker finally jumped in and rescued the drowning soldier, although it was stated that the latter resisted. McWilliams, however, became so worked up with excitement as he viewed what was going on in the water that his nervous system gave way. He fell down in a fit and died on the spot. A peculiar feature of the matter is that the soldier was saved and subsequently prosecuted as mentioned.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 29

THE VOYAGE.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 27:1-38.

GOLDEN TEXT—Commit thy way unto Jehovah; trust also in him, and he will bring it to pass.—Ps. 37:5.

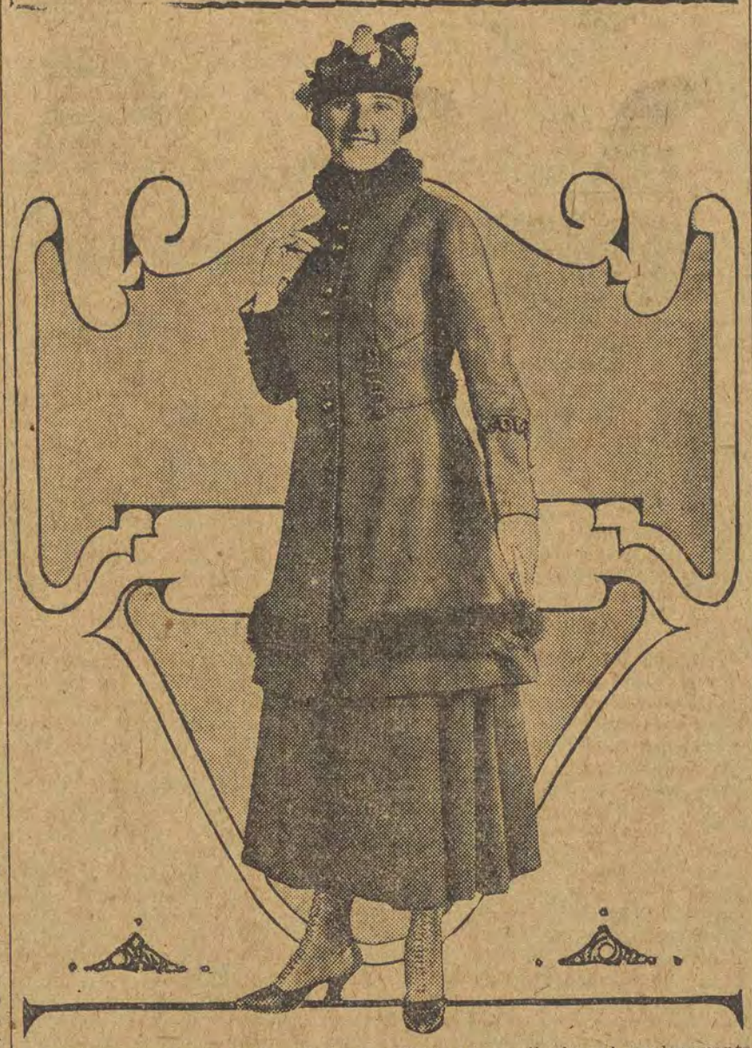
Paul sailed from Caesarea August, A. D. 59 (Ramsey), a few days after his address before Agrippa. He reached Malta about November 15. Paul knew how to meet mobs, but none of his adventures are more outstanding than the one we are studying today. Luke, his physician, was a companion, and the historian, Josephus, states that on board the ship there were more than 600 people traveling with Paul. Paul was a man of distinction, a Roman citizen. He had his own hired house in Rome. Aristarchus may possibly have been his servant to furnish comfort for the journey. Ramsey believes Paul had received hereditary property, thus making him a Roman citizen of rank, of learning and of standing financially.

I. Fair Weather and Contrary Winds (vv. 1-12). Sidon was about 70 miles north of Caesarea on the coast of Palestine. Here Paul received liberty to go ashore and visit his Christian friends. Myra is in Asia Minor. It requires 14 days to reach this point from Sidon, a distance of about 400 miles. Here, instead of going up the Aegean sea route, often used in going to Rome, the centurion found a grain ship bound from Alexandria to Italy, and put his prisoners on board. September 1 they started for Italy. The direct course would have been westward, but the wind was contrary, and the progress was slow. On the 23d they were opposite Cnidus, the southwest point of Asia Minor, 130 miles from Myra. September 25 they entered the harbor of Fair Haven, near the middle of the south shore of the island of Crete. The fast day, October 5, the day of the great atonement, was observed in this place. The question of going farther was a debatable one, yet the commander persisted, and about the 10th of October they sailed for Fair Haven.

II. The Hurricane (vv. 13-20). Taking advantage of a gentle wind they put out of Fair Haven, and almost immediately encountered the hurricane. It was perhaps hard for Paul during those 14 days to discern the wise, gentle hand of God. (Jonah 1-4). God's most faithful servants do not always find smooth sailing. (Phil. 4:6, 7; Isaiah 26:3; John 16:33), but they may, no matter how fiercely tempest tossed, know that God has not ceased to look upon them with favor. Sometimes the best thing for us to do, when thus tempest tossed, is "to lighten the ship" (v. 18).

III. The Message of Cheer: "I Believe God" (vv. 20-26). Neither sun nor stars having shone for many days, and all hope that any should be saved seemingly taken away, yet God is able to save in the darkness as well as in the sunshine, in the tempest as well as in the calm, and there was in that boat one man at least whose hope was not gone, for God had said to him, "Thou must bear witness at Rome also" (23:11). Paul's message of cheer in the midst of this despair and after they had been so long without food, immediately stamped him as a leader of wisdom and power.

Paul could make this promise because "an angel of God whose I am and whom I serve" had come to him and assured him that God would redeem the promise made two years before. This implies that Paul had given himself to prayer. Observe how one godly man can save many ungodly men (Gen. 18:22-33). God's vision came to Paul, but Paul used it for the comfort and cheer of the whole ship's company (II Cor. 1-4). A modern illustration of a similar experience was that of Mr. Moody and General Howard, returning from Europe on the steamship Spree in 1892.



General Howard relates that Mr. Moody did a great deal to cheer the passengers, by both his words and his actions, during those days of stress and storm. The darker and stormier the night, the more likely are the angels of God to appear if we are indeed his (v. 23: Cf. Ch. 18:9-23:11).

Sometimes these angels stand beside us and we do not see them, we are taken up with the darkness and the howling of the storm. It is a great thing to be able to look up to the infinite God and say, "I am his." To make this statement intelligently, and with a deep realization of its meaning will give significance and solemnity to all.

Here is a good way to use cold tongue, even if there is only an end left that is too small to slice: Cut the cold tongue into small dice. Now put two tablespoonfuls of butter into a saucepan and let it melt slowly. Add the same amount of flour, salt, pepper, and the juice of half a lemon. Add a cupful of strained tomato pulp. Simmer slowly for ten minutes. Strain, then return to the saucepan, lay in the tongue, and let it stand where it will keep hot without boiling for five minutes. Serve in a hot platter.

Attractive Fur-Trimmed Suit

The combination of cloth and fur in suits never grows tiresome, and this accounts for the fact, in part, that furs are soaring in price. Certainly they are much higher than they were, and furriers appear to enjoy imparting to us the bitter truth, when they assure us that they will never be cheaper. If you are going to consider fur as a trimming you must reconcile yourself to paying a stiff price.

But it is not so difficult to pay the price for a suit as attractive as that shown in the picture. Besides, the skunk fur used on it is one of those which furriers describe as "hard" and is very durable. It will outlast several seasons' wear, and the likelihood is that each year it will be worth more than it was the year before.

The suit pictured is of wool velours in a dark green, and the skunk banding is almost black. The coat is a beautiful model semifitted and cleverly cut. There are small, shaped emplacements of the material at each side of the front, set on at the waistline. They are machine-stitched to place, with two rows of stitching, and finished with silk braid made into two round ornaments at the end of a short spiral design.

A similar design in braid appears at the top of the deep cuffs. The buttons are set in groups of three down the front and on each cuff there are three in a smaller size. There are two large fur-covered buttons at the back.

The ever present turnover collar for once is lacking in this model. A standing collar of velvet is banded with fur a little below the top edge and the fur band about the coat follows its example by finding its place away from the bottom edge. It is set above the hem.

Dark skunk fur looks well with all colors and every material used for the suits of the present season.

Basket Made of Paper Rope

Women are just learning how many pretty things for the house can be made of paper rope. They are weaving baskets and trays, vases, lamps and lamp shades, jardeniers, and other things of this easily handled and inexpensive material. It is sold at the paper dealers and is nearly always chosen in brown or green or white. The white can be painted any color to match decorations or woodwork.

All these things that are fashioned from paper rope are made over wire foundations. After a basket or any other object has been finished, it is varnished with shellac. This gives it a good finish and adds to its durability.

The basket for toilette articles (which might be used for almost any other purpose) which is shown in the picture, is made of white paper rope and is woven with a proper space on the foundation left uncovered.

This space is meant to accommodate the narrow satin ribbon in rose color that is strung through it. After the weaving of the basket is finished it is painted with white paint, or white and another color. When the paint is dry the whole surface is varnished with shellac.

When the ribbon has been strung in it is tied in a full bow at the base of each handle. Just to add to its ornamentation, the handles of the basket provide support for two full rosettes of gauze ribbon with a length of ribbon extending between them. Such a dainty and refreshing object might be used for serving cakes at five-o'clock tea.

The bottom of the basket is a circular piece of thin wood and is covered with colored milk. A doily is to be placed over the silk if the basket is to be used for serving cake wafers, etc.

Crepe de Chine Negligee.

If you are accustomed to receiving your family and girl friends in your bedroom, you will want a dainty negligee. The handsomest of these are expensive when bought ready-made, but you can make one of these for a few dollars and in a few hours from crepe de chine, china silk, flowered silk, mulle, albatross or cashmere. You can make it empire in style, with a bolero made of the same material or of lace. A slightly large armhole adds to the comfort. A negligee requires about five yards of material and a little more than a yard of lace.

Pockets continue in vogue, and many of them are embroidered with colored woods or beads

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and cannot salivate. Give it to your children! Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—Adv.

World Taking to Baseball.

Strong interest in baseball is developing in the Central American republic of Honduras. At first the game interested only foreign residents in some of the towns, but now it is reported games between natives in the town of San Pedro Sula are well attended and arouse genuine enthusiasm among Honduran spectators. The American national sport seems to be making a name for itself all over the world, and many of the cities of Asia patronize it generously. In Kobe, Japan, there is a strong baseball wing connected with the Cricket club there, and matches with visiting teams of Chinamen take place frequently.

Cardui Wins Suit.

After a trial in the United States District Court of Chicago, before Judge Carpenter and a federal jury, the jury found the American Medical Association guilty of libeling Cardui, the woman's tonic, which they had denounced as a "nostrum."

This is a vindication of the medicine and a proof that it has merit, which was recognized by a jury after a trial of three months, one of the longest civil cases on record.

Many doctors and chemists testified on both sides and the evidence totaled nearly four million words.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — "My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I was to try your valuable remedy."—Mrs. Wm. POULTRY

FOR SUCCESS WITH PIGEONS

Variety of Good, Hard Grains Is Essential—Not Advisable to Feed Birds on Wet Ground.

A variety of good, hard grains is essential to success with pigeons, and grains which are in poor condition should not be fed. Old grains which are hard are better than new soft grains, especially for pigeons with squabs. Red wheat is considered better than white wheat by many pigeon breeders. Good wheat screenings are often fed with success, as they usually contain a variety of seeds. Various stimulating seeds, such as lentils and vetch, are sometimes fed as a tonic to breeding birds during the molting period.

The grain may be fed on the floor of the pen, in troughs, or kept before the birds in hoppers. It is not generally considered advisable to feed the grain on the ground, especially on heavy soil where it may get wet and moldy. Unless the floor is kept clean it is better to feed the grain in troughs than on the floor. The troughs should be made so that the pigeons will not roost on them and soil the feed with their droppings.

Hoppers are used with good success but may attract rats in some pigeon houses. They should be fitted with wires or nails about two inches apart so that the pigeons cannot waste the feed by throwing it out onto the floor. If the grain is not fed in hoppers the pigeons should be fed twice daily, in the morning and in the afternoon, at regular hours, giving from one and one-half to two quarts of grain at each meal to 20 pairs of pigeons and adding an extra pint if the pigeons have many squabs. The feeder must regulate the quantity of grain according to the appetite of the birds, giving them all they will clean up in one to two hours.

KEEP VALUABLE MALE FOWLS

Confine Roosters in Separate Pens and Market Infertile Eggs—Sell All But Breeders.

(By T. E. QUISENBERRY.)

No one asks or expects a farmer or poultry raiser to kill or sell valuable breeding males. You might not be able to find what you want to take their places the following season. The males would be better off, however, and so would the females and would make better breeders the following season, if the males were confined to separate quarters and kept with but few, if any, hens.

Keep the males from the laying hens and market infertile eggs. Unless you are certain you will need the males another season, it is best to sell them and to give the room to the young stock. The feed the old males will eat and which you would save would almost pay for new males, thus giving you new blood and, perhaps, better males. Consider all these facts before acting.

OLD HENS ARE UNPROFITABLE

Aged Fowls Cause Low Average in Egg Production—Three Years Is Limit of Usefulness.

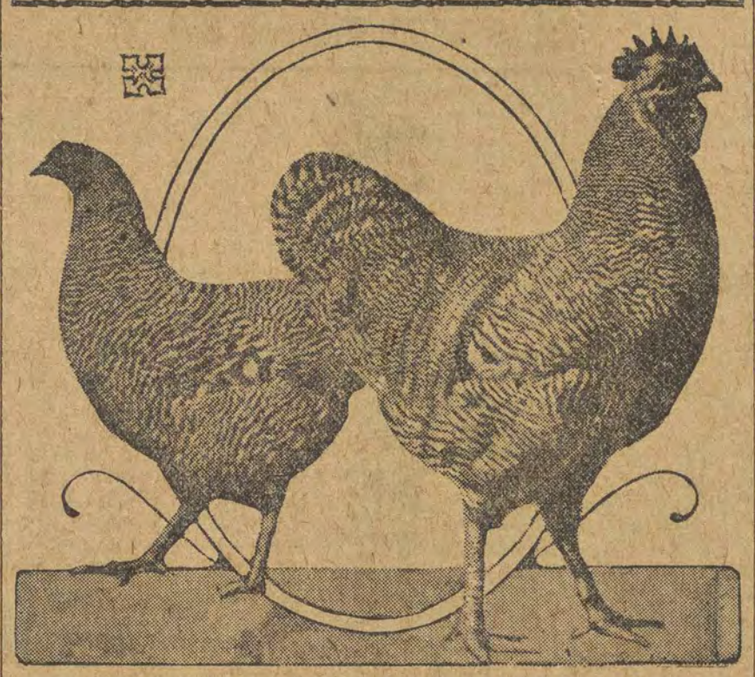
Old hens are the cause of low averages in egg-production. The pullets work regularly but the old hens lay about a dozen eggs and rest the remainder of the year.

Unless you are raising a particular stock of chickens of which you have only a few hens, you cannot afford to keep the old hens as layers. A hen is not profitable after her third summer as a layer. Selling the old hens and using the incubator for hatching is the best plan for the small poultryman.

HINTS FOR POULTRY RAISERS

Keep Overactive Cockerels in Separate Yard—Soft Fresh Dirt Is Good for Chicks.

Sour milks is valuable in any ration.



Summer shade insures thrifty chicks.

Remove overactive cockerels to a separate yard.

Clean up the incubator, remove the lamp, and throw away the wick.

Soft fresh dirt is an insurance against leg weakness in chicks.

DESIRABLE POULTRY BREED FOR FARMER

PLYMOUTH ROCK IS FAVORED FOR AVERAGE FARM.

A knowledge of the breeds of poultry will come from observation at the poultry shows and by a study of current literature. Remember that there is no one breed which is better than the rest under all conditions. Where one desires to produce white-shelled eggs, regardless of meat qualities, selection may be made from the many varieties of Leghorns, Minorcas, Campines, etc. If the chief desire is for large, well-fleshed, market fowls, there are the Brahmas, Langshans, Cochins, Dorkings or Cornish Indians to choose from.

Breed for General Farm.

The general farm poultry raiser desires a combination of profitable egg production and good-sized carcasses for producing table poultry. To fill these requirements we have numerous varieties of Leghorns, Minorcas, Cambottes, Rhode Island Reds, Buckeyes, Orpingtons, etc.

First, determine whether an egg breed, a meat breed or a general purpose breed is desired. Then study the breeds under that classification and see which will most nearly fill the requirements of your market and your local conditions.

Phases to Consider.

For instance, consider such phases as the following:

Does your market want white or brown eggs? The Leghorns produce white eggs and the Plymouth Rock brown.

Does the market want yellow-skinned or white-skinned carcasses? The Wyandottes have a yellow skin and the Orpingtons a white skin.

Are the birds to be kept closely confined or are they to range widely? The Brahmas are sluggish, poor rangers, and are easily confined; while the Leghorns are active, good rangers, and do best when allowed practically unlimited range.—Louisiana Experiment Station.

SILAGE RELISHED BY STOCK

No Winter Roughage That Is Better—No Danger in Feeding It to Breeding Animals.

For wintering the entire breeding herd there is no roughage that is better than silage. All the animals will relish a ration containing it, and it will create an appetite for other feeds. Cows that are fed on all the silage they will consume, along with good hay, will go through the winter in fine shape and make gains. Some dry coarse fodder or straw should always be kept before animals getting silage, as it reduces the amount of silage to be consumed and keeps the bowels from getting too loose. The succulent feed will cause the breeding cows to give a good flow of milk, even though the calf be born in mid-winter, and a thrifty calf will result. If the silage is free from moldy or rotten spots there is no danger of feeding it to breeding cows.

Silage is especially good for calves that have just been weaned. They take to this ration quicker than to dry feed and there is usually little loss due to weaning. The silage should be supplemented with good cowpea, clover or alfalfa hay, and the calves should have a small amount of grain. A mixture of one-half corn chops and one-half cottonseed or peanut meal is excellent.

FEEDING TESTS FOR SWINE

Results Given of Experiments Made at Florida Station—Five Lots of Pigs Were Fed.

Five lots of four 63-pound pigs each were fed by the Florida station 30 days, as follows: Lot 1, corn alone; lot 2, corn and cracked velvet beans (3.1); lot 3, corn and cracked velvet beans (1.11); lot 4, corn and cracked velvet beans (1.1) and iron sulphate, and lot 5, corn and cracked velvet-bean meal (3.1) and iron sulphate. They made average daily gains of 0.46, 0.63, 0.56, 0.52 and 0.53 pounds per head, consuming, per pound of gain, 6.55, 4.8, 5.37, 5.74 and 5.63 pounds of feed, at a cost of 11, 6.7, 5.7, 6.1 and 7.9 cents per pound of gain for the respective lots.

BENEFITS OF CROP ROTATION

Helps to Maintain Fertility of Soil, Conserve Moisture and Aids in Control of Weeds.

There is, perhaps, no single practice in farm management of more importance than a systematic rotation of crops. It will help to maintain fertility, conserve soil moisture and control of weeds, and yet withal, it is a feature of farm work to which, as a rule, very little consideration is given.

OILED PAPER IS EXCELLENT

Splendid Material for Packing Tree Seedlings—Paper-Lined Burlap Is Also Good.

STAGNANT PONDS HURT FEET

Animals Standing in Water for Time Suffer From Cracks—Dirt and Slime Act as Irritants.

Many cases of sore feet in cattle, due evidently from infection received in stagnant ponds, have been reported to the veterinary department of Oklahoma A. and M. college. Animals that stand in water for a time suffer from cracks and sores upon their feet after going out into dry, hot dust.

The dirt and slime in the pond act as irritants and cause soreness, which sometimes results in lameness in the animal. Dr. W. P. Shuler of the college gives the following treatment:

Zinc oxide one part, slaked lime one part, boric acid two parts and glycerin or sweet oil sufficient to make a sort of paste. Wash the affected foot with soap and warm water, or one per cent kreso solution, sponging it off dry and then applying the pasty mixture.

HAIRY VETCH OF MUCH VALUE

Used in North Carolina in Rotation With Corn and Cotton to Build Up Soil Productivity.

About ten years go, on a piece of poor clay-loam soil at the North Carolina station, vetch was used in rotation with corn and cotton to build up productivity. The soil was in a run-down, humus-deficient condition and would produce only meager crops, as it tended to run together and cement after each rain.

Within five years, by the use of vetch in the rotation and the judicious application of commercial fertilizers, the productivity of the land was increased more than 200 per cent, and the soil was brought to a loose and friable condition. The vetch was sown each fall after the corn or cotton and plowed into the soil during the following spring after it had about completed its growth.

CLOVER AS A WINTER COVER

Follow It With Corn and Then Rye to Be Turned Under for Tobacco—Improve Soil First.

Even the tobacco grower can have the advantage of clover as a winter cover, if he follows it with corn and the corn with rye to be turned under for tobacco. Many bright tobacco growers will tell you that they cannot use an improving rotation and get their land into high condition without injuring the quality of the tobacco crop. If this is really true the farmer had better abandon tobacco and grow crops that will enable him to improve his soil.—Progressive Farmer.

Taking "Census" of Birds.

The United States biological survey is now making its third annual count of birds, with the aid of volunteer enumerators all over the country. Each enumerator undertakes to count the number of breeding pairs of each species found on a selected area of 40 to 80 acres, and the count actually consists in an enmeration of the male birds found in the course of a few early morning reconnoissances. From the figures thus obtained estimates are made of the bird population in the various sections of the country. This year the survey is making a special effort to obtain statistics from the semiarid desert and mountain regions of the West, and also from the fruit districts of the Pacific coast and the South Atlantic and Gulf states.

Band Saw's Freak.

When a band saw in a St. Louis plant broke the other day, the accident was marked by peculiar features. As the saw was cutting through a large log it came across a spike that was imbedded in the wood, and as the band was traveling at immense speed when it snapped, one end of it broke off and passed through the log as if shot from a cannon. This part was eight feet in length and half of it projected and as it came out in a curve, it is to be surmised that the other half remains coiled in the log in the same form. The occurrence was no less unusual than remarkable.

Letter from Mr. E. H. Smith

Mt. Creek, Ala., Oct. 20, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I was very much astonished when I first heard that W. L. Popwell was going to suffer his name to go before the Socialist and Democratic mass meeting for nomination as their candidate for Probate Judge. I saw Mr. Popwel before the meeting and told him I had heard he was going to accept the nomination. When I asked him if he would accept it he did not say whether he would or not. He told me that he had said before the primary that if Reynolds was nominated he would not support him. I said to him then that he should not have gone to the primary, and furthermore that when a person went into a primary election they are then honor bound to support the nominee of that primary and stick to the party. He again said he would not support Reynolds. I told him that every person that voted for the defeated nominee was honor bound to come on now and support the nominee.

After this conversation I knew that Mr. Popwel was gone to the Democrats.

Mr. Popwell you should have stayed with us and helped us rout the common enemy. But as you have gone off with the mess as you have, we all will rout you and your tangled-footed Democrats, Socialists and disgruntled Republicans.

Mr. Editor, I was indeed glad to see the two articles you published a while back from the two old Soldiers at the Home. I hope that all the veterans at the Home and over the whole county will fall in line with S. J. Andress and W. A. Seals and cast their votes against W. L. Popwell, or not cast any vote at all for Judge. You have seen what Mr. Andress said of Mr. Popwell's attitude toward House Bill No. 444, to provide pensions for Confederate soldiers, and the maintenance of the Soldiers Home. I cant see how any Confederate soldier can suport or vote for Mr. Popwell, after the way he did about that bill in the Legislature.

Now Mr. Popwell, when the election is over your would-be friends will have you drug through a political mud hole and your Socialist and Democratic friends will be poking fun at you because you was so easy duped by them.

Many thanks Mr. Editor for the space in your valuable paper.

Here goes three cheers for L. H. Reynolds and the balance of the ticket.

Yours truly,
E. H. SMITH.

THE TRIANGLE

Capital -- Labor -- Consumer

These three working in harmony are essential to the progress of the universe.

Each is dependent upon the other for success.

Capital and labor must have an impartial administration of the laws enacted by the people for the regulation of industry in order that the requirements of the consumer may be supplied.

You, the people, consume railroad transportation every time you eat; you sleep transportation, you wear transportation, you read transportation.

Capital is required to create an opportunity for labor to produce the articles of consumption.

The L. & N. is vitally interested in promoting cordial relations between these three, because we have large capital invested, employ an army of laborers who are consumers, while the L. & N. is a large consumer of the articles produced throughout the territory traversed by its lines.

In seeking to promote harmonious relation between the three, we shall publish brief advertisements from time to time, and ask your kindly co-operation in promoting the much desired result.

The Sophomore class met Monday and selected the following officers: Sheldon Fitts, President; Frank Palmer, Vice-President; Henry Popwell, Secretary and Treasury; Denson Williams, Poet; Johnnie Plier, Historian; Sibyl McDonald, Prophet. The officers with the assistace of Mr. Popwell promise to do some great class work.

The first game of football with Columbiana proved to be rather one sided, the odds decidedly in favor of Shelby High. It was a question of a more experienced team rather than a better one, for Chilton High boys hung on with the tenacety of bull dogs, getting stronger and still stronger as the game progressed. The score of 62 to 0 is by no means discouraging to Chilton's boys, for the last quarter found them in good condition playing neck and neck and getting better as they gained experience. A good number of Clanton people accompanied the team to Columbiana.

The first foot ball of the season will be played on the High School grounds Friday afternoon at 3:30. Everybody is invited to come out and see the game. The game will be played between Chilton High and Shelby High.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE DEMOCRATS? LET J. N. SCOTT TELL IT

Another good dose of his "Ignorance Drops" tells the story. His Opinion of Democratic "Truth."

Jemison, Ala., Oct 30, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner:

I see that the Press man keeps hollering "Ignorance," so here I come with some more of my "Ignorance Drops." You see the people of this county have gotten so well educated that the Democratic clique at Clanton can't lead them any more, and all they can say to excuse themselves is that it is "ignorance" among the people who refuse to follow them. The people have reached that time and stage of experience and knowledge that keeps them from walking out blindly and voting for just anything that wears pants and says he is a candidate for office. They demand to know something about him and his record, and where he stands and what his policy is before they cast their votes for him.

The Press man seems to be somewhat of an expert in keeping up with the records and the possessor of a bull-dog tenacity for the truth. But the people of the county know the record of the Democratic party for the past forty or fifty years; and they are so bad that they can't stand but one adminisration of them at a time.

If the Press man is so terrible on truth and records, why is it that he has never mentioned the administration of Judge Deason and the record of the Democratic party in its control of the affairs of the county for the past six years? Why don't they bring up the TRUTH of that part of the program? They are ashamed of it, that is the reason they are dodging it. The Democrats out in the country and the other little towns besides Clanton are tired of Pickens, Pinckard and Pounds dictating to them what they shall do and what they shall not do. The poor old farming Democrats have got their eyes open since Deason went back on them and the equalization board went around. Mr. Democrats, you feel the oppression of the Democratic burdens just as much as we Republicans do.

Yes, Mr. Adams resigned before he would listen to the bosses and endorse Deason's administration. So they got Mr. Popwell, a man whom they could handle as they please. Whether he is elected or not he will always hereafter be on their hands.

Honestly, did you ever before see just such a mess as the Democrats have gotten into? Look who their candidates and managers are anyhow. The Press, Pickens, Popwell, _____, Pinckard and Pounds. My God! Six "P's." Out of all that mess any man can pick enough "P's" to spell poor politics, pigs, puppys, perish, or just most any such bad things. I never heard of such a Duke's mixture before in all the days of my life. No wonder the Democrats have got such bad politics.

I still notice that the Democrats can't get enough people out together to have a speaking. They can't find any people anywhere, neither Democrats nor Republicans, who want to listen to them in their nasty and putrid howls against Reynolds. Why don't they talk to the people about the good they have done for us in the past, and the good things they have in store for us in the future? Here is the reason: I know they have never done us any good in the past to brag about, and I honestly believe they will never in the future offer us anything that is worth a copper cent.

If I were a Democrat [illegible] all this mess, and [illegible] with the people who believe in ruling themselves according to the things they see they need, and not governing their actions by what a few of the littel blow hards around Clanton say for them to do, I would fall in line with those who believe in giving the people a voice in the affairs of the county.

The Democrats won't listen to the truth when it is put up to them. Everybody knows that the Republicans met with you Democrats in Clanton, and some of you said that 90 or 95 per cent of the people of the county opposed the giving of the four thousand dollars out of the treasury to the high school. And the truth is that Deason mailed the vote of the Commissioners in record to the matter, to give it away. You know further that the people of Clanton failed to pay what they subscribed to the school, and he did the same thing again, and took out another thousand from the treasury and paid it for them, and left us poor "Billies," to work for them on a credit.

You had just as well admit to the truth and say that Popwell is in line with just such methods as these just cited, which have been worked on us for the past six years; and if he should be given the office, we would not be listened to in our entreaties for mercy during the next six years. You know the same Clanton ring is handling him that has handled some of our officials in the past few years. Now you are bound to accept these things as the truth if you want to be honest and fair.

Yes, the Press man makes out like he is awful for the truth; but he or some of his crodw has told a lie, for there has been evidence and affidavits produced to that effect. It is awful for some of you honest Democrats to get caught up with in your low down tricks; but remember that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. That which is done in the dark shall some day surely come to light. So it pays to always practice what you preach.

Think of the little Democratic band: Popwell, _____, Pickens, Pinckard, Pounds, Press and Proverty. Eight "P's" stands for the [illegible]

Don't the Press man seem to be awfully harmless. He wants to shift the threats and blackmail letters off as one of our own political tricks Yes, he is perfectly harmless, and would have you belive he would not injure Judge Reynolds nor any Republican at all. Oh ye seeds of deception! Ye harbors of iniquity! Yea, we know how sweet would be your revenge if you could only lead us into the snares your ingenious hateful minds have planned for us and our leaders. The Press knows who got up all these schemes, and the people know too now. Judge Reynolds and Mr. Middleton told it last Saturday.

In conclusion I want to remark that the Democrats have gone to the lowest depths in this campaign that I have ever heard of men descending to. I say it with all candor, that if our campaign managers had used such methods to carry out our points, I would rise up, with the hundreds of other honest and sincere men of the county, and denounce the whole thing from start to finish.

As this is the last appeal I shall have an opportunity to make to the voters through the paper before election, I want to urge upon each and every citizen of Chilton county to remember the issues for which we stand in this campaign, and go to the election on next Tuesday and register your vote for what you think and know to be right and just, and the best for the county and her people. If every man will do this, we will have men in the court house for the next term who will not listen to the rantings of the little Clanton powers, but who will be governed and actuated in their efforts by what they can conceive and percieve to be the best wishes and interests of the county and the whole citizenship.

Just vote the Republican ticket from top to bottom and you will be performing the greatest duty to your county that lies in your power.

Yours for a better government the next six years.

Respectfully,
J. N. SCOTT.

THE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN OF SLANDER WAS EXPLODED ON SATURDAY

Reynolds and Middleton Flung Fire Into the camp of the Enemy. Great number of Voters heard and Applauded wildly.

Last Saturday, Oct. 28, 1916, there was held at the court house in Clanton the greatest political meeting ever held in the county. On Tuesday, previous, Judge L. H. Reynolds and Hon. J. O. Middleton issued circulars announcing that they would speak on Saturday, at which time they would answer and refute the scandalous charges which had been made against Judge Reynolds, and in this circular they flung a challenge at anything that "wore breeches whom W. L. Popwell would vouch for." It is needless to say that no one appeared to represent the other side. Every section of the county was strongly represented, and by 10 o'clock fully fifteen hundred voters were in town, and they were the most determined set of men ever gathered to gether. At least eight hundred voters jammed every available space in the court room, jury room and witness rooms, while six or seven hundred stood around the court house until the meeting was over, thus placing their enternal stamp of disapproval upon the foul and dirty tactics resorted to by certain Democrats. Music was furnished by the Thorsby Band. Hon. W. E. Thomas acted as chairman of the meeting.

Judge L. H. Reynolds was the first speaker. When the Judge was introduced he received an ovation, the like of which has never before been witnessed in the history of the county. The demonstration lasted full three minutes. Judge Reynolds never appeared in finer form, and the calm, dignified statements which he made were enthusiastically cheered. He branded the charges a wilful and premeditated lie, and read affidavits which nailed it as such.

Hon. J. O. Middleton was introduced, and for an hour and fifty minutes, in the ablest and most brilliant political speech ever heard by a Chilton county audience, held the rapt and enthralled attention of his hearers. Mr. Middleton discussed every phase of the campaign, national, state and county, in a manner that was unanswerable, and made a profound impression upon his hearers. In dealing with the county campaign his arraignment of certain local democrats was terriffic, and in touching upon the dirty circular gotten out by them against Judge Reynolds, his speech fairly spit fire. At times he would arouse the indignation of the vast throng, then stir their patriotism so that many went, and again would convulse them with laughter. All in all it was a memorable effort, and when he concluded there was heard on every hand "greatest speech I ever heard."

Hon. Jos. O. Thompson, of Birmingham, came in just before adjournment, and delivered a ringing speech of thirty minutes, which deeply impressed the audience. And thus was closed the greatest political meeting ever held in Chilton county; one that placed the seal of condemnation upon the little coterie of Clanton democrats, and one that spells VICTORY for the Republican party.

London.—Ten German torpedo boat destroyers attempted to raid the British cross-channel transport service, but the attempt failed, says an official statement, issued by the British admiralty. Two of the German destroyers were sunk and the others were driven off.

One British torpedo boat destroyer, the Flirt, is missing, the British statement adds, and another destroyer, the Nubian, was disabled by a torpedo and ran aground. Nine members of the crew of the Flirt were saved.

DEMOCRATIC FUND TOTALS $1,006,283

Cleveland H. Dodge Heads Contributors With $79,000—Contributors Number 41,882

New York.—Cleveland H. Dodge, who was graduated from Princeton with President Wilson in '79, heads the list of contributors to the Democratic campaign fund, according to a preliminary report, filed with the clerk of the house of representatives by Wilburn W. March, treasurer of the Democratic national committee. The report, which was made public, accounts for contributions of $1,006,283, the amount received up to and including October 24. Of this sum Mr. Dodge gave $50,000. Since then he has contributed an additional $29,000, making the total $79,000.

The number of contributors was given as 41,882. The amount received in contributions of less than $100 was $261,846. The contributions from those giving more than $100 was $744,436. One of the entries on the list reads "Woodrow Wilson, Washington, D. C., $2,500."

The report was under the law which provides that a preliminary report of receipts and expenditures must be filed not later than ten days before election with the clerk of the house of representatives.

Carranza In Race For Presidency

Mexico City.—General Carranza has formally announced his candidacy for the presidency in response to a manifesto of the new Constitutionalist-Liberal party, which offered him its loyalty and support. General Carranza said that if the people made him president he would obey and cause to be obeyed the laws under the constitution. General Gonzales and Obregon have taken the oath of loyalty to General Carranza. General Gonzales said the acceptance of General Carranza marked the necessary return to constitutional order, which is the national aspiration.

Panama Canal Tolls Total $7,411,682

Washington.—At the end of the first two years' operation of the Panama canal a financial survey shows that tolls amounted to $7,411,682, though the waterway class closed from August 15, 1915, to August 14, 1916, by slides. In the two year period a total of 2,097 ships passed through the canal, and last July the aggregate length of the 149 ships passing through the canal was 10.2 statute miles. The heaviest draft vessel was the Ohioan, drawing twenty-nine feet four inches. The showing is gratifying.

Watching Migration Of Negroes

Washington.—Both the departments of justice and department of labor are watching closely the migration of the Southern negroes to Northern industrial centers. The legal officers hope to check possible election frauds, while the labor authorities are interested primarily in preventing their federal employment service from being used to further migration schemes. It is stated that the migration has seriously affected some sections of the Southern states where harvesting of crops is in progress.

TEUTONS POUND RUMANIANS

The Invaders Are Working With Feverish Haste To Encompass Little Country

Paris.—From three points the Teutonic allies are working with feverish haste in an attempt to encompass Roumania—from the northeastern and eastern borders of Transylvania and through Dobrudja. In the latter region and on the east Transylvania front further progress in their inroads into King Ferdinand's territory has been made. On the northeast Transylvania front, however, in engagements with the Russians they have been driven from the heights south of Dorna Watra.

Keeping up his drive in Dobrudja, Field Marshal von Mackensen has brought his line well above the Constanza-Tchernavoda railway line, the right wing resting approximately on Tachaul, near the Black sea, 12 miles north of Constanza, and the left north of Tchernavoda, whence runs the only bridge across the Danube in this region.

Important Move In The Balkans

French officials announce an important military move in the Balkans, where Italian cavalry from southern Albania has formed a junction with cavalry and artillery from the entente front in Macedonia. This gives the entente an unbroken front of 250 miles across the southern Balkan peninsula from Avlona, Albania, on the Adriatic to the mouth of the Struma river, east of Saloniki, on the Aegean coast.

Allies Working To Help Roumania

London.—In reply to a question in the house of commons regarding the situation in Roumania, David Lloyd-Georgia, war secretary, said:

"We and our allies are working in concert and everything that is possible is being done to help Roumania. It is obviously undesirable to detail more exactly the measures that are being taken."

French Holding Positions

Paris.—In the region of Verdun, where the French made their spectacular drive over a wide front north and northeast of Verdun, they are holding the ground gained despite the vicious counter attacks delivered, particularly in the region of Haudromont and Douaumont, and east of the Fumin wood and north of Chenois have gained further ground. More than 4,500 German soldiers have been captured by the French in this region.

VILLA'S STAR RISES IN NORTH MEXICO

Washington Is Convinced That Villa Is Menacing Carranza's Control Of All Northern Mexico

Washington.—Conditions in Northern Mexico, revolving on the new ascendancy of Villa, are commanding more attention than at any time since the border raids, which resulted in the dispatch of the American punitive expedition.

Administration officials made no effort to disguise their opinion that the American-Mexican commission sitting at Atlantic City cannot be expected to arrive at a satisfactory solution of the border problems until the situation in Chihuahua has been clarified. Any agreement for the early withdrawa of General Pershing's forces is apparently considered out of the question.

Moreover the impression stood out clearly that while the present situation exists there is little possibility that the forces of regulars or National Guardsmen on the border will be reduced.

Coupled with ugly reports which disparage the stability of General Carranza's regime and interpret his removal from Mexico City to Queretaro as a sign of the breaking-up process which his enemies have repeatedly predicted, the military movements of Villa, now making a formidable campaign in Chihuahua, are regarded here as menacing the de facto government's control of the whole northern country.

The marines, besides the title of national team champion, secures the national trophy and each of the twelve men receives medals. New York gets the Hilton trophy.

$300,000,000 Loan For British Empire

New York.—Official announcement is made that a new British loan by American bankers, aggregating $300,000,000, had been arranged. It will bear interest at 5½ per cent, and is payable in two installments. According to the announcement the loan was arranged in advance of the time conplated by the British government, because of the easy money market, and it is expected to cause for a time at least a cessation of the enormous inflow of gold to this country.

ALLIES MAKE GAINS ON SOMME FRONT

Both The French And British Report Fresh Progress, While Berlin Admits Gains For British

ATTACKS BY THE RUMANIANS

Capture of Over Two Thousand Prisoners By The Roumanians Is Reported

London.—Following up their advantage the British captured another German trench October 29 northeast of Les Boeufs, in the Somme region, while the French made fresh advances near Sailly-Saillisel and Biaches. Heavy artillery activity against the British positions is being carried out by the Germans in the Les Boeufs sector and elsewhere.

Again, according to Berlin, another heavy Russian offensive against the German lines along the Stokhod river in Volhynia has been put down by the German curtain of fire. Petrograd reports successful reconnoissances by the Russians along the River Stavok, a tributary of the Stokhod.

Except for bombardments the bad weather on the Austro-Italian front is keeping down the operations.

Roumanians Take 2,000 Prisoners

On the Transylvania front the Russians and Roumanians are operating successfully against the Teutonic allies near the junction of Bukowina, Transylvania and Roumania, and to the south near Campulung, and in the Jiul valley have gained successes over them.

In the fighting the Jiul valley the Roumanians are declared by Bucharest to have captured two Howitzer batteries, which later were turned against the Austro-Germans. According to Berlin the Teutons have made additional gains south of Kronstadt and in the direction of Campulung.

The Roumanians and Russians in Dobrudja are still in retreat before the Germans, Bulgarians and Turkish troops and are now endeavoring to make their way across the Danube at various points on pontoon bridges, according to the Sofia war office.

The Macedonia theater is still the scene of somewhat vigorous fighting, especially at the bend of the Cerna river. Both sides are claiming victories in the maneuvers in this region.

GREAT BRITAIN DEFENDS HER TRADE BLACKLIST

It Is Contended The Britsh Government Has Right To Regulate Trade Activities

Washington.—Great Britain's note in reply to American representations against the commercial blacklist was received at the state department.

Arrangements regarding its publication will be made later. It is understood to reiteratue the contention for the right to blacklist, but offers derstood to reiterate the contention tain circumstances.

The Britsh note is in reply to the American note of July 28 which denounced the blacklist as "an arbitrary interference with neutral trade," and "inconsistent with that true justice, sincere amity and impartial fairness which should characterize the dealings of friendly governments with one another."

The names of some American firms already have been taken from the blacklist, and the Britsh note is understood to offer means of removing others.

The Britsh note is understood to take the line of argument that it is unprecedented for a neutral to claim that a belligerent should in effect compel its subjects to trade with the enemy, and that it violates no law for the Britsh government to prevent its subjects from doing so.

Common Labor Famine Reported

In 1907 he was elected the twenty-eighth governor of Arkansas by an overwhelming majority. He carried all but three counties in the state. A few months after his inauguration he was stricken ill and was unable to serve his term.

New York.—Republican campaign contributions up to October 23, inclusive, totaled $1,667,757.29, according to the national committee's report of receipts and disbursements made public by Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., treasurer of the committee. This amount came from 22,226 contributors. The report which, under the law, must be filed in Washington not later than ten days before election, shows that the disbursements up to the night of October 23 were $1,578,934.38

U. S. TROOPS FIGHT REBELS

Gen. Ramon Batista, Leader Of The Rebels, Was Killed In The Attempt To Arrest Him

Santo Domingo.—In an engagement between American troops and rebel forces, Gen. Ramon Batista was killed. Several Americans also are reported killed, including two officers, and one American officer was wounded.

The names of the American officers killed are given as Capts' William Low and Atwood. Lieutenant Morrison was wounded.

The American commander attempted to arrest General Batista, who resisted and ordered an attack on the American forces. Fighting continued for a considerable time, but the rebels were eventually defeated.

The engagement took place opposite Santo Domingo City and caused somewhat of a panic in the capital. Reinforcements were sent there to aid the American troops in maintaining order. The number of killed and wounded in the fightis not known.

A revolt occurred in the Dominican army several weeks ago, but American marines and bluejackets soon had control of the situation. They were reinforced with American troops from Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

The available naval lists make no mention of Captain Atwood, who is reported as having been killed. Capt. William W. Low was attached to the first brigade of marines, stationed recently at Port-au-Prince.

Lieut. Victor I. Morrison is listed as attached to the first brigade of marines.

GREAT DANUBE BRIDGE MENACED BY GERMANS

Roumanians And Russians Are Concentrating To Protect Bridge, Carrying Train To Bucharest

Paris.—Rachova, on the river a very short distance below Tchernavoda, and Medjidie, on the railway between Tchernavoda and Constanza, have fallen into the hands of the Teutonic allies. In the latter region cavalry is pursuing the retreating Russo-Roumanian forces well to the north of the railway line. More than 6,700 prisoners have been taken by Field Marshal von Mackensen.

A Russian official statement admits the evacuation of Medjidie by the Russian and Roumanians. Medjidie is approximately twenty miles inland from Constanza, the Black sea port and the terminus of the railway, the fall of which has already been reported. Medjidie furthermore is but little more than thirteen and one-half miles from Tchernavoda, where the Russo-Roumanian forces are apparently preparing to make a stand at the bridgehead protecting the town. The only bridge over the Danube between Belgrade and the sea spans the river at Tchernavoda carrying the railway line running to Bucharest.

The Russo-Roumanian line now runs along the heights north of Constanza and Medjidie, according to the Petrograd announcement, the entente forces have fallen back upon these ridges after evacuating the towns.

Stork Brings Triplets To Atlantian

Atlanta, Ga.—The stork visited the Kirkwood home of Tillou von Nunes and before taking his departure presented Mr. and Mrs. Tillou von Nunes with three beautiful babies—two boys and a girl. Mother and babies are doing well. The children have been named after famous characters of history as follows: Julius Caesar, Napoleon and Queen Elizabeth. Mr. von Nunes is a well known attorney with offices in Atlanta.

Other refugees on the same train reported the arrival of two thousand Carranza soldiers in Chihuahua City from the south, and stated that others would probably follow.

The rebels fled toward the esa, leaving many prisoners behind."

HIS POSITION PLAIN

Some Things That Hughes Would Not Have Done.

In the First Place, Dangerous Situations Would Not Have Been Permitted to Develop Through Lack of Statesmanship.

A good way to gain an idea of "What Hughes would have done if he had been president" is to consider what he would not have done. As he would not have permitted dangerous situations to develop through his own vacillation, infirmity, and stubborn refusal to look facts in the face, it is not the purpose to ask what he would have done to extricate himself from such situations.

Hughes would not have permitted the Mexicans to kill Americans with impunity over a period of three years.

Hughes would not have looked at the murdered Americans and said: "Too bad, too bad, but the Mexicans are fighting in their own way, and we mustn't butt in."

Hughes would not have sent a fleet to Vera Cruz to force Huerta to give a salute to the American flag and then withdrawn the fleet without securing the salute, following it with the statement that the fleet did not go to enforce a salute.

Hughes would not have told the United States that his rule was absolute non-intervention in Mexico, while actually intervening against Huerta, first in favor of Villa and then Carranza.

Hughes would not have lifted the embargo on American rifles and permitted them to go to both Carranza and Villa; then shutting off Carranza's supply while flirting with Villa; then shutting off Villa's supply after recognizing Carranza; and then shutting off Carranza's supply after the killing of American soldiers with American bullets from American rifles.

Hughes would not have held Germany to "strict accountability" until the Lusitania tragedy and then declared that the United States was too proud to fight.

Hughes would not have written a strong note to Germany and then approved of his secretary of state giving a private tip to the Austrian ambassador that the note did not mean what it said; that it was meant for home consumption in this country, to fool the people into thinking the administration would really act.

Hughes would not have waited nine months for a reply from Great Britain to the American protest against violation of international law. He would not have sent another note in May and waited until November for the reply, meantime permitting the unhampered violation of American commercial rights, the rifling of American mails, and the seizure of cargoes without prize court trials or indemnities.

Hughes would not have granted a certain set of men ten hours' pay for eight hours' work and called it an eight-hour law. He would not have granted this favor under threat, before investigation, and without knowledge whether it was right or wrong.

Hughes, representing 100,000,000 people, would not have gone to congress and asked it to surrender to the demands of 400,000 people, rather than insist upon just inquiry and a square deal to all.

Wage Increase Issue.

Former Justice Hughes, of all men, would be the last to seek to frustrate the true interests of labor and to muzzle the ox that treads out the grain. He believes, as all fair-minded persons believe, that the laborer is worthy of his hire. And he believes, also, that the lessening of the hours of labor is both a humane and an economic and social advance. Yet Mr. Hughes is brave enough and patriotic enough to drive the shafts of his logic through the sham of the wage increase law that was enacted by congress at the behest of the president to get him, the president, out of a hole; and not to make the workingman or anyone else happier.—Baltimore American.

Comfort From Bryan.

"The president," declares William Jennings Bryan as he swings into the campaign with his personal publication, "is a lucky man. The 'ravens' brought him the strike, and by doing the right thing at the right time and in the right way, he made a good political meal out of it."

There are two interesting and valuable features to this statement. One is the virtual admission that political considerations decided the course which Wilson took in regard to the threatened railroad strike. The other is the well-known fact that Bryan's conception of the right thing to do politically usually proves, when the votes are counted, to be wrong.

Wilson a Poor "Forecaster."

President Wilson paints a rosy picture of the future industrial and commercial prospects of the United States. But is he competent to make a reliable forecast on any practical subject like this? Those who recall his record with reference to business will find grave reason to doubt.

Usual Procrastination.

What did the suffragists expect from President Wilson, but "In a little while?" Isn't that the keynote of his administration?

ALWAYS THE SAME STORY

Democratic Tinkering With the Tariff Has Resulted in Disaster to the Country.

How the Democratic tariff now in force destroyed protection to the American farmer, manufacturer and workingman and failed to produce even revenue for the government, was brought out by United States Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota while the revenue bill was under consideration in the closing days of the recent session of congress.

"In making their first assault upon the tariff President Wilson and his party followed in the wake of President Cleveland and his administration in 1893-4," he said. "It is always the tariff that is an eyesore to the Democratic party.

"The avowed purpose of the law was to destroy protection and to produce revenue. It was successful as a destroyer of protection, but an utter failure as a revenue provider.'"

As proof of this statement he read a table of official figures, which showed that imports had increased from $1,556,047,430 under the Payne law in 1910, to $2,197,883,510 under the Underwood law in 1916, while duties collected had dropped from $333,683,445 in 1910 to $211,866,222 in 1916. In other words, while foreign producers had brought to this country half a billion dollars additional goods to compete with Americans in their own market, the government's revenues had dropped considerably more than a hundred million dollars.

All Hurt by Democratic Tariff.

A leading grain dealer of the central West the other day made the following statement: "While in New York last week I purchased 6,000 bushels of Russian clover seed which is now in storage at Vladivostok. This seed I will not have to pay for until it is set down for me in New York, and it comes with insurance paid and government inspection guaranteed. I pay for this seed a trifle over $6 a bushel, and will be able to clean up a handsome profit on it. Several months ago I made a similar trade on alfalfa seed. This seed was brought from the interior overland, loaded on the trans-Siberian railroad, taken to Vladivostok, placed on shipboard and brought to New York, where it was put down for me at six cents a pound lower than the market in this country. One might fancy from this fact that I am in favor of the present tariff law, but I most emphatically am not. To be sure it enables me for the time being to pile up big profits, but after all it is undermining the prosperity and welfare of the American farmer and in the long run it is the American farmer I must look to for the maintenance of my business. What helps him helps me, and what hurts him hurts me. Incidentally it hurts the whole country, too, for when you get right down to brass tacks this country is essentially agricultural, and it is going to continue so for a good many years to come."

Administration to Blame.

Some weeks ago when it was announced in the Republican press of the country that clever swindlers in various communities were preparing to take advantage of the misty verbiage of the rural credits law to put something over on the farmers, the Washington administration gave voice to a most dolorous wail and protested that it was a viciously partisan report put out in order to discredit the new law. Now, however, we are informed that the government has finally awakened to the fact that swindlers really were operating and that the farmers it reassured are out immense sums of money. One concern alone is charged with having got away with $350,000, and others were almost equally successful. And the Washington administration, by its indignant denial of the Republican report, now stands in the attitude of having acted as a capper for the crooks.

Poor Substitute for Protection.

President Wilson in his speech at Baltimore substituted for the idea of protection the idea of going out and capturing the markets of the world with American workingmen laboring eight hours a day at high wages in competition with foreign workingmen who labor longer hours at lower wages. If the war lasts indefinitely, of course all will be well. The war furnishes protection of the highest tariff ever proposed by anyone—its protection is really prohibitive.—New York Herald.

Always Opposed Woman Suffrage.

President Wilson's statement to the American Woman Suffrage association at Atlantic City, "I have come here to fight with you," might be interpreted either way. According to the women who have represented this association in Washington all the year, the Democratic administration has been fighting the suffrage amendment from first to last.—Lowell (Mass.) Courier-Citizen.

Stage Money.

Free trade is like the man who is always going to strike something rich; he lives in that dream all his life and dies without a penny in his pocket. Free trade brings imaginative blessings. At the present time it is loading the pockets of the American people with stage money.

Sticking and Stuck.

Sometimes the president lacks firmness, but he has kept Seghus Daniels in his cabinet all this time!—From the Boston Advertiser.

ALABAMA BRIGADE ELATED OVER CAMP

HAVE THE BEST LOCATION ON THE BORDER, IT IS SAID, BY MANY.

WORK WITH SNAP AND GO

Tenor of Men is One of Pleasure, Appreciation and Desire to "Get Ahead" With Work.

Nogales, Ariz.—The camp of the Alabama Brigade here ought to be a prize for any movie company. There may be a prettier camp somewhere, but the Alabamians are extremely doubtful of that. As far as anyone has been able to find out, the camp of the Alabama boys is without a peer.

The tents are pitched about three and a half miles from Nogales, and there is a 15-cent "jitney" service into town. That jitney service sounds attractive, although the boys, by a big majority, have been too busy so far to get many "leaves."

But the camp site itself is the attractive thing. The tents of the Alabamians are pitched more than 4,000 feet above the sea level and perhaps a couple of hundred feet above Nogales, right in the midst of the rolling hills. The tents of the men are pitched upon one knoll, with the officers' tents just about 100 yards back and up and on another hill.

Further up the hills, the Second Regiment comes down to join the First. The officers of the Second are across a little gulley and about 100 yards, also from the company streets. The camp site of the Fourth Regiment adjoins the Second, but on the down slope of the hill.

Brigade headquarters are upon a little hill, back of and above, headquarters of the Second Infantry, overlooking the entire camp. From brigade headquarters the hills roll away and up in gentle, long swells, sweeping south towards Mexico and the high mountains on the south and into the foothills of the American Rockies on the east, north and west.

Officers and men alike express the keenest delight an satisfaction at their location here. By many the Alabamians are told they have the best location on the border. Certainly it is better, as a camp, than regulars or guardsmen have at El Paso, or at Douglas, and is conceded the best location in the Nogales District.

Delighted with the camp the men want to work with snap and go. The soldierlike work of the First won instant praise from the regular army officers here. Many of them, in complimenting the Alabamians said that the First pitched its camp and got in shape quicker than any guards organization they had seen.

The whole tenor of the camp here, expressed by men and officers alike, is one of pleasure, appreciation and a keen desire to "get ahead" with the work.

HEALTH OF BATTERYMEN FINE

Few of Alabamians Remain in Hospital More Than Two Days.

Douglas, Ariz.—While the health of the Alabama Battalion is good generally, still there are several men out of line of duty. The daily sick list runs to about 25 a day. This is composed of men sent to the hospital, men just confined to their tents, and men treated and then sent back to work.

All of the men are doing "first rate," according to the morning report, and will be out in a day or so. In a majority of the cases, the men were sent to the hospital, not because of the seriousness of the illness, but because facilities were better there for caring for them.

Slight accidents, such as falling off horses, getting kicked, etc., occur almost daily. The men are sent to the hospital for a day or two, and are then ready to go back to work.

The health of the battalion generally, is most satisfactory to Captain J. C. Anthony, who has charge of the medical attachment, and not a case of serious illness has shown up since the Alabama men went into the Douglas camp.

GRAPHITE MINE BUILT.

BIG FARM PURCHASED.

Twenty-Five Dollars an Acre Paid for Madison County Land.

Huntsville.—One of the largest land deals consummated in Madison County in recent weeks was closed when E. H. & J. H. Taylor, merchants of Taylorsville, bought a farm of 1,600 acres in Cloud's Cove from Mrs. T. M. Hobbs, of Athens, and R. H. Richardson, of Nashville. The price paid was $25 an acre.

BAR MEET REPORT DISTRIBUTED

Montgomery—Volume 39 of Reports of the Alabama State Bar Association, which is being distributed to members of the organization by Colonel Alexander Troy, Secretary, contains a full record of the work at the thirty-ninth annual meeting at New Decatur (now Albany) July 14 and 15 and is one of the most complete bulletins ever issued by the association. Every address delivered during the two days is in the report, while it also contain a complete record of addresses of importance delivered since the association began to hold annual meetings.

FARM BOARD VISITS MAGIC CITY

Birmingham's Claim Heard, and Committee Goes on to Montgomery.

Birmingham.—Members of the Federal Farm Loan Board arrived in Birmingham from Macon, Ga., and listened to the mass of testimony presented showing why Birmingham is the logical location. The hearing began at 9 o'clock and was completed shortly after noon. Following the morning session the members of the Board were entertained at a luncheon as guests of the local committee. There was no afternoon session and the Board left for Montgomery where the Board listened to the claims of the citizens of the capitol city for a branch bank.

TO HOLD "TICK ELECTION."

Indications Are Dipping of Cattle Will Be Made Compulsory.

Goodwater.—The Probate Judge of Coosa has issued a call for an election to be held November 7 to vote on tick eradication. Several weeks ago petitions containing the sufficient number of names to authorize the call were turned in to the court. There appears to be but little and scattered opposition to the measure in the county and it is generally conceded that the measure will pass by a large majority. In view of the almost complete destruction of the cotton crop this year by the weevil, the people are beginning to realize that other means of livelihood will have to be resorted to and many farmers are turning to stock raising, which they realize cannot be successfully done until the tick has been gotten rid of.

PEANUTS GOOD MONEY CROP.

Pike County Farmers Get More From Them Than From Cotton.

Troy.—Thousands of acres of peanuts have been planted in Pike County this year. Some of the peanuts will be used for fattening hogs and thus will add to their price. But the majority of the crop will be sold to the peanut oil mills. It is said that Ben Rainey, living on Route 10, received $195 for peanuts grown on three acres of land. One farmer living near Brundidge sold peanuts off of nine acres of land for $700. If this same nine acres had been planted in cotton, without the ravages of the boll weevil, it would not have produced more than three bales and the sale for cotton seed and all, would not have amounted to one-half the amount the peanuts brought in.

SHIPS 21 CARS OF HOGS.

Practically All Shipments Have Gone to the Western Markets.

Dothan.—Since September 1, 21 carloads, containing a total of 2,269 hogs, have been shipped from Dothan, for which Houston County farmers received an aggregate of $27,446, according to figures given out here. These shipments are only early hogs, the big movement of peanut-fed hogs not having started yet. It is expected that shipments from Dothan will amount to more than 100 carloads this season.

Anti-Tuberculosis League Offers Prize.

Birmingham.—"How to Prevent the Spread of Tuberculosis," is to be the subject of short essays to be written by thousands of Alabama school children within the next few weeks, according to an announcement coming from the headquarters of the Alabama Anti-Tuberculosis League. A ten dollar cash prize will be given to the student whose composition shall show the highest degree of literary merit combined with most thorough grasp of the principles of prevention.

Synod Plans Made.

Dothan.—All plans are complete for the meeting of the Alabama Synod, which will meet in Dothan Tuesday, November 14. About 135 commissioners are expected to attend the Synod.

Negro Kills Farmer.

Opelika.—Tillman McCoy, farmer, from this county, is dead from wounds inflicted by Will Tolliver, negro farm hand. McCoy died in Columbus hospital.

Postal Clerk Sentenced.

Montgomery.—William R. Daniel, clerk in the Montgomery postoffice fourteen years, pleaded guilty to intercepting mail matter and was sentenced to three months in the coutny jail and fined $1,500 by Judge Henry D. Clayton in Federal Court.

Doings of the Various Departments of the Commonwealth Given for Our Readers.

—Montgomery.

Statistics given out by the State Department of Health show that 4,076 births and 2,119 deaths were reported during September, the number of births being 2,587 more than deaths. Paroles to Seven Recommended.

Seven convicts were recommended to Governor Henderson for parole and the petitions of twenty-eight were denied by the State Board of Pardons at the October session. The restoration of civil and political rights in two cases was requested, while twenty-one petitions for clemency were postponed until the November session. In the postponements was the petition of Bill Wilson, of Blount, who claims he should be released because bones of human beings used in the trial to convict him of the murder of his wife and child had probed to be those of four or five adults and children and probably of Indians buried many years before.

Wilson's case went over until November in order that Judge J. E. Blackwood, who sat during the trial, might read the testimony and determine whether or not he should recommend Wilson's release.

Those recommended for parole follow: James Crump, Coffee, forgery; George Huett, Chilton, forgery; Aaron Perry, Tuscaloosa, assault to murder; Lee Regan, Cherokee, grand larceny; B. W. Richardson, Montgomery, forgery; Louis Thomas, Dallas, manslaughter; Charlie Thompson, Houston, manslaughter. The restoration of civil and political rights was requested for John D. Goro, of Marengo, and Joseph Laskey, of Tuscaloosa.

Winston Sherff's Feed Bill Record.

Winston County has established a record all its own because of the small amount which the State was forced to pay during the last fiscal year for feeding prisoners confined in the County jail. The total amount in feed bills was $204.60, while the total fir March amounted to 60 cents. This fact is shown by the report of the sheriff to the State Prison Inspector, which will be included in the annual report of the Prison Inspection Board now in course of perparation.

During the entire fiscal year, which ended September 30, Winston County had only 31 persons in the county jail and a great majority of this number remained in prison only a day or two. During the preceding fiscal year only 34 persons were confined, while the record for 1915 was only 20. The total feed bills for 1915 amounted to $199.20, while the total for 1914 was $92.40.

Reports of the sheriffs show a great decrease in the feed bills for the fiscal year. It is supposed this is because of the decrease in the number of arrests due to prohibition, and to the fact that the State is not paying the feed bills promptly. Sheriffs are not making arrests in frivolous cases because they are forced to incur an expense in feeding the prisoners and to wait for several months on the State. The Attorney General has ruled that the appropriation made for each fiscal year must be used during that fiscal year.

Honor System Being Tried.

Alabama's first move toward the establishment of the honor system in the State prisons was made November 1, when convicts at Speigner was placed in three classes. Brown suits are provided for the convicts and each will be given an opportunity to work upward or downward. Those who go up will wear gray suits, while those who drop will be placed in stripes. If the system is a success, it will be established in other convict camps.

LINER TORPEDOED WITHOUT WARNING

U. S. CONSUL AT QUEENSTOWN IS AUTHORITY FOR METHOD OF ATTACK.

ONLY A FEW OF CREW SAVED

May Revive Submarine Issue Between German Government and the United States.

London.—The American embassy received a report from Wesley Frost, American consul at Queenstown, that the British steamship Marina had been torpedoed without warning. It is believed a number of Americans were on board.

Only 34 members of the crew of 104 have been picked up and landed at Crook Haven, Ireland.

A report on the sinking on October 26 of the British steamship Rowawnmore also was made to the American embassy by Mr. Frost, who states that the vessel was torpedoed. Seven Americans, including five Filipinos, were on board the Rowanmore.

Several of them nave given Mr. Frost affidavits stating that a submarine shelled lifeboats while they were being lowered and after they were clear of the ship, without causing loss of life.

Newport News.—There were 50 Americans on the British steamship Marina, reported torpedoed without warning in dispatches from London. The Americans were signed on as horsemen. They were all white men and gave their homes as in various sections of the United States.

According to information gained at the office of the local agents for the owners of the Marina, she was a Donaldson liner and carried a cargo of horses and general merchandise cargo from this port.

Washington.—Preliminary reports of the sinking by German submarines of the British steamers Marina and Rowanmore, partly manned by Americans, were too incomplete to enable officials of the state department to form an opinion as to whether there had been a violation of neutral rights or of pledges given the United States by Germany.

Secretary Lansing declined to comment further than to admit that the reports appeared more serious than the usual routine dispatches announcing the destruction of belligerent merchantmen, and that full information would be awaited with interest.

On its face, the case of the Marina reported by Consul Frost at Queenstown, presented the gravest situation that has arisen since the sinking of the channel liner Sussex, which brought the American and German governments to the verge of a break. Although he cautioned that his information was purely "provisional," the consul cabled that the Marina, a horse transport with a mixed crew of British and Americans, was reported sunk without warning by German submarine gunfire, 100 miles west of Cape Clear, and that 70 of the crew of 104 were missing. Press dispatches have indicated that the missing might reach shore in their boats later. Another message from Mr. Frost said members of the crew of the Rowanmore, including Americans, had been shelled in their boats while abandoning the ship after being chased by a submarine for 50 minutes. There were no casualties.

Newspapers With Liquor Ads Barred.

Jackson, Miss. — Newspapers in which appear liquor advertisements are barred from Mississippi in a decision handed down by the state supreme court. The law also holds that the law providing that residents of the State might receive shipments of not to exceed one quart at a time, could not be submitted to the voters at the election next Tuesday. The court held that the legislature passed the law before the initiative and referndum amendment was written into the State constitution and therefore the law was not subject to vote and was unconstitional.

British Hospital Ship Hits a Mine.

Paris.—The British hospital ship Galeka, of 400 tons, hit a mine off Havre, it was announced. The crew and the staff of doctors and nurses were picked up, but several were killed or wounded by the explosion. The vessel was grounded.

Wheeling and Erie R. R. Sold.

Cleveland, O.—The Wheeling and Lake Erie R. R. Company was sold to Blair, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, New York bankers and brokers, for $12,000,000.

Ringling Horses Burn to Death.

Huntsville, Ala.—Ringling Brothers' Circus lost forty-odd of their handsomest show horses in Huntsville immediately after the animals had been taken out of the parade. The tent in which the horses were resting caught fire and before the fire department arrived the beautiful animals were burned. Several horses which received injuries had to be shot, so great was their agony. The loss is estimated up in the thousands. The origin of the fire is unknown.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 5.

SHIPWRECKED AT MELITA (Malta)

LESSON TEXT—Acts 27:38—28:10.

GOLDEN TEXT—Jehovah redeemeth the soul of his servants; and none of them that take refuge in him shall be condemned.—Ps. 34:22.

Paul was at Malta three months, from the last of November to the last of February, A. D. 59. A bay on the north shore is still called St. Paul's bay. Much help on this lesson can be secured by reading Mr. James Smith's book on the "Voyage and Shipwreck of St. Paul," Sir William Ramsey's, "St. Paul, the Traveler," and "Everyday Men," by Robert Elliott Thompson.

I. Paul safely ashore (27:38-44). As the day dawned the ship was lightened for a third time to enable them to approach nearer to the shore. This time the main cargo of wheat was thrown out, heretofore having been saved as long as possible. The sailors were familiar with Malta, but not with this part where the ship now lay. Discovering a small creek, they perceived a certain bay with a beach upon which they might run the ship, and hold it without its going to pieces before they could land. It would have been impossible to escape if they ran upon the rocks in a heavy sea. The words "taken up anchor" (v. 40) indicates that the sailors had cast them overboard, but attached to the ship. Now they cut the cables and permitted themselves not to be anchored but to blow with the storm that they might land upon the beach. Approaching the inlet, where the waters of the bay met that of the sea, "where the two seas met," the vessel would not answer to its helm. The ship probably drew about 18 feet of water, and the bottom stuck in the clinging mud and clay, and the forepart began to break away from the rear, due to the violence of the waves. Here Paul had his most narrow escape (v. 42). Not alone was he on the point of losing his life by the sea, but the sword hung over his head, not that of a lawful executioner, but of a selfish murderer.

Before it was dang[illegible] from the sailors; now it is the [illegible]s, but the centurion proved tr[illegible] of the prisoners were sav[illegible] sake. It would be interes[illegible] to how many of [illegible] that they [illegible] for the sake of his Savior and how many of them were duly grateful. On this second stage of the journey, after having left Caesarea with the larger ship, there were probably 276 persons, by God's guaranty was "there shall be no loss of any man's life," and his word is sure.

II. Paul's continued service (28:1-10). This island is today and has been since 1800 under British rule. It was then governed by the Romans. (1) Comfort (vv. 1, 2). The term "barbarian" does not indicate rudeness or uncivilized people, but merely those of non-Greek birth. These people kindled a fire because of the cold and of the rain. They received everyone, prisoners and soldiers like brothers, and, in the persons of Paul and Luke, they certainly entertained angels unawares. (Heb. 13:2). (2) Co-operation (v. 3): The fire would need continual replenishing. Again Paul's energy is conspicuous. Though the greatest of men then living, he was ready to do the humblest duty. Whether counseling about a difficulty or comforting under dangers, he was ready to relieve distress at all times, and thus held up the banner of the cross and proved his Christian spirit.

As Paul gathered the roots and put them upon the fire there came out a viper, probably benumbed by the cold, which fastened itself upon his hand. There are now no venomous serpents in Malta, but this is no reason to believe that in the earlier days, when sparsely inhabited, this common European serpent, known as the viper, or possibly the Egyptian asp, may not have been here. It was natural for superstitious nations to expect that this was the vengeance of a god brought upon Paul because no doubt he was a murderer. Having escaped from the wreck, Paul could not escape from the sword of divine justice, and the goddess of justice, Nemesis, the avenger, suffered him not to live. With perfect composure, doubtless arising from God's promises that Christ had made to his servants (Mark 16:18; Luke 10:19), and also the promises that he should preach the gospel in Rome, Paul shook the viper from his wrist. They then changed their minds, thinking that he must be a god (see Acts 14:8-19).

No reference is made to Paul's preaching, though, of course, that is taken for granted.

His words and deeds went along with his preaching.

They honored him with many honors, and loaded them with such things as were necessary, such as clothing and provisions, not of necessity, but out of kindness and love.

Service is one of the ways by which we can show to the world our life of faith.

Note also how these soldiers and sailors also profited by the life of service which Paul rendered.

Cold Reception.

"From the days of my childhood," said Sir Knight Stanze, "I was ambitious to tread the boards, and when I finally butted in among the stage scenery, I felt that I was really due."

"Well, how about it?" queried the great tragedian, Count DeTies.

"Alas, I was mistaken," continued the near actor. "Before I had played one consecutive night I discovered that instead of being due I was a frost."

A visitor to an English training camp was greatly shocked at the appearance of the men. Turn where he would, black eyes and bruised faces were astonishingly frequent among the soldiers.

"Nine-tenths of wisdom is in being wise in time."—Theodore Roosevelt.

Henry Morganthau calls for a million and a half of dollars to re-elect Wilson. It isn't worth the money.

What about those velvet beans you raised? Joe Maddox has got a scheme to make them worth something to you. Look for it in his advertisemetn in this paper.

Going up! The cost of living. All the necessaries of life are higher than they were a year ago, higher than they were two years ago, higher than they were when the Democrats at Baltimore denou[nced] protective tariff as the c[ause] cost of living a[nd] free trade. They kept that promise. But the cost of living is still going up.

When you get into the election booth on November 7, to mark your ballot for the men who will control the policies of this nation for the next four years, remember that it is essential that a Republican President shall have the support of a Republican House and Senate. Electing a Republican President will not give us an "America First" administration, unless we have also a Congress that will enact the laws neccessary to prevent seizures of our markets by foreign producers as soon as the war has ended and our war-order market is no more.

Farmers who raise flaxseed, and merchants in communities where flaxseed-growing contributes to local properity, should bear in mind the effece of the Democratic tariff law on flaxseed importations. Under the Republican tariff law, our imports during ten months period were only 3,000,000 bushels, but during the ten months the Underwood law was in effect before the war began, we imported 8,000,000 bushels. Because the Democrats reduced the duty, we sent out of the country more than $7,000,000 to pay for the increased imports of flaxseed. No wonder we had hard times in 1913-14, for we were doing the same thing with a long list of imports.

"THE MARBURY JOURNAL"

We were pleased to have the Editor of the Marbury Journal, Mr. N. T. Cobb, call on us last Thursday. The Journel is a new paper recently established at Marbury. Our impressions from the first copy of the new paper and the few minutes spent with the editor are that the new enterprise is launched and will progress along with the many other splendid phases of the advancement of the little city.

No town that keeps a pace like Marbury has been keeping, can do without a first class local home newspaper. And in the Journal we think Marbury is going to find what it needs.

We extend our best wishes to the Editor for success, and congratulate Marbury and the surrounding community upon bringing to themselves this important factor of permanent advancement.

OUT OF WAR, MAYBE—INTO DEBT, WITHOUT DOUBT

When the alert and none too scrupulous Democrats begin to tell how Wilson "kept us out of war," it is well for Republicans to demand a bill of particulars.

What are the countries with whom Wilson kept us from battling? How did he do it? Who wanted to fight with us—and what about? How did the issue arise? Did Wilson create it?

A little cross-examination will demonstrate that if we have been kept out of war, Wilson had nothing to do with it. But that he got us into debt is a certainty.

The condition of the United States Treasury at the close of business October 14 showed a deficit of more than $79,000,000 for the present fiscal year—which is only about a quarter along. This year's deficit is $40,000,000 larger than it was last year. How much it will be on election day, nobody can forecast. But it is increasing daily—some days by as much as two million dollars.

"He kept us out of war"—maybe. But he got us into debt most assuredly.

THE HOME STRETCH

Coming down the home stretch of the Presidential race, the Democratic entry seems to be breaking badly. The level gait of official dignity which President Wilson took and maintained in the early days of the contest is no longer his. He has apparently lost his head—and his leg action is very much of the up-in-the-air variety.

The O'Leary telegram, the brazen charge that the Republicans seek to put the country into war, the uncouth references to Mr. Hughes' personal appearances, the announcement of "a sort of proclamation of Americanism," and many other like incidents of the recent past indicate a pertubation which a winner never shows.

The horse that is behind is generally spurred or beaten by his jockey when the home stretch is reached. Can it be that McAdoo of Morgenthau or some of the others who are "up" on the Democratic mount have been using the steel or the braid too freely? Or is it that the candidate himself is unnerved by the free and rangy action of the Republican entry, who is showing a clean pair of heels to his opponent as the wire heaves in sight?

LOOK OUT FOR THE FUTURE

[illegible] is good citizenship lec[ture] [illegible]re Roosevelt used to [tell] [illegible]ssive story of an ex[perience] [illegible]foreman on his stock [ranch]. The foreman came to Roosevelt one day and told him how he had clevery managed the "round-up" on the range so that calves belonging to other ranches were driven in with the Roosevelt herd. He thought to win the approval of his employer. "You are discharged," shouted Roosevelt. "A man who will steal FOR me will steal FROM me. I don't want you on the ranch." Railroad trainmen who expect to be the beneficiaries of the discriminatory wage-increase should bear this story in mind. A man who will unjustly use the powers of government FOR them will sometime use those same powers unjustly AGAINST them.

HEARD AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

The chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce who is doing everything he can to supply statistics to bolster up the Wilson administration has issued a statement predicting that European countries will need a billion dollars worth of lumber the first year after the war. Here we have once more an evidence that continued prosperity under a Democratic administration depends upon the devastation that has taken place in Europe. Under Republican economic policies it is not necessary to base our hope of continued business activity upon the misfortunes of any other nation.

It should be kept in mind that Mexican revolutionists and defacto officials have been careful to confine their personal attacks upon foreigners, to American citizens. While they have destroyed considerable property belonging to citizens of European countries, for which the United States will probably be called upon to pay, yet they have been careful not to injure or kill citizens of Germany, Great Britian, France, or other nations that make a practice of protecting their rights under international treaties. American men, women and children have suffered the indignities, injuries and death.

In an effort to create the impression that business men favor the re-election of Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic press is making great display of the announcements of two or three railroad Presidents that they will vote for the Democratic candidate. It should be remembered, however, that these men are and have been all their lives staunch Democrats. There is nothing new or surprising in the fact that they will support Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

Senator Underwood, one of the authors of the Democratic tariff law, says that there was no industrial depression just prior to the outbreak of the European war. Now comes the Department of Commerce with a statistical statement showing that the output of steel works and rolling mills in 1914 was less than in 1909, although the population of the country had increased very greatly. The facts complied by the Democratic administration do not support the arguments of its campaign speakers.

On October 18, Secretray of the Treasury McAdoo issued his daily statement showing, among other things, that during the first 15 working days of Octoberf, the administration collected revenues to the amount of $32,396,000 and spend $57,189,000, thus spending $25,000,000 more than it took in. That is certainly "going some" for an administration that was elected on a pledge of economy

Registration, in those States which require it, shows no sign of recession in the Republican tide. The primaries have invariably disclosed a larger interest and a far greater vote on the Republican side than on the Democratic, and the registration still further emphasizes the disparity between the parties. Of course, in some states there is no positive way to show that a registered voter is Republican or Democratic—but it is a fair test to note the comparative registration in the wards and other political units where there is a normal Republican or Democratic majority. In the large cities it is happening, invariably, that the registration in the big Republican wards is much heavier than in the wards which are strongly Democratic. The same thing is noticeable in towns, also. New York and Illinoise, in particular, are showing this—and New York and Illinoise, with 74 electorial votes between them, are highly essential States in this year of political significance.

E. C. Coumbe, of North Yakima, Washington, was at the National Capital recently. Ned says the people of his state have heard so much about this Wilsonian prosperity, and have experienced so little of it, that they have concluded it is what Woodrow would call a "psychological prosperity." But he adds that there will be nothing psychological about the vote which Washington casts for Hughes.

WISE WORDS OF WARNING FROM MR. L. A. CALLOWAY

Cooper, Ala., Oct. 30, 1916.
Editor Union-Banner

May I say a few words to the voters of the county through your paper? The recent attack on Judge Reynolds by the opposition is not only an attack on him but is a thrust at every candidate on our ticket and a slap in the face of every man who champions the Republican cause. It is as a dagger struck at the vitals of the Republican party in Chilton county. For we have heard them boastingly say that if they could defeat Judge Reynolds in this campaign the Republican party in Chilton county would be a thing of the past and that it would be a number of years before they (the Democrats) would be troubled again by the peoples cause in the county, so you see it is intended to do hurt to the entire party, and every man that stands for the cause of right and justice. But dear friends let me say to you that we have heard the boasts of the Democrats as a sounding brass band and passed them unheaded, and on the 7th we will show you what we are goingto do for them in beat 10. Judge Reynolds will get the biggest vote he has ever polled, and not only him but every man on our ticket will come out victoriously elected.

Let me say that we pay no attention to their vile thrusts and falsehoods, but line up together in the ranks and file and snow them under so deep they cannot get out in another six years.

Yours for the success of the entire ticket of the Republican party.
L. A. CALLOWAY.

A CANDIDATE WELL PLEASED WITH REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 1, 1916.
To the Voters of Chilton County:

The campaign is drawing near to a close and on next Tuesday the people will decide who will be their officers.

I have waged a clean campaign in trying to be re-elected to the office of Circuit Clerk. I have not resorted to mud-slinging in any way.

I have been Clerk nearly six years and I invite a careful investigation of my record as Clerk. I have at all times used my best efforts to conduct the affairs of the office in an honest and up-right manner. And I feel that with the experience that I have had in the office that I am thoroughly qualified to discharge every duty of the office. Therefore I am asking the people to elect me to a second term.

In conclusion I wish to thank the people for what they have done for me in the past, and to solicit their votes in the coming election. And if re-elected I will use every effort in my power to conduct the affairs of the office in a fair and impartial manner.

Rspectfully,
M. D. FOSHEE.

FINAL WORDS TO VOTERS BY A REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 1, 1916.
To the Voters of Chilton County,
Fellow Citizens:

Upon November the 7th we are called upon to register our protest against the campaign of misrepresentations abuse and falsehoods indulged in by the Democratic spell binders in Chilton county. The Clanton Press, the organ of the Democratic Party in our county, does not hesitate to misquote, mis-state and misrepresent things in this campaign, even goes so far as to render Judicial dicisions on questions at law. Just think what our plight would be if the construction of all laws were left in the hands of the few people who are back of the Press and the Democratic Campaign in this county.

I appeal to all liberty loving citizens to go to the polls early next Tuesday morning, vote your honest convictions and by that means you will be representated as you are entitled to be.

In regard to the correspondence between Mr. Vickers and myself mentioned in the Clanton Press of last week, I beg to say that, I extend an invitation to any tax payer, who is interested, to come to the tax office and I will take pleasure in showing you the records and you will see that my statemenes in said correspondence were TRUE.

I again appeal to all who are in favor of a square deal and the rule of the people to not be mislead by any campaign dope which you may receive, but to vote for the people whom you nominated on the 9th day of May.

Yours for the rule of the people.
J. N. DENNIS.

THE CAMPAIGN MANAEGR MAKES A FINAL APPEAL.

With this issue of the paper closes one of the most important political campaigns with which the people have been confronted, and as manager of the Republican campaign, will say that I feel most sure that our entire ticket will be elected by the largest majority in years. In conducting this campaign we have endeavored to put the issues before the people just as they are and in a fair and manly way, and at all times refraining mud-slinging and personal abuses as the opposition has done. It seems that the Democratic-Independent "force," as they call themselves, have centered their fight altogether on Judge Reynolds, and by any means however unjust, unfair and undermining, have tried to ruin his character and home by telling and publishing many untrue falsehoods, which are absolutely without foundation, and by these means have hoped to defeat our entire ticket. But I am glad to say that our people have resented and will continue to resent such methods and will elect the entire Republican ticket next Tuesday.

Our people have shown from the beginning of the campaign that they were deeply interested in the many issues before them and the welfare of their county. At every speaking our speakers have been greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience, which shows that they are awake and alert to the situation.

The committe from each precinct have ben ready and willing to answer every call and to do all they could to help the cause in a fair and manly way.

Now in conclusion let me urge every voter interested in the Republican party and the interest of the common people to continue to work until the polls are closed on Nov. 7th.

You may watch for and not be surprised at anything the opposition may put out to deceive and cause you to vote in their interest. Remember the results caused by this six years ago and not let it occur again.

I have tried every way possible to manage the campaign with courtesy and respect towards everybody, and to the best interest of our people, and am sure that victory is ours.

Now I want to thank the people for the interest manifested, the members of the committee for their aid and assistance in conducting the campaign, and last but not least I want to thank the editor of the Union-Banner for the splendid way he has managed the paper in putting the issues before the people just as they are and refraining from mud-slinging, and the indulgence in such methods and tactics as have characterized the efforts of his contemporary.

Again I urge you to continue working as before. See that every one goes to the polls on next Tuesday and casts his vote. Let your work cease when the last vote is cast and counted and we will win beyond a doubt.

Yours for a great victory,
H. A. HARRIS,
Chm. Campaign Com.

LOST TWO OR THREE DAYS EVERY WEEK

Owen was in Broken down Health for Three Years Gains 20 Pounds

"It's a fact, I haven't lost a day's work since I took my first bottle of Tanlac, and before that I was in such a bad shape I had to lay off two and three days every week," said R. A. Owen, a painter for thirty years in Nashville, Tenn., and living at 410 Fifteenth street, south.

"Tanlac," continued Mr. Owen "has done me more good than all the other medicines I have taken put together. I have just finished my second bottle and hav egained around twenty pounds in weight and I have not felt as well in a long tiem as I do now. For three years I was in a broken down condition and had a tired-out despondent feeling. I had a little or no appetite and didn't care for anything to eat, especially at breakfast. My heart would flutter at times and at other times I would have smothering spells and it was hard for me to breathe. I kept losing weight and strength until I could not work regular. I got to where I would have to knock off about half the time.

"I could feel myself building up almost as soon as I began taking Tanlac. I got hungry an dcommenced eating and picking up in weight and strength in just a few days. I can now eat as hearty as anybody and I have no fluttering of the heart or smothering spells since I started on Tanlac. By the time my first bottle was empty I was able to put in full time at my work, and I haven't lost a day since that time. There's no guess-work what it has done in my case and I believe it will do as much for anyone who is down in health like I was."

Tanlac is sold in Clanton exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co., in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon, in Jemison by Langston Drug Co, in Thorsby by A. K. TRAINING TODAY'S BOYS AND GIRLS

Children Often Are Fatigued Without Feeling Tired.

IT MAY MAKE THEM RESTLESS

Parents Should Learn to Distinguish Between This Condition and Naughtiness—Marked by Lack of Concentration.

By SIDONIE M. GRUENBERG.

TO SAY that a child is fatigued but does not feel tired may seem like splitting hairs or defining the use of the scientists' newfangled words. But there is a real difference between being fatigued and feeling tired, and it is well for parents to know how it applies to their children.

When one feels tired he knows it and usually takes the next opportunity for rest or sleep. Young children show by their behavior that they do not feel energetic enough to go on with the work or play in hand when they feel tired. And it is thus a comparatively simple matter to provide the conditions for suitable recovery from the "tired feeling." It is an unusually inexperienced person that would not be able to distinguish between the actions of a "naughty" child and those of a really tired child.

It is different, however, when it comes to dealing with a child that suffers from what the physiologists call "chronic fatigue." Such a child, instead of preferring rest and quiet, is likely to be constantly restless and eager for something to do or for some new adventure. He is not likely to stick very long to any occupation or game, and his eagerness for something new is not satisfied, but continues to reject every novelty in his insatiable search for something else. A little girl of eight who is ordinarily capable of working at a single task for from twenty to sixty minutes at a stretch showed her fatigued condition one morning by doing all of these things in much less than half an hour. She jumped about aimlessly until directed to find something to play with. She took down her little express wagon and pulled it at full speed up and down the road several times, finally abandoning it in the middle of the roadway. She declared she would go rowing, went down to the boat and sat there several minutes, swaying to and fro, without pushing the boat into the water. She ran up to the house and asked for materials to write a letter to her cousin; by the time she had paper and pen she had changed her mind and decided to cut out some paper dolls. She nearly finished one doll and shifted to a box of puzzle pictures, which she left without making any progress.

The characteristic thing about the conduct of a child that is "fatigued" is the lack of concentration. This shows itself not only in the rapid shifting of interest and activity, but also in the inability to attend consecutively to conversation or study, and in school it is one of the common causes of "inattention." The connection between fatigue and this shiftiness or inattention lies in the fact that the child has lost the ability to resist impulses. Every sensation, every suggestion, every thought that pops into his head impels him to a new line of action, and he is too feeble to do anything but obey the impulse.

Distinguish Between Actions of a Naughty and a Tired Child.

We know that the trained person, the "able" person, is just the one who selects what sights and what sounds he will attend to, what impulses he will obey and what ones he will ignore. To make this selection requires experience, and a large part of our training consists of training in this kind of selection. Moreover, the selection requires energy, and this the over-fatigued child cannot command.

Certain types of children are much more likely than others to acquire this state of chronic fatigue. The very sensitive child is most likely of all to develop the condition, because here every sensation starts an impulse that either produces some muscular action, or it stretches the muscles without leading to any obvious movements. In either case the muscles are actually expending energy in a way that contributes to the fatigue. Not only impulses that come from the outside through the senses, but the wanderings of his own imagination are likely to start muscular contractions that add to the fatigue without seeming to produce any "real work." In addition to these sources of wasted energy, such a child is of the kind that does not "know when to stop."

It is therefore particularly important that those who have the care of a child should know when to make him stop. And it is for this kind of child that we often need to devise interesting and restful occupations. An experienced teacher made the observation that certain of her pupils showed on first coming to school in the morning that they had before them a restless and unprofitable day. On comparing notes with the parents she found that the restless day in school was also the irritable and "naughty" day at home. She then wished that school work could be so arranged as to permit her to relieve the fatigued child of the usual program, and let him spend his time more profitably in the shop or laboratory, or the playground, or perhaps the library. Even a vigorous and exhausting turn in the gymnasium, until the child is "good and tired" and feels like taking a rest, is to be preferred to the aimless and disconnected fidgetings.

It will no doubt be a long time before the schools can undertake to adjust their daily work to the varying needs of each individual child. But it is certainly not too much to expect the home to take note of the more common symptoms of chronic fatigue, and to adjust itself accordingly. In addition to restlessness, irritability and lack of concentration, the child's fatigued condition may sometimes show itself in uneasy sleep, or in lack of appetite, or in general languor.

When any of these symptoms show themselves it is well to increase the amount of sleep adding an afternoon nap where possible. The attention of an adult who can help to hold the child's interest in some continuous occupation and the removal as far as possible of all distractions would be helpful.

HERE'S TALLEST FISH STORY

Honest-Looking Man Says He Saw This, So It Must Be the Truth.

"Speakin' of fishin'," said the honest-looking man, "the tallest fish story I ever heard happened before my own eyes, happened partly to myself, as you might say. Yes," he continued, as the thin chap crossed his legs and looked about absently at the walls, "me and another party took a long hike up to the lake. We hadn't much more than cast in our lines, when, Bing! comes a whoppin' tug at this fellow's line. He gives a jerk, and mighty near tumbles over backward, with his line dangling from his pole without no hook. Fish had swallowed it, bit off the line. And then if there wasn't some cussin'! Only hook he had, and I had only my one. He sits down, this lad, and raves. Whole day before him, and nothin' doin'. Right at this point in the proceedings I gets a bite and hauls in a fine fish. My pal he cusses on worse 'an ever. I tell you that fish I hooked certainly must have been hungry. He had took my hook plumb down into the pit of his stomach. Nothin' but to rip him inside out. And there what do you think was a-stickin' to his innards? My pal's hook! Sure as I'm sittin' here! Well, my pal put his tackle together again, and we both enjoyed a good day's sport. If I hadn't seen this myself I wouldn't believe it, but I know it happened. See!"

Entente Cordiale at Saloniki.

More seriously interesting than any personal fancies is the active quality of the entente which one discovers at Saloniki. In France the two armies were separated; here they mingle. On the western front the Belgians held their section of the line, then came the British, and below them was the great French section; one hardly met a Belgian or a French soldier except by accident. Here in Macedonia we mingle freely, in fact, are arriving at friendships that must survive the war, and the ridiculous thing out here is the way we go discovering one another. From a hundred British mouths I have heard what a wonderful army is that of our ally, and that if we were one-tenth part as efficient, and so forth, and so forth; and again from my French friends I hear how wonderfully organized is the army of Britain, and if theirs were one-tenth part as well equipped and found, and so forth, and so forth. . . . Both parties are quite sincere; in some points either army takes the lead, and it is on a few such points that we fasten.—Albert Kinross, in The Atlantic.

ROAD BUILDING

MILLIONS FOR BETTER ROADS

Sum of $85,000,000 of Federal Funds Made Available for Construction of Country Highways.

By the passage of the federal aid road bill the government of the United States has put itself in the way to reap great benefits. According to the new law, the sum of $85,000,000 of federal funds is made available for the construction of country roads. Of this amount $75,000,000 is to be expended for the construction of rural post roads under co-operative arrangements with the highway departments of the various states and $10,000,000 is to be used in developing roads and trails within or partly within the national forests.

This law is proof of the national awakening to the fact that our country is lamentably deficient in well-constructed highways. The main lines of travel in the early days were the shores of great waters and the rivers and canals. The railroad building era followed close upon the period of the river steamboat and for these and other reasons the highways of the land were neglected.

One of the most powerful of the agencies now at work for better roads is the automobile. The country owes a debt to the motor-driven car for making insistent demand for adequate highways over which to travel.

The expenditure of these many millions of dollars will benefit the people very greatly by helping to convey farm products to market and thus to some extent it will make living cheaper and more comfortable, says Chicago News. Moreover, the country with an abundance of good roads within its boundaries is more easily defended when threatened from without. The best result of all, however, will be the quickening of intercourse and intelligence and the unifying of this great nation, which as yet is too much given to sprawling physically and otherwise.

KENTUCKY FIRST TO IMPROVE

Spent Money for Construction of Roads Over Half Century Ago—Had Highway Engineer.

It is often said that the use of state money for the construction of roads is of quite recent origin. The New Jersey state aid law of 1891 is sometimes referred to as the first instance of such use of state funds in this country. As a matter of fact, state money was spent for such purposes more than 75 years ago. Kentucky paid out over $2,000,000 for road improvements between 1820 and 1840, under the direction of a state highway engineer, who drew a salary of $5,000 a year, a very large sum for those days. The roads built then were 24 to 30 feet wide between the ditches. The surfaces were constructed of broken stone, and the bottoms were of large stones wedged together to make what road builders call a telford foundation. About 1850 business conditions in the country became bad and this work stopped. When it was resumed in 1908 such a long period had elapsed since the earlier state-aid work that 1908 is usually fixed as the beginning of state roadwork in Kentucky.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

Nerves All On Edge?

Just as nerve wear is a cause of kidney weakness, so is kidney trouble a cause of nervousness. Anyone who has backache, nervousness, "blues," headaches, dizzy spells, urinary ills and a tired, worn feeling, would do well to try Doan's Kidney Pills. This safe, reliable remedy is recommended by thousands who have had relief from just such troubles.

William and Mary College.

At the far end of Duke of Gloucester street (Williamsburg, Va.) stands William and Mary college, the second oldest institution of learning in America, from which such able men have been graduated that it is hard to believe they were ever boys like those of today, going about the grounds with or without white flannel trousers (you understand me, of course). I viewed them respectfully. "Presidents?" I asked myself. If they had understood and returned, "No; good mechanics," it would have been quite as impressive an answer.—Louise Closser Hale in Harper's Magazine.

Kept His Promise.

A weaver, who had evidently got tired of married life, was one day taking a walk with his wife. Suddenly he espied a dead dog lying in the middle of the road. When they came close to it he said to his wife:

"Nah, Mary, thee stand on that side and I'll stay on this."

Having taken up their respective positions, the husband said:

"Nah, lass, when I got wed to thee I promised th' parson nowt but death ud part us, and I'm off."

Then Mary fainted.

WINTER LEGUME COVER CROPS IN FAVOR

COWPEAS WITH OATS HELP TO ENRICH SOIL.

The greatest waste of southern soil and soil fertility is not through the crops sold from the farm or from our one-crop system of cotton farming. Our loss of soil fertility is very much greater because of the bare condition of our soils during the winter when the rainfall is heavy and through the leaching out of plant foods and the washing away of the finest and best part of our lands.

One Greatest Need.

Our one greatest need is winter legume cover crops, or to keep the land busy; our greatest agricultural asset is the fact that our climate enables us to grow a cover crop that will gather nitrogen from the air and increase the fertility of our soils between the time our money or regular summer feed crop is harvested and the time for planting this crop the following spring.

Our greatest need would thus be met by the use of our greatest agricultural asset or by taking advantage of our one special opportunity. Without the loss of a single cotton or corn crop, the yields of these crops per acre can be doubled in four or five years, because the growing of winter legumes will, while preventing washing and leaching, gather nitrogen from the air and supply the humus and the nitrogen which our soils need to double their yields.

Legumes on Idle Land.

There is no section of this country where increased soil fertility is so needed nor any section where it is so easy to obtain, if we would only grow winter and summer legumes on the land when it is not busy growing our regular crops of cotton, corn, oats, wheat, etc. Why we do not grow more of these legumes until our soils are made more fertile is beyond all human understanding. Their value is apparent.—Progressive Farmer.

CUTTING CROPS FOR SILAGE

Most Plants Reach Full Feeding Value at or Near Maturity, According to an Expert.

Silage crops should not be cut until they are well toward maturity. Most crops reach their full feeding value at or near maturity. To make silage of them before this stage is wasteful. The silage will be low in feeding value; it is usually sour and may spoil. According to John M. Scott, animal industrialist to the University of Florida experiment station, more poor silage is made from immature than from over-ripe crops.

Corn should never be cut when the ear is forming, because most of the food is made after that stage. It should be cut when the grain is in the hard dough stage and beginning to dent, or when the outside shucks on the ears are drying and turning brown. Sorghum makes the best silage when the seeds are in the hard dough stage. Some of the lower leaves may be dry at this time but water can be added if necessary.

A crop is never too dry to be put into the silo as long as there are some green blades on the stalks. The farmer is more apt to cut his silage crop too soon than too late. If it is too dry to make good silage, water may be added at the cutting box or at the fan.

GIVE CHICKENS A LAXATIVE

Linseed Meal Mixed in Soft Feed Will Prove Quite Effective—Some Prefer Castor Oil.

Constipation in chickens often is noticed during the summer and fall months. It has been advised to use epsom salts in the drinking water, but this is a violent purgative. It is better to use oily laxatives and purgatives. Linseed meal mixed in the soft feed will act as a gentle laxative. Some prefer a few drops of castor oil in the feed, after having the chicken miss one meal to make it hungry.

PRACTICE OF CROP ROTATION

Texture of Soil and Its Productivity Should Become Greater When Legume Is Used.

If a rotation of crops can be practiced wherein a legume is used each two or three seasons, the texture of the soil and its productivity should become greater. It may be necessary, however, to occasionally add lime to correct the acidity, and phosphorus to balance the plant food.

FREQUENT FEEDS FOR FOWLS

Three Times Daily Is Often Enough for Young Chickens—Keep Them Growing Rapidly.

Three times a day is often enough to feed the chickens and twice a day is often enough to feed the grown fowls at this season, but be sure that the chicks have enough to keep them growing rapidly and that the old fowls have enough to keep them in good condition, but not make them too fat.

IMMENSE VALUE OF PASTURE

What One Farmer Did With Twelve Acres Is Related by Arkansas College of Agriculture.

As to the value of pasture for live stock a circular from the extension department of the College of Agriculture of Arkansas says:

"A farmer near Forest City has a 12-acre permanent pasture on which he pastured from April 1, 1915, to October 15, 1915, 50 cows, 5 horses and 12 sows and their pigs. This is one of the greatest pasture reports ever sent to the extension office of the University of Arkansas and United States department of agriculture at Little Rock. This statement was verified by many neighbors. The pasture has Bermuda grass for its base, with bur clover, white clover, hop clover and lespedeza, thus giving pasture for practically the whole year. Stock had been kept on this particular pasture every day for seven years. The farmer stated in a public meeting recently that these 12 acres had produced more money for him than any 30 acres on his farm.

KEEPING RECORDS OF COWS

Not Difficult Matter to Keep Track of Milk—Test for Per Cent of Butterfat.

Keeping track of how well the cows are doing—or how poorly—is not such a difficult matter. If the milk is weighed up once a month, taking both milkings for one day from each cow, and then that weight is multiplied by the number of days in the month, the total weight of milk for the month produced by each cow is found. This will be close to the actual production. By testing a sample of the milk, the percent of butterfat can be learned. From these figures can be computed the amount of butterfat for the month from each cow.

HUMUS IS LIMITING FACTOR

Fact Known Even by Fellow Who Does Not Plant Winter Legumes—Plant Some Clover.

That humus is the limiting factor in the productivity of southern soils has long been known by even the fellow who doesn't plant winter legumes. Now is the time to think about mending your ways and plant one or several of the clovers this fall. Besides being a source of humus, winter legumes add from 50 to 150 pounds nitrogen per acre.

Etowah, Tenn.—"About 5 years ago," writes Mrs. Lillie Carden, of this place, "I first took Cardui. Dr. —— said I was suffering with ulceration . . . and . . . turned over to one side. I suffered great pain in lower abdomen and back. For 1 or 2 years the . . . had been irregular and came about every 2 weeks, and I suffered great pain. Would cramp so I couldn't get up and do my work. Sometimes the . . . would last 4 or 5 days and come too much, which seemed to cause me to suffer very much. I would be up and down in the bed for 4 or 5 days. When I'd take the Cardui through the period, the . . . would be less and not last so long—only something like 3 days, and the suffering would be entirely relieved.

My health had got rundown and the Cardui would build up my health and strength and keep me going and out of bed, so I could do my work. It hurt me to even sweep my floor when I began it, but got so I could do the most of my work, and I didn't suffer any more, had no more cramps."

One mistake many women make in buying coffee

You know how hard it is to get a coffee which really satisfies you. You know how seldom you can find a coffee which has the same fine taste and strength every morning! It can be done. You can do it if, when you buy coffee, you are careful not to make the mistakes so many women make. Read the experiences below—you yourself have undoubtedly had one or both of them.

The wrong way

Beware of loose coffee

Are you buying coffee which you get loose, coffee which hasn't been protected by a sealed package?

Are you afraid that it isn't clear? Has it lost its aroma? Are you often disappointed in its strength?

It isn't the grocer's fault. With loose coffee he can't be sure that it is the same kind he got before. You always run the risk of getting different coffee every time you buy.

And even if the coffee itself were the same, it can't be kept "loose" without losing its strength and flavor.

In packages—protected!

You can do away with every one of these disappointments by ordering the coffee which over one million other families drink.

Arbuckles' Coffee is such good coffee that way back in the sixties, when all other coffees on the market were loose and unprotected, Arbuckle Bros. protected theirs in sealed packages. This sealed package keeps the coffee's strength, and guards it from moisture and store odors. Most important of all, it makes it easy for you to be sure that you are getting the same good coffee every time you buy.

The right way

The second mistake women make
Old coffee with new names

Are you continually being offered the same old coffee under new names? Under all sorts of new blends?

Did you ever stop to think of the hundreds of coffees which come and go on the market? And that all of these have tried to turn women away from Arbuckles' Coffee?

Arbuckles' is the coffee which has gone right out, always under its own name, never disguised, and held its users simply on the wonderful value it gave. You know what good value a coffee must be to do this against the competition of all the other coffees in America!

The wrong way

Used in a million homes

Settle, for all time, your coffee problem, by giving your family the only coffee which over a million families have proved to have the real coffee taste they want.

When you get Arbuckles' Coffee you get an entirely different coffee. No other coffee goes through the same process—in no other coffee can you get the same good flavor. The result of the care Arbuckle Brothers take in selecting it, in roasting and in packaging it, gives you an entirely different coffee from any other on the market.

Order it from your grocer today. He has it, in either the Whole Bean or the new Ground. Try it. See why it is by far the most popular coffee in America. Arbuckle Brothers, 71-Bm 2 Water St., New York.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, NOVEMBER 6, 1916. NUMBER SPECIAL.

JUDGE L. H. REYNOLDS' ANSWER TO THE PRESS MAN OF LAST THURSDAY

A full and free discussion of the statements made by the would-be assassians of his character.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 3, 1916.

To the Voters of Chilton County.

I am called upon to answer some charges at this late hour, and if the voters will stop to think, as long as this crowd of my acusers have had this matter before them, since April 1915, it shows on its face, that it is false, as they have held this matter back until just before the election, for political effect, and the most bitter enemies I have can see it.

Mr. Guy Higins told me about Sep. 9, 1916 that they had these afidavits, and would use them at the proper time.

I hope you, the voters, will consider this matter, and ask yourselves the question, If I have violated any law in Montgomery, why are the affidavits up here? Why have they been held here so long?

I have gone to these hotel people, who are still in Montgomery, and are now running the hotel. I have examined the Exchange Hotel records in the presence of J. P. VanDerveer, Jr., H. A. Harris, Sheriff, Grady Reynolds, and Mr. L. D. Fairchilds, Manager of the Exchange Hotel. I say now that I am not registered there as L. H. Reynolds and daughter in April, 1915; I was not in Montgomery within two weeks either before or after April 10, 1915. Why don't the parties working the other side show up the records?

I have frequently stopped at the Exchange Hotel with my wife and daughters; I am known as well there as I am in Clanton, and to try to fool the management there would be as rediculous as to try to fool the management of the Palmer Hotel at Clanton.

As to the joint discussion with Mr. Pickens, I want to say that I am running for Judge of Probate, against Mr. Popwell, and it will either be he or myself elected. If he will not vouch for Mr. Pickens and what he says, how can anyone expect me to go out and meet Pickens in joint debate? Who is Pickens trying to elect? If all this slander against me causes me to lose votes, who will gain by it? I would have been too glad to have met any man whom Mr. Popwell would vouch for in joint debate, but I cannot afford to get out and meet Pickens, Mitch Bates, Pounds and Company unless Mr. Popwell will say he wants them to represent him, for it is his fight they are making.

My friends, look at the time this mater has been kept in the dark. Almost two years. Why was I not arrested when it is alleged to have happened? Look at the statement—Moody says he went off and got Lawrence. Lawrence's business was in the basement, and this was on the sixth story, and the basement where Lawrence was is seven stories away; and yet he got there in time to see the alleged acts, and it was night, and any man with common sense will know that he could not see in that room at night.

The Press man need not worry about the blackmail. I have the same hand writing which black mailed me in 1909, and I thank him for his suggestions about who to get to investigate the matter. I suppose he would like to have the job, but I think I have sense enough to pick out my own detectives. I am publishing a few afidavits in this paper in regard this matter about Sept. 9, 1916, and and I want every man possible to read them.

Mr. Guy Higgins told me all about this mater about Sept. 9, 1916, and insisted on me fixing it up. He is the Democrat I referred to in my defense against the chadges, but I witheld his name at his own request.

Now I think the people should be acquainted with this whole matter, The last time Mr. Higgins was in my office he said Pounds and I had been at outs, and that Pounds could have got this matter up. But on investigation, I have not discovered where Mr. Pounds has ever had anything to do with the matter at Montgomery. Mr. Higgins said Mr. Pickens did not know anything about this and that I could not guess in six months who got it up. At the particular time when Mr. Higgins was telling me all these things, as my friend, he was telling some of his friends if the Democrats could get rid of me there would not be any more Republican party in this county. Mr. Oce Rich told me in the presence of Sheriff Harris that Mr. Higgins told him if they coud get rid of me some way the Democrats would not have any more trouble. This is common talk by the clique in Clanton.

This dirty scheme has been laid against me for nearly two years. Mr. Higgins told me that Mr. Hugh Foshee told him before the May primary, about this matter. Look at the scheme to have me indicted at Montgomery before I knew it; but my friends, I never went to Montgomery to even see about it. I have not spoken to the Solicitor about the matter; I do not know a single man that was on the grand jury; Mr. Guy Higgins siad the foreman was named Johnson, is the only sugestion I have had as to the grand jury. Yet with all the power this clique could get up and all they could do in Montgomery, without one word being said in my behalf, the grand jury did not even summon the witnesses. Will you remember how many grand juries there have been in Montgomery since April, 1915? Some five or six. Why was this matter held back so long? The bitterest enemy I have can see why it was done.

Now voters I have fought this campaign out on the issues that I stand for—low taxes and the economical administration of your county affairs and I have been open in the fight. I have not hid behind the shortcomings of my opponent. I am running on my own merits.

What is Mr. Popwell's record? He will not tell you how he is going to vote this time. He has had his farewell letter in both papers, and he does not mention taxes, bonds, debts, schools, nor anything; but all he is depending on is to get your minds off the situation, hoping that you will forget the awful condition your county is in, and vote for him, not knowing where he stands.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Final Warning From J. Osmond Middleton

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 3, 1916.

To the Republicans of Chilton County:

I deeply deplore the personalities which have been injected into this campaign. They can serve no good purpose, are fraught with evil, and intended to divert your mind from the vital issues with which you are confronted.

You are now undergoing the crucial test, and patriotism and party loyalty must assert themselves.

You cannot afford a repitition of the result of six years ago.

By permitting extraneous issues to be lugged into the campaign six years ago, some of you failed to stand by your nominees and the result has proved most disastrous to the county. Your welfare, and that of your children, demand a change in your county administration. You know that no man is better qualified to bring about this change and institute a policy of retrenchment than your nominee for Probate Judge, L. H. Reynolds, that loyal and tried friend of the common people. His record is admired by patriotic people everywhere, and will prove to be his lasting monument, and a proud heritage to his children.

The record of this patriot will be, and is, an inspiration to every struggling boy within the confines of this great county, and one which they can well afford to emulate.

Reared as he was, in the lap of proverty, within the rural district of this county, he has locked in his heart the incidents and traditions of the common people, and they are his forever. You cannot afford to permit your enemies to strike down your best friend in these last hours of the campaign.

When I first heard of the frightful charges which were being urged against Judge Reynolds I went to Montgomery on my own responsibility and made a thorough investigation. I sounded them to the very bottom. And if this was my last message to my friends and neighbors, I say to you that I believe the charges false and without foundation, conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity, designed with the deadly purpose to soil the character and blast the political fortunes of the best friend the people of this county ever had.

I have an abiding faith in the intelligence and patriotism of the Republicans of this county, and I know that you will rise up as one man and strike down this foul monster, slander, and elect your ticket by an overwhelming majority.

Faithfully yours,
J. OSMOND MIDDLETON.

FINAL WORD FROM THE EDITOR UNION-BANNER

Now in the closing moments of the campaign we desire to offer a few things for the thoughtful consideration of the voters of this county. In the first place we desire to congratulate the Republican candidates and speakers for the clean and dignified manner in which they have conducted their campaign. It has been free from abuse, personalities and mud slinging. They have faced the issues fairly and have gone straight to the people with them.

On the other hand, the fellows who are behind the "forces," have resorted to methods so low, dirty and unfair as to make them a stench in the nostrils of decency. They have not met the issues of the campaign but have dodged them on every hand, and have sought to cloak the terrible condition in which the Democrats have gotten this county, behind a dirty circular signed by a Montgomery thug. They hold up that miserable sheet, and froth at the mouth about the honor of the county. In their venom and deception they have nothing to say about how the county has been dishonored and discredited during these last six years. To their blind and perveted vision they can see no dishonor in the profligate and almost criminal waste of the people's money; they can see no dishonor in paying to foreign contractors, including principle and interest, approximately tree hundred and sisty-five thousand dollars for constructing two stretches of road which any man with as much sense as a bat knows could have been built for one hundred thousand dollars. They can see no dishonor in the profligate and shameful expenditure of half a million dollars of the people's money within the last six years, with no fair returns to the people.

If Pickens and his gang wanted the truth instead of branding themselves in the estimation of decent people as character assassins, why did they not go to the clerks and manager of the Exchange Hotel and obtain statements form them, men whose character and standing vouchsafe their integrity? The question carries with it its own answer. They didn't do it because no such transaction ever occurred, and they knew that a statement from gentelmen like these would forever blast their damnable schemes. The gentlemen have all signed sworn statements refuting the affidavit of Moody.

The dirty scheme was hatched many months ago and yet they waited until the last days of the campaign to pull it off, a time they thought would be too late for Reynolds to make a defense to new charges, but the people of this county are accustomed to such dirty Democratic tricks and the conspiracy will prove abortive. Is there a man in Chilton county who does not know that if Reynolds was guilty, this gang would have had him arrested on the spot and scandalized him before the world? They allege that the act was committed in April, 1915. If it was true how easy it would have been to have proven it by bringing Reynolds to trial and convicting him in a court of justice, and the fact that they waited until this late hour, the last of October 1916, to expose the matter, brands the whole thing as a fabrication and a lie out of the whole cloth and the fabricators as a set of contemptable thugs.

If Pickens is so hell bent on the truth, then why didn't he have the decency and manhood to tell the public that he and his conspirators went to the solicitor of Montgomery county, showed him their affidavits, and requested him to have Reynols indicted, and that the Solicitor indignatly dismissed them and told them that he would have nothing to do with their dirty politics. If Pickens is so hell bent on the truth, why didn't he have the decency and the manhood to tell the public that he and his gangsters, after being turned down by the Solicitor went to the Attorney General, showed him the affidavit, and that he likewise repudiated them.

The fact is that these gangsters by their dirty tactics, made jackasses of themselves in Montgomery, and they are doing the same thing in Chilton county.

But why have anything more to say about the whole dirty, cowardly character assassins. The Republicans of Chilton county are wise and patriotic and they will elect their whole ticket by the most overwhelming majority in the history of the county.

W. M. WYATT.

HARRIS ANSWERS THE DEMNCRATIC CHAIRMAN

States the truth in regard to challenges and joint discussions last Saturday.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 4, 1916.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow me a few more lines in your paper to refute some of the false and untrue statements in the Clanton Press of this week, which I suppose was dictated by THE GREAT I AM, Mr. Pickens, as he seems to be the whole Democratic party this time, and who expects to be Probate Judge, should a vacancy occur and an appointment be made.

I have endeavered throughout the campaign to conduct it on a high plane and above the rotten, and undermineing way in which the Democrats, or I will say, the Press and the Democratic Chairman have managed their campign.

I have advised our people and especially our candidates, to refrain from mud-slinging and such like, but to present the issues as they really exist, and to treat every body with courtesy and respect. This has been done through the campaign. We assure the people that we appreciate the interest manifested and the courteous manner in which they have treated me and our candidates all the way through, and further more, I assure them that what has been done was intended for their benefit and the welfare of the county.

The opposition makes a great blow about truth and honesty, and judging by their methods and policies pursued I doubt very much if they know the meaning of either, as they dodge the truth and evade honesty on every hand.

Now the Press says that when Mr. Pickens received a circular in which Messrs. J. O. Midleton and L. H. Reynolds offered to meet any two men whom Mr. W. L. Popwell would vouch for, that he came to me and that I assured him that is was not a challenge. Now Mr. Pickens knows that this is absolutely false and untrue. He knows that I told him it was not my challenge, but that it was made by Middleton and Reynolds and [illegible], and that I could not accept his offer on any other terms. Also I assured him that they were willing and anxious to meet any two that Mr. Popwell would vouch for, Mr. Pickens included.

Again Mr. Pickens approached me and said that he had a speal of two hour duration, which he wished the people to hear and would like to meet either Mr. J. O. Middleton or Judge Reynolds in joint discussion, if I would guarantee him a courteous and respectful hearing. Again I told him that I could not accept his offer, unless he complied with the terms of the challenge. Also I told him that if he wanted to reiterate those false affidavits and reports that had been made on Judge Reynolds that I would advise him not to have a joint discussion. I asured him that I would give him the same protection as any other man, and that I would do my duty as an officer.

Again the Press says that I sent Mr. C. R. Mullins and Hon. V. J. Heard to tell him that they, (Middleton and Reynolds) I suppose, did not want a joint discussion. This is not true, and the Press or its dictator knows it. I did ask Mr. Mullins and Mr. Heard to tell Mr. Pickens that I thought it best for him not to attempt to speak, as the people were very much wrought up, and that there might be trouble. As an officer of the peace I felt it my duty to avoid trouble if possible. I know that Mr. Mullins and Mr. Heard delivered the message as I told them—they are honest men.

The Press also has quite a lot to say about the Reynolds bunch that went to Montgomery to investigate the false and untrue affidavits and scandalous reports that were being circulated on Judge Reynolds by a few of the Democrats around Clanton, who desire nothing but mud-slinging and dishonest methods in politics. I do not know to whom the Press refers, but I do know that I went to Montgomery with several others and ivestigated these reports, and found that they were absolutely false and without foundation.

I with Messrs. J. O. Middleton and J. P. Vanderveer, Jr., went to see Mr. Moody who made the affidavit against Judge Reynolds, and he stated emphatically that he had never seen Judge Reynolds before nor since the time mentioned in his affidavit, and that he would not know him if he should meet him on the streets; that he was not sure that man was Reynolds whom he saw in said room at the Exchange Hotel, but after having a description of him he was sure it was not Reynolds.

The statement in the Press that Moody told us it was Reynolds and that we agreed with him, and said we were only playing a game of politics is a barefaced false.

It has been circulated by this mud-slinging gang that they have the page from the rigister in the Exhcange Hotel for the month of April, 1915, showing that Judge Reynolds and a certain young lady were registered as Reynolds and daughter. Now this is false. I examined the register myself and am positive that Judge Reynolds was not there within fifteen or twenty days of April 10th, 1916.

Now if this gang is so anxious to have the truth, and to uphold the moral law, why did they wait so long and only spring this matter in a heated political campaign? The fact is, they care nothing for the truth and less for morality and would stoop to anything however low, mean and underminding, to carry their point, and to cause the defeat of the people.

Now in conclusion I wish to say, that I regret very much that I have been forced to write this letter but since the opposition has seen fit to try to poison the minds of the people with falsehood and untruth, I felt it my duty to make this explanation. I am sure the people of Chilton county will not be mis-lead by any such mis-representation, but will refute them by electing Judge Reynolds and the entire Republican ticket by the largest majority ever known in this county.

Again urging every one interested in the cause of the common people and the welfare of the Republican party not to cease work until the last vote is cast and counted next Tuesday night. Also be not surprised at anything this gang around Clanton may spring, but resent it as before, and victory will surely be ours.

Respectfully yours,
H. A. HARRIS,
Chm. Republican Cam. Com.

GRADY REYNOLDS TAKES A RIGID STAND AGAINST FALSITIES OF THE PRESS

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 3, 1916

Editor Union-Banner:

In the last issue of the C[illegible] Press under the heading, "[illegible] Debate, and Why," [illegible] that I offered Magody [illegible] down his first affidavit, that Judge Reynolds' bunch went to see Moody seven or eight times on Sunday the 22nd, that they caried him to Hill, Hill, Whiting & Stern's office, and there bull-ragged this man Moody into making the second affidavit. I want to brand each and every one of the above statements as a black lie, as black as the soul of the hound who wrote them. We were in Montgomery on Sunday, the 22nd, but the first time I ever saw the man Moody was about three o'clock on Monday afternoon. I understood from some of the bunch, as the Press refers to them, that Moody would come down Monday afternoon and confer with Mr. Hill as to whether or not he could correct his former affidavit which he admitted was untrue.

About three o'clock we went to Mr. Hill's office, and as we were going Hill's office, and as we were going along Moody was pointed out to me, talking to an attorneyby the name of Brassel. In a few minutes Moody came to Mr. Hill's office and talked to him about correcting his former affidavit, and he stated that Brassel advised him as Mr. Hill did, that he could correct it if it was untrue and that this was the thing to do. He stated then and there he did notknow Judge Reynolds, and had never seen him in his life to know him, and that if the man pointed out to him was Judge Reynolds he was mistaken. I wrote the affidavit on a typewriter, and it was signed by Moody in the presence of at least five persons, including Mr. Will Hill and Mr. Bernard Frank. As soon as the affidavit was signed Mr. Moody turned to my father and apologized, saying that he had been misled by the parties who got up the first affidavit, and that if he had harmed him in any way, he was sorry for it. Mr. Moody was not bull-ragged as the Press stated, was not paid for his affidavit was not offered money by me, nor anyone immy presence, nor was he hauled around in an automobile to his work.

GRADY REYNOLDS.

By the God-given right of a free ballot, and the enternal power of the opinion of the people, Hon. L. H. Reynolds will be the next Probate Judge of Chilton county, in spite of the opposition of all the iniquitous devils in Clanton.

Don't go hungry, Goodgame's Cafe will feed you any time, and anything you want.

The matter on this page is published in the interest of the Republican party in Chilton county, by authority of H. A. Harris, Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, Clanton, Ala.

The Same Old Lie With a New Dress on.

In an extra edition of the Clanton Press gotten out last Saturday the same little gang of tin-horn politicians have gotten out the same old lie. They have put a new dress on it and paint on its face and offered it to the people of Chilton county as something new. They tried to conceal the fact that the father of this lie was the daddy of the first one.

The extra edition of this paper contains nothing new except a lot of fresh deception and lies built on what it published last week. They publish a letter from the Solicitor of Montgomery County, but they dare not publish the letter that they wrote to this Solicitor to get this reply for publication neither do they tell you about the man that they sent to Montgomery to induce the Solicitor to assist them in this blackmail scheme and of the threat of the Solicitor to kick this man out of the building.

This extra edition reprints the original affidavit of the man Moody but is careful to leave out the affidavit of Mr. Fairchild the proprietor of the Hotel who swears he is Manager of the Hotel; that he knows B. M. Moody and Joe Lawrence, and that: "I would not believe either of them on oath; that they were both discharged by him because he found them to be wholly unreliable."

They print the original affidavit of this man Moody, and yet they do not print the affidavit of Mr. Tisdale, the Clerk of this Hotel, who swears that he was on duty, not only at the time that Moody and Lawrence say this affair took place, but on duty during the entire month and that he never heard of any complaint of the conduct of Judge Reynolds, and that he knows Judge Reynolds and has never had cause to criticise his conduct. The Press knew of these affidavits and yet it concealed them.

They print the original affidavit of B. M. Moody and yet they conceal the affidavit of this man Moody in which Moody swears "that since seeing Judge L. H. Reynolds I am convinced that the man I saw in the room with the young woman was not L. H. Reynolds."

If they wanted to tell the truth why in the name of justice and [illegible] did they with hold and con[illegible] affidavits?

[illegible] two new affidavits from unknown people, that they would believe B. M. Moody on his oath. Is it possible that in a city of more than thirty thousand population they could only find two people that were willing to believe Moody on his oath and this after Moody had himself sworn that he had sworn a lie?

This extra edition has a whole lot of rot and mis-representation as to my going to Montgomery to run down these lies. Yes, I went there for that purpose, and run these lies down and last week I told you about it. The infamy of this court house gang was shown up, and now they are trying to muddy the water and conceal their failure. They talk about my bull-ragging this man Moody, offering him money and telling him of the blodd that would be shed on account of his affidavit. I not only brand these whole statements as lies, and in support of which they offer you no proffs except their disreputable words. Now to prove that their whole statement is a lie I ask you to read this sworn statement, a statement not made under cover in a different city and before someone that you do not know, but a statement made and sworn to in your own county and before an officer whom you all know:

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
Chilton County.

Before me, the undersigened authority, personaly appeared L. S. Green, who, being by me first duly sworn deposes and says: "I did go go to see B. M. Moody, at 133 Carter Hill Road, in Montgomery, Alabama on October 22nd, 1916, and I told Mr. Moody that I had come out to find out some of the facts about the affidavit that he had made about seeing L. H. Reynolds, of Clanton, Alabama, in a room in the Exchange Hotel with a young woman. Mr. Moody said that yes he had made an affidavit to that effect and that he knew he did wrong when he made it, and that he would be glad to tell any one that was interested in the matter that he did not know Judge L. H. Reynolds and that he would not know him if he should meet him, and I ask him if he would make another affidavit saying that he had found out that he was mistaken as to the man being Judge L. H. Reynolds, and he said that he would gladly make it, and Mr. Mody told me that he would come to town in the afternoon and bring the affidavit to me. Mr. Moody failed to show up at the appointed time and I went out to see him as he had no 'phone and I could not 'phone him and he told me that he wanted to talk to his lawyers before making the other affidavit as he did not want to get into jail about the thing but that he was anxious to correct the mistake. The next time I saw Mr. Moody was just after he had been in the office of his attorney and he told me that he had made the affidavit and had given it to Mr. Hill.

Now as to Joe Lawrence, I went to see Joe Lawrence on Monday, the 23, day of October, and I asked him if he was the man who had made an affidavit as to Judge L. H. Reynolds and he said yes he made one and give it to Lawyer Adams, of Clanton, Alabama, and I asked him if he knew the man he saw in the Exchange Hotel with the young woman was Judge L. H. Reynolds, and he said that he did not know; that Mr. Moody and Lawyer Adams got him to make the affidavit, and he said that he just knew what Moody said, and he said that he would see Moody and if Moody told him to make another affidavit he would do it. I did not go back to see Joe Lawrence any more for I knew from the conversation that Lawrence had made the affidavit at the request of Moody.

In this extra edition they ask "Why did not Reynolds go to Columbus, Ga., and get affidavits." They had as well asked why I did not go to London and get affidavits. This is simply an effort to charge that I was afraid to go to Columbus, Ga., and is only asked to further deceive and mislead the people. They claimed that all this happened in Montgomery in a certain hotel, and I went right to the place and run down the lie.

If they want to be honest with you and not deceive you why do they conceal the fact that this same little gang of tin-horn politicians and court house ring who are trying to blackmail my character, actually pulled a certain man for money enough to send a man to Columbus, Ga., in an effort to get some one outside the state to swear to what they wanted. Why did they not tell you that this man came back and reported that he was unable to get the affidavits that he went after. Why conceal this news from the voters of Chilton County?

It is simply a part of their scheme to deceive the people until after the election and then gloat over their smartness. They print what they claim that Mr. Fairchild [illegible] hers say, but they are careful not to tell you that this Mr. Fairchild is a business man, well known in Montgomery as manager of the Hotel there, and that these very slander makers regard themselves fortunate that they were only ordered out of the hotel.

You will notice that this extra edition contains a long address "To the good people of Chilton County," signed, so the Press says, by a Christian gentleman in Montgomery, that this man goes to church every Sunday and to prayer meeting every week. An effort is made to make this address appear that it is sworn to by the party. Look at it for yourself. You will see that it is NOT sworn to, and this effort to mis-represent is only another desperate effort on the part of this gang to deceive. Why don't they tell you that this address was written in Clanton and carried to Montgomery? Why don't they tell you how much cash money was paid to the party to permit this gang to use his name? Why don't they tell you that it has been stated in your own town of Clanton that this very "Christian Gentleman" who goes to church so much, has been accused of selling liquor in the city of Montgomery, and that this report is being now investigate by local parties? Why do they not tell you that I now have in my possession several affidavits made in the city of Montgomery, the place where this man lives, stating under oath that they would not believe this man "on his oath about anything?"

The limited space and want of time prevents my answering more fully this second edition of lies gotten out by this gang of tin-horn politicians, some times called "the Court House Ring" and again known as "The Big Six." You have been warned for the past month to be on the lookout for just such lies, you have been warned to look out for the expenditure of bribe money. After the election is over and I have been elected I expect to ask this court house ring why so many of them deserted their man Friday and left him with the bag to hold.

In conclusion I want to ask the people of Chilton county why this crowd is afraid for me to be elected, is it because the people will find out where all their money has gone? Is it because that they want some one in office that they can control? You can answer these questions for yourself. I have brought upon myself the hatred of this crowd at Clanton because I have tried to protect the interest of my people and my county, and because I have tried to show up their wrong doings, and I am relying upon the honesty and suport of my people and friends to vindicate me.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 6, 1916.

The gangsters having failed in their dirty attempt to fool the people, it may be expected that they will pull off something equally as dirty, maybe on the day of the election. We warn Republicans to be on guard, stand by their arms and keep their powder dry.

Pickens is seeking to enlist the sympathy of the good ladies in this last hour of the campaign. He made such a pathetic appeal to them that we fancy them shedding tears at his political death, funeral and burial after Tuesday. We know they admire him for the fight he has made and will hate to see him go out of politics in Chilton county.

This is a special issue of the Union-Ban[illegible] issued, just to correct the wilful and malicious misrepresentations of the last issue of the Clanton Press against the character and good name of the Republican candidates and the Republican party in Chilton county.

We know that the voters on next Tuesday are going to give to the Republican ticket in Chilton county such a majority as has never before been known around here. We feel like you are determined to do it, and may God help you.

Men, honest men, true men, you who love our county, and want it delivered from the clutches of the unholy regime that has held us for the past few years! Let not your minds be drawn from the questions at stake by your votes next Tuesday. You, yourselves, are the makers or the unmakers of our county. Let us look well toward our best interests, and then and there make over again that which was unmade by the unfortunate outcome of the election six years ago.

Beware of the three "P's."

Don't forget that tomorrow you should vote for the best interest of Chilton county's public affairs for the next six years. Avoid being blinded by and of the side issues and delusion of the Democratic "forces."

Slanderous Campaign Lies About Judge L. H. Reynolds Are Refuted.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 28th, 1916.

To the People of Chilton County:

My enemies are scattering over the County a foul, slanderous and false affidavit against me, signed by B. M. Moody and sworn to on the 18th, day of October, 1916, before M. C. Mixon, a Notary Public of Montgomery County, in which it is stated that on or about April 10th, 1915, that the said B. M. Moody, while employed as a detective by the Exchange Hotel Company, of Montgomery, Alabama, saw me in either room 601 or 603 in company with a young woman apparently 14 or 15 years of age, etc. Said affidavit further states that at the time Moody was accompanied by one Joe Lawrence, and that Moody reported the matter to the Manager of the Hotel who gave it his personal attention and investigation.

I hereby brand said affidavit as a contemptible lie and without foundation in fact, and I desire to submit to the people of this county the following in reference to this dastardly attempt to destroy my character:

The first intimation that I had of the matters contained in the foregoing affidavit was on or about September 9th, 1916, when a Clanton Democrat came into my office and told me that certain parties here in town had two incriminating affidavits against me, and that I was going to be indicted by the Montgomery County Grand Jury on October 1st, and that the affidavits were made by one Moody, a former detective at the Exchange Hotel, and by a man by the name of Johnson who was formerly a clerk in the Exchange Hotel and who is now running the Thompson Hotel in Montgomery.

In the 5 o'clock mail on the afternoon of September the 15th 1916, I received the following letter which was mailed in Montgomery:

Sept. 14th, 1916.

Judge L. H. Reynolds,

You will be approached soon by a party and if you will deliver the goods to him this will be all but if you fail, you will be sorry. I know you have plenty of money and it will pay you to part with some of it rather than have the things exposed. So come on across Judge or we will put it to you and then you wont be judge any more.

Yours for Business,

On the next afternoon, which was Saturday, this same Democrat came back into my office, and asked me if there had been any developments, stating he thought he had observed a little activity on my part and also on the part of the fellows who held the affidavits. He then told me that he believed the matter a "Frame-up," but advised that I take some step to stop the matter. The Democrat came to my office again during the first or second week in October and asked me if I had done anything to stop the matter and wanted to know if I had been to Montgomery. I told him that I had done nothing and had not been to Montgomery. He then told me that six or eight men from Clanton had gone to Montgomery to have me indicted, but that Mr. Johnson, who was foreman of the Grand Jury, had refused to take the matter up, and that the men from Clanton had seen Attorney General Martin and he had agreed to bring it to the attention of the Grand Jury the following morning at 10 o'clock and have me indicted. This Democrat admitted that he had been to Montgomery with the other parties from Clanton. He again urged that I take some decisive step, but advised that I not "pay them a damn cent."

The Moody affidavit when first circulated had attached to it the statement, among other things that I was registered at the Hotel as L. H. Reynolds and daughter, but the conspiratots are now circulating the affidavit with the statement cut off.

Any statement that I was in Montgomery on or about the 10th day of April 1915, is a wilful and malicious lie. I was not in Montgomery within 15 days, either prior or subsequent to April 10th 1915.

I desire to submit the following affidavits which refute the dastardly charge which the conspirators have made against me:

Affidavit of B. M. Moody

STATE OF ALABAMA, Montgomery County.

Before me, the undersigned authority, a Notary Public, in and for said county, in said State, personally appeared B. M. Moody who being duly sworn, deposes and says as follows: That he is the same B. M. Moody who on October 18th, 1916, made an affidavit that he saw Judge L. H. Reynolds in a room in the Exchange Hotel with a young woman: That since seeing Judge L. H. Reynolds I am convinced that the man I saw in the room with the young woman was not L. H. Reynolds. The party I saw in the room mentioned in my former affidavit had a heavy suit of black hair, was about the size of Mr. J. O. Middleton, as well as I remember, and was a much smaller man than Judge Reynolds.

I am making this affidavit of my own accord as I do not want to intentionally do any one an injustice.

B. M. MOODY.

Affidavit of Otto Roedel.

STATE OF ALABAMA, Montgomery County.

Before me the undersigned authority, personally appeared Otto Roedel, who being first duly sworn, says: I was assistant manager of the Exchange Hotel Company, of Montgomery, Ala., during the month of April, 1915, and nothing was said to me then about the conduct of L. H. Reynolds.

I have never had occasion to criticise the conduct of Judge Reynolds.

OTTO ROEDEL.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this Oct. 22, 1916.

CHARLES P. GUNTER,

Affidavit of R. B. Tisdale

STATE OF ALABAMA, Montgomery County.

Before me, the undersigned authority, personally appeared R. B. Tisdale, who being by me first duly sworn deposes and says: I am a Clerk in the Exchange Hotel, and was on duty each night during the month of April, 1915, and if any complaint had been made as to the conduct of Judge Reynolds in the Exchange Hotel on any night during the month of April, 1915, it would have been brought to my attention. Judge Reynolds has been a guest of the Exchange Hotel frequently and there has never been any complaint against him, and neither myself nor any one connected with the management of the Hotel have ever found anything in his conduct to criticise.

R. B. TISDALE.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 22nd, day of October, 1916. CHARLES P. GUNTER,
Notary Public.

Affidavit of L. D. Fairchild.

STATE OF ALABAMA, Montgomery County.

Before me, the undersigned authority, personally appeared L. D. Fairchild, known to me to be the manager of the Exchange Hotel Company, who being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says: I am manager of the Exchange Hotel Company, Montgomery, Alabama. I know B. M. Moody and Joe Lawrence, and I would not believe either of them on oath. They were both discharged by me because I found them to be wholly unreliable.

L. D. FAIRCHILD.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 22nd, day of October, 1916. CHARLES P. GUNTER,
Notary Public.

It is a fact that this gang of Democrats who are resorting to these dirty practices, went to the Solicitor of Montgomery county and urged that he have me indicted. They placed the information they had before him, but he refused to press the prosecution. My information is that they then took the matter to the Attorney General who refused likewise to be a party to the political persecution.

I again say that the accusation is false and without foundation in fact, and I leave the matter to the fair and impartial judgment of the people of this county.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

REPUBLICANS TAKE A WARNING FROM THIS

A recitation of Important Facts by two of Chilton's Most loyal patriots—Mr. Gore and Mr. Gillespie.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 3, 1916.

Editor Union-Banner:

As the campaign is drawing near an end, I want to urge every Republican voter in Chilton county to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast your ballot for the Republican ticket from top to bottom. I believe this the most important election ever held in Chilton county. If the Republican ticket has a man on it that you don't want to vote for how can you better it by voting for the other fellow? What has the last six years cost the tax payers of Chilton county by splitting your tickets? How can any voter vote for such a crowd that has stooped to such low down tactics? A vote for Popwell and the balance of the Democratic ticket is an endorsement of the ungodly, cowardly, ungentlemanly things they are using. If they don't endorse it why don't they denounce it? Some one is having to pay for this dirty sheet that is being circulated by this Democratic ring in Clanton. Why are they putting out such rot? Here is the answer in a nut shell. They are trying to divert the attention of the voters from the important issues in this campaign by circulating, as they are? What does Popwell stand for? Don't you, as a voter, want to know what measures you are voting for? Do you endorse Deason's administration? If you do vote for Popwell and you will get the same as you have for the last six years.

Popwell says he was put out by a non-partisan convention. He failed to tell the people who he put in nomination to act as chairman of the meeting. He put in nomination Judge Deason. Does that look like non-political? Why don't Popwell come out and let the voters know that he was put out by the Democratic ring in Clanton and the great L. B. Pounds? If the Democratic ring in Clanton refused to support Judge Adams because he would not endorse Deason's administration why did they nominate Popwell? The way is so plain a wayfairing man, though a fool, need not err therein. Mr. Voter, do not be fooled by any such tommy-rot.

Who is advocating the election of Mr. Popwell? A few Democrats in Clanton that tried to legislate men out of office that had been elected by the majority of the voters of this county. One of the same parties said in Montgomery before the committee that the average man of Chilton county didn't have sense enough to vote. If you want a few men in Clanton to say what shall be done and what shall not be done vote for Popwell. I think you will certainly get your want. But on the other hand if you want a man for the whole people vote for L. H. Reynolds.

If Popwell is elected who will he owe his election to? A few ringsters in Clanton.

It seems that the Democratic party of this county has been turned over to the great soloman J. J. Pickens. Is Pickens working for good government or a job? It looks like he is doing like he has done ever since he has been in this county—hunting for something. I guess Popwell has promised Pickens a job if he is elected, but after the election I think Pickens will take up thy bed and walk.

In conclusion I want again to urge every Republican in Chilton county to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote the ticket that was nominated on may 9th, and show the crowd in Clanton that when any man stoops to such dirty, filthy ungodly, things they have resorted to will be rupudiated by the good citizenship of this county.

Be on your job next Tuesday, see that friends go to the polls, and victory is ours.

Respectfully,
JOHN L. GORE.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 4, 1916.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to the people of Chilton county in regard to the present political campaign.

First I will say that for different reasons it has been my earnest desire to not get mixed up in this campaign, but since there are a certain few Democratic politicians in and around Clanton that have seen fit to resort to such dirty low down tactics in this campaign until it has become a stinch in the nostrils of all honest and self respecting people, regardless of party affiliations, hence I feel it my duty to write these few lines.

Now I want to say that I have tried to get at the whole truth in regard to these slanderous reports that these few Democrats have been circulating in Clanton and around over the county, however, I do believe that there are a lot of honest Democrats in this county, who do not believe in nor will not indorse any such low down, dirty tactics as this bunch of bosses here in Clanton are carrying on in this campaign. I want to say that after reading their circulars and studying over the nature and source from whence they came, and after seeing and knowing the record and character of the parties who are backing and circulating this slander on Judge Reynolds, I have become convinced that there never was a more damnable pack of lies conceiven in the minds of human beings than these which this crowd has brought forth for the sole purpose of trying to defeat Judge Reynolds and the Republican ticket in this campaign.

Now, fellow citizens of Chilton county, I want to appeal to all fair-minded, honest and liberty loving people, regardless of politics or political affiliations, to go to the polls on election day and vote the Republican ticket from top to bottom, and thereby repudiate this dirty crowd of political liars and tricsters who are carrying on these dirty methods, and thereby forever place the seal of condemnation upon such methods. I want to say that a vote for any candidate on the Democratic-Independent ticket is an endorsement of these dirty methods for they certainly endorse it or otherwise they would denouce it

Respectfully,
W. H. GILLESPIE.

THE CAMPAIGN MANAEGR MAKES A FINAL APPEAL.

With this issue of the paper closes one of the most important political campaigns with which the people have been confronted, and as manager of the Republican campaign, will say that I feel most sure that our entire ticket will be elected by the largest majority in years. In conducting this campaign we have endeavored to put the issues before the people just as they are and in a fair and manly way, and at all times refraining mud-slinging and personal abuses as the opposition has done. It seems that the Democratic-Independent "force," as they call themselves, have centered their fight altogether on Judge Reynolds, and by any means however unjust, unfair and undermining, have tried to ruin his character and home by telling and publishing many untrue falsehoods, which are absolutely without foundation, and by these means have hoped to defeat our entire ticket. But I am glad to say that our people have resented and will continue to resent such methods and will elect the entire Republican ticket next Tuesday.

Our people have shown from the beginning of the campaign that they were deeply interested in the many issues before them and the welfare of their county. At every speaking our speakers have been greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience, which shows that they are awake and alert to the situation.

The committe from each precinct have ben ready and willing to answer every call and to do all they could to help the cause in a fair and manly way.

Now in conclusion let me urge every voter interested in the Republican party and the interest of the common people to continue to work until the polls are closed on Nov. 7th.

You may watch for and not be surprised at anything the opposition may put out to deceive and cause you to vote in their interest. Remember the results caused by this six years ago and not let it occur again.

I have tried every way possible to manage the campaign with courtesy and respect towards everybody, and to the best interest of our people, and am sure that victory is ours.

Now I want to thank the people for the interest manifested, the members of the committee for their aid and assistance in conducting the campaign, and last but not least I want to thank the editor of the Union-Banner for the splendid way he has managed the paper in putting the issues before the people just as they are and refraining from mud-slinging, and the indulgence in such methods and tactics as have characterized the efforts of his contemporary.

Again I urge you to continue working as before. See that every one goes to the polls on next Tuesday and casts his vote. Let your work cease when the last vote is cast and counted and we will win beyond a doubt.

Yours for a great victory,
H. A. HARRIS,

JUDGE REYNOLDS MAKES HIS CLOSING STATEMENT

A Manly and vivid address Touching the hearts of the people of the county.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 1, 1916.

To the People of Chilton County:

The campaign has now reached its final stages.

The election Nov. 7th, is fraught with lasting and vital interest to every citizen and tax payer in the county.

Under the present autocratic and oppressive regime, the common people have been oppressed, their rights ignored, taxes increased and burdens placed upon them which are almost impossible to bear.

The people's money, wrung from them by the bleeding process of exhorbitant taxation, has been squandered in the most profligate manner, and no material benefit whatever to the people. The five hundred thousand dollars, or more, which Judge Deason's administration has expended during these last six years, has all gone into foreign channels. If they were determined to squander the people's money, how much better it would have been to have given the work to Chilton county men than employed contractors who live outside the county, and who do not pay a cent of taxes here. The last few years have, indeed, been times to try men's souls; our people have been enthralled in the grip of the greatest financial panic in the history of the country; the farmers are scarcely able to obtain the necessities of life, much less pay the exhorbitant taxes which have been heaped upon them. If this half million dollars, which Judge Deason has expended, had been spent with the people of Chilton county, how much better their condition would be! But Judge Deason spent it with outsiders, and the bloated bond holders of the North and East will exact tribute not only from the present citizens of this county, but from children yet unborn.

Do you want a continuation of this condition? This, my fellow citizens, is the burning question before the people of Chilton county. And yet the contemptible hounds of slander, who are continually beying at my heels, have no word to say about it, no answer to make and no solution to offer. But by their dirty efforts to besmirch my name they hope to divert the minds of the people from the real and vital question of the campaign.

In the outset I pitched my campaign upon a high plane, and I have maintained that position throughout, and have not resorted to low and dirty personalities, which have characterized the opposition.

For twenty-five years I have been in the thick of every political battle in this county, doing the best I could to protect the interests of the common people from the wrongs and oppressions of Democratic ringsters and politicians. The result is that I have incurred the undying hatred of this gang of cut-throat politicians in the town of Clanton. But I esteem their hatred as an honor, as it is positive and absolute proof that they cannot control me.

If I am elected, and I believe I will be, I shall be subservient to the wishes of the common people of this county; and I shall do my very best to redeem the county from the frightful conditions now obtaining. I shall do my best to make the government of Chilton county a "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

In conclusion, I desire to impress upon our people the importance of electeing the entire Republican ticket. Those gentelmen who appear upon the ticket with me are honest and patriotic and, if elected, will strike hands with me in giving to the people the very best possible administration. Most of them have already been tried and have proven themselves worthy.

Again expressing my confidence in the intelligence and patriotism of our people, and urging each and every one to go to the polls on Tuesday, I am,

Faithfully yours,
L. H. REYNOLDS

CAPITAL

Without capital labor is seriously handicapped in its work of producing necessities and luxuries for the consumer.

Capital needs encouragement, and should be assured of protection at the hands of the people to the extent of receiving fair treatment.

Failure to accord fair treatment to capital causes investors to keep their money in their pockets, curtailing employment of labor and the economical production of articles of daily consumption.

The L. & N. is interested in capital because its officers have secured large investments through the territory traversed by the L. & N., and are seeking constantly to secure additional investments for extensions and betterments, which means more labor and greater production with better service to the consumer.

Unless the L. & N. can give reasonable assurance that the people will interpret the laws enacted by the people as affording fair protection to property rights, this capital will not be forthcoming and labor and production will of necessity be curtailed.

The L. & N. has faith in the people, and is giving assurance to investors that the people living in the territory traversed by the L. & N. are fair. The result is ample capital to afford the shipper and traveler unexcelled facilities in freight and passenger traffic.

TRAINING TODAY'S BOYS AND GIRLS

Children Often Are Fatigued Without Feeling Tired.

IT MAY MAKE THEM RESTLESS

Parents Should Learn to Distinguish Between This Condition and Naughtiness—Marked by Lack of Concentration.

By SIDONIE M. GRUENBERG.

TO SAY that a child is fatigued but does not feel tired may seem like splitting hairs or defining the use of the scientists' newfangled words. But there is a real difference between being fatigued and feeling tired, and it is well for parents to know how it applies to their children.

When one feels tired he knows it and usually takes the next opportunity for rest or sleep. Young children show by their behavior that they do not feel energetic enough to go on with the work or play in hand when they feel tired. And it is thus a comparatively simple matter to provide the conditions for suitable recovery from the "tired feeling." It is an unusually inexperienced person that would not be able to distinguish between the actions of a "naughty" child and those of a really tired child.

It is different, however, when it comes to dealing with a child that suffers from what the physiologists call "chronic fatigue." Such a child, instead of preferring rest and quiet, is likely to be constantly restless and eager for something to do or for some new adventure. He is not likely to stick very long to any occupation or game, and his eagerness for something new is not satisfied, but continues to reject every novelty in his insatiable search for something else. A little girl of eight who is ordinarily capable of working at a single task for from twenty to sixty minutes at a stretch showed her fatigued condition one morning by doing all of these things in much less than half an hour. She jumped about aimlessly until directed to find something to play with. She took down her little express wagon and pulled it at full speed up and down the road several times, finally abandoning it in the middle of the roadway. She declared she would go rowing, went down to the boat and sat there several minutes, swaying to and fro, without pushing the boat into the water. She ran up to the house and asked for materials to write a letter to her cousin; by the time she had paper and pen she had changed her mind and decided to cut out some paper dolls. She nearly finished one doll and shifted to a box of puzzle pictures, which she left without making any progress.

The characteristic thing about the conduct of a child that is "fatigued" is the lack of concentration. This shows itself not only in the rapid shifting of interest and activity, but also in the inability to attend consecutively to conversation or study, and in school it is one of the common causes of "inattention." The connection between fatigue and this shiftiness or inattention lies in the fact that the child has lost the ability to resist impulses. Every sensation, every suggestion, every thought that pops into his head impels him to a new line of action, and he is too feeble to do anything but obey the impulse.

We know that the trained person, the "able" person, is just the one who selects what sights and what sounds he will attend to, what impulses he will obey and what ones he will ignore. To make this selection requires experience, and a large part of our training consists of training in this kind of selection. Moreover, the selection requires energy, and this the over-fatigued child cannot command.

Certain types of children are much more likely than others to acquire this state of chronic fatigue. The very sensitive child is most likely of all to develop the condition, because here every sensation starts an impulse that either produces some muscular action, or it stretches the muscles without leading to any obvious movements. In either case the muscles are actually expending energy in a way that contributes to the fatigue. Not only impulses that come from the outside through the senses, but the wanderings of his own imagination are likely to start muscular contractions that add to the fatigue without seeming to produce any "real work." In addition to these sources of wasted energy, such a child is of the kind that does not "know when to stop."

It is therefore particularly important that those who have the care of a child should know when to make him stop. And it is for this kind of child that we often need to devise interesting and restful occupations. An experienced teacher made the observation that certain of her pupils showed on first coming to school in the morning that they had before them a restless and unprofitable day. On comparing notes with the parents she found that the restless day in school was also the irritable and "naughty" day at home. She then wished that school work could be so arranged as to permit her to relieve the fatigued child of the usual program, and let him spend his time more profitably in the shop or laboratory, or the playground, or perhaps the library. Even a vigorous and exhausting turn in the gymnasium, until the child is "good and tired" and feels like taking a rest, is to be preferred to the aimless and disconnected fidgetings.

It will no doubt be a long time before the schools can undertake to adjust their daily work to the varying needs of each individual child. But it is certainly not too much to expect the home to take note of the more common symptoms of chronic fatigue, and to adjust itself accordingly. In addition to restlessness, irritability and lack of concentration, the child's fatigued condition may sometimes show itself in uneasy sleep, or in lack of appetite, or in general languor.

When any of these symptoms show themselves it is well to increase the amount of sleep adding an afternoon nap where possible. The attention of an adult who can help to hold the child's interest in some continuous occupation and the removal as far as possible of all distractions would be helpful.

HERE'S TALLEST FISH STORY

Honest-Looking Man Says He Saw This, So It Must Be the Truth.

"Speakin' of fishin'," said the honest-looking man, "the tallest fish story I ever heard happened before my own eyes, happened partly to myself, as you might say. Yes," he continued, as the thin chap crossed his legs and looked about absently at the walls, "me and another party took a long hike up to the lake. We hadn't much more than cast in our lines, when, Bing! comes a whoppin' tug at this fellow's line. He gives a jerk, and mighty near tumbles over backward, with his line dangling from his pole without no hook. Fish had swallowed it, bit off the line. And then if there wasn't some cussin'! Only hook he had, and I had only my one. He sits down, this lad, and raves. Whole day before him, and nothin' doin'. Right at this point in the proceedings I gets a bite and hauls in a fine fish. My pal he cusses on worse 'an ever. I tell you that fish I hooked certainly must have been hungry. He had took my hook plumb down into the pit of his stomach. Nothin' but to rip him inside out. And there what do you think was a-stickin' to his innards? My pal's hook! Sure as I'm sittin' here! Well, my pal put his tackle together again, and we both enjoyed a good day's sport. If I hadn't seen this myself I wouldn't believe it, but I know it happened. See!"

Entente Cordiale at Saloniki.

More seriously interesting than any personal fancies is the active quality of the entente which one discovers at Saloniki. In France the two armies were separated; here they mingle. On the western front the Belgians held their section of the line, then came the British, and below them was the great French section; one hardly met a Belgian or a French soldier except by accident. Here in Macedonia we mingle freely, in fact, are arriving at friendships that must survive the war, and the ridiculous thing out here is the way we go discovering one another. From a hundred British mouths I have heard what a wonderful army is that of our ally, and that if we were one-tenth part as efficient, and so forth, and so forth; and again from my French friends I hear how wonderfully organized is the army of Britain, and if theirs were one-tenth part as well equipped and found, and so forth, and so forth. . . . Both parties are quite sincere; in some points either army takes the lead, and it is on a few such points that we fasten.—Albert Kinross, in The Atlantic.

ROAD BUILDING

MILLIONS FOR BETTER ROADS

Sum of $85,000,000 of Federal Funds Made Available for Construction of Country Highways.

By the passage of the federal aid road bill the government of the United States has put itself in the way to reap great benefits. According to the new law, the sum of $85,000,000 of federal funds is made available for the construction of country roads. Of this amount $75,000,000 is to be expended for the construction of rural post roads under co-operative arrangements with the highway departments of the various states and $10,000,000 is to be used in developing roads and trails within or partly within the national forests.

This law is proof of the national awakening to the fact that our country is lamentably deficient in well-constructed highways. The main lines of travel in the early days were the shores of great waters and the rivers and canals. The railroad building era followed close upon the period of the river steamboat and for these and other reasons the highways of the land were neglected.

One of the most powerful of the agencies now at work for better roads is the automobile. The country owes a debt to the motor-driven car for making insistent demand for adequate highways over which to travel.

The expenditure of these many millions of dollars will benefit the people very greatly by helping to convey farm products to market and thus to some extent it will make living cheaper and more comfortable, says Chicago News. Moreover, the country with an abundance of good roads within its boundaries is more easily defended when threatened from without. The best result of all, however, will be the quickening of intercourse and intelligence and the unifying of this great nation, which as yet is too much given to sprawling physically and otherwise.

KENTUCKY FIRST TO IMPROVE

Spent Money for Construction of Roads Over Half Century Ago—Had Highway Engineer.

It is often said that the use of state money for the construction of roads is of quite recent origin. The New Jersey state aid law of 1891 is sometimes referred to as the first instance of such use of state funds in this country. As a matter of fact, state money was spent for such purposes more than 75 years ago. Kentucky paid out over $2,000,000 for road improvements between 1820 and 1840, under the direction of a state highway engineer, who drew a salary of $5,000 a year, a very large sum for those days. The roads built then were 24 to 30 feet wide between the ditches. The surfaces were constructed of broken stone, and the bottoms were of large stones wedged together to make what road builders call a telford foundation. About 1850 business conditions in the country became bad and this work stopped. When it was resumed in 1908 such a long period had elapsed since the earlier state-aid work that 1908 is usually fixed as the beginning of state roadwork in Kentucky.

William and Mary College.

At the far end of Duke of Gloucester street (Williamsburg, Va.) stands William and Mary college, the second oldest institution of learning in America, from which such able men have been graduated that it is hard to believe they were ever boys like those of today, going about the grounds with or without white flannel trousers (you understand me, of course). I viewed them respectfully. "Presidents?" I asked myself. If they had understood and returned, "No; good mechanics," it would have been quite as impressive an answer.—Louise Closser Hale in Harper's Magazine.

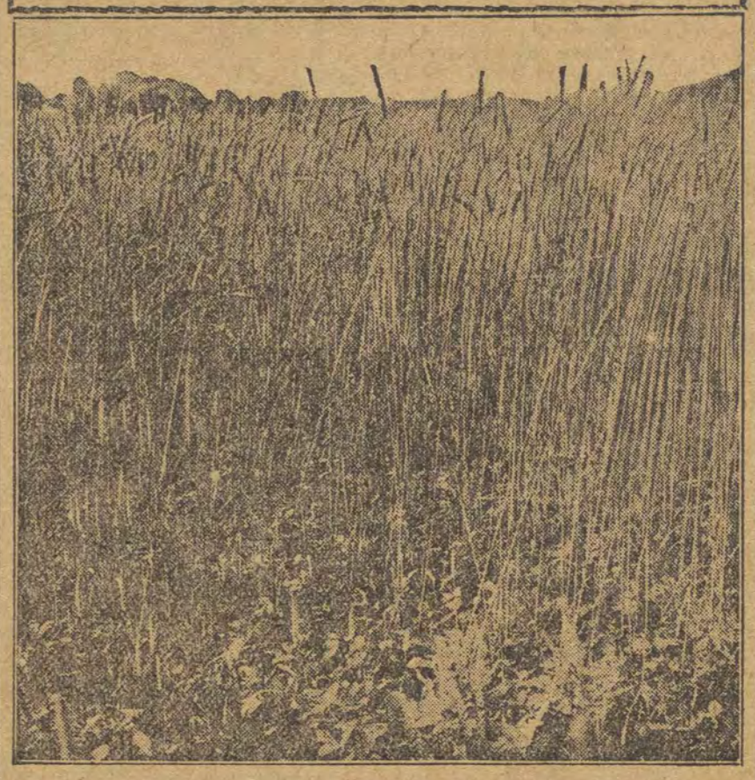
Having taken up their respective positions, the husband said:

"Nah, lass, when I got wed to thee I promised th' parson nowt but death ud part us, and I'm off."



Then Mary fainted.

WINTER LEGUME COVER CROPS IN FAVOR

COWPEAS WITH OATS HELP TO ENRICH SOIL.

The greatest waste of southern soil and soil fertility is not through the crops sold from the farm or from our one-crop system of cotton farming. Our loss of soil fertility is very much greater because of the bare condition of our soils during the winter when the rainfall is heavy and through the leaching out of plant foods and the washing away of the finest and best part of our lands.

One Greatest Need.

Our one greatest need is winter legume cover crops, or to keep the land busy; our greatest agricultural asset is the fact that our climate enables us to grow a cover crop that will gather nitrogen from the air and increase the fertility of our soils between the time our money or regular summer feed crop is harvested and the time for planting this crop the following spring.

Our greatest need would thus be met by the use of our greatest agricultural asset or by taking advantage of our one special opportunity. Without the loss of a single cotton or corn crop, the yields of these crops per acre can be doubled in four or five years, because the growing of winter legumes will, while preventing washing and leaching, gather nitrogen from the air and supply the humus and the nitrogen which our soils need to double their yields.

Legumes on Idle Land.

There is no section of this country where increased soil fertility is so needed nor any section where it is so easy to obtain, if we would only grow winter and summer legumes on the land when it is not busy growing our regular crops of cotton, corn, oats, wheat, etc. Why we do not grow more of these legumes until our soils are made more fertile is beyond all human understanding. Their value is apparent.—Progressive Farmer.

CUTTING CROPS FOR SILAGE

Most Plants Reach Full Feeding Value at or Near Maturity, According to an Expert.

Silage crops should not be cut until they are well toward maturity. Most crops reach their full feeding value at or near maturity. To make silage of them before this stage is wasteful. The silage will be low in feeding value; it is usually sour and may spoil. According to John M. Scott, animal industrialist to the University of Florida experiment station, more poor silage is made from immature than from over-ripe crops.

Corn should never be cut when the ear is forming, because most of the food is made after that stage. It should be cut when the grain is in the hard dough stage and beginning to dent, or when the outside shucks on the ears are drying and turning brown. Sorghum makes the best silage when the seeds are in the hard dough stage. Some of the lower leaves may be dry at this time but water can be added if necessary.

A crop is never too dry to be put into the silo as long as there are some green blades on the stalks. The farmer is more apt to cut his silage crop too soon than too late. If it is too dry to make good silage, water may be added at the cutting box or at the fan.

GIVE CHICKENS A LAXATIVE

Linseed Meal Mixed in Soft Feed Will Prove Quite Effective—Some Prefer Castor Oil.

Constipation in chickens often is noticed during the summer and fall months. It has been advised to use epsom salts in the drinking water, but this is a violent purgative. It is better to use oily laxatives and purgatives. Linseed meal mixed in the soft feed will act as a gentle laxative. Some prefer a few drops of castor oil in the feed, after having the chicken miss one meal to make it hungry.

PRACTICE OF CROP ROTATION

Texture of Soil and Its Productivity Should Become Greater When Legume Is Used.

If a rotation of crops can be practiced wherein a legume is used each two or three seasons; the texture of the soil and its productivity should become greater. It may be necessary, however, to occasionally add lime to correct the acidity, and phosphorus to balance the plant food.

FREQUENT FEEDS FOR FOWLS

Three Times Daily Is Often Enough for Young Chickens—Keep Them Growing Rapidly.

Three times a day is often enough to feed the chickens and twice a day is often enough to feed the grown fowls at this season, but be sure that the chicks have enough to keep them growing rapidly and that the old fowls have enough to keep them in good condition, but not make them too fat.

IMMENSE VALUE OF PASTURE

What One Farmer Did With Twelve Acres Is Related by Arkansas College of Agriculture.

As to the value of pasture for live stock a circular from the extension department of the College of Agriculture of Arkansas says:

"A farmer near Forest City has a 12-acre permanent pasture on which he pastured from April 1, 1915, to October 15, 1915, 50 cows, 5 horses and 12 sows and their pigs. This is one of the greatest pasture reports ever sent to the extension office of the University of Arkansas and United States department of agriculture at Little Rock. This statement was verified by many neighbors. The pasture has Bermuda grass for its base, with bur clover, white clover, hop clover and lespedeza, thus giving pasture for practically the whole year. Stock had been kept on this particular pasture every day for seven years. The farmer stated in a public meeting recently that these 12 acres had produced more money for him than any 30 acres on his farm.

KEEPING RECORDS OF COWS

Not Difficult Matter to Keep Track of Milk—Test for Per Cent of Butterfat.

Keeping track of how well the cows are doing—or how poorly—is not such a difficult matter. If the milk is weighed up once a month, taking both milkings for one day from each cow, and then that weight is multiplied by the number of days in the month, the total weight of milk for the month produced by each cow is found. This will be close to the actual production. By testing a sample of the milk, the percent of butterfat can be learned. From these figures can be computed the amount of butterfat for the month from each cow.

HUMUS IS LIMITING FACTOR

Fact Known Even by Fellow Who Does Not Plant Winter Legumes—Plant Some Clover.

That humus is the limiting factor in the productivity of southern soils has long been known by even the fellow who doesn't plant winter legumes. Now is the time to think about mending your ways and plant one or several of the clovers this fall. Besides being a source of humus, winter legumes add from 50 to 150 pounds nitrogen per acre.

HEALTH HAD GOT RUN-DOWN

But Cardui Built Up Her Health And Strength So She Could Do Her Work.

Etowah, Tenn.—"About 5 years ago," writes Mrs. Lillie Carden, of this place, "I first took Cardui. Dr. —— said I was suffering with ulceration . . . and . . . turned over to one side. I suffered great pain in lower abdomen and back. For 1 or 2 years the . . . had been irregular and came about every 2 weeks, and I suffered great pain. Would cramp so I couldn't get up and do my work. Sometimes the . . . would last 4 or 5 days and come too much, which seemed to cause me to suffer very much. I would be up and down in the bed for 4 or 5 days. When I'd take the Cardui through the period, the . . . would be less and not last so long—only something like 3 days, and the suffering would be entirely relieved.

My health had got rundown and the Cardui would build up my health and strength and keep me going and out of bed, so I could do my work. It hurt me to even sweep my floor when I began it, but got so I could do the most of my work, and I didn't suffer any more, had no more cramps."

Cardui, the woman's tonic, has proven its efficacy in the treatment of womanly troubles. Try it.—Adv.

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS MY WAY

Just Once! Try "Dodson's Liver Tone" When Bilious, Constipated, Headachy—Don't Lose a Day's Work.

Liven up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel, because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Listen to me! If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning, because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and cannot salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—Adv.

One mistake many women make in buying coffee

You know how hard it is to get a coffee which really satisfies you. You know how seldom you can find a coffee which has the same fine taste and strength every morning! It can be done. You can do it if, when you buy coffee, you are careful not to make the mistakes so many women make. Read the experiences below—you yourself have undoubtedly had one or both of them.

Beware of loose coffee

Are you buying coffee which you get loose, coffee which hasn't been protected by a sealed package?

Are you afraid that it isn't clear? Has it lost its aroma? Are you often disappointed in its strength?

It isn't the grocer's fault. With loose coffee he can't be sure that it is the same kind he got before. You always run the risk of getting different coffee every time you buy.

And even if the coffee itself were the same, it can't be kept "loose" without losing its strength and flavor.

In packages—protected!

You can do away with every one of these disappointments by ordering the coffee which over one million other families drink.

Arbuckles' Coffee is such good coffee that way back in the sixties, when all other coffees on the market were loose and unprotected, Arbuckle Bros. protected theirs in sealed packages. This sealed package keeps the coffee's strength, and guards it from moisture and store odors. Most important of all, it makes it easy for you to be sure that you are getting the same good coffee every time you buy.

The wrong way

The right way

The second mistake women make

Old coffee with new names

Are you continually being offered the same old coffee under new names? Under all sorts of new blends?

Did you ever stop to think of the hundreds of coffees which come and go on the market? And that all of these have tried to turn women away from Arbuckles' Coffee?

Arbuckles' is the coffee which has gone right out, always under its own name, never disguised, and held its users simply on the wonderful value it gave. You know what good value a coffee must be to do this against the competition of all the other coffees in America!

The wrong way

Used in a million homes

Settle, for all time, your coffee problem, by giving your family the only coffee which over a million families have proved to have the real coffee taste they want.

When you get Arbuckles' Coffee you get an entirely different coffee. No other coffee goes through the same process—in no other coffee can you get the same good flavor. The result of the care Arbuckle Brothers take in selecting it, in roasting and in packaging it, gives you an entirely different coffee from any other on the market.

Order it from your grocer today. He has it, in either the Whole Bean or the new Ground. Try it. See why it is by far the most popular coffee in America. Arbuckle Brothers, 71-Bm 2 Water St., New York.

MINE EXPLOSION ENDS LIVES OF 30

EIGHT ESCAPE WITH LIFE—DISASTER OCCURRED AT THE BESSIE MINES.

BODIES OF VICTIMS BURIED

Entire Rescue Forces of State Aided in Work of Clearing Debris and Removing Dead.

Birmingham.—Every section of Bessie Mines, property of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company, in which a gas explosion occurred November 4, and resulted in the death of thirty miners, has been gone over.

The identity of practically all of the men was established, and funerals of the victims were held as quickly as the bodies were cleaned and prepared. The white victims were buried in the vicinity of Bessie Mines, the bodies of Hubbard, Bray, Glover and others being placed at rest at Midway, near Adamsville, while some of the bodies of the colored victims were shipped to other points.

The explosion came below the eighth flight, and was of such force as to damage the mouth of the mine considerably, and to wreck some of the cars on the mine tipple.

While rescue parties were being formed, five men, John Drake, fire boss, and J. H. McGowan, white, with three negroes, walked from the lower shafts of the mine unhurt. They did not know what had caused the explosion, and had been working as rapidly as possible to clear the debris barring their escape. Later three others with the aid of rescurers made their escape.

The entire forces of rescue workers of the State of Alabama, C. H. Nesbit, Chief State Mine Inspector, and all assistants, the United States Mine Bureau Rescue crew of West End, the officials of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company and men from many mines in the district were summoned within a few minutes after the explosion and rushed to the scene.

As is usual after mine explosions, women from throughout the camp, those related to the men entombed and others gathered at the mouth of the mines and great excitement prevailed at Bessie.

The Bessie Mines have been in full operation for months now, being one of the best feeders of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company in the big rush for coal.

The Bessie Mines are not far from Palos, on the Frisco Railroad, and is in that region where gas is supposed to exist, an explosion occurred at Palos a few years ago, killing ninety-two men.

PLANS FOR HIGHWAY MEET.

Meeting Marked by Great Enthusiasm Over Good Roads.

Birmingham.—The executive committee of the Jefferson County Good Roads Association met in extraordinary session to complete their plans for the meeting of the State Highway Association, which is to convene in Birmingham November 15 and 16. Present at the meeting were several members of the State executive committee, President John Craft, John W. O'Neill, President of the Jefferson County Association, and others.

The meeting was marked with enthusiasm on the part of the members attending. Elaborate preparations have been completed for the big meeting at which time a large number of visiting highway experts will tell what they know of the construction and maintenance of highways.

According to the Secretary, an active campaign organizing branch associations of the Bankhead Highway is now in progress in the counties, cities and towns of Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, where great enthusiasm is being aroused in this highway connecting the three principal cities—Memphis, Birmingham and Atlanta. This highway will be a link connecting the East and West through the Middle South.

MILITARY EXAMS ANNOUNCED.

Tests Will Be Held for Candidates Who Seek Lieutenantships.

Montgomery.—Announcement has been made by the State Military Department that the United States War Department will begin an examination on January 29, 1917, of candidates for provisional appointments as second lieutenants in the United States army. Persons who pass the examination will become provisional second lieutenants by appointment, and during the first two years may prepare themselves for permanent appointment. All persons in Alabama who desire to take the examinations must file their applications with the Adjutant-General of the United States army at Washington before January 16, 1917.

Mother Hurls Self and Tots Into River.

Gadsden.—Taking her two children with her to the Coosa River, Mrs. Harley Carter threw them into the water and jumped in herself near their home at Whorton's Road, about nine miles from Gadsden. Mrs. Carter and daughter were drowned, while the mother managed to save himself. Mrs. Carter, shortly before, had gone into the field where the two children and step-daughter were picking cotton and gave her step-daughter a note to the neighbor, Mrs. Fits.

PRAISE ALABAMA TROOPS.

Good Words From Citizens and Officers of Regular Army.

Nogales, Ariz.—The Alabama boys have received nothing but compliments since reaching Arizona. Wherever one goes in the city now, there are praises and good words for the boys of the Alabama regiments. The praise comes from citizens and officers of the regular army, too.

With the United States army officers the regiments made a splendid impression by the business-like manner in which they unloaded, went into camp and got ready for business. Instructors and officers just visiting were ready with some little word of praise for the officers and men of the Alabama regiments.

And while Nogales is enjoying the Alabamians, the Alabamians are enjoying Nogales and Arizona. This is partly accountable for by the favorable location of the camp. The camp has the reputation of being the best on the border. The camp is high up in the hills, but in a country where the rainfall is not a curiosity, where there is grass and trees and green things.

The hills hold plenty of game, too. Practically every day finds some of the boys out with guns, and that night there is usually something nice for mess. One day one of the companies had a great dinner. Besides the regular rations, there were doves and quail and Sonora pigeons and rabbits. A great many companies are having game birds for the fortunate ones with the guns.

The boys are getting used to the climate, too, and are learning to sleep with the thermometer around freezing. It gets biting cold at night and warm enough to make coats uncomfortable in the day. It sounds worse than it really is. As a matter of fact, it is a delightful climate.

M'KEE WILL NOT APPEAL.

Convicted Man Gets 25 Years But Still Maintains Innocense.

Montgomery.—Ben F. McKee will not appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals from his sentence of 25 years in the Federal penitentiary imposed by the Federal Court for his part in the robbery of the Louisville & Nashville passenger train near Greenville, July 10, 1915.

After the sentence was imposed by Judge Henry D. Clayton and a petition or a new trial had been refused, McKee's attorneys made no request for the suspension of the sentence pending the appeal.

When Judge Clayton lectured McKee and told him he had no discretion but to give him 25 years after the jury had said he was guilty, McKee turned to the court and said: "Judge, there is no man on this earth who knows better than I do whether I am guilty or not guilty, and I am not guilty."

Judge Clayton told McKee the jury had reached the conclusion that he was guilty, but that if at any time in the future it could be shown he had no part in the hold-up, the judge and others in the court room would lend their assistance in a movement to have him released by pardon or parole.

Improving Plant.

Gadsden.—The Dwight Manufacturing Company, of Alabama City, is installing new equipment to cost, it is estimated, over $60,000. Three new boilers with a horse-power of 1,500 are being installed and a new 1,500-horse-power engine will be placed by February 1. A number of other improvements are being placed, including all conveniences for their employes. The Dwight Company is running at full capacity now and employs more than 1,200 operatives. The only difficulty thus far experienced is the coal shortage caused by the general car shortage.

Mobile Man Suicides.

Mobile.—Hunter Lineberger, aged 33 years, is dead as a result of a self-inflicted bullet wound through his heart. Lineberger killed himself at the home of his uncle, Lock Brown, 1051 Marine street. He left a letter to his uncle and aunt, asking forgiveness. Lineberger had been in ill health.

Cupid on Vacation.

Decatur.—Dan Cupid was evidently on his autumn vacation in Morgan county during October, an examination of the marriage records in the probate office showed. During 1914 the office issued 43 licenses. Forty-two were issued in 1915 and only 30 last month.

Methodist Conference Adjourns.

Bessemer.—After a session of several days the Methodist Conference in session here adjourned. Much business pertaining to Methodists and Methodism was transacted. Before adjournment Woodlawn was chosen as the next meeting place of the conference.

Output Records Shattered

Gadsden.—The Gulf States Steel Company broke monthly output records in October, in seven departments—blast furnace, open hearth, blooming mill, rod mill, B. and A. Y. mill, barbwire mill, galvanized wire mill. In addition to breaking the monthly records, daily output records were broken in four of the departments. A. L. Conner, the superintendent, stated that the men were responsible for the increased output. He stated that he has the best bunch of men in the United States.

RUMANIANS WIN AGAINST TEUTONS

Von Mackensen's Forces Have Been Driven From Several Villages On Dobrudja Front

EVACUATED TOWNS BURNED

Austrians Are Attacking In Effort To Stop The Drive Of The Italians At Trieste.

London.—After a week or more of doubt concerning operations in the Dobrudja region of Roumania, where the Teutonic allies had been marching almost unimpeded northward from the Black sea to the Danube, comes the report that the Roumanians have taken the offensive, probably aided by Russians, and compelled the enemy to retreat at several points.

On the Transylvania front, however, the Roumanians in the Jiul valley, who for some time had been holding the upper hand over the Austro-Germans, forcing them to give ground, have now been stopped, the Teutons having brought up reinforcements. In the Predeal Pass region, after heavy fighting, the Roumanians also have met with a reverse, being compelled to retreat after long and stubborn battles.

Fierce Fighting On West Front

All along the battle line in France between the Somme and Ancre rivers the Germans are tenaciously disputing attempts by the British and French to gain further ground.

Berlin says that fighting over a front of twelve miles the French and British suffered heavy casualties and won nothing except a local gain in the St. Pierre Vaast wood. London admits that the British were compelled to give back to the Germans ground the British had previously won at the Butte de Warlencourt.

In the St. Pierre Vaast wood, however, the French made a further advance in the northern part of the wood and captured additional prisoners—six hundred of whom were taken in the fighting of November 5 and 6.

Rome reports that the Austrians are bringing up heavy reinforcements on the battle front north of Trieste. Here the Austrians apparently have taken the offensive, but nowhere have they been able to regain any of their lost positions, according to dispatches from Rome.

CUBA SEEKS THE RIGHT TO SUE NORTH CAROLINA

Bonds Valued at $2,186,000 Given To Aid Railroad Are Involved In The Suit

Washington.—In what was said to be the first suit ever begun in the Supreme Court by a foreign nation against one of the United States, attorneys for Cuba asked the Supreme court for leave to file an original petition against the state of North Carolina to secure payment of bonds valued at $2,186,000 subscribed by North Carolina to aid railroad construction in that state nearly fifty years ago. Payment, it was alleged, has been refused.

The original jurisdiction of the Supreme court was invoked in the proceedings under the constitutional provision for initial procedure in that court of suits between foreign states and the United States, but Cuba's attorneys stated that there is no record of any former suit by a foreign state against an individual state of the Union.

The bonds involved in the proceedings begun were issued by North Carolina in subscriptions to aid construction of the Western North Carolina, Williamston and Tarboro, Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford and Eastern railroads.

One Jockey Is Killed; Two Injured

Baltimore.—One jockey was killed and two others were seriously injured at Pimlico race track. Harry Tanzey, 23 years old, Brooklyn, N. Y., fell with his mount in the second steeplechase race and was killed. A little later "Tom" Parette had his ribs and wrist broken by a fall. In the last race Clinton Preece broke his leg when his mount fell.

Wilson Urges Test For Postmasters

New York.—President Wilson declared himself as favoring legislation providing for the appointment of postmasters of all classes through competitive civil service examination in a recent letter. He said that the postmaster general in his annual report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, recommended to congress the enactment of legislation which would permit of the extension of the classified civil service so as to include the position of postmaster at offices of the third class.

Submarine Torpedoes Dreadnaught

London.—A British submarine operating in the North sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnaught type, making a hit. The amount of damage inflicted is not known, the admiralty announces. "One of our submarines operating in the North sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnaught type near the Danish coast. The vessel was hit, but the amount of damage is unknown as yet."

U. S. WAITING ON GERMANY

No Action Will Be Taken Regarding The Marina Affair Until Word Comes From Berlin

Washington.—So many conflicting elements have appeared in the destruction of the British ship Marina by a German submarine, with loss of American lives, that the incident threatens to fall into a technical discussion rather than a clean-cut issue of whether Germany has violated her pledges to the United States.

It became apparent that much which is essential to a determination of the responsibility remains undisclosed, if, indeed, the United States, Germany or Great Britain are in possession of the full facts. It appeared certain, however, that no move will be made by the United States until the German version of the affair, as well as of the destruction of the British ship Rowanmore by shellfire, with endangering of Americans, has been secured.

American Policy Not Changed

The only positive developments were the action of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, in asking his government to forward all details by wireless, and the issuance of a statement by Secretary Lansing that the investigation would be in no wise delayed because there is a political campaign in progress. This is Mr. Lansing's statement:

"The fact that a political campaign is in progress will in no way affect the practice of the department in negotiating and in making full investigation of cases of this sort. We shall do it as we always have with as much celerity as possible.

"I wish also to make another statement on a matter which has been brought to my attention. The question has been raised as to whether the policy of the president or the department in regard to submarine warfare since the Sussex was sunk has been changed. I wish to say emphatically that there has been no change in any particular."

U. S. RESERVE SYSTEM AID TO FOREIGN TRADE

It Will Give The United States Proper Place In Finance World, Says Harding

New York.—When conditions throughout the world approach normal, the federal reserve banking system of the United States will be the most powerful agency in assuring to this country a sound financial system at home and in securing for the country its proper place in the realm of world finance, declared W. P. G. Harding of Birmingham, Ala., governor of the federal reserve board, in an address before a forum of the New York chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Mobilization of the country's banking reserves by this system has not yet been fully accomplished, Mr. Harding said, but is approaching completion. The next installment of reserves, which is the last that will be obligatory and which will amount to $60,000,000, will be paid in on November 16, he said. This system, Mr. Harding asserted, has been established without even a seeming setback to the member banks out of whose resources a great reserve of $407,955,000 has been constructed.

Mr. Harding predicted that the federal reserve system is destined to play a much larger part in the development of America's foreign trade, chiefly through the powers of acceptance conferred on national banks.

91 Persons Perished In Ship Collision

Belfast.—The death list as a result of the disaster to the steamers Connemara and Retriever, in collision, is now set at 91. Eighty-two persons lost their lives on the Connemara and nine on the Retriever. The collision occurred at 8:30 in the evening, a mile off the coast. The sole survivor of the Retriever, James Boyle, was in the water half an hour clinging to an overturned boat which was washed ashore.

Marines Commended For Bravery

Washington.—First Sergeant Roswell Winans and Corporal Joseph A. Glowin of the marine corps have been commended by Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the navy, awarded medals of honor and $100 in cash for extraordinary valor displayed during the battle of Guayacanes in the Dominican republic on July 3.

Nicaragua Canal Pact Is Opposed

Washington.—Colombia has protested to the United States against the new canal route treaty with Nicaragua, it became known here, on the ground that the granting of a 99-year lease to this government by Nicaragua of Great Corn and Little Corn islands is a denial of Colombian sovereignty in those islands. Colombia claims that the islands, though recently subject to Nicaraguan administration, are part of her territory under the cedula of November 30, 1893 issued by the king of Spain.

Zayas Chosen President Of Cuba

Havana.—Returns received by the central electoral board indicates the election of Alfredo Zayas as president of Cuba. The Conservatives who supported President Menocal for re-election are hopeful, however, that belated returns will be so favorable to their candidate that he may overcome the lead of his rival. The results from provinces outside Havana are coming in very slowly. It is in those provinces that the Conservatives expect to get their heaviest votes.

PEOPLE TO NAME DELE...

New Constitution Will Be Framed ... A Body Of Poles To Be Selected Later

Berlin.—Polish provinces occupied by troops of the central powers," says a news agency, "were the scene of a great and momentous historic event. Germany and Austria-Hungary by joint action, proclaimed Warsaw and Lublin, the Kingdom of Poland, and re-established the right of the Polish nation to control its own destinies, to live an independent national life and to govern itself by chosen representatives of the nation.

A few days ago a Polish delegation had called upon the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. Its members were representative Poles of society and all creeds. They transmitted to the German government the wishes of the Polish nation which now have been granted to them.

"Thus the ancient kingdom of Poland from which in the past came famous rulers like the Jagellones (a dynasty founded by Jagello) which reigned in Poland from 1386 to 1572 and glorious soldiers like the great Sobieski (John III., King of Poland in 1674-1696) is now resurrected to new life. The Poles are free from Russian oppression, no more to be trodden under the heels of the Cossack. The liberty that had been destroyed a century ago on Russian instigation now is restored. The rule of the knout has been abolished. Poland has been given back to western civilization."

The new constitution of Poland will be framed by a body of Poles to be selected later. It is understood that the selection of these delegates will be left entirely to the decision of the people.

Autonomy For Galicia

Amsterdam.—Emperor Francis Joseph has addressed an autograph letter to Premir von Koerber, stating that it is his will when the new state of Poland comes into existence to grant Galicia the right independently to manage its own internal affairs. The emperor charges Premier von Koerber to prepare measures for the legal realization of this command.

PARRAL IS ABANDONED BY THE GEN. CARRANZA FORCES

Nothing Has Been Learned As To The Fate Of Americans In The City

El Paso, Texas.—Parral has been abandoned by the Carranza garrison under command of Gen. Luis Herrera, according to passengers arriving in Juarez by train from Chihuahua City. Nothing could be learned, however, of the Americans there, they said.

General Herrera was ordered to proceed to Escalon, a station on the Mexican Central railway, some distance below Jiminez, as the bandits still occupy Jiminez, according to the passengers. Conditions were reported rent in Chihuahua.

Four Americans arrived in Juarez from Chihuahua City, but could add nothing definite to the reports current in Chihuahua.

Chihuahua City, Mexico.—General Trevino said that as all telegraphic communication was cut between Chihuahua City and Parral, as well as to points south of Chihuahua City, he was unable to learn anything regarding Americans who had been in Parral. He said he would use every effort at his command, however, to get news of them as soon as communication was improved.

30 Miners Perished In Explosion

Birmingham.—Thirty miners perished in the Bessie mine disaster November 4. Rescuers having recovered sixteen bodies, were checked by the prevalence of black damp in the four most remote entries, and fourteen miners, killed by the deadly gas, are still entombed in the mine. The revised list of the victims of the disaster shows that eight white men and twenty-two negro miners lost their lives.

Urges League To Keep World Peace

New York.—Theodore Marburg, former United States minister to Belgium and who is now chairman of the committee on foreign organization of the League to Enforce Peace, in an address here, dealt with a constructive scheme of world statesmanship to be put into effect after the close of the war. Mr. Marburg proposed that former President Taft, who is the president of the League to Enforce Peace, should be sent to Europe at once to negotiate some plan of a joint guarantee of peace.

Six Men Killed; Forty Are Wounded

Everett, Wash.—At least six men were killed and forty others wounded in a fight at the Everett City wharf between 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who came here from Seattle on the steamer Verona, and a posse of 150 citizens. The exact number of casualties aboard the Verona is not known here. After the shooting, in which about one thousand shots were exchanged, the Verona turned around and started back to Seattle.

PRISONERS MUTILATED BY THE VILLA BANDITS

Their Ears Are Cut Off As Warning To Other Carranza Soldiers

El Paso, Texas.—Villa bandits are again cutting the ears from captive Carranza soldiers and then sending them back to their commands as a warning to other Carranza soldiers, says a Mexican refugee, who reached here from Jiminez.

Passengers arriving from Chihuahua City gave additonal details of the robbery of the passenger train which left Juarez. They said three passengers were hit when Villa bandits fired into the train. It was not known whether they were killed. The conductor, shot through the hip, was the son of an American, they said.

These passengers reported that eight of the Carranza guards escaped, the remaining twenty-nine, including Captain Guzman, being shot.

The passengers confirmed reports that passengers were robbed of their clothing.

New Orleans.—Sir Ernest Shackelton, the Antarctic explorer, arrived here from Panama and departed several hours later for San Francisco, whence he will start on a relief trip to the rescue of the ten members of Shackelton party who were left with scanty provisions on the west side of the Antarctic continent. The explorer said he expected to sail from San Francisco for Wellington, N. E., November 8, going thence to Denedin, where he and the rescue expedition will sail for the Antarctic.

that has led The through the bitter losed to seek a high plane of battle, now hope that all the bitter hat were brought into use e fight will be laid aside he future. We are all citi- Chilton county, and as such, common weal or a common e have and still contend that the ry undesirable features of personal enom which were brought to bear against Judge Reynolds, were entirely uncalled for and absolutely groundless, only gotten up for political effect. And this contention which we have heretofore held to, now grows stronger and causes us to hope that it may all be laid aside by everybody, and forgotten. The people have condemned it by their voice, and this should end it. Judge Reynolds is every bit man enough to lay aside these things now, and in accepting the office given him, render to each and every citizen of the county, an equally just and efficient administration. And we think those who opposed him in the campaign should likewise be men enough to abide by the verdict of the people without further objection; and we believe they will not hesitate to do this.

We desire here and now to plead with every citizen of the county, no mater what may have been your ideas in the campaign, to meet every other citizen with mind and heart unprejudiced, and strike hands with one another for the very best that may come to us all out of a fair, square and peaceful administration of the affairs of Chilton county.

The Thorsby delegation which came to Clanton on Tuesday night to celebrate the county Republican victory was a lively bunch. They paraded the streets of Clanton till a late hour.

Tuesday's victory for the Republicans in the county will teach some recently conspicuous political "forces" a few things about politics. They will learn that they cannot win by the dirty means which they have sought to bring before the voters this time.

The people of Chilton county have re-affirmed their faith in the Republican party. In Tuesday's election they gave the whole Republican ticket the biggest majority ever recorded in the county.

This in spite of the fact that the opposition in the campaign have waged the bitterest fight ever known.

But the fortifications of the Republicans have proved impregnable, and no Democrat has been able to scale the wall.

Those candidates who were defeated, should not, cannot, nor will believe, take any exceptions t of the expressed opinpeople. It is their duty he part of true citizen and e administration to flect honor on our county just as though they had never taken any part in a political campaign. We believe they are content with the outcome, and will be as true and loyal for the best interests of the county as ever before.

Judge Reynolds spoke to more men in front of the court house at midnight Tuesday night than the Democrats were able to get together at any time during their campaign. The eagerness of the people for Judge Reynolds was deep seated in their hearts and unabating. They were elated by his closing speech, and many shed tears of gratification as they clapsed his hand with the consciousness of such a wonderful victory of the peoples cause.

To the candidates who were in the campaign, we would like to drop this thought: The people have expressed their confidence in you and given you the offices by their votes; now it is the untarnished duty of each and everyone of you to see that you render in full measure to the county every service the voters believed you would when they voted for you. Those who voted for you, did so, not alone because they believed you would serve them best individually, but also because they believed you would serve everybody else best. Now you should not foget the duty that waits for you to fulfill. We believe each and everyone of you will fully acquit yourselves.

The suit of R. A. Aldridge of Chilton county, who claims $50,000 for alleged personal injuries, as a result of an accident on the Lousville and Nashville Railroad, was taken up Wednesday in the United States Court. The case was removed from the Circuit Court of Chilton county because the safety appliance act of Congress was involved.

REPUBLICANS CARRY COOSA

Returns from Tuesday's election show that a Republican county ticket has been elected in Coosa county. The ticket is composed of Geo. H. Stuart for Probate Judge, O. J. Glenn for Circuit Clerk, J. R. Willis for Tax Assessor and C. W. Thornell for Tax Collector.

BANNER REPUBLICAN BEAT

Providence, Beat 16, still retains its position as the banner Republican beat in the county. There were only four Democratic votes recorded there on Tuesday, which is a gain of one vote for the Democrats over former elections. Cane Creek, Beat 11, comes next with 5 Democrats.

A MIDNIGHT NIGHT SPEECH

Never before did Judge Reynolds utter words more full of feeling and gratitude than he did on Tuesday night at midnight as he stood on the steps of the court house and addressed a body of about three hundred men.

He expressed full appreciation of the way the people have stood by him in this recent fight. More than ever before have the people of Chilton county taken full possession of the big patriotic heart of Judge Reynolds, and he did not hesitate to pour out its contents to them in words that made every listener glad.

The voters have stood by him through the bitterest political campaign ever recorded in our history; and now it is Judge Reynolds' turn to render back to the people the most loyal service that has ever been given by a man in our highest executive chair. This he is fully able and man enough to do.

We hail our victor as the valiant warrior in the peoples greatest fight; a stalwart champion of the Republican cause; our next Probate Judge, tried, faithful an dtrue.

We wish to commend the people of Chilton county for the everlasting stamp of disapproval which they have placed upon the campaign methods and political tactics practiced by the Democratic-Independent "Forces" in the campaign just closed. We think the people have shown their hands with clearness and precision. They have shown that they still have the courage and fortitude to hand out just what they think is deserving to a coterie of demogagues who have messed up things in the frightful way the Democrats have seen fit to attempt this time. Let this be a fair warning to such persons, that they learn a lesson for their own good.

VOTERS OF COUNTY APPROVE MR. HERROD

Commissioner Re-elected to serve another Four Years

That the people of Chilton county approve of an officer who stands by them in his official acts is borne out by the result of the vote for Mr. W. T. Herrod of, Tuesday. Mr. Herrod has been county commissioner for the past four years, and has stood for what he thought to be the right course, even in times when the strain on him was great and pressing. He deserved the re-indorsement of the people, and they gave it to him on Tuesday. He defeated his opponent, Mr. Weaver, by a large majority.

JUDGE REYNOLDS EXPRESSES WORDS OF APPRECIATION

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 8, 1916.
To the People of Chilton County:

The campaign is over, and I am glad of it. I hope now that the unpleasant part of it will remain in the past. We will still be neighbors, and we must mix and mingle with each other and it would be much pleasanter if we could forget the past.

I have not words to express my appreciation to the people of Chilton county for the loyal support they gave me in the election. My heart is running over with gratitude for every person that was my friend in the last campaign. I wish I had the time and opportunity to go to every supporter of mine, and take them by the hand and tell themhow much I appreciate their support and friendship, but I can only take this means them.

I have one time in life reached the place where friends were worth more to me than money, and I promise every citizen of Chilton county that I will do my duty as I see it, and I want every person in the county to feel that they have a right in the Probate office, when I take charge of the office. I will appreciate at all times the advice of the people; in fact I quote it, for I will need the advice of all the good people of the county in trying to redeem the county's credit, and once more get the county back where it once was.

I want to give six years of my life in doing all I can for the people of the county, and then I want to retire from public life. I will have no axe to grind. The only object I will have is to do the very best I can for all the people, and I will be glad at all times to help every one I can. This great victory we have just won, is not any one man's victory, but it is a victory for all the people, and it could never have been won, only by all doing their duty.

I want to say in conclusion that I have been in public life for over 25 years, but I have never been in any campaign where every body done their duty so well as in this. Our Chairman, Sheriff Harris, has conducted a campaign on high planes, and we all take off our hats to him; he was opposed to any mud-slinging, and we are now proud of the victory he has won by the people's help.

Hon. J. O. Thompson left our county with a high opinion of the Republicans, and he said he thought we had the best political organization in this county there was in the United States.

I want us to stand together in all public matters, and stand for the rule of all the people, and for the upbuilding of our county.

I promise you to be your servant and not your boss, and when I can serve you, do not fail to call on me, for it will never be too dark nor too cold for me to help you.

I wish to commend the Union-Banner for the very admirable way it has conducted its very important part in the campaign. The paper has been unrelenting in its support of the Republican party and the peoples cause, and I wish to thank the management for such a splendid effort that has been put forth.

I want to thank the Democrats that helped me. Some of them here in town stod by me to the last, and my heart is running over with gratitude for them. Many Democrats voted for me where I was raised, and I fully appreciate their support.

I want to thank the ladies that helped me, for many here in Clanton were my friends. I want to thank the school children for their support. In fact I want to in conclusion again thank all that spoke even a kind word for me, during the awful ordeal I was going through with.

I want to say to Hon. J. O. Middleton and Prof. Moore that I fully appreciate ther efforts in my behalf. The weather was never too cold, nor the sun too hot, for them to go out and battle for the rights of the common people.

We have won a great victory, and I hope all that were elected will do their duty to the people.

I want to especially thank those old Confederate Soldiers at the Soldiers Home and throughout Chilton county who stood by me from the start until the finish. I shall never forget them.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

THE PEOPLE HAVE THE THANKS OF MR. FOSHEE

Clanton, Ala., Nov 10, 1916.
To the People of Chilton County:

I wish to express to the people of the county my heartfelt thanks for their loyal support in the campaign. I feel greatly indebted to the people who supported me in this fight and shall at all times stand ready to assist you in any way that I can.

And to those that opposed me I wish to say that, that was your privilege, and that at all times you will find a welcome place in my office, and that you will receive from me courteous treatment at all times. gendered in the campaign will be laid aside by all, and that we may all use our best efforts, to gain the greatest good to the greatest number in the county.

In conclusion I wish again to thank the people for their support, and to assure those that opposed me that I have no ill will toward any one.

Respectfully,
M. D. FOSHEE.

WHY GIVE CHILDREN OIL AND SALTS

Little Alabama Boy Writes About a Pleasant Medicine.

Loundas P. Brindley, of Somerville, is a happy little boy, and he has written to say: "I have had a heavy headache and vomited twice to six times a day, and it has taken just four doses of Granger Liver Regulator to make me well." Loundas' mother has found out that there is no use in torturing children by giving them nasty tasting castor-oil and salts when they don't mind taking Granger Liver Regulator, which is a harmless, vegetable compound, that acts on them just right. Your druggist sells it. Ask him.

EDUCATIONAL DAY A BIG FAIR FEATURE

Enormous Parade of Fifteen Hundred School Children and Autos March through streets.

Last Thursday, which was Club and Educational Day at the County Fair, was in no doubt the biggest feature of the week.

The school parade was a splendid demonstration. Near 1500 school children participated.

Two schools, Verbena and Cedar Grove made 10 per cent in attendance for the day, and the special prize offered by the Fair was divided between them. Out of 134 pupils Cooper school brought 130. Samaria and Clanton public schools made percentage of 98. There were twenty schools in atendance.

The Thorsby Institute and Chilton County High School were represented by special floats in the parade.

The one-crop farmer was typified by a splendid caricature by Mr. W. H. Foshee. It showed that the cotton farmer is a thing of the past.

This was a big day for the Fair. The receipts were larger and the attendance greater than for any other day.

Fig. 2 ...ows a pattern for the board, but be- ...ause milk cards vary in size you had better measure the card for which the board is to be used, to see that it fits, before you begin work. The margin around the card should be about as in Fig. 1. Bevel the edges of the board as shown. Then prepare the strip A (Fig. 2), and fasten it with brads along the lower edge of the board for the card to rest upon. Give the board two coats of shellac, varnish, or paint; then when it is dry, screw four hooks into it at the points indicated (B, Fig. 2), to hold the edges of the card, and a pair of screweyes into the top edge, for hangers.

Mother would appreciate the seam ripper shown in Fig. 3. All that you need is a safety-razor blade, and a short stick whittled round for a handle. Slot one end of the handle, slip the blade into the slot, and fasten with small nails driven into the handle and through a pair of the holes in the blade. Varnish the handle, and the little tool will be completed.

Fig. 4 shows a handy holder for safety matches. The cover of the safety-match box sets down over the block E (Fig. 7), to hold the matches and provide the match scratcher. Block E raises the match ends an inch above the cover. The safety-match box stands on shelf B, between ends C, (Fig. 7), for a burnt-match receptacle.

The match-box holder may be built up of cigar-box strips or wood one-quarter or three-eighths-inch thick. Fig. 5 shows a pattern for the back board A, and Fig. 6 shows the patterns for the other parts. Fasten block E to shelf D, in the center of its length, and about one-sixteenth of an inch inside of the back edge; then nail B and D to the ends of pieces C (Fig. 7), so their back edges are in a line with one another. Screw a pair of screweyes into the top of back board A, for hangers.

A Consolation.

Well, Christmas time has come again
To find us all so poor
We've spent enough in buying gifts
To finance one world's tour.
But let's console our empty jeans
With these few words of cheer
Those Christmas joys and Christmas pains
Do come but once per year.

Lesson One.

"Do you know how to run an automobile?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. Chuggins.

"What's the first thing a man who has bought a machine ought to do?"

"Begin work on a set of New Year resolutions relating to economy, temperance and all the other meritorious forms of self-restraint."

Not That One.

"Are you going to Miss Oldgirl's mistletoe party?"

"No; not unless she promises to stand from under."

Christmas Greetings

By William Marion Reedy

MERRY CHRISTMAS to you all. Let yourself surrender to the season. Don't be afraid or ashamed to be a bit soft toward everybody. Obey that impulse to kindness. Throw off that inhibition on spontaneous friendliness. Note how it gets you more than you give. Reflect how splendid it would be to carry the feeling on beyond Christmas always. Don't let the horror and misery of the great war oppress you. In the conflict men are giving all they have and are for ideals. They are making and shaping a new world and a better one, building it with the supreme sacrifice of self. This world is what we make it. The love habit will beautify and sweeten it. Every little bit helps to make a mighty fire of love eventually to burn all hate away. Merry Christmas.

VENGEANCE ALL HE SOUGHT

When Crowd Learned Nature of Christmas Gift It Left Him to Commit His Crime.

It was Christmas eve, and a stout man with a large package beneath his arm hurried through the crowded thoroughfare, closely pursued by a small man of haggard aspect, with a thick stick in his hand.

On and on, relentlessly, the forlorn man dogged the other, and those who passed him heard an occasional word drop from his lips, indicative of despair or awful terror.

Finally, some of the crowd turned and followed the pair, determined not to miss the fun. The crowd grew larger, and finally a bold man went up to the person of haggard countenance.

"What's the matter?"

The little man turned.

"Matter?" he echoed. "See that man with a bundle? He is my next-door neighbor, and in that bundle he has a cornet which he has bought for his small son to play upon."

But the crowd waited no longer. It surged ahead and left him to work out his own salvation, and when peace had been restored the remains of the battered man and a battered cornet lay upon the pavement.

JES' 'FORE CHRISTMAS

They're acting mighty funny up at our house nowadays,
They're different than they used to be an'
changed in many ways;
Not long ago if I should want some toy
upon a shelf,
They used to make me get a chair and
hunt for it myself!
Las' night I wanted building blocks and went to get 'em, too,
An' three of 'em got up an' said: "I'll get 'em down for you."

I used to have to hunt for things that somehow went astray,
They let me open bureau drawers without a word to say;
Ma would sew and sis would play, an'
pa would read his book,
An' never think of gettin' from their chairs to help me look.
But las' night when I started in to find my 'lectric car
They all exclaimed: "We'll hunt for it;
you stay right where you are!"

I've never known 'em be so kind in all my life before;
They'll jump to wait on me an' find the things I'm huntin' for;
Although they used to grumble an' to say I was a pest,
I'm not a bother any more—but why, I haven't guessed.
I only know that when I want some toy
that's on a shelf,
They're mighty quick to see that I don't
hunt for it myself.

—Edgar A. Guest, in Chicago Daily News.

HIS SCHEME.

"I'm going to dabble a little in stocks to buy Christmas presents."

"But suppose you lose?"

"In that case I'll have a good excuse for not making any."

Wanted a Short Night.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my son."

"Is it a fact that the days are getting longer?"

"Yes, my boy."

"Well, pop, that ought to make the night before Christmas shorter then, shouldn't it?"

ASKS REMOVAL OF COUNTY SOLICITOR

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL CLAIMS LOWNES PROSECUTOR IGNORED THE LAW.

DOINGS AT STATE CAPITAL

Proceedings of Public Events—News of An Important Nature Given.

—Montgomery.

As a result of the action of Judge J. C. Wood of the county court of Lowndes county in imposing the minimum fine of $50 each on W. J. Toole and two negroes, James Hudson and Aaron Walker, of Montgomery, for violating the prohibition law, Attorney General W. L. Martin issued a caustic statement declaring that he is herewith asking the circuit solicitor to remove C. E. Gordon, solicitor of Lowndes county. He declares that the conduct of the county solcitor "was opposed to the interests of the state" and that "he might be impeached for his conduct." Mr. Martin also said that the imposition of such a fine "is merely to license the liquor traffic."

Urged to Enforce Game Law.

State Game and Fish Commissioner John H. Wallace, Jr., has issued special instructionst o the various county game and fish wardens of the State directing their attention to the fact that the open season on quali and deer begins on the first of November and urging them to be on the alert tc apprehend all persons who may hunt or attempt to hunt without licenses or who may exceed the bag limit of twenty-five quali or one buck for any one day's hunt.

Commissioner Wallace has impressed upon the minds of the county wardens that it is a violation of the game and fish laws for a person to transport game on a common carrier without first having had issued to him license as prescribed by law.

Teachers Paid Promptly.

Governor Henderson stated that he has issued instructions to the State treasurer not to pay salary warrants of state officials and employees drawing more than $100 a month. Those getting less than $100 were paid. The governor said the condition of the treasurery demanded the action.

He wanted it distinctly understood that the teachers will get their money and said he has made arrangements for them to be paid. He deemed it right that such employees as pedagogues, who have been off the pay roll during a part of the year, should have their money.

Will Fight Birmingham Claim.

When the case of City of Birmingham, which attacks the constituionality of the Brown bill, giving the Alabama Public Service Commission authority to approve the transfer of public utilities, comes before the Supreme Court November 16, the Public Service Commission will be represented by the Attorney-General will contend that the law is constitutional and that the Commission does have authority to pass upon all tranfers.

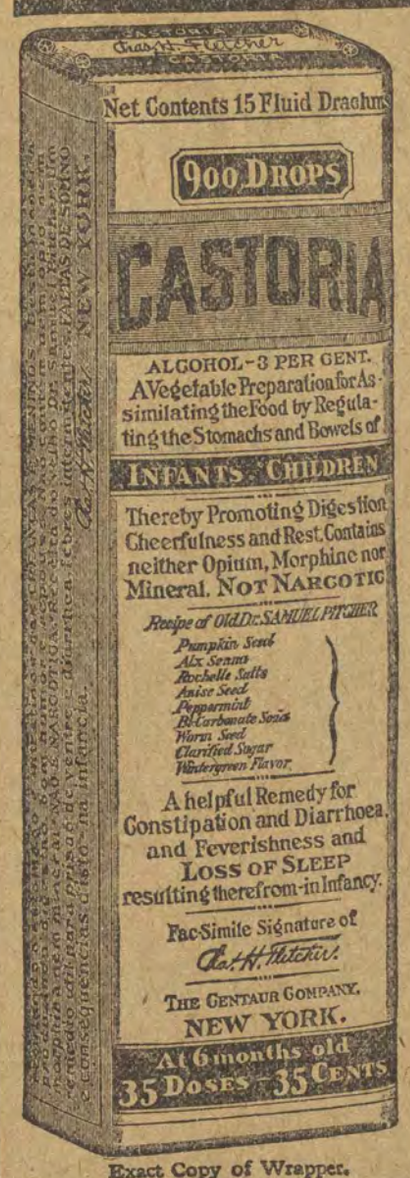
Banks Are Prospering.

North Alabama and Southeast Alabama are in good financial condition according to bank reports which are coming from State banks to the Banking Department in response to a call issued. This indicates that the money in Alabama is where the storms and boll weevils did not touch during the crop growing season.

Large Sum Paid State.

In one day $70,000 came to the State officials, and after being certified to was placed to the credit of the State in the office of the State treasury; $21,000 came from the State Convict Department, whie the remainder was sent in by tax collectors of several counties in the State.

Kenedy Spends Nothing.



Samuel P. eKnnedy, of Anniston, has not spent one penny in his campaign for President of the Alabam Public Service Commission since the Democratic primary. He made this statement to the Secretary of State in compliance with the corrupt practice act. Many other Democratic nominees made reports and only in a few were the expenditure of any money reported.

Mobile County Man Paroled.

Alseed White, of Mobile County, was granted a parole by Governor Henderson, conditioned on his future good conduct. White had been convicted of burglary and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Refund for Corporations.

Domestic corporations that paid taxes on their capital stock and solvent credits for the four years ending with 1913, are entitled to a refund of the solvent credit taxes, according to an opinion rendered the state auditor by Lawrence E. Brown, assistant attorney general. The latter holds, substantially, that the solvent credit taxation is double taxation if the capital stock has been assessed; that it is erroneous and void and that the corporations should be refunded.

To Live Long!

A recipe given by a famous physician for long life was: "Keep the kidneys in good order! Try to eliminate through the skin and intestines the poisons that otherwise clog the kidneys. Avoid eating meat as much as possible; avoid too much salt, alcohol, tea. Drink plenty of water."

For those past middle life, for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation, as backache, scalding "water," or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, "rusty" joints, stiffness, get Anuric at the drug store. This is a wonderful eliminator of uric acid and was discovered by Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. If your druggist does not keep it send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial package and you will know that it is many times more potent than lithia and that it dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine —Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. Mayme Asbach, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCasland, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles cause many annoying symptoms and great inconvenience both day and night.

Unhealthy kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results may be expected; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease may constantly undermine the system.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, try taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the famous kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys improve, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. This gives you the opportunity to prove the remarkable merit of this medicine. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

The KITCHEN CABINET

This world which clouds thy world with doubt
Is but a carpet inside out.
It's when we view these shreds and ends,
We know not what the whole intends;
So, when on earth, things look but odd,
They're working out some scheme of God.
What now seem random strokes, will there
In order and design appear.
Then shall we praise what here we spurned;
For then the carpet shall be turned.

WAYS WITH PEANUTS.

Peanuts are so cheap, so common and so wholesome that one should learn more ways of serving them. In different localities it is called by various names, goober, ground nut, ground pea and earth nut. It is classed with nuts, but it really belongs to the leguminous plants, to which peas and beans belong. Peanut oil used as a shortening is a good substitute for olive oil. The peanut forms a very nutritious article of food, exceeding three times its weight in beef.

Peanut Soup.—Grind five cents worth of peanuts after removing the brown shell, add two cupfuls of strained oatmeal water, or rice water, boiled well, add two cupfuls of milk, season with salt, pepper and butter and thicken with flour or a beaten egg.

Peanut Meatose.—Mix two cupfuls of peanut butter with two cupfuls of tomato juice; add a cupful of cornstarch and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Stir and mix well; pour into baking powder cans and steam five hours. Serve cut in slices.

Nut Pie Crust.—Take three tablespoonfuls of peanut butter to a cupful of flour and use as in making ordinary pastry, adding cold water to make a mixture to roll. Grind fresh roasted peanuts and mix with mayonnaise or any good salad dressing, spread on buttered bread for a sandwich filling.

A handful of fresh roasted peanuts crushed with a rollingpin and sprinkled over head lettuce with a little shredded onion and a French dressing, makes a most delicious salad.

A half cupful of crushed peanuts sprinkled over the top of a custard pie before going into the oven is a pleasant change.

A little salt codfish is good to prevent nausea, either car sickness or seasickness is relieved by it.

There is no action so slight nor so mean, but it may be done to a great purpose, and ennobled thereby; nor is any purpose so great but that slight acts may help it.—Ruskin.

HUNTER'S GAME BAG.

Rabbits are in season all winter and plentiful in most districts and they are good, if they are well cooked and seasoned. Use a cleaver to divide the portions, as one does chicken, saute in a little hot fat, then stew in a casserole with onion, a little lemon juice and a cupful of any kind of soup stock, or a little kitchen bouquet with water will do for stock; cook three hours or until the rabbit is tender; make a brown sauce and serve with the sauce, garnished with parsley or water cress.

Curried Pheasant.—Melt a half cupful of butter in a saucepan, add two chopped onions, and brown; then strain out the onion and lay in the pheasant, cut at the joints in neat pieces, fry for five minutes, sprinkle with a tablespoonful of curry powder and cook five minutes longer; then add the fried onions, a chopped apple, two cupfuls of stock, salt and pepper to taste and simmer one hour. Add the lemon juice just before serving. Place the meat in the center of a hot platter and surround it with well seasoned boiled rice.

Squirrel Pie.—Arrange thin slices of bacon in the bottom of a deep baking dish, season with salt and pepper; add a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one tablespoonful of mixed herbs and a cupful of white sauce. Cut two squirrels in serving-sized pieces and place them over the bacon; cover with a layer of sliced potatoes and place a cover of puff paste or any rich pastry will do. Bake an hour in a hot oven. Add another cupful of white sauce through the vent at the top; brush with egg and brown.

Venison Steak.—Lay the steak in a mixture of two tablespoonfuls of oil, one of vinegar and let it lie for an hour, turning it often. Drain and fry in a hot frying pan or broil before a hot fire. Serve with brown gravy and spiced grape jelly.

Some foods are of themselves so stimulating that they answer the purpose of a condiment and a food; such are onions, peppers and garlic. Herbs of various kinds also add their value as condiments and flavor.

Roast Opossum.—Soak the opossum over night in salted water, then score the skin every quarter of an inch. Place two chopped carrots, two onions, one green pepper, a bay leaf and a blade of mace, two cloves and a clove of garlic in a baking pan. Put in the opossum and roast slowly. Baste often and serve with guava jelly.

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT'S MERCURY! DANGER

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Wonderful Discovery Destroying Sale of Calomel Here.

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless, and can not salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—Adv.

Phoney Fortune.

"My wife played a great trick on a Gypsy the other day."

The fat plumber was the speaker.

"What did she do?" asked the thin carpenter.

"The Gypsy wanted to tell her fortune with some coffee grounds."

"Yes."

"And after she was through my wife asked her if the coffee grounds possessed some peculiar charms for fortune telling."

"What did the Gypsy say?"

"She said they did."

"Then what?"

"Then my wife gave her the laugh and refused to pay her."

"Why?"

"Because the sediment in the cup wasn't coffee grounds at all. We use a substitute."—Youngstown Telegram.

GOT HEMLOCK SEED CHEAP

Englishman's Shrewd Scheme for Procuring Drug That Commanded Good Price on Market.

Mr. Pickwick's valet and all-around servant, Samuel Weller, whose limited acquaintance with physicians and apothecaries did not hamper his festive imagination in the relation of medical novelties which were heard with wonder and amazement by Mr. Pickwick and his friends, should have had in his repertoire the following from the London Garden: Every autumn a man used to bring to a wholesale drug house in London a quantity of hemlock seed which he sold at half the market price. The curiosity of a member of the house at last becoming aroused he asked the man how he could afford to sell the drug so cheaply. After being promised that nothing would be done to interfere with his business he described his method. Every spring he filled his pockets with the seed and went out into the country. Wherever he saw a good wide hedgerow he sowed the seed broadcast. Then he went his way and worried no more over his crop until the fall, when he revisited the scene of his labors. He would then call the farmer's attention to the "weeds" in his hedge, offering to cut them down for a shilling a hedge, an offer which the farmer gladly accepted. Thus was the ground furnished free and he was paid to cut the harvest.

CAPTAIN GOT NEW TROUSERS

Incident That Has More Than a Touch of Comedy Occurred on the Isonzo Front.

How near tragedy and comedy are in the happenings along the battle line is shown by this incident of the fighting on the Isonzo river front.

A Caproni fighting aeroplane that had gone from the Italian side was hit by the antiaircraft guns and fell within the Austrian lines. The pilot was killed, the observer was somewhat scratched, but otherwise unhurt. His trousers, however, were ripped "from A to Z."

Captain Amegliano, the captured flyer, was inconsolable, and to an Austrian officer who sympathized with him he said:

"My poor comrade will be buried and I cannot even pay him my last respects—not in this gear."

"If that is all," remarked the Austrian, "we'll soon mend that." And, after obtaining permission, he went up in his Fokker machine and threw a letter into the Italian line, acquainting them with the fact, and requesting "a pair of new trousers for Captain Amegliano."

Sure enough, an hour or so later there was an Italian machine high in the air, and a package dropped that contained a laurel wreath for the dead and a pair of trousers for the living.

Strong Drinks Irritate

Strong drinks like beer, whiskey, tea and coffee, irritate the kidneys and habitual use tends to weaken them. Daily backache, with headache, nervousness, dizzy spells and a rheumatic condition should be taken as a warning of kidney trouble. Cut out, or at least moderate, the stimulant, and use Doan's Kidney Pills. They are fine for weak kidneys. Thousands recommend them.

PATES CHAPEL.

School with its goodly enrollment is progressing nicely. The energit boys and girls are rapidly showing their interest, not only in their regular school work, but also in the way of improvements and the prosperity of the community.

A box supper for the purpose of raising money with which to purchase some much needed articles for the school was given Saturday night, Nov. 4th, by the school improvement association of this place. The following program was sucessfully carried out:

The Childrens' Vows—by Reese Wells, James Maddox and John Pate.

Seeing Things at Night—by Clifford Wells.

Two National Songs—by school.

The President—by NettieCaton.

A Boy and his Stomach—by Chester Maddox.

An Address on the Educational Amendment—by Prof. G. J. Thompson.

Auctioneering off the boxes—by Mr. Landrum of Thorsby Institute.

A voting contest for the prettiest girl present and the ugliest man present.

The amount raised above expenses was $13.35. This looks to be a small amount but we think it good considering the present conditions of the time. We wish to thank the neighboring schools for their hearty cooperation and aid in this matter.

The attendance of Miss Rubie Wright, teacher of Mt. Carmel school some of her pupils, and Miss Angell, librian of Thorsby Institute and a host of the Institute boys and girls added much enthusiasm to the evening, especially to the voting contests. Ethel Wells of this school, having received the largest number of votes, was given the box of candy. Mr. Landrum, of Thorsby Institute was the fortunate gentleman, who won the cake.

We regret that more of Chilton county voters were not present to hear Mr. Thompson's convincing speech on the Amendment and trust those who were present wil adhere to his advice, for we feel sure he did the subject justice.

Trusting the evening was enjoyed by all visitors, we wish to say in conclusion that it was a round of pleasure to Pates Chapel school and teacher.

Collins Chapel

The people of this plac eare all busy gathering velvet beans and sowing their fall grain.

Our Sunday school is progressing very nicely. We have made some improvements in our Sunday school and hope they will make it better. Our literary school is also progressing nicely under the principalship of Prof. J. L. Harris. We have an enrollment of about 106 pupils we hope this number will increase. The school took in the county fair last Thursday and reported a nice time.

Our prayer meeting is still progressing, but we would like to see more of the old people get interested in both the prayer meeting and the Sunday school, 'tis true that we have a few old people that are faithful but I think it is about time more of the old people were waking up to a sense of their duty, if you let the Sunday school and prayer meeting go dead the consequence is that the whole community is dead spirtually, so we want to see not only our community but the adjacent communities flourish with christanity, that being true we should all put our shoulders to the wheel of progress and exert our mental and spiritual powers in a way that will mean something to our community and to other communities, and we would also like to see more of our young people taking a part in the service. Most of the young people attend the service but they do not take part in them as they should. People talk about hard times and say it is on account of the political management that the states and counties have been under for the past three years, but I think it is all hinged on the carlesness of the people from a spiritual standpoint. I believe that if the people would take to attending church and Sunday school more that these calamities such as "the plague," Mr. Boll Weevil, would not be so great on the people, but I believe that people are and have been living too high, now our creator is sending these things to conquer and bring the people down. So lets stop looking at the political affairs so much, and look to the light side of the thing and strive to do more in the future for the betterment of our churches and Sunday schools than we have ever done in the past, and then you will see our country prosper and flourinsh with christianity. Our people are to some extent drifting away from christianity to vanity and we must wake up to a sense of our duty toward christianity and civilization if we shall prosper in this world and also the world to come.

Our singing society met and sang last Sunday afternoon. We were very glad to have with us Prof. Baxley who sang some for us, and also the Messrs. Evan and Clanerce Parrish. The society will meet next 3rd Sunday afternoon. Everybody invited.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, NOVEMBER 16, 1916. NUMBER 33.

THE WEST TAKES ALL CREDIT OR BLAME FOR THE ELECTION RESULT

Westerners take Solace in "Handing one" to the East, and particularly to New York.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Now that what happened may for all practical purposes be conceded, the question, how it happened, takes first place, and although there is no profit in vain speculation, still here in Chicago one gets an angle of vision on the net result which is different from that of the East.

Answers to the question, "Why was Hughes defeated?" vary, according as one asks old stalwart Republicans, new halfbreed Republicans, Progressives, Democrats, Socialists or women.

"It was the solid South, and damn 'em, they're a menace to the country. The West has a right to its delusions, it at least thinks and votes accordingly," so believe those who blame the solid South. "But the South doesn't think, it just votes and it votes the Democratic ticket because it is declasse to vote any other ticket."

It was the West," say others, as indeed it was, or a remarkably big chunk of the West But that doesn't tell the whole story, because there were surprising exceptions. And this answer, whether from Democrats or Republicans, seems to be largely a matter of pride.

Republicans looked the figures over and are inclined to boast a little because the trick was turned "without New York."

"Handed One" to the East.

New York is regarded as synonymous with richness and fatness and complacency of power of numbers and money. As long as it had to have some Western Republicans display considerable resignation, because, after all, the West "handed one" to the East.

But when Democrats talk about the victory which the West has won over the East they stutter and splutter and wring your hand off in their enthusiasm. Charles F. Murphy may as well give up being a Democrat; he isn't wanted in the new Democracy, and the East never again will cast the deciding vote in a Democratic convention. Mr. Wilson, as a southerner, may begin to shiver if he seeks a third term, for the mighty West is in a mood now to have the candidates of all parties come form its ample bosom.

It was the women of the West; so say a few women and many men. They did it because "He kept us out of war." That is the masculine view. They did it because of Wilson's "social measures and programme." This is the opinion of Mrs. George Bass, who is disappointed because the women of Illinois took a decidedly contrary position. She was Western woman's manager for the Democrats.

Ten suffrage states went for Wilson, and two, Oregon and Illinois, for Hughes, and the men and women of all twelve, as far as results now show, thought and voted very much alike. The sex line wasn't drawn. It was the Progressives of California, say Progressives of Illinois. They were sore because Hughes didn't show Hiram Johnson more attention, and they say he lost the Presidency of the United States right then.

Wounds Which May Never Heal.

Johnson himself, sincere as he may have been, couldn't help it, they say. The differences between Republicans and Johnson men go down to bedrock and then some. There are wounds which never will be healed in this California generation.

It was pussy-footing on the great international issues, pandering to Germans and muzzling Roosevelt, keeping him deliberately out of the country where he would have done the most good for party organizations an interest which was held higher than the election of Hughes are among the charges. How much truth there is in charges such as these, born of chagrin and disappointment, it is impossible to say. They are not made by the Western Republican managers in charge at Chicago.

It was Ohio. Republicans here who were in the thick of the fight put a great deal of blame on Eastern management because of Ohio. Here was a normally Republican state, with 24 electoral votes, which went for Wilson "because the campaign wasn't begun until the last moment." "Look what we did with Indiana and Illinois and Iowa." Ohio was not in charge of Western campaign headquarters.

It was not the labor vote. Everybody here agrees on that and is glad it is plain that Mr. Hughes's opposition to the Adamson act was not responsible for his defeat. The voice of the East and of the great industrial centers was loud enough to insure everybody of that.

West Talking of the Future

Such are the first hasty thoughts of the West, or so much of it as is now represented here. They probably do not come near a complete diagnosis of a complicated disease. But the West, speaking of that element which doesn't thank God for Woodrow Wilson, already is talking of the future and is beginning to make loudly vocal the feeilng that future must be made out of a Western pattern.

It is the opinion here that if one single force turned the tremendous Western tide toward Wilson it was the force born of the belief or suspicion or impression that the money-eyed East wanted Hughes. The loud pedal—and it was kept very loud—on the news stories that millions were were being bet at odds on the Republicans in Wall Street alone gained thousands and thousands of Western votes for Wilson.

LOCAL U. S. MARINE SHARPSHOOTER IN HAITI.

By hitting the bulls-eye with unerring skill from the standing, kneeling or sitting position, Shelton P. Mims of this place has become a sharpshooter in the United States Marine Corps, according to late reports from Washington, D. C.

This keen-eyed young man made an excellent score at "slow and rapid" fire, gaining the badge of a sharpshooter and an increase of pay. He is now stationed in Santo Domingo, Haiti, where the soldiers of the sea are protecting American interests and helping the little republic to restore the stability of government The Marines recently suppressed a serious outbreak of hostile natives, but now look forward to a peaceful Thanksgiving with an extra holiday dinner provided by Uncle Sam.

Shelton, who is a brother of Willie C. Mims, of Clanton, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps at its Birmingham recruiting station on July 3, 1916.

OVER HALF THE STATES NOW IN DRY COLUMN.

Prohibition gained Ground by voting on Tuesday, November 7.

PROHIBITION FORCES CLAIM VICTORY IN ELECTION

New York, Nov. 14—More than half the states in the country, twenty-five to be exact, and more than 75 per cent of the territory of the United States, is now "dry" as a result of the election Tuesday. Though J. Frank Hanly, Prohibition nominee for President, was literally snowed under, the election marked the greatest victory for prohibition in history. Six states went over to the prohibition column: Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, Montana, Utah and Florida. The latter two did not vote directly on prohibition, but the issue was between dry and wet candidates.

The following state are now positively in the dry column: Maine, Kansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, West Virginia, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, Alabama, Arkansas, Iowa, Idaho, South Carolina, Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, Utah, Florida, and Montana. Alaska also voted to oust saloons.

The prohibition forces declare the backbone of liquor is broken by the election.

At a meeting of the legislative committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America, composed of Wayne B. Wheeler, Columbus; Dr. E. C. Dinwiddie, Washington; Dr. A. J. Beaton, Texas, and Dr. James Canmon, Jr., of Virginia, in Washington, a statement was issued to the effect it would demand passage of the national constitution amendment, a prohibition law for the District of Columbia, and other extreme dry measures, at the coming short session of Congress. The statement asserts that more than 60 per cent. of the population and 80 per cent. of the area of the United States is now under prohibition law, and that the people should demand of the congressional representatives national prohibition.

REXALL STRAW VOTE PROVES CORRECT

8000 Druggists Polled 951,396 Votes. Returns Covered all States— Local Vote a Big Factor.

Three weeks ago, the 8,000 members of the Rexall Druggists' Association of which Upchurch Drug Co. is a member, began to take a straw vote of their customers. The members of the Association being scattered all over the United States, were able to reach 951,396 voters drawn from all walks of life. It was the biggest straw vote every taken and was made possible only by the national character of the organization.

The druggists throughout the country mailed or telegraphed the results of the votes cast by their customers to the national headquarters of their organization in Boston. There the votes were tabulated, and the results of the balloting from all the States were announced by daily bulletins mailed from Bosotn and which were posted in the 8000 Rexall stores and published simultaneously in the leading newspapers of the country.

The first straw vote bulletin, sent out October 26th, showed Wilson in the lead. The second bulletin, issued October 27th, showed Hughes in the lead by one electoral vote. From that date each and every bulletin recorded steady gains for Wilson, both in the popular and in the electoral vote.

The final straw vote, dated November 6th, gave Wilson 554,500 popular votes against 396,896 for Hughes. On electoral vote Wilson received 299 and Hughes 232 of the 266 necessary to elect.

This nation-wide straw vote derived its value from its strictly nonpartisan character. The Rexall Druggist, without regard to personal preferences, furnished to the national headquarters of their Association, The United Drug Company, accurate figures for each day's balloting in their Stores. At the headquarters in Boston the ballots were tabulated without fear or favor, the sole object being to call the turn in politics before election.

TEACHERS OF STATE WILL GET THEIR PAY WITHOUT ANY DELAY

Four Counties Have Not Sent in Requisition as Yet Known

At the end of the Tuesday working day at the Capitol, it was stated throughout the state, except in four counties, would receive their salaries for the past month. The reason these counties have not been provided for is that they have not yet sent in their requisitions.

When it became known that the teachers were in danger of not receiving their pay, because of the financial condition of the State, Governor Henderson immediately set about to provide means to see that they do get it, and for the past week or ten days the office of the Governor has been busy deivsing ways and means to secure this money, and success has attended the efforts.

Arrangements have been made with local banks in the various counties to carry State warrants for a certain time, providing the money now needed, which will be paid, according to an agreement with the financial institutions.

The county fair is over and we are feeling good over our part of it. Mt. Pleasant made her first trial with a community fair and won first prize. Our canning club also won first prize. Several individual prizes were won.

Our school is progressing nicely with the largest enrollment we have ever had.

Mrs. Thacker is spending this week with her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Pierce.

J. H. Goddard spent last Sunday with B. F. Massey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Logan are all smiles over the arrival of a fine baby girl.

Leon Popwell and wife recently visited relatives near Cedar Grove.

Last Thursday while working at a saw mill Lee Knight happened to the misfortune to get his arm broken. He is doing as well as could be expected.

Misses Delene and Annie Pierce spent last Friday night with Miss Clara Johnson near Lomax.

Fate Vines and family were visitors at J. Wiley Foshee's Sunday.

Miss Erazelle Fohsee spent Saturday night with Miss Gracie Duncan.

Bently Dupriest is visiting in Coosa County.

Well the election is over and we are all well satisfied with the county election, but not with the national. One good thing we will all fare alike except the Democratic office holders.

"THE BIG FOUR" ARE CLOVER AND CATTLE, CORN AND COTTON.

Prime factors in the success of the farm, according to opinion of a man of experience.

We have been putting the cart before the horse. If we will first grow clover then will come cattle and with these fertile soils must follow; and fertility means profitable crops of corn and cotton. Why not make the change and work with nature and not against it?

I have grown hundreds of acres of Southern burr clover on a variety of soil types for years and I know and produce as much corn and cotton it will make average hill land as rich as river bottoms. To grow cotton successfully under boll-weevil conditions fertile soils are necessary. We got as much as 50 bushels of corn to the acre this, unfavorable year where clover had been turned under.

With some clover and phosphate our lands can be made richer and richer every year for a good crop of clover stores, over $20.00 worth of nitrogen per acre and the soil is protected in the winter besides. As the clover reseedsperfectly, why not grow a fertility and feed crop in winter, and a forage, corn or cotton crop on the same land every year? This is easily possible by allowing the clover to mature a full seed crop every third year and following with a forage, or late corn crop that year, and the other two years preparing and planting at the usual time before the clover matures seed, but still have a crop of green clover every winter. All of the seed turned under do not come up the first fall, nor the second but only those brought near the surface by cultivation, the others will remain sound in the soil several years. Plow under plenty of seed, and this rotation will work a revolution in the South and make it a stock, corn and cotton section and prosperous beyond our fondest dreams. Every permanent pasture should have burr clover for winter and early spring grazing, and to add fertility to the grasses. Seed are cheap and every farmer should make a start with this valuable legume. I sow it from September to December, and the best stands, from new scwings, last fall come up in November. I have gotten fair stands on warm soils in December several times The clover can be sown in cotton and corn middles and covered lightly, or can be started to good advantage by sowing where oats have been planted without covering.

While burr clover is unexcelled for grazing and soil building Augusta vetch should be grown for early hay. It reseeds as well as the clover, is easy to start, or erect growth and can be sown with oats, or alone and it will stand more cold than oats. It is grown on all soil types from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. I have sown more in December than at any other time, because it happened to be more convenient at that time. The lower pods ripen and seed pop out by the time the vetch is ready to cut, and whether in field, meadow, pasture, or along the roadside the seed remain and come up the next fall asking for neither preparation nor care, but only for a little phosphate every year or two for the growing plants. There is nothing better to sow on bermuda, or Johnson grass hay fields, for the vetch keeps down the weeds, gives an early cutting of hay, fertilizes, and mellows the soil for the coming grass, and repeats the trick every year. Stock and poultry of all kinds like to graze it.

The reseeding winter legumes, and velvet beans, if given half a chance will soon make the South blossom as it never has before. No people have ever had greater opportunities.

SOME INTERESTING TABLES

Complete Tabulated Returns Showing Popular And Electoral Vote, Congressional Make-Up and List Of Governors

The figures given in these tables will prove interesting in figuring the unusual reverses in many states. A number of states elected Republican governors, Democratic electors and mixed congressional delegations. Other states that gave either Taft or Roosevelt more votes than they gave Wilson in 1912 this year returned substantial Democratic majorities. If Wilson could not get a third of the votes in these states in 1912, how did he get more than half of them in 1916? Another interesting comparison is to be found in the states where the women voted. These tables will all be found very interesting for future reference and should be preserved.

Boston.—The vote of the presidential electors from the state will be cast for Hughes and Fairbanks, the entire Republican state ticket being elected.

Government Working To Bar Worm

San Antonio, Texas.—W. D. Hunter, a member of the federal horticultural board of the department of agriculture, who, with other government experts, were sent to the Mexican border to conduct an investigation with a view to adopting measures to prevent the pink boll worm invading the United States from Mexico, stated that fifty cars of cotton seed have been ordered held under quarantine at Eagle Pass, Texas, and government inspectors are tracing two hundred other cars imported from Mexico.

Dutch Steamer Taken By Submarine

Berlin.—The following announcement is made by the admiralty: "A German submarine stopped near Schouwen Bank (off the Dutch coast) the Dutch mail steamer Koningin Regentes bound from Flushing to London. The steamer was brought into Zeebrugge. Immediately after she was stopped several bags, apparently containing mail, were thrown overboard from the steamer. One of them, which was recovered by the submarine, contained mainly newspapers for the foreign office at London."

ELECTORS STATE OFFICIALS

Washington.—Government officials here are deeply interested and not a little concerned over the announcements from Democratic and Republican campaign leaders that contests might be expected, with a possibility of legal proceedings, over the votes for presidential electors in several of the close states.

Examinations of the decisions of the Supreme court and of the revised statutes disclosed that electors are plainly regarded as state officers. The highest court has held in two leading cases that question of their proper or improper choice are for state election officers or state courts to determine, and that the federal government is not lawfully concerned even if fraud is shown.

When congress meets to receive the votes it is still possible for a majority to reverse the certified results from any state in certain cases. As the votes are read to the joint session, the statutes give the right to any member of either house to object, the objections to be considered in separate session. When only one return has been made from a state, congress cannot overturn the certified result, except the two houses concurrently may reject any vote where it appears not to have been given by the properly chosen electors. Where more than one certificate for a state has been sent, the vote of those electors who the two houses shall concurrently decide have been supported in a contest by the proper state authorities, shall be received and accredited. Where there has been no determination of a contest by state authorities and there is more than one certificate returned, the choice as to those properly selected is with the two houses. If the two houses disagree the certificate signed by the executive of a state concerned shall be binding and the votes so certified counted.

The Constitution provides that where an election is thrown into the house a selection must be made by the fourth of March following the election, but this apparently is intended only to cover cases where there is a tie, and whether it applies to those where there is a dispute over electors from a state or states is not clear.

Upon the question of state jurisdiction over choice of electors, several cases have been before the Supreme court, but apparently none directly on the question of jurisdiction of a recount of such electoral votes. In 1890, in a Virginia case upon prosecution for fraudulent voting for electors, Justice Gray said the only powers of the federal government with regard to the appointment or the votes of presidential electors "are those which authorize congress to determine the time and the day on which they shall give their votes, and which direct that certificates of their votes shall be opened by the president of the senate in the presence of both houses and the votes be then counted

Rofrano Acquitted After Long Trial

New York.—Michael A. Rrofrano, an attorney and former deputy street cleaning commissioner of this city, was acquitted of the charge of complicity in the murder of Michael Gaimari, a political rival, by a jury here, after it had deliberated 22 hours. Rofrano was accused of having ordered Gaimari's death as the result of a political feud. The trial, estimated to have cost Rofrano and the state $100,000, was locally one of the most sensational held here since the Becker case

MAGIC CITY HOST TO GOOD ROADS MEN

PROMINENT SPEAKERS MAKE ADDRESSES—MANY DELEGATES ATTEND.

TWENTIETH ANNUAL SESSION

First Day's Session Devoted to Passing Resolutions, Election of Officers and Other Business.

Birmingham.—Approximately 1,000 persons attended the twentieth annual session of the Alabama Good Roads Association held here November 15 and 16.

Much business was transacted and the association discussed among other things a legislative program which will be submitted to the Legislature at its next session. This program calls for the improvement of the present laws relative to the assistance to be rendered in the construction of trunk highways through the State. All business sessions were held on the first day of the meeting, while speeches were made by a number of notable speakers on the second day. Prominent speakers who appeared were Senator John H. Bankhead, Senator Oscar W. Underwood and Capt. Frank S. White.

TICK WORK PROGRESSING.

Government Bureau Highly Pleased With Result of Work in the State.

Birmingham.—Reports just issued by the Department of Agriculture indicate much progress being made in the work of tick eradication, and in the construction of dipping vats for immediate service. During the month of October, thirteen counties in Alabama completed the work of dipping under the supervision of government agents, and the figures have been given out regarding the result. In the thirteen counties, 151,098 cattle were dipped, with a lessening of tick infection of more than 86 per cent. In seventeen counties where the work is still in progress, but not completed, 477,557 cattle have been dipped, with figures approximating the same result as given above. The definite result cannot be given from these counties because the work is yet incomplete.

It is said that the Department is highly pleased with the result of the work in Alabama, and that the farmers in every county, at first a bit wary of the plan, have adopted the dipping vat idea universally and are asking the Government to assist them in maintaining the system just inaugurated, until the cattle tick shall be permanently eradicated from the State of Alabama.

In the few counties which have not yet gotten well started on the work, experts will immediately begin a campaign of education, in which the benefits accruing from dipping cattle will be pointed out, and an effort made to enlist the co-operation of all citizens in carrying out the Department's program.

Marvel Mine to Resume.

Birmingham.—Chief State Mine Inspector C. H. Nesbitt will permit a resumption of operations at Marvel mines of the Roden Coal Company whenever it is desired, final inspections since the explosion on October 22, when eighteen men were killed, having been made.

Woman Is Shot.

Montgomery.—Mrs. H. M. Boykin, 316 Whitman street, who was injured by glass when she was fired on by F. V. Nettleton, a boarder, will recover.

CLIMATE IS GREAT IN ARIZONA.

Spring and Winter, Fall and Summer All Felt in a Day

Nogales, Ariz.—Nogales is a place where all seasons of he year are experienced within 24 hours. Beginning early in the morning, it is cold as a Winter night in Birmingham. Overcoats are a necessity; several blankets are required in order to keep warm; stoves are needed, and the air has a bite.

That is the weather the soldiers experience at reveille. Then along about 8 o'clock, the sun begins to warm up to its work. It is Spring. The air is balmy and soft, with just enough zip in it to make every one feel full of pep and anxious to get out.

About time for first drill, or about 10 o'clock, the sun really gets in its work. It streams down in pitiless radiance, and the men go panting and hunting for sade. Those who can sit hunting for shade. Those who can sit in the shade are envied. Tents become real Summer.

This lasts until sundown, when it gets Fall. The air has a tinge in it then that is very like Indian Summer "back East." Out for a brisk walk, sweaters feel comfortable. Riding, an overcoat is needed. It is the weather for walking and horseback riding. Then, later in the evening, it cools off some more, fingers get stiff with cold, fires are sought. It is Winter again.

It is a great climate—for those that like it. Think of a place where an electric fan is needed in the day time; where the sun scorches down hot enough to blister tender skin. Then think of that same place a few hours later with stoves at a premium; men in sweaters and overcoats when going out. That's Nogales.

Palm beaches are needed for the afternoon, woolens for the evening. Fans for lunch, steam heat for dinner. That's Arizona.

AMENDMENTS CARRY.

Majority on School Tax Section is Now 17,280.

Montgomery.—Returns received by the state department of education increased the majority for the educational amendment from 15,950 to 17,280. Every report received during the day sustained the previous estimate or increased it, except in two instances, Tuscaloosa giving a majority of 150 instead of 250 for the amendment and Talladega reducing its majority for the amendment from 150 to 125.

Late returns showed the following counties to have given greater majorities: Cherokee, 200 instead of 50; Choctaw, 175 instead of 100; Geneva, 400 instead of 100; Marengo, 800 instead of 100; Sumter, 330 instead of 200. Blount county's majority against the amendment was increased from 900 to 1,000.

The total increase in the majorities for the amendment were 1,230, while the total increases in the majorities against were 100.

Information obtained from the other amendments voted on in the recent election indicate that all were adopted. The one possible exception is the amendment providing for biennial session of the legislature, although early returns indicated that it also had been adopted.

It seems reasonably certain that the Montgomery salary amendment, the amendments putting savings and open depositors on the same basis, and the amendment giving municipalities in certain counties the right to increase their tax rates have been adopted. Some doubt exists about the amendment which gave Selma the right to reapportion its tax rate, but supporters of this amendment claim it was adopted.

The official count will be necessary to show the positive result on the constitutional amendments.

PIG IRON BRINGS $20 A TON.

Birmingham Companies Say Very Little Metal For Sale Before July 1.

Birmingham.—Where delivery is possible, pig iron is being sold in the Birmingham district on a $20 per ton level, No. 2 foundry, delivery during November and December. Sales have been made in this section on an $18 per ton basis, delivery during the last half of the coming year, but that price is now being withdrawn.

ATHENS GETS NEXT SYNOD.

Closing Session of Presbyterian Meeting is Held at Ensley.

Birmingham.—The Synod of Alabama of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., will meet next year at Athens, the invitation having been accepted at the closing session of the Synod at the Ensley Highlands Presbyterian Church. This Synod was organized at Elyton in 1836 and is comprised of the three Presbyteries of Alabama and one in Florida, representing 200 churches.

Barbour to Fight Tick.

Eufaula.—Barbour has been added to the list of Alabama counties which have set out to eradicate the cattle tick, which has proved such an expense to the cattle industry. Under the provisions of the law, as accepted by the people of the county in the election this week, the county will be quarantined against the tick-infested cattle, while all cattle in the county will have to be dipped by the owners at regular intervals. It is hoped by this procedure, Barbour will be relieved of quarantine restrictions.

SUIT GOES AGAINST ATTORNEY GENERAL

M'CORD HOLDS GOVERNOR HAS DISCRETION IN APPROVING ACCOUNTS.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS ITEMS

Doings of the Various Departments of the Commonwealth Given for Our Readers.

—Montgomery.

Holding that the approval of expense accounts incurred by the attorney general's department is not a ministerial duty but one of discretion, Judge Leon McCord of the Montgomery Circuit Court dismissed mandamus proceedings in three cases brought by William L. Martin, attorney general, to compel the governor to affix his signature to expense accounts.

Judge McCord handed down a written opinion in support of his decision. Attorney General Martin will appeal to the supreme court and the cases will be submitted during November. An effort will be made to obtain a decision at the earliest possible moment as the work of the attorney general's department is dependent upon the supreme court's construction of the law under which the attorney general is operating.

Banks Make Excellent Record.

State banks operating in Alabama during the twelve months ending October 19 made a wonderful record, according to reports received by the State Banking Department in answer to the call for their condition at the close of business October 19. Although the total number of banks decreased seventeen and three branches, the total deposits show a total increase of $7,496,098.48, while the total available cash at the time the condition was requested had increased $1,460,088.32 over the same time a year before.

When the call for the condition of the banks at the close of business October 19, 1915, was issued there were 361 banks and 24 branches. When the call was issued covering the condition October 19, 1916, there were 244 banks and 21 branches.

Total deposits October 19, 1915, were $37,275,021.32, while total deposits October 19, 1916, were $44,771,120.80. During the year the total capital stock decreased $1,404,300, being $10,825,660 this year compared with $12,229,960 last year. Other comparative figures for the two reports show the following results: Real estate decreased $77,526.30. Overdrafts decreased $62,308.23. Furniture and fixtures decreased $95,896.35. Bills payable decreased $1,800,872.10. Bills rediscounted decreased $137,900.90.

Lanett Wants Railroad Station.

Forty citizens of Lanett came before the Alabama Public Service Commission and urged it to order the Western and Chattahoochee Valley Railroads to construct a freight and passenger station at Lanett for the accommodation of Chambers County.

The Western Railway opposed the petition on the ground that the proposed site is too near the railroad's station at West Point, Ga., but agreed to furnish facilities at another location, which would accommodate citizens of Shawmut, Langdale and other towns in Chambers County.

The citizens contended that at present Lanett is forced to pay interstate rates on goods shipped from any point in Alabama and intended for consumption in Chambers County because the nearest railway station is West Point, Ga. The case was taken under advisement.

Wife Opposing Plea of Convict.

Shall B. C. Conway, convict, be released because of his promises to make a better citizen and educate his two small children, or shall he be kept in prison to complete his term as is the wish of his wife? This is the question the State Board of Pardons is asked to decide, following the receipt of two letters—one from the husband and one from the wife. Conway, in a well-written letter, makes a solemn promise that he will be a better citizen and that he will educate his children, while Mrs. Conway writes that he should not be released until his term in prison is served.

Rate Regulation to be Discussed.

Government regulation of all public utilities, including railroads, and an inquiry about the inconsistencies between State railroad rates and government interstate rates will take a part of the time of the joint committee on interstate commerce of Congress which will begin its hearings in Washington November 20.

Attalla to Get New Depot.

The Alabama Public Service Commission will not allow the Alabama Great Southern further time to begin work on the proposed union station at Attalla than was allowed when the order was issued last month. The Commission has denied the railroad's petition for further time and has ordered plans for the station be filed within 60 days. Indications are the railroad will apply to the courts for an injunction preventing the Commission from enforcing its order.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

A news item says Governor Henderson will declare a "Sweet Potato Day" for Alabama. Quite appropriate we think for the next four years. It brings to our mind those days in Cleveland's last term when we had to pick four cent cotton all day and suffer agonies of heart burn because we had nothing to eat but roasted "nigger chokers" and sorghum syrup.

As a rule the fellow who persists in saying that the town and county is so ridden by political bitterness that it can't give proper attention to its industrial advantages, is the very fellow who has the old grudge of politics so deep in his heart and will not forget it. If such fellows would lay aside their political narrowness and hatred, and quit cussing the other fellow for not doing it, the community would soon be rid of such parasites, and we would be in better shape to reap the advantage of our industrial opportunities.

A $10,000.00 VERDICT

Last week in the Federal Court at Montgomery, Rev. A. R. Aldridge was awarded $10,000.00 damages in his suit against the L. & N. Railroad, for injuries received while in the service of the defendant company. Mr. Aldridge was represented by attorneys Middleton & Reynolds, while Judge E. Perry Thomas and Tyler Goodwyn of Montgomery and Smith & Gerald represented the railroad. This legal victory is a splendid tribute to the superb attainments of the young attorneys who fought the battle for Mr. Aldridge.

RAILROAD STRIKE AGAIN

The announcement of the sudden rising again of the railway strike situation scarcely after a final determination of Wilson's re-election comes as a stunning blow to those who argued before the election that the President had settled the labor question to the satisfaction of all the railway men.

Republicans over the country, held to the view that the Adamson Law upheld by Mr. Wilson, and adopted by the last Congress, only postponed the settlement of the railway labor muddle temporarily. The revival of the question of dispute bears out the contentions of Republicans and shows the credit which Mr. Wilson received for the settlement of the matter to be a farce indeed.

MISS JEANETTE RANKIN.

Montana claims the honor of electing the first Congresswoman in the history of the United States. She is Miss Jeanette Rankin, a Republican, and a suffrage worker of national reputation. Miss Rankin's platform is: National woman suffrage, child welfare, tariff revision, prohibition for state and nation and greater publicity in congressional records. Tho an expert in politics, Miss Rankin can never be accused of being masculine in her tastes. She makes her own clothes, trims her own hats and is an excellent cook. She is small, slight, and very pretty, with light brown hair. Also she is a graduate of the University of Montana and the School of Philantrophy, New York City.

CLANTON GET BUSY

The Vida Lumber Company, which (we might say for the benefit of those not acquainted with the concern) is one of the largest manufacturers of lumber in the state, has has purchased the vast amount of timber which adorns the hills of east Chilton, and is now seeking a location for their big mill plant. They will locate their mill somewhere on the L. & N. and bring the timber to it by means of their own railroad line.

The officials of the Company have ben to Clanton, investigating what might be prospective locations and advantages here for the mill.

The enterprise is one which Clanton cannot afford to lose. So it behooves those of our citizens who can in any way offer any inducement for the location of the mill here, to get busy and perform their part in bringing this good enterprise to Clanton.

This mill will bring to our community, if it comes here, valuable revenues. But it may and will go elsewhere if we do not offer the men behind it some inducement. Let us not lose any advantage which may be ours. If you think you can help any, just begin to inquire about it and you will soon find some one to tell you what is needed to do to

OUR VULNERABLE TRADE POSITION.

We live too much in the present. While economists here and there are urging the United States to take thought of the morrow, the nation is rushing headlong to new high peaks of consumption, production, and extravagance. Many accept prosperity as an inherent right which needs no safeguards. The war has given us advantages which too many people will not admit that peace can take away. Prices are so high that cost accounting systems are thrown overboard. What matters an increase of 30 per cent. in the expenses of production when the buyers are paying perhaps 100 per cent. more?

Europe will not always be at war, and when peace returns the nations now out of the running will again be competitors for the trade that the United States has almost monopolized. They will have every incentive to produce as cheaply as possible in order to export to the last penny what is not absolutely required at home. The loss of men in battle, terriable as it has been, may not seriously lessen the output of field and factory, for women have been recruited to take the places of men, and industry is co-ordinated as never before. Our trade balance in September was $348,719,000, but two years ago it was only $16,341,000, and for the five months preceding that September we imported more than we exported. It is folly to believe that we can permanently hold any considerable portion of our present wonderful foreign trade unless we prepare to meet the situation that will confront us within a few months, after the end of the great war.—THE ANNALIST.

OUR POSTMASTER

The people of Clanton and the community which is served by the Clanton post office are highly elated over the action of Congressman Blackmon in appointing Mr. J. E. Robinson as our Post Master.

The action which placed Mr. Robinson officially in charge of the duties which are conected with the office is a confirmation of the expressed wishes of at least ninety per cent of the people whom he will serve.

Mr. Robinson is in politics, like Mr. Blackmon, of opposite political faith to ours. Likewise will he be opposite in politics to possibly a majority of his patrons. But we are absolutely sure that everyone regardless of politics, will receive the most hearty and free cordiality in his dealings with them.

Mr. Robinson is a man of the finest type, whose heart and mind know no restrictions other than to render to every one a full measure of justice and honesty in all dealings both public and private.

We thank Mr. Blackmon for giving us the best Post Master which he could pick from his list of applicants.

TO ESTABLISH FISH HATCHERY

Two government agents have been examining points near Talladega Springs with the view of selecting a place to establish a large fish hatchery there. The agents say that they have found two desirable places, which will be recomended to the proper authorities.

Now that Wilson is re-elected, we might as well expect to resume the purchase of war stamps right away.

Hurrah for the "Solid South," free trade and starvation when the European war comes to a close.

ILLITERACY WILL GRADUALLY DISAPPEAR

The large majority by which the school tax amendment was ratified shows what can be done by earnest and well organized team work on the part of civic bodies and the educators of the state. In view of the urgent need of this amendment, which carries out the principle of "home rule" by permiting each county, whenever it may see fit, to vote a small tax levy for the improvement of its schools, there should have been no opposition to the measure; but as there are still some people obsessed with the notion that the constitution is a sacred instrument and must not be changed, the signal victory for the cause of education is a matter of public rejoicing.

Superintendent of Education Feagin in announcing the vote modestly disclaims and credit for the result. He wishes all the people of Alabama who united in the campaign for the adoption of the amendment to have the praise. Never was a graet undertaking more enthusiastically supported by the intelligent and public-spirited men and women of the state than this amendment; and the overwhelming majorities rolled up in Jefferson and several other counties make it plain that not only are better school conditions desired in these counties, but lead to the hope that they will shortly avail themselves of their new privilege.

It will be interesting to see which county leads off in calling an election to levy the 3-mill tax. No county is so por that its people cannot afford the tax.

Looked at from any angle nothing could pay better in the long run than good schools and modern, sanitary school buildings at every crossroads. The rural schools should be brought up to the standard of the best city schools. Illiteracy has been too long a blot upon Alabama's fair name. The constitution as it stood was largely responsible for inadequate school facilities in the country districts and only this amendment could provide a workable remedy for the situation.

The compulsory education enactment goes into effect next year, and then more schoolhouses will be required from one end of the state to the other. If some counties are disposed to be backward in voting the tax, the overcrowded condition of the schools resulting from the compulsory enactment will make enlarged accomodations all but impeartive.

It may be some time before illiteracy disappears from Alabama entirely, but not before it is appreciably minimized. The fact, at any rate, that the first steps have been taken for remedying the situation will make 1916 remembered as an epochal year in Alabama's history.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

HOG CHOLERA EPIDEMIC IN EAST LAUDERDALE

Rogersville, Ala., Nov. 14—An epidemic of hog cholera prevails in the eastern part of Lauderdale county, the most serious, perhaps, in years in this section. The county agricultural demonstrator, Mr. Hollinsworth, and others, are busy inoculating as many as possible. The slight cool weather that came the latter part of last week induced many to kill in spite of the otherwise unfavorable conditions for keeping large meat. The situation is the more serious because of the corn shortage.

GERMANS SMASH RUSSIAN CENTER

Success Of Teutons Admitted By Petrograd, Which Says Czar's Forces Were Forced To Retire

GREAT BATTLES ARE RAGING

Russo-Roumanians Have Been Pushed Back On Transylvania Front—No Changes In France

London.—Driving against the center of the Russian line on the eastern front, German troops have gained possession of Russian positions on a front of about two and a half miles. The attack, which resulted also in the capture of more than three thousand prisoners, took place in the district of Skrobowa, twelve miles northeast of Baranovichi, north of the Pinsk marshes and where only isolated fighting has occurred lately. The Russians, Berlin also says, lost 27 machine guns and twelve mine throwers.

The sucess of the Germans is admitted by the Petrograd war office, which announces that the Russians, after stubborn resistance against seven onslaughts, were finally compelled to fall back to their second line of trenches. Elsewhere on the eastern front to the Carpathians there has been litlte fighting, according to the official communications.

In Dobrudja the advance of the Russo-Roumanian forces southward continues and Petrograd records a battle with Field Marshal von Mackensen's troops in the region of Tchernavoda, recently abandoned by the Roumanians. At Tchernavoda is the bridge of the railroad running between Constanza and Bucharest, and it is for this bridge the Russians and Roumanians are fighting. Petrograd also announces the occupation of several towns between Hirsova and Tchernavoda.

On the Transylvania-Roumania front Archduke Charles has assumed the offensive and pushed back the Roumanians. In the Predeal sector stubborn fighting continues, with both the Austro-Germans and the Roumanians claiming progress. The Austrians have almost completely recovered the ground lost in the Georgeny mountains November 4.

GERMANY TO PROBE SINKING OF MARINA

Washington Is Informed Case Will Be Thoroughly Investigated—Six Americans Reported Lost

Washington.—Germany has informed the American embassy in Berlin that the sinking of the British steamer Marina on Otober 28 with the loss of the lives of six American horse-tenders, will be thoroughly investigated as soon as submarines operating on that date have reported, according to confidential advices received here from Berlin.

A complete summary of the situation growing out of recent activities of German submarines were prepared at the state department for submission to President Wilson on his return to Washington. Officials admit informally that the outlook is more disturbing than it has been at any time since the sinking of the channel steamer Sussex.

Official information still is incomplete in all the cases being investigated by the department.

Aside from the specific cases about which inquiry is being made, disquiet has been caused here by the general sweep submarine warfare has taken recently. Officials fear that the submarines are operating on such a scale and under such conditions that it may be impossible for them to avoid endangering Americans illegally.

Deutschland Loaded For Dash Home

New London, Conn.—The Deutschland, the German merchant submarine, which arrived here November 1, is loaded and ready for her dash homeward. The exact time of her departure was a matter of conjecture, but it was generally believed she would sail soon. The clearance papers, it is understood, have been prepared. The value of the cargo is said to be about one and a one-half million dollars, consisting largely of crude rubber, nickel, zinc and silver bars. The value of the latter is declared to be $250,000.

Germans May Pay For Steamer Sunk

Washington.—Precedents established in the case of the American ship Frye, wheat-laden and bound for England, sunk in mid-Atlantic by a German auxiliary cruiser, in 1915, are expected to lead the German government voluntarily to offer to pay for the steamer Lanao, sunk by a German submarine off the coast of Portugal, October 28th, if it is established that the vessel was sailing legally under the American flag and registry. An investigation is being made into the facts of the case.

Soldiers Ordered To Eject Strikers

Columbia, S. C.—Governor Manning ordered five companies of National Guard coast artillery companies under Major W. F. Robertson of Greenville to proceed immediately to Anderson and directed that five divisions of naval militia be held subject to call, in order that magistrate's constables might be proteted in enforcing ejectment writs against striking operatives of the Equinox and Gluck cotton mills who occupy cottages on the mill premises and are alleged to have resisted in arms the magistrate's process.

SUBMARINE SINKS BIG LINER

British Admiralty Office Claims That Ship Was Torpedoed Without Any Warning

London.—The Peninsula and Oriental liner Arabia received no warning from the submarine which sank her in the Mediterranean on November 6, according to a statement issued by the admiralty. All the 437 passengers, including 169 women and children, and all the crew, with the exception of two engineers, who were killed by the explosion, were saved by vessels which went to the rescue.

"The homeward-bound Peninsula and Oriental mail steamer Arabia was torpedoed without warning and sunk in the Mediterranean about noon on November 6," says the admiralty announcement. "The vessel had 437 passengers, including 169 women and children. All the passengers were saved by various vessels which were diverted to the scene of the disaster. Two engineers are missing and are believed to have been killed by the explosion. The remainder of the crew were saved."

Washington Awaits The Particulars

Washington.—Full information regarding the torpedoing of the British passenger liner Arabia is awaited at the state department with concern. There has been no report indicating that Americans were on board the vessel, but the announcement of the British admiralty that a ship carrying hundreds of passengers, including women and children, had been destroyed without warning, added seriousness to the submarine question now pending. If it should develop that the Arabia carried no Americans, the United States probably would take no official notice of the incident, although the deepest interest would be felt because of the possibility that it might mean a change in German methods of submarine warfare. A brief cablegram from Ambassador Page at London announced the sinking of the liner. It made no mention of Americans on board.

An American On Arabia

Cambridge, Mass.—Paul R. Danner of this city, an American citizen, was a passenger on board the British steamer Arabia, reported sunk November 6 in the Mediterranean by a submarine.

NAVY OFFICERS KILLED BY BOMB EXPLOSION

Lieutenants Welsh And Bronson Victims Of Accident At Indian Head

Washington, D. C. — Naval Lieutenants Luther Walsh and C. K. Bronson were killed at Indian Head, Md., by the premature explosion of an aeroplane bomb while testing bombs designed for use against war vessels.

The report of the accident to the navy department from the inspector of ordnance at the naval proving ground said the bomb detonated immediately beneath an airplane in which the officers were flying. Apparently it struck some part of the machine when it was discharged.

Witnesses saw the airplane break in two and fall into the Potomac river.

Lieutenant was born in Illinois and was appointed to the naval aeronautic station at Pensacola, Fla., and recently was ordered to Indian Head to conduct the aeroplane part of the ordnance tests.

Lieutenant Welsh was born in and appointed from Missouri. He was stationed as an ordnance officer at the Indian Head proving ground and was with Lieutenant Bronson as passenger when the explosion occurred.

Self-Styled Spy Will Be Prosecuted

Washington.—Arrangements for the prosecution of Karl Armgaard Graves, self-styled "master spy" and magazine writer, who was arrested here on a charge of attempting to extort $3,000 from Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the German ambassador, was completed at a conference between agents of the department of justice, representatives of the district attorney's office and Prince Hatzfeldt, counselor of the German embassy.

Train Of Sixty Cars Runs Away

Altoona, Pa.—Dashing uncontrolled down the ten-mile grade of the New Portage branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, near Holidaysburg, a coal train of sixty cars crashed into four light engines standing near New Portage Junction. Four railroad men were killed, two are missing and three were injured, one seriously.

8-Hour Law Fought By Railroad

Omaha, Neb.—The Union Pacific Railroad company filed suit in federal court here to test the constitutionality of the eight-hour law recently passed by congress and known as the Adamson act. The bill of complaint alleges that the law is unconstitutional, because it is not a proper regulation of interstate commerce, because it violates the guarantees of the fifth amendment to the federal constitution and because it is unworkable as applied to existing conditions under which the trainmen are operating.

Fears For Safety Of Ten Americans

El Paso, Texas.—As no news has been received here for ten days of the Americans known to be in the Parral and Magistral mining districts, fears for their safety have increased. Ten Americans were known to be in Parral before its reported evacuation by General Herrera. Nothing has been heard of them since October 28. Eight Americans and other foreigners have likewise been cut off from communication in the Magistral mines.

An Idea and an Ideal

The biggest thing in all the world, whether it be building a railroad or running a peanut stand, is to do that thing best.

The battle of Verdun stirred your imagination in a way that not even the battle of Gettysburg equaled—why, because it was the biggest thing of its kind in all the history of the world.

There is just naturally something about biggest or greatest or grandest that quickens the mind like living fire.

In geography you wanted to know about the longest river and the broadest ocean and the biggest island.

From the time I was a barefooted boy in Macon, Ga., printing a little paper about Johnnie Brown stumping his toe on College Street, I had a vision of owning some day the greatest newspaper in all the South, a paper that would be a great financial success and a paper that would mean something big and vital to the community in which it was printed.

It has been a long time since then, but I believe I'm stepping over the border line into the country of Dreams-Come-True.

I am writing this to tell you something about the newspaper I own, how it has gone ahead since I have owned it and what I hope to make of it both for myself and for you, the people of Alabama.

Before I selected the field in which I would try to build an enterprise which would achieve the dreams of my boyhood and the vision of my young manhood, I studied the newspaper situation throughout the country. I decided first of all that I would stand or fall with the Southland, "the fairest and richest domain of this earth."

Next I chose Alabama as the State of promise, and then naturally my heart and mind capitulated to Birmingham, the matchless young giant of Southern progress.

In striving to carry out my ambition, nourished through years of adversity and hard work, I looked well to the selection of the place where I would try to build the greatest newspaper in all the South. But having once chosen, there has never been a doubt in my mind of the glories to be in the history of my State and my city.

Alabama and Birmingham have had their lean years, but these, thank God, are apparently left behind, and now a perfect climate above a perfect soil will be given opportunity to work out the wonderful destiny of this people.

I bought a controlling interest in The Birmingham News March 1, 1910. At that time the net paid circulation of The News was approximately 18,000. Today it exceeds 40,000.

The fact that the number of persons who read the paper day in and day out, year after year, has more than doubled tells its own story. YOU CAN FOOL A MAN SOMETIMES INTO SUBSCRIBING FOR A NEWSPAPER, BUT YOU CAN'T CONTINUE TO FOOL 40,000, AND THAT FIGURE IS STEADILY CLIMBING.

In February, 1910, The News' bill for the white paper, on which the paper is printed, was $3,316.25. In October, 1916, it ran more than $11,000, and at the present rate of consumption, more than 3,000 tons will be required for use in 1917.

IN FEBRUARY, 1910, THE NEWS PRINTED 29,556 INCHES OF ADVERTISING, AND IN OCTOBER, 1916, ITS TOTAL VOLUME OF PAID ADVERTISING WAS 51,647 INCHES.

When I bought a controlling interest in The News, there were 87 persons on the payroll. Today there are 266 in Birmingham and Jefferson County alone.

In February, 1910, it cost $15,487.13 to produce The News. In October, 1916, the total cost of production was over $35,000, or, in other words, IT IS NOW COSTING MORE THAN $1,200 A DAY, MORE THAN $400,000 A YEAR, TO MAKE THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS THE SOUTH'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER.

In September, 1912, The Sunday News was added, to make the paper a complete seven-days-a-week newspaper. Its growth has been even more phenomenal than that of the daily.

Its net paid circulation has grown from 23,600 for the first issue to more than 42,000, 50 per cent more than any other Sunday newspaper in the State. Its advertising patronage has developed and increased until today it pushes the present mechanical equipment of The News to handle it.

The splendid new home of The News, now in course of construction, is another step in the realization of the idea and the ideal that lay back of the development of the paper. This building will be worthy to house the great newspaper I am planning by day and dreaming of by night.

But, after all, these are the materialistic things, the obvious things. You see my paper today or tomorrow or the next day, and you realize at a glance its completeness as a newspaper, the qualities that make it interesting, entertaining, informative, the things that go to make it a great business success.

BUT YOU MAY OVERLOOK THE IDEAL THAT STANDS BEHIND IT, THE VISION OF MAKING IT A GREAT BUILDING FACTOR IN THE FUTURE OF ITS CITY AND STATE.

Every day we try to plan something new, something vital to contribute to the public welfare.

I have always believed that the salvation of a civilization lies in the proper development of the youth; so, The News has specialized upon those things that make for the happiness and welfare of the children.

An annual Better Baby Contest, conducted in cooperation with the State Fair, puts a premium upon health and physical perfection.

The Good Fellows Club lets the gleam of Christmas cheer shine in the gloom of hundreds of homes that would know it not.

The Milk and Ice Fund brings the actual necessities of life to little starved lives that might flicker out, were it not for its aid.

These are just a few of the scores of things The News is doing, striving ever to achieve the ideal back of its business success.

The greatest newspaper in the South has an unlimited audience.

The sermon it preaches is heard by a bigger congregation than any minister can get before him.

The lecture it delivers goes to countless thousands.

Its power and usefulness are limited only by the intelligence of the effort behind it.

That's the kind of newspaper I have always wanted.

THAT'S THE KIND OF NEWSPAPER I BELIEVE I HAVE.

NEW HOME OF THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS.

This building, now being erected at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-Second Street, will be the largest building in the South occupied exclusively by a newspaper. It will contain 39,967 square feet of floor space and every approved modern convenience. The construction is of steel and concrete. It will be ready for occupancy February 1st, and when completed and equipped will represent an investment of more than $300,000.00.

Sincerely yours,

P. W. Hanson

Publisher The Birmingham News.

P. S.—Wouldn't a great newspaper like The News, with its ideals, be a welcome guest in your home?

Nerves Mended With Jelly.

Dr. L. Edinger, a famous nerve specialist of Frankfort, Germany, has just devised a method of making nerves that have been severed grow together again. The Scientific American quotes an address recently delivered by him before the Deutsche Orthopaedische Gesellschaft, in which he described his success with this method, a success that no other has been able to claim. Doctor Edinger fills animal arteries with a special gelatin, cuts away the scarred part of the nerve and inserts the upper and lower ends of the severed nerve into the artery filled with gelatin. The separated ends of the nerve grow together with astonishing rapidity through this gelatin.

Baskets in Short Supply.

The basket man has been having troubles of his own since the beginning of the war. Baskets which were imported from France and Germany come now in uncertain quantities from Holland, which has no willows. Some of the old stock from earlier importations still remains. Among these are baskets which came from Germany and go largely to the South, where they are used for small market baskets. They are the old-fashioned kind, high and reticul-shaped, with a cover. A basket in its cheapest form, which is devoted to the baby, is of splints. It is an extra-size market basket with the usual handles at the ends. This is swung on a simple iron frame and makes a baby's cradle. Others of these with ribs for a hood top are placed on the floor, having no standard.

How Aviator Can Learn.

It is not necessary for the amateur aviator to have an aeroplane at his disposal continually. A machine has been invented which will enable him to learn the principles of aviation without ascending six feet from terra firma. The machine consists of two long steel arms which intersect each other at right angles. They are mounted upon a concrete pyramid at the intersection, so that they balance when at rest. The aviator's seat is over the intersection and the machine moves with the wind or by means of weights that can be shifted, giving the driver the same effort to maintain his equilibrium as if he were high in the air.

Aeroplane on Flying Boat.

A most unusual aeronautical experiment is being carried out by German experts, according to Popular Mechanics. It deals with the development of a powerful flying boat which carries, for both defensive and offensive purposes, a swift, mosquito-like aeroplane on its back. The machine, when last heard of, was being put through test flights, but had not at that time been sufficiently refined to warrant its actual use.

The new machine has such remarkable stability, carrying capacity and cruising radius that its engineers think it can be made to replace the bulky, highly expensive Zeppelins which have proved disappointing.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

To ache all over in damp weather, or after taking a cold, isn't natural, and often indicates kidney weakness. Uric acid causes many queer aches, pains and disorders of the organs. Well kidneys keep uric acid down. Tired, dizzy, nervous people would do well to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They stimulate the kidneys to activity and so help clear the blood of irritating poisons.

FRENCH MAKE GAIN IN FIERCE BATTLE

Desperate Fighting Is Reported For The Possession Of the Village Of Sailly-Saillisel

TEUTONS ATTACK RUSSIANS

Petrograd Admits That Southeast Of Lemberg The Austro-Germans Have Captured Russian Trenches

London.—After days of sanguinary fighting, the village of Saillisel, lying to the east of Peronne-Bapaume, in the Somme region of France, has at last fallen entirely into the hands of the troops of General Foch. In the capture of the town the French inflicted heavy casualty on the Germans and, in addition, captured seven officers and two hundred and twenty men and eight machine guns. On the remainder of the front in France artillery duels are in progress.

Little fighting of moment is going on in the Russian, Macedonian and Austro-Italian theaters. Along the Narayuvka river in Galicia attacks by the Russians have been put down by the Austro-Germans. The town of Polog and Julse hill have been captured by the Serbians from the Bulgarians, according to Paris. Berlin admits an advance by the Serbians in this region. No infantry engagements on the Austro-Italian front have been reported.

French Charge And Gain Ground

Paris.—The war office announces that the French gained ground in the battle which has been in progress for several days for possession of Sally-Sallisel, on the Somme front. The Germans penetrated French trenches south of the Somme, but were subsequently expelled.

MAJORITY OF PAPERS WANT WHEAT EMBARGO

In Southern States, However, Sentiment Appears To Be Against Such Procedure

Columbus, Ohio.—Of 175 newspapers throughout the United States which participated in a poll conducted by the National Association of Bakers to determine public sentiment on the question of an embargo on wheat, 74 have expressed themselves as in favor of such an embargo or as inclined to such views where no editorial stand has been taken on the subject, according to a report made public here. Fifty-four expressed themselves as definitely opposed to an embargo. The remaining papers did not answer in full the questions asked and the information sought was not given.

The sentiment in favor of the embargo seems to be developed most largely in the Northern states and the Southern states appear to be against it. Several of the Southern editors expressed themselves regarding an embargo or export tax as a war measure.

Answering a question as to the sentiment of their communities in regard to the project, forty-four reported their communities as in favor and nineteen against the measure.

The detailed results of the poll, it is contemplated, will be placed before President Wilson and the departments of agriculture and commerce within the month.

The Master Bakers' association announces that the poll was taken in furtherance of an effort to conserve American crops to secure lower prices of flour in this country.

Much More Decisive Policy Expected

Judge Toulmin Summoned By Death

Mobile, Ala.—Judge Harry Theopilus Toulmin, United States court, southern district of Alabama, died here. He was stricken with paralysis. This December he would have served thirty years on the federal bench. Recently he notified President Wilson of his intention to retire December 1, but his resignation had not been accepted. He was born in Toulminville, March 4, 1835. At 16 he entered the University of Alabama and later took courses at the Universities of Virginia and Louisiana.

Policeman Is Killed By Atlanta Negro

Atlanta, Ga.—Policeman W. E. Armistead was shot to death and Policeman W. D. Wallace injured about one o'clock in the morning in a duel with an unknown negro whom they had just placed under arrest. The two men made the arrest at the corner of Simpson and Orme streets, a part of their beat. Just as they were about to place the handcuffs on the black he jerked loose from their hold, and, drawing his pistol, began firing. His action was so sudden that the policemen had no time to act in defense.

FORTY PERSONS LOSE LIVES

Boston Elevated Street Railway Car Plunges Through Open Drawbridge Into Fort Point Channel

Boston.—The lives of from thirty to forty persons were lost when a crowded passenger car of the Boston Elevated Street railway plunged through an open drawbridge into Fort Point channel, just outside the South station terminal.

Twelve persons were rescued from the water by fire boats and tugs. One man, Thomas J. Gannon, died after being brought to shore. Two bodies were found with grappling irons, but the recovery of other bodies was delayed, as it was believed they were pinned in the car which rested on the bottom of the channel, 35 feet deep.

Gerald Walsh, motorman of the car, who jumped before it went over the edge of the draw, asserted that the accident was due to the fact that there was no light on the gates protecting the opening. He and George McKeon, the conductor, who also leaped and so saved his life, were arrested on technical charges of manslaughter. The conductor was insensible and the police were unable to learn exactly the number of his passengers.

Some of the rescued people estimate the number of passengers at upward of fifty.

Declares There Was Light

The first assistant draw tender, Timothy J. Shea, who was in charge of the bridge, disputed the statement of the motorman that there was no light at the draw.

The draw tender said that he received a signal about 5:25 p. m. from the towboat William G. Williams, which was going up stream with a lighter in tow.

"I was in the controlling house," said Shea, "and I took all the usual precautions. There were red lights on the gate. I opened the draw and the tugboat started to come through. Suddenly my attention was attracted by a crash and screams. As I looked around the car went right through the gate of the draw and plunged into the channel. Only the rear trucks remained on the rail, the body of the car breaking away from these trucks and disappearing under the water."

FRENCH DRIVE GERMANS ON FRONT OF 2½ MILES

Attack Made From Chaines Wood To Southeast of Ablaincourt—500 Prisoners Captured

Paris.—The French have taken German positons on a front of four kilometers (two and one-half miles) extending from Chaulnes wood to southeast of Ablaincourt refinery, says the official communication issued by the war office. The villages of Ablaincourt and Pressoire and Ablaincourt cemetery were captured. More than five hundred prisoners were taken.

German airmen dropped incendiary bombs on Nancy, but did no damage, according to the official statement. There were no casualties.

The statement recapitulates the prisoners taken by Franco-British troops in the course of the fighting on the Somme front since July 1, giving their number up to November 1 as 71,532 men and 1,449 officers, while the number of guns captured is given as 173 field guns, 130 heavy guns, 215 trench mortars and 981 machine guns.

Of this total the French captured 40,976 men, 809 officers, 77 field guns, 101 heavy guns, 104 trench mortars and 535 machine guns.

NO AGREEMENT ON MEXICAN QUESTION

SETTLEMENT BY JOINT COMMISSION IS EXPECTED AT AN EARLY DATE.

WILL MEAN RECALL OF TROOPS

Believed That Withdrawal at Any Time Will Be Made Subject to Conditions at That Time.

Atlantic City, N. J.—After the conference of the Mexican-American joint commission, it was intimated that an agreement providing for the withdrawal of the American punitive expedition would be reached at an early date.

Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission, said he believed a settlement would be reached within a few days. He went to Philadelphia again, where it is understood he will confer with Rafaelo Nieto, subsecretary of the department of finance, Mexico, of which Mr. Cabrera is the head.

Mr. Cabrera announced to the American commissioners that General Carranza had extended to January 14 the time given mine owners for re-opening their properties.

In the event of an agreement being formed for the withdrawal of the American troops, it probably will not stipulate that they be brought out of Mexico at once, but that they be recalled within a reasonable time. It is believed that the withdrawal at any time will be made subject to conditions at that time.

That General Carranza is sincere in his efforts to drive Villa and his followers from the field is not doubted by the American commissioners, although they have been keenly interested in what apparently was the inability of the present Mexican army to accomplish that purpose.

News that General Murgia had been selected to succeed General Jacinto Trevino in charge of operations in the north, was received by the Americans as further evidence of the determination to pursue the campaign against his northern enemies.

FACE GENERAL STRIKE.

Head of Trainmen Says Men Will Quit if Roads Fail to Observe Eight-Hour Law.

New York.—Danger of a nation-wide railroad strike, which was believed to have been averted by the passage of the Adamson eight-hour law, has not entirely disappeared, it developed here, when representatives of the railroads and the four brotherhoods, comprising 600,000 employes, failed to reach an agreement as to the proper application of the new law. The stumbling block, both sides admitted, was the existing mileage system of compensation.

The announcement of the latest deadlock between the railroads and their employes came at the conclusion of an all-day conference between the national conference committee of the railways and the brotherhood chiefs, which had been arranged in September.

"We met," said Elisha Lee, chairman of the railroad managers and the conference, "for the purpose of exchanging ideas on the application and operation of the Adamson law. We failed to reach an agreement and we are not certain that another meeting will take place."

William G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, spokesman for the employes in the absence of A. B. Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors, declared in a statement that in the event of evasion by the railroads of the Adamson law summary action would be taken by the brotherhoods. He said that the strike order, which was directly responsible for the law, was still in effect, and the brotherhoods would not hesitate to enforce it if the occasion warranted.

South Dakota Voters "Put One Over."

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Candidates for presidential nominations will henceforth have to appear in South Dakota to take part in joint debates, or their names cannot appear on primary ballots in this state, if a primary law enacted under the initiative, remains on the statutes until 1920. The law divides each of the parties into "majority" and "minority" factions, requiring that each faction offer complete set of candidates in the biennial primaries. Candidates for nomination for President and governor must challenge one another to joint debate.

Drinking of Water

(By V. M. PIERCE, M. D.)

The general conclusions of the latest Medical Scientists proves that drinking plenty of pure water both between meals and with one's meals is beneficial to health. It has now been proven by means of the X-rays and actual tests upon many healthy young men that the drinking of large amounts of water with meals is often beneficial. Therefore if you want to keep healthy drink plenty of pure water (not ice water), both with your meals and between meals. If you ever suffer from backache, lumbago, rheumatism, or any of the symptoms of kidney trouble—such as deep colored urine, sediment in urine, getting out of bed at night frequently and other troublesome effects, take a little Anuric before meals. These Anuric Tablets can be obtained at almost any drug store.

GAVE HIS WIFE A SURPRISE

Indiana Man, Dressed for Festive Occasion, Was Taken by Spouse for Bold Burglar.

A member of the degree team of the Columbus lodge of Eagles was getting himself ready to go to Greensburg, where the Columbus team was to give the work to a class of candidates, relates the Indianapolis News. Each member of the Columbus team was to wear a dress suit. This member did not have any evening clothes, so he borrowed an outfit, including a boiled shirt, high collar and white tie. He got home rather late and found his wife in bed, asleep. He wished to try the thing on to see just how he looked. So, after dint of much nervous expenditure, he had everything in shape and rather admired himself in the mirror. He felt it was a shame for his wife to miss the great sight, so he went into the bedroom, shook her gently and waited for her to awaken. The woman opened her eyes and looked into the face of a strange man attored in fashionable evening clothes. She gave one scream and ducked under the cover.

"Go away, go away," she begged the supposed gentleman burglar, "we haven't any money."

"Nobody knows that any better than I do," her husband retorted, "but that's no reason why you should carry on like this."

Then she recognized his voice, came from under the covers and admired him to his heart's content.

GREAT ACTOR ON HIS DIGNITY

Richard Mansfield's Rebuke to Subordinate Who Spoke Lightly of Theatrical Production.

With reference to fine discrimination in the use of the well-known English language, it is possible to overdo the thing.

Diving into the trunk of recollections for the suitable illustration to adorn this remark and point the moral, we find it in Richard Mansfield's occupancy of the Garrick theater in New York days of hilarity on that stage.

To Mansfield this theater was a temple. He tolerated no lightly spoken references to it. One day, when an attache reported, Mansfield gave instructions and started for his dressing room.

"I'll see you after the show," said the business lieutenant in parting.

"'After the show?'" repeated the actor-manager, with dignity. 'Are we acrobats?'

"After the perfromance," replied his associate, humbly.

"'The perfromance!' exclaimed Mansfield. 'Are we ants?'

"Im very sorry," mumbled the crushed manager; "I'll see you after the play, sir."

"I shall be pleased to see you then," answered Mansfield.

How True.

"What in your opinion is the most startling transformation?"

"When a note becomes due."

He was fired at three times, the bullets grazing his clothing each time. Aside from this shooting scrap, the other offenders were charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

TURNED TO OLD FRIEND CARDUI

And Soon Was Perfectly Well and Strong, And Better Than She Had Ever Been, Says Kentucky Lady.

Narrows, Ky.—Mrs. C. F. Askins, of this place, writes: "About 15 years ago I had got into a run-down state, my back ached all the time, felt weak, my bones seemed to ache all over. I had weighed only 104 lbs. when I married, and never had been right robust since I reached womanhood . . . but after my marriage I seemed to get worse all the time for two years . . . until at this time my brother's wife . . . advised me to take Cardui. Therefore, I began taking it, and in a short while I began to improve, my health and strength began to be built up, and also my flesh.

After my first child's birth, over two years had passed by, but the . . . didn't appear. My husband got me some medicine from our doctor, which did me no good, tho he intended it to bring the . . . about, for he said the blood was going to my head and causing it to ache, which also helped to make me so dizzy. . . So I turned to my old friend Cardui and began taking it and . . . soon I was perfectly well and strong, gradually gained flesh until I weighed about 195 lbs., and was so stout and strong, better than I ever had been."

Cardui, used by thousands of women and prescribed by physicians, must be a good medicine. Try it.—Adv.

PUBLIC ROADS

ROAD BUILDING A BAROMETER

Prospective Buyers of Real Estate First Want to Know If Roads Are Being Built.

In a real estate office the other day a man from the corn belt was listening to the agent describe the lands on his list. He asked about soil, crops, markets and then faced the agent squarely.

"What I want to know most about right now," said he, "is your roads. If you are building roads your country is all right. If you are not, I will look a little further along."

As but one township in the county had worked up nerve enough to pass a $60,000 bond issue, he looked "a little further along."

The would-be buyer is not the only man who watches road building as a sort of barometer indicating what a section is going to do, says an Oklahoma writer in Farm Progress. The bond buyer has his eye on such communities. He knows that they are going to get somewhere, for the plain reason that they are willing to pay for progress. He regards the road situation as more significant than farm club organizations or the number of farmers' institutes. He may consider that talk is cheap, but good roads indicate a willingness to spend money in order to get more money.

Road bonds are counted as a good investment because the township or the county upon which they have been voted is going to be a better and more productive region. The section is going to develop, it is going to be worth and produce more and get to be worth more every year. That makes a good and a safe investment.

Years ago the department of agriculture watched the results on land values of the building of good roads through some of the eastern states, particularly in Virginia. Some of these lands had been "worn out," it was thought, in the production of tobacco. Good roads, not makeshift dirt affairs, were laid down and in a couple of years land prices climbed right up the ladder. They were in touch with the world, with the towns and with the markets 12 months in the year, and the buyers appreciated this and were willing to show their appreciation in cold, round dollars.

That the owners, some of whom had fought the roads bitterly, had a lively appreciation of the same thing, was shown by the quickness with which they raised their prices per acre and the firmness with which they turned down all lower offers. The roads showed them and they were quick of understanding.

Up in Iowa the "unearned increment" has made a lot of farmers mighty nearly rich. "Unearned increment" is a way of describing what happens when a man buys land cheaply and an increasing population makes it worth more. It is something that happens sooner or later in every community that is built up out of the wilderness, in every town that starts to grow and keeps growing.

Good roads help to ripen this "unearned increment" about as fast as anything can. Of course, a man who pays so many cents per acre over a term of years in order to meet the interest and the principal on road bonds is helping somewhat toward earning this "increment," but he is getting by far the better end of the deal. At the most he is not going to pay out very much money, and when land begins to climb up by $5 an acre leaps he certainly can cash in if he cares to.

But he won't care to turn this increase of value into money if he knows the ways of wisdom. He will live by the side of the road, filled with a sense of satisfaction that his estate has been increased in value and that the good, hard highway is going to make it easier for him to be a better farmer and to make more money.

The passage of a good roads bond issue is a forecast of what a community is going to be ten years hence.

$5,000,000 FOR GOOD ROADS

First Federal Aid Money Now Being Distributed by Authorities in Washington.

Following the enactment of the federal good roads bill last Spring, the work of apportioning and awarding to the different states the first $5,000,000 to be distributed this year is now proceeding at the department of agriculture. There is an evident disposition on the part of the state highway commissioners to have this money expended upon the main interstate roads.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 19

FROM MELITA TO ROME.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 28:11-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am not ashamed of the gospel; for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth.—Rom. 1:16.

In this lesson we see somewhat of the human side of Paul's character. No man appreciated fellowship more than he. Look up Acts 17:15; 18:5; I Cor. 7:6; I Thess. 3:1, 2; II Tim. 4:21.

I. The Sea Journey (vv. 11-14). Paul left Melita (Malta) probably February, A. D. 60. From there to Syracuse was a distance of between 80 and 100 miles. From the island of Syracuse (now a part of Italy) to Rhegium was one day's sail. From Rhegium to Puteoli was 180 miles. Puteoli (modern Pozzuoli) is in the Bay of Naples, eight miles from the modern city of Naples. Paul and his band who had done so much for the Maltese were specially honored with many honors. (v. 10.)

In these verses we have a picture of Paul seeking out his brethren wherever he went, thanking God and taking courage as they came to meet with him and converse with him. It is a picture upon which we ought to ponder deeply and be grateful that it reveals to us a side of Paul little known and appreciated.

II. The Land Journey (vv. 14, 15). At Puteoli, Paul and his companions began their march to 140 miles to the city of Rome. After a march of 60 miles they reached the famous Appii Forum, i. e., "The market of Appius." Here Paul is met by the first delegation from the church at Rome, who were waiting to welcome him and Luke and escort them to the capital city. A second delegation met them at the Three Taverns, or "The Three Shops," as we would call stores in the modern sense. These Christians had come at no small cost, as they had to walk 46 miles to the Appii Forum and 33 to the Three Taverns, and then walk the same distance back to the city. Thus it was that the sight of these friends cheered Paul and he thanked God. We can well imagine the joy of those souls, the communion enjoyed by those pilgrims as they journeyed toward the imperial city.

We can see in the letters which Paul wrote from Rome plain signs of his longing for sympathetic friends and can imagine how he must have felt upon being thus greeted on his journey. We can also imagine something of the blessing and inspiration which must have come to those Christians who met this famous soldier of the cross and had the privilege of escorting him to the city.

III. In Rome (vv. 16-29). Having entered into the city the centurion Julius, who had become a friend of Paul, delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard. This officer we are told was a liberal-minded man, one of the few good people in the corrupt life of the city. Paul was probably first taken to the forum, which was the center of imperial power and magnificence and near which was the "house of Caesar." (Phil. 4:22.) Paul was not sent to prison for it was against the law to put a Roman into prison without a trial, but he was permitted to dwell by himself in "his own hired house." Of course, there was a soldier who guarded him. This was the city where Paul had so long desired to preach the Gospel. (Rom. 1:14-16.) As in other places, he first turned to the Jews, for he loved his own people no matter how much he had suffered at their hands. He got them together that he might preach unto them Jesus and sought to conciliate them.

In Paul's preaching he always emphasized that a Messiah was risen from the dead as a guaranty of all other resurrections. In his day, as in this present one, there were those who spoke against this, and yet that resurrection was to conquer the world and to save it from moral ruin. Those present had had no word out of Judea. (v. 21.) At a later and a public meeting (v. 23) there came unto him, that is, into his lodgings, great numbers to whom Paul sounded the Gospel of the kingdom and gave his personal testimony. He proved out of the law of Moses and out of the prophets, common ground for them all, that the Messiah had truly come, the prophecies of the kingdom of God had been fulfilled, and that Jesus by his life and death and teaching had shown the Jews how perfectly the latter were fulfilled. This Paul did from morning till evening, following the same line as in his speech before Agrippa and in other places where he had been testifying. All of his explanations and testimonials centered in Jesus. It was no abstract mental theory for an improved order of society but a definite reign of a definite person, Jesus of Nazareth. Paul is a great example for any Bible student to follow.

As on so many other occasions, Paul's preaching caused a division. (v. 26.)

And again he turns to the Gentiles. (v. 28.)

Paul told them plainly what lay at the root of their unbelief (v. 27), and though they refused the salvation it was none the less of God.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY DISEASES

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a remedy for diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of even the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription for special diseases, makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—fifty cents and one dollar.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

To Save Nut Trees.

The Northern Nut Growers' association is trying to save the fine nut trees, says a circular just sent out by the association. The association was founded a few years ago by a surgeon, a family physician, a lawyer, a professor of horticulture and a plain ordinary enthusiast—all tree lovers, of course. Along with the many others who have joined them, they have learned how to graft the nut trees, and they believe that we would have orchards worth $500 or more per acre, if they were composed of trees as good as the best native trees now growing wild right here in the United States.

Uncle Eben—Wal, in a big one the crowd follows the fire engine to find out where the fire is, and in a little one the fire engine follows the crowd to find out where it is.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH! IT'S MERCURY AND SALIVATES

Straighten Up! Don't Lose a Day's Work! Clean Your Sluggish Liver and Bowels With "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. Take a dose of the vile, dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you feel sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store or dealer and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.—Adv.

Has Two Hats Now.

"I found such a wonderful bargain," said Mrs. Flatter.

"What was it?" asked her husband, a resident of Back Bay.

"You know I went downtown to buy a hat. Well, just as I got in the store they put up a sign, 'All hats at half price!'"

"So you only had to spend half of the money you intended."

"Oh, no, I bought two hats instead of one."

One mistake many women make in buying coffee

You know how hard it is to get a coffee which really satisfies you. You know how seldom you can find a coffee which has the same fine taste and strength every morning! It can be done. You can do it if, when you buy coffee, you are careful not to make the mistakes so many women make. Read the experiences below—you yourself have undoubtedly had one or both of them.

The wrong way

Beware of loose coffee

Are you buying coffee which you get loose, coffee which hasn't been protected by a sealed package?

Are you afraid that it isn't clear? Has it lost its aroma? Are you often disappointed in its strength?

It isn't the grocer's fault. With loose coffee he can't be sure that it is the same kind he got before. You always run the risk of getting different coffee every time you buy.

And even if the coffee itself were the same, it can't be kept "loose" without losing its strength and flavor.

In packages—protected!

You can do away with every one of these disappointments by ordering the coffee which over one million other families drink.

Arbuckles' Coffee is such good coffee that way back in the sixties, when all other coffees on the market were loose and unprotected, Arbuckle Bros. protected theirs in sealed packages. This sealed package keeps the coffee's strength, and guards it from moisture and store odors. Most important of all, it makes it easy for you to be sure that you are getting the same good coffee every time you buy.

The right way

The second mistake women make

Old coffee with new names

Are you continually being offered the same old coffee under new names? Under all sorts of new blends?

Did you ever stop to think of the hundreds of coffees which come and go on the market? And that all of these have tried to turn women away from Arbuckles' Coffee?

Arbuckles' is the coffee which has gone right out, always under its own name, never disguised, and held its users simply on the wonderful value it gave. You know what good value a coffee must be to do this against the competition of all the other coffees in America!

The wrong way

Used in a million homes

Settle, for all time, your coffee problem, by giving your family the only coffee which over a million families have proved to have the real coffee taste they want.

When you get Arbuckles' Coffee you get an entirely different coffee. No other coffee goes through the same process—in no other coffee can you get the same good flavor. The result of the care Arbuckle Brothers take in selecting it, in roasting and in packaging it, gives you an entirely different coffee from any other on the market.

Order it from your grocer today. He has it, in either the Whole Bean or the new Ground. Try it. See why it is by far the most popular coffee in America. Arbuckle Brothers, 71-Bm 2 Water St., New York.

THINKING END NEAR MADE OUT HIS WILL

Was Helpless and Couldn't Work All Summer—Gains Thirty Pounds on Tanlac.

"Along last Spring I was taken down with a bad spell of the Gripp. I got so bad off I had to take my bed and I was down for six weeks. I also had rheumatism and suffered with my kidneys and I was so nervous and full of misery I couldn't sleep and many a night I would sit up in a chair nearly all night long.

"After I got down in bed I sent for the doctor but got no relief and his medicine didn't seem to suit my case. I lost my appetite and couldn't even keep milk and eggs on my stomach.

"I was in bed six weeks and never got out at all. Along toward the last I got so weak I couldn't even turn over in bed. To tell you the truth I was a sick man and thought I was going to die. Finally the doctors told me I would have to go to the hospital so I closed up my business and made my will; for I coulden't see much chance of getting well.

"Now this is just the shape I was in when I decided to try Tanlac, and I sent my daughter for the first three bottles. Now just think of it, that three bottles of Tanlac got me up and able to work, and you can believe me or not but in just thirty days after I started on it I had gained thirty pounds in weight, which is an average of one pound a day.

"Now when a medicine will do things like that I think the people ought to know about it, and I want to say right now that I will take pleasure in telling anybody that Tanlac has done for me, because I feel it my duty to let it be known.

"Not only that but anything I can do for you people I will feel a pleasure in doing it for your medicine has got me up and out again. I am working regular every day, making $4.00 a day as a marble setter and making a good living for my family, after I hadn't been able to strike a lick all summer.

"Altogether I have taken six bottles, but I was able to walk three miles after finishing my third bottle. I guess a good many people will hear about my case and if they don't believe what they read in the papers, just tell them to come to see me and I will be glad to tell them all about it."

The above remarkable statement was made by Rhoan H. Bell, a well known marble setter who lives at 925 Halycon Avenue, Waverly Place, Nashville, Tenn., and is highly respected by all who know him.

Tanlac is sold in Clanton, exclusively by Upchurch Drug Co., in Mt. Creek by J. E. Deon; in Jemison by Langston Drug Co.; in Thorsby by A. K. Horn & Son; and in Cooper by McSwain Mercantile Co.; in Verbena by Gulledge Bros. in Marbury by Plateau Drug Co.; in Riderville by E. E. Jackson Lumber Co.; in Stanton by W. C. Dyer, and in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Last Friday at 3:00 o'clock a foot ball game was played on the High school grounds between the small boys of the High school and the boys of the Grammer school. Although the boys from the grammer school fought like bull dogs the high school won with a score of 14 to 6.

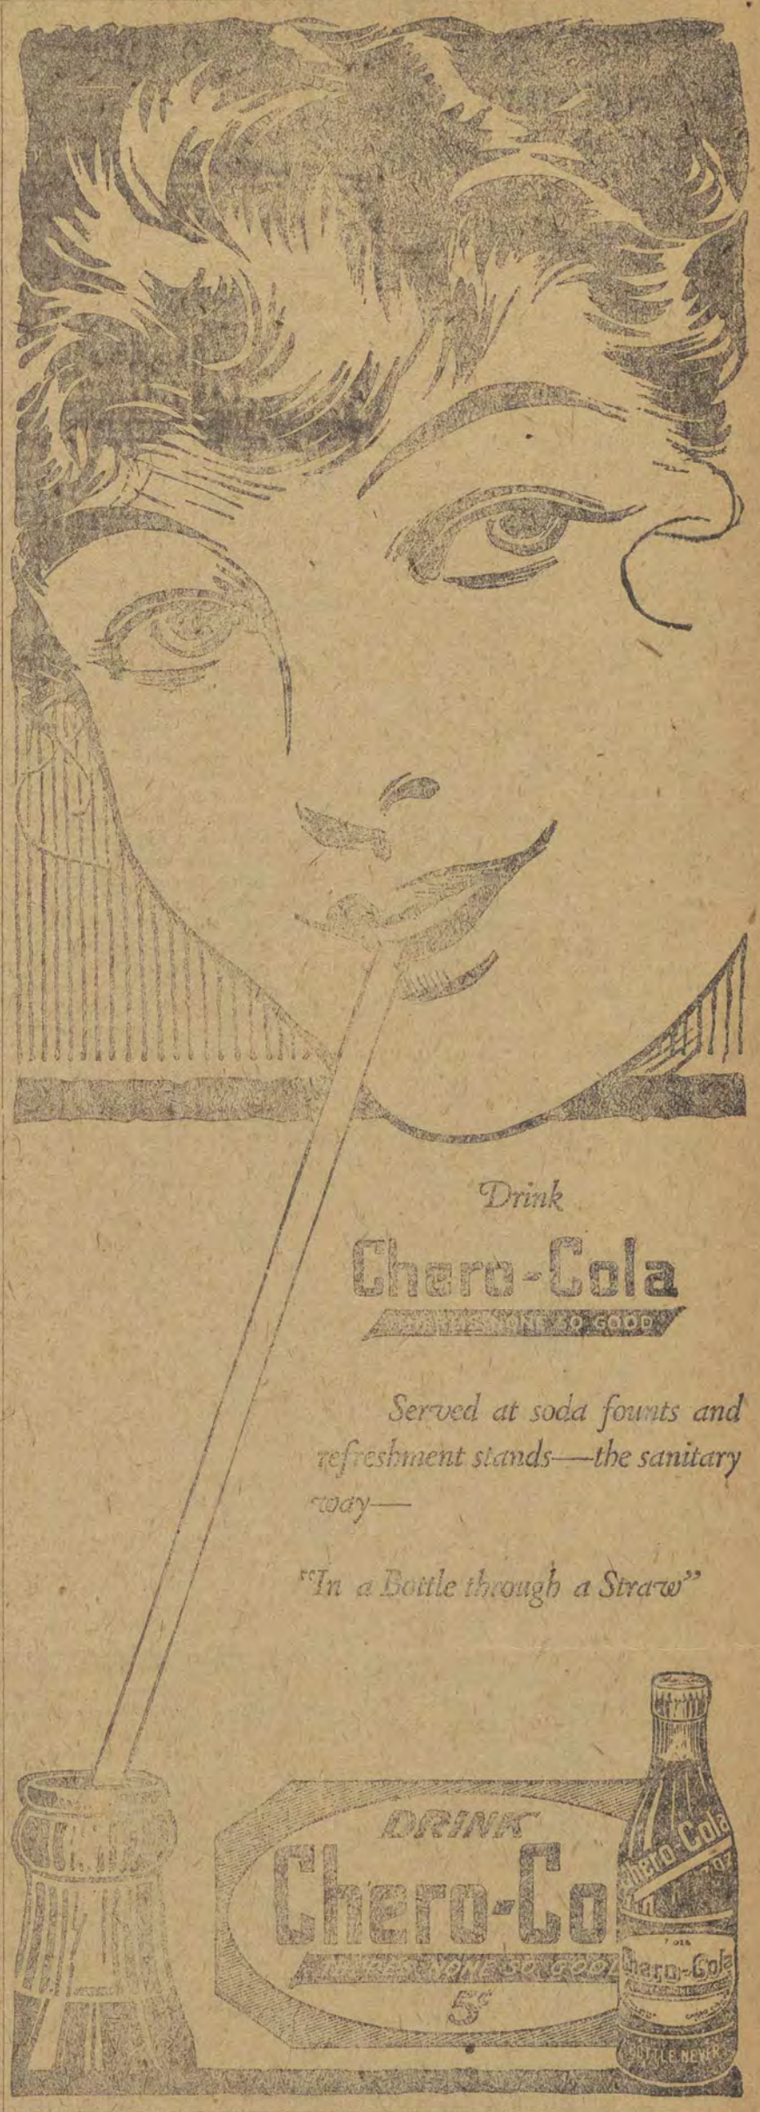
Dick—Miss Durrett I wish you didn't like me so well. You are all the time wanting me to come up to the front.

Chester Mims says a dog gone Democrat is not fit to vote.

Cecil—Look here, my daddy is a Democrat and you have got to take some of that back.

Roberta Curry says that she has proved beyond a reasonable doubt that a triangle has four angles.

Mac, the janitor reports that the pigs are fattening real fast, and that the High school will soon have meat for sale.



Most of the students are wearing a smile this week, for the Teachers Institute will be held at the High school building beginning on Wednesday and that gives them three holidays.

The foot ball boys are undergoing some hard practice this week. They expect to play a game on Friday for the interest of the teachers. They also expect to have a good turn out from the town.

Roy—Say Aaron, do you know why Akins has stopped coming on the train?

Aaron—No, why?

Roy—It is because he has got to the place that he can't keep up with his books and lunch. He misses his lessons and has to do without his dinner on account of leaving them on the train. So his father thought it best to let him come through the country so he would get a better report and not come home hungry every night.

HEARD AT THE CAPITAL AT WASHINGTON, D. C.

Things of Interest regarding the Arrangement of the next Congress.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Although there will be many changes in both Houses of Congres and some of them very important and involving a loss to the country, yet on both sides of the Senate and House there have been returned men who have had many years of experience and whose guidance in the future wil serve well to promote the expedition of wise legislation. Among the Democratic members of the House who have been returned and who will render good service in the future, as they have in the past, are Champ Clark, of Missouri, and Fitzgerald of New York, both of them independent of executive dictation, although loyal to party interests Champ Clark has made a very acceptable speaker. Representative Fitzgerald labored zealously, though not very effectively, to keep down the appropriations demanded by the President's Cabinet. Representative J. R. Mann, of Ilinois, the Republican floor leader, will be a member of the next Congress. Representative Gillette, of Masachusetts, who has been an ardent defender of the civil service, will probably become Fitzgerald's successor as chairman of the Appropriations Committee, in case the Republicans asume control. Rperesentative Fordney, of Michigan, who is recognized as one of the best informed members of the House on the tariff, will become chairman of the Ways and Means Committee which frames tariff bills, if the Republicans have the privilege of organizing the committee.

Good Work by Republican Press

It is universally recognized among Republicans at the national capital that the Republican Press of the country did exceedingly good work during the recent political campaign. In no instance that has come to public attention were the Republican editors successfully taken to task by their Democratic rivals. The only Democratic argument that it was impossible to meet successfully was that "he kept us out of war." Most people would acknowledge, when conperity is due chiefly to the war in Europe, but many voters refused to fronted with the facts, that our proslet this fact arouse them to the neccessity for industrial preparation for after-the-war conditions. So far as facts could be presented, they were thoroughly presented by the Republican newspapers of the country. The only criticism that has been made is directed not against the Republican press, but against the national campaign management.

New Senate Chairmanships

Several changes in the membership of the Senate will neccessitate many changes in chairmanships of Senate Committees. It is a long established practice to recognize length of service as giving Senators priority claims to committe chairmanships. The death of Clark, of Arkansas, the defeat of Kern, of Indiana, the voluntary retirement of O'Gorman, of New York, the defeat of Martine, of New Jersey, and the retirement of Bryan, of Florida, will create vacancies on important committees, to be filled by promotions, which in turn, will create other vacancies in chairmanships, and make an almost entirely new arraangement. There will also be a readjustment of ranking memberships among Republicans on many committees, although Republicans hold no important chairmanships. The defeat of Clark, of Wyoming, and of Sutherland, of Utah, will create vacancies in important committees and result in many changes incidental thereto.

Several Editors Re-Elected

A number of newspaper publishers, who are members of the present Congres, have been re-elected to serv in the next Congress. Among those are Evris A. Hayes, of the San Jose, California, Mercury; Hon. D. R. Anthony, of the Lavenworth, Kansas, Times; Edward W. Gray, of the Bayonne, New Jersey Review; and Benjamin K. Focht, of the Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, News.

Hon. J. O. Middleton,
Clanton, Ala.,

Dear Sir:

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY IS GRANTED A FRANCHISE

The council of the town of Clanton has granted a franchise to the Alabama Power Co., whose enormous plant is located at Lock 12, for the operation of a light and power system in Clanton.

It is supposed that the big company will soon contemplate the erection of a transmission line from Lock 12 here, and furnish to desirable patrons the use of electric lights and power.

Lock 12 is only about 12 or 14 miles distant from Clanton.

STORE HOUSE BURNED AT MOUNTAIN CREEK

The large Grocery Store and contents belonging to Toney Maddox at Mountain Creek were destroyed by fire on Wednesday night at about 11:00 o'clock.

The stock of goods and building was worth about $6,000.00, which is almost a total loss. It is understood that there was some insurance.

"LAUGHING BILL"

Some where in the City of Ensley there is a fellow who calls himself "Laughing Bill." This fellow writes a letter this week for publication, but fails to inform us who "Laughing Bill" is. Mr. "Bill" doubtless is not aware of that custom of ours which keps us from publishing letters when we don't know who they are from.

"Laughing Bill" says he is from Chilton County.

There is one thing certian: for the next four years President Wilson will not declare that he inherited any of his troubles from the previous administration.

MORE FACTS ON THOSE CATTLE TICKS

The cattle tick lives on the outside, but gets its living from the inside.

If the cattle tick blew as hard as they suck, tick infested cattle would look like baloons.

A tick infested steer weighing 730 pounds was free from cattle ticks by dipping. In two months, with the same kind of feed, it gained 285 pounds. The owner was then feeding the steer instead of the ticks.

Ticks reduce the value of hides. Hides that have been punctured by ticks are usually graded as No. 4 quality, while the same hides if free from ticks would grade as No. 2 This depreciation averages about $1.25 a hide.

A dairyman in a heavily infested territory dipped his herd of 42 cattle. One week after dipping the cows gave 10 gallons of milk a day more than before. The milk sold for 35 cents a gallon, $3.50 more per day from his herd. He had begun to feed the cows instead of the ticks.

Nine hundred and thirty three counties were under quarantine on July 1st, 1906, because of cattle tick. By September 1st, 1916, the use of arsenical dipping baths and cleaned the tick from 396 counties and 31 parts of counties.—Montgomery Advertiser

$11,000 WORTH OF COTTON

On Tuesday of this week the Clanton Mercantile Co. purchased of Chilton County farmers a little over a hundred bales of cotton. The amount paid for same was over eleven thousand dollars. This is probably the biggest pile of cash ever turned loose by a Clanton firm in a single day for cotton alone.

Next week we will publish a complete list of the premiums awarded at the Chilton County Fair week before last. Look for it, and keep it fir reference.

DEATH OF PROF. GRIGGS

Just after midnight of November 14th, Professor Howard Griggs, fifty-five years of age, died at his home in Marbury following an illness which extended over more than two years. Professor Griggs has made this town his residence for several years past, but at one time was a resident of Montgomery. He was born at Tuskegee, and resided in that city until early manhood. He at one time was the superintendent of the Dothan City Schools. He is survived by his wife, and two daughters, both of whom are teachers in the Marbury schools, and by four sons. The remains were taken to Montgomery, where the funeral services took place Thursday.—Marbury Journal.

GIRLS CLUB WORK

Some of the results of the years' work may be of great interest to our members at this time, so will give a few items from our annual report which was sent in November 1st.

Of the 156 girls and 55 women enrolled, only eight failed to plant their seed and make some effort to carry out their pledge on enrollment card. On account of the early dry weather and the continuous rains of mid-summer, many had no results to show for their labor; but one hundred and eight record books were sent in.

The girls canned 4753 containers of tomatoes in tin and glass. In the homes of these girls there were 4935 containers of vegetables, fruits, preserves, pickles, etc, canned and retained for home consumption.

On the Scholarship, to Montevallo to the short course, for the greatest amount realized from one-tenth acre of tomatoes was awarded to Miss Ruby Sutley, Jemison, her profits being $49.93. Her tomatoes were sold on the market in Birmingham.

Miss Icie Dupriest followed with a close second, and gets a scholarship also. The value of her canned products after all expenses had been deducted being $48.16.

Annie Davis is third with a record of $31.74.

While the results as a whole are not so large as they should be under favorable conditions, yet they are excellent with conditions as they were in the county.

Do not be discouraged girls and I am sure you are not, it is far better to make a god honest effort and fail, than to make no effort at all. All products put into marketable containers by the members have been sold, and could have sold a much larger quantity, as we have calls for them every day, both in the county and out of it. The greatest work of the Clubs are not to be valued in dollars and cents. The improvement of home, community and country, and the utilizing of the many products of the home as a means to an end, and co-operative spirit it teaches are its greatest assets.

TEACHERS IN SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE SESSION FOUR DAYS LAST WEEK.

State Instructors Render to Chilton Teachers Much very Valuable and Practical advice.

Quite a successful Institute for the Teachers of Chilton county was held in Clanton last week.

The Institute was under the supervision of Prof. R. E. Ledbetter, Miss Lula Bradford and Prof. H. C. McDonald of Clanton.

The interest was good at first, but grew better and better each day of the institute. This in a very large measure was due to the excellent work done by each conductor.

Prof. Ledbetter is well and favorably known by the teachers of the county, having been one of the conductors last year. He had charge of the 6th and 7th grade work this year. His instructions were very valuable to the teachers who took his work. He is full of energy and has the knack of instilling it into others.

Miss Bradford has had the supervision of all the primary work in the City of Birmingham for several years Her instructions to the teachers in the primary work, particularly from the 1st to 5th grades was no doubt of inestimable value to the cause of education in the county.

Prof. McDonald had charge of the High school work. Every one in Chilton knows what Prof. McDonald takes hold of will be valuable to those who are fortunate enough to come under his instructions and influence.

Miss Esther Foster, of Montgomery was a visitor to the institute one day last week. She thoroughly impressed the teachers of the county with the paramount importance of removing "Illiteracy" from Chilton county. Miss Foster is conscientious, and has her work well in hand.

Miss Burk of the Department of Education, was an attractive visitor to the institute last Saturday in behalf of the establihing libraries in the rural schools. No doubt her address, which was full of humor, and important reasons why rural schools should have libraries will cause many more libraries to be established in the county. In fact, we feel reasonably sure the library spirit has been revived in the county.

Prof. H. C. McDonald was elected President of the Chilton County Teachers Association.

Prof. J. L. Johnson of the City School of Clanton, was elected President of the Chilton County School Improvement Society. Miss Jimmie Morrow, Vice-President; Miss Elsie Nonnenmacher, Secretary.

W. T. Bean was elected Secretary of the Chilton County Teachers Reading Circle.

TEACHERS WERE ENTERTAINED AT A DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 18.—Under auspices of the Ladies Civic Improvement Club of Clanton the local citizens of the town tendered a grand reception to the teachers attending the County Teachers Institute, at the High school building on last Friday night. The visitors were charmed with splendid musical and literary selections from a program arranged and rendered at the instance of Prof. T. L. Tinsley, the high school music teacher.

The audience consisted of a large number, composed of ladies and gentlemen from the city, the high school students, and about one hundred visiting teachers and educational workers.

A delightful course of refreshments consisting of hot chocolate and sandwiches was served free by the domestic science class of the county high school.

President Wilson should not hastily construe his election as an indorsement of his administration down to date. It may be the sort of verdict that we sometimes see rendered by a jury, "Not guilty, but don't do it again.'

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS SPENT THE LEAST IN THE RECENT CAMPAIGN

FINAL REPORT OF CANDIDATES

Several Successful Ones Go Through Campaign Without Spending a Penny

Montgomery.—Alabama's presidential electors, who will vote for Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall for President and vice president, were not forced to spend any money in the general election.

John F. Kelton, probate judge of Blount county, who made the campaign against the educational amendment, filed a sworn statement showing that he spent $517.75 in the campaign. He enclosed the statement with a letter to the secretary of state in which he said he was not required to file it, but desired to do so because of reports that some other interest was back of the movement to prevent the adoption of the amendment.

William B. Bankhead, of Jasper, who will be the Tenth district's first congressman, spent $197 in the general campaign. N. H. Freeman, of Haleyville, republican, opponent of Mr. Bankhead, swore that his campaign cost him $45.84.

J. J. Curtis, republican, who probably was elected circuit judge in the Walker-Winston circuit, over the democratic opponent, T. L. Sowell, spent $96.50.

John L. Burnett, who was re-elected congressman from the Seventh district, filed a statement showing an expenditure of $63.14 in the general election. All other democratic congressment were elected without spending any money in the campaign.

The campaign for the Selma amendment, which will remain in doubt until the official canvass, cost $2404.53.

Judge of the supreme court and court of appeals who were re-elected announced that they did not spend a penny in the campaign, while William E. Fort, who was reelected judge of the circuit court in Jefferson County, stated that his only expenditure was 2 cents, for a postage stamp, which brought his statement to the secretary of state.

John H. Wallace, Jr., again elected [illegible] commissioner for another term, went through the campaign without spending a penny, although he had two opponents. Samuel P. Kennedy's campaign for reelection as president of the Alabama public service commission, did not cost him anything after the democratic primary.

FARMERS TO USE NEW CREDITS.

Money Being Obtained Now on Much More Satisfactory Terms.

Eufaula.—Farmers and landowners of Barbour and neighboring Quitman County, Ga., are planning now to take advantage of the rural credits system as soon as the land banks are established and put into operation. When this is done, there will be more improvements made on local farms than have been made in a generation, for hand-to-mouth cotton farming is now a thing of the past with th eboll weevil here.

Many farmers are obtaining loans this year to make improvements and under more advantageous terms than ever before. Interest rates have dropped from 8 to 6 per cent. The large mortgage companies and insurance concerns already are taking steps to meet the competition that will begin with the operation of the farm loan boards. Not only has the interest rate been reduced, but the terms of the loans are much more satisfactory in every way.

IMPROVES SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

County Plans to Take Advantage of the New Amendment

Eufaula.—Those interested in the improvement of the public school system of Barbour County are already planning to take advantage of the provisions of the newly-passed educational amendment, which will permit each county to tax itself for its own schols. There is a crying need for betterment of the schools in the rural districts and during the past year this has been so greatly felt that farmers have taken the matter into their own hands and raised funds for the erection of buildings suitable to the school needs of their children.

One notable example is at Rocky Mount, about 17 miles west of Eufaula, where a building has just been completed at a cost of $3,000, and is now the best rural school in the county. It is a handsome frame building and is well equipped for those of all the grades. Louisville, a small town in the western end of the county, is now completing a $10,000 building, funds for which were raised by public subscription. Eufaula soon will issue $15,000 in bonds for the remodeling of the present school building and the erection of another.

SOLDIERS ENJOY LONG HIKES

Sham Battle Held by First Regiment Shows Results of Training

Nogales, Ariz.—The First Infantry, Alabama National Guard, returned from its first extended hike in excellent shape and equalling the record of the Second, which was the first out, came back without having to send a man to the hospital. There were a few sore feet, and one or two men rode into camp on wagons. But after a few hours, they, too, were ready for duty again.

The First had an extra added attraction on its hike that none of the other regiments experienced. Of late the engineers have been practicing building trenches, and there are quite a few of them on the line of march taken by the Alabama Troops. Thursday General Bricken and Lieut. Col. Butts, U. S. A., who is Inspector Instructor for the regiments, rode out to intercept the First. One battalion from the First and one battalion from the Utah Guard were put in the trenches and the two remaining Alabama battalions attacked. No ammunition was used, but the sham battle was held merely as a problem in attack and defense, and the troops enjoyed the demonstration. Colonel Butts expressed himself as quite pleased with the way the problem was handled.

Montgomery.—A school case from Houston county, of interest throughout the state was settled in the supreme court by a decision of Justice Sayre. It was that of N. B. Hughes against J. W. Outlaw, et als. The question involved was as to the admission of the children of Outlaw to the schools without paying the tuition fee levied by the trustees of the school. Hughes was the teacher who refused admission to the children unless the tuition fee was paid. The lower court ruled against him and the supreme court affirmed the decision.

MANY PRISONERS ARE TAKEN

West Of Predeal, Berlin Claims, The Invaders Have Carried a Mountain

London.—In western Wallachia, the advance of the Austro-Hungarians continues steadily, and Campulung, eighty miles northwest of Bucharest, the Roumanian capital is almost within the grasp of the invaders. Battles are taking place within a few miles of Campulung, which is at the head of a railway, and along a river that pentrates the plains west of Bucharest and Petrograd, says the forces of General von Falkenhayn have taken Liresht, about five miles northwest of Campulung. An attack against the Roumanian positions at Albrecht, less than three miles northwest of Campulung, was repulsed.

More than 2,100 prisoners were taken by the Austro-Hungarians in the latest operations in Wallachia, 1,500 alone being captured in engagements south of the Rothenthurm pass and toward Rimnik. West of Predeal the invaders, Berlin says, broke the Roumanian positions. Rungul mountain in Moldavia, east of Kenzivas Arhely, has been carried by Bavarian troops.

U-BOAT COLLISION UNDER U. S. PROBE

Agreed That Sinking Of Tug By The Deutschland And Drowning Of Five Men Was Accident

New London, Conn.—The collision which caused the merchant submarine Deutschland to abandon her return voyage to Germany almost at its outset, when a convoying tug, the T. A. Scott, Jr., was sunk with a crew of five men, was the subject of federal investigation this afternoon.

The United States inspectors of steam vessels, headed by Capt. W. E. Withey, heard, through witnesses, of the conditions under which the submarine, slipping out of the harbor in the darkness so that she might submerge in neutral waters before daybreak, ran down the town which was acting as her protector, off Race Rock, just outside this port. The testimony came from Capt. Paul Koenig of the Deutschland; from F. W. Krapohl, his chief officer, and from Hans Kleece, his chief engineer.

Survivors who would discuss the matter were agreed that it was due to a combination of swift currents, which carried the tug off its course and across the bow of the submarine, and to the darkness, which was to be the Deutschland's medium of safety, but which instead prevented ready observation of the danger ahead. Captain Koenig would say only to questioners:

"It's a terrible thing to lose those good men. I feel it deeply. You must excuse me."

U. S. BACKS 8-HOUR LAW

Department Of Justice Will Defend Suits By Railroads Against Enforcement Of 8-Hour Law

Washington.—Suits by railroads attacking the constitutionality of the eight-hour railroad law have been filed in many parts of the country, and the department of justice laid plans to defend them.

No offer has yet been made by the railroads to settle the question by one test case. It was stated officially that Attorney General Gregory has made no such proposition to the railroads, and the department is planinng to contest each suit as it comes up for hearing. Assistant Attorney General Underwood will have direct charge of the government's defense, and Frank Hagerman of Kansas City has been retained to assist him. Mr. Underwood expects to appear personally in most of the cases, but their number may make it necessary to employ other special counsel.

General Lines Of Defense

The attorney general and Solicitor General Davis has been in conference with Mr. Underwood frequently since the first suits were filed and the general lines of defense have been laid. Information so far-reaching the department shows that the railroads base their prayers for temporary restraining orders against the law becoming effective on the ground that it is unconstitutional and incapable of enforcement. The government will resist these contentions and asserts that congress had ample power to enact such legislation.

The department issued this statement:

"A large number of suits attacking the constitutionality of the Adamson law have been institution in various parts of the United States. The department of justice will take direct charge of these cases and Mr. Frank Hagerman of Kansas City, Mo., has been retained to assist in their preparation and trial."

Prompt and final decision by the Supreme court of constitutionality of the law is possible under federal court practice, it was stated by lawyers familiar with federal procedure.

GERMANS MAKE DRIVE AGAINST THE FRENCH

Both North And South Of The Somme Furious Attacks Are Launched By Troops Of The Kaiser

London.—While the British were advancing their front north of the Ancre river or consolidating their newly won positions, the French and Germans have been engaged in violent combats, both north and south of the Somme. In both regions the Germans made gains—in the northern corner and western outskirts of the St. Pierre Vaast wood, north of the river, and in the eastern part of the village of Pressoire, south of the stream.

The French official communication, in admitting the loss of this ground, says the Germans obtained only limited advantages at the price of very heavy losses. In the north the German attacks extended from Les Boeufs to the south of Bouchavesnes, a front of five miles, and south of the Somme from Ablaincourt to the Chaules wood, about three miles. The attacks were launched after violent artillery attacks preparation.

Berlin, in reverting to the British attack, which he gave them the town of Beaucourt, says that except at Beaucourt all the British attacks broke down with heavy casualties. On the southern bank of the Ancre the attack has been shattered, says Berlin, which adds that fighting is proceeding near Sailly Saillisel and Pressoire. According to London 5,678 Germans have been made prisoners on the Ancre front. The British losses, considering the extent of the gains, are declared not to have been so high.

Great Tidal Wave On French Coast

Paris.—Extraordinary weather conditions prevailing in France culminated in a tidal wave in the Gulf of Marseilles, on the Mediterranean coast, in which many vessels foundered and disastrous gales on the southwest coast of the Atlantic ocean. While it is not expected that the formal inauguration of Mr. Wilson will be held until Monday, March 5, he will be advised by Secretary Lansing to take the oath of office on Sunday.

Food Controller For Great Britain

London.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, in parliament, outlined the government's proposal for dealing with the food problem. The speech of Mr. Runciman had significance, aside from its actual context, as showing that the government is looking forward to protracted hostilities and foresees the necessity of timely measures for insuring the national food supply by an effective organization of national resources in a similar manner to that adopted in enemy countries.

SERBIANS AGAIN IN NATIVE LAND

French And Serbian Forces Capture The City Of Monastir, Where Serbs Will Establish Capital

IS GREAT ALLIED VICTORY

Allies Consider Capture Of City As One Of Most Important Developments Of War

Paris.—After having been for months men without a country, the Serbians are again to establish their capital on native soil. Monastir, in southern Serbia, for which the entente forces have been struggling since the advance from their base at Saloniki began, has been evacuted by the German and Bulgarian forces and occupied by the French and a considerable number of Serbs.

The French and Serbians having captured the crest of hills partly surrounding the valley town, the Germans found their position untenable and withdrew, according to Berlin, to a new position to the north of Manastir.

Unofficial advices from Saloniki say that a temporary capital of Serbia will be immediately established at Monastir. With the reoccupation of Monastir the railway line from the entente allied base at Saloniki now is in entente hands.

To the east and southeast of Monastir the French and Serbian troops continue to make gains in the Cerna river region against the Teutonic allies, having captured several towns in this region.

WORLD SITUATION FULL OF PORTENT FACED BY WILSON

For Next Few Weeks President And His Advisers Will Consider International Questions Only

Washington.—A portentous and complicated international situation now faces President Wilson and for the next few weeks will engage his attention and that of his advisers to the practical exclusion of all but the most urgent of domestic subjects.

In the last days of the campaign Secretary of State Lansing frequently spoke of the necessity of postponing action on the more delicate international questions because of the uncertainty of the outcome of the political contest had a direct bearing on the success or failure of some of the administration policies.

From now on the president expects to deal with all foreign questions without embarrassment and he is receiving from his advisers a summary of the outstanding issues so essential to taking stock of the basic situation which must be met now that international relations have returned to their place of prime importance. While it is not evident that there will be any fundamental change in policy, freedom from fear that any move at all would be misinterpreted as inspired by an internal political struggle has been removed, President Wilson and Secretary Lansing feel themselves able to act with a single eye to the international situation and their immediate conferences on the president's return to Washington indicate how pressing they feel the situation to be.

6,962 PRISONERS ARE TAKEN BY THE BRITISH

Berlin Claims British Paid Bloody Price—Bad Weather Checks Operations In North France

London.—Bad weather is hampering the operations on the western front in France, but the British nevertheless have taken twenty additional German officers and 752 men prisoners in the Ancre sector, making their total of prisoners since the 13th of November, 6,962.

Berlin says that in the fighting November 18, which was over a front of seven and a half miles, the British met with a sanguinary reverse except for insignificant gains southwest of Serre and near Grandocourt. A French attack south of Sailly-Saillisel met with a similar repulse. Attacks by the Austrians in the Adige valley and upper Butt regions, in the latter of which the Austrians and Italians fought hand to hand, the Italians were victorious.

BRITAIN DEFENDS BLACKLIST

It Is Denied That Rights Of Neutral Traders Under International Law Have Been Cancelled

Washington.—The British reply to the latest American note protesting against the trade blacklist, made public by the state department denies that rights of neutral traders under international law have been ruthlessly cancelled, defines the blacklist measure as a municipal regulation plainly concerning only the British government and contends that it is designed to shorten the war.

The note failed to meet the American demand that the names of American firms be stricken from the blacklist, but attempts to convince the state department that the British position is just and founded on law. It leaves open the door for further negotiation, which is expected to follow.

The note was subscribed by Viscount Grey, the British foreign minister, and was addressed to and transmitted by Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador at London.

A part which attracted more official notice with the subject of peace, based on the theory that one American contention had been that there exists no military necessity for the blacklist, that it is unnecessary for the allies to prejudice neutral commerce and that nothing which happens in distant neutral countries can influence the result of the great conflict.

"If that really were the position," says the note, "it is possible that the measures taken by his majesty's government might be described as uncalled for, but it is not. We may well wish that it were so. Even though the military situation of the allies has greatly improved, there is still a long and bitter struggle in front of them, and one which in justice to the principles for which they are fighting imposes upon them the duty of employing every opportunity and every measure which they can legitimately use to overcome their opponents."

DEPORTING OF BELGIANS AROUSES UNITED STATES

American Charge Grew, At Berlin, Instructed To Take The Matter Up With Germans

Washington.—Deportation of Belgian civilians into Germany for forced labor has reached such serious proportions that American Charge Grew, at Berlin, has been directed by the state department to take the matter up personally with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg. The charge was requested to say that such deportations could but have a most unfortunate effect on neutral opinion, particularly in the United States, which has the welfare of the Belgian civilian population very much at heart.

The instructions, it was learned, grew out of a long report from Charge Grew, in which he stated that he had discussed the situation informally and unofficially with Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs Zimmerman. The latter admitted that a definite policy had been adopted to enforce the labor of Belgians in cases where they would not work voluntarily on the ground that so many refused to work as to make the strain on public charity intolerable.

The deportations are viewed here not only as a violation of international law, but in a degree as a violation of Germany's assurances to Ambassador Gerard last June, which, though relating to the 20,000 French women and girls deported from Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, are felt to be applicable to the Belgian situation.

Old Greek Border Made Neutral Zone

London.—General Roques, French minister of war, has informed the Greek government that General Sarrail has sent troops to maintain a neutral zone along the frontier of old Greece, according to a dispatch from Athens. The dispatch goes on to say that Premier Lambros acquiesced in principle to this step. It further adds that the allies only propose to use a section of the Greek railroad for the purpose of a supply service to and from Saloniki.

Cabrera Blocking Mexican Agreement

Atlantic City, N. J.—Repudiation by Luis Cabrera of a plan of border patrol that had been agreed upon by two of his colleagues and the three American representatives again has made doubtful the ability of the Americans on the Mexican-American joint commission to assist Mexico in its efforts to restore normal conditions along the frontier. The Americans were hopeful, but it was indicated by those in touch with them that further opposition characterized as quibbling would not long be tolerated.

ROADS MEN NAME JACKSON HIGHWAY

AFTER WARM DEBATE BOARD OF DIRECTORS DECIDES ON ROAD

MISSISSIPPI ROUTE CHOSEN

To Hold Meeting in Birmingham to Select Branch By Way of Magic City and Montgomery

Louisville. — Roads leading from Nashville through Florence, Ala., Columbia. Medidian and Hattiesburg, Miss., were officially designated as a part of the Jackson highway at a meeting here of the board of directors of the Jackson Highway association.

The selection was made only after a prolonged debate and in the face of determined opposition from advocates of a route leading southward from Nashville, either through Huntsville or Decatur, to Birmingham, and thence to New Orleans.

Following the adoption of the route through northwestern Alabama and Mississippi a proposal was made by President Peter Lee Atherton of the Jackson Highway association to add to the Jackson highway, as a branch, roads leading to Montgomery by way of Huntsville ond Birmingham.

This proposal raised a second storm of debate which was only ended when a motion to declare a recess for a period not to exceed 90 days was adopted. Under this motion the board of directors of the highway association will meet at Birmingham, at the call of the president, to consider the proposal for the addition of the Nashville-Montgomery branch to the highway.

The Jackson highway from Chicago through Louisville to Nashville and an eastern branch from Buffalo and Niagara Falls to Louisville was designated prior to this session.

The entire morning session of the meeting was taken up with the consideration of engineers' reports upon the condition of the roads along the various routes which have been proposed between New Orleans and Nashville.

The routes for this section of the highway under consideration were:

From New Orleans to Nashville by way of Mississippi and by way of Birmingham.

In connection with the latter proposed route two lines of road between Birmingham and Nashville were reported upon, one via Huntsville, Ala., and the other via Decatur, Ala.

The proposed route by way of Mississippi embraces 598 miles of road. Of this 239 miles is hard surface; 256 unimproved. The route from New Orleans to Birmingham embraces 497 miles, of which 296 miles is hard surfaced, 148 miles partly improved and 53 miles unimproved.

From Birmingham to Nashville, via Huntsville, is 280 miles, of whch 243 miles is hard surfaced road; 28 miles partly improved, and nine miles unimproved.

From Birmingham to Nashville, via Decatur, is 242 miles, of which 160 miles is hard surfaced, 21 miles partly improved, and 55 miles unimproved.

Reported Germans Sank the Arabia.

Washington.—Announcement by the semi-official Over-seas News agency that a German submarine sank the British liner Arabia made a deep impression in official quarters here today, and apparently removed all possibility that this case might take its place with that of the Persia, sunk in the Mediterranean long ago and never cleared up. The British admiralty said the Persia was torpedoed without warning, but none of the central powers would admit responsibility for it. Officials were loath to discuss the matter in the absence of official information which, it is understood, is being sought from all sources.

Cotton Mill Operatives Get Increase.

New Bedford, Mass.—The Cotton Manufacturers' association of this city voted to grant a ten per cent increase in pay to their 33,000 operatives to be effective for a period of six months beginning December 4. Augusta, Ga.—The wages of 14,000 operatives of the Aiken, Langley and Seminole cotton mills, near here, have been increased 10 per cent, effective immediately. The pay roll for the three mills is approximately $425,000 annually.

To Increase Government Pay.

Baltimore.—The American Federation of Labor adopted a resolution instructing its president and executive council to endeavor to have Congress enact a law granting to all government employes in the classified civil service a horizontal increase of salaries of at least $200 a year. The resolution declares: "That it is now almost impossible for a classified civil service employe to support himself and family on the wages paid by the United States."

What "The South's Greatest Newspaper" Is and Why It Appeals to Every Member of Your Family:

Pictures tell a story in plainer language than all the type that can be packed into a column. Pictures are among the big features of The Birmingham News. The News maintains its own engraving plant for making newspaper pictures; its own staff of photographers and its own staff artists. Besides these it buys photographs about the great events that happen in other states and other lands from the leading agencies in the country and every issue of The News carries many pictures that bring out the big news of the day in a new and attractive way.

Its Sunday paper is particularly strong in pictures of all kinds. The magazine section is crammed with beautiful and attractive illustrations from the first page, printed exquisitely in delicate colors, clear on through.

Then there is its comic section, four pages of the brightest, cleanest, cleverest, funniest comics to be found in any paper anywhere. The doings of Buster Brown and Smithy; and Polly and Pa and Ashur and Neewah; of Cedric, that well-known son-in-law of Pa's; and of Dimples, that attractive little mischief-maker—all these are there every Sunday. They are a rare delight to every child in the home, and the grown-ups as well will find many hours of enjoyment in this section in the course of the year.

The daily issue of The News has its share, too, of things that amuse. Goldberg, who gets $100,000 a year for drawing his daily comic cartoons, is the one great funny feature in seventy-five of the most important newspapers in America. Polly and Her Pals, also is printed every day. This is probably the most widely read comic in the entire country.

On the side of fiction, The News is particularly strong. Every day there is an installment of "The Revelations of a Wife," the most intensely interesting serial story ever printed.

Every Sunday there is a short story from "The Married Life of Helen and Warren." Every Sunday there is a full illustrated page installment of "The Confessions of Roxane." These are the regular fiction features that have literally thousands of Alabama women reading them every day. They are absorbing and fascinating chapters out of real life, and no paper in America is better supplied with clean, wholesome fiction that is so tremendously interesting.

But fiction is not the only thing by any means supplied by The News to interest women. Every Sunday there are two full pages of fashions with beautiful pictures. These are written by the best experts in the land. They are far in advance of what women are wearing now and they give every woman a distinct line on what fashions are going to be, affording her ample opportunity to prepare for the coming changes. Every day there is an illustrated fashion article by Anne Rittenhouse, whose fashion articles are the very best obtainable. Every Sunday there is a page of embroidery designs with full instructions as how to make them.

The Sandman Tales every day are in the paper for the exclusive benefit of the children. Thousands of Alabama youngsters have these stories read to them every night before they go to bed. Mary Pickford, the most widely known woman in the world, writes a daily column for girls and women. Besides these there are many other things in The News, daily and Sunday, for the women in the home. There are beauty hints and all kinds of special articles about the preparation of food and advice by experts on how to conduct the home most economically and efficiently.

There are three articles on the editorial page every day of the week which alone are worth many times the price of a year's subscription.

Dr. L. K. Hirshberg writes a daily column of health advice that has saved many a hundred dollars in doctor's bills in many an Alabama home. Dr. Hirshberg answers questions about individual health problems asked by News readers.

Probably the most popular feature that has ever appeared in any American newspaper is Dr. Crane's daily editorial sermon. These little articles are read by millions of people every day in all parts of the world. There are hundreds of readers of The News who clip his daily sermon and paste it in a scrapbook. The things he writes are read by every age and class of people.

Then there is George Miner, who writes brightly and wittily about the big people and big things of all the world.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, the greatest news-gathering organization the world has ever known, furnishes its full report to The News every week-day in the year. The Associated Press is accurate, truthful, impartial, and covers all the news of the wide world. YOU CAN ALWAYS RELY ON ANYTHING YOU READ THAT IS SENT OUT BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Two other big news services supply the news matter for the Sunday News. Besides these big agencies The News has its own special correspondents in almost every town in Alabama and it sends its special staff men from the Birmingham office when there is anything of big, vital importance to the people of the state. It has sent one of its ablest men with the Alabama troops to the Mexican border; a special man to make a personal investigation of the wholesale liquor raids at Girard this year; a special man to probe into the mysterious assassination of Judge Lawler of Huntsville; and it will continue to furnish in this way the most reliable and impartial accounts of all the things that are of great importance to Alabamians.

THIS NEWS SERVICE MEANS THAT WHETHER THE NEWS BE OF THE WAR IN EUROPE, THE ELECTION OF A PRESIDENT, OR A STREET CAR ACCIDENT, THE NEWS PRINTS THE FULLEST DETAILS ACCURATELY AND IMPARTIALLY AND PRINTS THEM BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER.

The News prides itself most of all on the fact that it never lets its own opinion of anything have anything to do with the news it prints. Fairness to all sides of every question is its aim on every item that it prints.

The market page of The News is the market place for Alabama products. The quotations are corrected every hour in the day, so as to have them fresh and accurate in every issue. The market page of The News is a money saver and a money maker for every farmer, every merchant and every business man in Alabama. It is the most reliable market page in Alabama. Special articles and market reviews and business forecasts written by the leading experts in Alabama and the country at large are important features of its Sunday paper.

Another important part of The News is its sporting service. This is the fullest, brightest and best in the South. Experts of national fame write of the big leagues in baseball and the big colleges in football. Amateur sports are a big feature of The News. Every line of sports that boys are interested in is covered fully.

The Birmingham News, daily and Sunday, is far more than a newspaper.

It is a wonderful treasure for every home in Alabama.

Reading it every day will mean saving money, preserving health and keeping up with what the world is doing.

The best thing that you can do for every person in your home is to give them the chance to read this paper every day in the year.

Forty thousand Alabama homes find this newspaper as much a part of the home itself as the stove in the kitchen; can you afford to leave it out of your home?

City of Bethune in History.

Bethune, which is on the road to Peronne, is a French town with a fascinating history, and is now in the throes of the great struggle, as the possession of these two towns means the gaining of the German defense of Picard. Bethune is situated on a rock facing the river Brette. Until 1713 it was of Flemish occupation, and in the early ages the Scottish family of Betune is said to have gone from here to England with William of Normandy.

Aged and Oldened.

"He has oldened" for "he has aged" is not good. In the first place, it is harder to say, and, in the second place, it is so near obsolete as to be practically unintelligible. In a way it is English, but not present-day English.

Sufferer From High Prices.

First Negro—"Jes' terrible de way needcessities ob life has done riz." Second Negro (suspiciously)—"Whut's de matter now?" First Negro—"Terbacco's gone up so high I gotter quit smokin'. Kaint borry none no mo'."

Russian Coal Supply.

The total coal output of Russian mines in the year 1913 was 35,000,000 tons. The best coal in Russia—partly anthracite—is obtained in South Russia in the Donetz basin, and these mines and those of Poland give nine-tenths of the Russian supply. Even so, however, Russia does not produce enough coal for her own use; in 1913 the number of tons imported was 9,510,000, most of which was brought from England.

Well, Hardly.

"Atlas held the world on his shoulders."

"That's the story."

"Still, he probably didn't have his hands as full as the chap who pitches a crucial game in a world series."

Unhappy Success.

A prudent man has his moments of depression when it seems as if his wife's running account at the dry goods store must be trying for the sprinting record and, what is worse, succeeding.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Slow.

Edith (sighing)—Oh, dear! Tom hasn't proposed yet.

Marie—Well, what can you expect of a chap who never runs his auto over ten miles an hour?

Sardonic.

"George Washington said he'd rather not be president."

"Well," replied Mr. Growcher, "sooner or later a man gets his wish. He isn't."

Diamond Always Supreme.

From the earliest ages the diamond has been supreme among all jewels, a distinction due perhaps to its invincible hardness, brilliance and imperishability. Much of the romance of all ages centers around this mineral, while the history of many great diamonds of historic times may be traced through extraordinary melodramatic vicissitudes.

Optimistic Thought.

Promises may get friends, but performances keep them.

Drawing a Distinction.

"Every man is entitled to his own opinion."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "but he shouldn't be encouraged to express it in a way that constitutes it a public nuisance."

Consistency.

"Even in business, Jones always does the appropriate thing."

"What particularly appropriate thing has he done lately?"

"Taken a flyer in aviation stock."

First Baptist Churches.

The name Baptist was first given to certain congregations of English Separatists which had recently restored the ancient practice of immersion, in 1644, but the congregations were several years older than that. There were two bodies of Baptists founded before that date—the Arminians, established by the followers of John Smyth, who had been a clergyman of the Church of England, founding the first General Baptist church in London in 1611, and the Calvinistic, or Particular, Baptist church, established in London in 1616.

Too Long.

Edith—Haven't you and Jack been engaged long enough to get married?

Ethel—Too long! He hasn't got a cent left.

Domestic Amenities.

"Did my vanity box come?"

"Guess not. A small package came."

"That must be my vanity box."

"Gee, that wouldn't hold half your vanity. I expected 'em to unload a piano case at the very least."

Observant Betty.

Two little sisters, Gertrude and Betty, were asking questions. Gertrude said, "Papa, what are twins?" Before the father could answer, little Betty spoke up, "Why, Gertrude, don't you know? They are babies that belong to the same go-cart!"

Mining Marble.

In the mining of huge blocks of marble at the Carrara quarries, explosives are still used largely. The electric saws are used only occasionally.

THE UNION-BANNER

Publishd Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.

W. M. WYATT, Editor & Manager.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, payable in advance.

Entered April 15, 1913, at Clanton Ala., as second class matter, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE 96.

MUST PAY IN ADVANCE

Owing to the high price of paper and the general advance in the cost of printing materials, we will be compelled, after January 1st, 1917, to stop sending the Union-Banner to all subscribers who are not paid in advance.

All back subscriptions will be stopped on that date, and some method of pursuit will be employed for the collection of the amount due up to that time.

We regret to have to do this, but the pressure of the abnormal conditions existing in the printing and publishing business compel us to adopt this policy.

If you want to continue to receive the paper after the above named date, it is well for you to come in and pay up in advance thereof. If you do not want to pay in advance, we would appreciate it if you will come in and pay up, as we would then be saved the trouble of carrying the account on after we discontinue the paper.

All please take due notice of these things and be governed accordingly.

THE EDITOR'S DREAM

Editors are visited by dreames some times, just like other human beings, we suppose. This editor had a dream the other night, and what do you reckon it was.

Well sir, he thought one of his good subscriber friends was so mindful of him at Christmas time, as to put a nice box of cigars in his stocking.

If that friend fulfills the dream when Christmas gets here, we will tell his name and print his picture in the paper.

COMPARE US

We want our subscribers to make a comparison of the Union-Banner with other weekly newspapers, and see just what relation it bears in points of interest to the people of the county who are [illegible] papers, and if you please, who are to judge the paper.

Look at the news of Chilton County Is it not covered every week, right up to the minute of publishing the paper on Wednesday night?

Can you get anywhere a more concise and accurate view of the things that are done in the county each week?

Not only do we want you to observe the treatment we give of Chilton county affairs. We call your attention to all national and world events as they are summed up in our paper each week.

We employ the unexcelled auxiliary service of the Western Newspaper Union, which gives us every week the latest news of the State, the Nation, and the World. We pride ourselves particularly in the features which are ours through the Western Newspaper Union, and which are not obtainable elsewhere.

Sum up what you, as a citizen of Chilton county, are getting from the Union-Banner. Compare it with what you get from other papers. When you do this, we trust and believe you will agree with us that we have the "Leading Newspaper of Chilton County."

WE SHOULD BE PROUD

Chilton County has some men—leaders of her destiny—of whom we have ample reason to be proud.

A popular example of these is the Hon. J. Osmond Middleton, talented young lawyer, spirited citizen, and zealous champion of the rights of the common people.

As an example of the place of esteem held by this popular man, we commend you to the letter of approval for his recent activities, signed by over a hundred of the citizens over the county and published in this issue of the Banner.

Mr. Middleton is one of the men of the county who comes out fearlessly and pronounces his alleginance to the cause of the common people as embodied in the Republican party principles. During the campaign just closed he gained particular, though fully deserved prominence, by his rigid stand for what he believed the right cause.

He was with the people of the county, heart and soul. Now it is very fittingly proper for them to be proud of Mr. Middleton, as they express themselves in an open letter in his behalf.

The people of the county could not maintain their political independence without the fearless lead of such men as Mr. Middleton. It is therefore good that we declare our appreciation of their efforts, and our allegiance to their principles.

Chilton County is justly proud of the leaders and moulders of her thought and action.

WHY IS A COMMITTEE?

Although we have a representative form of government so far as election of public officers is concerned, we have autocracy in the management of the more important features of our party affairs. The candidate for President selects the chairman of the national committee, who becomes manager of the quadrennial campaign. The national committee, merely ratifies the selection made by the nominee.

While there are some things to be said in suport of this plan, yet there is now much question of the wisdom of this procedure. It is argued, and with much force, that if the judgment of the members of the national committee is of any value whatever, the committee should exercise the power of selecting its chairman and should direct the management of the campaign.

We have had in the recent contest an illustration of results of the selection of a man who has business ability in some lines and is actuated by the highest motives, but who is entirely lacking in political experience or in personal acquaintance with men throughout the country whose cooperation must be enlisted in order to conduct a campaign successfully. It will probably be well for the Republican party if in the next campaign the national committee performs its allotted functions in accordance with the responsibility which it owes to the party as a whole.

Commerce statistics continue to present evidence of the keen competition we shall have to meet when the war is over. Cuba achieved a 20 per cent increase in her sales to us during the first nine months of this year, compared with a similar period last year, or from $169,000,000 to $202,000,000. As most of this was accounted for by sugar, and as the duty on sugar was reduced 25 per cent, Cuba getting a duty still 20 per cent lower, by reason of our treaty with her, some idea can be had as to the profits wiich rolled into the coffers of the trust controlled by the seaboard sugar refiners, who subscribed so liberally to Democratic campaign activities, and whose lobby for free sugar received the support of President Wilson. They refind the sugar and send it abroad at prices far below those quoted here, and stick our people for higher prices. Find brand of Americanism!

Among the British soldiers who are returning from the front because of wounds or other disabilities, there is a practice of shouting: "Are we down hearted? No-o-o!" A good suggestion for a Republican slogan.

Perhaps the hardest blow to true American faith is the falling away of Ohio from its traditional position in support of our institutions and the spirit we have boasted in the past. That the state of McKinley, Garfield, Hayes, Sherman and a host of other great Americans should forsake the Republican party standard at a time of national crises is astounding. Where is the patriotism of Ohio that it could uphold surrender of American rights as against protection of them? What has become of the loyalty of the sons of Ohioans who shed their blod and laid down their lives in behalf of human rights and national honor? Why the reversal of fidelity to the policy of protection to American industries that has made Ohio one of the leading industrial states of the Union in favor of free trade that is bound to injure her interests? In the land beyond, the shades of Ohio's great weep bitter tears of humiliation that their sons and their sons' sons have proved faithless to the interests to the country which they held so dear.—Pittsburg Gazette.

HUGHES DOES NOT YET CONCEDE TO WILSON.

Republicans still have ray of hope in final count in close states.

New York, November 21.—Chairman Willcox of the Republican National Committee came to Republican National headquarters here from Lakewood, where he and Charles E. Hughes have been taking a rest from their campaign labors. He reiterated his previous statement that the time had not yet arrived for the Republicans to concede the election to President Wilson, nor would he make any forcast as to when a definite statement might be expected either from him or Mr. Hughes. He said that even when the official count in California is known there might still be conditions in other states keeping the final result in doubt.

PRESIDENT WILSON MAY LOSE ONE OF ALABAMA'S VOTES.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 21.—Y. M. Quinn, of Franklin county, who was chosen at the general electinn November 7 as a democratic elector from Alabama, was indicted today by the Franklin county grand jury on a charge of embezzling about $45,000 from a Bank at Russelville, in which he was employed. Quinn was said to have made good all but about $14,000 of the alleged shortage.

State officials pointed out today that should Quinn be convicted before January 21, when the electors of the State are to meet to cast their vote for President Wilson, Alabama would lose one of its 12 electoral votes. Court officials however, expressed doubt that Quinn's case would be reached on the court calendar before the electors meet.

SUDDEN DEATH CLAIMS POPULAR CLANTON LADY

Wife of Mayor Pinckard is Victim of heart failure Tuesday Night.

Our town and community were given a severe shock Wednesday morning when it was announced that Mrs. E. M. Pinckard, wife of Mayor Pinckard, had died suddenly of heart failure Tuesday night.

Mrs. Pinckard retired about nine o'clock apparently in her usual health But when her husband went to the bed chamber later in the night from the library where she had left him upon retiring, he found that life had left the body of his wife and she was cold in death.

Immediate friends of the family and the family physician were summoned hastily and they soon appeared to offer their consolation to the bereaved ones in their almost unbearable shock.

Mrs. Pinckard was a prominent leader in the women's side of the club, social and civic life of Clanton and her influence will be missed as much or more than would that of any other lady of our town.

The greatest vacancy caused by her death will exist in her splendid and most admirable home circle. As wife and mother in her home she attained the highest position of love and honor.

All the community has cause to grieve at the taking away of one so profoundly interested at all times in our common welfare.

RECORD COTTON SALE FOR PIKE COUNTY IS MADE BY BROTHERS

Troy, Ala., Nov. 21.—When a deal was consummated by which Williams Brothers, prosperous farmers of Pike county, sold to Henderson & Bashinsky, 900 bales of coton all records were broken in this county. Hugh and J. Williams, living about fourteen miles from Troy, between Troy and Luverne, have been saving some cotton since 1911. The cotton all brought the top of the market prices and the 900 bales brought the two farmers more than $90,000.

The deal was a remarkable one in that the cotton all came from one farm and that the sellers were the producers, instead of merchants who had gathered together the crop from various sources. Portions of their cotton crop for the last six years were embraced in the deal.

FLOYD

Editor Union-Banner:—I have been a silent reader of your paper for a long time and now I would thank you for a little space to tell a little about Floyd, that is the new church about five miles West of Verbena. It has been progressing from the very first start about two years ago and now we have preaching every first Saturday and Sunday of each month, and Prayer meeting every Sunday night, and it doesn't hardly ever get to rainy or too cold for Sunday school, and it is fine that we have some where near one hundred on roll.

We have singing every first and third Sunday evening, and everybody here likes it fine. We have a good singing last Sunday evening. The Enterprise class and Prof. G. C. Weldon and Miss Amey Hand were with us and we had a fine time. The directors were Prof. G. C. Weldon, A. A. Beard, G. W. Cagle, E. F. Taylor, J. D. Huett, H. F. Taylor. The organist was Miss Amey Hand and Prof. A. A. Beard.

We hope to have more singing as good as that. Prof. G. C. Weldon and Miss Amey Hand are our school teachers and we have them all the time, and we hope to have the Enterprise class every time they can come, and all others that will come.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

This One Was Belated.

Mrs. Newlywed was making her first trip to the big city market, intending to buy strawberries for her husband's supper. The berries proved a greenish-white and scraggly.

"Why, I—I thought strawberries were redder," she said to the clerk, who, sizing up the situation at a glance, answered:

"They have been other years, but haven't you read of the scarcity of coloring, owing to the war in Europe?"

And Mrs. Newlywed, remembering that she had, walked away with three boxes.—Puck.

Meat Eaters' Backache

Meat lovers are apt to have backaches and rheumatic attacks. Unless you do heavy work and get lots of fresh air, don't eat too much meat. It's rich in nitrogen and helps to form uric acid—a solid poison that irritates the nerves, damages the kidneys and often causes dropsy, gravel and urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills help weak kidneys to throw off uric acid. Thousands recommend them.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 26

A LIVING SACRIFICE.

LESSON TEXT—Romans 12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your spiritual service.—Rom. 12:1 R. V.

The first 11 chapters of this letter teach and illustrate the great principles of the Christian life. Paul calls it "my Gospel." Its fundamental principle is that justification regenerates men, and nothing else. The second section is the practical application of these truths.

I. The Exhortation to Gratitude (vv. 1-2). "Therefore," because of the work of Christ on our behalf, we are to present our bodies as living sacrifices unto God, to be used for his glory and service. (See chapter 3:13, 16, 19). Paul urges, he beseeches; he is winsome, though he might command. To "present" technically means, "bring an offering to God." The body is the sum of all human faculties, physical and spiritual. It must not be defiled by being yielded as an instrument to sin, for it is the temple of God. (I Cor. 3:16, 17). A "Living Offering," (not as the bodies of slain animals offered by Jews) is a consecration of the body, and not a destruction of life. The original means that this—the offering of ourselves as a living sacrifice—is a reasonable, rational service. God has the right of ownership of every member of our body, and there never was a day when there was greater need of insisting upon a Christianity that affects the bodies of men than today. Hands, lips, ears, eyes—every member should be constantly presented to him who purchased it by the blood of his own Son. (I Cor. 6:20; I Pet. 1:18-19.) This is a spiritual, religious service because it is our spirit which presents the offering of the body which he inhabits. Too many of us are "fashioned according to this age."

II. The Expression of Gratitude (vv. 3-8). Or the right use of the gifts of God. (1) Avoid "self-conceit" (vv. 3-5). These verses indicate how important this subject is. Conceit is entertaining an exaggerated opinion of one's own ability. The church has many members, and they do not all have the same office; there is a variety in the unity of the body. So in the church there are many "members in one body," each of which is important; all are essential. (2) "Prophecy" (v. 6), not necessarily foretelling, but the revelation of spiritual truth and experience according to the proportion of our faith (Ps. 39:3), the living, spiritual experience of the presence of God within us. (3) "Ministry" (v. 7). The business side of the church, collecting of its money and the distribution to the poor. Some can best attend to such business. Many churches fail by not selecting wise leaders for this work. (4) "He that teacheth." The true pastor is a combined prophet, pastor and teacher. We are all teaching, whether we wish to or not. It is a privilege as well as an obligation.

III. Conduct Toward All Men (vv. 9-21). The renewed soul needs guidance, encouragement and instruction. (1) "In love" (v. 9). The hypocrite wears a mask. Notice the close connection of "abhor that which is evil" with "cleave to that which is good." The word for cleave means literally to glue it, so that nothing can separate you from love which is the supreme good. "In honor preferring one another" (v. 10). Let others carry the banner—few of us can stand this acid test. (3) "Diligent in business" (v. 11). Whatsoever your hands find to do, do it with your might, being fervent or boiling in spirit, the reverse of the previous exhortation, in that which we are thus to serve the Lord. Few need exhortation to be diligent in their own business, but all of us need this exhortation with regard to the "king's business." (4) "Rejoicing in hope (v. 12). Triumphing over trials and difficulties in the way. Looking for that "blessed hope" (Titus 2:13). (5) Patience and tribulation (v. 12). The Latin "tribulum" was the threshing instrument or roller whereby the husbandman separated grain from the husk. Sorrow, distress and adversity are the means for separating men from the chaff of their lives. Sometimes small annoyances, long continued, become great tribulations. (See Joshua 24:12.) (6) Continuing in the school of prayer (v. 12). Steadfast, urgent, pressing, persevering prayer (Luke 12:1). (7) "Given to hospitality" (v. 13); literally, pursued it.

The word "condescend" is not strong enough—it should be literally "Borne away" from the living things along the line of the things that are humble.

(8) Living peaceably with all men (v. 18); being ready for peace and to do more than your share of reconciliation.

(9) Overcoming evil with good (vv. 19-21). The heaping of coals upon the enemy's head is not the object but the result of returning good for evil. (See Proverbs 25:21-22.)

The only real victory is, "Be not overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good."

Approved Modes in Girls' Party Frocks

When Father Time comes along with a birthday to celebrate, or a dancing-school party, or other great occasions in the life of a little girl, it means a pretty frock for her. Even in party dresses there is a difference of opinion as to whether they should be simply or elaborately made, but as the little girl is sure to look pretty in either sort, fashion smiles approval on both.

White, pink, blue, pale green and light yellow are oftenest selected for the little girl's party frock, with white a favorite choice. Voile, batiste, organdie, and taffeta are the materials used for making them. Some of the prettiest light voiles are made up with no other decoration than tucks headed with hemstitching, and smacking about the waist and yoke. This is done in heavy white silk. Taffeta is managed with about the same simplicity, but organdie and batiste seem to be made for fine swiss embroideries and val. lace.

An elaborate dress of white batiste, for the girl of eleven, or more, is shown in the picture. The waist shows rows of insertion placed between groups of fine tucks. It is attached to the skirt and has elbow sleeves. The skirt is divided into panels by wide vertical insertions, and each panel is cut into a scallop at the bottom. Two rows of narrow insertion follow the line of the scallops about the skirt, and each panel is laid in a boxplait at the waistline.

The slipover is not needed to complete this dress, which may be worn without it; but the slipover is a feature of present-day fashions. Besides, a dress of this kind is equal to long service and it may be varied by the addition of the little jacket. Embroidered batiste is used for making it, with insertions of lace and swiss embroidery, and it boasts a peplum at each side. The girdle worn over it is soft satin ribbon with a rosette at one side.

Oriental Motifs.

Embroidery is the most favored decorative trim for one-piece frocks, and it is executed in fine braids, in metallic threads, chenille and beads, either round beads or those of tubular form. Oriental and Egyptian motifs are preferred and they ornament the corsage, the ceinture and the pocket flaps. Occasionally the design extends from the bodice down over the front breadth of the skirt, giving the effect of a Louis XV waistcoat.

Three Hats From Paris

They say that designing for Americans occupies the time—so far as it is occupied—of the world-famous modistes of Paris. Judging from the number of imports, and that the Americans who look to Paris are those of two hemispheres, the designers seem to be fairly busy. In spite of the tension of war there seems to be no lack of inspiration in the products of the peculiar genius of the French.

Three hats from Lewis shown here are beautiful and rational styles for midwinter wear. Already the eyes of those who create styles are turned toward spring and they are busy with the things that must be ready for display just after the holidays, so the hats pictured may be accepted as the last word from a great authority.

The wide brimmed hat of satin, faced with velvet, is partly turned off the face at the front, in a mode already approved. Its lines suggest outspread wings, and perhaps this is the reason why a small pair, embroidered in silk in several colors, is posed at the front. There is no other trimming.

The second hat is a turban in a shape that is particularly becoming to women of middle age. A puff of velvet is set about the coronet, higher at the back than at the front. A band of paillettes and bugles, finished at the side with two balls, adds a touch of brilliance to this all-black creation.

The remaining hat is for the woman who can carry off odd and dashing headwear, and it continues to be both unusual and plain. The very tall crown is draped with velvet, which is slashed. Ribbon with metallic edge is threaded through the slashes.

Julia Bottomley

Cretonne Covers.

Scarfs of cretonne are neat and especially attractive for a girl's room. The pincushion and nap pillow should be covered to match. A scarf made to fit the top of the dresser should be scalloped all around, but one that hangs at the sides need have only the ends scalloped, the sides being hemmed. Rather heavy embroidery floss should be used for working the scallops. The heavy floss not only facilitates the work but is more in harmony with the material than a fine cotton would be.

Bright Waistcoats With Velvet Suits.

Some of the dark velvet suits sent out by Jeanne Lanvin in her last collection have waistcoats of bright-colored silks, geranium or royal blue, and to match these are hats of the same silk.

CALOMEL WHEN BILIOUS? NO! STOP! ACTS LIKE DYNAMITE ON LIVER

I Guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" Will Give You the Best Liver and Bowel Cleansing You Ever Had—Doesn't Make You Sick!

Stop using calomel! It makes you sick. Don't lose a day's work. If you feel lazy, sluggish, bilious or constipated, listen to me!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you feel "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store or dealer and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste. —Adv.

Kidney Disorder

(By DR. V. M. PIERCE.)

The most simple methods are usually the most effective ones when treating any disorder of the human system. The mere drinking a cup of hot water each morning, plenty of pure water all day, and a little Anuric before every meal has been found the most effective means of overcoming kidney trouble. Death would occur if the kidneys did not work day and night in separating poisons and uric acid from the blood.

The danger signals are backache, depressions, pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness, rheumatic twinges, swollen joints or gout.

Since it is such a simple matter to step into your favorite drug store and obtain Anuric, anyone who earnestly desires to regain health and new life will waste no time in beginning this treatment.

WHAT NEIGHBORS SAY

Clifton, Tenn.—"I wish to say that I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for some time. I could hardly do any kind of work. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets so I tried them, and they cured my backache. I hope people who are troubled with backache will give Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets a good trial. They do all that is required of them—they will not fail to benefit."—MISS ERMINE RUTH MOSER, R. F. D. 2.—Adv.

Pain or dull ache in the back is often evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

Danger Signals.

If these danger signals are unheeded more serious results may be expected; kidney trouble in its worst form may steal upon you.

Thousands of people have testified that the mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, is soon realized—that it stands the highest for its remarkable curative effect in the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best.

Lame Back.

Lame back is only one of many symptoms of kidney trouble. Other symptoms showing that you may need Swamp-Root are being subject to embarrassing and frequent bladder troubles day and night, irritation, sediment, etc.

While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are sometimes the last recognized by patients, who very often content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease may constantly undermine the system.

The More Effective Way.

The sign, "Boy Wanted," is more frequent, in windows and in advertisement columns, than it was a year ago. Between improved economic conditions and laws enforcing school attendance, it has come to pass, in the United States, that few lads who want work need go unemployed. On the other hand, never were school and colleges so crowded, and administrators so put to it to find room for pupils of high school and college age. In this way, far more effectively than by specific statutory enactment, is child labor being reduced.—Christian Science Monitor.

FOR BETTER ROADS

OUTLINE OF DIXIE HIGHWAY

Route Is Approximately 4,500 Miles Long, Traversing Eight States—Work Being Pushed.

The Dixie highway is approximately 4,500 miles long, traversing the eight states of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida. Construction work is now in progress along the entire stretch. The route at the present time is passable over all divisions with the exception of the link between Lexington, Ky., and Knoxville, Tenn.; Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn.; along the western division, through central Florida, Tallahassee to Gainesville, and from Arcadia to Jupiter across Florida. The Lexington-Knoxville link is in course of construction now and will be passable within six months. The trip from Nashville to Chattanooga can be made over the mountain, provided dry weather precedes the trip; otherwise, the road by way of Huntsville, 100 miles farther, is best. The counties in central Florida are hard at work on the road and hope to provide a good route in another year. It is the aim of the Dixie Highway association to provide a route within two years time that will enable motorists to travel comfortably from Chicago to Miami in six days.

GUESSING AT COST OF ROADS

Need of Standard System of Accounting for Highways—Difficulty of Iowa Commission.

There are so many conflicting statements regarding the cost of road work that the desirability of a comprehensive method of highway accounting is evident in order that taxpayers may not be misled concerning the total expense of such work, according to American Highway. The Iowa state highway commission has had considerable difficulty in finding out what the counties in that state have been spending, because of this failure to have a complete system of accounts.

One rich county reported collecting $16,000 for road work, but after investigation the commission found $32,500 had been collected. An investigation of the accounts of another wealthy county reporting $3,200 collected revealed a total collection of $19,600. The discrepancies were not due to an intention to hide the amount of the funds but merely to lack of good accounting.

Saving of Concrete Road.

A concrete road saves more than it costs. It is open to maximum traffic all the year round. It brings greater freedom and ease of movement in travel and transportation, and permanently increases land values.

—Montgomery.

The supreme court has been called upon to decide whether or not sessions of the county boards of equalization can be extended beyond August 1 by order of the state board of equalization and great interest is being shown in the case as the effectiveness of the new revenue law will depend in a large measure upon the decision.

In four counties last year, Jefferson, Mobile, Walker and Tuscaloosa, the county boards of equalization could not complete their work by August 1 and the state board of equalization called special sessions after that date. The treasurer of Mobile county declined to pay the per diem of members of the Mobile board on the ground that the revenue law of 1915 did not provide sessions after August 1. The city court of Mobile supported the contention of the Mobile treasurer and the supreme court was called upon to construe the law. A decision will be rendered during the latter part of the year.

May Vote School Tax.

The moment Governor Henderson publishes a proclamation showing that the voters adopted the educational amendment in the recent general election any county in Alabama may hold an election for the purpose of determining whether or not a special tax of three mills, two mills or one mill shall be levied for the use of the public schools. Believing the amendment would be ratified by the voters, the legislature last year passed companion measures which make the amendment effective to all intents and purposes at once.

Any county may have an election by submitting to the court of county commisioners or other governing body a petition signed by 200 or more qualified electors. The election must be held in the same manner as all other elections.

Selma Court Declared Invalid.

In declaring that the law creating the Inferior Court of Selma was unconstitutional, the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals broke a record for the number of opinions written in one case, seven having been presented. The decision means that the Inferior Court of Selma has been operated illegally and persons convicted in this court may immediately get their release. The court was established last year by an act of the Legislature, and the ruling was that the Legislature had not complied with the constitution when the court was created.

Continue Tick Campaign.

A called meeting of the Alabama live stock board, including Dr. C. A. Carey, of Auburn, Clarendon Davis, R. J. Goode and George S. Templeton, with James A. Wade, chairman, was held in the office of the state commissioner of agriculture. Governor Henderson called the board together to take under advisement the question of reducing thee expense of tick eradication, owing to the present depleted state of the treasury. Tick eradication was provided for at the last legislature which appropriated $100,000 to be used within four years for ridding Alabama of this pest. The board has been working something over one year during which time 30 counties have been freed of the tick and six other counties recently voted to install the plan. The board went on record as opposing reduction of expenditures for this purpose.

Banks to Pay Teachers.

Banking institutions of all counties in Alabama will furnish the State money to pay the salaries of teachers for October, the State paying interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, the money to be returned March 15 and 25.

Governor Henderson assured the banks that the money would be paid back by March 15 and 25.

Salaries of the teachers amounted to $450,000 last month. Practically every school in the State now is in operation, and the Governor decided it best to make personal arrangements for the money than to force the teachers to wait for the money.

Feagin Requests Aid.

William F. Feagin, State Superintendent of Education, although not required to do so by the corrupt practice act, made public a statement which shows that $9,046.01 was spent in the campaign for the adoption of the educational amendment. The report shows that only $2,708.50 was contributed, Mr. Feagin being responsible for the other expenditures. Friends of the cause of education Alabama have been asked by Superintendent Feagin to contribute to make up the deficiency.

Just What He Needed.

Yes, Bill the Basher could talk all right whe nthe spirit moved him. It moved him on Saturday night, when a constable was urging him to move on.

At the overwhelming flow of language the constable promptly led him to the police station. On Monday morning Bill's friends, who throughout Sunday had been collecting small amounts for payment of the fine, arrived at court just as he was leaving.

"'Ow much you 'ave to pay, old man?" they inquired.

"Didn't have to pay nothin'. When the copper read out what I'd said the old man came down from the bench, shook 'ands with me, gave me five bob from the poor box and thanked me for teaching him a lot o' new words. Y'see, 'e's learning gowf!"—London Tit-Bits.

"Does your minister practice what he preaches?" the newcomer questioned.

"He does," the citizen answered with a sigh, "and I'd be perfectly willing to have him stop. He lives next door to me, and begins at seven o'clock Sunday morning to practice what he is going to preach."

Reads Better Than It Sounds.

Not even an editor—unless he happens to be the one designated as "war editor"—can keep track of the spelling and pronunciation of the many-syllabled names of towns, rivers and mountains which come through in the reports of the war. Recently a managing editor finished reading an unusually well-written story of the British offensive on the Somme river front in France, and handed it back to the "war editor."

"That's a bully good story," he said. "It's good for a two-column head, and be sure to use that line about the artillery roaring from — from — ah—Thingumbob to ah—Watchacallem."

It got in the paper just as he intended it.

Lesson Had Sunk In.

The hygiene instructor in the public schools had made his talk sufficiently impressive in respect to the catastrophic consequences of leaving the adenoids alone. When he had finished, the teacher ordered the class to write a paper on the subject. This was one:

"Tommy had adenoids and was a very stupid and slow boy, at home, at work, and at school. His mother and father said, 'What is the matter?' The doctor cut his adenoids out. Tommy later became president of the United States."

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to express my thanks to the voters who supportted me in the recent election.

I feel that I have been elected to one of the most important offices in the country for I see the need of education, and I hope that I may fill my place in such a way that none who supported me will ever regret it.

I am ready at all times to serve the people.

Again thanking the people I am,

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space to thank the people for the loyal support they gave me in electing me county commissioner for the second term.

I cannot find words to express my appreciation for their support. It makes me know that I did the right thing when I took a stand against the interest bearing warrants and tried to hold up the credit of the county.

Now I realize that I am only a servant of the people and expect to discharge my duty as such.

TONOLINE IS BEAUTY AID, ANNOUNCES SPECIALIST

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest to Women.

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusal interest,

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

"I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches would also add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, 'Take tonoline.'

"Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest way to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to reccommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney troulble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily to many people at your druggist.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by anyone not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefitted by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

LABOR

Labor and capital are dependent one upon the other, and both are jointly dependent upon the understanding and sympathy accorded them by the general public.

While labor is essential to capital, and both are essential to the consumer, capital is absolutely essential to afford opportunity for employment on a big scale, to labor.

Every well organized financial enterprise has the utmost consideration for the welfare of the labor it employs. Capital would be non-productive without labor.

Labor, when intelligently informed, is equally considerate of capital, because to endanger capital endangers employment upon which labor must of necessity depend.

The L. & N. is vitally interested in promoting cordial relations between capital and labor, because the L. & N. is a combination of capital and labor. Upon the degree of efficiency with which that combination discharges its obligation to the consumer, depends the success of the L. & N. and of the territory through which the L. & N. operates.

It is, therefore, important that not only the L. & N. and its employees study and think seriously on this subject, but that the consumer—the people—arrive at an understanding and a fair solution of the matter.

FEAGIN'S WEEKLY LETTER ABOUT EDUCATION

Aid for Rural Teachers—Board Meetings—Model School houses.

Aid For Rural Teachers

The United States Department of Agriculture has notified the State Department of Education that upon application the following publications on the teaching of agriculture in the public schools will be furnished to rural teachers:

1. Classified lists of Department of Agriculture publications for use of teachers.

2. Leaflets showing how certain Farmer's Bulletins may be used effectively in nature study and agricultural instructions.

3. List of lantern slides available for school use.

4. Suggestions as to Department publications which are most helpful in school work.

5. Publications on general problems of teaching agriculture and specific subjects, as corn, cotton, tomatoes, and poultry.

The Chief Specialist in Agricultural Education in sending the above information also states that his department will be pleased to assist individual teachers through personal correspondence.

Meeting of County Boards of Edu.

A meeting of the county boards of education of every county in the state has been called by the State Superintendent of Education for Monday and Tuesday, December 4th and 5th.

Prior to calling this meeting letters were sent to each member of the newly elected county boards requesting them to reply as to whether it would be possible to secure their attendance. A large number stated that the idea was a most excellent one in that, by this means, the parties could familarize themselves with the details of their new duties and receive encouragement from those who had similar work in the different counties. It is anticipated that the meeting will be well attended and that the views presented by the State Department and the members of the boards of education in the several counties represented will be helpful to all who take part in the discussions.

Model building for secondary Schools

The new building of the Walker County High School at Jasper and the Sixth District Agricultural School at Hamilton, now in process of construction, indicate in their plans and appointments, the modern trend of school architecture in secondary schools in Alabama. Each will cost when completed approximately $30,000 and is a model for its specific need. The building at Hamilton will be ready for [illegible] about January first and the [illegible] Jasper in April.

WINTER OATS IN THE COTTON GROWING BELT

Government Expert, discusses Matter important to our Southern Farmers.

The value of a winter grain crop in the South was never more apparent than now. Wheat, oats, and barley are all readily salable locally and in northern markets, while at present there is also a considerable demand for export. All these grains may be fed to live stock, though both the grain and straw of oats are to be preferred to similar products of wheat or barley for this latter purpose. The oat crop also succeeds rather better than any of the other grains in the South Atlantic and Gulf States, except perhaps on the heavy clay soils of the Piedmont area (western North and South Carolina and northern Georgia and Alabama.)

Besides furnishing grain and forage for feeding, the fall-sown cereals provide a cover crop for soil, thus preventing washing and leaching, and furnish pasture during the late fall and early spring months. While it is now too late to sow oats to supply pasture this fall, the crop may be sown safely for grain in November in eastern or southern North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and southern Texas. Many experiments have shown that October or November seeding will produce far better yields of oats in the South Atlantic and Gluf States than sowing during the winter or early spring.

The Best Soils For Oats

Oats succeed best on clay or clay-loam soils which are well filled with decaying vegetable matter. The crop grows well on such soils because they do not dry out readily, for the oat plant requires plenty of water for its best growth. On the other hand, the land should be well drained, as no cereal will grow well on waterlogged soil. While clay-loam soils are best, good crops of oats may be grown on fertile sandy loam or sandy soil. The yield of grain on such soils, however, is usually less than on the clays and clay loams.

Preparation of the Land

Oats can best be sown on land which a cultivated crop, such as corn, cotton, or cowpeas, was grown during the preceding summer. As immediate seeding is essential, it is better not to plow the land, but to prepare the seed bed with the disk harrow, spring-tooth harrow, or any other tool with which the land can be gone over rapidly and the surface 2 or 3 inches worked into a loose and mellow condition. Oats grow best on a soil which, while fairly loose on the surface, is firm beneath, so that a seed bed prepared in the manner indicated is much more likely to produce a successful crop than one which has been freshly plowed and has not had time to settle.

If there is much trash on the land, such as weeds or a heavy growth of cotton or cornstalks, it may be necessary to remove at least a portion of this material in order to make a good seed bed. If possible, however, it is better to work the trash into the soil with a stalk cutter and a disk harrow if these tools are available.

The Fertilizers To Use

The kind and amount of fertilizer to use of course depend on the fertility of the land and the fertilizer which was applied to the preceding crop of corn or cotton. If the land is fertile enough to produce good yields of either of these crops, or if it was heavily fertilized the preceding spring, the use of more fertilizer just before sowing the oats is not absolutely necessary. On the poorer soils applications of 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate and 30 to 50 pounds of muriate of potash per acre may usually be made with profit. If nitrogen is added, it should be applied in the form of a top-dressing of nitrate of soda about the time growth starts in the spring.

Getting the Seed Ready to Sow

Good, plump, well-cleaned seed of a rust proof variety should be used. It is better to use that which was grown in the immediate locality, or at least within 100 or 200 miles, than seed shipped from greater distance. This is particular true of winter oats, as this crop is grown only in Southern States and seed obtained from the North is almost certain to be of varieties not suitable for fall seeding. If home-grown or local seed is used it should be cleaned and graded as thoroughly as possible. If a fanning mill is not available for this work, much chaff, light grain, and weed seeds may be removed by pouring the seed back and forth from one tub or bushel measure to another in a strong wind.

If there is time before sowing, it is desirable to treat the seed for smut with a solution made by adding 1 pint (1 pound) of commercial formaldehyde to 50 gallons of water. Formaldehyde may usually be obtained readily from any drug store. The easiest way to treat the grain is to spread it out on a smooth barn floor, a tight wagon box, or a large piece of canvas, and sprinkle the solution on it from an ordinary watering pot. After the grain on the surface is wet, the pile should be shoveled over so that the wet grain is mixed with the dry grain beneath, repeating this operation until all the grain is moist. The seed should then be shoveled into a pile and covered with canvas, burlap, or grain sacks, and allowed to remain for several hours. It may then be spread out in a thin layer to dry before seeding, or the seed may be sown at once. If the seed is sown while still moist, the rate of seeding either by measure or by weight should be increased, to allow for the water taken up by the grain.

The Choice of Varieties

The best varities for fall seeding are Red Rustproof and Winter Turf. The Red Rustproof is the variety most commonly grown in the Southern States, either for fall or spring seeding. It is rather less hardy than Winter Turf, but matures at least 10 days earlier and usually produces heavier yields of grain. The Appler, Bancroft, Cook, and Lawson are all strains or selections of the Red Rustproof which are locally grown in the South. TheFulghum is a new variety which has lately come into prominence in Georgia and some of the adjoining states because of its earliness and high yields. It matures several days earlier than the Red Rustproof and thus lengthens the season for growing cowpeas or other crops which may be sown after the oats are harvested. The Winter Turf is the hardiest of all winter oats, but usually rusts badly in the extreme South and it is late in maturing, and for these reasons the yield of grain is usually not heavy.

How to Sow for Best Results

The best method of sowing oats is with a drill, either the ordinary type of grain drill or a special type which leaves the grain in a deep furrow. This latter method has been particularly recommended in Georgia and is probably to be preferred for late seeding anywhere in the South. The ordinary cotton planter may also be used, running the furrows from 18 to 24 inches apart and sowing the seed rather thickly in the row. The advantage of the specially devised open-furrow drill over the ordinary cotton drill is that several rows may be sown at a time and that consequently the work may be finished much more quickly. Drilling requires less seed than broadcast seeding, covers the seed more uniformly, and produces better stands and larger yields.

If no drill is available, the seed may be sown broadcast on a well-prepared seed bed, either by hand or with one of the machines especially prepared for this purpose. Broadcast seeders, however, are but little known or used in the South. If the sowing is done by hand, the work is made more easier, if the sower stands in the rear end of the wagon driven slowly back and forth across the field at the necessary entervals than if he walks and carries a heavy bag of grain. After sowing, the seed should be covered with a harrow and roller. The latter tool, however, should not be used on soils that are likely to run together and bake, particularly when such soils are wet.

The depth to which the seed should be covered varies with the nature of the soil and the amount of moisture it contains at seeding time. On clay or clay-loam soils which are fairly moist and in good condition, covering to a depth of one inch is sufficient. On sandy soils or those which are rather dry, the seed should be sown at a depth of from one and one-half to two inches.

How Much to Sow

The usual rate of seeding winter oats is from two to three bushels to the acre. As the seed of the rustproof oat is large, at least two and one-half bushels of this variety should be sown. Red Rustproof kernels have a tendency to stick together in the drill and for that reason do not feed freely; hence, setting the drill at the rate of 3 to 3½ bushels is necessary to sow as much as 2½ bushels. When sowing broadcast, from 2½ to 3 bushels should be used. The kernels of the Winter Turf are smaller than those of the Red Rustproof, while the plants are more hardy and stool more freely; hence, much less seed is required. Of this variety 1½ to 2 bushels are required when the seed is sown with a drill or 2¼ when sown broadcast. In any case more seed should be used for late than for early seeding.

When to Sow

Early seeding is desirable if the yields of winter oats are to be obtained. In the northern half of the Gulf States and in eastern North and South Carolina the seed may be sown in early November with safety, while nearer the coast sowing during the latter half of November or early in December is usually satisfactory. In no case should sowing be delayed until after December 15 if it is at all possible to get the seed into the ground in good condition before that date.

ORGANIZED PRODUCTION AND MARKETING FOR A COMMUNITY ADVANTAGE

Our Farmers should heed these wise suggestions of commissioner of Agriculture.

Co-Operative Marketing

The question of marketing agricultural products reduced to its practical analysis reveals the following facts: A car load of any product of uniform quality, grade, standard size or packages carefully and neatly prepared finds a ready market at profitable prices. Mixed car load of products of all grades, qualities, varieties put up in uneven packages are the most difficult to market and generally sell at unsatisfactory prices and often at a loss. It is the small quality of uneven products that makes the market hard and uncertain.

Marketing Club

The only practical solution of the marketing question seems to depend upon community organizations conducted in a strictly business way. A place where products can be assembled, graded and properly prepared as the market demands. These marketing asscoiations must be made of more business importance than a Sunday school or literary society. They should be organized and maintained for the purpose of making money, establishing a reputation for high grade products and may be used as schools for teaching the better production, grading and packing. Such an organization will cost some money to maintain it but will yield excellent profits over and above the cost of operation.

Organized Production

Organized production must precede organized marketing. Every member of the association should produce the same varieties of cotton, corn, oats, peas and potatoes. The same breed of hogs, cattle and chickens so that [illegible]embled for market, uniform[illegible]e and quality is easy. [illegible]ple should lay aside th[illegible] notions and differences a[illegible] varieties and breeds and adopt one good variety or breed for each co-operating community.

How To Do It

Do not wait for a state or government official to come along and persuade you to get together, organize you and then run the business for you. If you do, it will never be done. Get a dozen or two of the best business men in your community to meet, organize and each one go to work to accomplish some definite results. Use the government man when he comes around as a teacher and give him an audience to teach. Submit your hardest problems to him and let him advise, and if necessary criticise. Consider his advice and study his criticism but do not expect or allow him to run the business.

The community that works out this co-operative production and marketing problem to its financial interest will have accomplished the greatest good that can come to any community and demonstrate to the world that the farmer is not a helpless creature but a business man. I beg you to back your judgment and try this for success.

SELF DEFENSE IS OVERTON'S PLEA

MAKES STATEMENT THAT HE SHOT LAWLER TO SAVE HIS OWN LIFE

TELLS STORY OF BATTLE

Struggle On Bridge Over Whitesburg Though Graphically Described By Defendant

Huntsville.—David Overton, admitting that he killed Judge Lawler, but claiming self-defense, denied on the witness stand that he knew what disposition was made of the body. He told the jury that after killing Lawler, he (Overton) went to Sheriff Phillips and asked to be put in jail. Then, he said, Phillips advised him to go to Brooks' house, and he followed the the sheriff's suggestion.

In describing the events leading up to the killing, the witness said he had made arrangements with Lawler for a conference that night. Meeting the Judge, they went to Whitesburg in Overton's buggy, he told the jury Arriving there, according to the witness, Judge Lawler was much concerned over the probabilities of the Special Grand Jury injuring him, and wanted Overton to help him. Lawler, according to Overton, suggesting seeing the jurors before the report was made.

Overton said that when he refused to do this, Judge Lawler attacked him with a knife. The struggle on the bridge is graphically described by the witness. He said when Lawler was about to best him, he (Overton) drew his pistol, and using it as a club, beat off the Judge. Then he shot once, the ball ending the struggle and Lawler's life.

After the killing, Overton said, he went to Sheriff Phillips, and intimated that the former Sheriff, who took his own life in June, had something to do with the disposition of Lawler's body.

The witness told of going with Brooks and Nalls to the former's home at Whitesburg, where he left Lawler on the bed and where Brooks and Nalls aided conservation Phillips said somebody had written a note to him asking that a search be made of the Whitesburg Slough, and that the request would be complied with.

Overton pleads that he left Whitesburg shortly after the killing, and those admitting that he returned to Whitesburg several hours later, with Brooks and Nalls, the body already had been placed in the slough.

One of the features of the testimony of Overton was that he absolutely cleared C. M. Nalls and Percy Brooks of all connection with the killing and also stated that their testimony was in the main the truth.

INVESTIGATE SCHOOL WARRANTS

Federal Reserve System Inquires Into Value As Bank Security

Montgomery.—M. C. Allgood, State Auditor, and W. F. Feagin, State Superintendent of Education, have been asked to furnish all the information they have about the way the Alabama school warrants are issued, and other things, in order that H. H. Randolph, General Counsel for the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta, may determine the value of these warrants as security for the Federal Bank.

Mr. Randolph is anxious to know about the provision for the public schools made by the State constitution, and about the money each year in the State for the education of the children.

Mr. Randolph has been asked by the officials of the bank for an opinion as to the value of the warrants as security, and immediate replies are urged in the letters to the State officials.

The total honus will be about $4,000 and will represent an increase in wages of about eight per cent for the year.

EXODUS DENIED

Reports of Negroes Leaving Dallas Untrue, Secretary Says

Selma.—Morgan Richards, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, says that news items sent from Selma saying that a thousand negroes had deserted the one little village of Eleanor, in West Dallas County, are not borne out by the facts. He says that less than 200 left that vicinity. He says that less than 1,000 have left Dallas County as a whole.

DEMURRAGE RATE SUSPENDED

Proposed Increase Not to Become Effective Until 1917

Birmingham.—Increased car demurrage rates, issued by the railroads to become effective on December 1, were ordered suspended until March 31, 1917, by the Interstate Commerce Commission, to whom the Birmingham Grain Exchange filed a petition for suspension, according to formal notification received here. Through J. T. Slatter, Manager of the Freight Bureau of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the rates recently issued raising the demurrage charge from $1 a day to $2 for the first day, $3 for the second, $4 for the third and $5 for the fourth and subsequent days, the Grain Exchange protested.

The railroads asserted that in raising the demurrage rates they purpoced to stop the car shortage, believing that cars were held up unnecessarily long. As opposed to this, the grain dealers maintained the position that cars rarely were held up for a longer time than necessary.

WILSON TO GET ALL 12

Investigation Shows There Is No Chance to Lose One Even If Quinn Is Absent

Montgomery.—Dispatches sent from Montgomery saying that President Wilson might lose one vote from Alabama as a result of the indictment of Y. M. Quinn on a charge of committing infractions of the State Banking Laws proved to be unfounded when an investigation was made.

Mr. Quinn will come to Montgomery and cast his own vote for President Wilson and even if he should not come the vacancy in the Tenth District will be filled by the Electoral College and as every member of the Electorial College is a Democrat Mr. Quinn's successor would be a Democrat.

Section 450 of the political code of Alabama regulates the Electoral College of Alabama and provides that if and member fails to appear at noon the second Monday in January his place must be filled by the College. The Code's section is so written that President Wilson will receive twelve votes from Alabama even though only a few of the presidential electors attend the meeting. No matter how many electors are absent their places can be filled by those present at the proper time.

PEANUTS ARE USED

Mill Turns From Cotton Seed to Velvet Beans Also

Eufaula.—Finding the crushing of cotton seed at present prices unprofitable, the local cotton oil company has sold out its entire supply and is now crushing peanuts exclusively. The mill is also handling a great quantity of velvet beans, which it is turning into meal and shipping to Birmingham, where there seems to be a great demand for this feed stuff. Thousands of tons of the beans have been handled here this year at a good return for the farmer, and it is expected that much more will be brought in next season on account of the success of this crop and its marketing this Fall.

BANK CHARTER GIVEN

J. F. Hooper, of Albertville, is President of New Institution

Gadsden.—A charter has been granted to the Marshall County Bank in Guntersville. The capital stock will be $25.000. J. F. Hooper, of Albertville, is President of the new bank and A. S. Hooper, Sr., is Vice President.

Probable Make 1917 Iron Not Sold.

Birmingham.—Estimate is made that at least 50 per cent of the probable make of pig iron in Alabama during the last half of the coming year is being reserved for a higher market, while great inroads are being made on the other 50 per cent. Three companies in the Birmingham district announced positively their being out of the market entirely, with books not yet open on the last half of next year's business.

Last of Old Stage Drivers Dead.

Athens.—The last of the old stage drivers of North Alabama passed into history when Zac Burzett, aged 92, died here. In the early days of the State Mr. Burzett drove the stage coach between Florence, Huntsville and Athens. At one time he transported the Barnum and Bally circus over the stage route. Mr. Burzett is survived by several relatives in Alabama and Texas.

Killed By Brother-in-Law.

Anniston.—T. R. Hicks, a farmer living near Peek's Hill, was confined in the Calhoun County Jail following the death of J. L. Sheffield, his brother-in-law, whom he is said to have stabbed. It is said the cutting was the culmination of a family quarrel that has been going on for some time. The men met with the hope of adjusting their domestic difficulties, but instead of reaching an amicable settlement got into a fight, which resulted in the tragedy.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS INCREASE

More Than Half Million Dollars Collected And Turned Into Treasury By Commissioner Osborne

ANNUAL REPORT IS ISSUED

All Records Broken During Last Fiscal Year—"Bootlegging" Unabated

Washington.—More than $500,000,000 was turned into the federal treasury during the last fiscal year by the internal revenue bureau. Commissioner Osborn's annual report made public shows that receipts broke all records with a total of $512,723,288, or $97,000,000 more than last year.

Corporations paid $56,972,721 and individuals $67,943,595 on account of the income tax, an increase of almost $18,000,000 for tax corporations and $27,000,000 for individuals. There was an enormous increase in collections from manufacturers of cigarettes. Production of distilled liquors increased, and, though output of fermented liquors fell off during the early part of the year, a steady increase followed.

"Bootlegging," or illegal sale of liquor, the report says, continues unabated and will continue until there is a more hearty co-operation of local officers in the various states. Gigantic frauds against the revenue and evasions or omissions of tax have been uncovered during the past three years, evaded taxes discovered approximating $50,000,000. Of this amount more than $22,000,000 was assessed as unpaid taxes, about half being corporation taxes.

Commissioner Osborn recommends that the personal income tax law be amended so as to require returns of annual gross income of $3,000 or over instead of annual net incomes of like amount, and "information at the source" be substituted for the present system of withholding the normal tax at the source of the income, except as to non-resident aliens or corporations.

Athens, Greece.—A crisis in the relations between the entente commander and the Greek ministry over the demand for the surrender of the Greek arms and ammunition have been averted, it, as reported ,the ministry has decided not to resist the demand. Vice Admiral du Fournet, the entente commander, has delivered an ultimatum to Greece allowing only a short period in which the arms in Athens were to be surrendered and threatened that unless the demand was complied with he would take measures to enforce it. It is reported that the provisional government of Greece, headed by former Premier Venizelos, has declared war on Bulgaria.

Last Call Answered By Inez Boissevain

Los Angeles, Cal.—Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, widely known suffragist and welfare worker, died in a hospital here after an illness of ten weeks. She was 30 years old. Mrs. Boissevain was stricken suddenly while addressing an audience in this city during the recent political campaign and fainted on the platform. She was removed to a hospital and her husband and parents rushed from New York to join her here. Mrs. Vida Milholland, her sister, was with her when she was stricken and has been in constant attendance since that time.

3,773 Lead For Wilson In California

Sacramento, Cal.—President Wilson's plurality in California is 3,773 votes, according to semi-official figures announced by Secretary of State F. C. Jordan. The figures include the vote of a hitherto questioned precinct in Orange county. The president's plurality represents the difference between the vote of 466,289 for Francis J. Heney, highest Democratic elector, and that of 462,516 for J. F. Carlstron, highest Republican. To be made finally official the figures must be certified to by the secretary of state.

Crew Of The Rob Roy Reach Morocco

London.—The captain and crew of the American schooner Rob Rob arrived at Mogador, Morocco, in a motor boat. The Rob Roy ran into a gale on November 18, while bound from Alicante (Spain) for Havana (Cuba). Buffeted by the high waves and leaking, the schooner was abandoned November 20 ninety miles northwest of Madeira. She was then in a sinking condition. The Rob Roy was a four-masted schooner of 786 tons. She was owned in Philadelphia and was built at Camden, N. J., in 1890.

FRANCIS JOSEPH IS DEAD

End Comes To Austrian Ruler At The Schoenbrunn Castle, Where He Had Been In Failing Health

London.—Emperor Francis Joseph died at Schoenbrunn castle, according to a Reuter dispatch from Vienna, by way of Amsterdam.

The first intimation received here that Emperor Francis Joseph's health was again the subject of solicitation was contained in a dispatch dated November 12, emanating from a Vienna news agency, which reported that the emperor had been suffering for some days from a slight catarrhal affection.

Subsequent reports from various sources, more or less conflicting, represented that his condition was becoming worse, but none of them indicated that his illness threatened to reach a critical state, and from Vienna came assurances that he was still able to give audiences to one or more ministers daily.

What gave some credence to the suspicion that his condition was much graver than the official bulletins indicated was the report that it had been decided to associate the heir to the throne, Archduke Charles Francis, in the government of the country, and that he was to assume the position on December 2, on the sixty-eighth anniversary of the emperor's ascension to the throne.

With Francis Joseph's death in the midst of the great world conflict there is a remarkable climax to a long list of tragedies in the Hapsburg family—a list unparalleled in any other reigning house in Europe—including the assassination or violent death of seven near relatives.

The fortitude with which the emperor bore each blow and in later years withstood the inroads of ill health himself was the wonder of his people.

It is doubtful if in all history there has been an active, authenticated reign longer than that closed by the death of Francis Joseph.

At 19 years of age he ascended the throne of Austria, upon abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I., December 2, 1846, his death ending an active reign of 67 year, all but the first twenty of which he was also apostolic king of Hungary.

Tradition says that Pharaoh ruled for 99 years and there is the more credible instance of Rameses II., Seostris of the Greeks, whose reign is reputed to have covered 67 years.

But in recorded history there certainly has been no reign equal in period of time to that of the Hapsburg which closed with the death of Francis Joseph. Louis XIV of France was nominally king for 72 years. He actually occupied the throne for little more than half a century. A closer rivalv and the only one of modern times, was Queen Victoria, who reigned for 64 years.

Francis Joseph's reign was as eventful as it was long. From his imperial vantage point he saw the French monarchy go down, the second empire rise and crumble, the common flare briefly and the republic of today rise on its ashes; he saw the black pinions of the Prussian eagle stamped on the flag of the new German empire—later to tower threateningly over Austria itself; he saw the papacy shorn of its territorial demesne, while about it a bickering family of petty principalities was welded into united Italy; he saw Spain, once the greatest of colonial powers, lose the last of her dependencies in two of the; he saw Japan opened to westerneans; Colonization and later defeat the stern civilization of two continents brawling in the most absolute despotism he saw Russia, Turkey and Persia come — Russia tation to the people; he saw Austria-Hungary ede representation its federation with the blood cement of great internecine war, and he saw of a his own brother prove that mon hy could not take new root on Archaean soil.

Overton Confesses Killing Lawler

Huntsville, Ala.—Probate Judge William T. Lawler, whose body was found in a slough of the Tennessee river, near here, June 17, after he had been missing from his home three days, and whose death was followed by the suicides soon afterward of a Huntsville attorney and a sheriff of Madison county, who believed they were suspected in connection with the tragedy, was killed the night of June 14 by David D. Overton, his political rival. Overton testified here in his trial on a charge of having murdered the jurist.

Want Speedy Decision On 8-Hour Law

Washington.—The department of justice and the railroads of the country may join in an effort to have the constitutionality of the Adamson 8-hour law determined by the Supreme court before January 1, before it becomes effective. If this course is adopted the department and the railroads will make every effort to expedite the case they select for the test. Although the question arose first at Kansas City, the present intention is to make the fight on the suit of Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

Homeward Dash By The Deutschland

New London, Conn.—The German merchant submarine Deutschland, with a $2,000,000 cargo and official mail for Emperor Wilhelm aboard, has made another start for Bremen, her former start being frustrated when she sank a convoying tug, necessitating a return to port for minor repairs. Her skipper, Paul Koenig, changed his tactics, for, instead of stealing out to sea under the cover of darkness, as was the case formerly, he boldly steered down the harbor in broad daylight and without convoy

AMERICAN FORCES TO BE WITHDRAWN

Protocol Has Been Signed By Mexican-American Commission For Pershing's Army to Leave Mexico

ORDER WILL BE RESTORED

Control Of Border Left To The Armies Of United States And Mexico

Atlantic City, N. J.—Withdrawal of the American troops which went into Mexico in pursuit of Francisco Villa, after the Columbus raid, and the patrolling of the border by the respective armies of the United States and Mexico, was agreed to in a protocol signed here late November 24 by the members of the American-Mexican joint commission seeking to adjust differences between the two countries. Adjournment of the conference sessions was taken immediately to allow Albert J. Pani, one of the Mexican commissioners, to go to Mexico to place the proposals before First Chief Carranza for approval.

The plan, characterized by Secretary of the Interior Lane, chairman of the American commission, as the beginning of a policy which will "make a Mexico that we can live with," provides that General Pershing shall bring his men across the line within forty days after the protocol is finally approved by the two governments, unless by this time the conditions in northern Mexico have become such that the American border is endangered by bandits. The admonition is contained in a separate document, however, that the United States reserves the right to pursue into Mexico any bandits force that crosses the international line. The question of co-operation on the border is left to the commanding officers of the two armies there.

After the protocol was signed, Secretary Lane issued a statement defining to a certain extent the policy of the United States government toward Mexico. He stated that he believed General Carranza a strong man, and that he should be given a "full chance," adding that "Mexico will either do right without help, or with it. This is her choice." Secretary Lane left here with a copy of the protocol to be submitted to the American government. If it is ratified, the commission will convene again on December 8, to resume the discussion of other questions affecting the two countries, especially those related to the protection of life and property of Americans and other foreigners in Mexico. If ratification by either government is withheld, the work of the conference will be declared at an end.

HIGH FOOD PRICES DUE TO THE POOR CROPS

According To Statement Issued By The National Grange, Gambling Should Be Prohibited

Washington.—In defense of the farmers the National Grange, in annual session here, issued a statement analyzing the high cost of living and attributing the rising prices of farm products to poor crops and the increasing cost of what the farmer has to buy.

If any embargoes are to be placed to help the situation, the statement says, they should be on manufactured products, particularly munitions of war. Prohibition of gambling in foodstuffs and provision of more storage houses under control of the farmers themselves also are suggested.

What Statement Says

The statement, drafted by a special committee, under instructions from the Grange, says, in part:

"The high price of farm products is due to several causes. Some of the more important ones are: The climatic conditions of this country during the past year were perhaps one of the leading causes of crop shortage. For example, the wheat in the Northwest was a crop failure; the corn crop was in many sections a partial failure, as well as the potato and vegetable crops.

"The farmer of today is the largest consumer of manufactured products, even in too many cases buying his meats and flour."

Sir Hiram Maxim Passes Over River

London.—Sir Hiram Maxim, inventor of the automatic system of firearms, died at his home here. Sir Hiram Stevens Maxim, American-born, was one of the most famous inventors, civil, mechanical and electrical engineers of Great Britain. He was most widely known as the inventor of the Maxim machine gun, which makes the recoil of the weapon serve as the power for reloading, and which is the weapon largely used in the European war today. He was born in Sangerville, Maine, February 5, 1840.

Villa Is Defeated With Heavy Losses

Chihuahua City.—Another attack by the Villa bandits upon the city from the east was begun and was repulsed, as were the previous attacks by the bandits. The machine guns again did deadly execution in the ranks of the bandits, who crept up from the east under cover of a deep arroyo, or dry wash. The rapid firers cut down the advancing thin lines of bandits like a mower in a field of standing grain. The dead and wounded were left on the battlefield, as was done in the previous assaults.

QUICK ACTION ON 8-HOUR LAW

Judge Hook Holds The Measure Unconstitutional—Appeal Taken To U. S. Supreme Court

Kansas City, Mo.—The Adamson 8-hour law was held unconstitutional here by Judge William C. Hook in federal district court. The court made it plain that the decision was not based on mature consideration of the merits of the case, but on expediency desired by all parties at interest because of the necessity of final action by the Supreme court of the United States before January 1, next, when the law goes into effect.

The legal moves in the process of sending the case direct to the highest court of the land were somewhat involved from the lay point of view, but the lawyers concerned rushed the matter through with a speed seldom witnessed in courts of law. Just what action Attorney General Gregory would take remained a closely guarded secret. Frank Hagerman, retained as special counsel to represent the federal government in the suit, suddenly set the ball rolling by asking Judge Hook to instruct the receiver for the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad, complainant in an injunction suit, to join with the defendant in proceedings which would consign the case on its merits to the Supreme court.

These events transpired in court by agreement:

1. Counsel for the receivers asked that their bill for an injunction be granted and the Adamson law be declared null and void.

2. Mr. Hagerman, for the government, asked the court to dismiss the bill and to declare the law constitutional.

3. The court overruled Mr. Hagerman and declared the law invalid.

4. Preparation of a transcript of the evidence for presentation to the Supreme court was begun.

5. Counsel for the receivers were instructed to notify counsel for all railroads of the moves made here and to invite them to join in the case before the Supreme court.

The present case, in view of Mr. Hagerman, provided all of the factors necessary for a test case, but it was said by James Dunlap of the legal staff of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, that among lawyers there is some difference of opinion on this point. He said that in some quarters it was thought that perhaps one or two additional test cases should be brought to afford a wider range of inquiry and analysis.

G. O. P. Candidate Sends A Telegram Of Congratulation To The Winner

Lakewood, N. J.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for president in the recent election, sent to President Wilson a telegram congratulating him upon his re-election.

In his telegram Mr. Hughes said: "Because of the closeness of the vote I have waited the official count in California, and now that it has virtually been completed permit me to extend to you my congratulations upon your re-election. I desire also to express my best wishes for a successful administration."

Statement By Willcox

New York.—William R. Willcox, the chairman of the Republican national committee, issued the following statement in reference to Mr. Hughes' telegram to Mr. Wilson:

"Having conferred with the national committeeman for California by telephone, I am informed that the official canvass of the vote of California has been so nearly completed that no change will result from the few precincts not counted in the returns thus far compiled.

"This means that the majority for the Wilson electors in California ranges from about twelve hundred to thirty-eight hundred votes

General Warning Against The U-Boats

New York.—The British cruiser Lancaster, stationd 15 mils southast of Sandy Hook, sent out by wireless a general warning to all steamers flying the flags of the entente allies to beware of German submarines on this side of the Atlantic. The Lancaster directed the commanders of all vessels to keep a sharp lookout for underwater boats. They were told to show no more lights than were necessary to avoid so far as possible.

Bandits Take $40,000 From Express

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Forty thousand nine hundred dollars was estimated to have been stolen from a Southern Express company transfer wagon in the Western and Atlantic railroad yards here by two white men who held up the lone driver, Fred Corneilson, who claims the bandits forced him to unlock a box containing approximately one hundred thousand dollars in currency. The robbery took place in the heart of the business district less than a block from the local offices of the Southern Express company.

HOUSE A MONUMENT TO H[illegible] OLD LOVE

Prepared [illegible] Bride It Stood Vacant [illegible] More Than Forty Years.

REVEALED BY ACCIDENT

Death of Two Men In Old Mansion Reveals Faithlessness of Woman Who Fled With Owner's Brother on Wedding Day.

London.—An accident recently brought to light a house of mystery in the heart of fashionable London. Two workmen, making structural repairs on a residence near the home of J. Pierpont Morgan's London home, fell with riven rafters and were dashed to death.

At the coroner's inquest the contractor declared the whole house was dangerous with dry-rot.

"Since 1871," he said, "not a nail has been driven within its walls, and no one has entered the living rooms except the caretaker."

"Summon the owner," commanded the coroner.

"He is dead, sir," was the reply. "The house recently changed hands at an executor's sale."

"Then call the caretaker."

She came at once—a little, genteel, elderly woman who had lived a great part of her life in the shadows of the house of mystery.

Bride Changed Her Mind.

"The owner was W. C. Nation, a rich man, lord of the manor of Rockbeare," testified the little, old woman. "Five-and-forty years ago, when I was but a girl, Mr. Nation bought the property, contemplating marriage.

"Mosaic workers came from Italy and art decorators from Paris to prepare the home for his chosen bride. My mother was engaged as housekeeper, with orders to choose her maids. The butler came and hired his men. Everything was ready, even to bridal bouquets in the chambers—but there was no wedding. On her marriage morning the bride eloped with her fiance's brother. London knew her no more.

"What Mr. Nation thought, no one ever learned. Mother received orders to dismiss the servants and live on as caretaker. Nothing was to be altered. The table set for the wedding breakfast remained undisturbed. No chair or ornament ever was removed from the reception rooms, even the beds were never stripped. For 20 years mother and I waited for the arrival of our employer. Then we knew he could not bear to enter the house again.

Guarded "Proud Man's Secret."

"One day, 15 years ago, an elderly, delicate lady in widow's weeds, sat in the park opposite for hours, staring sadly at our shaded windows. Mother thought she looked like the bride's portrait in the large drawing room. But she went away, and we never saw her again.

"After mother died I lived on alone, guarding a proud man's secret. I had only to keep silent. If the world was ever curious, it soon forgot. Seldom, if ever, did anyone ask a question about the emptiness of the old house. Many's the time mother said to me, 'Dear, dear, this is a thoughtless world and selfish. How little the best of people trouble themselves about their next neighbors!'"

LOSES TOES TO BE CADET

Kansas Youth Submits to Amputation to Enable Him to Enter West Point.

Atchison, Kan.—Two toes amputated that he might pass entrance examination to West Point, Harold De Forest of Wetmore has been discharged from a hospital here. He had what is known as "hammer toes"—that is, two toes were drawn back and wouldn't straighten out. Those two toes wouldn't pass the examination, and he was promised admittance in case the toes were amputated.

PEARL, BRIDE AND LEGACY IN OYSTER

Boston Man Marries Girl Who Served Bivalve in Denver Restaurant.

St. Paul, Minn.—Other persons have been known to bite into an oyster and discover a pearl, but to find a pearl and a bride and claim a $5,000 legacy all through the same little bivalve is an accomplishment.

Ralston Foster did it, and he was married by Court Commissioner Gallick to Miss Gladys Malcomb, who served the Cupid oyster in a Denver restaurant two months ago.

Foster told this story the other day: "Mother died when I was eighteen years old, leaving me a $5,000 bequest, to be claimed only in event I was married before the age of twenty-five years. I cared little for girls, and might have 'stuck' had I not ordered blue points in a Denver restaurant.

She Was Sympathetic and Pretty.

"My teeth clashed with something hard, and my exclamation attracted the waitress. She was sympathetic and pretty, and laughed with me in my predicament. Then we discovered that the 'hard substance' was a pearl, which later was valued at $500. Guess that's all there is to the story."

"Not quite," Mrs. Foster said, and she extended a hand which bore the $500 pearl in an engagement ring.

The couple met in St. Paul by arrangement and were married, leaving soon afterward for Boston, where Foster is an automobile salesman. The mother's estate is in Connecticut.

SNAKES IN HOUSE; NO GHOST

After They Were Killed Mysterious Noises in West Virginia House Stopped.

Barboursville, W. Va.—The mystery that has for years surrounded the haunted house on the hill back of here has been solved as a result of Green Simpkins, a Logan county miner, his wife and his six children moving into the house.

Peculiar noises have emanated from the building at night and for months weird stories have been told of the wraiths holding high carnival there.

Simpkins, a stranger, didn't know the house was "haunted." Mrs. Simpkins had occupied the place only a short time when mysterious sounds terrified her.

She took a gun and went upstairs where she found the cause of the noise in the maneuvers of a dozen blacksnakes that had taken charge of that part of the building. She was so frightened she dropped the gun and screamed for help. Two men passing heard the screams and they entered and gave the snakes a battle. It was an hour before all were killed with clubs and stones.

Chicago.—Judge Joseph B. Sabath of the criminal court, after passing a death sentence on Lloyd Bopp, twenty-three years old, covered his face and wept unreservedly for several minutes.

"I always prayed that if ever I became a judge I should never be called upon to go through an ordeal like this," he said.

Counsel for Bopp and others in the courtroom gave way to tears.

Bopp murdered a motorcycle policeman four months ago.

WHERE THE WILD TURKEY CALLS—THE REAL THANKSGIVING BIRD

A NEW THANKS-GIVING

by JAMES W. BECKMAN

THIS is the week of Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving day is an American custom started by the Pilgrims who landed on the new continent and faced hardships which few can realize who are reared in the wealth and luxury of the land today.

The season had been a hard one. Many died and the prospect of starvation during the cold winter with its icy and snow loomed large. So, when the harvest yielded enough to keep them until another season would produce necessities of life, they met that first Thursday in November in year 1621 and gave thanks to their God, who had remembered them.

Thankfulness is usually in inverse ratio to the value of the thing for which we give thanks. This is no disparagement of the things we are grateful for; but humanity does not think of thanks until it has felt the terrors of distress.

The rich who live in luxury and ease do not thank with their hearts. Their thanks are but formal expressions of meaningless words. How can words mean anything when one has not felt the things which make for thankfulness?

But the poverty-stricken who have faced starvation pour out thanks from their humble hearts for the things that have saved their lives.

Those who live in gorgeous homes with comfortable fireplaces do not think of thanks. But those who live in the little hovel with big cracks in the walls and crevices about the doors and windows and without fuel, give thanks for the comfort of fire.

We do not prize health until we have lost it, and we do not appreciate life until we have faced the danger of having to give it up.

That which we have we are likely to accept as a matter of course; but be deprived of it and the sudden reaction of its value jars our souls like an earthquake.

We are thankful in the full sense of the word for things necessary to life and happiness only when we have had to do without them.

We are not thankful for that to which we are accustomed and accept thoughtlessly. But when we are deprived of the necessities of life and face the hardships, including death, that come as a result, we are thankful with all our heart.

America has more to be thankful for yearly, than any other nation in the world; but our thanks are tempered by the gravity of the sorrow of our neighbors.

The year has not been one of great happiness, peace and prosperity. It is a year of travail for humanity—the travail of a people being born again. But out of it will come a disciplined and sober people; a people who will know the realities of life better.

We will learn that life is a serious matter, and no silly, simpering affair. The war has brought us again to an understanding of the terrible earnestness of the thing we call life.

The earth is in process, and we still have earthquakes and volcanic eruptions.

Humanity, too, is in process, and strife and sorrow and death will continue to be its lot. We must face life resolutely and meet destiny undismayed.

This year we will not be thankful so much for the blessings we have received, for the things that have been given to us—for being pampered by a prodigal Providence—and being relieved of our burdens, as we will be thankful for the strength to bear them.

In the shrine of our hearts our deepest prayer is not that we shall be relieved of our burdens; but that we shall be given the strength to bear them, for we are great in the degree and the manner in which we face our tasks and perform them. The Great Souls are those that have suffered and endured.

Our Thanksgiving this year will be no perfunctory, infantile prattle because of satiety.

This is a year of reckoning with fate; of being thankful if we, ourselves, have not fallen in the wreckage. We are thankful not for what has happened; but for what has not happened.

Life is not a trivial pastime. It is deadly earnest. It is the course that destiny takes, and let us be thankful, not for less of life, but for more of it, and the courage, the fortitude, the strength, and the persistence to meet its difficulties and continue its course undaunted by disaster and unspoiled by success.

We are thankful for Character, not charity, and for iron wills that have not been broken by the inevitable!—From the Sunday Magazine.

Thanksgiving Fable.

An aged Turkey, once upon a time had occasion to read the Riot act to a Grandson because the latter was a Glutton.

"It Behooves you to Fast for a few weeks," said the Wise Old Bird, "for Thanksgiving draweth apace—that season when long-legged Bipeds Swoop down upon Us without Warning and give it to our Family in the Neck."

"Oh, go to!" exclaimed the Young Glutton. "You think because Old Age has made you Gouty and rendered you Unable to Partake of the Good things of Life that you can Stuff me. I'm Dead Next. See?"

"Very well," answered the Grandsire. "Keep right on getting Obese and you will be Dead Next for keeps; but You'll see who does the Stuffing."

And the late November returns showed that the Old Turk knew Whereof he Spoke.

Moral—If you would Live Long and Prosper, Don't get Gay.

THANKSGIVING DAY

That we're at peace with all the world
Safe in our cities and our homes,
That unto this, our favored land,
Such gift, with all its blessings, comes,
That men go not to war and death,
That women do not fearful brood
By anxious hearths for dear ones gone,
We thank Thee, Giver of all good.

That no ambitious strife is ours,
That lust of conquest does not thrill
This mighty nation's inmost heart,
That we abhor to burn and kill,
That weaker nations we protect,
Fight but to make their wronging cease,
And only comes to make them free,
We thank Thee, God of love and peace.

That in the stress around us now,
We feel our hearts with pity throb,
And haste to heal the wounded man
To hush the child and woman's sob,
That we are eager still to share
The goods that heap our stores again,
With those who have but us to help,
We thank Thee, Father of all men!

Is an Old Institution.

Despite popular opinion to the contrary, Thanksgiving day as an institution is not peculiarly American. For history shows that all ancient nations used to celebrate some feast of a thanksgiving nature, while most of the tribes of our American Indians had a big gathering and a harvest feast years before the white man ever set foot on the shores of the new world.

By the Greeks and Romans the festival days in honor of the goddess of agriculture were times of rustic sport, of processions through the fields and the decorating of the home with fruits and flowers. The people of Egypt enjoyed a time of feasting after gathering in their harvests and laid the fruits of the year on the altar of the Goddess Isis.

Feast of the Tabernacles.

The feast of the tabernacles in the Old Testament times was also a harvest celebration and took place on the seventh day of the month, which corresponds to our November, sometimes lasting for a whole week. They gathered in the temple in great processions, holding palms, and in the streets were booths decorated with the flowers and fruits of autumn.

Among the Indians of America the custom of having a Thanksgiving feast was practically universal—at least among those who had any amount of planting. As corn was the main article grown, their dances and feasting were generally in honor of the harvesting of that food. The writers of several hundred years ago who first studied the Indian on his native heath all speak of these festivals and the elaborate ceremonial with which they were attended. While most of these tribes have vanished as such, there are still some left on government reservations which observe, though possibly in a modified degree, the ancient custom of their race.

The Thankful Spirit.

Cultivate the thankful spirit. It will be to thee a perpetual feast. There is, or ought to be, with us no such thing as small mercies; all are great, because the least are undeserved. Indeed, a really thankful heart will extract motive for gratitude from everything.—J. R. Macduff.

A LESSON

The Republican National Committee is created for the express purpose of managing Republican National Campaigns. It has other functions but no other of sufficient consequence to justify its existence and expense.

It is composed of 48 members, one chosen from each state in the manner determined by law or by party usage.

Membership on the Committee should be conferred upon experienced political leaders. By the very nature of its constitution there is no other body so well qualified to manage a national campaign. Each of its members should be familiar with local political conditions and know the Republicans in his own state who can most effectively handle these conditions. Each necessarily becomes familiar with conditions in other states.

The present National Committee was named at the same time the candidate for President was nominated. It is the most recent expression of the party wish. Yet in the conduct of the campaign begun at the Chicago Convention it has been permitted only a nominal participation.

Following a vicious practice, at the very beginning of the campaign the committee abdicated its functions. It allowed the candidate for President to select its chairman, and Mr. Hughes, a Justice on the bench, out of touch with politics for years, picked out a personal friend, an amiable New York gentleman, lacking in political acumen; personally unknown to most members of the committee. This inexperienced chairman brushed aside the men best qualified to advise him, placed himself in the hands of a little group in no way identified with the committee, and in some instances not even identified with the party, let young Mr. Hitchcock of New York, who in 1908 mismanaged the campaign for Taft, muddle the campaign in the west, and meddle everywhere; he having no official position whatever.

Headquarters at New York was a bedlam; at Chicago, a joke. The party leaders who could have been of most help to the improvised committee were distrusted or ignored. Blunder after blunder was committeed, under the very eyes of Mr. Wilcox, until an election won in June was lost in November. California, Washington, Kansas, Ohio, Minnesota and the Morman states were slipping away and no one at headquarters knew what was going on or seemed to care. Everything was left to Justice Hughes and his oratory.

The lesson! Let the Republican National Cmomittee resume its functions. Slough off the parasites. We must have a recognized Republican organization again, and at once.

CIRCUIT COURT

The fall term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county opened Monday morning, presided over by Judge Leon McCord.

The Grand Jury was duly empannelled, given an able charge by the Judge, and started at once into the disposition of their duties.

The civil docket of the term is being taken up and disposed of in the usual manner of procedure.

Next week will be given the criminal cases on the trial register. We understnd that the cases against the officials of the Clanton Bank are set for trial on next Tuesday, Dec. 5th.

Come to think of it, it would have been impossible for Hughes to have won by a close shave.—National Republican.

PAPER A DAY EARLY

We are getting the Banner out a day early this week, owing to the fact that Thursday is Thanksgiving day and we will be so busy eating turkey that we will not have time to attend to any business.

UNION SPRINGS.

As per announcement in the Union-Banner Mr. Meggison V. D. M. of Boston, Mass., lectured in the Union Springs community on the 20 and 21 inst. Attendance was good. He is a fluent speaker and a deep reasoner. He is of the I. B. S. Association.

First subject, "The desire of all nations shall come," that the gentile times expired in 1914, since then the angry nations are just literally wearing each other out, and wil finally plung into anarchy, and then will come the desire of all nations. Christ's kingdom, now being set up, will continue a thousand years, a time of blessing and peace. No more war, the beautilful day.

Second subject, Jehovah's plan portrayed by the farmer in Isaih 28. Time for harrowing, planting, etc., thus the creator deals with man. Time for selecting the church, glorifying the members. Ressuecting the ancient worthis, Heb. 11, then the worlds bright judgment day, when the dead billions will come back and all the obedient will live forever. Most joyful message ever heard.

Third subject, Water of life. The church glorified will share in the great work as kings and priestsin lifting up to perfect life all who will, leading all the willing ones to the water of life on the new earth, to live here forever. As the door for the elect closes the great highway for all the race upens up.

It would have been a treat for all ministers to have heard him. Several Sunday school workers were present.

One of the greatest points in favor of Tanlac is its freedom from injurious minerals. Sold in Clanton by Upchurch Drug Co.

ENGINEER WATSON GAINS 68 POUNDS

Lost Health And Had To Lay Off From Work 15 Months—Now Back On His Run.

"My name is J. B. Watson and my home is in Mobile, Ala. I am thirty-nine years of age and by profession am a railroad engineer. I have a regular run on the work train between Selma and Mobile.

"Up to only a few months ago—that is, up to the time I started taking Tanlac—my health was broken down completely. When I commenced taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and three pounds and had not been able to work for fifteen months. Now, after taking only three and one half bottles of Tanlac I weigh one hundred and seventy-one pounds and have actually gained sixty-eight pounds, and never felt better in my life.

"I suffered for several years with the worst kind of stomach and constipation. I kept dropping down in weight and losing strength and finally I broke down completely. I had several attacks of what was called acute poisoning of the stomach and nobody knows how I suffered.

"I took treatment at the Marine Hospital at Algiers, La., and at the Tulane Hospital, New Orleans. I also took treatment at Hot Springs Ark., and Lookout Mountain. To tell you the truth I tried everything you could think of and spent hundreds of dollars, but I just kept going down hill, and for fifteen whole months I was unable to run my engine or to do any other kind of work.

"Of course, I was awfully discouraged about myself, as I could see but little hope for ever being well again. While I was sick and unable to work a brakeman gave half a bottle of Tanlac. I took it and I began to feel better right away. My stomach felt better and I got so I could eat and enjoy my meals.

"When this was gone I bought another bottle, and after finishing it I felt so much better and I went back to work on a switch engine. I could just feel myself gaining in weight and getting stronger every day, and after taking my second bottle I went back running an engine on the main line.

Now, since taking three and one half bottles I am working regular, running a work train between Selma and Mobile, the swampiest country in this section of the state.

Now, what I have told you is the truth and hundreds of people who know me and know how I looked before I took Tanlac will tell you the same thing. Another thing you can see from my picture, which I had taken while I was sick, how much stronger and healthier I look now than I did then.

"They can say what they please about Tanlac and patent medicines, but I can truthfully say that Tanlac is the only medicine tht ever did me any good, and I want everybody to know about it. If people don't believe you just tell them to come and look at me now and then look at my picture that was taken while I was sick I will show them mighty quick what Tanlac has done for me."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 3

JESUS CHRIST THE FIRST AND THE LAST.

LESSON TEXT—Rev. 1.

GOLDEN TEXT—Fear not; I am the first and the last, and the living one; and I was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore.—Rev. 1:17, 18.

The lesson committee have departed, seemingly, a long way from anything like chronological order. Paul had nothing to do with the writing of the Revelation, yet this lesson illustrates the pre-eminence which Jesus Christ had in the mind and labors of the great apostle (Col. 1:18).

I. Introduction. (vv. 1-3.) We would suggest that all Bible students and teachers, if possible, read the introduction to the Book of Revelation in Scofield's Reference Bible. The book proper is "The Revelation of Jesus Christ." John, the beloved disciple, who wrote the Gospel and Epistles, was the one who saw the visions recorded therein. Many of the things are historical, others are prophetically set forth. The latter are "shortly to come to pass." (See also II Peter 3:8.) John tells not only what God said but what he himself saw. The late Doctor Brooks of St. Louis omitted this book from his study for many years until he saw the comments recorded in verse 3. The time of the writing of this book has variously been stated as from A. D. 60 to A. D. 96; the writer was certainly John the Beloved. The place of writing was the island of Patmos in the Aegean sea, not far from Ephesus. The real author, however, is Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

II. Salutation (vv. 4-8). "The servant of Jesus who records his message was John, and the message was to be to "the seven churches which are in Asia;" that is, the western portion of Asia Minor, of which Ephesus on the Aegean sea was the principal city. These churches are definitely named in verse 11. There is good reason to think that these churches represented the seven successive epochs of church history. If so, no age is exclusively Ephesian, or Philadelphian, or Laodicean. The grace, favor, loving kindness, is a free gift from Christ, who is here giving a threefold title, namely: First begotten from the dead, witness and prince.

III. Vision (vv. 9-18). What John saw on the isle of Patmos he was to write upon a parchment roll and send it to the seven churches, each of which needed a message. Under the figure of seven candlesticks are enumerated seven churches. Into the midst of these churches, actually present in them, is one like unto the Son of Man. (See also Matthew 18:20.) Like a human being, Jesus was, but now clothed with the garment of his eternal glory, girded about with the girdle worn by priests and kings, a symbol of his power and strength (Isaiah 11:5; Eph. 6:14). His head and his hands, his feet and his eyes are all referred to, each having its symbolical significance. In his right hand are the seven stars (v. 16), the angels of the churches, pastors or leaders, possibly guardian angels (v. 20). They are held in his right hand, signifying that they are protected, upheld and controlled by his wisdom and power. (See Jeremiah 22:24). From his mouth goes a sharp, two-edged sword; the spirit of the Word of God sharper than any two-edged sword (Hebrews 4:12). And his countenance was as the sun shining in its strength, the glory, such as was manifested in the transfiguration, such as Paul saw near Damascus, is here referred to.

IV. The Command. John had enjoyed a tender intimacy with the Lord during his earthly life and yet he was stricken down with the overpowering majesty and glory which had been revealed. Now he realized, as perhaps never before, the significance of the ever-living Christ, and he is hereby specifically commanded to record this vision as he had seen it and the messages which the Lord had for the churches. The word mystery (v. 20) has reference to something which has hitherto been hidden to men and which is now about to be revealed. The revelation was to these churches, and it is to us also.

Jesus is not a mere vision but he is a living reality, unveiled for the time from the unseen.

Jesus is a living fact which we are to communicate to men. The seven stars (v. 20) are messages in his own right hand.

The churches are the lamp stands, Christ himself is the light, the sun (v. 16).

The messages John is commanded to deliver have a four-fold application (1) to the churches actually addressed, but which have long since passed away; (2) to all churches in all times, admonishing them to discover their true spiritual state; (3) to individuals, "he that hath an ear," that they shall claim the promises made "to him that overcometh" and (4) they are prophetic of the different phases of spiritual history, following the days of John, the writer, (a) Beginning; (b) persecution; (c) worldliness; (d) priestly formalism; (e) reformation; (f) testimony to the word and the name.

For the Schoolgirl

Fashion has approved, year in and year out, the one-piece frock for the young girl, and this piece of good judgment is more than exonerated. It has resulted in cleverly designed dresses that conceal the angles of the miss who has arrived at the awkward age. And now her elders are about to take advantage of the gracefulness of the one-piece frock, for the mode demands this style for everybody—young or old—whose figure will allow it.

The dress for a miss of twelve or more years shown in the picture, is of serge and might be made of any other cloth of about the same weight and texture. A dress of this kind is supported by a plain underbodice of muslin or silk which extends below the waistline and often supports an underpetticoat. This dress is laid in two single box plaits at the front and back that extend to the waistline. At the front and back of the skirt portion the material is laid in a double box plait. Then four flat panels, and they are joined by side pieces which are shirred in two groups of shirrings. In the shirrings needlework is introduced with colored silk thread, in contrast with the color of the material. Smocking is used, instead of shirring, in other models.

Small buttons, covered with the material of the frock, define the shirrings. Cloth-covered buttons, in a larger size, fasten the girdle, which is slashed into three tabs at the end. A buttonhole is worked in each tab. The girdle is wide and does not confine the dress at the waistline, but breaks the length of the figure. It is a feature of many one-piece frocks, where its real use appears to be to make a place for silk embroidery or bead work and to provide a chic finish for the frock.

In the Galaxy of Luxuries

One might as well try to count the stars as to tell of the innumerable styles in bags that have come to the front in fashion's parade. They are here in anticipation of the holidays, and promise to entice more money out of shoppers than any other one article in a whole galaxy of luxurious things.

They are expensive luxuries, but every one concedes their right to be. Handsome beaded bags, in which the background and decorations are entirely of small beads, bring sometimes a hundred dollars; and twenty dollars is a modest price for this particular kind of bag. Others of velvet, embroidered with steel beads, range between five and twenty-five dollars, with few that are less. There are bags partly covered with bead patterns on satin, and many showing combinations of two fabrics, as velvet and brocade or velvet and satin.

They are all made of rich materials, but it is the tedious handwork involved that brings the high price. The practiced needleworker who can do this for herself can save a surprisingly large part of the cost of these sumptuous accessories.

In the picture a bag and hat to match and two separate bags are shown. The hat has a wide brim of gold lace and a crown covered with a piece of Paisley. The brim edge is bound with seal, and a single peacock feather poses the glorious colorings of nature against a background rich enough to correspond with it. The bag is of Paisley with tassel of fur tied with a small bow of black satin ribbon like that in the hangers.

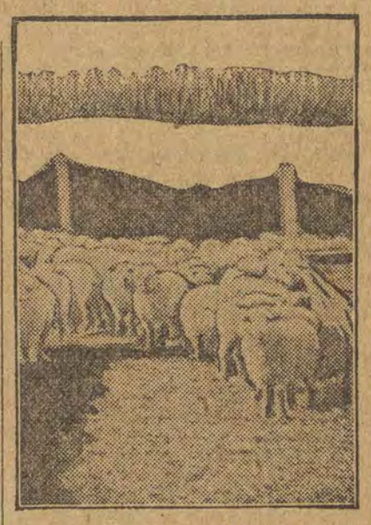
A fairly simple bag of black velvet and satin is wrought with a lattice-work pattern in small steel beads. Small apples, made of satin, are suspended at the bottom, set in a little frill of velvet. They are calculated to tempt the daughters of Eve into extravagance. A more elaborate bag is decorated with beads at the top and bottom in wide border and lattice pattern, and a narrower pattern along the sides. It closes with steel rings, and a beaded hanger is strung through them.

Julia Bottomley

The New Old-Fashioned Girls.

In the old-fashion girl Miss Alcott somewhere drew a pretty picture of her heroine in her little homespun blue frock and her tippet of squirrel. Young girls are wearing the same sort of wide skirted blue frocks and the self-same tippets of squirrel this year. The combination is so very pretty and becoming to youthful complexions that it is no wonder to find it in high favor again.

Snowball Muff.



The very newest muff to be seen in New York is perfectly round with invisible slits in the sides and it is scarcely larger than a good-sized grape fruit. These snowball affairs are made in ermine, white fox and squirrel.

HORSES PIGS and CATTLE

WINTER HOUSES FOR SHEEP

Especially Important That Feet and Fleece Be Kept Dry—Ventilation Must Be Ample.

Contrary to general opinion, sheep as well as any other class of farm animals require clean, dry shelter. It is especially important that the feet and fleece be kept dry. If their quarters are dry and clean the sheep will stand very cold weather without discomfort or disease. There must be ample ventilation, for sheep if closely crowded sweat badly and quickly use up the oxygen in the air, but there must be no drafts, as sheep are very subject to colds.

Sheep in Winter Quarters.

In the ordinary climate the sheep barn may be constructed of one thickness of matched boards. It should be large enough to house the entire flock without crowding. Windows enough to permit lots of sunshine to enter, and clean, dry bedding underfoot are necessities. The lambing pens should be of warmer construction than the general shed.

RINGING HOGS IS EASY TASK

Rope Slipped Over Nose and Back of Large Teeth Will Prove Efficient With Large Animals.

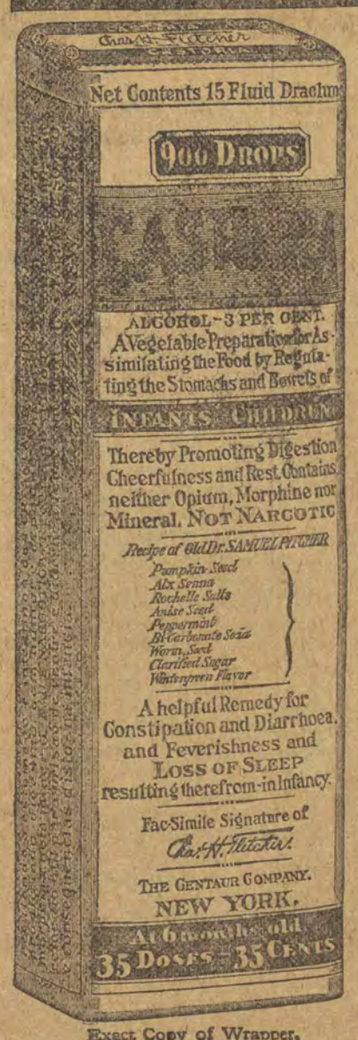
(By R. B. RUSHING.)

I was called the other day to help a neighbor ring some hogs that were giving him some trouble rooting under his fence and getting into his stuff.

He had some hogs that were rather heavy, and he considered that he had a great big job to hold them and ring them. He called me and another neighbor to help hold them for him. On arriving he had one tied by the foot (hind foot) and was going to down them and hold them, and then put the rings into their nose. I asked for another rope. I made a slip loop in it, and slipped the loop over the hog's nose back of the large teeth, and tightened the slip loop down on the nose.

When put on the hog will pull back with all its might, and when you go to put in the ring he will pull the harder, which makes it an easy matter to put the ring in.

Manner of Holding Hog.



We just treated the hogs as described above, and one man can usually hold the largest hog, and it is much less trouble than to get them down and wallow around, and get hot and mad.

FIVE-CALK SHOE FOR HORSES

New Jersey Veterinarian Claims Extra Calks Add 100 Per Cent to Working Value of Animal.

A New Jersey veterinarian, in a recent article in the Journal of the American Veterinary Association, advises a shoe with five calks instead of the customary three. The two extra calks are placed, one on the middle of each side of the shoe. It is claimed that these two extra calks prevent the undue side strain on the foot which so often causes lameness with the three-calked shoe. The New Jersey veterinarian making the suggestion, claims that this will add 100 per cent to the working value of horses, and he closes his article with the following:

"Will someone give just one reason why shoes having but three calks ever should be used, or will anyone offer a single objection to the use of two additional calks?"

Bodily Housekeeping

(By V. M. PIERCE, M. D.)

The subject of drinking water with meals has been misunderstood.

In recent years investigation by means of X-rays, the observations of scientists such as Cannon, Grutzner, Pavlov, Fowler, Hawk, prove that an abundance of water taken during digestion is necessary in good bodily housekeeping.

If your kidneys are sick, or you suffer with lumbago or rheumatism at times, pain in the back or back of the neck, take a little Anuric before meals. This can be found at any good drug store. Therefore my advice to young or old is, always drink plenty of pure water. And for long life, occasionally take tablets of Anuric three or four times a day.

Anuric acts much more quickly than lithia. Many find that it dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

Getting Old Too Fast?

Late in life the body shows signs of wear and often the kidneys weaken first. The back is lame, bent and achy, and the kidney action distressing. This makes people feel older than they are. Don't wait for dropsy, gravel, hardening of the arteries or Bright's disease. Use a mild kidney stimulant. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands of elderly folks recommend them.

A good story is being told of a reply given by a student to a question set in an examination paper.

"If 20 men reap a field in eight hours," ran the question, "how long will 15 men take to reap the same field?"

The student thought long and carefully before setting down the answer, and when he handed in his paper this is what the examiner read:

"The field, having already been reaped by the 20 men, could not be reaped a second time by the 15."

MIXING COTTON SEED

Matter of Vital Importance to Planters in South.

Grower, Unless He and Ginner Take Precaution, May Get as Much as 14 to 16 Per Cent of Neighbor's Variety.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Few cotton growers realize when they take back seed from an ordinary gin to use in planting the next crop the extent to which their seed may be mixed with the seed of the cotton ginned just previous to their lot. Yet this matter is of vital importance to all cotton raisers who wish to grow a uniform variety of cotton. As every student of cotton breeding knows, even a few seeds of another variety in a cotton field may, through cross-fertilization, cause interbreeding and deterioration in a large number of plants. Instead of getting only a few seeds from a neighbor's lot of cotton, however, actual investigations by specialists of the department show that in certain cases a lot of seed will contain as much as 14 to 16 per cent of seed left in the gin boxes from the cotton ginned just before. In the cases investigated not only has there been a large percentage of seed from the variety ginned just previously, but it is found that some seeds may remain from the second bale preceding. It follows, therefore, that a grower may very readily mix one or two other varieties with his special kind of seed.

Where a grower is particular about his seed, he can greatly minimize the mixing by quick, simple, and inexpensive measures in which the average ginner will be glad to co-operate. The following precautions, which seem to be entirely practicable and which, in fact, are now exercised in some localities, are strongly recommended in Department Bulletin No. 288, Custom Ginning as a Factor in Cottonseed Deterioration, soon to be issued.

The patron should accompany to the gin the lot of seed cotton from which he expects to save seed for planting, and he should aid the ginner in seeing that everything possible is done to prevent mixing.

He should see that the flues, feeders, and cleaners are cleaned as thoroughly as their construction will permit before he allows his seed cotton to enter them.

The roll should be dropped from the roll box and the box should be thoroughly cleaned. The dropping of the roll is an operation with which all ginners are familiar. The construction of the gins is such that the roll can be dropped and the box cleaned in a very few minutes. Some improved gins are arranged so that the roll box may be emptied without stopping the gin, thereby further simplifying the operation.

Having cleaned the machinery up to and including the roll box, the next step is to prevent the seed of the variety to be ginned from falling into the conveyor. It is impracticable to clean the conveyor satisfactorily, and therefore it should not be used when planting seed is to be obtained. By adjusting the position of the apron of each gin the seed can be made to fall upon the floor in front of the gin instead of into the conveyor. From here it can be sacked easily.

The floors about the gins should be cleaned to the extent that no seeds are left lying around to cause mixing. Canvas spread upon the floor to receive the seed from the gins is often used.

Such precautions require time in which to carry them out effectively, and time spent in this manner naturally reduces somewhat the amount of ginning that otherwise could be done in a day. On this point the ginner may find cause to base objection to such procedure, but it should be possible to meet the objection by fully compensating him for the extra time consumed. The expense of special ginning in some sections may be reduced by arranging to have it done on specified days or at the close of the season when more time is available. In any event the amount of money that may be required to secure the ginner's cooperation in the maintenance of pure seed is almost negligible in view of the favorable effect such precautions will have upon the farmer's crops in succeeding years.

ERADICATE BORERS IN TREES

Best Way to Kill Worms Is to Dig Them Out—Use Pliable Wire Where They Go Very Deep.

If the trees have not been wormed, the sooner it is done now the better it will be. Go after the worms, particularly on the peach tree. The best way to get them is to dig them out. Be careful not to girdle the tree, and be sure to disinfect the knife before going from one tree to another. This disinfecting will prevent the carrying of the germs of disease from one plant to another.

In apple, pecan and other trees where the borers go deeper into the wood the use of a pliable wire is recommended. Run this wire into the hole and kill the borer at the bottom. Sometimes it is advisable to pour about a teaspoonful of carbon bisulphide into the hole and plug up the hole with a piece of soap. Be careful when using the carbon bisulphide, as it is explosive when it comes in contact with a free flame, as a match, lantern, or pipe. It is also poison, so do not leave it lying around.

59 YEARS OLD HALE AND HARDY

And Praises Cardui, Which She Says Pulled Her Through A Most Dangerous Period.

Mercer, Ky.—"About 15 years ago," writes Mrs. W. T. Ball, of this place, "I began suffering with change of life, and was suffering very much. . . I began taking Cardui after having suffered for 3 years, and I was dreadfully nervous. Hardly felt like doing my work. Couldn't sleep well at nights. However, after several doses of Cardui I saw an improvement and in a few days I could do my work with ease and in two weeks I was able to walk six miles and went to the street fair at Central City and enjoyed myself. After using two bottles, I got my natural health and strength and it pulled me through that most dangerous of periods in a woman's life with no trouble or suffering.

"I am now hale and hardy, and was 59 years old the 11th of this month. I will never cease praising Cardui, which did me so much good. It also saved my daughter's life when she had such a dreadful spell. . ."

Over 40 years in use, Cardui has proven its efficacy as "the woman's tonic." If you are weak, and run-down, and suffer from symptoms of troubles peculiar to women, give Cardui a trial.—Adv.

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT SALIVATES! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED

I Guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" Will Give You the Best Liver and Bowel Cleansing You Ever Had—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver.

If you are bilious, feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you can have your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tone to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable, liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist or storekeeper about me. Adv.

Efficient Employers.

We hear a great deal these days about the efficiency of employees, and it is well worth while to turn our attention to the efficiency of the engineer and the employer of labor as well. It was said of H. W. Nor does he ever block the door of his office to a man who has something to say."—Industrial Management.

MANY ADVANTAGES OF PUREBRED POULTRY

PUREBRED BUFF ORPINGTON COCK.

(By F. W. [illegible]ZEMEIR, Texas Experiment Station.)

Purebred, or standard bred, poultry possess many advantages over mongrel or scrub stock. Experience has proved that purebred stock, bred for egg production, will lay a larger number of eggs than common mongrel stock.

Purebred stock is bred for a purpose, mongrel stock is not. There are breeds for show, for egg production, meat production and a combination of the latter two purposes.

Purebred stock produces an improved quality of meat. The eggs are more uniform in size, shape and color, and always bring a premium over mixed eggs in the market.

A flock of purebred poultry makes a very pleasing appearance. The owner takes pride in them and hence gives them better care and feeding.

Purebred stock will find a quicker market and always has a greater selling value.

The initial cost of starting with purebred birds is small. The advantages are many.

It costs no more to feed a purebred bird than a mongrel.

Experience and experiments have proven the purebred bird to be more profitable and desirable in all respects.

The most popular coffee in America

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles' is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.

LABOR

Labor and capital are dependent one upon the other, and both are jointly dependent upon the understanding and sympathy accorded them by the general public.

While labor is essential to capital, and both are essential to the consumer, capital is absolutely essential to afford opportunity for employment on a big scale, to labor.

Every well organized financial enterprise has the utmost consideration for the welfare of the labor it employs. Capital would be non-productive without labor.

Labor, when intelligently informed, is equally considerate of capital, because to endanger capital endangers employment upon which labor must of necessity depend.

The L. & N. is vitally interested in promoting cordial relations between capital and labor, because the L. & N. is a combination of capital and labor. Upon the degree of efficiency with which that combination discharges its obligation to the consumer, depends the success of the L. & N. and of the territory through which the L. & N. operates.

It is, therefore, important that not only the L. & N. and its employees study and think seriously on this subject, but that the consumer—the people—arrive at an understanding and a fair solution of the matter.

The problems of labor are matters of as keen investigation and deep thought to the L. & N., as are the problems of capital, because capital and labor constitute the one big problem of supplying adequate railway facilities.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, we the members of the Thorsby Lodge No. 588 of I. O. O. F., Thorsby, Ala., recognize the wisdom of God in removing from our Lodge our beloved member and friend, Bro. S. Howard. Bro. Howard quietly and suddenly died Nov. 18th, and was buried in the city cemetery Monday, Nov. 20, 1916, under the auspices of the Odd Fellows. Bro. Howard was born in 1850 in Norway. At the age of 15 years he became a sailor on the high seas. He came to America in 1868, and was a sailor on the great Lakes until 1899, when he came to Thorsby to live. He was an Odd Fellow for thirty-nine years, and at the time of his death was Deputy Grand Master of the Central District of Alabama. He was a quiet, unassuming man who had the confidence and respect of all who knew him, and his loss will be keenly felt in the community,

Resolved, First, That we bow in meekness of heart and spirit to the will of God, realizing that a sweet gentle useful life has been transformed to a haven of peace and happiness,

Second, That our Lodge has lost an earnest loyal member. We will cherish his memory always and endeavor to prove ourselves as true and as faithful members,

Third, That we extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy in their great sorrow, and as a word of comfort in their loneliness would remind them that he has glorifie ' his saviour through his death and has only gone into a higher life to draw them with the sweet cords of a fathers love to look up to and follow Jesus, who has ever been his guide in times of trials as well as joy,

Fourth, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the loved ones, placed on the minutes of our Lodge records and sent to the county papers for publication.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY FOR FALL CIRCUIT COURT

Work was light, and only a few bills returned from investigations.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Chilton County.

In the Circuit Court of said County Fall Term, 1916.

To the Hon. Leon McCord, Judge of the 15th Judicial Circuit:

We the Grand Jury duly empannelled and sworn for the Fall Term 1916, of said Circuit Court, beg leave to submit the following as our report:

We have investigated 28 cases and as a result of our investigation, return into your Honor's Court 11 true bills. We are glad to report that crime seems to be on the decrease in Chilton County, that we have had fewer cases to investigate at this term of court than we have had in many years. We do not know to just what cause to attribute this unless it be to the zealous manner in which the officers entrusted with the enforcement of the law have discharged their duties and to the further fact that the punishment of crime, regardless of the person or character of the offender, has become more certain in this County.

We are glad to report that the books and accounts of all county officers are in correct and proper shape so far as we have been able to determine. The bonds of all county officers are all ample and secure except as to the County Treasurer, whose present bond was critized some what by the last Grand Jury. While this bond as it now exists may be ample to protect the State and County for such sum as may come into the Treasurer's hands from now on, we are informed by the Treasurer that he will make a new bond to cover the short term that he will yet remain in office.

We find the county property consisting of jail and court house in excellent condition. The prisoners are well fed and cared for, and we wish to compliment the Sheriff upon the neat and sanitary manner in which he keeps and has kept the jail and County Court House. In this connection we would recommend that a suitable fence be placed around the jail so as to prevent outsiders from getting foreign matters into the hands of the prisoners, a condition that puts the sheriff to an unnecessary amount of trouble and annoyance.

A committee of this body has visited the County Poor House and find the inmates well cared for and comfortable. There are twenty-two inmates, eight males and fourteen females, all white. The chimney to the foreman's house needs rebuilding as in its present condition it is both dangerous and almost useless. One of the wells needs recurbing at once as in its present condition it is dangerous from a physical standpoint and is likely to produce sickness. We would suggest that Commissioners' Court have these matters attended to at once.

Some of the Public roads of the county are in bad condition. However, it has been so unusually dry that many of the roads have not had their usual fall working. A good many of them are being worked now, and we are assured by the apportioners and overseers that the others will receive their proper workings at an early day. In this connection we would commend to the Commissioner's Court and to the overseers and road apportioners of the county a suggestion of Mr. R. F. Atkinson a road apportioner from beat 6. This suggestion met with the hearty approval of the Grand Jury and we feel that so much opportunity for good is in it that we gladly call the public's attention to it, and that is this: That the several road apportiouers of the county and the various road overseers of the county hold meetings or conventions at stated intervals, say once every three months. At which the members of the commissioners court might be present. These meetings to be held at the call of the probate judge or court of county commissioners and to be in the nature of ROAD INSTITUTES, and to be held for the purpose of discussing ways, means and methods of building roads and the best means of obtaining the best results at the least expense, and for general exchange of ideas on road construction. These meetings to be held in different road precincts for the purpose of stimulating the general interest in road construction and maintenance. We believe that if the matter were handled along this line it would result in much good to the County.

We have attached to this report an itimized statment of the funds of the County as furnished us by the Treasurer, which a committee of this Body has investigated and found correct.

J. E. Love and Lonza Love, confined in jail to await the action of this body have not been indicted, and we respectfully ask that your Honor make such order as is necessary for their release from jail.

Having completed our labors we respectfully ask that we be discharged until such time as your Honor sees fit to reconvene us.

Respectfully,
J. A. SAMPLE,
Foreman.
November 27, 1916.

ARE THE COUNTIES READY FOR LOCAL SCHOOL TAX

Mr. Feagin writes about the adoption of three mill tax by counties

The Right of Local Taxation

The fight for the adoption of the Educational Amendment was for a principle and not for the levy of a tax. It was to be presumed that many men were public-spirited enough to vote for the measure, because it was right, even though they would never care to see a tax levied in their respective counties.

The principle of local taxation had been contended for in this state for many years and now that we have won the privilege, it behooves us to think the matter over deliberately in the light of prevailing economic conditions and in the light of expediency before prematurely percipitating a campaign for a tax levy.

The patriotic citizens of each county owe it to themselves to determine where the path of duty lies and then follow it. By a similar process of reasoning, the county boards of education that have so recently been clothed with enlarged powers would do well not to make radical changes, such as the consolidation of schools and the transportation of pupils, until every phase of present conditions is understood and suitable plans for improving them have been worked out in the light of experience and of local conditions.

There is now existing in Alabama a most wholesome sentiment favorable to public education—a sentiment that will mean the enlargement and improvement of our public school facilities; but we must not lose sight of the fact that any unwise use of the privilege we have gained—growing out of hasty action—may weaken the confidence of the public. The Department of Education stands for school progress that is evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

Meeting of the Alabama School Improvement Association

The annual meeting of the Alabama School Improvement Association will be held in Montgomery on Friday and Saturday, December 29th and 30th. The call has been issued by Mrs. R. L. Faucett, President, the meeting to begin at one o'clock on Friday and close at the same hour on Saturday. In addition to reports from the several county associations, a definite policy for the coming year's work will be outlined, and speakers of note —especially in school improvement work—both from within and without the state, will adress the meeting on appropriate themes.

The time of the meeting was fixed for the convenience of teachers in various parts of the state who might be returning from their homes after the Holiday season. The President is exceedingly anxious that every county in the state be represented and it is hoped that both county and local organizations will find it possible to defray the expenses of their representatives. According to the constitution it will be necessary to elect a new president, Mrs. Faucett having served the maximum term.

Information about the program, blank forms for reports, together with full particulars relative to rates, and the like, may be had upon application to the State Department of Education.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE NOTICE

Whereas the new school law automatically ended the term of office of the present district school trustees and places the duty of appointing the trustees of the several school districts on the County Board of Education, therefore be it resolved; That the County Board of Education call a meeting of the white people over 21 years old of the several school districts of Chilton county (except the schools in incorporated towns) at their respective school houses on December 16th, 1916, between the hours of 1 2o'clock noon and 2 o'clock p.m. for the people to select from their district three competent persons (men or women) to be appointed school trustees for their respective schools for a term of two years. The chairman of said meeting shall certify to the County Superintendent of Education within five days after said meeting the names of the persons selected. The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any person when, in their best judgment, it would be to the interest of any school to do so.

WM. J. BILLINGSLEY,
Chairman Board of Education.
W. T. BEAN, Sec. Board of Edu.

MARKETING ASSOCIATION A GOOD REMEDY FOR THE BOLL WEEVIL CONDITIONS

Promotes co-operation and progress among farmers of a community.

A Marketing Association

I know a little town in a southern state where a marketing association was suggested by Mr. Boll Weevil. About one hundred farmers took the suggestion and organized an association. They did business in co-operation with each other. They made money, built a town, then a school with a state-wide reputation The association is still operating, making money, building the town larger and making the school beter. It put money in their pockets, trained minds and characters in their children and made a pleasant little town in which to live. Who could desire more? What this asociation did thousands of others can do. How many Alabama communities will try one?

A Neccessity

Every comunity should have a marketing association for the purpose of assembling agricultural products in car lots in uniform standard packages, grades and quality. Such associations are the places to teach production, grading, packing and to learn what the market demands, where and how the best prices may be obtained. Through association efforts the principle of selling direct to the consumer can most nearly be solved. Small sales of every day necessity such as butter, eggs, chickens and fare vegetables can be effected between members of the association and the consumers by auto delivery, parcel post or express. Car lots may be sold direct to wholesale merchants or distributed direct to consumers through farmers co-operative exchanges maintained in cities by federated marketing associations.

How To Organize

Let all good reliable men in the country meet, form a temporary organization and elect the best and most reliable business man in the community for president, a vice president and the next best man as a secretary. The oldest and most highly respected citizen in the community would make the best treasurer. An executive committee of five good men should be selected whose duty will be to draft a constitution and by-laws to be adopted by the association and to pass on business matters and settle disputes and differences.

A membership fee should be collected just large enough to pay for stationary, books and postage.

The president should be superintendent of grades and quality and should rule fairly and squarely by the grades adopted by the association.

The secretary should act as business manager, subject to the approval of the president and executive committee.

The president and secretary should be paid for the whole days which they work during the marketing season. A small percentage of the gross sales of the association should be set aside for this and other necessary expenses.

The association should buy seed and live stock all of the same variety or breed, operate strictly for cash and meet at least twice a month for information and discussion.

Commissioner of Agri. & Ind.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL OVERRULED

DECISION OF JUDGE MILLER FOLLOWS HEARING OF MUCH TESTIMONY.

APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Attorneys for Defense Claim Evidence Was Not Rendered According to Evidence.

Huntsville.—The fate of D. D. Overtan, former Circuit Clerk of Madison County, under sentence of death for the murder of Probate Judge W. T. Lawler, is now up to the Supreme Court of Alabama. Overton's one chance to avoid payment of the extreme penalty now lies in his appeal to the higher court.

After a grinding day in the Circuit Court here and after sessions of nearly thirteen hours with only an hour's intermission, Judge B. M. Miller, who tried and sentenced Overton November 28, refused the defendant's motion for a new trial.

The verdict was received without demonstration either in the courtroom or on the streets. Overton has not given up hope that he will eventually clear himself of the Lawler killing and believes that the supreme court will order that he be given another trial. On the jury that convicted Overton there were ten farmers, a merchant and a clerk.

The decision of the Supreme Ceurt will not be known for probably six months because of the fact that cases from the Eighth Division, which includes Madison County, will not be taken up until the week beginning May 14. The appeal will be taken up on the second call of Eighth Division cases on May 14 and a month or more will be necessary for the review of the case.

Cases from Madison County will come before the court on January 29. However, 90 days are necessary to prepare a bill of exceptions.

All felony cases, according to law, must be decided before the end of the term and this forces a decision in the Overton case by June 30, when the two appellate courts adjourn for the Summer.

Attorney Allen offered his motion for a new trial based on several reasons, among them being the following:

That the verdict was not rendered according to the evidence; that relatives of the deceased sat near the jury box and commented upon the evidence; that three fire alarms and accompanying pistol shots terrorized the jury; that the jury had been prejudiced against the defendant by the high state of public feeling; that the defendant's life had been threatened in the event of acquittal; that the solicitor had no right to ask the defendant if Judge Lawler did not beg for his life; that state counsel abused the defendant in their arguments, and that the jury was prejudiced.

TO MINE GRAPHITE.

New Enterprise Is Capitalized at $125,000 at Ashland, Clay County.

Ashland.—A new graphite company has been organized at this place. The company's name is "Acme Graphite Co." The company is capitalized at $125,000. The company owns about 400 acres of land just northwest of town. The members of the company live in different states, some in Kansas, one in Missouri, one or more in Jefferson County, Alabama.

BANKS GET BIG VERDICTS.

Judgment Given in Favor of Birmingham Institutions at Clanton.

Clanton.—Verdicts were returned in Judge Leon McCord's division of the Circuit Court against officials of the Clanton Bank, which failed recently, for sums totaling nearly $60,000. One verdict was returned in favor of the Birmingham Trust and Savings Company and another was returned for a smaller sum in favor of the First National Bank. The president of the defunct institution is now serving a nine year sentence on a criminal charge.

CORN CLUBS MEET.

Morgan County School One of the Features of Month.

Auburn.—A feature in the corn and pig club work in Alabama the past month, according to Ira Kerlin, State Agent in charge of corn clubs, was the short school for Morgan County club members held recently at Hartselle. There were 106 boys in attendance at the three-day school and the success of the work was largely due to the assistance of James T. High, Morgan County Demonstration Agent.

CLUB LOSES FIGHT.

Organization Unable to Prevent High Price of Foodstuffs.

Mobile.—The Home Economics Club of this city, after a campaign of several months and after preventing an increase in the price of retail ice this summer, admits their defeat in opposing the increased price of foodstuffs. Regular meetings are being held. "The women talk too much and do not fight enough," declared Mrs. Jas. R. Sagan, president.

FATHER AND SON IN JAIL.

Buck Butler and Josiah Butler Alleged to Have Slain Wesley Lindsey.

Dothan.—Buck Butler has been arrested and is held in the Houston County jail here with his father, Josiah Butler, both being charged with the killing of Wesley Lindsey in a battle at the Butler home in the southeastern part of the county. Josiah Butler, 68, came to Dothan and surrendered to Sheriff May, saying that he had shot Lindsey in self-defense when Lindsey, Cubb Kirtsey and Green Wingate came to his house and opened fire upon him in an effort to run him out of the community.

The arrest of Buck Butler, Josiah Butler's son, was the result of an investigation of the affair by Sheriff May. Sheriff May found that Lindsey had been shot with a shotgun, as well as a rifle, and it was claimed that the two Butlers opened fire first. Lindsey was said to have been shot down and while on the ground tried to return the fire but was too weak to raise the pistol. He did fire but the bullet went into the ground, it is claimed. The whole affair will be investigated by the grand jury.

CHARGED WITH KILLING BRIDE.

William Russell, Apparently Violently Insane, Accused of Murder.

Albany.—William Russell, of Woodland Mills, was placed in the Morgan County Jail being charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Selma William Russell, aged 18, a bride of six months, whom he shot and killed while she was preparing dinner at their home. Russell apparently is violently insane.

According to information received at the office of Sheriff Foreman, the crime was the most brutal in the history of Morgan County. Without warning Russell came upon his wife from behind, drew his pistol and fired two shots into her head. She fell forward, instantly killed. Russell picked up the body of his wife, reloaded the pistol, placed the muzzle in her mouth and pulled the trigger five times. The only witness to the murder was a small child.

Papers committing Russell to the State asylum for the insane were issued three weeks ago by Probate Judge Wm. E. Skeggs. Russell, however, was placed at a local hospital and seeming to improve, was allowed to go home. He declined to discuss the tragedy.

MOULDERS GET INCREASED PAY.

Voluntary Raise of Ten Per Cent Is Announced at Anniston.

Anniston.—The announcement of a voluntary increase of 10 per cent in the wages of the moulders of the Central Foundry Company, came as a pleasant surprise. The increase was entirely voluntary and the management states that it was made on account of the advanced cost of living. The employes are expressing themselves as being very appreciative of the increase.

Marion.—The State Highway Department has arranged with officials of Perry County to begin the construction of the State highway from Uniontown to the Bibb County line near Centreville, the work to begin within the next sixty days. This road will come by Marion but the route north of here has not been selected. The Federal road funds will be used in connection with building the highway.

Duncan, of Auburn, requested 29 counties to send six asmples of canned products to Auburn so that out of the lot six might be selected to be sent to Washington to be entered in the national exhibit. NEW CAPITAL INVESTED.

Total of $452,500 New Money Put Into Enterprises in Magic City.

Birmingham.—Sixteen new incorporations filed papers in the Probate office in November with a capitalization of $447,500, while one corporation announced an increase in capital stock to the amount of $5,000, making a total of $452,500 newly invested here for the month. Two of the new incorporations for the month were of $100,000 and more capitalization, while three concerns were with $25,000 and greater capital stock.

Two Are Convicted.

Montgomery.—Attorneys for John L. Collins, who was sentenced in the City Court to three years in the penitentiary following conviction on a charge of embezzling money from the Western Union Telegraph Company, have given notice of an appeal to the Supreme Court. Collins has been released on bond of $2,500. Edward D. Jenkins, convicted by the jury in the City Court on a charge of embezzling funds from J. A. Wade & Co., merchants, was sentenced to serve two years in prison.

64TH CONGRESS RESUMES WORK

President Wilson Confers With Leaders And Urges That Important Measures Be Quickly Passed

URGES RAILWAY LEGISLATION

The High Cost Of Living To Figure In This Session Of Congress

Washington.—Speaker Clark and Representative Kitchin, majority leader of the house, assured President Wilson at a white house conference that they would do all they could to hasten the passage of railroad legislation at the short session of the Sixty-fourth congress which is now in session.

The president summoned the house leaders to talk over with them the legislative program and to secure their co-operation in expediting important measures. Legislation to supplement the Adamson law, he said, was of the utmost importance and he asked that this be given precedence in consideration over all other general legislation.

To Economize Time

Realizing that three months is a short period for consideration of general measures when appropriation bills also must be passed, the president asked the house leader if they thought there would be time for enactment of new railroad laws before March 4. Both told him they thought there would be and promised to exert every effort to economize time on other matters.

Speaker Clark reminded the president that congress would have to pay strict attention to business and asked him to help at the outset to eliminate the usual two weeks' holiday recess. In that two weeks, which otherwise would be wasted, the speaker said several important appropriation bills might be disposed of by the house.

President Wilson did not discuss details of the railroad legislative program with the house leaders. He merely desired to get in touch with them on the subject and to have their co-operation. He spoke briefly regarding other important measures, among them the Webb bill to permit domestic corporations to mainatin collective foreign selling agencies, the corrupt political practices bill and conservation measures.

High Cost Of Living

Proposed embargo legislation and issues raised by the high cost of living were not mentioned at the conference. In the opinion of the house leaders, however, the subject is bound to demand attention of the congress.

"There is no question," said Representative Kitchin, "that various measures aimed at high prices of food will be pressed. Discussion of that issue is bound to consume time, but, in spite of that, I think we can find time for consideration of railroad laws. Of course, I assume to speak for the house only. I don't know what the senate can do."

CARRANZA REGAINS CHIHUAHUA CITY

Villa Bandits Have Been Driven Out And The Wire Service Restored

Juarez, Mexico.—It was officially announced at military headquarters that the Carranza forces have reoccupied the city of Chihuahua, having driven the Villa bandits out. Telegraphic communication with Chihuahua City over the federal lines have been reestablished.

Gen. Carlos Ozuna entered Chihuahua City from the north, according to a telegram received by Gen. Francisco Gonzales, brigade commander. The message from General Ozuna was dated Chihuahua City.

Latest reports here are that many Villa followers have been captured and killed.

It is announced that Villa has left for western Chihuahua, following the trains of loot.

Gen. Francisco Murguia, the Carranza commander, who has been moving slowly northward from Torreon, was also reported to have entered the city after having defeated the Villa column thirty miles south of Chihuahua City.

List Of Casualties In Athens Fighting

London.—A dispatch from Athens says that according to General Callaris, commander of the First Greek army corps, the following casualties resulted from the fighting in the streets of Athens between Greek and entente troops: Greeks: Killed, three officers and 26 soldiers; wounded, five officers, 45 soldiers, four marines and seven civilians. French: Killed, two officers and 45 marines. The correspondent adds that Queen Sophie is personally superintending the care of the allied wounded.

Russian Troops Aiding Roumanians

Paris.—Roumania still holds the center of interest in the world war. The encircling movement of the Teutonic allies continues to draw closer toward her capital, Bucharest, although the Roumanians apparently are stiffening in their defense. The Teutons have crossed the Argechu river west of Bucharest, but both Petrograd and Bucharest assert that southwest of the capital the Russians and Roumanians, fighting together, have forced the retirement of the Teutons and taken prisoners and booty

CAMPAIGN TO SMASH PRICES

New York Officials Start Fight, Aided By Housewives, To Lower Prices On Food

New York.—New York city's fight to reduce the high cost of living began in earnest with a boycott on eggs by thousands of housewives. This was followed with a direct appeal by the National Housewives' League to President Wilson for the regulation of the country's food supply, and meetings of federal, state and city officials and investigating committees as well as various civic organizations at which resolutions were adopted looking to a speedy readjustment of conditions. Coincident with the egg boycott there was a break in the price of turkeys of from four to five cents a pound.

Virtually every branch of the municipal government was at work in an effort to find a solution to the food problem. A statement issued by Israel Feinberg, president of the board of coroners, declared that "the present high cost of living is directly reflected in an increase in the number of suicides, deaths from lack of proper nourishment and birth control."

To Investigate Conditions

The culminating feature of the activities was the passage by the board of aldermen of a resolution providing that the committee on general welfare be directed to report as early as possible "a practical plan for investigating such ordinances, recommending such legislation or taking such steps as may be best calculated to remedy the evil."

At the same time the department of health was instructed to make a thorough investigation of storage warehouses.

Commissioner of Weights and Measures Hartigan announced that Mayor Burns of Troy, president of the Conference of Mayors of the State of New York, would come here for a conference with Mayor Mitchel and Mr. Hartigan to devise "a comprehensive, united program to conserve the food supply of the state and keep the price down."

Sixty-five cents of every dollar paid by the consumer for food goes to the middle man, according to John J. Dillon, commissioner of New York state for foods and markets, who testified before the Wicks legislative committee in its investigation into the high cost of living.

FLYING U. S. FLAG S. S. IS SUNK BY GERMAN U-BOAT

German Submarine Sent Torpedo Into American Vessel With Stars And Stripes Flying

London.—Lloyds reports that the American steamship Chemung has been sunk.

The crew of the Chemung has been landed at Valencia by the Spanish steamer Giner, says a Reuter dispatch from Valencia.

The Chemung was torpedoed near Cabo de Gata, according to the dispatch.

The submarine towed the crew to within five miles of the coast, the Valencia advices states, and then abandoned them. At the end of the day they were picked up by the Giner.

The Chemung went down with the Stars and Stripes floating at her mast. A lively incident preceded the sinking of the vessel. The German commander gave orders that the American flag should be lowered and German sailors prepared to put them into effect. They met with stubborn resistance on the part of the American captain, Duffy, and his crew, who refused to haul down the colors, saying that if the ship had to be sunk it would be with the flag flying.

Captain Duffy maintained his ground and so rapidly were the preparations to sink the Chemung made that further discussion about the flag ceased, and after the captain and crew had been taken aboard the submarine a torpedo and three shells sent against the side of the American ship put her to the bottom.

Two Trainmen Killed In R. R. Wreck

Beacon Falls, Conn.—Two trainmen were killed, two passengers seriously hurt and several others received minor injuries, when the northbound Winsted express from New York, over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, ran into an open switch and struck a freight train on a siding near here. The engineer and fireman of the express were scalded to death by escaping steam.

Overton Guilty; To Die On Gallows

Huntsville, Ala.—"Guilty of murder in the first degree," with a recommendation that the death penalty, hanging, be imposed, was the verdict of a jury in the Madison county circuit court, which for the past week has been sitting in the trial of David D. Overton, who was charged with the murder, near here, last June, of Probate Judge William T. Lawler, his political opponent. Sentence to die January 12 was pronounced by Judge B. M. Miller, but suspension was ordered when counsel filed a motion for a new trial.

Move For Belgians By United States

Washington.—New representations are about to be made to the German government by the United States concerning the deportation of Belgian civilians for labor in Germany. What form they shal ltake has not been determined, but it became known here that the administration is seriously exercised over the matter and is preparing for its next step with great deliberation, hoping to make it effective without straining the relations between the two countries.

GERMANY ADMITS SINKING MARINA

Government Seeking Information About Status Of The Vessel Before Taking Any Action

CASE CONSIDERED SERIOUS

Six American Citizens Lost Lives When Vessel Was Torpedoed By Submarine

Washington.—Following the receipt of a communication from the German government admitting that a German submarine torpedoed the British horseship Marina with the loss of six Americans, Secretary Lansing conferred with President Wilson, and it was decided that no action would be taken by the American government until it could be definitely established whether the Marina was a private vessel or a belligerent transport.

In the note Germany stated that the commander of the submarine which sank the Marina had reported that he took the vessel for a transport and asked the United States for information on this point. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, called at the state department and also sought this information. He was told by Secretary Lansing that the United States was not yet in a position to answer the inquiry.

As a result of the developments of recent days, it was indicated by officials that no action could be expected in the immediate future on the Marina case, admitted one of the two most serious pending between the United States and Germany. The other is that of the British liner Arabia, sunk in the Mediterranean.

Germany, it is understood, is ready to acknowledgeer ror and makes oger of settlement if it is established that the Marina was not in the British transport service. When the vessel was sunk, it was stated in dispatches from London that she previously had been connected with the transport service, and also that when she sailed on her last voyage she was armed with a gun astern, manned by two British naval gunners.

If the ship was in public service prior to being torpedoed some state department officials take the position that the presumption was in favor of the position that an enemy might have believed her still to be a transport at the time of the attack. In order to clear up this point the nature of her previous charter, the orders under which she was sailing and the character of her officers and crew will be investigated.

ANOTHER WARNING SENT TO GERMANY ABOUT BELGIANS

Deep Concern Expressed By U. S. Over Continued Deportation Of Belgians

Washington.—Acting on its own behalf the American government has informed Germany anew of its deep concern over the deportation of Belgians from their own country by the German military authorities. This action has been taken as a result of information about the deportations gathered from different sources and after fruitless informal efforts on behalf of the Belgians made by American Charge Grew at Berlin.

The American government, it was learned, was led to move not only because of the expressed feeling that the deportations have been looked upon with disfavor both by the American people and government, but because of fear that Belgian relief work, which is administered by Americans, may be interfered with.

Over 100,000 Belgians Deported

The information already in the hands of the state department on the situation was supplemented by the Belgian minister, E. Havenith, who reported to Secretary ansing that more than one hundred thousand Belgians had been deported and that deportations are continuing at the rate of three thousand a week. He added that railroad workers have been taken to man military roads now being laid and added that some have been taken into the occupied portion of northern France, and some into Germany.

Villa Is Looting Chihuahua City

Juarez, Mexico. — Villa bandits were reported loading trains with loot from the stores and residences of Chihuahua City and preparing to follow these trains west on the Mexico Northwestern railroad, according to a message received at military headquarters from General Ozuna's scouts at Sauz. General Ozuna's cavalry column was at Cuilty, the first station south of the state capital, the report said. The scouts obtained their information from refugees reaching Cuilty and Sauz from Chihuahua City.

Russians Strike On Extended Front

London.—The Russians continue aggressively their offensive against the Austro-German lines from the Carpathians to southern Transylvania. Berlin states the Russians attacks, which are declared to have been along a front of 186 miles from Jablonitza to Kedzi Vasarhely, resulted only in small advantages, which are declared not to be commensurate with the cost in men and ammunition. Petrograd admits a repulse southwest of Vakarka, in the Carpathians.

U. S. TO RULE SAN DOMINGO

Little Republic Is Placed Under Military Government To Insure Order Until Elections Are Held

Washington.—Military rule has been proclaimed in Santo Domingo by the United States navy to suppress existing political chaos in the little republic and pave the way for guaranteeing quiet by establishing there such a financial and police protectorate as the American government now exercises over Haiti.

Eighteen hundred American marines will maintain order for the present and at least until elections are held in January, their officers will supervise the conduct of government by native officials and disburse the customs revenues which American receivers have been collecting by treaty arrangement for nine years.

The navy proclamation has been put into effect without bloodshed. It was announced here by Secretary Daniels in the following statement anent the situation:

"Capt. H. S. Knapp, in command of the United States forces in San Domingo reports that, in compliance with instructions received, military government was proclaimed by him in San Domingo, 4 p. m., November 29. An order regarding carrying arms or having them in possession has been put in effect. Payment of salaries of government officials will be resumed immediately.

"The proclamation was well received. Conditions are reported as being normal and the great majority of the people regard the proclamation with favor."

Captain Knapp's action was the result of plans carefully worked out by state and navy department officials, after conferences with Minister Russell, recalled from Santo Domingo for the purpose and consideration of reports from naval officers on the scene.

The necessity for a drastic step has been considered since the overthrow, several months ago, of President Jiminez by General Arias, a strongly anti-American revolutionist. With Arias in control the Dominican assembly elected Frederico Enriquez president, but the United States refused to recognize the new government and withheld the balance of customs revenues left after the regular payments of interests on the foreign debt. Consequently the native officials and employees now will draw their first pay since the downfall of Jiminez.

DEAD PILED HIGH AND BURNED BEFORE VILLA

Tale Of Four Days Of Bloody Fighting With Final Rout Told By Remnants Of Defenders

Juarez, Mexico.—The remnant of a Carranza army that fled from Chihuahua City after a battle with Villa troops are in camp on the plains south of Juarez. They brought with them the story of the evacuation of the city after four days and nights of fighting. The dead were piled high in the streets when they left and had been covered with oil and burned.

Shortly after 1 a. m. the first troop train brought the ragged survivors of the de facto force which had escaped to the north. Accompanying this train was a sanitary section carrying more than one hundred wounded soldiers of the Carranza command. The hospitals here are filled with wounded.

Refugees said that between the cemetery and Santa Rosa hill the dead covered the streets. Along the streets near the railroad station and surrounding the station one of the refugees said he saw many cavalry horses with carbines and sabres attached to the saddles. The horses were abandoned by Carranza cavalrymen

Giant Forest To Pass To Government

Washington.—Giant Forest, the privately owned tract of the world's largest trees in the heart of the Sequoia National Park, is about to pass into the hands of the government through co-operation between the interior department and the National Geographic society. Congress, during the last session, appropriated $50,000 to purchase the land, but the owners refused to sell unless adjacent holdings, valued at $20,000, were taken at the same time. An option on the entire tract was secured and the board of managers of the Geographic society appropriated the $20,000 to make possible the immmediate payment of the $70,000.

Greeks Refuse Demands Of Allies

London.—The Greek government has sent a reply to Vice Admiral du Fournet, definitely refusing his demands, according to a dispatch from Athens. The entente allies are ready to begin the debarkation of troops at Piraeus, the port of Athens. The Greek government has retaken control of the postoffices and telegraph lines at Athens, expelling the French control officers. The allied authorities have deported from Syra to Malta G. G. Dallagio, the German consul, and Suleyman Bey, the Turkish consul.

R. R's Ordered To Redistribute Cars

Washington.—Nation-wide redistribution of box cars is required by a new order agreed upon by the railroad conference committee on car efficiency in its campaign to relieve the car shortage which is holding up all freight shipments in many parts of the country. The order, which will become effective immediately, directs lines in sections where there is an excess of [illegible] equipment to return at junction points, until further notice, specified percentages of box cars in excess of [illegible] number received.

DETECTIVE ACTS OUT THE EVIDENCE

New York Sleuth Illustrates What He Saw by Few Well-Chosen Motions.

COURT IS CONVINCED

"What Do You Mean by Ballet Dancing?" Asks Court, and Detective Illustrates—Also Does Juggling and Acrobatic Stunts.

New York.—If John J. Miller, a detective attached to the staff of Inspector Thomas H. Ryan, in Harlem, ever arrests a person for climbing up the front of the Metropolitan tower, it is to be hoped that he is not asked what he means by the term climbing when the prisoner is arraigned in court. Miller unquestionably would be up the front of the tower before the superintendent could be awakened.

When asked what he means by anything, Miller does not speak, he illustrates.

Julius Bernheim and William S. Clapp, manager and stage directors, respectively, of the New York theater, in One Hundred and Sixteenth street, were arraigned before Magistrate Breen, in the Harlem court, charged with violation of the Sabbath law.

The complainant, Detective Miller, stated that they had, there and then, before a large audience, permitted jugglers to juggle, acrobats to bend, comedians to get funny and last and most frightful, ballet persons to wriggle and cavort.

Ballet-Dancing Stunt.

Messrs. Bernheim and Clapp, having long been manager and stage director, respectively, of many theaters, listened with at least one sleeve of laughter between them. They realized that the court presently would ask the officer just what the performers did and then, in the customary clumsy recital of theatrical art, would rest their safety. It would sound awfully harmless, just as it always had. So they were all set when the court said:

"What do you mean by ballet dancing?"

What they were not ready for was this: Detective Miller, throwing a kiss to the court and another out of the window, jumped high in the air, moved his legs tremulously, pulled up his jacket and running in a circle kicked high, turned on his toes, wiggled with discretion and finally sank with a sigh of artistic fervor back upon his own knees. Then he threw 72 freckled kisses at random.

Then the Juggling.

"Oh," said the court, "like that. Well, what of the juggling?"

Detective Miller took three derbies and his own felt hat, piled them, put a cigar on top of them, tossed them all into the air and caught his own. Through the clatter of the complainants' bounding turbans came the murmur of the court's approval.

"And the acrobats?" said Magistrate Breen.

Miller turned three handsprings.

The defendants were held for examination.

FLY SAVES A BOY'S LIFE

Bullet Accidentally Discharged by Companion Only Hurt Wisconsin Youth.

La Crosse, Wis.—A fly saved the life of Carl Kaeppler, thirteen years old, while he was hunting in the vicinity of Swift creek with William Stellick, fifteen years old.

Carl felt something irritating his forehead and raised his arm to brush the fly aside. At the same instant Stellick, who was only a few paces distant, accidentally discharged a rifle he was carrying.

The bullet passed through the fleshy part of young Kaeppler's arm, and although most of its force was spent, struck the boy in the head.

Physicians said he probably would have been killed had not his arm been in the way of the bullet.

FELL IN LOVE WITH GIRL'S HEAD AT FAIR

Proposal Rejected by Beauty, Who Said a Cranium Could Not Milk Cows.

Milwaukee.—The strangest marriage proposal in all the history of love-affairs was made on the county fair grounds recently.

Jeff, owner of a prosperous farm in Sauk county, fell in love with a girl's head.

The owner of the head was Ruth, one of the attractions at the fair. You could not see a sign of her body. Only her head. It apparently reposed on the surface of a delicate spider web which was perfectly transparent. She had a pair of dazzling eyes and a bewitching smile.

Jeff fell in love with the eyes and the smile.

"I like you a terrible lot," he said loud enough to reach the ears of a reporter who was standing next to him. "I'd like to see more of you, Miss Ruth."

"This is all there is of me," said the head gravely. "I was born without a body. I manage to live by just imagining that I am all complete like other girls. That proves the power of the mind, doesn't it?"

Jeff gasped. He did not hear the titter of spectators. Then he played his trump card. He asked Miss Ruth to marry him, and the crowd cheered him as it laughed.

"Will you carry me home in your trunk?" replied the head. "Say, that would be an exciting life, wouldn't it? You could keep me in the pantry on a soup plate, and carry me in the parlor every night for a nice loving chat."

"All the same," insisted Jeff stubbornly, "I'd marry you. You got all the girls in the county beat for looks."

"Say, my friend," retorted the mysterious Miss Ruth, "did you ever see a head that could milk cows, fry bacon, make beds, feed the chickens, handle a team of horses or plow 40 acres of cornfield? I'd make a peach of a farmer's wife."

"Gosh," groaned Jeff, "I never thought of that."

He stumbled out of the tent, a heart-broken man.

MAN SHOOTS INK AT WOMEN

Boston Police Seek Man Who Likes to Spoil White Dresses and Shoes.

Boston.—A man who amuses himself by shooting ink on the white dresses and shoes of women is being hunted by the Boston police. Over 100 women have reported that they were victims of the ink shooter. The person who has invented this strange pastime uses a water pistol, and his hours for operation are from 6:30 to 11:30 p. m.

He hides in dark doorways on downtown thoroughfares and waits for women with white dresses to pass. If there aren't enough white skirts passing he shoots at the white shoes.

DROPS ICE WATER ON TOE

But Jersey City Judge Didn't Think Husband's Act Warranted a Divorce.

New York.—Ice water dropped by a husband on his wife's big toe is not enough to dissolve a marriage, according to Vice Chancellor Lewis of Jersey City.

Mrs. Julia Steffens of Central avenue and Sherman place, Jersey City, could show the vice chancellor no reason for divorce stronger than the ice water which she says was poured on her while she slept.

The decree was refused to her and granted to her husband, William Steffens, in a counter-suit. He explained it was just a teaspoonful of water anyway, and he was trying to wake her up so she would go to church with him.

To Stop Flirting.

Elgin, Ill.—Committees named by the Woman's Missionary union will try to stop flirting by "putting a damper on the side glances and bewitching eyes of girls merely out for entertainment."

Blowing Up a Gun Position.

There had been moderate firing all rough the day, but, as often hapns, there was now a complete calm. n officer, staring through his perilope binoculars, called my attention a group of Germans. They were me distance back of their own front es and were working under a screen green branches. They were evintly laying steel plates for a maine-gun protection. The artificial shes were almost a sufficient blind, t not quite. At that second there s the burst of a gun back of our s. The next instant I saw a tree h down at the exact spot where e Germans were working. A wave black dirt rose, mixing its color o the white puff of the exploded ell. There was no more machine-n parapet repairing that afternoon. Lucian Swift Kirtland in Leslie's.

Diplomatic Excuse.

Twin boys who were great fighters ved into the neighborhood. A little y living next to me had been atked several times and always came t second best. One day he was walkg with me, and he suddenly stopped ross the street from where the twins ed. Letting go my hand he said: "I n't take you any farther, because se twins are scared of me."—Chigo Tribune.

Killed Her Engine.

A three-year-old Columbus girl, who d been motoring frequently last sumr with her father and mother, seems have absorbed some of the talk she rheard. She was dragging a little ir cross the floor at home, when it uck an obstruction, and her progress oss the room was stopped. "Whoa," exclaimed, "I've killed my engine." ndianapolis News.

Daily Thought.

Spirituality is not an attainment, an quisition of the nature; it is a qualof the nature. It is not a thing to ; it is a way of being everything.—illips Brooks.

Play's Depreciation.

I always allow for a depreciation of per cent of a play's face value on oduction—25 per cent is lost through y own incompetence, and the other per cent through the disabilities of e players.—Pinero.

On the Wire.

The president of one of the large corporations in New York, whose business is measured in hundreds of millions of dollars annually, has not the temper of the angels. The employees, from the vice to the office boy, stand in holy dread of him.

There came one day a new telephone operator. The president wanted to talk to someone in Washington, and wanted him quick. He "got his party," and was thundering away, when squ-a-w-k-k-k! Ping! S-s-s-tt! and the connection was dished. The president was near to exploding, when a competent little voice came up from the switchboard:

"Well, I guess I'm the little girl who put the mess in the message, ain't I? You just look out of the window, and I'll fix it in ten seconds."

And she did. And he did. And the little operator moved up ahead of the vice in office estimation, and is still at her switchboard.

Autoist Attacked by Coyote.

That a coyote that will attack the front end of any automobile traveling 30 miles an hour, allow itself to be run over and then get up and attack the driver of the car, who, out of curiosity, stops to see what damage is done, must be mad, is the opinion of P. Y. Gillson, who enjoyed this experience on Lakeview hill, near Carson, Nev., the other night.

The coyote was game, according to Gillson, but was so badly cut up that it was easily driven off with rocks before it bit anyone. Gillson was accompanied on the trip by County Commissioner Henrich.

Optimistic Thought.

It is not the eye for faults, but beauties, that constitutes the real critic.

Points of View.

"What a wretched day," said Youth, looking into the dripping gray. "Why, it is wonderful," said Old Age, thinking of the millions of dream treasures the years had stored in the clouds.—Columbus Dispatch.

Negatives.

"I don't suppose there ain't no gentleman here as knows nothing of no old silk hat knocking around nowhere?"

Olivoless Days.

British Consul Nugent said at a banquet in Chicago:

"They tell a good story about a Greek army corps that surrendered to the Germans and was taken into food-stripped Germany to be the guest of the nation.

"At Chemnitz, the story runs, a committee of famished Greek soldiers waited on the German commandant and said:

"'They told us that here in Chemnitz, commandant, the government would at least give us some rations.'

"'Yes, and that's right, too,' said the German commandant genially, as he took a huge packet of cards from his desk. 'Here are your Greek ration cards specially got up by us for our revered Greek guests. They entitle every Greek soldier to six olives a day five days per week, and, furthermore, on the two "olliveless days," they entitle each and every one of you to a cracker and a half-pint of coffee substitute.'"

Raw Food Must Be Washed.

"Gritting of sand between the teeth while eating vegetables raw is a certain sign that they have been cleaned improperly, if at all," says the New York Medical Journal, and adds that because of improper washing it is often not safe to eat raw vegetables, salads or fruits.

"Coals to Newcastle."

"To carry coals to Newcastle" means to do something that is superfluous. Newcastle being a great coal field, carrying coals there would be a type of unnecessary action. The French have a saying "to carry water to the river" for the same thing, and there are several Latin equivalents.

Wasted Effort.

"That's poor old Professor Shakey. ent fifty years in perfecting himself ten different languages. Now he's arried he's lucky to get a word in geways."—Passing Show.

Perfectly Willing.

Lady—"I'm worried about my complexion, doctor. Look at my face!" Doctor—"You'll have to diet." Lady—"I never thought of that. What color would suit me best, do you think?"—Pickings.

Pretended Deafmutism.

A French medical journal, Le Caducee, reports a strange case, the simulation of deafmutism by a young soldier, following the explosion of a great shell. The case is given by M. Berruyer. In consultation the man seemed to be an absolute deafmute. Before the explosion his speech and hearing were normal. He had at once been told that he would recover, information that did not appear to afford him any special pleasure. Close watching did not disclose any evidence of simulation. He was then placed in a state of semi-consciousness with chloroform, and in this condition conversed without difficulty. A dressing was applied to his throat for the psychic effect. Afterward he admitted recovery, but exhibited no delight over his good fortune. It was supposed that the original shock was genuine and that after this came the thought of deliberate malingering in order to keep out of the fighting line. He had played the part of a mute for six weeks.

Hard to Keep Cider Sweet.

It is very difficult to keep cider sweet for any length of time without the use of preservatives and special treatment. Preservatives are not permitted under the federal and state pure-food laws. Sweet cider may be filtered, boiled and bottled in a manner similar to that used when canning fruits, then it will remain sweet; that is, no fermentation will take place for several weeks. It is desirable even then that it be stored in a cool, dark place. This is somewhat expensive and is seldom done, especially if the cider is to be sold on a small scale.—Dr. Charles K. Francis, chemist, experiment station, Oklahoma A. and M. college, Stillwater.

Somewhat Personal.

Frances, aged three, was very naughty all day, doing everything she should not do. Her mother shook her by the arm and said: "It seems the devil's got a hold of you today." Wiggling to get loose she promptly answered: "Let go, then."

Contemporary.

"Miss Ann Teek has had her house furnished in colonial style." "Well, she ought to feel thoroughly at home amid such surroundings."

DR. ANNA SHAW ON "INDIRECT INFLUENCE

When Dr. Anna Shaw was recently asked which of the Presidential candidates she preferred, she replied that the men of her state had expressed the opinion, that she and all the other women of Pennsylvania were not intelligent enough to be trusted with the ballot.

"Therefore," concluded Dr Shaw "the men of Pennsylvania can not possibly expect me to have intelligence enough to know which of the candidates is better qualified to be our chief executive."

When pressed further, Dr. Shaw gave her final answer:

"I cannot be a door mat for any political party or any presidential candidate. When I am enfranchised I can express directly my opinion but not until then."

Rape as a Forage Crop In the Cotton Section.

Rape is a succulent, nutritious plant, closely related to kale, collards and cabbage, and requires essentially the same conditions of culture as these crops. The plants grow to a height of 1½ to 4 feet, depending on conditions of soil and climate. The best forage varieties do not bloom the same season they are planted. It is the most important plant of the cabbage family to use as feed for hogs, sheep, cows, and chickens, and for this purpose should be much more commonly grown. Practically only one variety is grown in the United States, namely, the Dwarf Essex. The seed is quite cheap usually retailing at about 10 cents per pound.

Time of Seeding

Rape is a cool-season crop, and in the South should, therefore, be planted in the fall or in very early spring. The crop is not injured by ordinary winters in the South, but of course the growth is slow in cold weather. In the fall it is best seeded from August 15 to October 15. Later seeding is scarcely advisable, except near the Gulf coast and in Florida, where it may be sown up to December 15. In the spring it should be seeded just as early as danger of freezes is past; that is, at about the same date spring oats are sown. The earlier seedings nearly always give the largest yields, as growth is checked when very warm weather occurs. In summer the plant becomes much less palatable. Fall seeding is best, but early spring sowing is often successful. Spring seeding is never advisable in Florida or near the Gulf coast.

Soil Preparation and Cultivation

Rape succeeds best in rich loam soils, but profitable are grown on sandy and clayey soils. An abundant moisture supply is necessary to produce large yields. Good preparation of the seed bed is advisable. Barnyard manure is the best fertilizer. In the absence of this, 400 to 600 pounds per acre of a complete commercial fertilizer may be used.

When rape is planted in wide rows it should be given three or four cultivations during its early growth. After cutting the first crop a second growth is often obtained, especially if the stubble is cultivated

Method of Seeding

Rape may be sown in cultivated rows, in narrow drill rows, or broadcasted. If planted in rows, these should ordinarily be 24 to 30 inches apart. In rows 28 inches wide, which is the best average width, 2 pounds of seed per acre should be used.

Rape may be successfully grown with certain other crops. Thus it may be sown in early spring on oats, wheat, or rye, and usually a good stand is secured after the grain crop is cut. It may also be sown mixed with clover, to be used as pasture, or between the rows in some winter killed crop for late fall pasture.

The best depth to sow the seed is about one-half inch.

Uses of the Crop

Rape is most commonly used as a pasture crop for hogs or sheep. Cattle eat it readily, but destroy considerable by trampling, especially where the rape is broadcasted. In broad rows the injury by trampling is less, as animals usually walk between the rows. Many animals do not like rape at first, but must acquire a taste for it before they will eat it readily. Salt should be supplied liberally, as this will tend to prevent the purging which rape often produces.

In pasturing cattle on rape care must be taken to prevent bloating. They should not be turned into a rape pasture when it is wet with dew or rain or when the cattle are very hungry. If a supply of hay or straw is kept convenient, cattle will instinctively turn to this when they begin to bloat. Where animals can pass readily from rape pasture to grass pasture, cases of bloating are very infrequent. On the whole, it is best to avoid danger and not pasture cattle on pure rape. There is no danger of bloating with hogs.

Rape may also be cut and stall fed. If fed to dairy cows, it should be just after milking, as otherwise it may taint the milk.

Rape is also an excellent feed for all kinds of poultry.

Rape For Human Food

Rape is quite as good for human food as kale or collards, and may be prepared in the same manner. It is often grown for human food under the name of smooth or spring kale.

Yield

Rape varies greatly in yield, according to the soil. Yields of 30 tons per acre, green weight, are not rare. Ten to 15 tons is a good yield, and smaller returns are profitable.

Under favorable conditions rape is ready to pasture in about eight weeks after seeding. An acre of good rape will easily supply pasture for 20 hogs for two months.

WILSON'S MESSAGE TO THE CONGRESS

Senate and House in Joint Session Hear Address of the President.

HE MAKES FEW SUGGESTIONS

Further Legislation for Settlement and Regulation of Railway Labor Disputes Held Imperatively Necessary by the chief Magistrate.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The senate and house met in joint session today and heard President Wilson's message, which was as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress:

In fulfilling at this time the duty laid upon me by the Constitution of communicating to you from time to time information of the state of the Union and recommending to your consideration such legislative measures as may be judged necessary and expedient I shall continue the practice, which I hope has been acceptable to you, of leaving to the reports of the several heads of the executive departments the elaboration of the detailed needs of the public service and confine myself to those matters of more general public policy with which it seems necessary and feasible to deal at the present session of the congress.

I realize the limitations of time under which you will necessarily act at this session and shall make my suggestions as few as possible; but there were some things left undone at the last session which there will now be time to complete and which it seems necessary in the interest of the public to do at once.

In the first place, it seems to me imperatively necessary that the earliest possible consideration and action should be accorded the remaining measures of the program of settlement and regulation which I had occasion to recommend to you at the close of your last session in view of the public dangers disclosed by the unaccommodated difficulties which then existed, and which still unhappily continue to exist, between the railroads of the country and their locomotive engineers, conductors, and trainmen.

Railway Troubles First.

I then recommended:

First, immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate; in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with its present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

Second, the establishment of an eight-hour day as the legal basis alike of work and of wages in the employment of all railway employees who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation.

Third, the authorization of the appointment by the president of a small body of men to observe the actual results in experience of the adoption of the eight-hour day in railway transportation alike for the men and for the railroads.

Fourth, explicit approval by the congress of the consideration by the interstate commerce commission of an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads as may have been rendered necessary by the adoption of the eight-hour day and which have not been offset by administrative readjustments and economies, should the facts disclosed justify the increase.

Fifth, an amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation, and arbitration of such controversies as the present by adding to it a provision that, in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

And, sixth, the lodgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions and such rolling stock of the railroads of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes, with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the circumstances require for their safe and efficient use.

Renews His Recommendations.

The second and third of these recommendations the congress immediately acted on: it established the eight-hour day as the legal basis of work and wages in train service and it authorized the appointment of a commission to observe and report upon the practical results, deeming these the measures most immediately needed; but it postponed action upon the other suggestions until an opportunity should be offered for a more deliberate consideration of them. The fourth recommendation I do not deem it necessary to renew. The power of the interstate commerce commission to grant an increase of rates on the ground referred to is indisputably clear and a recommendation by the congress with regard to such a matter might seem to draw in question the scope of the commission's authority or its inclination to do justice when there is no reason to doubt either.

The other suggestions—the increase in the interstate commerce commission's membership and in its facilities for performing its manifold duties, the provision for full public investigation and assessment of industrial disputes, and the grant to the executive of the power to control and operate the railways when necessary in time of war or other like public necessity—I now very earnestly renew.

The necessity for such legislation is manifest and pressing. Those who have intrusted us with the responsibility and duty of serving and safeguarding them in such matters would find it hard, I believe, to excuse a failure to act upon these grave matters or any unnecessary postponement of action upon them.

Not only does the interstate commerce commission now find it practically impossible, with its present membership and organization, to perform its great functions promptly and thoroughly, but it is not unlikely that it may presently be found advisable to add to its duties still others equally heavy and exacting. It must first be perfected as an administrative instrument.

The country cannot and should not consent to remain any longer exposed to profound industrial disturbances for lack of additional means of arbitration and conciliation which the congress can easily and promptly supply. And all will agree that there must be no doubt as to the power of the executive to make immediate and uninterrupted use of the railroads for the concentration of the military forces of the nation wherever they are needed and whenever they are needed.

This is a program of regulation, prevention and administrative efficiency which argues its own case in the mere statement of it. With regard to one of its items, the increase in the efficiency of the interstate commerce commission, the house of representatives has already acted; its action needs only the concurrence of the senate.

For Control and Operation.

I would hesitate to recommend, and I dare say the congress would hesitate to act upon the suggestion should I make it, that any man in any occupation should be obliged by law to continue in an employment which he desired to leave. To pass a law which forbade or prevented the individual workman to leave his work before receiving the approval of society in doing so would be to adopt a new principle into our jurisprudence which I take it for granted we are not prepared to introduce. But the proposal that the operation of the railways of the country shall not be stopped or interrupted by the concerted action of organized bodies of men until a public investigation shall have been instituted which shall make the whole question at issue plain for the judgment of the opinion of the nation is not to propose any such principle. It is based upon the very different principle that the concerted action of powerful bodies of men shall not be permitted to stop the industrial processes of the nation, at any rate before the nation shall have had an opportunity to acquaint itself with the merits of the case as between employee and employer, time to form its opinion upon an impartial statement of the merits, and opportunity to consider all practicable means of conciliation or arbitration.

I can see nothing in that proposition but the justifiable safeguarding by society of the necessary processes of its very life. There is nothing arbitrary or unjust in it unless it be arbitrarily and unjustly done. It can and should be done with a full and scrupulous regard for the interests and liberties of all concerned as well as for the permanent interests of society itself.

Other Legislation Urged.

Three matters of capital importance await the action of the senate which have already been acted upon by the house of representatives: the bill which seeks to extend greater freedom of combination to those engaged in promoting the foreign commerce of the country than is now thought by some to be legal under the terms of the laws against monopoly; the bill amending the present organic law of Porto Rico; and the bill proposing a more thorough and systematic regulation of the expenditure of money in elections, commonly called the Corrupt Practices Act. I need not labor my advice that these measures be enacted into law. Their urgency lies in the manifest circumstances which render their adoption at this time not only opportune but necessary. Even delay would seriously jeopard the interests of the country and of the government.

Immediate passage of the bill to regulate the expenditure of money in elections may seem to be less necessary than the immediate enactment of the other measures to which I refer; because at least two years will elapse before another election in which federal offices are to be filled; but it would greatly relieve the public mind if this important matter were dealt with while the circumstances and the dangers to the public morals of the present method of obtaining and spending campaign funds stand clear under recent observation and the methods of expenditure can be frankly studied in the light of present experience; and a delay would have the further very serious disadvantage of postponing action until another election was at hand and some special object connected with it might be thought to be in the mind of those who urged it. Action can be taken now with facts for guidance and without suspicion of partisan purpose.

I shall not argue at length the desirability of giving a freer hand in the matter of combined and concerted effort to those who shall undertake the essential enterprise of building up our export trade. That enterprise will presently, will immediately assume, has indeed already assumed, a magnitude unprecedented in our experience. We have not the necessary instrumentalities for its prosecution; it is deemed to be doubtful whether they could be created upon an adequate scale under our present laws. We should clear away all legal obstacles and create a basis of undoubted law for it which will give freedom without permitting unregulated license. The thing must be done now, because the opportunity is here and may escape us if we hesitate or delay.

Porto Rico's Needs.

The argument for the proposed amendments of the organic law of Porto Rico is brief and conclusive. The present laws governing the island and regulating the rights and privileges of its people are not just. We have created expectations of extended privilege which we have not satisfied. There is uneasiness among the people of the island and even a suspicious doubt with regard to our intentions concerning them which the adoption of the pending measure would happily remove. We do not doubt what we wish to do in any essential particular. We ought to do it at once.

There are other matters already advanced to the stage of conference between the two houses of which it is not necessary that I should speak. Some practicable basis of agreement concerning them will no doubt be found and action taken upon them.

Inasmuch as this is, gentlemen, probably the last occasion I shall have to address the Sixty-fourth congress, I hope that you will permit me to say with what genuine pleasure and satisfaction I have co-operated with you in the many measures of constructive policy with which you have enriched the legislative annals of the country. It has been a privilege to labor in such company. I take the liberty of congratulating you upon the completion of a record of rare serviceableness and distinction.

Cut Trees by Exploding Dynamite.

Instead of an ax and saw to remove the tops of trees that are to be used as masts in logging operations, dynamite is used to shoot off the tops. After the branches have been removed, a rigger climbs the tree, with a set of irons, to the point where it is necessary to cut off the top. Here the trunk is usually about 12 inches in diameter. The rigger ties a string of dynamite cartridges, fastened end to end like sausages, around the trunk at this point, inserts a blasting cap with about 20 feet of fuse in one of these sticks, lights the end of the fuse, and descends before the explosion takes place. The tree top pumps into the air with the explosion and the trunk is left ready for attaching the rigging for dragging in and loading the logs. —Engineering Record.

All He Saw of Battle.

The bluejacket had been in the battle off Jutland, and in the railway compartment every one addressed him respectfully. Incidentally he was the recipient of numerous fine cigars. He conducted himself with becoming dignity, and when the foreign-looking gentleman who had kept silent went out at a roadside station the audience settled down to hear the yarn. Nodding his head toward the dark stranger on the platform, the bluejacket remarked with a grin, "'E thinks 'e 'as lost somethink 'e'd like to hear, 'e 'as. But hall Hi saw of the bloody battle was coal—nothing but coal. Hi'm a stoker, you see, that's what Hi am."—London Mail.

AMENDMENTS ARE LEGALLY ADOPTED

MARTIN SAYS NOT NECESSARY TO RECEIVE MAJORITY OF TOTAL VOTE.

AT THE STATE'S CAPITAL

Interesting News Budget of Happenings in Various Departments of State.

—Montgomery.

Although the bank depositor amendment, the Montgomery salary amendment and Selma tax amendment did not receive a majority of all votes cast in the recent general election they did receive a majority of all votes cast on the amendments and were legally adopted, according to an opinion of the attorney general's department given to Alex E. Walker, state superintendent of banks.

Because the amendments did not receive a majority of all votes cast in the election, some doubt had existed as to whether or not they had been adopted. The attorney general's investigation showed that the constitution provides that a majority of votes cast on the subject is necessary regardless of the total vote in the election.

$1,000 Is Paid on Deficit.

More than $1,000 has been paid to William F. Feagin, Superintendent of Education, by citizens of Alabama toward the payment of a deficit of $6,337.51 resulting from the campaign for the educational amendment. Mr. Feagin in a report shows that $1,198.50 has been received and that since the report was made $493 has been collected.

To Get Warrants Soon.

Salaries of public school teachers in the State will not be paid before December 15, at which time remittances from the county tax collectors will be received at the capital, according to information at the Governor's office. Superintendent Feagin conferred with the Governor regarding the early payment of the teachers' salaries for November and the Governor said the State would pay the teachers on or shortly after December 15.

It is certain that the State Treasurer will have money on December 15, and the Governor will not ask the banks to carry the State warrants, as was done for the October salaries.

Banks Must Bid.

Boards of revenue of all counties having 50,000 population or less must open bids at once from banks which desire to handle the counties' funds next year and must award the contract in time for the funds to be transferred to the successful bidder the first Monday after the second Tuesday in January. This opinion has been given to the secretary of state by Lawrence E. Brown, assistant attorney general. The legislature in 1915 abolished the office of county treasurer in each county having 50,000 population or less, and provided tha the funds heretofore held by the treasurer should be placed in the bank, which offers the best bid. "Best bid" is interpreted to be the bank which will offer the greatest rate of interest after showing that it is able to protect the county's deposits.

Prisoner Illegally Sentenced.

Judge J. Brown, in the Court of Appeals, rendered a decision, somewhat legally technical in character. It was that of J. M. DuBose against the State of Alabama, appealed from the Chilton Circuit Court. The appellant claimed that a four months' hard labor sentence was illegal because he was not in court when sentenced. Judge Brown held that the sentence was not regular as it did not appear whether the sentence was for nonpayment of fine and costs or additional punishment for the offense committed. Whether the one or the other, the court states, of necessity, it was "imposed by the court." The judgment of conviction was affirmed but the sentence was declared vacated and the cause was remanded in order that the defendant may be again sentenced.

State's Health Good.

Reports of the State Health Department for October shows that 2,030 deaths occurred in the State while there were 4,581 births. The death rate in Madison County was higher than in any other county, the report giving the rate at 19.9. The lowest rate recorded during the month was 5.3 in Marshall county.

Dallas County had the highest birth rate, 18; Coosa County the lowest, with a rate of 4.2.

From the report received by General Hubbard, it appears that Private Brazier engaged in a fight with another soldier while in the guard house and received injuries consisting of a depressed fractured skull.

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 10

FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH.

LESSON TEXT—Rev. 2:1-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life.—Rev. 2:10.

This passage most wonderfully illustrates that dominating purpose of Paul's life. More than most lessons a map will be necessary to locate distinctly the places mentioned. There are interesting stories in connection with each of the seven cities and churches. It might be wise to give to seven different people the task of bringing information to the class regarding each one mentioned.

I. Ephesus, whose love is waning (vv. 1-7). The key word to these messages is the word "overcometh." In each of the messages our Lord describes himself in a different way according to the peculiar needs of that particular church. Here he is represented as holding the stars (messengers of the churches, Ch. 1:20) in his right hand, and keeping them secure, controlling them while he walks in the midst of the seven golden lamp stands, literally churches. The symbolism of "lamp stand" is used because the churches were intended to be light bearers as they held forth the light given by the oil of the Spirit (Math. 5:16; Phil. 2:16; Zech. 4:2-6). Ephesus was the capital of a province said to be one of the richest in the Roman empire. In it was the great temple of Diana. Here Paul had labored and had various experiences, and to Ephesus he had written a letter (See lesson 8, third quarter), but there were good things to be found in this Ephesian church (vv. 2,3). Forty years after being founded, John writes this message. He knew their "works," their general moral conduct, especially its active and passive sides through its trials, its dealing with impostors and its practical energy and enterprise; and its patience (literally steadfast assurance) in bearing witness for Christ. Jesus knew of their never wearying endurance. Surely these things would indicate pretty nearly a model church. Jesus says, "No, there is something seriously wrong," so seriously wrong that unless repented of he would remove them out of their place.

II. Smyrna, the church with a crown of life (vv. 8-11). Smyrna was 40 or 50 miles from Ephesus, and at this time a city of 250,000 inhabitants. To this church the Son of Man (Ch. 1:11) sends another message. It is interesting to note that this church and the one at Philadelphia received from the Master unqualified praise. It had works, activities; it also had tribulations, riches and poverty (for thou art rich) rich in good works, rich toward God, rich in treasures laid up in heaven; however, it was in the midst of persecution. It was here that Polycarp labored, who afterward, as bishop of Smyrna, was martyred (see v. 10). Of Polycarp it is said that rather than save his life by renouncing Christ he cried out, "Eighty and six years have I served him, and he has done me no ill; how then can I blaspheme my king who hath saved me." The crown is eternal life, the crown of victory. The second death is the final condemnation which sinners undergo at the judgment seat of God.

III. Pergamos, the church in a stronghold of faith (vv. 12-17). Our glorified Lord knew that the church in Pergamos was in a peculiarly difficult situation, that it was Satan's headquarters, his "throne" (v. 13); hence they were in especial need of a defender and the Lord is represented as "he that hath a sharp, two-edged sword," the word of God (Heb. 4:12-13; John 5:22). Pergamos was almost fifty miles north of Smyrna, a city of about 17,000 inhabitants, and the capital of the province. To it were brought many of the early Christians who were compelled to suffer martyrdom. Again we have a church whose works are commended, whose steadfastness is mentioned in that they "held fast to my name, and not denied the faith"—martyrs (vv. 13). However, dangers threatened them for there had been a compromise with the world and with other systems of faith, what we would call today liberality in doctrine and breadth in view in teaching: (1) Some of their number had accepted and practiced the doctrine of Baalim (Jude 11; Num. 31-16). (2) These teachings cast a stumbling block before the children of Israel (v. 14). This was done by persuading the Israelites to join in the idolatrous feasts and revelings of the heathen, and also their impurity of worship.

In the remaining part of the chapter we have some glimpses of the remaining four churches, the good that was to be cherished and the evil that was to be overcome.

Perhaps the most suggestive of all is that of Laodicea, the lukewarm church.

Lukewarmness is one of the most deadly evils to overcome, and hence the highest and most glorious of all the promises suggested ends with "I will give him to sit down with me in my throne as I also overcame and sat down with my father in his throne" (Am. R. V.).

"There's a Reason"

CAREFUL SELECTION OF CORN FOR SEED

TWO GOOD AND TWO POOR EARS OF CORN.

The quality and quantity of next year's corn crop will depend very largely upon the selection of seed—not merely the picking out of good-looking ears, but upon the time, place and manner in which the selection is made.

If we wait until just before planting-time next spring and then run through the corn crib and pick out what looks to be likely seed, we are taking chances of about eight to one against a full crop.

The time to select seed corn is in the fall after the grain is thoroughly ripe, and the selection should be made in the field. This method enables one to know exactly the kind of stalk which produced the ear and to avoid those stalks which, although they may have borne one good ear, indicate by their general appearance that they would not reproduce a perfect stand next season.

Seed corn selection is one of the most important details of growing the crop. It must be undertaken in a systematic manner, because slipshod and uncertain methods will only result in disappointment and failure.

Really seed corn should be raised on specially prepared ground from pedigreed seed, and this work should have been undertaken at planting time last spring.

Good Arrangement of Seed.

When the corn is thoroughly ripe in the field the selection should be made by taking a row at a time and picking only those ears which come up to a certain standard fixed beforehand.

In the selection of the standard the farmer must make up his mind in advance whether he wants a large, coarse stalk with the ear high from the ground, or a smaller, stout stalk with the ear lower down.

If he desires a large ear with coarse grains, or a medium-sized ear with the grains compactly set, he must make his selections accordingly.

Right here, however, the selector is warned against a very common mistake—that is, picking ears of abnormal size or appearance. If he wants a large ear with coarse and loosely set grains he may find an occasional ear bearing these characteristics in a very marked degree, abnormally so in fact, but it would be a mistake to select such an ear because the tendency will be to increase variation, and when these variations run to excess they are pretty sure to produce undesirable qualities.

It would be just as great a mistake if the selector is looking for a medium-sized ear with closely set grains to select an undersized ear with the abnormally-sized grains, for the reason given above.

In the selection of seed of any kind, or in the breeding of animals, it is always wise to stick to the medium specimens having the characteristics desired, as better results will always follow such selections.

It is a good plan to select seed from stalks of stout, healthy growth which have made uniform progress during the season and that are well provided with leaves so as to provide plenty of fodder. It is important to observe the tassel of the stalk to see that it is strong, symmetrical and is well developed and free from any evidence of disease.

The stalks from which the ears are taken should be well rooted in the ground, upright, strong and vigorous, and any evidence of disease or abnormal growth should at once condemn them.

Only ears that are well silked and that are thoroughly covered with the husk from tip to tip should be selected. Here again it is a mistake to select ears bearing abnormally developed husks or husks that are too little developed.

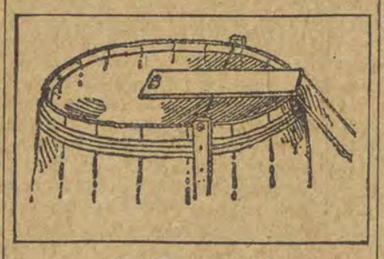
If the ear contains an unusual amount of husk it is a sure sign of coarseness and will show up badly in next year's crop.

The shank bearing the ear should be short and not over an inch or an inch and a quarter in diameter, and those ears pointing downward are the most desirable. These shed the rain and thus preserve the grain while those ears which stand upright, or nearly so, naturally catch moisture which trickles down into the grain and causes it to rot.

As to the number of rows and grains on the ear, these will vary with the variety, but in most standard varieties they run from 16 to 20, although they may run as high as 24 and still conform to standard.

If the number runs below 14 the ear should be discarded. The rows should run straight from butt to tip and those ears containing wavy rows or rows that become mixed at any point and lose their identity are not to be taken.

The seed ears should be stored in a rat-proof room, not too cold nor warm enough to start germination in case of damp weather at any time during the winter. After the ears have dried a few days they should be husked and placed in racks, that they may cure uniformly. A very simple rack for this purpose can be made by driving wire nails into a stout board at intervals of about four inches and impaling the ears through the butts on the nails.



In this way the ears can be numbered and classified as desired.

Of course, in the spring, two or three weeks before planting time, the seed must be thoroughly tested for germination power. This is as important as selection and even more so, because it is useless to go to the trouble of preparing ground and planting seed unless you know it will grow.

STOP CALOMEL! TAKE DODSON'S LIVER TONE

New Discovery! Takes Place of Dangerous Calomel—It Puts Your Liver To Work Without Making You Sick—Eat Anything—It Can Not Salivate—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to try a bottle and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work. I want to see a bottle of this wonderful liver medicine in every home here.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones, often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.

Get a bottle! Try it! If it doesn't do exactly what I say, tell your dealer to hand your money back. Every druggist and store keeper here knows me and knows of my wonderful discovery of a vegetable medicine that takes the place of dangerous calomel.—Adv.

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

Ginger, Pep, Punch and Kick.

A writer of rejected manuscripts tells in the Contributors' club of the Atlantic Monthly some of the reasons for his lack of success. Ten years ago his manuscripts were returned because they did not "quite compel acceptance;" a little later they "lack ginger;" then editors wanted "a little more pep, please;" then his contributions did not have the "punch;" and now the long-suffering writer gets his offerings back with the comment, "Excellent of their kind, but we prefer stories with more 'kick'!" His letter to the Contributors' club seems to have had all the desirable elements which his earlier efforts lacked, for it was published!—Outlook.

Uric Acid Poisoning?

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called Anuric—which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you can obtain Anuric at any drug store and get relief from the pains and ills brought about by uric acid; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. Anuric which you will find many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

I believe that two boxes of these tablets will effect a permanent cure. I can recommend them to anyone suffering with rheumatism. Anuric will do all that is claimed for it."—M. E. WEEMS.—

CONSUMER

The consumer is the market for the joint product of capital and labor. As such the consumer expects, and is entitled to, every consideration, because without consumption there would be no field for investment of capital, nor employment for labor.

The consumer constitutes the bar of public opinion, and upon the good or ill opinion of the consumer depends the success of both capital and labor.

Let capital oppress labor, and the consumer will make known his disapproval in no uncertain terms. Let labor intimidate capital, and the disapproval will be equally emphatic.

This is as it should be, because industrial disruption interferes with the ordinary pursuits of the consumer, and makes for demoralization and disorder.

The L. & N. is dependent upon the favorable consideration of the consumer—the people—for success in its effort to supply an essential to modern day business—passenger and freight transportation.

The combination of capital and labor should be well oiled and work smoothly, so that one will not interfere with the functions of the other, to the end that the consumer will be well, promptly and economically served.

The L. & N. will co-operate in every possible way and asks that the general public accord the effort equal co-operation so that capital, labor and the consumer will experience a maximum measure of success.

PLANS TO END WAR FORWARDED TO ALLIES FROM TEUTON CAPITAL

Neutral Governments Are Requested to Transmit German Note to the Warring countries.

United States, Spain and Switzerland Asked to Further Plans of Central Powers as far as Possible

Berlin, Dec. 12.—Germany and Allies today proposed to enter forthwith into peace negotiations.

The propositions which they will bring forth are, according to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, appropriate for the establishment of a lasting peace.

The Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian governments are making similar proposals. These proposals have been transmitted also to the Vatican.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg this morning received the representatives of the United States, Spain and Switzerland, the nations protecting German interests in foreign countries. The chancellor transmitted a note to them and asked them to bring it to the knowledge of the hostile governments.

The following announcement was given out today by the semi-official Oversea's News Agency:

"The Chancellor received this morning, one after another, the representatives of the United States of America, Spain, Switzerland; that is of the States protecting German interests in hostile foreign countries. The Chancellor transmitted to them a note and asked them to bring it to the knowledge of the hostile governments. The note will be read today in the Reichstag by the Chancellor.

"In the note, the four Allied (Central) Powers propose to enter forthwith on peace negotiations. The propositions which they bring for such negotiations are according to their firm belief, appropriate for the establishment of a lasting peace.

GERMANY PROPOSES RESTORATION OF STATUS BEFORE WAR

Wahington, Dec. 12.—Advices from Berlin to the German Embassy indicate that Germany's peace terms in general measure propose the restoration of the status quo before the war, with the exception of the establishment of independent kingdoms of Poland and Lithuania.

They are understod to propose the complete restoration of the occupied portions of Belgium and France in return for Germany's captured colonies, and to dispose of the Balkan situation, because of its extremely complicated nature, in the peace conference.

German Embassy Advised

Dispatches to the German embassy, telling o fthe Chancellor's action, arrived soon after the news dispatches. The terms for the restoration of Belgium and portions of France, gave no indication, so far as is known, of stipulations such as generally have been expected by the Allies, although they did not absolutely dispose of their possibility.

It was indicated that while the German Allies might not entirely expect that the proposals would cause a peace conference they were not without hope that they would, and they were hopsful at least that they would be the means of getting the belligerents together in some manner to discuss the situation, and this, it was expected, would lead to a basis for peace.

In German quarters the crisis in the British Cabinet, the coming of Winter, and the lull in the fighting, are given as reasons for making the peace proposals.

U. S. WILL SEND PEACE PROPOSALS AS REQUESTED

Washington, Dec. 12.—News that Germany and her allies were about to enter on peace negotiations was immediately sent to President Wilson. Speaking for the President, Secretary Tumulty said he was deeply interested, but could make no comment, at least until it was learned what reception the proposal received from the Entente Allies.

The State Department received its first information of Germany's proposal through The Associated Press dispatch from which officials assumed that the offices of the neutrals addressed are asked only to transmit the proposals.

This will be done, so far as the United States is conerned, promptly on receipt of the official dispatch in Washington. They will be forwarded to all the Entente countries where the United States represent the Central Powers diplomatically.

Whether the United States would accompany the transmission with any comment or suggestion, it was indicated, depends entirely upon the nature of the proposal and whether it is considered likely of consideration.

If the offer is deemed one which all sides might negotiate the United States probably would urge that it be taken up.

CARLOAD OF COW PEAS SHIPPED FROM CLANTON

Mr. J. E. Robinson, Sr. informs us that he has to-day ready to ship to St. Louis, a solid car load of cow peas raised and sold by the farmers in Chilton county.

The price paid to the producers of these peas will range from $1,000 to $1100.00.

This is the first instance in our history where producers were able to dispose of such a large quantity of peas in one lot.

Mr. Robinson has worked up markets for various products of our farms, and in doing so he has rendered a very valuable and material aid to our producers.

Our farmers must diversify in order to live under the new conditions; and they can't diversify unless they have a market for what they raise.

Men who will and have taken hold of the situation like Mr. Robinson, and secured a market for our farm products, are the ones who open the gate to success through diversification. Our farmers are able to grow many different things, and all they lack is a market upon which to sell.

FIRE AT THE SOLDIERS HOME.

Several of the old men had to be carried out as they were too feeble to save themselves.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO RECEIVE SPECIAL PRIZE.

Anti-Tuberculosis League Promotes Essay Competition.

"How to Prevent the Spread of Tuberculosis," is to be the subject of short essays to be written by thousands of Alabama school children within the next few weeks, according to an announcement coming from the headquarters of the Alabama Anti-Tuberculosis League.

An offer of a $10.00 cash prize to the student whose composition shall show the highest degree of literary merit combined with most thorough grasp of the principles of prevention is meeting with the instant and cordial approval of the county superintendents. It is probable that this offer will be paralleled by similar offers through county organizations, and taking in the larger cities and schools.

Teachers of both physiology and English have expressed a desire to cooperate wholeheartedly with the officers of the League in promoting this competition, for the sake of its educational value in language as well as hygene.

Competitors will be limited to public school pupils of the fourth and sixth grade in places of less than 5,000 inhabitants within the State of Alabama.

PREVENTING THE SPREAD OF TUBERCULOSIS.

(Note:—Competitors for the prize essay on this subject are warned not to use the words of this article, but to put the facts in their own way.)

By the spread of tuberculosis is meant the infection of persons to such an extent as to make them actively sick with that disease.

It is easier to infect children than adults. But active disease may not develop till childhood is left behind.

The chief sufferers are persons between the ages of 15 and 40 years, the prime of life.

Tuberculosis is spread by means of those actively sick, who produce vast numbers of the "germs" (disease seeds), chiefly in their spit, or in the moisture driven from the mouth in the act of coughing or sneezing. The same moisture on the lips is dangerous. Cups, spoons, forks, etc., or anything touching the mouth may be a vehicle for the seeds to reach other persons. The germs are bred in the diseased area and come up into the mouth with the mumus or pus formed in excessive quantities. It is evident that all such spit should be burned.

If the active tuberculosis sufferers could all be prevented from infecting others with this seed-bearing moisture, the disease would die out. Such isolation has, however, been made universal in no country in the world. The seeds are, in fact, so widely spread by many thousands of sufferers that some other means must be found to help check the spread of the disease.

Happily such other means are available. Granting that all are likely to be infected, the one task left for all is to prevent the infection from producing active disease. Millions have it already hidden ("latent") in their glands. If they will practice methods promotive of good health they will probably never become consumptive. Those methods are:

First—Abundant use of pure, fresh air, day and night;

Second—Wise selection and good preparation of food;

Third—Regularity of sleeping;

Fourth—Avoidance of continuous physical exhaustion;

Fifth—Keeping a clean mind in a clean body.

SOME NEWS BRIEFS FROM WASHINGTON

Special Items About Congress and National Political Activities.

STRONG ARM METHODS ARE NOT TO BE DESIRED.

Probably the first real contest that will take place in the Senate will be the fight over the election of a President pro tempore. The office was made vacant by the death during the summer of Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas. Various factions on the Democratic side are grooming candidates for the place, Senators Walsh of Montana, Saulsbury of Delaware, Bankhead of Alabama, and James of Kentucky being most prominently mentioned. The election of the last named Senator, who at present appears to have a lead over his colleagues, would be fraught with extreme danger. During the bitter fight on the Government shipping bill in the spring of last year it was openly threatened that James would be called to the Chair at a critical moment, and he had promised that if he had the opportunity he would recognize a motion for the previous question, contrary to the rules of the Senate, and by that means force a vote on the bill. Fortunately for the good of the country and the dignity of the Senate wiser counsels prevailed and such "strongarm" methods were not resorted to. With the reduced Democratic majority, however, such situations are likely to develop in the future, and it is hoped that a Senator who would not violate the rules of the Senate may be elected.

REPUBLICAN SENATOR FROM STATE OF MARYLAND

Republican Senator-elect, Joseph I. France of Maryland was a recent caller at the Capitol. When Dr. France takes his seat next year the Senate will have the unique distinction of including among its membership three doctors of medicine, the other two being Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire and Lane of Oregon. Dr. France is young and vigorous, of commanding personality, with a strong voice and impressive delivery. His advent into the Senate means not only an addition of vote to the Republican side of the Chamber, but a decided gain in ability and enthusiasm for the militant minority.

A valuable addition to the group of agricultural experts in the Senate is found in Hon. Bert M. Fernald, Republican, of Maine, who was elected to fill out the unxpired term of the late Senator Burleigh, and who takes his seat immediately. Mr. Fernald is senior member of The Fernald, Keene & True Company of West Poland, Maine, a firm which handles the agricultural products of more than fifty towns in that state, and has factories in six different communities. It is to be hoped that a place may be found for Senator Fernald on the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, in spite of the fact that there are at present no vacancies among either the Republican or Democratic members. A glance at any of the recent agricultural appropriation bills controlled by that Democratic committee will convince even the causual observer of the need of substituting practical farmers for some of the theorists now in charge of that measure.

The first section carried the second squadron are E, F, G and H. The medical corps. Cavalry troops in this squodran are E, F, G and H. The report, in summing up the work for the whole State shows 36,579 herds, and 917 herds, or 9,876 cattle, quaranteed.

Pig Iron Sold at $23 a Ton.

Birmingham. — An iron making company, which had been out of the market for some time, re-entered for a small amount of new business during the past few days and on the first dash out of the box, sold 1000 tons of foundry metal for second half delivery at $28. The customer was glad to get the iron at that price. The market is hardening around $23 as the all around minimum.

ALABAMA GETS APPROPRIATION

$50,000 Given for Fish Hatchery by Bill in House

Washington, D. C.—The omnibus bill to provide additional fish hatcheries, which passed the House includes an appropriation for Alabama of $50,000.

At the last session of Congress Senator Bankhead's bill for a hatchery was passed. The House has lumped the Senate bills with several of its own and the Senate will doubtless accept the omnibus measure framed by the House.

When the money is available the Bureau of Fisheries in Washington will select the location in Alabama for the proposed fish hatchery.

TO ADVOCATE BOND ISSUE

Ways and Means Committee of Roads Association Plan Campaign

Birmingham.—Campaigns to form a State wide movement to bring the issuance of $50,000,000 in bonds to be used in good roads construction, to remove the convicts of the State from the mines and lumber camps and place them on the roads and to apply the licenses derived from automobile taxes to the building of good roads was inaugurated in Birmingham at a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee of the Alabama Good Roads Association.

Capt. John Craft, of Mobile, presided over the meeting. The Alabama Good Roads Association has endorsed all three propositions which will be brought before the Ways and Means Committee. The next legislature will be asked to pass an amendment permitting the State to issue $50,000,000 in bonds to construct the greatest system of good roads in any Southern State.

Railroad to Be Reorganized.

Mobile.—An agreement was ratified at Jackson, Miss., between the Railroad Commission of that State and the officials of the New Orleans, Mobile and Chicago Railroad company, changing the name of the line to the Gulf, Mobile and Northern. The road was formerly known as the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City Railroad, and was organized under that name in this city. The N. O., M. and C. has been in the hands of a reseiver for the past three years, but a decision of the Federal Court of Appeals recently allowed the reorganization committee to recognize and this is being done at the present time. The receivership, according to reliable information, will be lifted in about two weeks, at which time the new officials of the road will be announced.

Percy Brooks Released On Bail.

Huntsville.—Percy Brooks has been released on bail of $1000 and is still at Guntersville, where he was taken immediately after the Overtion trial. It is believed that both Brooks and Nalls will continue to make Huntsville their home.

NO PEACE MOVE BY UNITED STATES

Reports Of Mediation Are Embarrassing As No Move Will Be Made Unless The Unexpected Happens

RUMORS ON SUBJECT UNTRUE

No Suggestions For Ending The Great European War Have Been Made By Uncle Sam

Washington.—Offers of mediation or suggestions of peace to the European nations have not been made by the United States, they are not now being borne across seas by Ambassador Gerard, and will not be broached by this government in the near future unless there is some unexpected turn in world events.

These facts are stated authoritatively by one of the highest officials of the government to counteract reports to the contrary which have been generally published, much to the embarrassment of the administration and to the misleading of foreign nations. The facts set forth and the details following may be said to express the administration's view of the situation affecting peace prospects.

In official circles it is felt that the increasing and apparently authoritative rumors that the United States is planning some move for peace are calculated above all else to destroy the chances of peace, and, no matter what their origin, to defeat their own ends. Indeed, the misunderstanding has become so serious that an official denial has been contemplated, probably through the state department. The president, however, has preferred to disassociate himself entirely for any such announcement, no matter how made, in order that he might stand untrammeled in his original offer of mediation at the beginning of the war.

Two cardinal factors stand out in the minds of officials: First, that many such proposals originate in German circles, and, second, that their reiteration has been driving allied statesmen to an extremity of refutation from which it would be very embarrassing for them to recede.

Without in any way passing on the ultimate outcome of the war, it is felt here that Germany has largely achieved her objectives and that she is in a position to treat on the basis of her present gains without subjecting herself to the inevitable losses of men and money caused by further hostilities.

The allies, on the other hand, have shown that they are absolutely opposed to peace now. They have left not the least doubt that they would regard mediation at this time as unfriendly. It is firmly believed here in official circles that such an attempt by this government would subject the United States to the charge of partisan interference in the war.

112,000 ROUMANIANS CAPTURED BY TEUTONS

Casualties Estimated At 300,000 Men. Berlin Claims German Losses To Be Small

Berlin.—The Roumanians have lost approximately one hundred and twelve thousand men in prisoners since entering the war, or about one-sixth of their army, besides suffering casualties estimated at about three hundred thousand.

In addition the Teutonic victory has made possible the shortening of the front by more than three hundred and forty miles. The area conquered is nearly twenty thousand square miles.

The German losses are declared to have been astonishingly small. One army corps which made 8,000 prisoners and is calculated to have been accountable for 6,000 casualties in the opposing ranks, had itself considerably less than one thousand casualties. The Teutonic forces captured 30,000 prisoners in one week, besides immeasse quantitites of cannon, machine guns, material and supplies.

The great Rusian offensive on the north, pressed at a cost of great sacrifices in an effort to save portions of the northern Roumanian army, is declared to have been in vain.

Radical Changes In Postal Rates

Washington.—One-cent postage for local first class mail deliveries and a zone system of rates for second class matter which is expected to greatly increase the charges for magazines and other periodicals having a nation-wide circulation, are provided for in the annual postoffice appropriation bill as virtually completed in committee. The measure, carrying appropriations totalling about three hundred and twenty-seven million dollars, will probably be reported to the house.

Speedy Voyage By The Deutschland

Berlin.—The German commercial submarine Deutschland, completing a quick voyage home from the United States, arrived off the mouth of the Weser. The arrival of the Deutschland at a German port marks the successful completion of the second round trip of this commercial undersea boat to the United States. On her voyage just finished she made the passage in nineteen days, having left New London on November 21. This bettered considerably the former record.

BRITISH PREMIER RESIGNS

Asquith Quits Premiership Which He Had Held Through Eight Stormy Years Of History

Lloyd George New Premier

London.—David Lloyd Gorge will become prime minister. The new government will be a coalition like the old one, but probably without the same measure of harmonious support which attended the formation of the first coalition of English affairs.

London.—Herbert H. Asquith has resigned the British premiership, which he has held through eight stormy years of domestic and foreign history, and the government crisis found a solution which had been considered the least probable of practical alternatives. The Unionist leader, Andrew Bonar Law, was summoned to the palace immediately after Mr. Asquith had departed, and the king offered him the prime minister's commission which he had just accepted from Mr. Asquith's hands. The court circular announces:

"The Right Honorable Mr. Asquith had an audience with his majesty, the king, and tendered his resignation as prime minister and first lord of the treasury, which the king has been graciously pleased to accept."

The premier's decision to resign and advise the king to summon Andrew Bonar Law to form a cabinet was taken after a day of extraordinary political excitement. There were constant comings and goings of the political leaders between Downing street and the government departments. Mr. Asquith consulted with several Unionist leaders, including Earl Curzon, Lord Robert Cecil and the earl of Derby.

The premier met his supporters, including Viscount Grey, Lewis Harcourt, Edwin S. Montagu, the marquis of Crewe, Reginald McKenna, Walter Runciman, Lord Buckmaster, H. Samuel Lord Reading and Arthur Henderson.

After the king had given an audience to Mr. Bonar Law, who declined to undertake the formation of a new ministry and then to Mr. Lloyd George, who accepted the responsibility.

TOTAL ALLIED LOSSES ESTIMATED AT 15,100,000

Figures Are Credited By Berlin To Copenhagen Research Society

Berlin.—The total losses of the entent have been 15,100,000, according to figures given out by the Association for Research into the social consequences of the war, of Copenhagen, as quoted in a statement.

"Of this number," says the news agency summary of the report, "Great Britain has lost 1,200,000 men, Russia 8,500,000, France 3,700,000, Italy 800,000, Serbia 480,000, Belgium 220,000, and Roumania 200,000.

"These figures admit of curious conclusion. Thus, the losses of Serbia, Belgium and Roumania are three-quarters those of the British, and as to the Roumanian losess only those of the first two months are included, these three small nations having, in fact, made sacrifices as large as those of the great British empire. Italy has suered already losses equal to two-third of those of the British, although she entered the war ten months later than Great Britain. The French losses are three times as great as the British and form almost one-quarter of the total for the whole entente, while the Russian losses are seven times greater than the British, which comprise only 8 per cent of the total, although in them the losses of the Canandians, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans, East Indians and others are included."

Offer Of Million Made For Monticello

Washington.—One million dollars has been offered for Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, according to Representative Levy of New York, the present owner. In a letter he said he would accept half this amount from the government for it. Mrs. William Cummings Story and other representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution, renewed their efforts to have the government purchase Jefferson's home.

Ambassador Gerard Sails For Europe

New York.—James W. Gerard, United States ambassador to Germany, has returned to his post bearing the views of President Wilson regarding submarine warfare and the deportation of Belgians for presentation to the imperial government. Ambassador Gerard declared that he carried no peace plan back to Germany. Mr. Gerard takes one hundred thousand marks which was raised by the American Relief committee for distribution through the embassy to needy widows, orphans and war sufferers

Three New Senators Given Seats

Washington.—By a vote of 44 to 32, in which thirteen Democrats voted with the latter number, the senate refused to delay seating the three new senators—Kirby of Arkansas, Watson of Indiana and Fernald of Maine. Led by Senator Reed (Dem.), with the object of forcing an examination of the credentials of Watson, some of the Democratic leaders wanted to defer the seating until after a grand jury in Indiana had finished its election investigation.

MORE PROTESTS GO TO GERMANY

Developments Have Reached Point To Cause Activities By The United States Government

PEACEFUL SHIPS BEING SUNK

Protests Against The Deportation Of Belgians For Forced Labor In Germany

Washington.—More definite information as to the facts involved in recent activities by German submarines has brought the situation to a point where a new note to Germany designed to clear up any doubt as to the interpretation of the Berlin government's submarine pledges to the United States, appears to be among the possibilities of the near future.

The cases in the forefront of consideration were those of the British steamers Arabia and Marina, both of which contends were believed to be transports in the service of the allies. Official information reached the state department establishing that the Marina, on which six Americans were lost, was in no sense a transport, and an inquiry was addressed to Great Britain for information as to the actual status of the Arabia.

While administration officials remain silent, those in close touch with affairs in Teutonic diplomatic circles deprecate any suggestion that relations between the two countries are approaching a crisis. They point out that Germany already has offered to make amends if her submarine commanders are shown to have been mistaken in considering the vessels transports, and declare their knowledge of the intentions of the Berlin government precludes the possibility that any deliberate violation of the submarine pledges has occurred.

On the other hand, the United States said in the Sussex note that mistakes that endangered American life on peaceful vessels were not to be tolerated.

Germany Rebuked For Belgian Acts

The American government's formal protest to Germany against the deportation of Belgians for forced labor as a violation of principles of humanity was made public by the state department. It was in the form of a note cabled to Charge Grew at Berlin, with instructions that he seek an interview with the German chancellor and read it to him, and was given out by the department with the terse comment: "The interview has taken place."

Officials refused to add to this statement, and so far as could be learned there has been no reply from Germany. All information available, however, indicates that the deportations are continuing, and it is known that through earlier informal representations Charge Grew learned that the German position was that the policy was a military necessity and not in violation of international law.

U. S. MUST CONTINUE TO INCREASE NAVY

Secretary Daniels Declares U. S. Should Carry On Building Program Until Others Reduce

Washington.—Until all nations agree to reduce their armament the United States must continue to increase its naval power, Secretary Daniels declares in his annual report, made public, and which urges that funds be appropriated at once to begin building 42 additional ships.

"I feel it my duty to warn as solemnly as I may," the secretary says, after reciting the huge expenditure for the navy authorized at the last session of congress, "against the danger that lies in a possible feeling on the part of our people that the navy has now been attended to, has been placed where it belongs, among the great navies of the world, and there is nothing further to be done. Complacent retrospection is the father of dry rot. We have made a magnificent beginning, but that it must not be forgotten by the public that the same intelligent appreciation of our needs, the same willingness to provide for these needs, must be shown this year and every succeeding year if we are to finish what we have commenced."

German Raider Roving The Atlantic

Halifax, N. S.—Entente allied shipping was warned by the British naval authorities to be on the lookout for a strange vessel, believed to be a raider, which was intercepted on December 2 off the northwestern coast of Scotland and allowed to proceed under the impression that she was the Dutch steamer Gamma. Later it was learned that the Gamma was at Kirkwall on that date and did not leave until December 3. The identity of the supposed raider has not been determined.

Allies In Greece Under Old Treaty

London.—British Foreign Secretary Grey gave out a statement on the Greek situation in which it is denied that the presence of allied troops in Greece is similar to the German invasion of Belgium. France, Great Britain and Russia guaranteed the Kingdom of Greece, the statement says, as a monarchical, independent, constitutional state, and it was their right and duty to land troops to neutralize the "unconstitutional action" of King Constantine.

REPORT ON U. S. FINANCES

American Government Holds a Commanding Position In World Finance

Washington.—Secretary McAdoo's annual report of the government's finances, presented to congress, estimates that the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, will show a balance of $115,000,000 in the general fund, but that the figures a year later—June 30, 1918—will show a deficit in the general fund of $185,000,000.

Preliminary estimates place the cost of conducting the government for the coming fiscal year 1918, exclusive of the postal service, which is expected to be self-sustaining, and other deductions, at $1,278,021,000. The ordinary receipts for the fiscal year 1918 he estimates at $995,550,000, which is $282,471,000 less than the estimated expense.

For the fiscal year 1916 now drawing to a close, the secretary reports great prosperity and expresses greatest confidence for the future. "During the past year," the secretary says, "the prosperity which set in so strongly during the fiscal year 1915 has grown in strength and volume and is now widely diffused throughout the United States. Fundamental economic conditions have never been more sound. In all lines of industry efficiency of organization and production have reached the highest point in the country's history. General confidence in the future, healthful enterprises and development have been marked characteristics of the year.

"The financial strength of the United States—the greatest in our history—gives us a commanding position in world finance. We have been transformed from a debtor into a creditor nation. On November 1, 1916, the stock of gold coin and bullion in the United States was estimated at $2,700,136,976, an increase of $714,597,804 in the past sixteen months. This is the largest stock of gold ever held in the United States or in any other country of the world. Through the operations of the federal reserve system and with our abundant supply of gold as a basis, the credit resources of the United States have become more than sufficient for home demand, and we have been able to finance our great domestic and foreign trade without strain and to extend vast amounts of credit to other nations throughout the world.

"The experience of the past two years has brought into strong relief the value of the federal reserve system. It is not too much to say that our great prosperity could not exist without it. The usefulness of the system has been broadened recently by the amendatory act of September 7, 1916, which renders it more attractive to member banks and increases the scope and services of the federal reserve banks."

COTTONLESS ZONES ARE PROPOSED IN THE SOUTH

South Carolina Senator Urges Drastic Federal Action To Check Spread Of Weevil

Washington.—Creation of a series of zones in the south in which no cotton could be grown for a period of one year as a means of checking and exterminating the boll weevil in this country, will be proposed in a bill which Senator Smith of South Carolina announced he soon would offer and urge for passage.

The South Carolinian proposes that after the non-growing area shall be started in the extreme northeastern limit of the cotton section and gradually work southward and westward in a series of zones 10 miles in width each year until the entire cotton growing section shall have been covered.

The federal government, Senator Smith said, would be given the power to police the zone to see that the law was observed and growers and ginners affected would be compensated by the government.

Field Marshal Oyama Dead In Tokio

Tokio.—Field Marshal Prince Iwao Oyama, commander-in-chief of the Manchurian army of Japan during the Russo-Japanese war, is dead. Field Marshal Prince Oyama shared with Field Marshal Prince Yamagata the highest military and civil honors in the gift of the emperor. Both were field marshals, both were princes and both were military councillors. Prince Oyama hailed from Satsuma, where he was born in 1842.

Ship Sinks With Americans On Board

New York.—The steamship John Lambert, listed in the Maritime Register as an American vessel, was shelled and sunk without warning by a German submarine off the Isle of Wight on November 22, according to members of the crew. Americans, who arrived here, on the French line steamship Espagne, from Bordeaux. The John Lambert was one of twelve vessels built on the Great Lakes, which the French line agreed to purchase. The vessel was on its way to Havre for delivery there.

Mexic-American Pact Signed At Last

Washington.—Unofficial information that Alberto J. Pani, who carried to General Carranba the border protection protocol, agreed to at Atlantic City, was on his way back to the United States from Mexico was construed at the state department as an indication that the first chief had ratified the document. The joint commission that drafted the protocol adjourned November 23 to reassemble Decemebr 8, if Carranza's action was favorable.

GERMAN PLEDGES TO U. S. VIOLATED

THIS IS NOW DEFINITELY HELD IN WASHINGTON FOLLOWING INVESTIGATION.

NEW NOTE SENT GERMANY

In the Case of the Arabia, Further Information Is Desired Before Action Is Taken.

Washington.—Information assembled at the state department and believed by some officials to present clear cut violation of German pledges in the sinking of the British steamer Marina, with the loss of six American lives, has been forwarded to Berlin for submission to the German foreign office.

It was announced at the department that the evidence had been sent as a matter of courtesy, to allow the imperial government to offer any other facts it may have before the United States takes its next step. Officials indicated also that any move by this government might be delayed until complete information concerning the British liner Arabia, for which Great Britain has been asked, could be sent to Berlin.

In response to inquiries, Germany has admitted the torpedoing without warning of both the Arabia and Marina, stating that her submarine commanders took them for transports, and asking the United States to furnish any evidence it might have to the contrary. In the case of the Arabia, Great Britain has been requested to furnish official data to establish whether the Peninsula and Oriental liner was in government service, although all information at hand indicates that when sent down she was passing through the Mediterreanean on a regular voyage with passengers and freight.

As to the Marina, officials regard the case as complete. According to the evidence, while carrying a cargo of horses and other freight, she was torpedoed and sunk without warning 100 miles from shore in a high sea, with no provision for the safety of those on board. Many horse tenders, including six Americans, were lost. Investigation has developed, it is said, that the ship had not been under charter or reequisition by the British government at any time during the war, but had transported horses at so much per head for the allies.

It is generally believed that when President Wilson and Secretary Lansing are ready to act, the next step will take the form of a communication to clear up any doubt that may exist at Berlin as to the interpretation given by the American government to German pledges after the sinking of the Sussex.

ESTIMATE OF COTTON CROP.

Final Figures of Government Show Much Smaller Yield Than Large Acreage Warranted.

Washington.—Further reduction in the estimated size of this year's cotton crop was recorded in the Department of Agriculture's final report, putting the production at 11,511,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, exclusive of linters. That is 126,000 bales less than the forecast after the last condition report in October.

Indications at the beginning of the growing season were that a crop of approximately 14,266,000 bales would be produced, bu tstorms and insects wrought havoc with the growing plants as the season progressed.

The average price per pound paid to producers of cotton on December 1 was 19.6 cents. At that price the season's crop is worth $1,079,351,616, exclusive of the value of linter cotton and seeds.

Last year 11,191,820 equivalent 500-pound bales were grown, and during the five years, 1910 to 1914, the average was 14,259,231 bales. The record crop was grown in 1914, when 16,134,930 bales were produced.

Production by states with last year's crop figures for comparison follow:

ROAD BUILDING

POOR ROADS DURING WINTER

Bad Condition in Majority of Cases Due to Improper Drainage—Description of Log Drag.

The almost impassable condition of dirt roads during the winter and spring months is in a majority of cases due to improper drainage. If the surface of the road were once leveled by grading and the ditches properly opened up, then the roads dragged often enough to keep the ruts and horse tracks filled and the surface level, the water would drain off and the road would be much better, writes R. R. Milligan of Lawrence county, Ill., in Farmer's Review. The water which accumulates upon the surface of a road that is not level and is improperly drained must stand until it evaporates or soaks into the soil. The part which soaks into the soil causes it to become soft and miry.

It is a very good plan to drag dirt roads at least once each week during the winter months and oftener if needed. I think it would be well for farmers living on dirt roads to enter into an agreement by which each man is to drag the roads along land farmed by him once each week, or better still pass laws compelling farmers to drag the roads adjoining their farms. During the spring months the drag is the best as well as the cheapest tool to be had for assisting dirt roads to become dry and solid.

There are many different types of road drags on the market, but most of these are rather expensive for the farmer to keep for his own use. A drag that will do the work practically as well as any of these may be made by a small amount of labor and slight cost as follows: Take a log of any hard wood (white oak preferred), 6 to 8 feet in length and measuring 6 or 7 inches at the top. Using and ordinary maul and wedge, split it into two equal parts. Through each piece bore a hole 1½ or 2 inches in diameter, 1 foot from each end. Then bore another half way between these two holes. Cut three round sticks, each 3 feet long, and taper them at the ends so that they will fit the holes in the logs. Using these pieces, join the two parts of the logs together, placing the round sides of the logs one way and the flat sides the other. Boards may then be placed on the logs for the driver to stand on or to place weights upon, if needed. The round sides of the logs should be used in front and the flat sides behind. It should be pulled by a chain fastened to each end of the drag and the doubletrees fastened in the middle of the chain. Better results are obtained if the chain is made longer at one end so the drag will run diagonally on the road, allowing mud and water to run to one side.

The road should be dragged once on each side with the driver standing on the outside of the drag.

RAILROAD TRACK PULLED UP

Use of Tractor Makes It Unnecessary to Remove Rails From Ties—Work Done Speedily.

A steam tractor was employed recently to pull up a stretch of abandoned railroad track in a street, in Redlands, Cal., which was about to be paved, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The city, having decided to improve this thoroughfare, which was once a railroad right of way, desired to remove the rails and ties in the quickest possible manner, with not too great expense.

The plan of employing a tractor made it unnecessary to remove the rails from the ties, or to laboriously pry the structure loose by hand. Before the engine was hitched to the track, some of the dirt between the ties was removed, and the tractor was then able to pull out sections about 20 feet long with considerable rapidity. In two days over a mile of track was torn up.

DRAGGING ROADS AFTER RAIN

Professor Etheridge of Florida Recommends Use of King Split-Log Drag—Made Cheaply.

Farmers living on sand-clay and dirt roads should take time after each rain to drag the road that runs along their property. This is done extensively in the northern states. It takes very little time for any person and yet the roads are kept in good shape.

Dr. C. W. Etheridge, professor of agronomy in the University of Florida, recommends the use of the King split log drag. This drag can be made at a low cost and used by anyone who can drive a team.

Aerate After Milking.

Aerate the milk right away after milking and save the loss of the whole mess. A few turns of the elbow will do it, and it is well worth while.

Expensive to Build.

Good roads, like all other good things, are too expensive to build and of too much value to be neglected.

Build Permanent Roads.

Let's build good, permanent roads when we build, remembering the best is always the cheapest.

Final Triumphs in Winter Millinery

Winter millinery closes its brilliant career with rich and picturesque dress hats that are its final triumph. It must make way for sports hats designed for those who journey South to meet the springtime. But so great a variety of graceful shapes offer themselves for the benefit of those who stay at home that there is no need to wish for others.

Three handsome midwinter models, shown in the picture, represent something of the latitude in choice of shapes that the season admits. The materials in them, and their trimmings, have all won the approval of fashionable women with discernment in dress. The picture speaks with authority and offers a model for the matron and two for younger women.

The wide-brimmed hat, with picturesque "flop" brim, is of white felt with a very wide border on the upper brim. This border is made of white satin brocaded with silver in a delicate pattern. The hat is faced with crepe georgette, and is an effective background for an elaborate ornament. The ornament is a moleskin medallion bordered with white ostrich feathers, supporting an airy spray.

A smart Puritan shape has a wide crushed collar of velvet laced with silver ribbon run through eyelets. The ribbon ties in a bow at the base of the crown. The third hat is of velvet with the narrow brim and part of the side crown covered with a handsome band of embroidery. It is trimmed with a curious upstanding fancy feather which might be replaced by plumes for the dignified matron for whom it is designed.

Avalanche of Pockets.

Pockets started to be the fashion a couple of seasons ago. No one looked, however, for the avalanche of pockets which seem to have tumbled on to dresses for all times of day. On sport coats and dresses they are so large that they are really draped on to the sides of the garment. They are mostly patch pockets, the tops adorned with a narrow fur band. In one or two models the whole pocket is of fur like the collar and cuffs.

Smart Fashions in Bags

There is no getting away from it, one must carry an elegant bag by way of adding the correct finishing touch to almost any toilet. The plain leather bag is abashed in the face of its silken and ornate rivals. It dare not be seen except for morning marketing or on a journey. There is a furor for handsome fancy bags, and they are all more or less beaded and embroidered.

In the picture a beautiful bag made of black taffeta shows how much is done to enrich the fashionable bag worn in the streets today. Utility has been considered in it, as well as style and beauty, and it is practical for carrying the purse and other belongings of its wearer.

At the top and bottom of the bag the silk is bordered with a band of black velvet. Nothing makes so fine a background for an embroidery of steel beads. A single row of spangles defines the edges of the velvet borders, and a bead fringe hangs from the upper one. A narrow band of fur adds a hint of winter, placed along the band at the bottom of the bag. The handle is made of velvet-covered cords twined together. All the work on these much-ornamented and much-desired dress accessories is done by hand and they are the glory of the needlewoman.

Another equally attractive and little more intricate bag for the fastidiously gowned lady to carry is of a plain-color velvet with a sort of pointed over-lap of striped silk of corresponding color. Each point is neatly and charmingly finished with a beaded ornament, and from the center point is suspended a silken tassel. Loops of satin ribbon form the handle.

Artistic Color Schemes.

Brown tulle or chiffon is often used in artistic color schemes, veiling other colors smokily, as in the case of an odd and beautiful deep greenish blue over which brown chiffon was thrown, with a little fur and metal embroidery for trimming; but these effects call for an artist's color sense, and the one-tone frocks of this "putty" and "beige" and "taupe" class are a safer proposition. In satin of considerable luster they have more life than in material of dull surface, and are often becoming where other material in the same color scheme would be trying.

Vases of Silver.

Graceful and useful table ornaments which are new are of vases of silver, not large, but tall and slender, each with two candle holders and filigree silver shades at the top. One vase may be used alone in the center of a small table, or two at the respective ends of a long one.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 17

THE HOLY CITY.

LESSON TEXT—Rev. 21:1-7, 22-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he shall dwell with them, and they shall be his people.—Rev. 21:3.

As we approach the end of the year, our minds turn from the imperial city, where last we have any authentic record of Paul, to the eternal city in which he has so long resided. In lesson ten we studied Jesus Christ in his resurrection glory, the source of all power, King of Kings and Lord of Lords for the redemption of the human race. In Lesson 11 we studied the glorified Christ who is actually working through his churches as the representatives of his kingdom upon earth. The succeeding chapters describe in symbols and pictures the discipline and training of God's people during the long generations that followed. In the lesson for today, we have a vision of the final triumph of Christianity when it shall have accomplished its work of redemption in this world.

I. The New Heaven and the New Earth (vv. 1-7). John in vision saw the consummation of the work of Christianity, the visible answer to the prayer which Jesus Christ taught his disciples to pray, "thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven." Heaven, as well as earth, has been invaded and polluted by sin, but both alike are to be made new. (I Peter 3:10, 11, 13). The true Jerusalem, of which Solomon's was but a type, is of heavenly and divine origin. It comes down out of heaven from God. We know nothing of the inhabitants of the universe of which we are a part, but here we have some scriptural indication of that place where God's children are to be with him eternally. The kingdom of God is among you, but it is eventually to be with God and Jesus in a peculiar and beautiful way. John's announcement came from out of heaven and out of the throne. (1) It was a tabernacle of God with men; rather he shall tabernacle with men. He is to pitch his tent among us (John 1:14 R. V. marg.) It is to be done eventually and permanently. This dwelling of God among us lies at the foundation of the blessedness and glories which are to follow. (2) They shall be his people. Israel had been his people; all nations are to be his people in the fullest sense. (3) God himself shall be with them, not only his tabernacle but he, himself visibly, personally. (4) He shall be their God, acknowledged in all his infinite claims, and he to them all that God is of love, power, wisdom, holiness and glory. (5) He shall wipe away every tear from their eyes. There will not be a single grief or heartache, unsatisfied longing or tear, for God shall wipe them away, and they will stay wiped away. (6) Death shall be no more. Of all the enemies, death is the last one which shall be taken from the earth. It is sweet to know that this last enemy is to be conquered. (7) There shall be no mourning, crying or pain any more. Every sorrow, agony, remorse, gloom, disappointment gone forever; death, tears, mourning all passed away. It is hard for us to comprehend the majesty and sweep of this great and glorious promise. (See I Cor. 15).

II. The Coming Light and Glory (vv. 22-27). The intervening verses are a wonderful description of the foundation walls and gates of the city. There will be no temple in that city for it will not be needed. Instead of the temple which stands for the temple of earth there is to be the presence of God, himself, but the lamb is also in the midst of it. Nothing can more forcefully impress upon us the deity and preeminence of Jesus Christ, the atoning lamb, slain before the foundation of the world. This city is to be a city of light and glory. It will not be an illumination by gas nor electricity, for the glory of the Lord shall lighten it.

Summary. What are the lessons for our day from this vision of the new heaven and the new earth? First: That the golden age of the Bible has not yet taken place. There are better times to come than anything the world has yet seen. Second: We have here the positive assurance of the success of our leader and the victory of Christianity in its conflict with evil. Third: The golden ideal of heaven is the means by which we can test our daily lives and the whole course of our conduct. The question we should constantly ask is, "Are we going to this heavenly ideal?" Fourth: The gates of that city are open; an angel is at each gate, and shall keep out all evil.

God desires that all men everywhere should repent, and is not willing that any should perish.

When the final assize shall have passed, no one will say that God did not give him a chance nor seek to inspire him to a place of eternal joy at his right hand.

Again there is to be federation of the forces of good. Today we too often find Christian people divided.

Invitation. "And the Spirit and the bride say come, let him that heareth say come, and let him that is athirst come, and whosoever will let him take of the water of life freely."

MANDAMUS CASE UP DECEMBER 9

WILL BE BROUGHT UP DURING THE CALL OF THE THIRD DIVISION.

AT THE STATE'S CAPITAL

Interesting News Budget of Happenings in Various Departments of State.

—Montgomery.

The mandamus cases in which the governor is petitioned to show why he should not approve the accounts held against the state treasury by Attorney General Martin. Assistant Attorney General Turner, of Birmingham, and James R. Daly, a Birmingham detective, will be tried in the supreme court on an appeal from the Montgomery circuit court December 19, according to Mr. Martin's statement. The cases will be brought up during the call of the third division which includes Montgomery, Lowndes, Escambia, Conecuh and Autauga counties.

State Treasury Receives Big Sum.

Money is rapidly coming into the State Treasury, but just as rapidly is rolling out again to meet the indebtedness contracted months back by the issuance of State warrants to be paid later. The money now coming in has either been hypothecated or will have to be spent to meet the expenses of December and January.

In three days the state was enriched to the tune of $470,000. The source of this revenue is from county tax collectors and probate judges. School teachers have to be paid their November salaries, which amount to $300,000.

In addition to the teachers' salaries the Treasury will have to fill up with more funds as January 1 the interest on the bonded indebtedness of the State will have to be paid. It amounts to $178,725.

Oil Mills Can Help Farmers.

Emmet A. Jones, Managing Director of the Alabama Chamber of Commerce, in observing that machinery to grind a velvet bean did not grind it fine enough, made an immediate investigation of the machinery used for the purpose of grinding cotton seed.

The result of his observation shows that the oil mills of Alabama have and will perform another service for the farmers of the State. The machinery used for grinding cotton seed oil cakes, grind velvet beans in the pod finer and better than the machinery made for this purpose. Mr. Jones said the principal difficulty in the velvet bean meal was that it was not ground fine enough, consequently the cattle do not get the full feed value, but the cotton seed machinery grinds it to a powder, which is ideal for cattle and hogs.

Mr. Jones says there are millions of dollars invested in Alabama in cotton seed machinery and the State now has another interest. There were, he said, a number of such plants practically idle throughout the State and they can now start up grinding the velvet bean in the pod. Montgomery is now doing this and also Luverne.

Host Liable for Damages.

The Supreme Court handed down a decision to the effect that if a man invites another to take an auto ride that if his guest is killed in an accident the host is liable for damages.

The case came on an appeal from the Gadsden City Court, in which Charles Calloway was sued by Ira Perkins, administrator of the estate of William Perkins, who was killed while riding in the auto at the invitation of Calloway. The latter was sued for $25,000 and the Gadsden City Court awarded damages of 2,000. Calloway appealed.

In rendering his decision Judge Mayfield held that it was the duty of the defendant not to injure an invited passenger and he should have experienced ordinary care not to injure him.

Annual Meetings of County Boards.

The county boards of education, at its session here voted to permanently organize and hold annual meetings hereafter during the summer or early fall. City boards of education will be invited to join. State Superintedent Feagin made a strong appeal for the selection of competent superintendents, telling the board members that with the power that the law gives them to make this choice, it is with them as to whether they shall attain an efficient county school system.

SPECIAL ARTICLES

We are publishing every week a special bulletin from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, regarding some subject vitally interesting to farmers of the south, who are to-day facing a great crisis, as a result of the ravages of the boll weevil.

This week's bulletin deals with poultry raising, and should by all means be read and practiced by our farmers here in Chilton county.

The Bulletins were furnished us by Mr. J. N. Dennis, and it is at his request that we publish them. Mr. Dennis strongly recommends that our farmers practice what is given out in these articles, for he sees a great good that might come to those who would do so.

Mr Dennis takes first rank as one of the most up-to-the-minute and best informed farmers in our county, and no one would greatly err, if at all, in taking heed to what his judgment would suggest as being worth while and of value.

Next week we will publish another Bulletin on some other subject.

REMAKING SUPREME COURT

One of the greatest menances which the reelection of President Wilson has brought upon the country, and one which is little realized by the rank and file, is the fact that when his second term has ended he will probaply have appointd sven of the nine Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. Already three vacancies have occurred and been filled during his administration, and failing health and old age are likely to provide further opportunities for the exercise of the Presidentil appointing power during the next four years. Probably never before has such a situation presented itself, and it is particularly unfortunate that it should occur at a time when the White House is occupied by a man notorious for his debauchery of the Civil Service, the consular service, and who uses the entire appointing power of the Executive to meet political exigencies.

NOT AN UNMIXED BLESSING

The publication of some of the telegrams of congratulation which the President has received and of his answers thereto reveals that he wired to each member of the Cabinet these pregnant words: "One of the best things about the result is that it means four years more of active association in public service, and in that I genuinely rejoice." The country, however, will not be so joyful. If four years more of Wilson means also four years more of Daniels and Redfield, it certainly cannot be looked upon as an unmixed blessing.

"The President doesn't want a third tem. He didn't want a second, but, against his will, the people forced it on him." This is from the pen of a warm admirer of Mr. Wilson. It reminds us of the ancient story of the schoolboy describing a lobster. "A lobster," he wrote, "is a fish which is red". His teacher made this comment upon the margin: "The lobster is not a fish. It is not red. Aside from that, the essay is correct."

Suggestions on Poultry For Southern Farmers

The following article is prepared in the U. S. Burau of Animal Industry, by a special expert on the poultry raising business.

The southern farmer, by virtue of his location and climate, is splendidly situated for the production of fowls and eggs. The mild winters and early springs make the production of eggs an easy matter when prices are high.

On many farms throughout the country the money derived from the sale of poultry and eggs buys the groceries and clothing for the entrie family. Every southern farmer can do as well, and should aim to keep at least 50 hens for laying purposes and home consumption. Select some of the American breeds, such as the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, or the Rhode Island Reds. The Orphingtons are also a good general-purpose breed.

Housing the Poultry

On almost any farm there can be fitted up, with very little, if any cost for the new material, a poultry house that will answer all the purposes of more expensive buildings for keeping poultry. The essentials to success in housing are fresh air, sunshine, a dry floor, and a building that is free from drafts. The house must be free from drafts or the birds will catch cold. Colds are forerunners of roup and other diseases.

Feeding the Flock

It takes a healthy, well-fed flock to produce eggs. Fowls must not be allowed to become too fat, as but few eggs will be laid by hens in such condition. To prevent their getting overfat it is best to make them work for most of their feed by scratching in a litter composed of about 4 inches of dry straw, leaves or chaff. The following rations wil give good results when proper care is given to their feeding:

One pound oats 2 pounds corn 2 pounds corn meal 1 pound rice brand or wheat bran 1 pound cottonseed meal.

One pound oats 2 pounds corn, kafir corn, or milo maize 1 pound broken rice or peanuts 2 pounds corn meal 2 pounds rice bran 1 pound cottonseed meal.

One pound oats 1 pound wheat or barley 1 pound corn or kafir corn 2 pounds wheat bran 2 pounds wheat middlings 2 pounds corn meal or corn chop 1½ pounds cottonseed meal.

Ten per cent or less of beef scrap may be added to the mash in all of the rations with good results. Skim milk or butter milk is excellent for poultry. Green feeds, such as cabbages, mangel beets, alfalfa or clover, should be added to these rations when grass is not available.

How to Set a Hen, And Her Care While Sitting

When it is noted that a hen sits on the nest for two or three nights in succession, she is ready to be transferred to a nest, which should be prepared for her beforehand. This nest should be in a box and composed of straw, hay, or chaff for nesting material. Dust the hen thoroughly with insect powder each week while she is sitting. In applying the powder hold the hen by the feet, head down, working the powder well into the feathers, giving special attention to regions around the vent and under the wings. The powder should also be sprinkled in the nest. The nest should bein some uiet, out-of-the way place on the farm, where the sitting hen will not be disturbed. Move her from the regular laying nest at night. Put a china egg or two in the nest where she is to sit and place a board over the opening so she can not get off. Toward evening of the second day leave some feed and water and let the hen come off the nest when she is ready. Should she return to the nest after feeding, remove the china egg or eggs and put under her those that are to be incubated. In cool weather it is best to put not more than 10 eggs under a hen, while later in the spring one can put 12 to 15, according to the size of the hen. If eggs become broken while hen is sitting, replace the nest with new, clean material, and wash the eggs in lukewarm water so as to remove all the broken-egg material from them.

Testing The Eggs

Many eggs that are laid are infertile. For this reason it is advisable to set several hens at the same time. After the eggs have been under the hen for seven days they should be tested to see whether they are fertile or infertile. Infertile eggs should be removed and used at home in cooking or for omelets, and the fertile eggs should be put back under the hen. In this way it is often possible to put al the eggs that three hens originally started to sit on under two hens and reset the other hen again. A good homemade egg tester or candler can be made from a large shoe box, or any box that is large enough to go over a lamp, by removing an end and cutting a hole a little larger than the size of a quarter in the bottom of the box, so that when it is set over a common kerosene lamp the hole in the bottom will be opposite the blaze. A hole the size of a silver dollar should be cut in the top of the box to allow the heat to escape. An infertile egg, when held before the small hole with a lamp lighted inside the box, will look perfectly clear, the same as a fresh one, while a fertile egg will show a small dark spot, known as the embryo, with a mass of little blood veins extending in all directions if the embryo is living. The testing should be done in a dark room.

Care of The Hen And Chicks

If the eggs hatch enevenly, those which are slow in hatching may be placed under other hens, as hens often get restless after a part of the chickens are out, allowing the remaining eggs to become cooled at the very time when steady heat is necessary. Hens should be fed as soon as possible after the eggs are hatched, as feeding tends to keep them quiet; otherwise many hens will leave the nest. In most cases it is best that the hen remain on the nest and brood the chickens for at least 24 hours after the hatching is over. Chickens hatched during the winter should be brooded in a poultry house or shed while the outside weather conditions are unfavorable; after the weather becomes settled, they should be reared in brood coops out of doors. Brood coops should be made so that they can bec losed at night to keep out cats, rats, and other animals, and enough ventilation should be allowed so that the hen and chicks will have plenty of fresh air. Hens wil successfully brood 10 to 15 chickens early in the breeding season, and 18 to 25 in warm weather, depending upon the size of the hen.

The hen should be confined in the coop until the chicks are weaned, while the chicks are allowed free range after they are a few days old. Where hens are allowed free range and have to forage for feed for themselves and chicks they often take them through wet grass, where the chicks may become chilled and die. Then, too, in most broods there are one or two chicks that are weaker than the others, and if the hen is allowed free range the weaker ones often get behind and out of hearing of the mother's cluck and call. In most cases this results in the loss and death of these chicks, due to their becoming chilled. The loss in young chicks due to allowing the hen free range is undoubtedly large.

Chickens frequently have to be caught and put into their coops during sudden storms, as they are apt to huddle in some hole or corner where they get chilled or drowned. They must be kept growing constantly if the best results are to be obtained, as they never entirely recover from checks in their growth even for a short period. Hens should be left with the chicks as long as they will brood them.

Feeding Young Chickens

Young chickesn should be fed from three to five times daily, depending upon one's experience in feeding. Undoubtedly chickens can be grown faster by feeding five times daily than by feeding three times daily, but it should be borne in mind that more harm can be done to the young chickens by overfeeding than by underfeeding, and at no time should they be fed more than enough to satisfy their appetites—and to keep them exercising—except at the evening or last meal, when they should be given all they will eat. Greater care must be exercised not to overfeed young chicks that are confined than those that have free range, as leg weakness is apt to result.

The young chicks may be fed any time after they are 36 to 48 hours old. The first feed may contain hard-boiled eggs, johhnycake (1 dozen infertile eggs to 10 pounds of corn meal; add enough milk to make a pasty mass, and 1 tablespoonful of baking soda), stale bread, pinhead oatmeal, or rolled oats. Dry bread crumbs or rolled oats may be mixed with hard-boiled eggs, making about one-fourth of the mixture eggs. Feed the bread crumbs, rolled oats, or johnnycake mixtures five times daily for the first week, then gradually substitute for one or two feeds of the mixture finely cracked grains of equal parts by weight of cracked wheat, cracked corn, and pinhead oatmeal or hulled oats, to which about 5 per cent of cracked peas or broken rice and 2 per cent of charcoal, millet, or rape seed may be added. A commercial chick feed may be substituted if desired. The above ration can be fed until the chicks are two weeks old, when they should be placed on grain and a dry or wet mash mixture. Mashes mixed with milk are of consideralble value in giving the chickens a good start in life, but the mixtures should be fed in a crumbly mass and not in a sloppy condition.

As soon as the chickens will eat whole wheat, cracked corn, and other grains, the small-sized chick feed can be eliminated. In addition to the above feeds the chickens' growth can be hastened if they are given sour milk, skim milk, or buttermilk to drink. Growing chickens kept on range may be given all their feed in a hopper, using as a grain mixture two parts by weight of cracked corn and one part of wheat, and for a mash mixture any of those given for laying hens. If beef scrap is to be fed, it is advisable to wait until the chicks are 10 days old. Chickens confined to small yards should be supplied with green feed, such as lettuce, sprouted oats, alfalfa, or clover, but the best place to raise chickens successfully is on a good range where no extra green feed is required.

Some Poultry Hints

Allow the hens free range. Wire in the garden, not the hens. Stronger fertility is secured from birds on range.

Remove the mail birds from the flock as soon as the hatching season is over, so as to produce infirtile eggs.

Infirtile eggs are produced by hens having no mail birds with them.

Infirtile eggs keep much better than those that are fertile.

The mail bird has no influnce on the number of eggs laid.

The hen's greatest profit-producing period is the first and second years.

February and March are the best hatching months. Chicks hatched during these months are freer from sore head than those hatched later.

Do not allow sitting hens to remain in the hen house. By so doing many eggs are started to incubate, which renders them unfit for use at home or to market.

If possible place the brod coops near the corn field, which furnishes both shade and fresh ground.

The free use of kerosene or crude petruleum on the rosts, dropping boards, in cracks, and around the nests will exterminate mites. Whitwash is also good.

Spray the brood coops once a week with some of these solutions and move to fresh ground.

Be sure and feed the table scraps to the fowls. Milk is one of the best feeds for egg production.

Write to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletins on poultry. They are free for the asking.

Kirstin Stump Puller

One Man — Horse Power

The Kirstin Method guarantees a saving of 10% to 50% over all other methods of land clearing. The Kirstin Method not only pulls your stumps but gets rid of them after they are pulled.

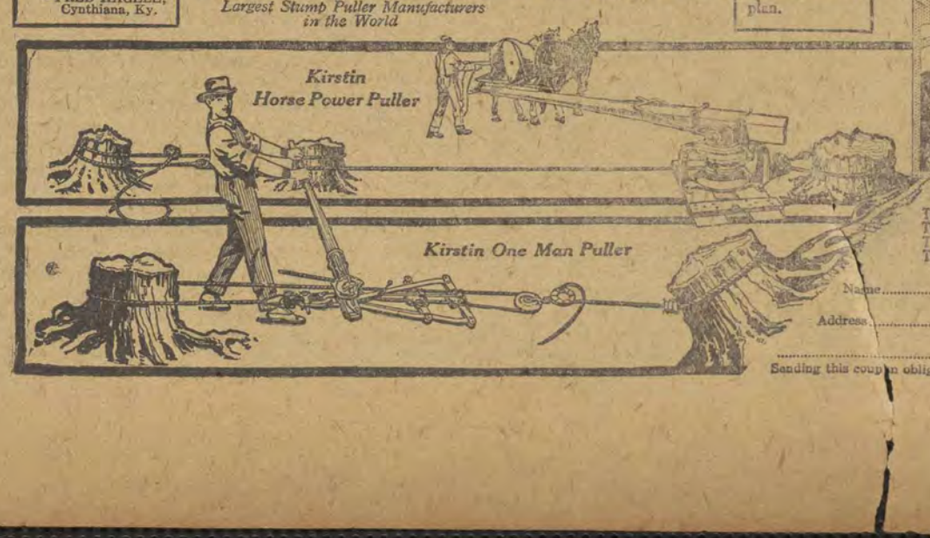
Yank out your stumps! Transform your no-man's-land into money-making, cultivated fields. Gold is under your stumps—get it out, put it in bank. Clear your land and produce big crops.

The Kirstin Method clears land ready for the plow. It has vastly increased the productive value of more than 35,000 farms, most of them in the South.

No deeply imbedded tap root is too big for the Kirstin Horse Power Puller. Its mighty strength is irresistible because of its triple power and other exclusive Kirstin features. It will clear more than two acres at one setting without strain to man, horse or machine. It has been the leader for 21 years.

One man without horses can pull the biggest stumps, too, with the Kirstin One Man Puller. A little push on the handle gives tons of pull on the stump. This enormous power is developed by use of double leverage. It gives an ordinary 17-year-old farm boy a giant's power.

My Kirstin has pulled trees with tap roots larger than the bodies of the trees; roots tapering down 19 feet and laterals 24 feet. I have pulled everything I ever hitched to.
—R. L. MAINLAND, Davenport, Fla.



I cannot give the Kirstin too much praise; it does all you claim. Can pull anything I anchor to. It cost only 3c to 5c per stump to clear my land.
—FRED HAGELE, Cynthiana, Ky.

Send for Free Book We want you to read our new book, "The Gold in Your Stump Land." It contains lots of valuable information on all kinds of land clearing. RAVAGES OF WHITE PLAGUE MAY BE CURBED BY CARE

The Simple Truth by Rev. Geo. Eaves, D. D., Secretary of the Alabama Anti-Tuberculosis League.

Since the gigantic discovery of Dr. Robert Koch in 1882 the world has known that tuberculosis, or consumption, is not inherited, but given by contagion or infection from persons who have the disease in an open or active form.

The reason why it seems to run in families is that families generally live close together in the same house or even in the same room. Thus the house becomes infected. Children are peculiarly susceptible, but the germ of tuberculosis does not quickly multiply even in children. It appears to hide itself in the glandular system, and may not promote active disease for several years. Many such germs are destroyed by the healthy child's tissues. And yet it is common for one consumptive death in a family to be followed, soon or later, by the death of survivors from the same disease. They were repeatedly infected, and when their resistance became lowered, perhaps by some acute sickness (fever, or a "common cold," for instance), the debilitated body became a prey to the waiting, latent tuberculosis germ.

Yet it would have been easy to avoid the infection"

ALL THE DANGER LIES IN THE MOISTURE EXHALED FROM THE CONSUMPTIVE'S LUNGS OR THE THROAT"

The spit should be burned, and the sick person should never force his wet breath in the face of another. The attendant should keep children from contact with the patient; none should kiss his lips or in any indirect way come into contact with the germ-bearing moisture.

Common sense, not panic fear, is the right and kind teacher. Of course, for his own sake, the patient should be kept in the open air as much as possible, and fed generously.

Now these are the things we want to teach to everyone. We want to encourage the formation in every vicinity, of groups or associations of the best people who will help bring these facts into every family, white or black. Apparently one in six of us will die of consumption. In some counties the proportion is one in four.

Those who die of it are young men and women, between 15 and 35 years. What a tragedy. And it is needless. It is avoidable. But only by the people knowing that salvation from consumption is in their own hands:

First—By avoiding infection, without fear or cowardice.

Second—By building up resistance and taking proper care after acute fever, etc.

We want to send a teacher or lecturer to every county, to form a hospital or sanatorium in every section of the State, to co-operate with health authorities and doctors everywhere to make tuberculosis as rare as yellow fever has become. It can be done.

Hence, we want to sell five Red Cross Seals to everyone in Alabama, or at that rate. This is more than ten times the number ever sold in a previous year. They are our only source of income. All who can must buy all they can or else the average will be disheartening. BOOST! BUY!

Tuberculosis kills approximately 5,000 persons annually in this State, one-tenth of them in Jefferson county alone. For every one who is killed there are at least five others desperately sick of the same disease.

URGE MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS FOR ALL.

National Observance December 6. Reasons Why Overhauling Is Necessary.

Plans for the observance of National Medical Examination Day on December 6 have been announced.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, together with other organizations, is advocating an annual medical examination for every person, sick or well, and December 6 has been set aside as one of the feature days of Tuberculosis Week, December 3 to 10. Anti-tuberculosis associations, state and local boards of health, women's clubs and other societies are co-operating to interest everyone possible in the subject of at least one medical examination a year, preferably on this special day. Physicians will make special arrangements to devote December 6 to medical examinations, and clinics and dispensaries will prepare to receive those who cannot afford to pay a physician.

Some of the reasons why the human machine should be inspected at least annually, as given in a free pamphlet on "Periodic Medical Examinations," and this will be supplied to any editor, minister, doctor or citizen who will write to the Alabama Anti-Tuberculosis League, Birmingham, Ala.

Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill., General Sales Manager of the largest concern of its kind in the world, wants three or four men in Chilton County and several men in adjoining counties, to work for him spare time or all the time. He can use only those who have a rig or auto. Work is very pleasant and no previous selling experience is necessary. Work consists of leaving a wonderful new household necessity in the homes on free trial. Tests at more than thirty of the leading Universities and the Government Bureau of Standards show this new article to be four times as efficient as article now in general use in this connection. Article is needed in every rural home and benefits every member of the household, bringing cheer, comfort and happiness into the home. Not necessary to be away from home at nights. Pay from $6.00 to $15.00 per day according to ability and number of homes visited. In writing Mr. Sheppy, mention what townships will be most convenient for you to work in; what your regular occupation is; your age; married or single; how long you have lived in the community; what kind of a rig or auto you have; whether you wish to work spare time or steady; how much time you will have to devote to the work; when you can start and about how many homes are within six miles of you in each direction. This is a splendid opportunity for several men in Chilton County and counties adjoining to make good money, working steady or spare time. Some of the field men earn $300.00 per month; one farmer earned $1,000.00 working spare time only. No investment or bond necesary.

Miss Pearly Davis says: "My mother had sick headache and felt bad and drowsy all the time. She began taking Granger Liver Regulator, and it has done her more good than all the medicine she had taken before." Miss Davis now knows it is true that Granger Liver Regulator is the most thorough and pleasant purifier of the system known, despite the fact that it is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol whatsoever. NATURE'S GIFT TO MAN

On a high cliff, in the pine woods, near one of the famous health resorts of South Alabama, is a mine of Health and Good Cheer stored up for those who have wandered too far from the touch of the great out-of-doors and have become the slaves of a too strenuous civilization and a too rapid rate of living.

For those who have become "all run down," for those who have physically crumbled and given away under the rack and torture of worn out stomachs and indigestion in its various forms; for those who are pale and weak for those who have lost the sense that responds to the call for the dinner bell for those who are declining in weight as well as for the universal family of pale-faces and anaemic, Nature stored this wonderful mine. The building was, perhaps, slow, but it was sure, for IRON and MAGNESIA were the chief working tools used in the construction of the Mine.

But nature does not always work out a method of destruction for her richest gifts.

And, so the Frankville Medicine Company, through the science of its chemists, has caught up nature and confined it in bottles, labelled it with a man-made name and because the remedy was good has called it FERRALINE.

The Frankville Medicine Company offers FERRALINE for sale in the several forms best suited to the needs of the people:

As a tonic, which sells for a dollar a bottle, and brings benefits by the thousand; as a cough syrup which sells for twenty-five cents, and is admitted by all to be the best, most pleasing and attractive cough mixture on the market; and as a salve, which relieves and cures eczema, burns, cuts, bruises, sores and all skin diseases—being in itsself an emergency chest for the household.

Farmers, Laborers, Doctors and Lawyers believe in FERRALINE and attest its merits.

FERRALINE contains no trace of Alcohol nor Opium; so if you desire a drug jag or sleepy hour, do not invest in FERRALINE.

FERRALINE is NATURE corraled in bottles, labeled, advertised and sold, and, if taken according to directions it will put roses in faded cheeks, a spring into the faltering step, and ginger into the listless anaemic who has lost hope and energy.

FERRALINE makes RED BLOOD —America's greatest need.

FERRALINE is not too pround to fight—it daily reinforces the red corpuscles in the great battle waged against disease—a war of far greater importance than was the war in Merry Old England between the Red and the White.

In these columns, from day to day, we will tell you the personal stories of those who have felt the touch of Nature, known the value of restored red blood and again joined in the activities of every-day life.

Learn to read the FERRALINE column. It will be interesting and profitable.

In your own city FERRALINE Products are sold by Alred Drug Company.

They guarantee every bottle. The guarantee is simple. Only your word that you have not been benefited entieles you to get your money back.

Remember the FERRALINE Store. It is the place where Nature abides and Health is purchased in conveniently put up packages, usually in bottles.

Sold in Jemison by Shaw Drug Co., and inRandolph by C. W. Brand.

FARM POULTRY

CULL OUT ALL NONPRODUCERS

Common and Serious Mistake in Overcrowding Quarters With Fowls—Apparent in Winter.

One of the most common and serious mistakes made by poultry men is that of overcrowding the quarters with birds. This is more apparent in the winter than in the summer, and is responsible for greater losses at this season than during warm weather.

In the summer months one rarely finds all the birds in their quarters at any one time, especially in the case of farm flocks. If the house is too crowded or for other reasons is not to the liking of the birds, they will find roosting quarters in the trees or on outbuildings. But during the winter the whole flock is forced to roost in the house, and from the condition of some farm poultry houses the marvel is that there is not more disease such as roup, colds and similar troubles. Most of these houses are tightly closed at night, and on opening in the morning one sees the birds packed on the inadequate roosts, often almost to suffocation. The air is close and bad, due to lack of ventilation. The all-night breathing of the birds has loaded the air with moisture, and when the cold air strikes them they fairly steam. To turn them out into the cold in that condition means to invite the whole category of diseases affecting the respiratory organs.

To obviate this difficulty in the case of the average farm flock the best plan would be not to build larger quarters, but to reduce the size of the flock, culling out the "boarders" and nonproducers. One of the best-known authorities on scientific poultry raising says that if he were assigned the task of making the farm poultry flocks of this country double their return in profits he would accomplish it by reducing the size of the average flock by one-half and putting purebred males with those left.

Good Laying Type.

RUNNER IS NOTED FOR EGGS

Breed First Found in India Was Perfected in England—Too Small for Market Fowls.

The Runner duck was perfected in England, althought first found in India. Importations have been made from India as lately as 1898, but they have become so well disseminated that it is not necessary to go back to their native country for new blood.

This breed is noted for its laying qualities, the ducks frequently laying as many as 200 eggs in a year and a record of 160 eggs is not considered at all remarkable. The eggs are larger than those of hens, but not so large as those of other ducks.

The drakes weigh up to four and one-half and the ducks to four pounds. The prevailing color is a pleasing shade of fawn. They have narrow heads, rather long necks, a very upright carriage and instead of waddling like other ducks they ran very rapidly, a trait which gives them their name.

While too small to make good market fowls, they are profitable on account of their laying qualities and are rapidly gaining friends in this country. These ducks are almost entirely silent, not being given to the loud and raucous quacking which is a disagreeable feature in keeping other breeds of ducks. They are remarkably good foragers and range the fields in search of bugs and worms from morning until night.

WHITEWASH FOR HEN HOUSES

Slaked Lime of Double Strength, Thoroughly Mixed With Salt and Water Will Stick.

Here is a formula for whitewash that will not rub off: Slake half a bushel of good, double-strength lime in boiling water, using just enough water to cover the lime and keep it from burning. When the slaking process is completed add a little more water, then strain the solution to remove any sediment. Dissolve a peck of salt in warm water and add this to the lime solution; mix thoroughly and allow it to stand a couple of days. Thin and apply hot.

PROFIT RECEIVED FROM SWEET POTATOES

SWEET POTATO WITH ONE END PARTIALLY DECAYED.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The profit to be received from growing sweet potatoes will be determined largely by the degree of care with which the crop is harvested and stored. Any bruising of the roots, either in the field or in the storehouse, or the maintenance of improper temperatures in the latter, will facilitate rot and so will greatly increase the percentage of loss.

Sweet potatoes should not be dug until they are mature. Then care should be taken in plowing them out to avoid all bruising by contact between the implements used and the roots. The soil should then be scratched away from the potatoes and they should be left exposed for several hours to dry. Picking should be in padded boxes, baskets, or crates. The roots should be carefully placed, not thrown into the picking receptacles. Although sweet potatoes do not have the appearance of being easily injured, they require, in fact, as careful handling as oranges and apples.

Handling should be minimized to as great an extent as possible. This makes desirable a rough sorting in the field by placing the largest potatoes in one picking container, the smallest in another, and the bruised roots in a third. In no case should sacks be used either as temporary containers or for marketing purposes. Diseased potatoes should be placed in none of the assortments. Such roots should not be left permanently in the field, however, to contaminate the soil, but should be gathered and fed to pigs.

Storage Facilities.

Proper storage facilities are valuable to the grower in that they do away with the necessity of selling the crop on digging, greatly lessen the heavy losses sustained with the primitive storage method of burying the potatoes is employed, and permit holding for good prices in winter or spring. A special storage house, such as many southern farmers have built, is advocated by the department specialists. Such a structure with a capacity of 1,000 to 2,500 bushels can be built at a cost of from $100 to $500, depending on the availability of lumber and other material. The storage house should have double walls to insulate against heat and cold and a false floor to facilitate ventilation. A stove should be installed for supplying artificial heat. If bins are used, they should have slatted sides, further to facilitate a circulation of air.

Sweet potatoes may be satisfactorily stored in bins, but where economically practicable it is advisable to store in crates or hampers, since such a practice reduces pressure on the roots, permits better ventilation, and confines such rotting as may start to a relatively restricted space. In some sections the potatoes are stored in the hampers in which they are to be marketed, being removed just before shipment and resorted.

Disinfecting Receptacles.

Where storage is to be in bins or other receptacles these should if they have been used before, be thoroughly disinfected by spraying with solutions of formalin or copper sulphate. The former should be used in the proportion of one pint to 30 gallons of water. The copper sulphate should be used at the rate of one pound to 25 gallons of water. With either solution a second spraying should be given after 24 hours.

Storage Temperature.

When first placed in the storage house sweet potatoes should be cured by being kept, by the use of a fire, in a temperature of from 80 to 90 degress Fahrenheit. This curing temperature should be maintained for from ten days to two weeks and should then be gradually reduced to about 55 degrees, and kept at as near this point as possible. After this, the ventilators should be left open during the day in clear, warm weather, and kept closed during the nights and in damp or rainy weather. When the temperature in the house goes below 50 degrees Fahrenheit, the house should be opened if the outside temperature is higher, or a fire should be started to raise the temperature to the desired point, since once the potatoes have become thoroughly chilled their quality is impaired and they are more susceptible to decay. In order to maintain the proper temperatures, farmers should install accurate thermometers in their storage houses.

Further information on this subject may be obtained from Farmers' Bulletin No. 548.

STOCK RELISH SILAGE

Best and Cheapest Form of Succulent Feed in Winter.

Result of Experiments Conducted by Mississippi Station—Complete the Ration With Feeds Containing Much Protein.

(By T. W. MOSELY, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.)

Green feeds are more easily digested, keep the digestive system in better condition, and stimulate the appetite.

Silage is the best and cheapest form in which succulent feed can be provided for winter use, or in other words, it is "canned pasture."

A given amount of corn or kaffir in the form of silage will produce more milk than the same amount when shocked and dried. The Mississippi experiment station has shown that cows fed silage produced 36.81 per cent more milk and 34.32 per cent more butterfat than when on dry feeds.

There is less waste in feeding silage than in feeding fodder. Good silage, if properly fed, is all consumed.

More stock can be kept on a given area of land when silage is the basis of the ration.

There is a smaller loss of food material when a crop is made into silage than when cured as fodder. The Colorado experiment station shows that corn when shocked in large shocks, lost 31 per cent of its feeding value; when in small shocks, it lost 43 per cent, and when allowed to remain in the field unharvested, 55 per cent. When the crop is put in a silo the loss need not exceed 5 per cent. It has been shown that 60 per cent of the feeding value of kafir is found in the heads and 40 per cent in the stalk. Put your kafir in a silo and save this 40 per cent.

Remember that, although silage is a splendid feed, it is not a complete ration. To get the best results, we must also feed some feeds which contain a large amount of protein, such as alfalfa hay, peanut hay or cotton-seed meal.

HORSES AND MULES FAVORED

Heavy Draft Animals Were Never in Greater Demand Despite Many Uses for Automobile.

The "horseless age" has not yet arrived, in spite of the many uses to which the automobile has been put. While there is not as much of a demand for driving horses as there used to be, medium and heavy draft horses were never in greater demand.

In Mexico the army mule refused to be supplanted by the auto truck, and the government is calling for a larger number of these patient, long-eared beasts.

LIME OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Application Means More Humus and Heavier Yield of Money Crop and Profit to Farmer.

Lime is as essential to the upbuilding of American farms as is the use of good seed and teams. Too many of our fields are yielding light crops simply because there is not enough lime to permit the growing of soil-building crops.

More lime means better green manure crops, more humus, better storage of moisture, heavier yield of the money crop, and more profit for the farmer.

FARM ANIMALS

HEALTHY AND VIGOROUS HOGS

Pasture Furnishes Necessary Exercise in Gathering Succulent Feed—Feed Some Grain.

"Corn for fat and pasture for pork," said a farmer. He meant, says R. C. Ashby, assistant animal husbandman in charge of swine, University farm, St. Paul, that the pasture furnished exercise in gathering the green, succulent feed, and by keeping the hogs healthy and vigorous, it put them in the best condition to make good gains from their grain feed.

It pays to feed grain on pasture, for pasture alone will do little more than keep up a pig's weight. A light to medium grain ration is usually most profitable. About two or three pounds of grain a day is a good ration for shoats weighing eighty to one hundred pounds. If you have scales, weigh your pigs occasionally and feed about three pounds of grain daily for each 100 pounds live weight of hogs.

Good rations for summer feeding are easily obtained. On clover, alfalfa or rape pasture, feed corn and a little skim milk. On blue grass or timothy pasture feed three pounds of skim milk to each two pounds of corn. More milk would do no harm. If skim milk is not at hand, it will pay to feed oil meal or tankage with the corn, where blue grass or timothy pasture is used about one part tankage to eleven parts corn or one part oil meal to seven parts corn.

PRODUCTIVE PERIOD OF EWE

Does Her Best at From Three to Six Years of Age—Keep Her While Teeth Remain Good.

The most productive period of the average ewe's life is from three to six years of age. As a general proposition, keep the ewe as long as the teeth remain good and she is producing lambs regularly.

Of course, if sheep are kept continuously on the same pasture, they are liable to stomach-worm infection, but such infection more often proves serious in the case of young lambs than with older sheep.

Youngster Should Be Kept in Darkened Stall During Day—Allow It to Suckle Often.

If the mare is worked, keep the colt in a cool, dark stall during the day. For the first few weeks after foaling bring the mare to the barn and allow the colt to suckle.

Do this in the middle of the forenoon and in the middle of the afternoon, as well as at morning, noon and night.

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says: "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles' is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.

"Oh, she's at work," said the husband, with a placid smile.

"At work? What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"Well, you see, it was this way," replied the benedict. "She had a much better position than mine—head of her department, £8 a week. Wouldn't give it up. MANY FOOLED BY MONEY HE "MADE"

Expert Cashiers Deceived by Counterfeits Produced by H. R. Wilken.

AT LAST RUN DOWN

At Age of Twenty-Nine Man Who Gave Secret Service Many Years of Worry Now Faces Penitentiary Sentence.

Washington.—His career ended at twenty-nine, H. R. Wilken faces a penitentiary sentence of anywhere up to fifteen years when he is tried at San Francisco for counterfeiting. But, while he may drop out for a time, he will have left behind him a lot of visiting cards—in the form of the most nearly perfect counterfeit $1, $5 and $10 bills ever shoved across a counter in payment for a small purchase, according to the secret service.

Wilken was arrested at Santa Cruz, Cal., by secret service men, who claim to have obtained a confession during a subsequent trip to San Francisco, where he is held for trial. When he landed in jail secret service men, from Chief Flynn down to the newest operative, heaved a long, deep sigh of relief.

Wilken is a young man. Where he started the police do not know. The first time the secret service ever heard of him was when particularly excellent counterfeit bills began coming to the treasury from banks all over the country, which had accepted them as genuine. The chase for their manufacturer started. It led the secret service throughout the country several times and ended in Santa Cruz.

Trail of Counterfeits.

For some years Wilken flitted gaily about from town to town, the service says, leaving in his trail all sorts of counterfeit bills. The first charged to him were $1 bills, made of two sheets of paper pasted together, with the familiar strands of silk in between. Lots of the bills were found, and many worthy citizens who tried to use them found their way into police stations to undergo questioning. But there never was a trace of the owner.

While Wilken's masterpiece—alleged—was a $10 federal reserve note, warnings regarding which were distributed by the secret service a few weeks before his arrest, there were a lot more bills attributed to him which are preserved by the secret service as works of art.

After a Long Chase.

Wilken was caught after years of search, during which it is declared he circulated counterfeit bills of the face value of over $100,000. And if he hadn't stayed at the little town of Santa Cruz, where persons who spend one type of bill are easily found, he might not have been arrested. In larger cities the bills always had been discovered days or weeks after they had been dumped on the town.

It is believed by many that Wilken has the secret of making the "distinctive" paper used by the government for its notes. Some of his bills are believed to have been raised from smaller ones, but many of them, almost impossible to detect, bear the appearance of having been made from "distinctive" paper of unauthorized manufacture. Such bills are expensive to make; but, as in the case of many counterfeit gold coins, sometimes worth $3.50 where $5 is the represented value, there is a margin of "profit."

Wilken himself, from his photographs, is highly artistic. He looks like an Italian, with big dark eyes, an exceptionally high and broad forehead, a small black mustache over a small mouth, and dark features. Altogether he bears a really good resemblance to portraits of Poe. If the secret service stories are accurate, he drove, after his own fashion, almost as good a pen.

Weds Childhood Sweetheart.

Hartford, Conn.—Mrs. Martha Wigglesworth, seventy-six, of New Britain, motored to this city to wed her childhood sweetheart, Stephen Hibbard, seventy-six.

GOOD JOKES

WRONG IDEA.

"Your little brother says your father said you were crazy to marry me."

"He misquoted papa. Papa said I'd be insane if I married you."

Afraid to Risk It.

"Will you have a piece of the apple pie?" asked the landlady of the Irish boarder.

"Is it after bein' healthy?" queried Pat.

"To be sure it is," she replied. "Why should you think it otherwise?"

"Faith, an' Oi had an uncle wanst who died of apple-plexy," answered the son of Erin, "and Oi thought this moight be somethin' av the same koind."

Proof Positive.

She was the cause and the $9.98 solitaire on her third digit was the result.

"Dearest," she cooed, "will you love me when I'm old?"

"How can you doubt it?" he came back at her. "Didn't I propose after I had seen your picture in the family group taken in the days when girls wore jerseys and their bangs straight?"

Usual Procedure.

"I presume a statesman pays more or less attention to the wishes of his constituents?"

"'More or less' is correct. As the wishes of his constituents are made known to him from time to time in the form of letters, he has his secretary carefully file them away and then proceeds to forget all about them."

Maybe.

"Something should be done for bald-headed men."

"Yes?"

"They don't get a square deal in this world."

"Perhaps not."

"But just wait. Some of these days a corking good love story is going to be written about a hald-headed hero."

Disregarded.

Some "leaders of the people"
Must feel acute dismay
When no one pays attention
To anything they say.

Sunshine and Shadow.

"Even the judge wept when the chorus girl plaintiff told the story of her life."

"I dare say the gloom in that courtroom was profound."

"Yes. But everybody was soon smiling again when her lawyer began reading love letters written to her by the millionaire defendant."

Retort Courteous.

"I see the villain in your face," said the gruff lawyer who was trying to intimidate a witness.

"Very likely you do," was the calm reply. "The face of any bright person, like a mirror, is apt to cast personal reflections."

SURE NOT.

Miss Chance (reading from paper)—A girl saved an express train from destruction by taking off her petticoat and waving it as a signal.

Miss Pert—I never do anything heroic like that.

Miss Chance—Why not?

Miss Pert—Because I don't wear red petticoats.

It Doth, Indeed.

It doth require a man of means
To keep up two or three machines,
And as the flying seasons pass
Provide each one of them with "gas."

As Defined.

Little Mildred—What does "B. A." stand for, mamma?

Mamma—"Bachelor of Arts," my dear.

Little Mildred—And what is a "Bachelor of Arts," mamma?

Mamma—Any bachelor who is trying to stay in the bachelor class, darling.

Just Ordinary.

"A burglar was captured in our neighborhood last night."

"Yes?"

"And we were all rather disappointed."

"In what way?"

"He was neither a lowering brute, with a hoarse voice and two weeks' growth of whiskers on his face, nor a gentlemanly looking chap in evening clothes."

A Ballot Bargain.

The suffragette candidate faced the man who wished to sell his vote.

"No," she said, "I'll not give a dollar for your vote. It isn't worth it."

"Oh, well—take it for 97 cents, lady," said the mere man.

"Why didn't you say so before?" queried the political bargain hunter. "And could you vote twice for a dollar-ninety-three?"

Proof of Her Wisdom.

"I wonder why Minerva was called the 'goddess of wisdom?'" queried the young widow.

"I don't know," growled the old bachelor, "unless it was because she never married."

And realizing there was no hope of wedding bells in that direction, the y. w. got busy with a susceptible widower with seven children.

Not an Excuse.

The leapyear maid had just proposed, but it had failed to take.

"No," he said, "I can never be your husband. In fact, I wouldn't marry the best woman on earth."

"But, my dear," she rejoined, "that is hardly an excuse for declining my offer. I don't claim to be the best woman on earth."

SO FOOLISH.

"She's neglecting her game of bridge dreadfully."

"Why is she doing that?"

"Some silly excuse. Says the children need her, I believe."

Facts and Figures.

"A scientist," remarked the giddy female who writes type between meals, "says there are 160,000 hairs in the average woman's head."

"And the number of hairs in the average man's head," growled the cynical bachelor at the pedal extremity of the boarding house mahogany, "may depend upon the length of time he has been married."

Disturbing Influences.

"I sent a thought wave to you last night," said his fiancee.

"About what time?"

"About midnight."

"Um. I was at the club then."

"Did it reach you?"

"I don't know. Something made me miss a ridiculously easy shot at billiards about that time."

Acquired Wisdom.

Said He—I wanted to get married when I was twenty-one, but my father said I didn't have sense enough—that I should wait until I was thirty.

Said She—And you married at thirty?

Said He—Oh, no; at thirty I had sense enough not to want a wife.

Her Choice.

"What came between them?"

"A French poodle."

"Eh?"

"At least he put it up to her to choose between him and the dog, and he's been living at his club ever since."

How It Happened.

Said he, just for fun:
"Let us become one."
He had plenty of mon—
And so she was won.

One Way.

"You know it is simply impossible to make an angel out of the average small boy."

"Oh, I don't know. Have you ever tried a liberal diet of green apples?"

Friendly Criticism.

"Don't you think," said the amateur actor, "that I would be able to score a success in the balcony scene from 'Romeo and Juliet?'"

"Well," replied the disinterested friend, "with a little help from the stage carpenter you might make a hit as the balcony."

Not the Locality.

"I hear Jubbins lives in melancholy sequestration."

"He don't, any such thing. He lives in the suburbs."

TO PREVENT OLD AGE COMING TOO SOON!

"Toxic poisons in the blood are thrown out by the kidneys. The kidneys act as filters for such poisons. If we wish to prevent old age coming too soon and increase our chances for a long life, we should drink plenty of pure water and take a little Anuric," says the famous Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y.

When suffering from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired, worn-out feeling, the simple way to overcome these disorders is merely to obtain a little Anuric from your nearest druggist and you will quickly notice the grand results. You will find it thirty-seven times more potent than lithia, and that it dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

GIVE THE COWS A CHANCE; FEED PLENTY

By J. P. Quinnerly, Agent in Dairying.

Prepared by Extension Service. Auburn, Ala.

Intelligent feeding is the foundation for success in dairying. Many cows are underfed and some are fed too much. Neither are as profitable as the cow that is given the right quantity of feed at all times. It is not difficult to feed properly because the rules for feeding dairy cows are very simple.

The reason why cows produce the most milk on June pastures or when they are turned on the bean fields in fall is because they get plenty to eat.

1. Feed all the roughage or coarse feed the cows will clean up at all times.

2. Feed each cow as much grain as she can pay a profit on in milk.

It is natural for cows to eat large quantities of coarse feed, such as pasturage, silage, roots and hay. Their stomachs are adapted to handle such feeds. As these feeds are cheaper than grain, we have a double reason, therefore, for useing them liberally. It is also true that dairy cows are not satisfied with limited roughage and canot utilize their grain as efficiently as when fed plenty of coarse feed.

This roughage should be homegrown, if possible. It should be good pasture in summer, and silage, roots, or rye and oats (for grazing) with hay in winter. Few Alabama dairymen realize the greatly increased profits that can be derived from feeding a green succulent feed every day in the year. The silo provides in winter what the pasture does in summer—the cheapest and best roughage for dairy cows.

Every one who has ten or more cows should plan to have a silo before another winter. Beets, turnips and green rye and oats are the best substitutes for silage. If none of these have been provided for this season, greater production can be secured by the use of dried beet pulp. Feed 3 to 5 pounds per day, wetting thoroughly 12 hours before feeding.

Cows do best on a variety of feed. Some hay should be fed in addition to the green or succulent roughage. Legume hays are preferable because less grain is required with them. For exampe, good alfalfa hay is equal in feeding value to wheat bran, pound for pound. In the absence of legume hays, grass hays or oat straw may be used, but their low feeding value must be considered.

Keep a record of each cow's milk in pounds and increase her grain feed from day to day as long as she produces enough additional milk to pay a profit on the cost of the feed. The general rule is to feed one pound of grain for each three pounds of milk produced. A measure of known capacity can be used for the grain but the milk should be weighed after each milking. It pays to keep records and feed according to production.

No special grain mixture can be recommended as prices and roughages vary in different localities. Velvet beans are worth nearly half as much as cotton seed meal in feed value and, especially when home grown, are a very cheap feed. Beans give good results when mixed half and half with corn and cob meal and fed with legume hays. When fed with silage rich in corn, two-thirds beans may be used. A good general mixture is 400 pounds velvet beans, 300 pounds corn and cob meal or corn meal, 100 pounds cotton seed meal. Even at present prices cotton seed meal is not too expensive to feed profitably.

Buletins and further advice on the feeding of dairy cows can be had by writing the Dairy Department at Auburn. Send us a list of available feeds with prices and we will figure out the cheapest and best ration from them.

A PHYSICIAN'S WIFE GAINED 15 POUNDS

"I'm Oblidged to Think Well of A Medicine That Did What Tanlac Has for My Wife," Says Dr. Brantley.

Dr. J. L. E. Brantley, a prominent practicing Atlanta, Ga., physician, residing at 605 South Pryor street, that city said a few days ago:

"I'm obliged to think well of a medicine that accomplished what Tanlac has in my wife's case. She has gained all of fifteen pounds on three bottles, and is now a well woman in every respect.

"She has suffered from indigestion and nervousness since 1909, she could not retain anything scarcely on her stomach and was troubled a great deal by the formation of gas. She suffered constantly with headaches and backaches and was nauseated more or less all the time. She could not sleep or rest at all well on account of her nervous condition, and she became very weak and thin.

"I decided to buy Tanlac for her, because it was highly recommended for troubles like hers, and I'm glad to say the results have been most gratifying. She eats any thing she wants now and her stomach is all right. Gas has stopped forming and she retains and digests her food properly and has built up wonderfully. The headaches and pains in her back are broken up and he sleeps well every night. I consider her improvement most remarkable, and I can now recommend Tanlac for what it has done for her.

Tanlac is sold in Clanton by Upchurch Drug Co, and in Maplesville by Maplesville Drug Co.

TONOLINE IS BEAUTY AID, ANNOUNCES SPECIALIST

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest to Women.

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusal interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

"I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches would also add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness.

"Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, 'Take tonoline.'

"Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest way to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to reccommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney troulble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily to many people at your druggist.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by anyone not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those who have been benefitted by tonoline in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

HIGH-PRICED FLOUR AND WHEAT GROWING IN SOUTH

By O. L. Howell, Assistant in Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service. Auburn, Ala.

$10 per barrel for flour may be expected to give a decided impetus to the already rapidly increasing acreage being sown to wheat in Alabama. In 1915, the Alabama acreage in wheat was more than three times as great as it was in the previous year. It may not be wise to permit the advance in cotton prices to check the growing interest in wheat growing. Especially is this true since boll weevil conditions leave the cotton field ready for the early showing of wheat and high prices of wheat cause a light yield to prove profitable.

To attempt wheat growing for the general market is risky where it is untried. Lack of market facilities, coupled with the uncertainty of the crop under doubtful soil and climatic conditions, will cause any thinking farmer to go slow.

But in the northern half of the cotton belt, on all red or clay lands and even on the better grades of sandy loam, there is every reason to believe that the most economic means of furnishing flour for the home is the home growing of wheat. No agricutural community is to be envied so much as that which supplies its own needs in the fullest degree. Wherever wheat growing is practicable, there is an opportunity for a further step to greater independence for the South.

Where oats are commonly grown, sufficient machinery will be available for sowing and harvesting wheat without any great additional expense. But milling may prove a serious obstacle until there is sufficient development in the industry to encourage the establishment of mills. Where there is no mill in reach co-operation may solve the problem. If a sufficient number of farmers can be interested in wheat growing it will not be a difficult matter to bring milling facilities into their midst. There is now machinery that does a fair grade of work and is not so costly but that any mill man would readily ing all it will only a moderate amount of business in sight.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME V. CLANTON, ALABAMA, DECEMBER 21, 1916. NUMBER 38.

ADVANTAGES OF DAIRYING IN THE SOUTHLAND

Special advantages of the industry as a relief for the Cotton Section.

Advantages of Dairying in the South

In many section of the South a one-crop cotton-growing system prevails. Certain evils produced by this system are very forcibly demonstrated on many farms, among which are (1) a cash income but once a year, (2) an unequal distribution of labor throughout the year, and (3) impoverishment of the soil.

Dairying Provides a Steady Cash Income

A one-crop cotton-growing system forces a great many farmers either to borrow money with which to make the crop or to buy supplies on a time basis. High rates of interest must be paid. The merchant who furnishes the supplies also frequently does business on borrowed capital. What the South needs is not the abandonment of cotton growing, but the weaving into the farming system of some thing that will in itself be profitable and also furnish ready cash throughout the year. Dairying meets these requirements. It is adaptable to the conditions of the large and small farmer, whether he owns or rents the land.

Dairying, properly conducted, is a profitable business and a safe and steady line of farming affected less by ucnertainties of weather extremes or late seasons than many cropping systems. It is a cash business, furnishing a sure and reliable income, puts the farm on a cash basis, and thus saves the high rates of interest paid for money on short loans and the high prices paid for supplies bought on credit. On a large proportion of the farms in the South small herds of good dairy cows will furnish enough ready cash to finance the making of the cotton crop and at the end of the year leave the money received from the cotton as a clear cash profit. Such a plan, more than anything else, will eliminate the old line system, which keeps many farmers one year behind.

Dairying Equalizes the Distribution of Labor Throughout the Year

Dairying furnishes profitable employment for labor and equalizes the distribution of labor throughout the year. The gathering of bedding, hauling of manure, repairing of fences, etc., furnish paying work for the farm hands at seasons when, on account of wet weather, help is not needed in the cotton fields or when steady work is scarce or lacking altogether. With cash coming in every week or month a better class of labor can be employed.

On farms where there are children of 8 years and older dairying furnishes them with profitable employment which does not interfere with their attendance at school. They can assist in milking and other work before and after school and in this way contribute materially to the income of the farm.

Dairying improves the soil.

Dairying furnishes large quantities of manure for the cotton fields and thereby returns to the land about 75 per cent of the fertilizing value of the crops which the cows have consumed. Likewise the cottonseed meal, so largely used as a nitrogenous fertilizer, is one of the best milk producing feeds and loses only a small percentage of its fertilizing value when fed to cows. Every garden spot in the South is a monument to the value of manure.

A good system of dairy farming rests upon crop rotation, which in itself restores fertility to the land, for the raising of feed is necessary to the profitable keeping of cows, and the best feeds for them are leguminous crops, such as soy beans, vetches, lespedeza and other clovers, velvet beans, alfalfa, etc. These crops are preeminently soil builders, since they gather nitrogen from the air. Nitrogen is the most expensive element of fertilizers, and it is a valuable part of a ration for dairy cows. Th rotation of crops and the manure from the cows continually going to the land will soon double the production of cotton per acre and at the same time decrease the fertilizer bills. This ncreased production will enable the farmer to raise on a smaller area of land as much cotton as, or more than, he does at present.

Dairying Provides A market for Feed Crops

Dairying furnishes a good home market for all the feed crops which can be grown on the farm. In rural ditricts and small towns the local markets for most of these crops are very limited, and often-times the comparatively small amounts possessed by the farmer make it unprofitable to transport them to the larger markets. This is especially true if the roads are bad. In such cases dairy cows furnish the means for con verting these crops into finished products which are easily transported and which bring good proces.

Dairying also enables the farmer to utilize for feed and bedding large quantities of roughage, such as straw, corn stover, shucks, and coarse and weedy hay, which can not ordinarily be sold in the market.

Often two crops can be grown on the same land in one season. By growing such crops as corn, sorghum, pea vines, etc., after the wheat, oat, or rye crop has been cleared off, excellent feed crops can be provided at minimum cost of growing, because of the small amount of cultivation necessary. These crops can be preserved in the silo, and thus the cows are provided with good succulent feeds for winter feeding and when pasturage is short. With roots, leguminous hay, silage, stover, straw, and the cottonseed meal obtained by exchanging cotton seed, all the feed for the cows is raised on the farm.

Other Advantages

Climatic conditions in the South are favorable for dairying. Less expenive buildings for the protection of cattle are required than in colder climates. This reduces the expense for care and housing. The long grazing season and the many excellent grasses which grow luxuriantly make it possible to produce milk, butter, and cream at a low cost for a large part of the year.

The scarcity and high price of good dairy cattle are other attractive considerations, for after a farmer has become established in the business the sale of surplus cattle can be made a source of considerable income and prolt.

The skim milk obtained from a herd of cows is one of the best supplementary feeds for hogs and poultry. These two lines of live stock furnish profitable cash side lines and naturally go hand in hand with dairy farming.

Large quantities of condensed milk, butter, cream, and cheese must now be purchased in other sections. The South can produce these at home. If the supply is constant and the quality good, southern dairy products will find a ready market at profitable prices.

Dairying, properly conducted, will restore fertility to the southern farm and equalize the distribution of labor throughout the year. It will put the southern farm on a cash basis, so that the cotton crop, free from all liens, can then be sold for cash whenever it will bring the highest market price.

A LETTER FROM MR. POHN W. HAYES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to tell my friends that I have arrived at my new home in Mobile county all right.

I found the people ready to help me in any way they could. After moving me they invited me to accompany them on some hunting trips, which, of course, I accepted.

My first day out I killed a fox and ran out a big buck. The second day we hunted a big bear which had been bothering the neighbor's stock, and I found it a very plasant trip. We have plenty of big game in this county which I hope to thin out considerably before very long.

We found Satuma orchards in all their splendor, and many other fine fruits this country produces.

We found a good community, generous people, good churches, and good schools that run eight months each year and many other desirable things.

Although I am well pleased with my new home, yet I hate to be away from my old friends, who have been close to me all these years. I wish to thank each one of them personally for the favors shown me by moving me and in many other ways. I hope to be with them again, and any time they are in this part of the state, I would be very glad they would visit me.

I wish much success to the Union-Banner; old Chilton and her many good people.

Respectfully,
J. W. HAYES.

EXTENSION SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE AND HOME ECONOMICS

By L. N. Duncan, Superintendent Junior and Home Economics Extension.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

A new and interesting line of extension work is the Extension School of Agriculture and Home Economics.

In this work several instructors go from the College of Agriculture at Auburn and spend from one to six days in a community, giving definite courses of lectures and demonstrations along many lines of agriculture and home making. The policy of the instructors is to teach by demonstrations rather than by lectures.

Quite an important part of the work one entire division of it, is devoted to instruction along the line of home making for girls and women. The program at each school is divided, one group of instructors devoting their time to various phases of agriculture, such as boll weevils, soil improvement, hog raising, hog cholera, cover crops, corn, oats and fertilizers. The lady instructors devote their time to work along lines of interest to farm women and girls, such as the fireless cooker, bread making, vegetable and meat cooking, home conveniences, home water works and kitchen equipment.

Only one of these schools is usually held in each county and it is the purpose of those in charge to reach about twenty counties each year. The school in a county is organized and supervised by the county demonstration agent and the woman agent.

During the past summer these schools have been held in the following counties: Chambers, Randolph, Cullman, Lawrence, St. Clair, Blount and Jefferson. During the month of October, extension schools were held in Dale, Henry and Barbour counties. In the three last named counties, these schools were held in co-operation with the Farmers' Union. Just prior to the date for the school, a series of local meetings was held over the county by Farmers' Union locals where the work of the school was discussed. Holding these schools in co-operation with the Farmers' Union proved to be a decided advantage to the work and resulted in attendance from most of the communities in the counties.

In arranging dates and places for these schools, preference is always given to those communities making requests for them.

THE L. & N. DEPOT

Workmen have been busy for several days remodelling our depot. They have about completed their job, and when the painters get through with her, Clanton will have a pretty good loking station house. What have you got that you want to turn into money?

I WANT TO BUY ANYTHING FARMERS HAVE

I want to buy corn, velvet beans, peas, fodder, hay, syrup, dressed hogs, hogs on foot, all kinds of cattle.

If you have anything to sell, bring it to me. I will pay highest market prices; and you can get more by bringing them here than for me to come and look at them.

BOUGHT FINE HOG

Mr. J. D. Collins went down below Selma one day last week to one of the famous and well known stock breeders of the State, and purchased a young male Duroc Jersey which he will use for breeding purposes. The hog is the finest of the Duroc type. Mr. Collins raises some of the finest hogs in this section of the State, making a specialty of Durocs only. He takes much interest in the stock and meets with signal success. This recent addition to his stock means the production of finer hogs than ever before.

Mr. Henderson ond Miss Bertha Waldrup of Randolph visited the singing here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hodgens of Pleasant Grove were at the singing Sunday.

The Sunday chool here seemes to have been nipped by the cold frost and has about passed away. Indifference tells the tale.

1916 with its disasters, achievements and sorrows will soon be history. Its record marks the death of good and great people. Among them was Charles Taze Russell, author and minister known the world over as Pastor Russell, the greatest Bible scholar since the Apostle Paul, and said to be the greatest man of modern times. His life from childhood was spotless, he spoke evil of no one, but was kind to both friends and foe. He was assailed both publicly and privately by those who did not understand him, but like the great Wesley he had no time to reply or criticize. He possessed a fortune but spent it in propagating Bible truth; he loved humanity, his sermons read by millions were carried in thousands of Magazines and Newspapers. His teaching has changd the tone of the pulpit on different subjects particularly the doom of the finally impertinent the world over. One of his great themes was the oneness of the church which is growing in popularity, another was Christ's coming kingdom to suppliant the present disintegrating kingdoms ushered in by the present increasing distress and will bring universal peace and happiness, the signs of which are apparent everywhere in education, agriculture, politics, etc. The great Charles Evans Hughes has said "This world is going to be a different place to live in during the next twenty-five years." Another was the restitution of all things, evidence of which is abundant. Another was the entire consecration of believers in contrast with the great nominal mass of church members which can't be denied. Another was the resurrection of all the dead, for which now the world is being prepared. Another was an opportunity for the Heathen millions who have never heard the way of life.

GALLANT STAND TAKEN BY PEOPLE OF STATE IN FIGHT

Now Being Made Against Frightful Inroads of Tuberculosis—Reinforcements Coming From Over Alabama.

With each succeeding year, anti-tuberculosis work in Alabama is becoming better organized, more efficient and effective; and with the rapid growth of public confidence and the ever increasing support accorded by people anxious to join in the fight to prevent the spread of the deadly White Plague, the attack, led on by science and medical knowledge, is gaining even greater impetus against the centers of infection. Under the leadership of the State League, county associations throughout Alabama are establishing clinics, hospitals and sanatoriums, which, with the steadily augmenting forces and increased facilities for housing, curing and isolating infectious cases will eventually form an all-but-insurmountable barrier against future inroads of the White Plague.

At the present writing there is a sanatorium in the state capital and one in Birmingham, both sustained by voluntary associations with some public aid; a hospital at the State Penitentiary housing 125 patients; accommodations maintained at Tuscaloosa for the tuberculous insane, caring for 75 unfortunates, and another housing 50 victims at the Mt. Vernon Institute for Insane Negroes. There are also private institutions at both Birmingham and Mobile, and clinics are kept in constant operation in Birmingham, Mobile, Montgomery, Selma and Florence.

Fourteen county anti-tuberculosis associations are directing the forces of science in a combined and well coordinated movement to check the ravages of the deadly tuberculosis germ in as many areas of the state; and under the guidance of leaders of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Alabama plans for the organization and equipment of new associations throughout Alabama are rapidly materializing.

At the last meeting of the Legislature a bill embodying measures designed to secure the co-operation of state officials in the use of public funds for the erection of county hospitals upon receipt of petition and signed by citizens, was presented by Dr. George Eaves, Secretary of the Alabama Anti-Tuberculosis League, and its passage secured after a vigorous campaign. The triumphant outcome of this fight now makes it possible for citizens of all counties both large and small to invoke the aid of county revenue and lengthen the sinews of anti-tuberculosis work.

Hospitals, it is believed, will eventually be established in practically all of the more populous counties of Alabama. This work, however, has not yet materialized, and when it does will mean only that the most advanced cases will be cared for by public revenue. In the meantime this burden together with the great and comprehensive measures for prevention purposes must be borne by the various anti-tuberculosis associations which are in turn almost altogether dependent for maintenance upon the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, and popular subscription.

Active workers in the cause of humanity and public safety are rallying valiantly to the ranks, and the banner of the Red Cross will soon wave triumphantly in all sections of our great commonwealth.

Progress is now the watchword among the valiant soldiers of the Red Cross in their steady march upon the lurking places of the White Plague; and the whole aspect of the work in civic centers as well as rural sections of the state is undergoing a rapid change for the better.

GERMANS DRIVEN ON 6-MILE FRONT

French Forces Win Positions Between The Meuse And Woevre Rivers North Of Douamont

OVER 7,500 TEUTONS TAKEN

Besides Prisoners Taken, The French Captured Or Destroyed Many Heavy Guns

Paris.—French troops again have made an effective thrust in the Verdun region.

Striking at the German positions between the Meuse and Woevre rivers, north of Douamont and north-northeast of the fortress, along a front of about six miles, the French forced back the soldiers of the German crown prince for a distance of almost two miles. More than seventy-five hundred prisoners and numerous guns were taken from the Germans, Paris announces.

In its latest official communication, the German war office admitted that "advantages" had been obtained in this region by the attackers.

Buzeu, an important railway center northeast of Bucharest and an excellent base from which to begin operations in Moldavia, has been captured by the Austro-Germans. The retreating Russians and Roumanians are reported to be burning villages behind them. Four thousand additional prisoners have been taken by Field Marshal von Mackensen's army.

Simultaneously with the taking of Buzeu, the Austro-German Danube army and the Bulgarians have begun an offensive in Dobrudja. The Russians and Roumanians, Berlin states, have evacuated their positions under the pressure exerted by the advance in Great Wallachia.

British troops have taken the offensive near Kut-El-Amara, in Mesopotamia, and Turkish positions on the right bank of the Hai river, south of Kut-El-Amara have been taken, London announces.

GERMAN PEACE PROPOSALS FORWARDED TRIPLE ENTENTE

President Decided To Transmit Notes Without Making Any Comment Whatever

Washington.—President Wilson decided that the notes of the central powers proposing a discussion of peace to the entente allies will be sent forward by the American government acting as intermediary without any accompanying mediation offer of its own. He has not determined whether any action in behalf of peace will be taken later by the United States on its own account, but is holding himself in readiness to serve in any way possible toward bringing the warring nations together.

The course to be pursued was made known after the president had conferred with Secretary Lansing and after a prolonged cabinet meeting. It was stated that the delay in forwarding the notes to the entente capitals was due to the fact that the messages received from Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey, identical in substane, different slightly in phraseology as a result of different translations.

Since the first note arrived, the one from Germany, the president and his closest advisers have been absorbed in study of the situation created. The Austrian note followed and the one from Turkey came later, too late to be translated for the cabinet meeting. Those from Germany and Austria have been gone over carefully by the president and Secretary Lansing to make certain of their meaning and so that they may be sure to properly represent the intent of the central powers.

Bills To Destroy Liquor Traffic

Washington.—Legislation aimed at the destruction of the liquor traffic continues to accumulate in congress, as both houses are deluged with petitions from all parts of the country, urging adoption of the national prohibition constitutional amendment and passage of other anti-liquor measures, inluding the Shepard bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor in the District of Columbia.

King Constantine Yields To Allies

London.—The Greek government has accepted the ultimatum presented by the entente allies, says a dispatch from Athens. All Greek troops are to be withdrawn from Thessaly, according to the demands, and only a certain number of soldiers are to be concentrated in Peloponnessus. The demands for reparation for the events of December 1 and 2, when fighting took place between entente landing forces and Greek troops, are to be formulated later.

Overtures By Villa To United States

El Paso, Texas.—A Mexican courier reached the border from Francisco Villa's camp in the Guerrero district of Chihuahua, with proposals for the United States government that Villa would refrain from the further destruction of foreign life and property in Mexico on condition that the United States would not interfere in any way with his campaign against the Carranza government. This was officially announced by a high representative of the government here.

FIERCE BATTLES IN ROUMANIA

After Brief Stand Roumanians Are Again Forced To Retreat To New Positions

New York.—The Hungarian and German troops fighting on the center of the line in Roumania have emerged from the swamp lands of the Jalomitza river and made a crossing of the stream near Recenau, about midway between Bucharest and the important railroad junction town of Buzeu.

Before the invaders of Buzeu now lie about thirty-five miles of plains, with no more rivers to cross until the Buzeu itself is reached. Despite heavy rains and soggy ground the forces of the Teutonic allies all along the front in Roumania continue to make progress. The Roumanian attacks which had held the invaders in the Ploechti region, now have been broken, according to Berlin. Several thousand additional Roumanians have been made prisoners.

In the fighting in the eastern Carpathians and along the Moldavian front, all the Russian attacks have been repulsed, says the Berlin war office.

Heavy Fighting On Cerna River

Considerable heavy fighting has again taken place in the Cerna river region of Serbia. Both the Berlin and Bulgarian war offices report the repulse of strong entente allied attacks in this sector, Berlin asserting that the French and Serbians suffered sanguinary losses. However, in advance of several hundred yards against the Teutonic allies west of Sudohol, northeast of Monastir, is reported by the Serbian general staff, while the French official communication records the pushing forward of the entente line about eight hundred meters near Vlaklar.

Artillery actions and small engagements continue on the western front in France and Belgium and also in the Austro-Italian theater. Quiet prevails in Russia and Galicia.

ADAMSON LAW HEARING FIXED FOR JANUARY 8

Supreme Court Fixes Date Week After The Measure Goes Into Effect

Washington.—Determination by the Supreme court of the constitutionality of the Adamson law in time for congress to enact any desired supplementary legislation at this session was regarded as assured when the court advanced the test case for argument on January 8.

The court granted the government's motion to expedite the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad case, in which Federal Judge Hook held the Adamson act void. Hearings were set for immediately after the Christmas holidays and ahead of all other important cases already assigned for January 8.

There had been some hope of having the case heard before Christmas, as the Adamson act becomes effective January 1. All interests are believed to be conserved pending the court's decision, however. Special accounts of wages due employees under the law will be kept and all other litigation will be held in abeyance by agreement between the government and the railroads until the decision is given.

Russians Capture German Trenches

Petrograd.—Russian troops captured a line of Teutonic trenches on the heights to the south of Agusualia in the region of the Trotus valley of Roumania, according to an official statement issued by the Russian war department. Teuton counter attacks in an effort to regain the lost positions were repulsed with great losses, the statement adds. Roumanian forces took the offensive south of the Mizil-Buzeu high road and captured a row of villages.

Germany Breaks Submarine Pledges

Washington.—Information assembled at the state department and believed by some officials to present a clear-cut violation of German pledges in the sinking of the British steamer Marina, with the loss of six American lives, has been forwarded to Berlin for submission to the German foreign office. It was announced at the state department that the evidence had been sent as a matter of courtesy, to allow the imperial government to offer any other facts before the United States takes its next step

GREEKS IN BATTLE WITH THE FRENCH

Reported That Engagement Has Taken Place Between French Troops And Greek Regulars

CITY OF KATERINA CAPTURED

Berlin Also Claims That the Greeks Have Pierced The French Line

Berlin.—Fighting is in progress between Greek regular troops and the French, an overseas news agency announces.

The news agency says the fighting is taking place north of Katerina, about 60 miles southwest of Saloniki, and that the Greeks have a force of five thousand men.

The town of Katerina has been captured by the Greeks, the news agency says, the French line of positions having been pierced. The Greeks are said to have taken up a line between Borbotzko and Katerina.

The situation in the region of Katerina has been somewhat obscure since late November, when French and Greek royalist troops were reported to be apparently on the point of a clash over possession of the city. There has been previous trouble there between royalist and Venezelist forces, and General Sarrail, the entente commander, sent a French force to occupy the town, presumably in the hope of carrying out his purpose to establish a neutral zone along the frontier of old Greece. On November 24 a news agency dispatch from Athens reported that the Greek royalists troops had refused to evacuate Katerina and that General Sarrail had notified the Athens government that unless they did he would be compelled to use force. No further specific reports on conditions in the vicinity of Katerina have been received, but since that time has occurred the fighting between the entente and Greek forces in Athens and vicinity with concurrent reports that Greece was assembling an army in the interior to attack the entente Saloniki forces in the rear simultaneously with assaults by the central powers on the fighting front to the north in Macedonia.

CANADA TORPEDO BOAT LOST WITH ALL HANDS

The Grilse Goes Down En Route From Halifax To Bermuda December 13

Halifax, N. S.—The entire crew of the Canadian torpedo boat Grilse, consisting of forty-four men and a boy, are believed to have been lost through the sinking of the vessel in a gale which swept this coast.

The Grilse, which was formerly the yacht Winchester, owned in New York, was the fastest boat of the Canadian patrol fleet. She left here for Bermuda and twenty-eight hours later radio messages brought word that she had been disabled by the storm and was in need of immediate assistance. This was followed in a few minutes by a message from the Grilse saying "now sinking." Since then no word of her has been received, although vessels dispatched to the rescue have thoroughly searched the sea.

The minister of naval service announced that he feared the Grilse had been lost with all hands. The position of the torpedo boat when last heard from was seven miles off Little Hope Light on the southern shore of Nova Scotia, about half way between Lockeport and Port Mouton. Steamers which were sent to the aid of the Grilse were unable to discover any trace of the missing vessel.

Germany Justifies Sinking Of Lanao

Washington.—A note of explanation from Germany in response to the inquiry of the United States concerning the sinking of the steamer Lanao on October 28 reached the state department through Charge Grew at Berlin. It says the Lanao was sailing under the British flag and was sunk by a submarine after provision for the safety of her crew because she was captured carrying contraband and could not be taken into port. The only question at issue is whether the vessel was under American registration.

Guardsman Sentenced For Defiance

Washington.—President Wilson approved the action of an army court in sentencing Lewis O. Gardner of the New Mexico militia, to dishonorable discharge and a year in prison at hard labor, for failure to obey the federal call for border duty last June, but remitted the prison sentence because the caseh ad been pressed as a test. War department officials regard the decision as important, because of the warning it gives to more than ten thousand enrolled members of the National Guard.

GERMANY PROPOSES PEACE

Tells Neutrals She Is Ready For Peace Now And Asks Foes To Discuss War's End

Berlin.—Germany and her allies, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey took the first decisive step to bring to an end the greatest and bloodiest war in the history of the world.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, in the crowded reichstag, amidst a breathless silence, declared that the German allies, conscious of their responsibility before God and mankind, had proposed to the entente powers to enter into peace negotiations forthwith.

Earlier in the day the chancellor notified the diplomatic envoys of the United States, Spain and Switzerland that the four nations making up the German allies—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria—propose to enter forthwith into peace negotiations.

Regarding his notification of the neutral diplomats, the following was given out:

"The chancellor received one after the other the representatives of the United States of America, of Spain and of Switzerland.

"These are the countries that are protecting German interests in hostile nations.

"The chancellor submitted to them a note and asked them to bring it to the knowledge of the hostile governments.

"The note was read in the reichstag by the chancellor.

"In the note the four allied powers—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria—propose to enter forthwith into peace negotiations.

"The propositions which are brought forward for considerations are, according to the firm belief of the allied governments—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria—appropriate for the establishment of a lasting peace.

"The governments at Vienna, Constantinople and Sofia have transmitted notes of similar text.

"The note has also been communicated to the holy see and other neutral powers."

Main Points In Peace Proposal

Washington.—The German embassy announces that the following are the main points in Germany's peace proposals:

1. That Poland and Lithuania be recognized as independent kingdoms.
2. That Germany restore Belgium and northern France.
3. That the fate of the Balkan states be settled in a general peace conference.

Territory Which Is Held By Each Side

Washington.—Germany's move for peace comes just two years and 135 days after she declared war on Russia and two years and 129 days after England declared war on Germany.

German Territory Held by the Allies—The western edge of Alsace Lorraine.

Austro-Hungarian Territory Captured by the Allies—About one-half of Galicia and all of Bukowina and the southern fringe of Trentino, as well as the western border of the Istrian peninsula, north of the city of Trieste.

Bulgarian Territory Taken by the Allies—None.

Entente Territory Occupied by the German Allies—Northwestern France, practically all of Belgium, Poland and Lithuania, more than half of Roumania, all of Serbia and Montenegro and nearly all of Albania, as well as part of Persia and Egypt. Some of Greek Macedonia is occupied by the German-Bulgarian forces, although Greece is not in a state of war.

Germany has lost all her overseas colonies.

New Variety Of Egyptian Cotton

Washington.—After fifteen years of experimentation in breeding and selection, plant specialists of the department of agriculture have developed a second new variety of the valuable Egyptian cotton grown in this county. The new variety is said to be superior in several respects to the variety now in use. Sufficient seed of the type, which is known as the Pima, has been raised to plant a relatively large area and will be used during 1917 in the Salt river valley of Arizona, the center of Egyptian cotton culture in this country. It is believed that from this crop sufficient seed will be obtained to plant the entire cotton growing area of the valley in 1918 if the substitution of the new variety for the one now grown is then considered desirable.

Strike Is Averted On The N., C. & S. L.

Nashville, Tenn.—The threatened strike of the trainmen of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, which has been pending for some time, came to an end when an agreementw as reached that was satisfactory to both sides to the controversy. The agreement was brought about through the services of G. W. W. Hanger, representative of the United States board of mediation and conciliation, who has been working in the interest of a settlement of the grievances.

Defends Action Anent The Belgians

Berlin.—Germany's reply to the United States note requesting information about the deportation of Belgian workmen defends the removals and declares that the United States has been misinformed by "the lying pens of Germany's enemies." A million and a quarter persons in Belgium were suffering from idleness, the reply states, and demoralization was resulting. Permission is given American diplomatic representatives to visit the workingmen's camps to inspect them.

COAL PRODUCTION IN STATE IN 1916

ESTIMATED THAT AMOUNT PRODUCED WILL BE OVER SIXTEEN MILLION TONS.

FIGURES ARE NOT ALL IN

Output Will Rival 1913, the Banner Year, When Seventeen Million Tons Was Mined.

Birmingham.—The coal production in Alabama will go above 16,000,000 tons in 1916.

This estimate was made by Chief State Mine Inspector C. H. Nesbitt, who is weekly receiving reports as to the operations of coal mines throughout the State.

The figures on actual production will not begin coming in until about January 10 or 15, but in the opinion of Mr. Nesbitt the production will be close to what it was in 1913, the banner year in coal production, when the output was 17,907,284 tons. The next highest production was 16,513,040. It would not be surprising if the record of 1913 was not overcome though that is not looked for. In 1915 the coal production in Alabama went to 15,266,831 tons.

Mr. Nesbitt figures that while all the mines of the metal companies worked steadily through the entire year, the independent or commercial mines only began active operation after the first half of the year, and then floods drowned out several of them in Blue Creek, at Palos and elsewhere. Then came the railroad car shortage, while explosions at two of the active mines cut out production for nearly a month at each place, and on top of it there has been some trouble with labor, experienced colored labor in quantity leaving the district.

Light and Power Company Winner.

Montgomery.—Handing down a decision which he characterizer as "tantamount to a receivership" for the Montgomery Light and Traction Company, Judge Henry D. Clayton held that Company liable to payment of $229,584.79 to the Montgomery Light and Water Power Company for current used in operating the street cars of this city from February 1, 1913, to November 1, 1916, both inclusive. Judge Clayton ruled that payment must be made in the sum of $25,000, immediately and $11,00 per month until this entire indebtedness is wiped out, and in addition $3,600 per month for electric current used each month with which to operate the cars.

Collinsville Has Disastrous Fire.

Collinsville.—Damage done by fire in the mercantile establishment of A. C. Kirby was estimated at $20,000. Hard work by residents of the city, both men and women, saved adjoining property. Other buildings threatened by the flames were Reagin's meat market, Gibson mercantile establishment and Rogers grocery store.

Judge Loses Voice.

Mobile.—Judge Oliver J. Semmes, for 40 years on the City Court bench, will not be able to use his voice again even if he recovers from a throat affliction for which he is being treated at New Orleans. This means that Judge Semmes will be compelled to retire from the bench. Claude Grayson, an attorney, of this city, is acting judge of the City Court and in the event Judge Semmes retires he may be appointed to the place.

To Copy Alabama Prohi Act.

Montgomery.—Since Nebraska voted "dry" at the November election, people in that State are endeavoring to find some kind of a prohibition law that will prohibit. Montgomery.—In making and declaring a partial settlement in the estate of the late John W. Huger Probate Judge Charles B. Teasley disclosed the fact that the estate totaled $775,264.28. Mr. Huger died about 18 months ago, leaving his entire estate to his widow and children, with the proviso that all of them must make their future home in the South. The family resides in Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Huger and the Citizens and Southern Bank of Savannah, were appointed administrators of the estate.

The joint compensation of the administrators, as allowed by Judge Teasley, was fixed at $12,366.66, with additional fee of $7,500 for the bank for special services rendered. Jack Thorington, of this city, guardian ad litem, was allowed a fee of $2,000. The fees are said to be the most lucrative arising in the Probate Court here in many years, due primarily to the magnitude of the estate.

PIG IRON SELLING AT $25.

Birmingham Market Not Disturbed by Peace Proposals.

Birmingham.—Pig iron is selling at $25 per ton, No. 2 foundry basic, in the Birmingham District. Only small lots were sold, there being little iron.

It was also announced that a considerable tonnage of iron had been sold here at $21 per ton, No. 2 foundry, and also basic, delivery during the last half of the coming year, while one of the larger producers was considering no business under $23 and $24 per ton, iron delivered the last half of the year.

Broken Bottle Cause of Exposc.

Montgomery.—One hundred and eighty half pints of whiskey were seized at the Southern Express office here and confiscated by the sheriff. It is claimed by the officers that the whiskey is in excess of what the law allows; is a violation in that it is shipped in half pints, and aht it was branded "beer." It was shipped from New Orleans to three individuals here, each package or case containing sixty half pints. One of the bottles broke in transit and the escaping fluid gave off the smell of whisky. This caused an investigation. The attention of the Federal authorities has been called to the case and an investigation will be made, it is stated.

Decatur.—It was discovered here that Mrs. G. Elvins Duggan, whose engagement was announced to marry Earl Curzon, of Kedleshrdl, now a member of England's new war cabinet and former viceroy of India, was born here. She was formerly Miss Gracie Hinds, daughter of Monroe Hinds, former United States marshal from this district and united States minister to Argentina. Mr. Hinds and his daughter made their home here many years, residing in the old McEntyre residence in Decatur.

New Mine Will Be Opened Soon.

Gadsden.—A surface coal mine at Tate Gap, near Gadsden, will be opened about March 1, according to G. E. Moore, of New Orleans, representative of the company developing the coal tract. The plant will cost about $125,000. The mine is on a 1,700-acre tract, of which about 300 acres can be mined by the surface mining machinery. What information he had relative to the actions at the meeting he said, had come to him informally.

CORPORAL SANTA CLAUS

By A. G. GREENWOOD

"I CAN'T PAY, and there's an end of it," growled Jim Heathcote. "Take whatever steps you please—"

The little moneylender sucked his teeth and blinked.

"You spoke of an heiress and of marriage," he said softly. "I've waited six months, because you declared you'd marry her and pay me off. Then there's your cousin, Sir Kenneth—the hero—of Heathcote hall, won't he assist you?"

"Kenneth's a beggar. His father mortgaged the estates to the hilt," answered Jim. "He hasn't two brass farthings to rub together. Besides, if he were Croesus I couldn't approach h'm. We're not on good terms—"

"Yet you dine at the hall tonight."

Jim Heathcote looked astonished, then laughed as he glanced over his shoulder at Kenneth's invitation card stuck in the mirror.

"You're a sly fox, Morris," he observed. "Yes, he asked me and I accepted. He had to ask me. I'm his only near relation. The Hall was once my home. It's his coming-of-age dinner. He's holding it today—Christmas day—because on his real birthday in early December he was in the hospital. I'm going for one reason and for one reason only. The heiress I spoke of will be there. She is a near neighbor. I'm going to—try again."

He spoke bitterly and laughed.

"I've little chance. Kenneth got a commission, behaved gallantly, and was severely wounded at Ypres," he added. "He comes home with all the glamour of a wounded soldier—"

"And this young woman cares for him?"

Jim nodded.

"She's known us both since we were boys. At one time Kenneth and she were great pals. When he came to understand the wreck his father had made of the property—that he was a pauper—he began to sheer off. That was my opportunity. At one time my chances were good—excellent."

He spoke regretfully, as a fisherman will speak of a great fish he has failed to land.

"Then came the news of Kenneth's heroism—"

"A moment," broke in Morris. "Mr. Heathcote, you may wonder at my dunning you on Christmas morning. To be candid, I came with a proposal. When you speak of your cousin's heroism you mean his saving four guns at Ypres—the story with which the papers rang in November?"

Jim nodded.

"I came," added the little man slowly, "to suggest your going to see your cousin. I didn't know then, as you inform me, that he was not a rich man. I've found out this, Mr. James Heathcote, Sir Kenneth, your cousin, did not save the guns."

Jim Heathcote leaped up, his eyebrows arched, his lean, hatchet-shaped face working with excitement.

"What? What's that?" he cried.

Abel Morris explained. He had been to visit a nephew lying wounded at the London hospital. The nephew, a corporal, had asked his money-lending uncle for financial assistance. Morris, in explaining the utter impossibility of raising the wind, had mentioned Jim Heathcote's name. His nephew had then told a pretty story.

"Won't He Assist You?"

"The boy's an honest boy—a bit rough, but straight." Abel Morris said. "He swears this, Sir Kenneth was shot, lying unconscious at the beginning of the affair. My nephew saved the guns. He was the only unwounded man—"

"But," began Jim, in objection.

"He was shot just as re-enforcements arrived. For two days he was unconscious. He was packed off to a base hospital and lay there between life and death. He never heard till he got to England of the fuss that had been made of Sir Kenneth. Now, it occurred to me, that if you took my nephew Bob, to Heathcote hall and interviewed Sir Kenneth, he might well be willing to aid the two of you rather than have my nephew's story made public. Bob may be difficult to deal with. We should have had to be careful. He calls Sir Kenneth's action 'a blinking shame.' But he wouldn't have a hand in—"

"Blackmail, eh?" said Jim bluntly. "A precious lot of good blackmailing a pauper!"

"Exactly. That's why I was disappointed at hearing that Sir Kenneth wasn't the rich man I'd heard he was," returned Morris. "Still the information's valuable. It ought to be turned to good account. For a man in Sir

Saved the Guns.

Kenneth's position to receive a lot of honor and glory for an act he never did—"

"Scurvy," observed Jim. "More especially as it tends to infatuate Miss Wilson with him."

Little Morris started. "Does she dine with Sir Kenneth tonight?"

"Certainly," said Jim. "I told you so. That's why I'm going."

Then take Bob down. Let him appear at the end of the dinner—suddenly. Let him give Sir Kenneth away before them all. What should she think of him then. It's a low-down bit o' work he's done. Would she forgive that? I guess no woman would—to steal another man's credit. It'll revolt her, sure. That's your chance."

The lean, wicked little face was working with excitement.

"It's a better way than the other. Bob need be told nothing, except that he's to give Sir Kenneth away. You needn't tell him twice. Bob's bitter, very bitter, Bob is, and no wonder."

Jim Heathcote strode up and down his room, asking questions. Could Bob be trusted? Was his story true? Was Morris convinced?

"I'll do it," he said suddenly. "The cur deserves it," he said suddenly. "To filch another man's glory! It's low, Morris. It deserves showing up."

"More especially," commented Abel Morris, dryly, "when it pays."

* * * * * * *

A chapter of accidents almost upset the Morris-Heathcote plot. In the first place Corporal Bob went to the wrong house, and the original train to Heathcote Junction was missed. Then a fog descended and the taxicab, crawling through the gloomy streets, was the cause of their missing the next.

The junction reached, the two men climbed, shivering, from the train to find a heavy fall of snow lying thick and crisp about the station, and no sign of any conveyance.

The Hall carriages and motors sent to fetch the visitors from the junction had long since returned. The only hired fly had lost a wheel that same night in a snow-hidden ditch.

"We'll have to walk," said Jim despairingly.

It was ten o'clock before they reached the hall. As they walked down the drive Jim noticed that the French windows were uncurtained. With muffled steps they drew near to the great windows.

"There he is!" whispered Jim at the corporal's elbow. "D'you recognize him?"

Bob could only see Kenneth's profile. He stared at it.

"Yes," he breathed slowly. "I'm sure—dead sure."

Jim's heart hammered. There arose from within the strains of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and cheering and laughter.

Jim Heathcote stretched out his frozen hand and rapped sharply on the window. Simultaneously he thrust the soldier forward. Bob Morris stumbled into the silver path of light.

Jim Heathcote drew back in the shadows.

In alarm and amazement the diners stared at the lumbering corporal. Blinking in the glare, he fetched up by Sir Kenneth's chair. He had a confused glimpse of holly and mistletoe, of little flags, of gleaming silver and fruit piled high, and then, as though instinctively he divined who she was, he turned to Molly Winton and, staring at her blurted out:

"I'm Bob Morris, wot saved them guns. I'm—"

She sprang up. To his consternation she seized his hand in both of hers. He found himself gazing into her blue, admiring eyes, aghast at what she was saying.

"Sir Kenneth has just been telling us of your bravery; how he lay—wounded—unable to move and watched you. He heard someone call you Morris and has been trying to trace you ever since. He told us the whole story, and we've been thrilling—thrilling. He said it was awful lying there, useless, like a dog, and seeing you work that gun so heroically."

A hand fell on Bob's shoulder, and Sir Kenneth's right hand seized his left and gripped it.

"I recognize you, though you don't look so terrifying as you did then," he declared. "It wasn't a face I was likely to forget—the face of the hero I watched all those hours. I've been in communication with the war office about you, Morris."

"About me?" stuttered the dumfounded corporal.

"Yes, and I wrote to all the papers denying their picturesque tale of my gallantry. They thrust a little paragraph in among the advertisements. I've heard you're going to get the Distinguished Conduct medal. And you deserve it; you deserve the V. C."

It was a nightmare to Bob Morris. They were drinking his health all these pretty girls. Their gay eyes fixed on his sheepish face in admiration. Hang it, they were singing! They were proclaiming that he was a jolly good fellow.

Bob Morris longed for the earth to open and swallow him up. He sat there feeling a traitor, a spy, a Judas, a cheat. He had come to hurt, and stayed to be honored. How they'd loathe and despise him if they knew the truth.

They were sitting down. Someone had raised a shout of "speech—speech."

"Say a few words, Morris," whispered Sir Kenneth. "Don't be shy."

"I'd rather face them 'Uns," groaned Bob. He found himself on his feet.

"You're wonderin' 'ow I came and why—'oppin in like Santa Claus, ladies and gent—" he stuttered. "'Twas this way, I'll be 'oppin' out—quick—when I've done, an' properly too, but it's 'hup to me to tell the truth, the 'ole truth, and nothin' but the truth, s'welp me an' I mean to do it."

And straightway in halting language, wtih much going back for incidents he had forgotten, he let them all into his secret, the secret of his coming. When he mentioned Jim Heathcote accompanying him, Sir Kenneth leaped up and ran to the window.

He flung it open and called loudly. "Jim—Jim!"

Only the wind answered. In the distance where the moon shone on the snowdrifts in the park, he saw a hastening figure. He shouted again. The figure broke into a run and vanished among the trees. Sir Kenneth shut the window and came slowly, frowning back to his chair.

"It weren't," Bob Morris was saying, "it weren't till we was nearly 'ere that 'e told me what 'is gime was. 'Twas Miss Winton, says 'e I was to show Sir Kenneth up. I was to come between 'im and Miss Winton."

"You're Wonderin' 'Ow I Came, and Why—"

He took a step back, then swung his chair behind him.

"Well, I'm not between 'em now," he added. Sir Kenneth's cheeks were darkly flushed.

Blushing Molly held out her hand to Kenneth.

He hesitated, took it, and bent over and kissed it.

"'Ere's to 'em both—God bless 'em," cried Corporal Bob.

Kenneth Heathcote's dreams that night were invaded by a strange Santa Claus who wore, beneath his conventional red robe with its ermine trimmings, ammunition, boots and puttees, and whose face instead of being old and white, was young and scarlet, Corporal Santa Claus, who brought him a gift for which he dared not ask—he a pauper—she an heiress, the heart of Molly Winton!

Holiday Holdout.

"Santa Claus won't bring you a Christmas tree if you aren't careful," said the reproving mother.

"All right," replied the small boy, resolutely; "then you and father can't have any Christmas eve party."

CUPID BUTTS IN IN LAW OFFICE

Kansas City Attorney Proposes to His Stenographer Through a Dictaphone.

HIS NERVE FAILED HIM

Fair Object of Affections Copied Love Message in Proper Form, Then Replied as Befitted Business in Hand.

Kansas City.—One of the most striking examples of Cupid's butting into business affairs has just come to light here. John J. Tecumseh, a prominent lawyer, and his stenographer, Miss Ethel Mary Wapello, had spent a very busy day. The attorney had been seeing clients in the front office and the stenographer had been making three copies of a very long and a very dry brief, and transcribing the evidence in a very long and a very dry case.

Five o'clock came, which should have been quitting time, but the end was not yet. Ethel Mary wearily drew her chair over to the dictaphone, adjusted the headpiece and prepared to type a letter Mr. Tecumseh had dictated the night before.

A Surprise From the Boss.

After the preliminary buzzing of the blank record there came to Ethel Mary's ears strange sounds. Instead of the usual "Mr. L. G. Blank, 23 Market street, Chicago, Ill., Dear sir," the unnatural voice of her employer was heard, halting, faltering. "Miss Wapello—Ethel," it said, "there is something I have wanted to say to you for a long time—something that I could not bring myself to tell you in person—something I cannot adequately phrase now. I will be as brief as possible. I love you—I have loved you for two years—ever since you came to me.

"I appreciate fully your services as a stenographer (strike that out, please)—what I mean is that I want you to resign from this job and become my wife. You and I are not as young as we used to be. Don't you think?—can't you care just a little?—oh, strike it, strike it—all except that I love you."

"Miss Wapello—Ethel," It Said.

Reply Prompt and to the Point.

Next morning Mr. Tecumseh found two copies of the message on his desk, another little note, and no stenographer. The note said: "Dear Mr. Tecumseh—John, I hereby resign from my position as stenographer in your firm. I have enjoyed my work with you, but feel that I should accept a better place. I am about to become the wife of the best man in the world. Come up this evening and we'll talk it over. Yours truly—I mean lovingly—Ethel Mary."

SNAKE IN A STREET CAR

Crawling Among the Feet of Passengers in Louisville Makes Them Scamper.

Louisville, Ky.—Crawling among the feet of passengers on a Fourth street car, coming in from Jacob Park place the other day, a snake which had presumably been killed by a picnic party and was being brought to the city as a souvenir of a merry outing made itself unpopular with the dozen or more women and children, and enjoyed the freedom of the floor until Dr. H. E. Mechling, who had helped to "kill" it in the first place, put his heel on its head and "killed" it again. He then flung it off the car by the tail.

"There were about ten young women in our party," said Doctor Mechlin, "and they discovered the snake near a path in the park.

"It was about 3½ feet long and black, with yellow and white spots. I had heard of spreading vipers, and from the way it coiled and seemingly spread its head for striking I believed it to be one of that species."

Brothers Meet After 57 Years.

New York.—While the golden wedding anniversary of John M. Nelson was in progress, Henry Nelson, wealthy ship owner of San Francisco, entered the house and greeted his brother for the first time in 57 years. Each had thought the other dead.

SAVED ALIVE FROM THE JAWS OF BEAR

Brother Struck Enraged Brute With an Ax and Rescued Ellery Harer.

Williamsport, Pa.—Ammon Harer, a farmer living near Liberty, saved the life of his brother Ellery (who lay prostrate under a wounded bear, which was tearing and chewing the man's arm) by striking the animal on the head with an ax.

The exciting battle occurred on the Harer farm recently. As Ellery Harer opened the kitchen door at his farm home to investigate a peculiar noise he was confronted by a large black bear only a few feet from the doorstep. The farmer jumped back into the house and slammed the door almost in the face of the bear.

Armed with a gun containing one shell he partly opened the door and fired. The shot wounded the bear, which turned and disappeared down a gully below the house.

Harer, carrying his gun with five shells—all the ammunition in the house—and his brother, armed with an ax, followed. They soon overtook the bear. Harer pumped the remainder of the ammunition into bruin's body and the enraged animal turned on him.

Raising itself, the animal struck Harer with a front paw, tearing the flesh on his arm. As the bear struck both fell, the man under the bear. The man was held a prisoner as the bear tore and bit at his bleeding arm, until his brother rushed to his rescue and with a blow with the ax on the bear's head killed it.

HUNTER FINDS HIS MONEY

Drops Bills From His Pocket Near Log, Returns at Night and Recovers Them.

Norwalk, O.—A Norwalk man started out hunting recently. He took with him his trusty dog and rusty gun to hunt rabbit or squirrel or woodchuck, or whatever is in season.

He grew tired and sat down on a log to rest. When he came home that night his wife asked, the first thing, about that $125 a man had paid him in the morning. He searched every pocket. Money gone! Consternation! Nothing to do but find it.

So he set out into the night, lantern in hand, and traveled the back trial. He searched and searched, but all in vain, until he came to the log where he had rested. And there was the little musty roll that had caused all the trouble. He admits now he's a good hunter—for money.

CAT RIDES THE FLYWHEEL

Wisconsin Woodmen's Pet Is Picked Up for Dead, but Recovers in Short Time.

Sheboygan, Wis.—Tom, the big cat pet of the woodmen in a mill here, had a most unusual joy ride and escaped with his life, or one of them.

The big cat attempted to leap through a 16-foot flywheel while it was making 71 revolutions per minute, but was caught in the wheel and held for 20 minutes, when the engine was stopped.

During the ride the cat traveled 68,160 feet, or 12¾ miles. He was picked up as dead, but one hour later ate a heavy meal.

LOST LEGS PICKING COAL

Baby Is Run Over by Switcher in Railroad Yards at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Ia.—Coal ran short in the Hulenberg home here the other day, and there was not enough money on hand to lay in a new supply. The family was beginning to suffer from the raw November weather, so the mother sent little Anna to gather some lumps that had fallen from cars in the St. Paul railway yards.

While the child was at work, picking up a bit of coal here and there to put in her bag, a switch engine with a string of cars ran her down and cut off both legs above the knees.

JANUARY 12 IS CLEAN-UP DAY

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL OBSERVE DATE FOR CLEANING UP PROPERTY OF STATE.

STATE CAPITAL HAPPENINGS

Doings In and Around the State House Chronicled for Our Readers.

—Montgomery.

Public school teachers and patrons of public schools were called upon by the state educational department to observe clean-up and school improvement day January 12 by improving the schools and school property and by the redition of a programme which will create a sentiment in favor of better schools. The day is the first of four special days which will be observed in Alabama public schools during the school year. The second will be health day, February 2; the third, good roads and arbor day, February 23, and the fourth, better farming day, March 16. William F. Feagin, state superintendent of education, has published a bulletin giving a programme for the observance of school improvement and clean-up day and giving experiences last year which show a general interest in the movement of better schools.

Demurrage Rate Sought.

The Alabama Demurrage and Storage Bureau is endeavoring to put a stop to the cart shortages, and with this end in view has petitioned the Alabama Public Service Commission for the following demurrage charges:

Two days, free time; after that $1 for the first day the car is not unloaded, $2 for the second day, $3 for the third day, and $5 for the fourth day and $5 for every day after the fourth day.

The matter will be heard by the Public Service Commission January 6 next. It is thought that if these charges are placed upon the recipient he will unload his car and let it go out for further service.

November 11 last the Interstate Commerce Commission granted this privilege as interstate traffic and the States of West Virginia, Georgia and North Carolina have recognized the importance of the matter by allowing this rate.

Must Have a Treasurer.

A peculiar situation has arisen in Lauderdale County as the result of the paseage by the last Legislature of a bill abolishing the office of county treasurer in all counties of the State with less than 50,000 inhabitants, with two exceptions.

The law abolishing the country treasurer in such counties provided that th ecounty board of revenue or county commissioners should advertise for bids among the banks of the county and the institution offering the largest per cent of interest for the use of the county's funds was to be named the depository for the county.

The board of revenue of Lauderdale County advertised for bids among the banks of that county, but not a single one responded, so the board now is confronted with a rather peculiar situation.

According to the bill as passed by the Legislature, when no bank files a bid for the use of the county's monies, then the board must select a resident of the county, place him under bond and designate him as the one to receive all cunty funds.

The presiding ficer of the county commissioners is compelled, according to the bill, to perform all the duties previously performed by the county treasurer.

Wade Inspects Carolina Seed.

Jas. A. Wade, State Commissioner of Agriculture, made a trip to Raleigh, N. C., to inspect the cotton seed being purchased in that State by Alabama farmers. It is said that a large percentage of the cotton seed to be planted in Alabama next season is being obtained in North Carolina, and Mr. Wade's investigation follows closely the warning issued by the Department of Agriculture of the United States government, in regard to the necessity for the examination of cotton seed shipped from one section of the cotton belt to another.

MUST PAY IN ADVANCE

Owing to the high price of paper and the general advance in the cost of printing materials, we will be compelled, after January 1st, 1917, to stop sending the Union-Banner to all subscribers who are not paid in advance.

All back subscriptions will be stopped on that date, and some method of pursuit will be employed for the collection of the amount due up to that time.

We regret to have to do this, but the pressure of the abnormal conditions existing in the printing and publishing business compel us to adopt this policy.

If you want to continue to receive the paper after the above named date, it is well for you to come in and pay up in advance thereof. If you do not want to pay in advance, we would appreciate it if you will come in and pay up, as we would then be saved the trouble of carrying the account on after we discontinue the paper.

All please take due notice of these things and be governed accordingly.

Farmers of the Northwest have been unofficially informed that prices of farm machinery and binding twine will be materially advanced during the coming season. There's goodby to some of the big war-order profits secured from last year's wheat.

Carranza sympathisers near the border say that the defeat of the Carranza forces by Villa at Chihuahua was due to the American embargo on ammunition. Having raised and lowered the embargo so many times, perhaps the Mexicans think President Wilson will raise it once more and give them a chance to get American bullets with which to slay American soldiers.

Now that all opportunity for political capital is past, Josephus Daniels' paper, the Raleigh News & Observer, prints a long and detailed account of the northward migration of negroes. And the story relates entirely to employment. It was purely a case of the jobs hunting the men. No politics in it. But it served the purpose of enabling some Democratic peanut politicians to cast slurs at Republican campaign managers in the North. There are many things in the history of their campaign of which the Democrats have ample reason to be ashamed.

Among the interesting after-election opinions is one advanced by the Houston Post to the effect that this country should display a stronger diplomacy. Our communications, especially to the British Government, it says, should take on the "directness and force which it was the custom of Richard Olney to impart to them." The Onley notes to England also "kept us out of war," it should be remembered.

Champ Clark's idea to abolish the gallery in the House of Representatives would put an end to playing to the gallery only in the House. As David Harum observed, "There's as much human nature in most of us as in others, if not more." And one of the demands of human nature in legislative bodies is an opportunity to make speeches "for Buncombe county," as one frank lawmaker long ago admitted.

Down in Virginia a man applied for appointment as a game warden, and, in answer to questions regarding his qualifications, inadvertently disclosed the fact that "there are certain parties around here that I want to get back at." In due course of time he ought to be available for appointment as controller of the currency.

There are some people who still argue that there should be absolute free trade between the United States and Canada. When the war ends and we read the new trade laws by which Great Britian and her allies guarantee advantage among themselves and their colonies, even these free traders will change their views. The United States will wake up some fine monring to find that the Canadian producer has a decided advantage in the British market.

OUR RECORD

A railroad man, who has worked at every station on the L & N between Montgomery and Decatur, says he observes more whiskey unloaded at Clanton by the express company than at any other town on the line, with the possible exception of Birmingham. The express company will do even a bigger business than ever this week owing to the holiday season.

One good Democrat, a friend of the editor, said the other day he had decided that us Republicans in Chilton county were reasonably good fellows after all. "Anyway," he said "we Democrats must take our hats off to your bunch, for you beat anything we could put against you."

We thanked the friend for his kind and fair expression, and assured him that our Republicans try to be fair, square and honest, and considerate of all things and interests. We invite any Democrat to disrobe himself of the mantle of prejudice and take a good look at our Republican party in Chilton county. When he does that we shall not blush at the verdict he renders.

GALA WEEK IN MONTGOMERY

Through a desire to promote the agricultural, commercial and industrial conditions in Middle Alabama, the business men of Montgomery are planning a gala week in the Capital city for January 22-27th, and will invite farmers, merchants and the people generally to visit Montgomery during this week and participate in the program of instructions and entertainment.

The manufacturers of Montgomery will put on an exhibition of products made at home. The annual show of the Dixie Poultry Association will be staged throughout the week and two days will be given over to consideration of growing cotton under boll weevil conditions with Government and State experts present to advise the farmers.

The Made in Montgomery Exhibit will be at the big city auditorium, which will be beautifully decorated. There will be dancing every night and a big costume ball Friday night of that week. Prizes will be offered for the most beautiful woman attending the show, th handsomest baby, the most unique costume and other contests.

Admission to the show will be free and every person passing through the doors will be given a button with a number, which will serve as a chance on several prizes to be awarded every day.

The committee of Montgomery business men are trying to develop parties that will participate in a real wedding ceremony, and will start the couple off in matrimony under the most favorable conditions.

SUGGESTIVE CROP ROTATION FOR A ONE-HORSE FARMER

By J. F. Dugger, Director of Extension Service.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

No single plan set down on paper can be the best for all farmers even in a single community. However, I venture to make the following suggestive outline for an intelligent one-horse farmer in the sandy regions of Central Alabama, having thirty acres of open land, besides permanent pasture. I do this with the expectation that only a few farmers may be able to use this plan exactly in its present shape, but that others may find it a helpful and suggestive basis from which to consider other plans somewhat along the same lines, but differing in relative acreage and in some other particulars.

(a). Fall sown crops,

Acres.
5	in oats.
3	in wheat.
1	in rye.
½	in Dwarf Essex rape. (Fenced).
½	in bur or other clover, or vetch. (Fenced).
10	Total,

As much as possible of this grain land is to be used also for a summer crop of either peanuts, soybeans or cowpeas.

(b). Summer crops for spring planting.

Acres.
10	(or more) in corn with early speckled velvet beans between.
5	in cotton.
3	in sweet potatoes.
1	in sugar cane or large variety of sorghum.
1	in garden and miscellaneous truck crops.
20	Total,

You will note that the above plan provides the following sales crops: Most of the wheat on three acres; part of the oats, if a thrasher be available; all of the cotton and cotton seed (the place of the cotton seed in winter feeding of cattle to be taken by the unhulled and unground velvet beans, both in field and gathered); a little of the corn unless the supply of hogs be sufficient to consume the surplus; part of the sweet potatoes; most of the syrup and a part of the miscellaneous truck crops. To this list, if the supply of hogs be insufficient to consume such food, should be added as a sale crop, most of the peanuts following summer grain; some cowpeas, and a few soybeans; the latter to be sold chiefly to neighbors for planting.

This whole list of crops has been so proportioned as to make it possible for hogs to be largely substituted for the ordinary acreage of cotton. You will note the large proportion of crops which can be, more advantageously marketed through hogs than any other way, such as peanuts, soybeans, cowpeas, velvet beans, Dwarf Essex rape, bur clover, part of the sweet potatoes, and such other winter grazing as may be afforded rather early in the winter by wheat, oats and rye, or even by using rye and oats, not only for winter grazing, but also to be hogged-off at the time of maturing. At the same time, this scheme of cropping is considered with a view to meeting the requirements of those farmers who have not many hogs and who must be able to sell direct for cash a considerable proportion of the crops grown by them.

The fact that syrup blending plants offer, I believe, the same price, now about 30c per gallon, for sorghum as for cane syrup, makes it possible for the farmers thus convenient to blending plants to grow one acre of a crop for syrup making without much outlay for seed, which would be the case if they had to devote an entire acre to sugar cane. Of course, I realize that for most local or retail markets, sugar cane syrup is by far the best seller, and that the retail price for a good grade of syrup should be considerably greater than the wholesale price mentioned above.

Those who desire to eliminate cotton completely to increase correspondingly the number of hogs, may well devote the five acres proportioned for cotton, to an additional area in corn.

Kirstin Stump Puller

One Man — Horse Power

The Kirstin Method guarantees a saving of 10% to 50% over all other methods of land clearing. The Kirstin Method not only pulls your stumps but gets rid of them after they are pulled.

Yank out your stumps! Transform your no-man's-land into money-making, cultivated fields. Gold is under your stumps—get it out, put it in bank. Clear your land and produce big crops.

The Kirstin Method clears land ready for the plow. It has vastly increased the productive value of more than 35,000 farms, most of them in the South.

No deeply imbedded tap root is too big for the Kirstin Horse Power Puller. Its mighty strength is irresistible because of its triple power and other exclusive Kirstin features. It will clear more than two acres at one setting without strain to man, horse or machine. It has been the leader for 21 years.

One man without horses can pull the biggest stumps, too, with the Kirstin One Man Puller. A little push on the handle gives tons of pull on the stump. This enormous power is developed by use of double leverage. It gives an ordinary 17-year-old farm boy a giant's power.

My Kirstin has pulled trees with tap roots larger than the bodies of the trees; roots tapering down 19 feet and laterals 24 feet. I have pulled everything I ever hitched to.
—R. L. MAINLAND, Davenport, Fla.

I cannot give the Kirstin too much praise; it does all you claim. Can pull anything I anchor to. It cost only 3c to 5c per stump to clear my land.
—FRED HAGELE, Cynthiana, Ky.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. A GOOD MAN WANTED

F. Lee Sheppy, 172 N. Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill., General Sales Manager of the largest concern of its kind in the world, wants three or four men in Chilton County and several men in adjoining counties, to work for him spare time or all the time. He can use only those who have a rig or auto. Work is very pleasant and no previous selling experience is necessary. Work consists of leaving a wonderful new household necessity in the homes on free trial. Tests at more than thirty of the leading Universities and the Government Bureau of Standards show this new article to be four times as efficient as article now in general use in this connection. Article is needed in every rural home and benefits every member of the household, bringing cheer, comfort and happiness into the home. Not necessary to be away from home at nights. Pay from $6.00 to $15.00 per day according to ability and number of homes visited. In writing Mr. Sheppy, mention what townships will be most convenient for you to work in; what your regular occupation is; your age; married or single; how long you have lived in the community; what kind of a rig or auto you have; whether you wish to work spare time or steady; how much time you will have to devote to the work; when you can start and about how many homes are within six miles of you in each direction. This is a splendid opportunity for several men in Chilton County and counties adjoining to make good money, working steady or spare time. Some of the field men earn $300.00 per month; one farmer earned $1,000.00 working spare time only. No investment or bond necesary.

TRAINING TODAY'S BOYS AND GIRLS

What the Little Ones Should Learn, and How.

FORCING SYSTEM IS WRONG

Differences Between Information, Knowledge and Wisdom, and the Value of Experience as a Teacher of Children.

By SIDONIE M. GRUENBERG.

IS IT not true that every parent wishes to give his children the full benefit of all the accumulated wisdom of the past? And it is quite natural for parents to do so, since they are old enough to realize how wasteful it is for the child to get all his experience at first hand. To learn, and learn, and learn, while children are still young and capable of learning; to learn while they are still young and quite incapable of doing anything else worth while—that would seem to be the ideal life for children. Yes, by all means, have the children learn.

But learn what? And learn how?

These questions do not seem to have received quite so much attention as they really deserve. We have been so overawed by the vastness of the world's learning, and we have been so conscious of the fact that the heap is constantly growing, that we have allowed ourselves to look upon the knowledge of the ancients as a sacred treasury that must be preserved at all cost, and that must be injected into children to the limit of their capacities.

Without in any way disparaging the value of accumulated experience, it is fair to ask whether we have been altogether wise in our pursuit of learning—for the children's sake. Is it not true that we have too readily accepted the written word as something worth while in itself? Have we not too commonly confused information with knowledge, and knowledge with wisdom?

In recent years there seems to have been a wave of frantic fear among many conscientious parents that the prevailing methods of instruction are too slow to give the children all of the needed learning. Or perhaps it has been a keen realization of the tremendous store that has to be gathered in a few short years. At any rate there has been an eager searching for a method of filling the children's knowledge reservoirs more expeditiously and more compactly. So we have the monstrous sight of a three-year-old girl reading and of a six-year-old composing poetry.

It is not to be denied that the world is quite full of a number of things, many of which are worth understanding. It is also true that if you catch a child young you may get more into him before he escapes than you could if you delayed your capture. But just what good does it do a child of eight to "read Shakespeare"—as many children of eight have done? Of course, they pronounce all the words correctly, and they even offer you a good imitation of "expression." It is not difficult to teach ordinary children to read at a very early age. It is not difficult to have them read a great deal and to reproduce much of what they read. But what is the use of all this? The assumption is that the more the child reads the more he will remember, and the more he remembers the better off he is.

We Have the Monstrous Sight of a Three-Year-Old Girl Reading.

The facts of the child's development, however, are against the forcing system of education. We can make a child reproduce beautiful passages from our "best authors" long before we can give him an inkling of what the authors are talking about. The child may read about passions and intrigue, but he gets only words and high-sounding phrases. We may keep the child at our side and fill him up with a thousand facts of history and enough other words to qualify him for three or four grades ahead of his years. But this learning does not add to the child's power, because it has no real meaning to him—it is not connected with his emotions and experience.

There is real danger in the attempt to shorten the child's developing period by forcing him to an early completion of the school work. The fact that the child is capable of passing the school tests in fewer years than are ordinarily required may not be a real gain. If it were possible to make the child condense his valuable experience so that he would at ten years of age be where most children are at fourteen, that would be worth considering. In so far as "learning" represents condensed experience it is worth while; in so far, however, as it is merely a mass of words about experience, it is worse than useless.

There is another danger in the concentrated learning theory of bringing up children. The most valuable part of the child's education during the early years, so far as the school is concerned, has to do with learning how to get along with other children—with other people, that is. And this is the chief advantage of the kindergarten or school during these years. The problem of the adjustment of the individual to the group, and from this the individual's discovery of his own personality, is the most significant part of education.

We are likely to have the choice between more individual instruction and rapid progress of a kind, and more group activities with slower "learning." When we are confronted with this choice, it is well for us to realize that the child needs more experience with the external world, including other people. This he needs not only as a foundation for the concepts and abstractions and the lofty ideals we usually value in "learning," but he needs it quite as much as a means of getting outside himself. Richard gets from his few months of kindergarten an enlarged vocabulary and an enrichment of his knowledge about things. But most noticeable and most valuable is the fact that he has lost self-consciousness and has gained in control of self in relation to others.

It has been found that where children are given an abundance of concrete experience with things of nature and of the shop and studies, and with each other, while the reading and writing was postponed, they soon caught up on the learning side, and were healthier and happier than the book-fed children. There are other ways of learning than the Rs system, and there are more important things for the child to get than any book can give him. But most important of all, the book learning serves at its best on a foundation of genuine experience with life's realities.

Lived in Historic Era.

Marie de Rabutin Chantal, known to the world as Mme. Sevigne, is supposed to have been born in Burgundy, at the chateau of Boubilly, in 1626, though both date and place are somewhat obscure. In 1644 she married Marquis de Sevigne. Her unhappy marriage was terminated by the death of the marquis seven years afterward in a duel. The young widow then devoted herself entirely to her children. When her daughter was married to Marquis de Grignan, the consequent separation caused the correspondence, which although not intended for publication, made her name celebrated, for she associated with the principal actors in the Civil war of the Fronde.

"Curing" Married Couples.

If every wife who is trying to cure her husband and every husband who is trying to cure his wife would stop the operation, and all the husbands would devote their energies to curing themselves and all wives devote their energies to curing themselves, the homes would be a great deal happier than they are today. There are scolding wives who are bending all their energies to the task of curing their husbands of habits far less detrimental to the happiness of the home than the habit of scolding. There are husbands who have set themselves the task of curing their wives of imperfections of much less consequence than the infirmities of character and temper possessed by the husband himself.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Good Breeding.

Civility is the essential article toward pleasing and is the result of good nature and good sense, but good breeding is the decoration, the luster of civility, and only to be acquired by a minute attention to, and experience of good company. A good-natured plowman or fox hunter may be intentionally as civil as the politest courtier, but their manner often degrades and vilifies their matter; whereas in good breeding the manner always adorns and dignifies the matter to such a degree that I have very often known it to give currency to base coin.—Lord Chesterfield.

Hospitals for Animals.

There is in India a sect called Jains, one of the articles of whose creed is that men should not only do no harm to animals, but should protect their lives and cure their ills. The Jains have many hospitals where sick and maimed animals are tenderly cared for.

The pious Jain who meets on the road a wounded animal stops to take care of it or receives it into his dwelling. The hospital at Bombay is situated in the center of the most densely populated quarter of the "Black Town" and all visitors are freely admitted.

Sports Clothes for Southern Climes

In the name of Palm Beach new and wonderful sports clothes are just being launched upon the sea of fashionable favor. They are more certain of smooth sailing than any other venture in new apparel, for they have a definite character that has already been enthusiastically approved. They admit of spirit—not to say daring—designs, and give opportunity for distinctive dressing, which every woman, young or otherwise, may take advantage of.

One of the new skirts, with an appropriate blouse and hat, all made for the southern sojourner, are shown in the picture. The indispensable shore bag, matching the skirt, is given prominence befitting the high esteem accorded everything in the way of bags.

The skirt is fitted about the hips by overlapping the stripes in plaits that are stitched down to the thigh. It is bordered and belted with the figured stripe in the goods and is otherwise plain. It fits the figure exquisitely.

The tailored blouse is of crepe de chine, with a satin panel down the front and on the cuffs, where white mother-of-pearl buttons are mounted.

The shore bag and the shore pillow have cast their lot together in a union that appears for the first time this season, so that bag and pillow in one may be made to match the skirt. But oftener this clever combination of the two matches a hat and scarf made of silk.

The inspiration of the Chinese hat lingers in the pretty turban with straw brim and figured silk crown, shown in the picture. It is trimmed with a row of straw cabochons set about the brim edge.

Not New but a Little Different.

The French silk and velvet corsage flowers which have been used for a couple of seasons, done up in miniature bandboxes, have returned in the same or even daintier boxes with ribbons bunched at the sides and there is a difference in the flowers. The heart of each tinted rose or orchid holds a tiny vanity case with all its appointments.

In the Garden of the Boudoir

From head to foot the dainty woman likes to have all her belongings express refinement. Whether her taste be grave or gay (and it is sure to be both) she strives to make her love of beauty and her personality apparent in everything she wears. Her sense of fitness, and her disposition, may cause her to appear on the street in the most reserved of tailor-mades, but within her own four walls look for gayeties that blossom at their prettiest in her own room.

Such flowerlike things as are pictured here flourish in the garden of the boudoir, among other pretty luxuries that every woman loves. They are easily made and may match the negligee or be selected to harmonize with it. Light tints look well with white and almost any color.

The set of slippers with garters to match, as pictured, will look well with any color, which makes them a safe choice as a gift. The toe slippers are made of lambs'-wool soles covered with light pink satin. A flat elastic band, covered with pink satin ribbon shirred over it, makes a loop that is attached to the back of the sole and holds the slipper to the foot. The satin that forms the toe is covered with a light lace having the pattern run with silver thread. Three small, flat rosettes of satin ribbon are mounted on the toe. They are joined by ribbon and look like flowers.

The garters are made of elastic bands with ribbon shirred over them. A flounce of the silver-run lace falls from the covered band and helps make a lovely background for three rosettes like those on the slippers. Such an enticing bit of adornment is within the reach of everyone who knows anything of needle work and even a millionairess can't have anything prettier.

Julia Bottomley

Ordinary Furs Disguised.

It is not the fur that counts, say the couturiers, this season. It is the finish, the way the fur is dyed and treated that renders it smart. And so consistently is this idea carried out that it is difficult to recognize well-known varieties, according to Vogue. Rabbit masquerades under all sorts and some of the furs with long hair are dyed and figured as strange new furs. Squirrel is dipped in dye and emerges as a new sort of chinchilla or as some hitherto unheard-of fur from that land of strange furbearing animals—Russia. The fireside cat is even offered up on the altar of fashion, and one shudders to think that one's latest set of marmot may possibly have been the police dog.

According to modern etiquette, the amethyst is the only stone which may be worn during mourning.

The Old Yellow Pumpkin.

How dear to my heart is the old yellow pumpkin, when orchards are barren of stuffing for pies; when peaches and apples have both been a failure, and berries no longer dazzle my eyes. Then fondly I turn to the fruit of the cornfield—the fruit country lads are taught to despise—the old yellow pumpkin, the mud-covered pumpkin, the pot-bellied pumpkin, that makes such good pies.

"Minnie is at college," proudly responded the fond mother, and then added: "And I am so worried about her. I haven't had a letter for nearly two weeks." "There is where you make a mistake," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Brown. "Instead of letting her go to college why don't you send her to one of those correspondence schools?"

EXCELLENT TIME FOR PROOF.

The children were to give a surprise party to a boy new to the neighborhood and Harry wanted much to go, so he sought his father's consent. The first question dad put to him on being approached was:

"Have you asked your mother?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did she say?"

"She said I couldn't go," was the frank response; "she doesn't like the new boy."

"Then," demanded the astonished and indignant father, "what do you mean by coming to me to ask to do a thing your mother has told you you could not do?"

"Well, dad," rejoined Harry, "I heard you say the other evening that you're the boss of this ranch, and I thought it was about time for you to prove it."

The Difficult Part.

"This motion picture comedian has to work hard."

"Why, it isn't such hard work to fall into mud puddles, have pies smeared on your face, be run over by a street sweeper and receive the contents of a flour barrel on your head."

"I know it, but think how much trouble it must be for him to get cleaned up every evening in time for dinner."

Will It Come True?

"A motorist tells me he dreamed of a good fairy last night."

"And what did the good fairy do for him?"

"She touched the gasoline dealers with her wand and they lowered the price."

DEFINED.

Earlie—Pa, what is a prospective bridegroom?

His Dad—Well, my son, a prospective bridegroom nowadays is a young man prospecting for an heiress.

Doesn't Have To.

"I never dodge a motor car,"
Said William Henry Pelf;
The explanation's simple quite—
He rides in one himself.

The Darker Side.

"Does wearing a fancy tie indicate that a person has a joyous disposition?"

"Not always," answered the misanthrope. "Sometimes it merely indicates that the wearer lacked sufficient will power to rebel when his wife wished it on him."

Out on a Fowl.

Her—I wish I were a bird!

Him—So you could fly to my arms?

Her—Not necessarily; but so I couldn't have the toothache.

"Yes," rejoined the horse reporter, "and there is quite a lot of stuff that he doesn't get credit for."

"How do you know?" asked the s. e.

"Got the tip from his grocer,' answered the equine authority.

Wrong Tactics.

"I hear Mrs. Twobble is thinking of adopting a political career."

"Something of the sort seems to be in her mind," replied Mr. Twobble.

"Are you strengthening her in that determination?"

"I did for awhile."

"In what way?"

"By trying to stop her."

Money Talks.

"Witness," said the lawyer, who was doing the cross-examining stunt, "are you willing to swear that the defendant was smoking a pipe at the time?"

"No, sir," answered the witness, "I never swear. But I'm willing to bet you ten dollars to five dollars that he was."

Trails Behind.

"Is Doppel the head of a family?"

"He has a wife and several children. If that is what you mean, and he heads the family procession when buying tickets to a motion picture show, but at all other times his place is in the rear."

Lazy.

"Tom is a lazy fellow."

"Well, I should say so; he will borrow a light for his cigar any time rather than put his hand in his pocket for a match."

KNEW THE GAME.

Teacher—What does one, two, three, four, five make?

Earlie (whose father plays the game)—A straight.

How It's Done.

When lovely woman stoops to folly,
And weds man that's twice her age,
Divorce may ease her melancholy
And put a new star on the stage.

His Fears Allayed.

Timid Youth—I-er-have c-come to ask a very g-great er-favor of you, and I-er—

Stern Parent—Well, cut it short, young man; this is my busy day.

Timid Youth—I I-love your-er-daughter, sir, and w-would ask her h-hand in m-marriage. She is w-wil—

Stern Parent—Oh, is that it? Well, take her, my boy, and welcome. I thought at first you wanted to borrow money.

Convincing Proof.

"Are you sure this is a fashionable restaurant?"

"Quite positive."

"I presume you base your conclusion on the service and the class of people who eat here?"

"Partly on that and partly on the fact that the head waiter has one of the finest automobiles in town."

The Noisy Thinker.

"Yes, that's a fact," observed the man who seemed to be thinking aloud.

"What's a fact?" queried the man with the rubber habit.

"That people who are seldom right themselves are always trying to set others right," answered the noisy thinker.

The Universal Bard.

"He quotes Shakespeare on the slightest provocation, you say?"

"That's the man."

"I presume he finds quotations in Shakespeare's works that apply to every phase of life?"

"Yes. It's remarkable. He dug up one the other day that fitted the case when his tire exploded."

Real Hardship.

"Mrs. Gadder complains a great deal about hard times."

"Why, she seems to live as luxuriously as ever."

"Yes, but she says no one who has never had the experience knows what it means to worry along with only two chauffeurs."

Suburban Sort.

"But I thought you said your new cook was a jewel?"

"So I did."

"And yet she left the second day?"

"Yes. You see, she didn't like the kind of setting we provided for her."

SHE FEARED THE WORST.

"My dear, you and I have got to agree upon a plan of some kind whereby we shall be able to keep down our bills this month."

"But aren't you afraid if we do so that the courts will get after us for combining in restraint of trade?"

Just Possible.

What! You don't mean to say you had a scrap with Sluggs? Why, that fellow doesn't know when he is licked.

Juggs—Well, perhaps he doesn't—but when I got through with him I'll bet he had suspicions.

Asked and Answered.

"How did you come to lose your job?" asked the first stenographer "Did the boss catch you flirting?"

"No," replied steno. No. 2, "I caught the boss. You must come to our wedding, dear."

LIVE STOCK

FALL PIGS ARE PROFITABLE

Feed According to the Free-Choice System and Market Them in April.

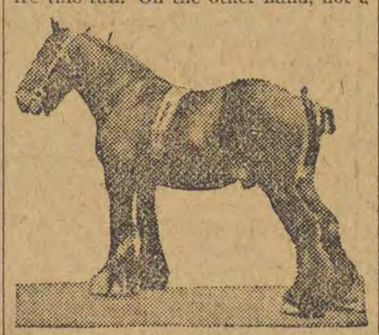
More fall pigs can be raised in Iowa with profit—but it is well to market them in April, says the animal husbandry department at Iowa State college.

September fall pigs rightly handled may be made to weigh better than 225 pounds, a handy, demanded weight, by April of the following year. It is being done.

A simple ration of corn, meat meal tankage and skim milk or buttermilk is excellent. Allow rock salt at free will. Feed all feeds according to the free-choice system, that is, put each in a compartment and let the pigs eat at will. Oats for fall pigs do not pay if one has plenty of meat tankage and milk or plenty of either.

With 70-cent corn the Iowa station has made gain on fall pigs for $5.14 per hundred pounds. This compares favorably with spring pig costs.

A return of $1.10 a bushel of corn after crediting other feeds, when hogs sell at $8, makes a fine showing for the fall pig and for the free-choice system of swine feeding.



Why not feed some fall pigs as outlined, this winter?

DEAL SHELTER FOR WINTER

Tightly Built Shed, With Open Front on South Side Where Colt May Come and Go, Is Best.

(By J. MONTGOMERY, Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station.)

As the pastures dry up and cold weather approaches, the question of how to care for the growing colt through the winter confronts the farmer. Many colts will be taken from pasture with a goodly store of fat only to be turned out to a straw pile for feed and shelter, and will come out next spring lighter in weight than they are this fall. On the other hand, not a few colts may be ruined by heavy feeding in stalls, where they cannot take exercise.

The ideal shelter for colts is a tightly built shed, open to the south, where the animals may go in and out at their own pleasure, and where they may have the run of a good big field for exercise. Idle farm horses can best be sheltered in the same way. A dry bed and protection from cold winds, snow and rain is all that is needed.

NOTES FOR SHEEP BREEDERS

Flock Should Be Provided With Dry Yard and Shed Floor—Drafty Barn Is Poor Shelter.

Feed the sheep well in early winter.

The sheep flock should have access to clean, pure water, even if they don't drink much.

The condition of the fleece next spring depends upon how well the sheep is cared for now.

If you can't provide your flock with a dry yard and shed floor, sell them to your neighbor who can. You will never succeed with a sheep kept in a wet, muddy yard.

An open shed facing the south, with a strawstack on the southwest side, is better than a drafty barn for sheep.

HINTS FOR SWINE BREEDERS

Purchase Boar With Heavy Bones—Feed Some Grain Twice Each Day for the Best Results.

In purchasing a boar it is well to bear in mind that one with heavy bones is more to be desired than one of the slight build.

Neither rape nor clover alone will do for growing, fattening hogs. They must have some grain twice a day for best results.

To make fall pigs do well, they must be provided with warm sleeping quarters at night, and filled with sunshine during the day.

STALLION IS BEST AT WORK

Horse Should Be in Good Physical Condition Before Breeding Season—Exercise Is Needed.

A stallion that is not fit to work is not fit to sire work horses, in the opinion of J. S. Montgomery of the animal husbandry division of the Minnesota College of Agriculture. "The horse should be in good physical condition before the beginning of the breeding season," he says. "Plenty of exercise should be provided. If it is impossible to work the horse, a large paddock should be arranged where he may play in all kinds of weather."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 24

UNTO US A SON IS GIVEN.

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 9:1-7.

GOLDEN TEXT—For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulders; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.—Isa. 9:6.

The Christmas lesson naturally and logically follows the three lessons we have just had from the book of the Revelation where Jesus in his glory had been portrayed, and the ultimate success of his work is foreseen in the new heaven and the new earth. Isaiah saw the vision of his first coming. John saw the vision of his second coming, when what he began the first time shall ultimately be accomplished. The prophecy here spoken was uttered during the reign of Ahaz, B. C. 738 to 723. The king of Assyria was attacking Syria. The tribes of northern Israel were carried away as captives. Judah was in danger of invasion. (See II Kings 15:29.) Isaiah was preaching in his home city, Jerusalem. His vision of the Messiah Savior was not more than 800 years before John saw the vision of the glorified Jesus.

I. Darkness Versus Light (vv. 1-5). We need to go back into the eighth chapter to get the full historical situation of this part of the lesson. Ahaz, trembling in Jerusalem, had with him the Prophet Isaiah, the wisest and greatest man in his kingdom, yet Ahaz listened not to his words of warning and rebuke. He doggedly pursued his own course and sought help in every other quarter than the right one. This explains Isaiah's words, "The people that walked in darkness." Primarily he may have referred to those of the lands of Zebulon and Naphtali, the Galilee of the nations (John 1:46; 7:52) and the light which shone in them, which was the light of the world, Jesus of Nazareth (John 8:12). But there is a larger application in this verse to the whole world which lay in darkness until Jesus came, and the whole world has seen or shall see the great light (Luke 1:78-79). With the coming of light comes the increase of joy (v. 3 R. V.). In Israel there is to be, through Christ, a wonderful increase (Isa. 49:20-22; Zech. 10:8). In Christ there is to be great joy, the joy of harvest and of victory. The religion of Jesus Christ is pre-eminently the religion of joy (Acts 8:8; Phil. 4:4; I Peter 1:8) but the Child that was to be born was to be a Deliverer too, for the "yoke of burden" was a tax of $1,800,000 that had recently been levied by the king of Assyria. It was a night of thick darkness for Israel. Then, even as now, we have the moral darkness. (Read Rom. 1:20-32.) But the prophet saw the joy of deliverance. Jerusalem had been left in peace, Hezekiah succeeded his father, Ahaz, and entered upon a religious revival in the kingdom. The people who had walked in darkness had seen a new light. The prophet saw the dawning rays through the midst of this darkness of ignorance being removed. He also saw the coming of the Light of Men 700 years later, and the multiplication of the nations, the increase of their joy.

II. Unto Us a Son Is Born (vv. 6-7). The greatest joy for Israel in Isaiah's time was in this vision of the Messiah, the promised Savior. Isaiah is looking ahead seven centuries. We are looking back nineteen. He was to be king over his people. Name and title is here given. (1) "Wonderful" because of his nature, being both human and divine. The word made flesh and dwelt among us. (2) "Counselor," one who has the wisdom to guide himself and others. No one guided by him has ever failed of true success. (3) "The Mighty God." He was truly God so that we can trust him to the uttermost. He can also save to the uttermost. (4) "Everlasting Father," expressing his divine loving kindness and self-identification with the Father. (5) He is also "Prince of Peace," the one who rules so that peace and prosperity abide in his kingdom. He brings peace between man and God, and between man and man. He is the peace of the soul as well as bringing peace to the soul. The completeness of this picture which Isaiah saw is the one which St. John saw, of which we have been recently studying. These two verses are marvelous ones, not only because of the clear prediction of Jesus of Nazareth, made more than seven centuries before his first advent, but marvelous also for the fullness and richness of the revelation they contain concerning the person, character and work of Christ.

Our Lord's earth life began at Bethlehem, but he was from all eternity (John 8:56-58; John 1:1-2).

As a man is not at peace with God he cannot be at peace with himself or his fellows; but as Jesus restores peace between man and God, he also restores peace to the heart of the individual (Phil. 4:7).

Sunday school officers and teachers should realize the difference between the peace with God (Rom. 5:1) and the peace of God (Phil. 4:7).

Let us see to it that in the fullest sense our scholars may have the Prince of Peace in their lives.

Power of Observation.

Even in the pursuit of other studies the power of observation is of paramount importance. Watch a class of children in a school and see how some seem positively incapable of seeing or hearing; they will strain every nerve to copy the exercises on the blackboard, and yet there will be mistakes; they will listen to an explanation and yet when it comes to a repetition it seems as though the sound of the words had never gone further than the outer ear; in fact, they cannot study because they have never learned to take the first step in that direction through training of the senses. All knowledge, you know, comes through the senses, and the more widely open we throw these doors the more knowledge we may hope to have come streaming in to enlighten the mind.

EFFICIENCY

Efficiency is a term much used and abused. Its use is by those who talk little but do well—and thoroughly—whatever they undertake to do. Its abuse is by those who devote much time to explaining the cause of mistakes and failures and who consequently have not sufficient time left in which to do thoroughly and efficiently the things they should do.

Inefficiency—the failure to do well and thoroughly whatever one undertakes to do—is the greatest single item of expense in our business life.

Recognizing this significant fact the L. & N. has devoted thoughtful attention and careful investigation to the business of supplying efficient freight and passenger service to the shipping and traveling public.

The L. & N. long ago determined on, and has ever since practiced, the policy of doing well and thoroughly whatever it undertook to do.

That, perhaps, is the chief reason why the L. & N. supplies better freight service; faster, safer and more comfortable passenger service, than some other railroads.

All at rates as low as consistent with sound business methods.

THE CATTLE FEEDER'S QUERY

By Carl G. Filler, Agent in Beef Cattle Extension.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

To feed or not to feed, that's the question? Whether 'tis better to sell the cattle off of grass on a glutted market, or feed them sufficiently to make them at least fat enough to be fair killers by April first to twentieth when the market is usually good. Can one afford to feed cattle when cotton seed meal is selling in the neighborhood of $40.00 per ton, or velvet beans $12.00 to $15.00 per ton? Well, that just depends on whether you have silage or not. If you have two or three tons of silage per steer you can certainly afford to feed beans, and you can afford to feed cotton seed meal if you don't feed too heavily of the meal and can be content to allow your cattle a little longer period to put on the necessary finish, and make their gains largely on the cheap food. That has been found to be the most profitable way to fatten cattle for the average year, and it most certainly is the safest plan to follow when feed prices are as high as they are this year.

However, I do not feel that this is such a bad year for the Southern farmer to feed cattle if he can and will follow the above suggestion. Conditions are just about as they were last year when every one who used even average good judgment and business sense made money on the cattle they fed. There doesn't appear to be any prospect of the war situation changing sufficiently to lower the market materially before next summer.

The results of some of the cattle feeding demonstrations carried on last winter by the Demonstration agents of this State in co-operation with the farmers of the State might be encouraging and helpful to some. The following figures show the results of feeding demonstration on the farm of Jones & Nixon, Livingston, Alabama, November 26th, 1915, to March 30th, 1916:

	Not I	Lot II
Number of calves	22	26
Initial wgt. pr. head	612lb	468lb
Average daily gain	1.6lb	1.2lb
Initial cost pr 100 lbs.	$ 5.50	$ 5.50
Sell. price per 100 lbs.	$ 8.30	$ 8.30
Profit per head	$10.04	$ 7.85

Average Daily Ration.

Cotton seed meal	2.57lb	1.93lb
Silage	32.90lb	24.70lb
Johnson grass hay	2.00lb	1.50lb
Alfalfa hay (60 das.)	3.10lb	2.37lb
Oat straw (60 das)	3.30lb	2.40lb
Corn (last 16 das.)	9.12lb	6.84lb

These cattle were sold at home for less than $8.30 per 100 lbs., but for as much as they would have netted by selling them at $8.30 in St. Louis and paying expense of shipping them. They made a nice profit per head and would have averaged about $2.00 more if they had not been bothered with lice the third month. After they were dipped they went ahead and gained as rapidly as they had the first two months.

THORSBY ITEMS

LEWIS J. CUTTER,
Marietta, Ohio.

HE DID HIS SHARE.

Anthony Schofeld lived in Missouri and had made his money in copper and zinc. He had worked hard from a boy in the drift up to the rank of foreman, then to superintendent and finally to owner. Sickness never worried him. His six-foot giant frame had stood many hard knocks and was good for many more. A year ago in answer to a pretty girl who asked him to buy some seals to help the miners who had tuberculosis he replied gurtfly: "Let 'em work and save. That's what I did when I was young, and I've never been sick and have got enough to keep me now."

It was a different Schofeld who approached the Red Cross Seal girl at one of the booths yesterday. In 12 months his daughter had been stolen away by the monster Tuberculosis and his son, just graduating from college, had been compelled to drop everything else in his search for health from this same disease. The doctor had said that the disease could be traced back probably to childhood, when his two children had been nursed by the consumptive daughter of a consumptive miner. The rickety, disease breeding tenements in which the miner was compelled to live were owned by Schofeld now. "I'd give my two eyes and both legs and arms to have my daughter with me and my son restored to health," he confided to the Red Cross girl. "I can't get away from the thought that my girl might be alive and my boy well if I'd given some attention to the prevention of this disease 10 or 15 years ago. Now it's too late for that, but I'll keep somebody else's son and daughter safe. Here, give me all the seals you've got and then go and get all you can find and charge them all to me. If money can make amends, which it can't, I'll do my share."

As the astonished girl handed over to him her entire supply of 20,000 seals and took his check in return she heard him mutter his daughter's name and repeat, "I'll do my share."

CONTROL OF CORN WEEVIL

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

It is common practice in the South to store corn with the husk on, and many farmers are accustomed to sprinkle salt in the corn as it is being stored with the idea that it helps to control the weevil work. As a matter of fact, the impressions that salt is an effective insecticide in such a case and that the husk is a protection to the grain in the crib, are serious mistakes. Repeated, careful experiments have shown that with the same initial infestation, corn that is stored with the husks on will suffer more heavily from insect injury during the winter and early summer than will similar corn stored with the husk off. Furthermore, the addition of salt to corn stored with the husk on only increases the insect injury.

The explanation for these conditions is simple and reasonable when we consider that gathering the corn with the husk on keeps all of the insects on the ear and takes pratcially 100 per cent. of them from the field to the crib; whereas, if the corn is husked in the field, experiments have shown that fully 75 per cent. of the adults wil lbe left in the field or in the bottom of the wagon in which the corn is carried to the crib. Very naturally, therefore, the corn stored with the husk on has more insects on it in the crib and suffers greater injury during storage than does corn husked in the field. The addition of salt accomplishes quite a different result from that expected. Salt is not as insecticide and the weevils do not find it objectionable. Salt takes up moisture from the air in damp weather and this so softens the corn where it is used that the weevils can work faster in it than they can in dry, hard corn.

Husk Main Corn Crop in Field.

With the main crop, therefore, it is advisable to gather the corn by breaking the ears from the husk in the field. If proper husking hooks are used and the hands are trained a little in their use, the corn can be gathered very nearly as fast in this way as if the ears were gathered with the husk on.

"High Life" Does the Work.

The most effective way of stopping weevil work in infested corn is to treat it early in the fall with Carbon disulphide or "high life" in tight rooms or bins, using the liquid at the rate of 10 to 20 pounds per 1,000 cubic feet of space depending upon the nature of the room or bin in which the work is done. The liquid can be poured directly on to the corn without injuring it in any way, and the only precaution required is that it should be handled exactly as on would handle gasoline; that is, it should not be applied while the corn is evidently heating, and no one should be permitted to smoke or carry a lantern or fire of any kind into or close to the treated room so long as the odor is strong. After a day or two all danger from fire will have passed even in the tightest rooms.

CHRISTMAS DINNER AT HOME FOR OLD SOLDIERS

The dinner given the old soldiers at the home at Mt. Creek on Christmas day was a success in every particular The good things that the old veterans were given to eat and enjoy elicited smiles of gratification for the fact that they are still loved and remembered at the yule tide season by many Alabamians. Christmas money was divided among them in addition to the eatables.

The three separate dining rooms were looked after by Mrs. J. D. Eiland, who had charge of tables at the hospital, and Mrs. G. C. Kicker, wife of adjutant Kicker, had charge of the dining room for the North row of buildings, while Mrs. Charles Newman attended to tables set for the men on the South side.

FEAGIN WRITES ABOUT EDUCATIONAL MATTERS

Concerning the School Improvement work over the counties of Alabama.

News of the first school improvement association to be formed during the current school year comes from Cullman County. A complete organization has been perfected and committees appointed. The report contains the optimistic statement that this work is resulting in one of the most enthusiastic school centers in the county.

Promotion of Teachers' Reading Circle Work

There are two means of professional training for teachers in service that are being stressed from year to year by the State Department of Education—Teachers' Institutes and the Reading Circle. These two agencies are closely correlated and at each institute specific instructions are given about the revised Reading Circle Plan, including the more liberal credit now offered for this work by the Board of Examiners.

A county secretary is appointed at each institute and the county is subdivided into six or eight divisions with a leader for each. These leaders meet the State Secretary for conference, for instruction about the contents of th books selected, and for plans of work. Every teacher in the county belongs to one of these groups. The leader makes a roll of the teachers in his division and calls them together at a suitable during the institute. At these group meetings a definite time and place for monthly meetings are determined, a book is selected, and specific work assigned for the meeting. Arrangements are made to have the books in the hands of the teachers in ample time to prepare for the first lesson.

It is pleasing to note the enthusiasm with which many teachers enter upon this work and it is a safe prediction that the time is not far off when every county in the state will follow the example of many others and require membership in the county teachers' reading circle as a condition precedent to employment.

Practical Employment in Coffee County

The most far reaching effect of the very creditable agricultural and industrial fair held at Enterprise in Coffee County on December 16th was the stimulation given the practical in Education.

When the citizens of a county begin to show recognition of their schools as developers there is a bright future in store for that county. All honor to the citizens of Coffee County for such recognition.

The teachers of the county are to be congratulated on the splendid exhibits of their pupils in drawing, woodwork, domestic art, and domestic science, as well as exhibits in geography, history, and English. The school fair is already a county institution in Alabama.

SUGAR CURING MEAT ON FARM

By J. C. Ford, Field Agent for Pig Clubs, Alabama Extension Service and U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Those farmers who make and cure their home supplies of meat can add variety and palatability by sugar-curing part of their meat for home use.

The meat is cut and cooled and each piece rubbed lightly with salt and allowed to drain overnight. A brine is made by mixing 8 pounds salt, 2 pounds brown sugar, and 2 ounces saltpeter, for each 100 pounds of meat, and boiling for two hours in 4 gallons of water. Prepare the brine in the afternoon and let cool overnight.

Pack the meat with the hams and shoulders at the bottom and pour the brine over it. Weight the meat well to keep it under the brine. Watch closely, especially if the weather is warm. If the brine begins to get ropy, wash the meat and reboil in a clean vessel.

Allow bacon strips to remain in the brine 30 to 40 days, and hams and shoulders 40 to 60 days. The meat is then removed from the brine and allowed to drip for about 48 hours, after which it is ready to smoke. Smoke with hard wood or corn cobs till the desired shade of brown is secured. Then wrap with paper, old news papers will do, but a heavier grade of paper is better, and sack to protect from insects. The sacks may be made of any kind offinely woven cloth.

After the meat is sacked, the sacks should be painted with ordinary lime whitewash with glue added to make it stick, or better, with yellow wash. To make the yelow wash use 3 pounds barium sulphate, 3-4 oz. glue, 1 oz. lead chromate, and 1-2 pound flour. Dissolve the flour in 3 quarts of water and the lead chromate in one quart of water and mix the two and add the glue. Bring the mixture to a boil and add the barium sulphate slowly with constant stirring.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 183, "Meat On the Farm," can be had free by calling on your County Agricultural Agent or writing to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C..

GOSSIP FROM CAPITAL AT WASHINGTON, D. C.

Some Items of Interes About Politics and Matters of Importance Nationally.

Hon. Henry I. Emerson of Ohio has a plan, which, if adopted by Congress, he thinks would be a long step in the direction of reducing the high cost of living, especially to residents of cities. Mr. Emerson proposes that the Postmaster General shall abolish parcel post zones in so far as they affect the transmission of food products, reduce the parcel post rates on articles of food, and increase the limit of weight on parcel post post packages containing food. Congressman Emerson has embodied his propositions in a resolution directing the Postmaster General to investigate their advisability, but inasmuch as that official is subordinating in every other consideration in an attempt to make his department self-sustaining, it is not probable that Mr. Emerson's ideas will receive much attention at his hands.

A New Liquor Problem

Senator Martine of New Jersey, that stanch defender of the liquor interests whenever prohibition is the topic of discussion in the Senate, indignantly repudiates the suggestion that foreigners have a greater capacity for intoxicants than Americans. In the recent discussion on the pending prohibition legislation for the District of Columbia it developed that a provision had been inserted in the bill exempting members of foreign legations from its effect because they are more accustomed to its use at home. This aroused Martine who vehemently declared that citizens of country could absorb as much of the firey fluid as visitors to our shores. Other Senators joined in the discussion until Senator Weeks of Massachusetts suggested serious international complications might arise unless the debate were continued in executive session behind closed doors.

Not Too Old To Fight

Although his labors during the last session of Congress compelled him to rest from active participation in the recent campaign, Senator J. H. Gallinger of New Hampshire has served notice that he will take a hand in the campaign two years hence, and do what he can to displace his Democratic colleague and elect a Republican Senator who will correctly represent the great majority of the voters of that State. In an open letter to the Republicans of New Hampshire Senator Galinger says that he has been a Republican since the days of Fremont and Dayton, and, he continues, "I am not too old to continue to advocate the principles which Lincoln stood for, and which Republican Presidents since that day to the present have championed and advocated, and I now give notice that in the campaign two years from now I shall advocate those principles before the people of the State."

Tribute To Coast Guard

The Coast Guard of the United States was the subject of an address which Hon. Frederic C. Hicks of New York recently delivered in the House. Mr. Hicks reviewed the entire history of the Life Saving Service and the Revenue Cutter Service, which today form the Coast Guard, giving in detail the work of the service. One of the most exposed coasts of the United States is the shore of Long Island, practically the whole of which is embraced in Congressman Hicks' district. Personal observation of the work of the twenty-eight life saving stations which protect that shore has made Mr. Hicks an authority on the duties and dangers of the Coast Guard.

PLAN INDUSTRIAL FEATURES

Scott Quizzed For Criticism Of The National Guard By Members Of The House

Washington.—A definite plan for universal military training will be laid before congress next month in the shape of a bill formulated by the general staff of the army, accompanied by complete estimates of cost as compared to the present volunteer system. Major General Scott, chief of staff, told the house military committee that the work was in progress and would require about a month to complete. Chairman Dent said the committee would be glad to see the bill.

In response to a laughing question as to who would introduce it in the house, Representative Kahn of California said:

"I would be glad to have the honor to introduce it."

General Scott was subjected to sharp cross-examination on his reiterated recommendation for a universal service measure, based in part on results of the volunteer system as shown in the mobilization of the National Guard for border service. Five of the twenty-two members of the committee took occasion to assert their belief in the theory of universal service, while two emphatically declared against such a system. Those favoring it were: Representatives Kahn, Greene of Vermont and Tilson of Connecticut, Republicans, and Olney of Massachusetts and Farley of New York, Democrats, while those opposed were Representatives McKellar of Tennesese and Quinn of Mississippi, Democrats.

Guardsmen Favor System

The statement of Representative Tillman, himself a colonel in the National Guard, followed General Scott's repeated assertions that the federalization of the National Guard accomplished ar far as possible by the national defense act, would not meet the country's military needs.

"Many members, a majority of the National Guardsmen who come back from the border, favor universal service," declared the chief of staff. "I agree with you," Representative Tilson said, "that voluntary military service is not an adequate system and probably would break down in time of war as it has done before. The National Guard system in particular is economically unwise because of the dual control over the forces of the federal government and the state."

UNITED STATES NOTE NOT INTENDED AS A THREAT

Lansing Makes Statement To Correct Misconstructions Placed On An Earlier Declaration

Washington.—President Wilson's note to the belligerents urging discussion of peace was officially interpreted as not bearing any threat that the United States might be forced to enter the war because of the continued invasion of its rights by the warring powers on both sides.

This interpretation was made by Secretary Lansing in a formal statement issued to overtake what were characterized as widespread misconstructions placed on one made earlier in the day saying that because of the increasing critical position of the United States as a neutral, it was entitled to know exactly what each belligerent seeks in order that it might regulate its conduct for the future.

Secretary Lansing's final statement, formally prepared and issued after he had been called to the white house for a conference with President Wilson, declared that he had not intended to intimate that the United States was considering any change in its policy of neutrality and that the whole tone and language of the note were sufficient to indicate its purpose without further comment on his part.

PEACE SPURNED BY BRITAIN

German Peace Offer Denounced As a Noose To Strangle The Entente Allies

London.—The announcement in the house of commons by David Lloyd George, the new prime minister, that the first act of his administration was the rejection of the proposal of the central powers for a peace conference, constituted one of the most momentous scenes which the oldest parliamentary veterans had ever witnessed.

The new premier declared that before the allies could give favorable consideration to such an invitation they must know that Germany was prepared to accede to the allies' terms, giving "complete restitution, full reparations and effectual guarantees" and to enter a conference upon the invitation of Germany, proclaiming herself victorious, without any knowledge of her proposals would be "putting our heads into a noose with the end of the rope in Germany's hands."

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that at the moment Germany was penning the note, assuring her convictions as to the rights of other nations, she was dragging Belgians into slavery. He announced that the note presented through Washington contained no proposals of terms, but was a paraphrase of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech and that the allies had separately concluded to reject it, although they had informally exchanged views and would, within a few days, present a joint reply.

Mr. Asquith, the former premier, seconded Mr. Lloyd George's decisions with even stronger words.

PRESIDENT MAKES MOVE FOR PEACE

Wilson Asks Belligerents That Aims Be Stated So That World May Know Conditions

ACTION WAS BIG SURPRISE

United States Ready To Support Any Measures That May Be Needed To Keep Peace Of World

Washington.—President Wilson has appealed to all the belligerents to discuss terms of peace.

Without actually proposing peace or offering mediation, the president sent formal notes to the governments of all the warring nations suggesting that "an early occasion be sought to call out from the nations now at war such an avowal of their respective views as to the terms upon which the war might be concluded and the arrangements which would be deemed satisfactory as a guaranty against its renewal or the kindling of any similar conflict in the future, as would make it possible frankly to compare them."

Wholly without notice and entirely contrary to what administration officials have described as his course, the president dispatched notes to all the belligerents and to all the neutrals for their information.

Attitude of Wilson Summarized

Summarized in the president's own words as contained in the notes, his attitude is as follows:

The president is not proposing peace; he is not even offering mediation. He is merely proposing that soundings be taken in order that we may learn, the neutral nations with the belligerent, how near the haven of peace may be for which all mankind longs with an intense and increasing longing. He believes that the spirit in which he speaks and the objects which he seeks will be understood by all concerned, and he confidently hopes for a response which will bring a new light into the affairs of the world.

This latest development in the rapidly moving world events toward a discussion of peace was not permitted to become known until the notes were well on their way to the American ambassadors in the belligerent capitals and probably already in the hands of some of them.

It was a most distinct surprise to all official Washington, which had been led to believe that with the formal transmissal of the proposals of the central powers the officers of the United States would await further moves between the belligerent themselves, and that certainly, in view of the speech of Premier Lloyd George and the announcements in Russia, France and Italy further action by neutrals would depend upon the next careful and delicate moves of the belligerents.

Folkething Votes 90 To 16 For Ratifying Treaty For Cession Of West Indian Isles To U. S.

Copenhagen.—After a single reading the folkething adopted the bill ratifying the treaty for the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States. The vote was 90 in favor and 16 against ratification. Five members were absent.

When the bill came up for discussion, fourteen members, of whom six were Conservatives and eight of the Left party, joined in moving an amendment asking the government to negotiate with the United States to purchase only St. John or St. Thomas, while Denmark would retain the other two islands. This was rejected by 90 to 14. The proposal for the sale of all three islands was then adopted.

The landsthing, it is expected, will ratify the proposal and thus the sale of the islands will be definitely settled.

ROUMANIANS GIVE BATTLE

Aided By Russians, Striking At Pursuers In The Dobrudja Region

New York.—Aside from the Roumanian theater little fighting of moment is taking place on any of the numerous fronts.

In northern Dobrudja the Russians and Roumanians have faced about, and are giving battle to the Teutonic allied forces that have been pursuing them. Just how strong the stand they are making is, has not yet been made known, the German official communication announcing it merely saying that they have "again offered fighting resistance."

ONLY THREE COMPANIES OF TROOPS QUARANTINED

No Epidemic Among Georgia Militia And Practically No Danger Of One

El Paso, Texas.—Officers of the Georgia infantry were much worried by telegrams from home asking about a reported epidemic of meningitis and the rumor that the Georgia infantrymen are quarantined. There is no epidemic among the Georgia troops, but on account of three cases of meningitis, the three companies in which they were found have been quarantined. The quarantined companies are company I, Fifth regiments, commanded by Captain Bruckner of Atlanta; company E of the First regiment, from Waynesboro, Ga., and company M, of the Second from Culloden. The other thirty-three companies of the Georgia brigade have had no cases of meningitis and have not been quarantined.

Every precaution has been taken to prevent any contagion of the dread disease, and there are no indications of it spreading, and practically no danger of any epidemic. RAILROAD EARNINGS GO TO BILLION MARK

FIGURES BASED ON FIRST NINE MONTHS OF PRESENT YEAR

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Never Before in History of Railroads Has Gross Income Been So Great.

Washington.—More than $1,000,000,000 net income from operations was made by the railroads of the country during the year now closing. The huge total is the peak of prosperity in railroad operations, and stands mre than one-third higher than the total of 1913, hitherto the banner year. Eastern roads led in revenue per mile by a great margin, with Southern roads next.

Statistics gathered by the Interstate Commerce commission complete for nine months and made the basis for calculation for the entire year, indicate that the total net income from operations will be approximately $1,098,000,000. For the first nine months of the year complete returns show $785,558,266. Even this does not represent the full amount, as roads whose income is less than $1,000,000 are not included.

The estimate of $1,098,000,000 is regarded by officials as conservative. It makes not allowance for normal increase in business during the last three months of the year, returns for which are unavailable, but places the income for October, November and December at the same figures as for July, August and September. There is no question, officials say, but that there will be an increase; the only doubt is as to its size.

Analysis of the returns for the first nine months shows a startling increase from January to September, amounting to more that 67 per cent. This, net income in January, $64,915,286, had mounted to $107,910,814 in September, an increase of nearly $43,000,000.

This total, using the first nine months os a basis, will reach $3,600,640,502 when the year closes, officials estimate, and without doubt will exceed it. Never before in the history of railroad operations have the roads had so great a gross income.

The executive said that the seized liquor had been placed under the guardianship of the Sheriff of Russell County.

For Those Who Journey Southward

The modern woman may not know just where she is going but she is most earnestly on her way. She chooses to add to her natural vocation of homemaking, the pursuit of art or business, politics or charity. One might think she would have no time left to devote to clothing herself beautifully. But whatever the direction in which she is going—it is not away from lovely apparel. Specialists design styles for her, she chooses with discrimination, and fashions are made.

Above is one of the new lingerie dresses and a hat and parasol for those who will soon be journeying South. But the dress is interesting to everyone because it is good style for dinner or evening wear anywhere and it anticipates what is coming next summer. The skirt is made with a pointed tunic that is shortened at each side, displaying five flounces on the underskirt. Each flounce is edged with val lace.

The tunic is beautifully decorated with needlework in a delicate embroidery that outlines a border edged with val lace. The same decoration appears on the bodice which is gathered over a plain net foundation. It has a round neck and long sleeves that taper to the wrist. Deep cuffs fasten with small crochet buttons on the underside and are edged with lace where they fall over the hands. They are joined to the sleeves very prettily with a band of ribbon above a ruffle of lace.

A small cape collar, edged with lace, is gathered into the neck and the girdle is of net bordered with ribbon. The dress is entirely in white.

Pack in Paper Bags.

In traveling you can pack the greatest quantity of things in the heavy paper envelopes used by the stores in delivering veils, ribbons, lace and so on. Save all the available ones, and when preparing for a trip pack and label these envelopes for stockings, gloves, handkerchiefs and the like. Things packed in this way can be readily found when wanted.

New Silks.

For the woman in search of an unusual silk for her gown or a distinctive lining for her handsome winter coat (and linings are important this season) there are now pussy-willow taffetas which will just serve the purpose. The designs are queer and oriental—delightfully unusual. The colorings are delightful, and as the silks are 40 inches wide they will cut to advantage.

Hats Committed to Sports Wear

Someone who knows says that the restless American never stays in one spot longer than two hours. Now how is the lady who is liable to be snatched away at any moment, in one direction or another, going to provide herself with hats suited to all climes? Day after tomorrow she may find herself in the Isle of Pines, or possibly she may be watching winter sports in Canada.

Those clever milliners who do so much thinking for the lady of fashion have seized upon the sports hat to help solve the problem. Three superb answers to the question of wherewithal shall we clothe our heads are shown in the picture above. They are made of materials that are worn everywhere and are therefore noncommittal as to climate, but they leave no room for doubt as to their indorsement of sports. They were made with an eye to the southward, but you may go where you will in any of them.

There is a hat of black patent leather (or something that looks like it) in a narrow-brimmed sailor shape, with a soft top crown. It has a band of black and white checked silk about the side crown and a vivid red rose at the front. This rose can defy the frost, for its petals are protected with transparent celluloid.

A white satin hat avows its devotion to the business of being amused, for it forms a background for two cards done in silk embroidery on the side crown. The third hat is covered with Tokyo crepe and a band of uncut velvet stops before it reaches quite around the crown to make way for little straw buttons which hint of spring.

Serge Frocks Are Popular.

The separate frock of navy serge will not lose any of its popularity. It is to be found mostly in princess styles or made on lines that give the shoulder-to-hem effect. Jumper frocks of serge to be worn with separate blouses of Georgette crepe are very handsome. One buttons down the back with black bone buttons. It has a guimpe of terra cotta georgette crepe and stiff flaps extend outward over the hips, heavily embroidered with terra cotta silk. The corselet effect is gained by pointed yokes on these serge frocks which point upward on the blouse and downward on the full circular skirt.

Blue and Gray.

Gray chenille embroidery on midnight blue charmeuse is a fetching version of the blue-and-gray vogue.

TRAINING TODAY'S BOYS AND GIRLS

Social Responsibility of the Home Is Important.

MUST FOLLOW GOLDEN RULE

We Cannot Let Our Pet Rules Concerning Our Own Children Interfere With Other Parents' Rules Concerning Theirs.

By SIDONIE M. GRUENBERG.

WE ARE all good people. We never intend to do anything that is "wrong." We never seek to take advantage of our neighbors in the slightest way. We are therefore naturally very resentful when the reformer compares our conduct with that of people who are not so good, of people who do seek advantages, of people whose purposes are not quite so lofty as our own.

We understand the social responsibilities of the home, and we are doing our very best to train our children up to be good citizens. And all the time we are careful to mind our own business very strictly. We hope we know what's right, and do not need to be told.

This represents fairly the attitude of thousands of conscientious parents who are making a sincere and single-minded effort to give their children every opportunity and every inducement to become "good citizens." And it was one of these very parents that suddenly reminded me how complex and how difficult the task is.

You know how important it is for the child to acquire correct habits early in life; so we begin during the third year to teach him to dress himself. And so long as there is plenty of time in the morning, the child does dress himself, more or less quickly, more or less presentably. But when you send the child off to school or to kindergarten, you discover all at once that you are obliged to choose between giving the child a great deal of help in his morning toilet and letting him be late for school. Of course we could all get up earlier in the morning; but that is a nuisance, and a hardship on the other members of the household. Or we could hurry through the breakfast; but that is bad for the health as well as for the manners. So you sacrifice all the advantages of a couple of years of patience and you help the child on with his clothes. This may even involve a compromise of your "principles;" but you are heroic, and you are going to get him into habits of punctuality at any cost.

But Mrs. King stuck fast to her principles, and would not sacrifice anything. When Maude was at last old enough to go to school, the mother was confronted with the choice between doing for the child what she thought the child should do for herself and the danger of her frequently being tardy. Mrs. King chose without hesitation. And the following year she was able to tell all who would listen that Maude, obliged to dress herself promptly and without assistance every day, under penalty of such punishment as the school provided for tardiness, learned within one semester to do what was necessary with suitable despatch. And now she isn't late at all.

This was quite an achievement, and Mrs. King made no effort to conceal her pride. But she did not tell us at whose cost her daughter had learned to dress herself; nor did she develop any principle that might be of general use to large numbers of mothers.

In the first place, the frequent tardiness of this child in school is a serious burden to the school. The alternative, of helping the child at home with reminders, or even with direct assistance in the tedious process of disposing of the clothes properly about the body, is no doubt a serious burden upon the home. And there is no doubt that by placing the whole burden upon the child and the school the mother was able to show a good record for improvement in Maude's habits. But it is worth while to consider whether it is fair to make the school bear the burden that Mrs. King imposed upon it.

In the second place, the device used cannot be of general applicability, for if all mothers resorted to it the punctuality of the school would break down completely. The irregularity resulting would make it impossible for the school to establish and maintain any standards, and the homes would be without the moral support they now get from the school in the effort to accelerate the children's habits of regularity and punctuality.

This suggests that Mrs. King's reliance upon the school was in this case "parasitic," and contrary to the spirit of mutual help that should characterize our social relations. Yet the purpose was laudable, and there was no thought of taking advantage of anyone, least of all of the teacher.

We are becoming daily more conscious of our social obligations in this larger sense, and even the children are learning to understand it. A tot of eight years was sent home from school with a note until his "cold" had disappeared. The mother thought the ailment was too slight to be noticed, and proceeded to assure the teacher that she was not at all alarmed. But Henry knew better: "The teacher isn't afraid of me getting sick; she's afraid I'll make the other children sick," he explained. It is more important to guard the whole class against possible infection than to guard Henry against the possible loss of a few days of schooling. The quarantine or isolation is not for the sake of the sick, but for the sake of those who are not yet sick. And the same principle applies to much of what we are today required to do in the adjustment of the child between the home and the school.

We shall have to give the young child at home a little more care, a little more thought, in order that other people's children in school shall not be interrupted or delayed in their work; and we shall expect equal consideration for our children on the part of other parents. We shall have to guard at home against sending abroad a child with sniffles or sneezes in order that other people's children may not be infected with "influenza" or "children's diseases;" and we shall then be able to require equal consideration from other children's parents.

The interdependence imposed by modern conditions makes it impossible for us to "mind our own business" too strictly, and makes the Golden Rule a matter of course.

Treacherous Golf.

On one occasion an old lady was in the same railway car as a party of golfers.

"I found fearful trouble this morning," said one. "At the first I fell right into the middle of a blackberry bush and at the second I was stuck up on the top of a tree. I pitched out of bounds into the farmyard at the third, got caught by the wire at the fourth, stuck fast in a deep hole at the fifth, found myself buried in mud at the sixth. I was lying in a heap of rough stones at the seventh, got lost at the eighth and finished up at the bottom of that dirty ditch at the last hole."

"Gracious me!" cried the horrified old lady from the corner of the car, "and they told me golf was an old man's game! I'll never let my Edwin play again."

Marriage a Good Thing.

At Salem, Ore., there is a state penitentiary, and the warden has been looking into the status of the prisoners. He finds there are more bachelors in the penitentiary than married men. Larceny is the most common crime, and laborers are the most numerous class among the prisoners.

Marriage is good for a man, as the Almighty knew when he said: "It is not good for the man to be alone. Let us make a helpmeet for him." Married men are not only more law-abiding and keep out of prison more, but they are also more moral, for mark you, there is a difference between crime and morality. They are also more healthy and live longer on the average than unmarried men.—Los Angeles Times.

Divinity in Man.

The most significant feature in the history of an epoch is the manner it has of welcoming a great man. Ever, to the true instincts of men, there is something godlike in him. Whether they shall take him to be a god, to be a prophet, or what they shall take him to be, that is ever a grand question; by their way of answering that we shall see, as through a little window, into the very heart of these men's spiritual condition. For at bottom the great man, as he comes from the hand of nature, is ever the same kind of thing: Odin, Luther, Johnson, Burns; I hope to make it appear that these are all originally of one stuff; that only by the world's reception of them, and the shapes they assume, are they so immeasurably diverse.—Carlyle.

Walking in Your Sleep.

Roughly speaking, the mind is divided into two parts. One controls the actions of which we are conscious and the other those which we do unconsciously. In the latter class are such things as walking and breathing. So that the second part of the mind works equally as well whether its owner is asleep or awake. When the body or the other part of the mind is tired to the point of exhaustion, or is harried by pain, the second part is liable to be unduly active. Then it is that we are most likely to walk or talk in our sleep and have "nightmares." And because the acutely conscious part of the mind is dormant and not subject to fears the sleepwalker frequently traverses dangerous places unhurt.

SUFFRAGE SCHOOL

Birmingham is to be honored by having one of the famous national suffrage schools which are being sent out by the National Suffrage Association to some of the unfranchised states.

The school will be sent here for four days, February 14, 15, 16 and 17, and the instructors will be Mrs. Bjorkman, Mrs. Geyser, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Cotnam, all eminent sugragists. The subjects taught will be organization suffrage history and statistics, press and publicity work and public speaking.

Contrary to the statement in two of the local papers, there will be no charge of any kind.

Enrollment and attendance is perfectly free and "the more the merrier." Enroll now. Send your name to 2109 Sixteenth Avenue, South.

Lobbying on a scale never before seen, even in the olden days, but of a sort which will stand the pitiless publicity searchlight, rather than of the insidious variety, will be carried on at this session of Congress beginning next Monday by the National American Woman Suffrage Association. There will be no secrecy about who the lobbyists are, or what they are after. A new Washington Committee, consisting of about twenty of the most prominent women of the country has been appointed, and they will work day and night, whenever they can get the legislators to listen, for the national suffrage amendment.

With assurances of enough support to insure a vote on the amendment in both houses at the coming session, the women will work with a view to making such a good showing at this session, that their work next session, or when the Congress just elected is assembled, will be simplified. They are quite confident of final victory at that time.

Shallow Statesmanship

That august personage, the chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Senate, Hon. Gumshoe Bill Stone, asks that the United States demand peace because of the incalculable damage which the war is doing to the United States. To enforce this demand he says: "I do not care to go to the length of indicating what might be done." Probably the greatest damage which the war has done to this country is to put the Democrats in control of our destinies for the next four years. It has given us over $5,000,000 in trade balances, placed wages on an abnormal plane and filled industry full of hop. But Bill Stone and his henchmen were very much perturbed when any suggestion of a cessation of hostilities before election came to them. Perhaps the big trade balance will help us over the lean years under Democratic free trade, when peace is restored.

Patronage In Illinoise

The President is reported to be much incensed at Senator Jimham Lewis, believing that the Senator's recalcitrance over the postoffice appointment in Chicago lost many votes to the Wilson ticket in Illinois. He is now inclined to name a post-master of his own choosing and let the Senator do what he will with "senatorial courtesy" or any other old weapon of defence. We think the President overestimates the effect of the Chicago postoffice row. Doubtless there have been Congressmen defeated because of issues growing out of patronage. Many people believe that Benjamin Harrison lost a reelection because of the accumulated grievances arising from the same source. Patronage, to either party, is both an asset and a liability—with the preponderance on the latter side. It would be well if it could be done away with altogether. The extension of the civil service offers one method. Popular selection of officials by the people of the localities whom they serve is another. A few big rows like that in Chicago may center public attention on this question and produce one or the other of these remedies.

Lasting Pastures in the Cotton Belt

Introduction

Permanent pastures are a necessity in the cotton States. Even with the present acreage devoted to cotton and other tilled crops, there is plenty of idle land that if turned into pastures would yield a good additional income without increasing the farmer's labor bills to any appreciable extent. In changing from cotton growing to live-stock raising, as many are now doing, the need of permanent pastures becomes imperative.

Lands Suitable for Pastures

The more fertile the land the better the pasture; but for economic reasons the rough fields and gullied hillsides should be the first to be used for grass. The increasing prices of meats and of farm labor will often make the fertile fields more profitable in pasture than in tilled crops. The convenience of water for the stock should not be overlooked in choosing a field for pasture.

Preparation of The Land

The success of a permanent pasture depends primarily on the fertility of the land at the start. On good soil with the proper system of grazing, a pasture will increase in production for many years. It is a slow process, however, to build up poor soils by pasturing alone. It is better to put the land in good tilth at the start in order to maintain the stand of the more nutritious grasses and clovers.

If the soil is deficient in organic matter, some green-manure crop, such as cowpeas or rye, should be plowed under before seeding the grass. Stable manure would accomplish the same purpose, but this is not often available. Experience has shown that phosphorus is the one element that is most likely to be profitable in pastures; so, if commercial fertilizers are used, those carrying a high percentage of this element are most desirable. Acid phosphate and basic slag are the most economical and satisfactory to use.

Kinds Of Grasses for Pastures

The Southern States are fortunate in having a number of first-class pasture plants suitable for their conditions. With a proper selection of these plants it is possible to have good pastures throughout the entire year.

In seeding, it is best to use a mixture of several grasses and clovers, as no one kind will meet all requirements. Of the many pasture plants available, the best ones under general conditions are Bermuda grass, lespedeza, bur clover, and white clover. Redtop, orchard grass, carpet grass, Italian rye-grass, and the vetches should be added to this list for the special conditions mentioned later.

Bermuda Grass

Bermuda is unquestionably the best summer pasture grass known in the South. It occupies the same relative position in that section that bluegrass does in the North. It should be made the basis fo rpasture mixtures on all soils except the very light sands. Bermuda grass does best on rich loams along creeks, sometimes growing large enough to make 4 tons to the acre. The yeild is not so high on uplands, but is sufficient to justify its use for grazing purposes on all the loms and the heavier types of soils. It is permanent in its existence on fertile soils, endures long periods of drought without much injury, is benefited rather than injured by the grazing and trampling of stock, and furnishes as nutritious a feed as most other grasses. No other plant has been found that is more suitable for gullied hillsides, to prevent washing and to cover up scars of erosion.

It flourishes in sunshine, but will not endure much shade. For this reason it should not be used in woodland pasture. Its dislike of shade has suggested a successful method for its eradication from tilled fields. A crop of oats and vetch seeded in the fall, followed by a crop of cowpeas the following summer, will usually exterminate the grass if the field is desired for a cultivated crop.

How to Set Bermuda Grass

Lands may be set with Bermuda gras either by seeding or by planting small pieces of sod. Formerly the seed of this grass was so scarce and so low in vitality that the sod-transfer method was the one most commonly practiced. In recent years it has been found that Bermuda grass seeds freely in some of the Southwestern State, especially in Arizona. This western-grown seen is of a much better quality than that formerly on the market, and with it seeding is practicable.

The seed is best sown on a well prepared seed ben in March or April. Five pounds of seed to the acre is sufficient, as the sen is very small, and, besides, the grass spreads rapidly over the ground by means of its aggressive root-stocks. In order to facilitate the equal distribution of such a small quantity of fine seed, it may be mixed with cottonseed meal or dry earth to increase the bulk or, better, mixed with some other seeds of pasture plants, as directed later. The seed may be covered with a roller or light smoothing harrow.

It is usually an easy matter in the South to find in any locality a well-established Bermuda-grass sod, and when desirable this can be used for propagating the grass instead of using the seed. The field should be prepared the same as for sowing the seed, but many good stands have been obtained with very little preparation of the seed bed. A common method of planting is to lay off furrows about 3 feet apart and drop smal pieces of sod every 2 or 3 feet in the furrow and cover with the foot. The sod for planting may be obtained by cutting a shallow furrow with a turning plow and then chopping this up with a sharpe spade into pieces about 2 inches square. The planting of sod may be done at any time during the summer, but preferably during period of wet weather. If the planting is done in the spring, the grass will usually spread and cover the entire ground the first season.

Lespedeza, or Japan Clover

Lespedeza is one of the few annual plants that are suitable for pastures. It seeds near the ground and unless extremely close grazing is practiced is self perpetuating. It often grows on land so low in fertility that nothing else will survive, but it succeeds best on rich fertile loams in the lower Mississippi Valley, where it sometimes grows to a height of 2 feet or more and makes a very satisfactory crop of hay. Lespedeza belongs to the legume family of plants and enriches the soil with nitrogen. For this reason alone it is always desirable to mix this with Bermuda grass for pastures. It is slow in starting growth in the spring, but makes its best yrowth in midsummer and is not checked until heavy frosts come in the fall.

Lespedeza may be seeded at any time aftr danger from frosts is past in early spring. Twenty-five pounds of pure, weell-cleaned seed to the acre is lonsidered a full seeding. Smaller quantitis than this is often sufficient for a pasture, as it spreads rapidly when once started in a suitable soil. It is a splendid plant to grow with Bermuda grass, and should always bei ncluded with it for a permanent pasture.

Another method of getting a stand of lespedeza is to cut some of the ripened hay and scatter it over the ground to be seeded. This is often practiced where the land is too rough to be broken with a plow.

Bur Clover and White Clover

It is always desirable to seed with Bermuda grass and lespedeza something that will furnish winter grazing. The two plants best suited for that purpose are bur clover and white or Dutch clover. These take possession of the land during the winter and furnish excellent grazing until hot weather comes, when they give way to the Brmuda grass. Bur clovr is an annual, but reseeds itself readily. White clover is perennial and and propagates itself both by seed and by creeping rootstocks.

Bur clover should be seeded in late summer or fall at the rate of 15 lbs. of hulled seed or 2 bushels of the burs to the acre. White clover is best seeded at the same time, using 4 or 5 pounds to the acre.

Special-Purpose Grasses

While the Bermuda grass, lespedeza, bur-clover, and white-clover mixture is undoubtedly the best combination that can be sown for pastures over the greater part of the cotton-growing region, there are a few other grasses that will be better to plant under certain conditions.

Carpet Grass

On the sandy soils along the Gulf coast, carpet grass has demonstarated its ability not only to hold its own but to crowd out most other grasses, including Bermuda grass. It has a creeping habit of growth, taking root at every joint, which makes it a pasture grass. Close grazing by stock is essential to maintain a good sod. If stock be kept off it for an entire season it will greatly deterioate. It seldom makes sufficient growth to justify its being mown for hay, and unless grown with other grasses is not satisfactory for pasture purposes.

Carpet grass may be planted by the same method used for propagating Bermuda grass. It is doubtful whether it is ever advisable to plant this grass, as it comes in itself through ut the entire region to which it is adapted. If the land is seeded to the Bermuda lespedeza mixture already mentioned, it wil furnish more grazing for two or three years than if seeded to carpet grass. By that time the carpet grass will have established itself. The problem then is to add something to the carpet grass to increase its grazing capacity. This can be done by occasional harrowing the sod in the fall and sowing Italian rye-grass seed. Bermuda grass seed might be added in the same manner in the spring, or pecies of Bermuda sod might be dropped in shallow furrows in the carpet-grass sod. The Bermuda grass will increase the summer pasturing, while the Italian ryegrass will make a freater growth during the coler weather.

Italian Rye-Grass

Italian rye-grass is the best temporary winter pasture grass for the South. Its chief merit lies in its ability to produce a luxriant growth of nutritious grass quickly after seeding. Usually it does not last more than two or three years, and for practical purposes it must be considered an annual. In pastures it serves the purpose of furnishing abundant grazing during the winter months and while the other grasses are becoming established. It grows well where Bermuda grass flourishes, and is recommended to be used wherever Bermuda grass planting is done, whether by the seed or sod method. The seed of Italian rye-grass is of strong germination, and 30 pounds to the acre is sufficient for a full stand, while 15 pounds is probably sufficient for sowing in mixtures or to replenish a thin sod on an old pasture. Seeding is best done in the fall.

Redtop

Redtop is a widely know pasture and hay grass. It is not a heavy-producing grass;neither is the hay of especially good quality. When kept closely grazed, stock eat it rapidly. Its ability to grow on soils that are wet or poor in lime makes it worthy of consideration. It grows freely in combination with other grasses and adds to the bulk of herbage produced without crowding out the plants with which it is associated. It seeds freely and spreads by root-stocks, making a fin even turf if seeded alone. Its greatest use in the South is no creek bottoms that are too wet to produce Bermuda grass. It adds materially to the amount of pasturage except in midsummer, when it languishes.

It is best propagated from seed, using 6 to 8 pounds to the acre. Seeding is best done in thef all. The directions given for seeding Bermuda grass apply equally well to seeding redtop.

Orchard Grass

Orchard grass is a coarse-growing, bunchy grass that furnishes good grazing in early spring and late fall. Its growth is checked during hot weather. It will endure considerable rough treatment without injury and should be kept closely grazed for the best results. No other grass will stand more shade, and it is the one most often recommended for woodland pastures. It never does wel on light sandy soils. On wet lands and heavy clays it i an esxcellent grass to mix with redtop. From 20 to 30 pounds of seed to the acre will give a full stand Half as much will be sufficient for pasture mixtures. It should be seeded in the fall. It is one of the best grasses to so win gullies, to prevent further erosion.

Hairy Vetch

The persistent character of hairy vetch in the soils of many of the Southern States makes it worthy of consideration as a pasture plant. When seeded early in the fall with oats it will furnish good grazing during the winter and early spring and afterwards produce a good crop of hay. The few cases in which it has been tried in permanent pastures have been sufficiently successful to encourage further trials.

Cost of Transportation

Every economist is busy figuring on the increased cost of living and the causes therefor. All agree that the cost of living has increased very greatly, and in consequence individuals seek increased incomes.

In the many reasons advanced for the increase in the cost of living one very important item is significant by its absence—THE COST OF TRANSPORTATION.

Every item which enters into the manufacture and sale of freight and passenger transportation has advanced in cost to the L. & N. Railroad Co., tremendously, in the last few years.

The layman, unfamiliar with railway materials though he may be, knows that the price of coal, iron, steel, lumber, labor, clerical expenses—in fact everything, has advanced.

He knows further that he can get on the L. & N. passenger train and ride 100 miles at a less cost than he could ten years ago.

He knows also that he can make a shipment of freight via the L. & N. at a much less cost than he could ten years ago.

While all the time the L. & N. is paying the advanced prices required to supply the transportation.

Increase in volume of traffic, efficient management, rigid economy in operation, substantial equipment and satisfactory service to L. & N. patrons are the reasons the L. & N. has been able to stand the strain.

We solicit your patronage on the basis of the standard of excellence in freight and passenger transportation service.

By R. U. Blasingame, Agricultural Engineer.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

No home is w protected unless it is provided with an adequate supply of pure water. For years it was considered that running water was a luxury to be enjoyed only by families who live in cities. However, manufacturers have recenty turned their attention quite largely to the production of private water supply equipment and to studying the farmer's water problem, thereby making it possible for him to have private water works at a reasonable cost. It is no uncommon experience at present to find many country homes provided with running water; and it is hoped that this circular, by showing plans for inexpensive systems, may stimulate many farmers of Alabama to provide this comfort for their families.

To secure pure water it is necessary to properly locate and construct the well. By proper location is meant that the well be placed so that no surface water may enter during heavy rains. It will be seen from the illustrations that wells should be equipped with terra cotta, rock, brick, or concrete curbs. These impervious materials prevent any contaminated water from entering the well by seepage. It is a common practice at present to bank clay around the well, and place a layer of concrete over the top to prevent the entrance of dust, trash, and also filth fro mthe feet of persons using the pump.

This article is not intended to include all water system which may be installed on Alabama farms, but to acquaint the public with some of the simpler outfits, together with detailed lists of the necessary material for each.

It is often supposed that a water system is too expensive for the farm, but with a glance at the outfits contained in this article, one may see that they many range from $18.50 to $50.04 for actual cash outlay in purchase of material for a complete system. Each system has been so designed as to allow the addition of further equipment at any time funds may become available.

Fig. 1, System I. The Pitcher Spout Pump and Sink in the Kitchen.

Water System No. I.

This system consists of a pitcher spout pump, so placed as to deliver water into the kitchen sink as it is drawn from a cistern or shallow well. It must be borne in mind that the pitcher pump will draw water only about 20 feet. The kitchen sink is provided with drain pipe and trap.

Cost of System No. I.

40*feet 1 1-4 inch galvanized iron suction pipe	$ 5.60
30 feet 1 1-2 inch galvanized iron drain pipe	4.80
kitchen sink and supports	4.00
2 1 1-4 inch elbows for suction pipe	.30
1 pitcher spout pump	1.75
1 1 1-2 inch cast iron trap	1.30
1 1 1-4 inch foot valve and strainer combined	.60
1 1 1-2 inch elbow for drain pipe	.15
Total	$18.50

*Variable, according to distance of cistern or well from pump stand.

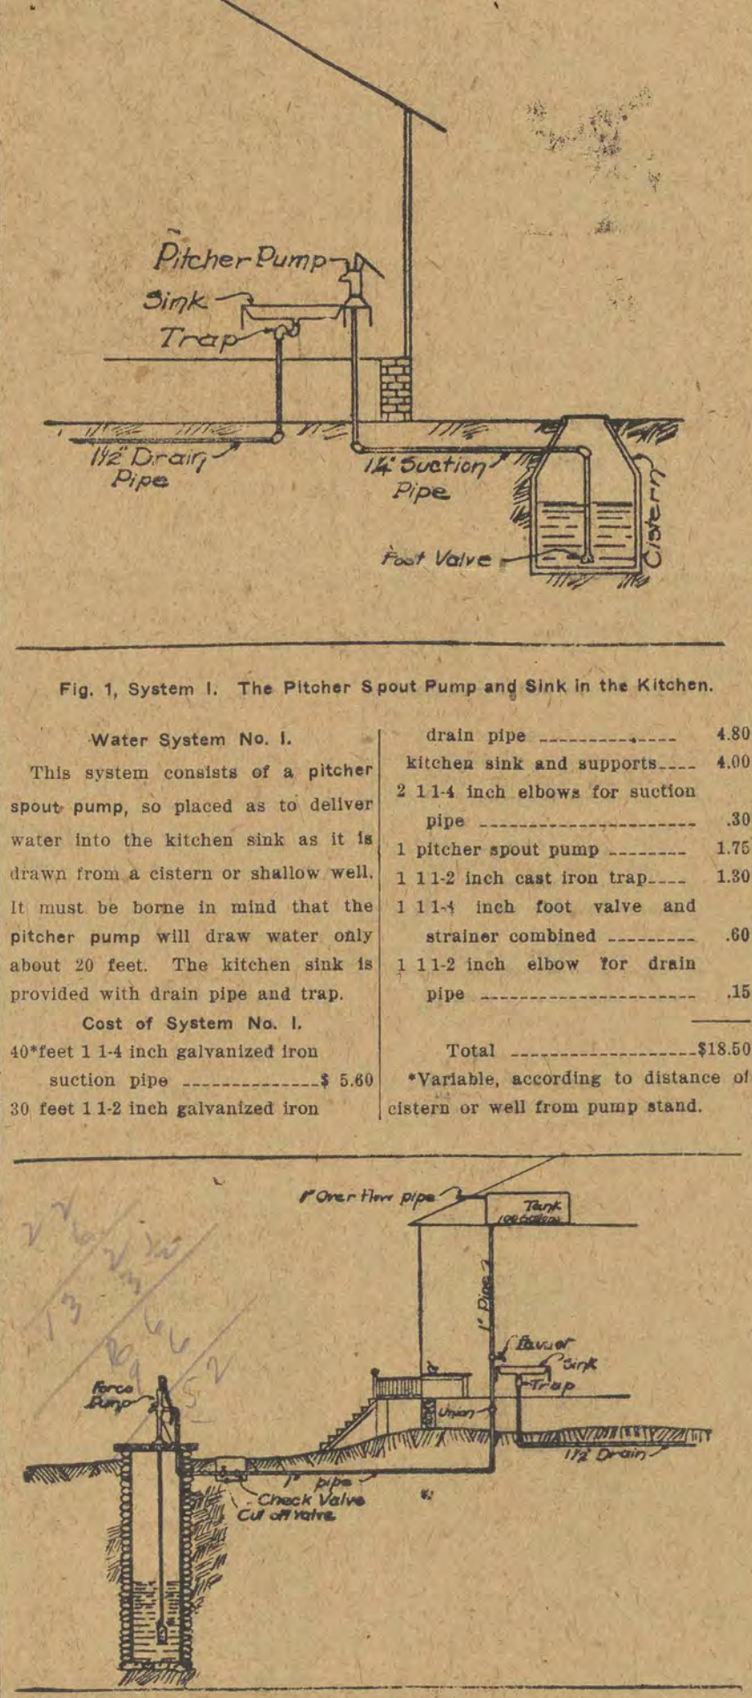

Fig. 2, System II. Cold Water in the Kitchen.

Water System No. II.

This system is quite different from No. I, in that it requires a storage tank either in the attic of the house or in some elevated position. The tank placed in the attic is sufficient for the water supply in the house, but is not recommended as being large enough to supply the entire farm. In any event the tank in the attic of a dwelling should be placed over a partition in order to prevent its weight causing the ceiling to sag.

Cost of System No. II.

1 force pump complete	$16.00
80 feet 1 inch galvanized iron pipe; from pump to tank	8.80
3 1 inch galvanized iron elbows	.45
1 1 inch galvanized iron union	.30
1 1 inch check valve	.80
1 1 inch cut off valve	.80
1 1 inch x 1 inch x half inch faucet	.60
1 galvanized iron storage tank, 100 gallons capacity	10.00
4 feet 1 inch galvanized iron overflow pipe	.44
1 1 1-2 inch cast iron trap to fit kitchen sink	1.80
1 kitchen sink and support	4.00
40 feet 1 1-2 inch galvanized iron drain pipe from sink	6.40
1 1 1-2 inch elbow for drain pipe	.15
Total	$56.04

AN AGED WOMAN

Tells How Vinol Made Her Strong

In her eighty-second year Mrs. John Wickersham, of Russellville, Pa., says: "I was in a run-down, feeble condition and had lost flesh. A neighbor asked me to try Vinol, and after taking two bottles my strength returned; I am gaining in flesh, it has built up my health and I am feeling fine for a woman of my age, so I get around and do my housework."

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mrs. Wickersham's case was because it contains the very elements needed to build her up.

A GOOD MAN WANTED

F. Lee Sheppy, 172 N. Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill., General Sales Manager of the largest concern of its kind in the world, wants three or four men in Chilton County and several men in adjoining counties, to work for him spare time or all the time. He can use only those who have a rig or auto. Work is very pleasant and no previous selling experience is necessary. Work consists of leaving a wonderful new household necessity in the homes on free trial. Tests at more than thirty of the leading Universities and the Government Bureau of Standards show this new article to be four times as efficient as article now in general use in this connection. Article is needed in every rural home and benefits every member of the household, bringing cheer, comfort and happiness into the home. Not necessary to be away from home at nights. Pay from $6.00 to $15.00 per day according to ability and number of homes visited. In writing Mr. Sheppy, mention what townships will be most convenient for you to work in; what your regular occupation is; your age; married or single; how long you have lived in the community; what kind of a rig or auto you have; whether you wish to work spare time or steady; how much time you will have to devote to the work; when you can start and about how many homes are within six miles of you in each direction. This is a splendid opportunity for several men in Chilton County and counties adjoining to make good money, working steady or spare time. Some of the field men earn $300.00 per month; one farmer earned $1,000.00 working spare time only. No investment or bond necesary.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH! IT'S MERCURY AND SALIVATES

Straighten Up! Don't Lose a Day's Work! Clean Your Sluggish Liver and Bowels With "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. Take a dose of the vile, dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you feel sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store or dealer and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.—Adv.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles cause many annoying symptoms and great inconvenience both day and night.

Unhealthy kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results may be expected; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease may constantly undermine the system.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, try taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the famous kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys improve, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. This gives you the opportunity to prove the remarkable merit of this medicine. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

"Oh, no, not any more," hastily corrected Mrs. Smith. "He has been on the water wagon for nearly three years now."

GOOD ROADS

RAISE FUNDS FOR HIGHWAYS

Important Saving Effected by Issuing Good Road Bonds on Deferred Retirement Plan.

From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

People of a county intending to raise funds for highway improvement would do well to consider the advantages to them of the deferred serial plan over the ordinary sinking-fund plan of retiring long-term bonds. Under the serial plan, a certain amount of bonds is retired each year and the bonds so retired cease to be an interest charge on the community. Under the sinking-fund plan none of the bonds is retirable until the end of a definite period, and the entire sum raised bears interest for the entire life of the bond. The county, therefore, pays interest on the money so borrowed and in addition sets aside each year as a sinking fund an amount sufficient to retire all the bonds when they become due. The sinking fund is deposited with banks and earns some interest. This interest ordinarily is only three per cent, whereas the county has to pay five or six per cent to its bondholders. The serial plan is a much cheaper method of raising money for road improvement, even when the sinking fund earns interest as high as four per cent, and in the opinion of the road specialists of the department should be utilized whenever it is possible to market serial bonds.

In a study of the road bond issues of several counties, J. E. Pennybacker and M. O. Eldridge of the division of road economics, office of public roads and rural engineering, found that the serial plan, if it had been adopted by several counties, would have saved the taxpayers in one county $154,269, in another county $80,702, and in a third county $65,367 over the other plan with a sinking fund bearing interest at three per cent. With a sinking fund earning four per cent, the saving would have run as high as $72,288 in one of these counties. These conclusions appear in the recently published Department Bulletin 393, Economic Surveys of County Highway Improvement.

The following concrete examples are taken from this bulletin:

"In Dallas County, Ala., the bonds amounted to $350,000, payable in 30 years at five per cent. Assuming the sinking fund to bear three per cent interest, as set forth in the chapter on Dallas county, the total financial burden to the county for interest and the liquidation of the bonds during the 30-year period will be $745,702.80. An equal amount of bonds at the same rate of interest, if issued under the deferred serial bond method, with the first bonds payable six years from the date of issuance and an equal amount payable each year thereafter for 24 years, would cost the county at the end of 30 years $665,000, or a difference, as compared with the sinking-fund method, of $80,702. If four per cent could be realized on the sinking fund instead of three per cent, the saving for the deferred serial plan over the sinking-fund plan would still be $47,216.

"Lauderdale county, Mississippi, which issued $500,000 of five and five and one-half per cent bonds, adopted the deferred serial-bond method, with the first payment coming 11 years from the date of issue and the last payment 25 years. If the county had issued the bonds on the 5-25-year basis the cost would have been $906,875, as compared with the cost of the basis adopted of $972,232, or a difference of $65,367."

Even in the case of a small issue the advantage of the serial plan is illustrated in Dinwiddie County, Virginia. This county issued $105,000 of five and six per cent bonds, payable in 30 years, but the bonds are callable after 20 years. Assuming that they will be retired at the end of 25 years on the sinking-fund plan, with interest on sinking fund at four per cent, the total cost would be $218,031, whereas if they had adopted the 6-25-year serial method the cost would be $201,100, or a difference of $16,931.

Old Father Time

By HARRY IRVING GREENE

I came with Space, and hand in hand,
We two sat here alone,
As two twin Kings of equal might
Sit side by side athrone.
While eons came, and eons went,
In ceaseless passing flight,
And all was still as dungeons deep,
And black as moonless night.

Then age by age—a million years
We watched the Sun take form,
While through the void in endless count,
The Stars were being born.
And then from out unfathomed Space,
We saw the world appear.
I shook my glass—and from it fell,
A Sand of Time—the first New Year.

The Years! I watched them come and go,
'Till I could count no more,
The Old—the New—like falling rain,
Or sands upon a shore.
Through age of Mist, and age of storm,
And age of sweeping Flame,
'Till last Man came with gift of speech,
And gave to me my Name.

Old Father Time, he calls me now,
As close I glean my tithe.
I walk the Earth with silent thread,
Yet ever sweep my Scythe.
Forever old, yet doomed to live,
I'd rest—but none is here.
Again I raise my Glass and pour
Another Sand—a new, New Year.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 31

CHRIST'S COMING AND COMING TO CHRIST (REVIEW).

READING LESSON—Rev. 22:6-14; 16:21.

GOLDEN TEXT—The spirit and the bride say, come. And he that heareth, let him say, come. And he that is athirst, let him come. He that wills, let him take of the water of life freely.—Rev. 22:17.

It is possible in lessons one to nine to review the past quarter's work, in a logical, chronological manner, but lessons seven and nine are not in their proper chronological setting. These lessons extend over five years of Paul's life from about 58 A. D. to 63 A. D. They are five wonderful years, and the last of the authentic years we have of the life of this wonderful man. The review should of course center in Paul, his conduct, character and teachings.

The first twelve chapters of the Book of Acts, in which we have chiefly been studying, cover a period of about sixteen years, A. D. 30-46, with Jerusalem as the center. The rest of the Book of Acts cover another period of approximately 16 years from 46 to 62, and is the record of the foreign missionary work of Paul and his companions, Paul being of course the central character. The series for this quarter close with the vision of the final triumph of Christianity as seen by John in the Revelation. Maps should be employed if possible to show the journeys of Paul. The risen Christ and the enduement of the Holy Spirit were the vision and the power which wrote this first Church History, and which have been writing Church History ever since. The home church (Chs. 2-7) began with about 120 praying men and women. Peter's first sermon brought into "the way" 3,000 more. From time to time others were added. Persecution and deliverances, the first martyr, Stephen, and the dissatisfaction which led to the choice of the deacons, are the outstanding events of this period. The home mission period, with Jerusalem as the center and Palestine as the field (Chapters 8-12) covers a period of about ten years. Persecution scattered the disciples throughout the country. Paul was converted on the road to Damascus, Philip goes to Samaria, and Peter carries on the work throughout Lydda, Joppa and Caesarea. In this section we have the story of Philip and the Ethiopian, of Peter curing the palsied man at Lydda, the raising of Dorcas and Paul and Barnabas returning to Jerusalem with help to those at that city who were suffering from famine. Then begins the period of foreign missions, covering about sixteen years, from about A. D. 47 to 62. The principal characters begin of course with Paul and Barnabas, though Paul soon takes his place of leadership. Paul's first missionary journey lasted for about two years, from say A. D. 47 to 49, Barnabas being his principal companion. Returning to Antioch from Jerusalem, Paul soon began his second journey, this time taking with him Silas. Again there is a period of about two years, from A. D. 50 to 52. Paul had his Macedonian vision during this time, and the gospel first entered Europe, beginning with the conversion of the Phillipian jailor. Paul's preaching at Athens and his service at Corinth are perhaps the most outstanding features of this journey. Paul's third journey lasted nearly three years, A. D. 53 to 56 or 57. He re-visits the Asia Minor churches to strengthen them, spends nearly three years at Ephesus, and has some outstanding adventures as, for instance, the riot at Ephesus about the shrines of Diana. Returning to Jerusalem to take part in the feast, he is told of the ultimate persecutions which he must endure. For a long time he has desired to preach the gospel in Rome. Everyone of the trials, hindrances, oppositions and attacks proved to be the means by which he gained that desired end.

In this particular quarter, in lesson one, we see Paul's calmness in persecution, his prudence under danger. In lesson two, his delicate courtesy and shrewdness in seizing every opportunity that he might witness for his Lord. In lesson three is manifested his unshaken belief in everything found in the Scriptures, and his wise use thereof in leading men to Christ. In lesson five, his fearlessness amidst danger and his absolute confidence in God. In lesson six, his humility. In lesson seven, his well balanced common sense and his love of peace among his brethren. In lesson eight, we see him longing for human companionship and sympathy, and have an evidence of his love for his own countrymen, and yet his faithfulness declaring the word of God to them as well as to the Gentiles.

Last Sunday we stood with Isaiah, looking down through the centuries to the man of Galilee 700 years hence. Today, as we review this quarter and the lessons of the past year, we are looking back nearly two thousand years to the one who wrought out our salvation on Calvary, but we may also turn our faces the other way, and look for him whose returning will bring peace to the earth, and at whose coming the brightness of his glory shall cover the earth even as the waters cover the sea.

We have seen the breaking down of "armed peace"

THIEF CALLED TO WORK BY CLOCK

Most Industrious of Burglars Is Finally Landed in Jail in Seattle.

LOOTED MANY HOUSES

Operating on Systematic Basis, Thrifty Marauder Was Able to Accumulate Bank Account and Says He Likes Game.

Seattle, Wash.—Carl Peterson, the most industrious and busiest night burglar that ever operated on the Pacific coast, who confessed that an alarm clock called him to "work" every night and that he systematically and carefully went about his business as a banker or merchant would take up his duties for the day, is in the city jail here.

Peterson has been in Seattle since last April and during this time has robbed about 80 private residences and stores. Regularly every morning, according to his story, he would rise at the call of his alarm clock, at 1:30 in the morning, eat a light breakfast, load his revolver, put a couple of "jimmies" and a flashlight in his pocket and then start out to plunder some house.

Lifetime of Robbery.

Quick-eyed, well-built, with features betraying a love for excitement, Peterson devoted almost a lifetime to robbing folks, "on a business basis with a bank account to show for it." He says he took up burglary as his profession many years ago he proudly boasts that he has no equal. He has made a thorough study of the art of burglary and offered to place a wager that he could jimmy his way into the home of the chief of detectives and rob it without awakening the occupants. Peterson says he never wears any socks while "at work" and that he always removes his shoes before entering any house.

Seattle officers are of the opinion Peterson has committed more burglaries than any other single man in the criminal history of the West. Although only twenty-seven years old, he has been a prowler since he wore knickerbockers. In Oakland, Cal., the prisoner boasts that he robbed 100 homes and stores in four months and that he also operated extensively in San Francisco and Sacramento.

Burglar Has Bank Account.

The loot obtained by Peterson in Seattle is valued at thousands of dollars. A transfer wagonfull of stolen goods, including clothing, cameras, revolvers, jewelry, suit cases, grips and a varied assortment of other articles was taken from his rooms to police headquarters. Later the office was stormed with victim's of Peterson's operations.

Peterson said the thrill and excitement of the game appeal strongly to him but that he took up burglary as a regular business and determined to make it a success and to proceed along businesslike lines. When asked if he thought his criminal operations were worth while he replied: "Well, I've got a pretty good bank account and nobody can identify that. It's not a bad game if a fellow likes it. But you have to be a pretty clever bird to get by. I thought I had it down pretty fine, but I got caught just the same."

DEER SPILLS BABY FROM CAB

Also Upsets Family Wash and Then Swims the Hudson and Cuts Other Capers.

Piermont, N. Y.—A good-sized deer, frightened by dogs, upset a baby carriage, tore down a clothes line, swam the Hudson river and cut other capers.

Emerging terrified from a dooryard in Alpine it leaped over a wall, knocking over a baby carriage and throwing Donald Riker, aged two, out into the mud. Its antlers later slipped down the clothes line of Mrs. Rose Leveck in Piermont and carried off a bed sheet some distance after it became disentangled. Finally it plunged into the river and swam to the Dobbs Ferry shore. The deer later was seen bounding over Edwin Gould's country estate.

BURGLAR'S SNORING AWAKES HIS VICTIM

Intruder Falls Asleep Under the Bed of Couple He Intended to Rob.

Birmingham, Ala.—Conviction of Walter Jones, a one-legged burglar, in the criminal court here, brought out an unusual incident of housebreaking.

The story of the burglary and capture, as told by the evidence, showed that Jones, in his effort to rob the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Vennom, an old couple of the suburbs, crawled under the bed and waited for them to retire.

The burglar himself fell asleep, and his snoring aroused Mrs. Vennom, who understook to light a lamp, which exploded. This awoke the burglar, who threatened Mrs. Vennom with death if she gave the alarm.

Just then Mr. Vennom awoke and grappled with the burglar, who leaped out of a window. The burglar had left his wooden leg under the bed.

It Stuck Firm in the Mire.

By following single foot-tracks the police pursued the peg-legged robber to his refuge. With the assistance of a pal, Jones made another wooden leg, with which he went to his shanty in the woods. Suddenly the police arrived and Jones dived through the rear window.

In the backyard the mud was deep, and the wooden leg sank so far in the mire it stuck firm. Jones hobbled on desperately without it, but was overtaken while hopping on one foot.

Both the original and second wooden legs were exhibited as evidence.

ESCAPES PRISON IN BARREL

But Convict Had to Have Fresh Air and Is Taken Back to Finish Sentence.

Baltimore, Md.—Just because he had to have the air to breathe, Elmer Johnson, a convict serving a ten-year sentence in the penitentiary for murder, spoiled a clever plan to escape.

Johnson is employed in the shipping department and one night took advantage of the absence of the regular guard to substitute himself for hollowware in a barrel that was to be shipped in the morning. The regular guard also examines barrels before they are sent out, but Johnson took the chance that the substitute would not, and he judged rightly.

The barrel, with Johnson inside, covered with excelsior, was wheeled out and put on the wagon. On the way Johnson felt the need of air and pushed up the lid to get it. A boy saw the arm go up out of the barrel and called to the driver. The latter took a look, clapped the lid on again, whipped up his horses and carried Johnson back to the penitentiary.

SKUNK SCENT CONVICTS THEM

Two Hunters Convicted of Violating Game Laws by Odor in Their Coats.

Carmel, Ind.—Scent of skunk on their hunting clothes convinced the police magistrate in Bedford of the guilt of William Schultz and his son, Helmuth, who protested their innocence, and convicted them of violating the game laws.

E. L. Townsend, game warden, alleged the defendants killed a skunk out of season. This they denied. The complainant was unable to produce the skunk hides before Police Justice W. A. Adams. The warden said the hunting coats would tell so they were produced.

"These show you were on the right scent," mused the court.

Schultz and his son paid fines of $10 and $15. Arthur Thornton also paid $10 fine for illicit skunk hunting.

Stopped the Burglars.

Brazil, Ind.—Thomas Thompson, Rockville grocer, has evolved an effective method of stopping bold bandits. He suspended a large sealed bottle of formaldehyde in his safe. When robbers blew the safe open, the fumes of the formaldehyde drove the burglars away before they obtained anything.

GOOD JOKES

TWO REASONS FOR OMISSION.

"You are charged with not having a tail light," said the magistrate to the motorist.

"Guilty, your honor," answered the motorist, briefly. "How much?"

But the judge could not resist the temptation to deliver a short lecture.

"Don't you know," he said, "that it is very dangerous for you to go about at night without a tail light?"

"Certainly."

"Then I hope you won't be guilty of such an offense again."

"So do I, but it is liable to happen."

"Well, sir, why?"

"Because, in the first place, I'm rather forgetful and in the second place, I don't happen to be a lightning bug."

A Cryptic Message.

"Henry," said Mrs. Gadspur, sternly, "here is a note addressed to you. I took the liberty of opening it."

"Yes, my dear."

"It merely contains the numeral 9 followed by the letters, P. G. S. O. P. Now, I want to know what is the meaning of this."

"Well, if you must know, my dear, the note merely means '9 o'clock. Poker game. Same old place.' And, of course, I have no intention of being there."

Atmosphere of Gloom.

"Let's go into this restaurant. A sign in the window reads, 'Tipping not permitted.'"

"No. I'd rather go where tipping is allowed."

"But why?"

"I like to see bright and cheerful faces, even among waiters. The waiters in a tipless restaurant look as if they had nothing to live for."

THE IDEA!

"Yes; I served in de army fer four years."

"An' wuz yeh honorably discharged?"

"Discharged? Well, I should say not. I up en quit on me own hook."

Just So!

When a young man proposes
To a maiden, if she's game,
And he has a lot of money,
She will gladly change her name.

Obeying Orders.

"The fact that you owe me $100 doesn't seem to trouble you in the least."

"I don't dare to let it trouble me."

"Why not?"

"Doctor's orders. He told me not to worry."

Doubtful Use.

Little Lemuel—Say, paw, what good are rich relations, anyway?

Paw—Oh, they are all right when you want to point to something without pride.

Asking Too Much.

"I have just met a man who confessed that he hadn't been home in ten years until quite recently."

"He ought to be ashamed of himself."

"It wasn't altogether his fault."

"No?"

"He says his home was three days' journey from the model prison where he was confined and the warden simply wouldn't stand for his being out of his cell over night."

City Songs.

"This writer compares a great city to a siren, singing songs that lure men to ruin."

"I think he exaggerates a trifle."

"Why so?"

"For the simple reason that I can't conceive of ragtime airs being able to lure any person of ordinary intelligence to his ruin."

Artless Art.

"It strikes me," said the critic, "that you are inclined to discourage art."

"That's right," rejoined the "movie" director. "I find it pays better to give the people what they want."

Comparison.

"A parson," remarked the Cheerful Idiot, "is a good deal like a retired prize fighter."

"Come on with the explanation," said the dense party.

"They are both ex-pounders, you know," rejoined the C. I.

Busy While Awake.

Parker—Naggs and his wife quarrel two-thirds of the time.

Harker—Two-thirds!

Parker—Yes; they sleep about eight hours out of the twenty-four.

THE VERY REASON.

"So she's going to marry that old millionaire. Why he has one foot in the grave. What is her reason?"

"That foot."

So He Thinks.

There never was a stuck-up man
So homely, it is said,
But thinks he as a masher can
Crush any woman "dead."

His Awful Blunder.

Singleton—Doctor Pillman is certainly the most absent-minded man I ever met.

Wederly—Is that so?

Singleton—Yes; he was married yesterday and during the ceremony when he should have placed the ring on the bride's finger he actually felt her pulse and asked her to put out her tongue.

Wederly—Poor fellow! I'll bet that is the last time he'll ever ask her to put out her tongue.

Distance in the Country.

"How far is it to Williams' mill?" asked the motor tourist.

"'Bout a quarter," answered the old farmer.

"But I've been traveling at good speed for the past half hour and the last person I asked told me it was 'bout a quarter."

"Well, stranger, that's right. It's 'bout a quarter."

Getting His Money's Worth.

Parker—Windham seems to be enjoying the fortune his aunt left him, doesn't he?

Harker—Enjoying it! Why, I understood he lost it all in a wheat deal a couple of months ago.

Parker—So he did; but it has supplied him with a never-failing topic for conversation ever since.

A Last Resort.

"It is hard for a man to remain cheerful when he sees the price of everything going up."

"Surely there are some exceptions to the geenral tendency?"

"Well, I understand certain brands of pills are selling for the same old price, but I have to be extremely pessimistic before I'll take a pill."

Quiet Enjoyment.

"Didn't you tell me that Dubwaite was an entertaining conversationalist?"

"I did."

"Yet, he never talks about anything but himself."

"Exactly. And there is nothing I enjoy more than laughing in my sleeve."

Up Against It.

Mrs. Justwed—Tom, the cook wants another afternoon off.

Mr. Justwed—Well, if she can show you where there are eight afternoons in a week, give it to her.

UP-TO-DATE.

"How have you managed to keep your same cook for so long?"

"I learned the dishes she likes—and those are the ones we have steadily."

Ever Notice?

A little widow,
Now and then,
Can hypnotize
The smartest men.

Never a Smirk.

"What have we here?"

"A trained chimpanzee."

"He's almost human, isn't he?"

"In some respects he's an improvement on the average actor. He seems quite oblivious of a box full of debutantes."

An After Thought.

"I told Mr. Thickwitz that his baby looked like him."

"Of course, he was pleased."

"Immensely. He didn't hear me add: 'Poor little devil,' under my breath."

What would he give for the coffee you serve?

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says: "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles' is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.

Luminous Insects.

Luminosity is normal in the well-known luminous beetles, including the various fireflies and glow worms, and results naturally from the oxidation of some organic secretion. Other insects are luminous in rare instances. Rev. J. Holroyde, vicar of Patchum, England, lately noted luminous moth larvae, similar to those observed once or twice previously; and the chironomous—a kind of gnat—and the "lantern beetles" of South America are among the creatures sometimes lighted up. The occasional luminosity has been attributed to disease, or decomposition from bacterial infection.

Lord Rosebery's Hat.

Lord Rosebery once went into a large London establishment to purchase a new hat. As he stood bareheaded, waiting to be fitted, a bishop entered on the same errand, and mistook the earl for one of the shop's assistants.

"Have you a hat like this?" he asked, showing his own headgear.

Lord Rosebery took it from him and examined it critically. "No," he at length replied, "I haven't a hat like that, and if I had I shouldn't wear it."

MRS. BRIDGES HAS GAINED 35 POUNDS

My recovery has set the whole neighborhood to thinking she says.

"It's the honest truth, in less than two months after I began taking Tanlac I had gained thirty-five pounds and my recovery has set the whole neighborhood to talking," said Mrs. Jettye Bridges, 109 Seventh street, North Birmingham, Ala. Mrs. Bridges is the wife of J. B. Bridges, a well known furniture dealer in Pratt City.

"For more than three years," continued Mrs. Bridges, "Nothing I ate agreed with me and I suffered with indigestion all the time. I just suffered agony from gas on my stomach and shortness of breath and I ached all over and got so nerveous I could hardly sleep. My head felt like it would burst open, it ached so bad, and often I got so dizzy I could hardly stand up. Nothing I took did me any good and finally I got so weak I wasn't able to do any of my work and felt perfectly miserable all the time. Thinking a change might do me some good I went on a visit to my father and stayed there three weeks but I kept getting worse instead of better. My back hurt me like a bad toothache and my kidneys worried me nearly all the time and I just can't describe how wretched I did feel. I fell off to one hundred and twenty-eight pounds and at last I got so weak and sick I had to give up and go to bed and thought I could never get well.

"Then I started on Tanlac, and oh, what a change it made in my feelings in just a few days. After taking six bottles I got on the scales and weighed a hundred and sixty-three pounds—a positive gain of thirty-five pounds—and if anybody ever felt like a new person I did. My friends and neighbors are all talking about me looking so well, and I feel even better than I look, because all the headache and shortnees of breth have left me. My appetite is splendid now and my food agrees with me and makes me feel strong. I don't have any more weak, fainty spells and my back and kidneys have stopped bothering me. My nerves are perfectly quiet and I sleep so well I almost hate to get up in the mornings. I couldn't ask to feel any better than I do now and I owe my recovery to Tanlac. In fact, I believe it has saved my life and I just can't praise it enough for what it has done for me.

BOLL WEEVILS IN EVERY COUNTY IN ALABAMA.

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

While the Alabama cotton crop has been suffering unprecedented damage from July rains, flooded farm lands and innumerable weevils, the boll weevil has not failed to make something like its usual advance in notrheastern Alabama. Recent examinations made by the Department of Entomology of the Alabama Experiment Station, revealed the fact that Lauderdale County is now covered with a scattering infestation and the limit of infestation in Limestone county was found along the line of the L. & N. railway, some distance north of Elkmont. Scattering infestation was found throughout the southern part of Madison, extending as far north as Brownsboro, which is northeast of Huntsville. In Jackson County, weevils occur quite generally in the southwestern part of the county, diminishing in numbers up to Scottsboro. Scattered infestations were found in the southwestern part of DeKalb County and numerous infested fields in southwestern Cherokee County, up to the line of Center. The weevil advance now brings this pest to within thirty miles of the extreme northeastern corner of this State.

Killing frost occurred in northern Alabama on the morning of October 21st, thus checking further advance of the weevil for this season.

GANDY-DANIEL

One of the most interesting weddings that has happened here of late was that of Mr. Will Gandy and Miss Amye Daniel, on last Sunday morning. The occasion was attended by a very few close friends of the contracting parties.

Miss Daniel was a lovely young lady who has been for some years engaged as a teacher in the public schools of the county. Mr. Gandy is a successful business man located at Lock 12.

In future they will reside at Lock 12. Their numerous friends wish them years of happiness together.

Uncle George Mims of Collins Chapel was in town Tuesday.
